5:13, 14 naaman listened to his advisors, did as he was commanded, and was healed. clean: t he word suggests that the problem of skin diseases causing uncleanness was an issue in his country as well. t he wonderful thing about naaman is that once he gave it thought, he would have done whatever god commanded him through His prophet.

5:15 stood before him: now that naaman was clean, he could stand in the presence of the prophet Elisha (compare vv. 9, 10). no God in all the earth: naaman stands as a wonderful example of a foreigner who came to faith in god. take a gift: What naaman had received could not have been purchased, nor would Elisha take advantage of the situation.

5:17 earth: Although ancient Middle Eastern custom associated the identity of a god with the location where he was worshiped, Elisha might have felt in this instance that naaman's newly-gained acquaintance with israel's god might be benefited with this tangible reminder of the land of his cure.

5:18 t he name Rimmon is an example of a deliberate corruption of a name of a foreign god by the Hebrew scribes. instead of writing Ramman, meaning "thunderer," a name for the storm god Hadad (see Zech. 12:11), they wrote Rimmon, meaning "Pomegranate."

5:20 Gehazi: t he sad story of gehazi's greed serves as a contrast to the principled behavior of his master Elisha (vv. 15, 16).

5:23 talents: A talent was an enormous amount of silver—equal to 3,000 shekels, or about 70 lbs. two of his servants: Each would have been carrying a heavy load.

5:24 the citadel: t he Hebrew word can refer to a hill or mound, or a building such as a citadel (see 2 Chr. 27:3, 4; Mic 4:8). gehazi dismissed the men before coming to a place where his greedy gain might be observed by people who would know about naaman and Elisha.

5:25 since he had lied first to naaman (v. 22), now he must lie to Elisha.

<sup>26</sup>Then he said to him, “Did not my heart go with you when the man turned back from his chariot to meet you? Is it <sup>q</sup>time to receive money and to receive clothing, olive groves and vineyards, sheep and oxen, male and female servants? <sup>27</sup>Therefore the leprosy of Naaman <sup>r</sup>shall cling to you and your descendants forever.” And he went out from his presence <sup>s</sup>leprous, as white as snow.

The Floating Ax Head

6 And <sup>a</sup>the sons of the prophets said to Elisha, “See now, the place where we dwell with you is too small for us. <sup>2</sup>Please, let us go to the Jordan, and let every man take a beam from there, and let us make there a place where we may dwell.”

So he answered, “Go.”

And he answered, “I will go.” <sup>4</sup>So he went with them. And when they came to the Jordan, they cut down trees. <sup>5</sup>But as one was cutting down a tree, the iron ax head fell into the water; and he cried out and said, “Alas, master! For it was <sup>c</sup>borrowed.”

<sup>6</sup>So the man of God said, “Where did it fall?” And he showed him the place. So <sup>d</sup>he cut off a stick, and threw it in there; and he made the iron float. <sup>7</sup>Therefore he said, “Pick it up for yourself.” So he reached out his hand and took it.

The Blinded Syrians Captured

<sup>8</sup>Now the <sup>e</sup>king of Syria was making war against Israel; and he consulted with his servants, saying, “My camp will be in such and such a place.” <sup>9</sup>And the man of God sent to the king of Israel, saying, “Beware that you do not pass this place, for the Syrians are coming down there.” <sup>10</sup>Then the king of Israel sent someone to the place of which the man of God had told him. Thus he warned him, and he was watchful there, not just once or twice.

<sup>11</sup>Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was greatly troubled by this thing; and he called his servants and said to them, “Will you not show me which of us is for the king of Israel?”

<sup>12</sup>And one of his servants said, “None, my lord, O king; but Elisha, the prophet who is in Israel, tells the king of Israel the words that you speak in your bedroom.”

<sup>13</sup>So he said, “Go and see where he is, that I may send and get him.”

And it was told him, saying, “Surely he is in <sup>f</sup>Dothan.”

<sup>14</sup>Therefore he sent horses and chariots and a great army there, and they came by night and surrounded the city. <sup>15</sup>And when the servant of the man of God arose early and went out, there was an army, surrounding the city with horses and chariots. And his servant said to him, “Alas, my master! What shall we do?”

<sup>19</sup>Now Elisha said to them, “This is not the way, nor is this the city. Follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom you seek.” But he led them to Samaria.

<sup>20</sup>So it was, when they had come to Samaria, that Elisha said, “LORD, open the eyes of these men, that they may see.” And the LORD opened their eyes, and they saw; and there they were, inside Samaria!

5:26 Did not my heart go: t he use of the term heart suggests not only Elisha’s knowledge but also his strong feeling for gehazi.

5:27 t he irony of justice punished gehazi’s sin with the leprosy of Naaman.

6:2–5 t he details of this building program set the stage for the loss of the iron ax head, in a time when most tools were still made of bronze, an iron blade was valuable.

6:7 he . . . took it: t he man must have been tremendously impressed with what he saw, but the ax head could be of no use to him until he actually reached out and took it.

6:8–12 t his remarkable narrative takes the reader into the tent of Ben-Hadad, the king of Aram, and to the meetings he had with his general staff. it turned out, much to the king’s consternation, that his plans were known to the king of israel and his staff. Ben-Hadad suspected a spy, and he was right. t he spy was Elisha, who had never left israel.

6:13–15 Dothan was in the central highlands of israel. it is mentioned only here and in gen. 37, when Joseph was sold to the Midianites (see gen. 37:17).

6:15 the servant of the man of God: s ince gehazi had become a leper (see 5:27), it is possible that this is another servant. However, gehazi is mentioned again in 8:4 as one who was still faithfully representing the miracles done through Elisha.

6:16 those who are with us: Elisha knew that god’s unseen army was far more powerful than any visible army.

6:17 horses and chariots of fire: in answer to his prayer, Elisha’s reassuring words to his servant (v. 16) were validated by letting him see the spiritual realities that lay beyond normal human sight. such a fiery scene had accompanied Elijah’s translation into heaven (2:11).

6:19, 20 I will bring you: Elisha’s words are technically true, although he employed tactics common in times of war to lead the Arameans to samaria rather than Dothan. such wartime measures are noted elsewhere in the scriptures (Josh. 2:4–6; 1 sam. 27:8–12).

<sup>22</sup> But he answered, “You shall not kill them. Would you kill those whom you have taken captive with your sword and your bow? <sup>m</sup> Set food and water before them, that they may eat and drink and go to their master.” <sup>23</sup> Then he prepared a great feast for them; and after they ate and drank, he sent them away and they went to their master. So <sup>n</sup> the bands of Syrian raiders came no more into the land of Israel.

Syria Besieges Samaria in Famine

<sup>26</sup> Then, as the king of Israel was passing by on the wall, a woman cried out to him, saying, “Help, my lord, O king!”

<sup>27</sup> And he said, “If the LORD does not help you, where can I find help for you? From the threshing floor or from the winepress?” <sup>28</sup> Then the king said to her, “What is troubling you?”

And she answered, “This woman said to me, ‘Give your son, that we may eat him today, and we will eat my son tomorrow.’ <sup>29</sup> So <sup>q</sup> we boiled my son, and ate him. And I said to her on the next day, ‘Give your son, that we may eat him’; but she has hidden her son.”

<sup>30</sup> Now it happened, when the king heard the words of the woman, that he <sup>r</sup> tore his clothes; and as he passed by on the wall, the people looked, and there underneath he had sackcloth on his body. <sup>31</sup> Then he said, <sup>s</sup> “God do so to me and more also, if the head of Elisha the son of Shaphat remains on him today!”

7 Then Elisha said, “Hear the word of the LORD. Thus says the LORD: <sup>a</sup> “Tomorrow about this time a <sup>l</sup> seah of fine flour shall be sold for a shekel, and two seahs of barley for a shekel, at the gate of Samaria.”

<sup>2b</sup> So an officer on whose hand the king leaned answered the man of God and said, “Look, <sup>c</sup> if the LORD would make windows in heaven, could this thing be?”

And he said, “In fact, you shall see it with your eyes, but you shall not eat of it.”

The Syrians Flee

<sup>3</sup> Now there were four leprous men <sup>d</sup> at the entrance of the gate; and they said to one another, “Why are we sitting here until we die? <sup>4</sup> If we say, ‘We will enter the city,’ the famine is in the city, and we shall die there. And if we sit here, we die also. Now therefore, come, let us surrender to the <sup>e</sup> army of the Syrians. If they keep us alive, we shall live; and if they kill us, we shall only die.” <sup>5</sup> And they rose at twilight to go to the camp of the Syrians; and when they had come to the outskirts of the Syrian camp, to their surprise no

6:21-23 t he end of this story is even more amazing than the beginning. t he blind soldiers were brought within the capital city of israel where they easily might have been slaughtered. instead, they were given a banquet and were sent back to Ben-Hadad unharmed.

6:21 t he term of deference my father was used earlier by Elisha to Elijah (see 2:12), and to naaman by his servants (see 5:13). its use here by King Jehoram (see 3:1) for Elisha is a clear indication that Jehoram knew he was not in charge.

6:23 bands . . . came no more: t hat is, for a period of time. t he wars between the two nations revived after a period (see 6:24).

6:24 t he siege of Samaria, the capital of israel, was Ben-Hadad’s final attempt to destroy his rival Jehoram of israel.

6:25 t he desperate conditions in besieged samaria had made even once common food and commodities scarce and expensive. t he dove droppings may have been used for fuel or even as a substitute for salt.

6:28 eat him: israel had been warned that national disobedience could reduce the people to such a loathsome deed (Lev. 26:29; Deut. 28:53, 57).

6:30 t he king was not unmoved by the plight of his people. He tore his garments and wore sackcloth to attest to his concern.

6:31 if the head of Elisha: t he phrase is an oath expressing the enraged king’s will to kill Elisha, whom he blamed for the severe conditions.

7:1 Public business was conducted at the city gate (see gen. 19:1; r uth 4:1). Elisha’s words were good news: Although costly, food would once again be available.

7:2 an officer: t he Hebrew term for officer originally designated the third man in a chariot, who held a large shield. By this time it meant a high military official serving as adjutant (9:25; 10:25). t he officer’s doubt brought judgment on him. Although the food did come, this officer ate none of it.

7:3, 4 Because leprous men were excluded from the city (Lev. 13:4-6; n um. 5:2, 3) and avoided by all, they probably were ignored by the invaders and had been left to their fate. if the ordinary people of the city were suffering from hunger, how much more must these men have been suffering. t hey concluded that they had nothing to lose by going to the other side.

one was there. <sup>6</sup>For the Lord had caused the army of the Syrians <sup>f</sup>to hear the noise of chariots and the noise of horses—the noise of a great army; so they said to one another, “Look, the king of Israel has hired against us <sup>g</sup>the kings of the Hittites and the kings of the Egyptians to attack us!” <sup>7</sup>Therefore they <sup>h</sup>arose and fled at twilight, and left the camp intact—their tents, their horses, and their donkeys—and they fled for their lives. <sup>8</sup>And when these lepers came to the outskirts of the camp, they went into one tent and ate and drank, and carried from it silver and gold and clothing, and went and hid them; then they came back and entered another tent, and carried some from there also, and went and hid it.

<sup>9</sup>Then they said to one another, “We are not doing right. This day is a day of good news, and we remain silent. If we wait until morning light, some <sup>2</sup>punishment will come upon us. Now therefore, come, let us go and tell the king’s household.” <sup>10</sup>So they went and called to the gatekeepers of the city, and told them, saying, “We went to the Syrian camp, and surprisingly no one was there, not a human sound—only horses and donkeys tied, and the tents intact.” <sup>11</sup>And the gatekeepers called out, and they told it to the king’s household inside.

<sup>12</sup>So the king arose in the night and said to his servants, “Let me now tell you what the Syrians have done to us. They know that we are <sup>1</sup>hungry; therefore they have gone out of the camp to <sup>3</sup>hide themselves in the field, saying, ‘When they come out of the city, we shall catch them alive, and get into the city.’”

sent them in the direction of the Syrian army, saying, “Go and see.” <sup>15</sup>And they went after them to the Jordan; and indeed all the road was full of garments and weapons which the Syrians had thrown away in their haste. So the messengers returned and told the king. <sup>16</sup>Then the people went out and plundered the tents of the Syrians. So a seah of fine flour was sold for a shekel, and two seahs of barley for a shekel, <sup>j</sup>according to the word of the LORD.

<sup>17</sup>Now the king had appointed the officer on whose hand he leaned to have charge of the gate. But the people trampled him in the gate, and he died, just <sup>k</sup>as the man of God had said, who spoke when the king came down to him. <sup>18</sup>So it happened just as the man of God had spoken to the king, saying, <sup>l</sup>“Two seahs of barley for a shekel, and a seah of fine flour for a shekel, shall be sold tomorrow about this time in the gate of Samaria.”

And he had said, “In fact, you shall see it with your eyes, but you shall not eat of it.” <sup>20</sup>And so it happened to him, for the people trampled him in the gate, and he died.

The King Restores the Shunammite’s Land

8 Then Elisha spoke to the woman <sup>a</sup>whose son he had restored to life, saying, “Arise and go, you and your household, and stay wherever you can; for the LORD <sup>b</sup>has called for a <sup>c</sup>famine, and furthermore, it will come upon the land for seven years.” <sup>2</sup>So the woman arose and did according to the saying of the man of God, and she went with her household and dwelt in the land of the Philistines seven years.

<sup>3</sup>It came to pass, at the end of seven years, that the woman returned from the land of the Philistines; and she went to make an appeal to the king for her

7:6 the noise of a great army: Doubtless, the army was god’s (see 6:16–18). By the kings of the Hittites is meant the descendants of the earlier Hittites of Asia Minor who now inhabited various Aramean states. Assyrian documents routinely mention Palestine as “Hittite Land.”

7:7, 8 in their joy, the lepers took advantage of their good fortune. 7:9 good news and good fortune had to be shared (Prov. 15:27; 21:17, 18), and the men feared that failure to do so might merit divine punishment.

7:12 what the Syrians have done: the israelite king suspected that another military trick was being played on him. He did not connect the good news with Elisha’s prophecy of good times.

7:13–16 At last the king sent a scouting party, which confirmed the good news. the prophecy concerning the restoration of food for the city was fulfilled (see v. 1).

7:17–20 you shall not eat of it: All of Elisha’s prophecy came true. the sudden miraculous flight of the Arameans had provided goods aplenty, but the doubting officer would not enjoy them.

8:1 As had happened in the days of Elijah (1 Kin. 17; 18), god again instituted a famine, such cases of divinely induced calamities were intended to chastise His people and bring them to repentance (see Joel 2:12–14; Zeph. 3:5–7). god in His kindness spared the family of the shunammite woman to whom Elisha had had such a significant ministry (see 4:8–37). it appears that she may have become a widow by the time of this incident.

8:3 to make an appeal: the shunammite woman had not house and for her land. <sup>4</sup>Then the king talked with <sup>d</sup>Gehazi, the servant of the man of God, saying, “Tell me, please, all the great things Elisha has done.” <sup>5</sup>Now it happened, as he was telling the king how he had restored the dead to life, that there was the woman whose son he had <sup>e</sup>restored to life, appealing to the king for her house and for her land. And Gehazi said, “My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this is her son whom Elisha restored to life.” <sup>6</sup>And when the king asked the woman, she told him.

So the king appointed a certain officer for her, saying, “Restore all that was hers, and all the proceeds of the field from the day that she left the land until now.”

Death of Ben-Hadad

<sup>7</sup>Then Elisha went to Damascus, and <sup>f</sup>Ben-Hadad king of Syria was sick; and it was told him, saying, “The man of God has come here.” <sup>8</sup>And the king said to <sup>g</sup>Hazael, <sup>h</sup>“Take a present in your hand, and go to meet the man of God, and <sup>i</sup>inquire of the LORD by him, saying, ‘Shall I recover from this disease?’” <sup>9</sup>So <sup>j</sup>Hazael went to meet him and took a present with him, of every good thing of Damascus, forty camel-loads; and he came and stood before him, and said, “Your son Ben-Hadad king of Syria has sent me to you, saying, ‘Shall I recover from this disease?’”

He answered, “Because I know <sup>m</sup>the evil that you will do to the children of Israel: Their strongholds you will set on fire, and their young men you will kill with the sword; and you <sup>n</sup>will dash their children, and rip open their women with child.”

renounced or sold her property, but merely had left during the previous famine. Moreover, she had returned within seven years (see Deut. 15:1-6; ruth 4:3, 4), since the property was still legally hers, she pressed her claim to the king himself.

8:4, 5 Just as the s hunammite woman arrived, Gehazi was telling Jehoram about her. At this point, gehazi was still faithful to the ministry of Elisha.

8:6 Restore all: We get a complex picture of King Jehoram. At times he was so angry at Elisha that he wished him dead (6:31), yet even then he was in mourning for his people. He acknowledged Elisha’s spiritual leadership at other times (see 6:21), but he knew that Elisha did not hold him in high regard (see 3:14). in this section, his righteous judgment should be contrasted with the wretched behavior of the wicked Ahab with respect to the land of another farmer (see 1 Kin. 21:1-16).

8:7 Although Ben-Hadad felt that Elisha’s arrival was accidental, god’s prophet had come to Damascus in fulfillment of the instructions originally given by god to Elijah (1 Kin. 19:15-17). t he instructions concerning dynastic change in israel would soon be carried out (9:1-13).

8:8, 9 ironically, a sick king of israel had inquired of a false god concerning the nature of his illness (1:2); here, the pagan king of a foreign nation inquired of the living god concerning the nature of his illness.

8:10 You shall certainly recover: Left to natural circumstances, Ben-Hadad would recover. Yet Elisha knew that Hazael would seize both the opportunity of the king’s illness and fulfill Elisha’s prophecy by assassinating the king and taking the throne. Hazael chose his own method of carrying out the issue of dynastic succession in Damascus, not god’s (see v. 15).

8:11, 12 ashamed: He had reached the end of his ability to resist his emotions. the man of God wept: Elisha wept over the suffering that Hazael would bring upon israel.

8:13 in the ancient Middle East, the dog was despised because it was a scavenger (see 1 Kin. 14:11; 21:23). Appropriately, Hazael would similarly be held in disdain.

And Elisha answered, <sup>p</sup>“The LORD has shown me that you will become king over Syria.”

<sup>14</sup>Then he departed from Elisha, and came to his master, who said to him, “What did Elisha say to you?” And he answered, “He told me you would surely recover.” <sup>15</sup>But it happened on the next day that he took a thick cloth and dipped it in water, and spread it over his face so that he died; and Hazael reigned in his place.

Jehoram Reigns in Judah

rael, just as the house of Ahab had done, for <sup>t</sup>the daughter of Ahab was his wife; and he did evil in the sight of the LORD.

shalmaneser iii of Assyria notes Hazael’s accession to the throne with the words: “Hazael, son of nobody, seizes the throne.” By these contemptuous words, we learn that Hazael was not the son of Ben-Hadad, but an opportunistic usurper.

8:15 Having succeeded Ben-Hadad as king, Hazael reigned for about 40 years (842–802 B.C.). He remained an inveterate foe of god’s people (see 10:32, 33; 13:3, 22). Yet like Elisha and Jehu, Hazael was an instrument of god’s judgment on His sinful people (1 Kin. 19:15–17).

8:16–18 Jehoram: With Jehoram’s accession to the throne of Judah, kings by the same name now ruled in both kingdoms. t he name Jehoram means “t he Lord is Exalted” and can be spelled Joram. eight years: Joram of the northern kingdom ruled from 852 to 841 B.C.; Jehoram of the southern kingdom from 848 to 841 B.C. Although he had served alongside his father Jehoshaphat for the previous four years, Jehoram now ruled in his own right. With his father’s death, he killed all his brothers and any claimant to the throne (2 Chr. 21:2–4), actions that would be repeated by his wicked wife Athaliah at the time of his death (11:1). A wicked ruler (2 Chr. 21:11), he was greatly influenced by Queen Athaliah (2 Chr. 21:6). Wickedness and spiritual bankruptcy in the royal house would bring about god’s judgment on Judah in three separate military engagements with Edom, Libnah, and a combined Philistine-Arabian incursion (2 Chr. 21:16, 17), as well as a severe plague that would eventually take the life of the king (2 Chr. 21:12–15, 18, 19).

8:18 the daughter of Ahab: Most shocking was that the same source of evil that had brought god’s judgment against the northern kingdom was now being brought into the southern kingdom. Ahab had been a wicked king, but his wickedness had been greatly accelerated by the actions and attitudes of his pagan wife Jezebel (see 1 Kin. 16:31). now their daughter Athaliah (see 11:1) was established as the queen of Judah and the wife of a descendant of David. From the vantage point of international relations, the marriage of a daughter of the king of israel to the king of Judah was a strategic event that could ease hostility between the two nations. But from a spiritual standpoint, this marriage was a grim omen of disaster for Judah.

8:19 Despite Jehoram’s infidelity and wickedness, god remained faithful to the Davidic covenant (see 2 sam. 7:12–16; Ps. 89:30–37). a lamp: t his was a figure of the hope of the Davidic promise in the darkest of times, and the fulfillment in Him who is the light of the world (see 1 Kin. 15:4; John 1:1–13).

8:20–22 Judah’s struggles with Edom were often accompanied by trouble with the Philistines (see 2 Chr. 21:16; Joel 3:4–8). Edom would remain a constant menace with the

Ahaziah Reigns in Judah

<sup>4</sup> So the young man, the servant of the prophet, went to Ramoth Gilead. <sup>5</sup> And when he arrived, there were the captains of the army sitting; and he said, “I have a message for you, Commander.”

Jehu said, “For which one of us?”

And he said, “For you, Commander.”

<sup>6</sup> Then he arose and went into the house. And he poured the oil on his head, and said to him, <sup>f</sup> “Thus says the LORD God of Israel: ‘I have anointed you king over the people of the LORD, over Israel. <sup>7</sup> You shall strike down the house of Ahab your master, that I may <sup>g</sup> avenge the blood of My servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the LORD, <sup>h</sup> at the hand of Jezebel. <sup>8</sup> For the whole house of Ahab shall perish; and <sup>i</sup> I will cut off from Ahab all <sup>j</sup> the males in Israel, both <sup>k</sup> bond and free. <sup>9</sup> So I will make the house of Ahab like the house of <sup>l</sup> Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and like the house of <sup>m</sup> Baasha the son of Ahijah. <sup>10</sup> <sup>n</sup> The dogs shall eat Jezebel on the plot of ground at Jezreel, and there shall be none to bury her.” And he opened the door and fled.

<sup>11</sup> Then Jehu came out to the servants of his master, and one said to him, “Is all well? Why did <sup>o</sup> this madman come to you?”

And he said to them, “You know the man and his babble.”

result that although Amaziah would later defeat Edom (14:22), they would renew armed hostilities against Judah in the days of Ahaz (2 Chr. 28:17, 18). Edom's constant enmity against god's people served as a focus of attention for israel's prophets, who often predicted Edom's ultimate defeat and destruction (see is. 34:5–15; Jer. 49:7–22).

8:25 Ahaziah means “t he Lord Has grasped.”

8:26 twenty-two years old: t his figure is correct; compare 2 Chr. 22:2. granddaughter of Omri: t he Hebrew word translated granddaughter is literally “daughter.” Athaliah, Ahab's daughter, is the person meant (v. 18; 2 Chr. 21:6).

8:27 the way of the house of Ahab: t he lowest point of israel's religious apostasy was reached in the reign of Ahab and his wicked wife Jezebel (see 1 Kin. 16:31). Most likely due to the role of Athaliah, the evil that had spoiled Ahab affected the house of the king of Judah.

8:28 Here began the troubles with Hazael (v. 12). Ahaziah's grandfather Jehoshaphat had been drawn into war at Ramoth Gilead by Ahab (1 Kin. 22), and now Ahaziah was led by Joram to war in the same area. r amoth gilead means “Heights of gilead.” it was about 25 miles east of the Jordan. Hazael had recently been crowned in Damascus, and the year 841 b.c. would witness a change in the royal houses of both israel and Judah.

8:29 Ahab had one of his palaces at Jezreel, a site between Megiddo and Beth'shan (1 Kin. 18:45). Both the injured Joram and Ahaziah came to Jezreel for a most fateful meeting (ch. 9).

9:1–3 t he selection of Jehu as the next king of israel was by prophetic designation; contrast 1:17. t he name Jehu means “t he Lord is He.” t he instructions given by Elisha to one of his associates were marked by secrecy and intrigue. t he action of the prophet was seditious in the eyes of the current king.

9:4, 5 for you: t he servant was obedient to Elisha and was daring in his approach to Jehu.

9:6 poured the oil: As in the case of Hazael (8:7–13), the third part of the Lord's threefold command to Elijah (1 Kin. 19:15–18) was carried out by another. First, Elijah personally fulfilled the divine directive concerning Elisha (see 1 Kin. 19:19–21). t hen he set in motion the process that would effect the other two commands. Elisha carried out the order with respect to Hazael. t hird, one of the sons of the prophets serving under Elisha handled the case of Jehu. in the Ot, an anointing was customarily reserved for a king (see 2 sam. 2:4) or the high priest (see Ex. 40:13).

9:7–10 t he prophetic words to Jehu indicate that he would destroy the evil of the house of Ahab. Jezebel: t he wicked wife of Ahab is given special attention; her gruesome end is predicted.

fled: Once the young prophet gave the Lord's stern message to Jehu, he fled, just as Elisha had commanded him (v. 3). His life was in danger; at this time only he knew what had transpired with Jehu.

9:12 A lie: Jehu's attempt to brush off the questions of his servants

So he said, “Thus and thus he spoke to me, saying, ‘Thus says the LORD: “I have anointed you king over Israel.”’”

Joram of Israel Killed

<sup>17</sup>Now a watchman stood on the tower in Jezreel, and he saw the company of Jehu as he came, and said, “I see a company of men.”

And Joram said, “Get a horseman and send him to meet them, and let him say, ‘Is it peace?’”

<sup>18</sup>So the horseman went to meet him, and said, “Thus says the king: ‘Is it peace?’”

And Jehu said, “What have you to do with peace? <sup>5</sup>Turn around and follow me.”

So the watchman reported, saying, “The messenger went to them, but is not coming back.”

<sup>19</sup>Then he sent out a second horseman who came to them, and said, “Thus says the king: ‘Is it peace?’”

And Jehu answered, “What have you to do with peace? Turn around and follow me.”

<sup>20</sup>So the watchman reported, saying, “He went up to them and is not coming back; and the driving is like the driving of Jehu the son of Nimshi, for he drives furiously!”

So he answered, “What peace, as long as the harlotries of your mother Jezebel and her witchcraft are so many?”

was not successful. He finally reported to them the fact of his prophetic sanction and divine anointing.

9:13 Placing a garment under a person is a mark of homage fit for a king (see Matt. 21:8); the actions taken here are like those performed at the anointing of King Solomon (1 Kin. 1:34).

9:14, 15 Jehu lost no time in planning the assassination of the king. These verses also remind the reader of the situation at Jezreel (see 2:28, 29).

9:18 the question about peace was a standard step in ancient negotiations. Jehu’s reply indicates that he refused to negotiate.

9:21 Make ready: the two kings rather foolishly prepared to meet Jehu in their chariots. They might have done better to have remained in the city. Joram was still recovering from wounds from his battle with the Arameans (v. 15). the property of Naboth: Ahab’s dynasty ended on the very stolen property that occasioned the divine sentence of judgment (see 1 Kin. 21:17–24). Ahab’s unlawful seizure of the land of Naboth was regarded as one of his most heinous crimes.

9:22 Is it peace . . . What peace: to his credit, the battle-weakened king came out and faced his possible opponent. Surely Joram knew something was up. He may have feared a military attack from his hotheaded captain. Perhaps the king met Jehu with the thought of making him realize that his plans would be acts of sedition against the legally constituted king. harlotries of . . . Jezebel: Jezebel’s spiritual adultery had brought heinous demonic practices into the kingdom and sealed its doom (1 Kin. 21:25, 26). As God had threatened, such activities would surely bring about the nation’s demise (see Deut. 28:25, 26). Jehu justified his actions as a judgment on Jezebel’s sins.

9:23, 24 the frightened Joram shouted to Ahaziah, Treachery. But it was he and Ahaziah who were the true traitors. And they would be executed by Jehu, a man who served as the “terrible swift sword” of the Lord. between his arms: that is, in the middle of his back, as he was driving his chariot away.

9:25, 26 remember: Jehu rehearsed to Bidkar the gist of the curse against Ahab’s house (1 Kin. 21:21–24). In this way, Jehu cited this curse for justification of his actions. He proclaimed himself God’s avenger.

His Hebrew word usually appears along with other words that denote various forms of magic or divination (2 Chr. 33:6; Jer. 27:9; Mic. 5:12). The word used here seems to have the basic sense of “witchcraft” or “sorcery.” Sorcerers interpreted dreams, prophesied, and performed miracles (Ex. 7:11; Jer. 27:9; Dan. 2:2). They had access to the royal courts of Egypt, Israel, and Babylon (9:22; Ex. 7:11; Dan. 2:2). Sorcery was forbidden in the Law of Moses, with capital punishment prescribed for a sorceress (Ex. 22:18; Deut. 18:10, 11). Many of the OT prophets directly linked divine judgment with sorcery, even expressly citing it as the cause (is. 47:9; nah. 3:4; Mal. 3:5). The Lord did not want His people to look to such deceptive sorcerers for direction. Instead He promised to raise up a prophet like Moses, which He did: His son, Jesus (Deut. 18:10–15; Acts 3:22, 23).

Now therefore, take and throw him on the plot of ground, according to the word of the LORD.”

Ahaziah of Judah Killed

<sup>27</sup>But when Ahaziah king of Judah saw this, he fled by the road to <sup>1</sup>Beth Haggan. So Jehu pursued him, and said, <sup>28</sup>‘Shoot him also in the chariot.’ And they shot him at the Ascent of Gur, which is by Ibleam. Then he fled to <sup>9</sup>Megiddo, and died there. <sup>28</sup>And his servants carried him in the chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him in his tomb with his fathers in the City of David. <sup>29</sup>In the eleventh year of Joram the son of Ahab, Ahaziah had become king over Judah.

Jezebel’s Violent Death

<sup>30</sup>Now when Jehu had come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it; <sup>2</sup>and she put paint on her eyes and adorned her head, and looked through a window. <sup>31</sup>Then, as Jehu entered at the gate, she said, <sup>32</sup>‘Is it peace, Zimri, murderer of your master?’

<sup>32</sup>And he looked up at the window, and said, ‘Who is on my side? Who?’ So two or three eunuchs looked out at him. <sup>33</sup>Then he said, ‘Throw her down.’ So they threw her down, and some of her blood splattered on the wall and on the horses; and he trampled her underfoot. <sup>34</sup>And when he had gone in, he ate and drank. Then he said, ‘Go now, see to this accursed woman, and bury her, for <sup>b</sup>she was a king’s daughter.’ <sup>35</sup>So they went to bury her, but they found no more of her than the skull and the feet and the palms of her hands. <sup>36</sup>Therefore they came back and told him. And he said, ‘This is the word of the LORD, which He spoke by His servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, <sup>c</sup>‘On the plot of ground at Jezreel

Ahab’s Seventy Sons Killed

10 Now Ahab had seventy sons in Samaria. And Jehu wrote and sent letters to Samaria, to the rulers of <sup>1</sup>Jezreel, to the elders, and to <sup>2</sup>those who reared Ahab’s sons, saying:

<sup>2</sup> Now as soon as this letter comes to you, since your master’s sons are with you, and you have chariots and horses, a fortified city also, and weapons, <sup>3</sup>choose the <sup>3</sup>best qualified of your master’s sons, set him on his father’s throne, and fight for your master’s house.

<sup>5</sup>And he who was in charge of the house, and he who was in charge of the city, the elders also, and those who reared the sons, sent to Jehu, saying, ‘We are your servants, we will do all you tell us; but we will not make anyone king. Do what is good in your sight.’ <sup>6</sup>Then he wrote a second letter to them, saying:

If you are for me and will obey my voice, take the heads of the men, your master’s sons, and come to me at Jezreel by this time tomorrow.

Now the king’s sons, seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, who were rearing them. <sup>7</sup>So it was, when the letter came to them, that they took the king’s sons and <sup>b</sup>slaughtered seventy persons, put their heads in baskets and sent them to him at Jezreel.

9:27 t he wounded Ahaziah apparently made it to samaria where he at last was apprehended by Jehu’s men (2 Chr. 22:8, 9) and taken to Megiddo where he died. His body finally was buried in the royal tombs in Jerusalem (v. 28).

9:30, 31 Jezebel knew that her end was near; she had heard about the deaths of the kings of israel and Judah. Yet she brazenly spent time putting on her makeup and adorning herself. Defiant to the end, Jezebel called Jehu a Zimri, a traitor who had killed his master in order to seize the throne (1 Kin. 16:11, 12).

9:32, 33 Jehu had a couple of Jezebel’s servants throw her out the window. Her death was particularly gruesome. Eunuchs refers to males who have been castrated. typically they were assigned to the harems of kings in the ancient Middle East. t he word can also refer to officers in general.

9:34–37 bury her: After Jehu had Jezebel killed, he entered the palace to eat and drink. But then, because of Jezebel’s rank, he ordered that her body be given a proper burial. However, she had become food for dogs. t his was the grisly fulfillment of Elijah’s prophecy (1 Kin. 21:23). Although Jezebel wanted Elijah dead (see 1 Kin. 19:1, 2), her own life was taken. as refuse: t here was to be no marker, no mourning, no memorial, no sadness for this evil woman.

10:1 Ahab’s seventy sons included children and probably grandchildren. Jehu wanted to eliminate all rivals to his kingship. t he rulers of Jezreel were samaritan officials, who often visited the royal residence in Jezreel.

10:2–5 Jehu’s first letter was written in order to determine who might be the greatest risk to his reign. two kings: t he deaths of Joram (9:14–26) and Ahaziah (9:27, 28) were fresh in the rulers’ minds, so the response of the leaders was a fearful submission to Jehu’s power.

And he said, “Lay them in two heaps at the entrance of the gate until morning.”

<sup>9</sup>So it was, in the morning, that he went out and stood, and said to all the people, “You are righteous. Indeed <sup>c</sup>I conspired against my master and killed him; but who killed all these? <sup>10</sup>Know now that nothing shall <sup>d</sup>fall to the earth of the word of the LORD which the LORD spoke concerning the house of Ahab; for the LORD has done what He spoke <sup>e</sup>by His servant Elijah.” <sup>11</sup>So Jehu killed all who remained of the house of Ahab in Jezreel, and all his great men and his close acquaintances and his priests, until he left him none remaining.

Ahaziah's Forty-two Brothers Killed

<sup>12</sup>And he arose and departed and went to Samaria. On the way, at <sup>5</sup>Beth Eked of the Shepherds, <sup>13</sup>Jehu met with the brothers of Ahaziah king of Judah, and said, “Who are you?”

So they answered, “We are the brothers of Ahaziah; we have come down to greet the sons of the king and the sons of the queen mother.”

The Rest of Ahab's Family Killed

<sup>15</sup>Now when he departed from there, he <sup>7</sup>met <sup>h</sup>Jehonadab the son of <sup>i</sup>Rechab, coming to meet him; and he greeted him and said to him, “Is your heart right, as my heart is toward your heart?”

And Jehonadab answered, “It is.”

Jehu said, “If it is, <sup>j</sup>give me your hand.” So he gave him his hand, and he took him up to him into the chariot. <sup>16</sup>Then he said, “Come with me, and see my <sup>k</sup>zeal for the LORD.” So they had him ride in his chariot. <sup>17</sup>And when he came to Samaria, <sup>l</sup>he killed all who remained to Ahab in Samaria, till he had destroyed them, according to the word of the LORD <sup>m</sup>which He spoke to Elijah.

10:9 killed all these: Jehu pretended that his message was misunderstood and that in any case it was Ahab's wickedness that ultimately had brought about the divine judgment of these men.

10:10 Evaluating Jehu is difficult. His praise for the ministry of the prophets of god and his stated respect for the word of god commend him to us. But he did not balance his judgmental actions on Ahab's family with mercy and justice for the poor and the oppressed. He was god's instrument of judgment, but he himself also stood under god's judgment (see 10:31).

10:11 Jehu . . . left him none remaining: in killing the house of Ahab, his supporters, as well as the surviving descendants of Ahaziah (vv. 13, 14), Jehu exceeded god's judgment. But he used the power god had given him for his selfish ends. Accordingly, no contradiction exists between the divine commissioning of Jehu (9:6–10) and the divine condemnation of him (10:31; see Hos. 1:4).

BIBLE TIMES & CULTURE NOTES

The Black Obelisk

shalmaneser iii (859–824 B.C.), son of Ashurnasirpal iii, was the first Assyrian king to come into direct contact with israel. He is not mentioned in the biblical narrative of the reign of Ahab of israel (2 Chr. 18:1–34), but he does appear in an inscription that recounts a coalition composed principally of syria and israel (“Ahab, the israelite”), a coalition that shalmaneser met and presumably defeated at the famous Battle of Qarqar, on the Orontes river (853 B.C.).

t his reference to Ahab is one of the most important non-biblical archaeological references to a person mentioned in scripture. t he famous Black Obelisk also mentions “Jehu, son of Omri” and describes him paying tribute to shalmaneser. Jehu or his representative is portrayed on his hands and knees, kissing the ground at the feet of shalmaneser. Jehu's israelite servants are portrayed as bearing bars and vessels of precious metals, extended as presents for the Assyrian king.

Worshippers of Baal Killed

<sup>18</sup>Then Jehu gathered all the people together, and said to them, “Ahab served Baal a little, Jehu will serve him much. <sup>19</sup>Now therefore, call to me all the <sup>o</sup>prophets of Baal, all his servants, and all his priests. Let no one be missing, for I have a great sacrifice for Baal. Whoever <sup>i</sup>is missing shall not live.” But Jehu acted deceptively, with the intent of destroying

10:12–14 Beth Eked means “Binding House,” a site near Mt. g ilboa. Here Jehu slaughtered forty-two men of the house of Ahaziah.

10:15 Jehonadab means “t he Lord is noble.” He came along with Jehu as an observer. son of Rechab: Jehonadab was an ascetic, nomadic r echabite. t hese people were known for their faithfulness to god and to the austere regulations laid down by Jehonadab (see Jer. 35:1–16).

10:17 according to the word of the LORD: Jehu's action was by prophetic sanction (v. 10).

10:18–20 Finally, Jehu attacked overt Baal worship. With a lie, Jehu gathered all the principals of Baal worship to one place, the temple of Baal in samaria (see v. 21; compare 1 Kin. 16:32). He pretended that he was an even more ardent champion of Baal than Ahab. He issued a royal decree for a national solemn assembly for Baal.

the worshipers of Baal. <sup>20</sup> And Jehu said, <sup>8</sup> “Proclaim a solemn assembly for Baal.” So they proclaimed it. <sup>21</sup> Then Jehu sent throughout all Israel; and all the worshipers of Baal came, so that there was not a man left who did not come. So they came into the <sup>9</sup> temple of Baal, and the <sup>10</sup> temple of Baal was full from one end to the other. <sup>22</sup> And he said to the one in charge of the wardrobe, “Bring out vestments for all the worshipers of Baal.” So he brought out vestments for them. <sup>23</sup> Then Jehu and Jehonadab the son of Rechab went into the temple of Baal, and said to the worshipers of Baal, “Search and see that no servants of the LORD are here with you, but only the worshipers of Baal.” <sup>24</sup> So they went in to offer sacrifices and burnt offerings. Now Jehu had appointed for himself eighty men on the outside, and had said, “If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands escapes, whoever lets him escape, it shall be <sup>9</sup> his life for the life of the other.”

<sup>25</sup> Now it happened, as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt offering, that Jehu said to the guard and to the captains, “Go in and kill them; let no one come out!” And they killed them with the edge of the sword; then the guards and the officers threw them out, and went into the <sup>1</sup> inner room of the temple of Baal. <sup>26</sup> And they brought the <sup>r</sup> sacred pillars out of the temple of Baal and burned them. <sup>27</sup> Then they broke down the sacred pillar of Baal, and tore down the <sup>2</sup> temple of Baal and <sup>s</sup> made it a refuse dump to this day. <sup>28</sup> Thus Jehu destroyed Baal from Israel.

<sup>29</sup> However Jehu did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who had made Israel sin, that is, from <sup>t</sup> the golden calves that were at Bethel and Dan. <sup>30</sup> And the LORD <sup>u</sup> said to Jehu, “Because you have done well in doing what is right in My sight, and have done to the house of Ahab all that was in My heart, <sup>v</sup> your sons shall sit on the throne of Israel to the fourth generation.” <sup>31</sup> But Jehu <sup>3</sup> took no heed to walk in the law of the LORD God of Israel with all his heart; for he did not depart from <sup>w</sup> the sins of Jeroboam, who had made Israel sin.

Athaliah Reigns in Judah

10:21–23 temple of Baal: t he temple that had been constructed by Ahab (see 1 Kin. 16:32). vestments: By having the Baal worshipers wear distinctive clothing, Jehu marked them for death. no servants of the LORD: Jehu carefully distinguished the enemy, in case some of the LORD’s true priests might have gathered with the priests of Baal. 10:25–28 as soon as he: it is not clear whether a Baal priest or Jehu

t he Bible speaks often of hands in the literal sense. But because hands are involved in almost all human activity, the word is often used symbolically. Because hands do the will of the entire person, hands may represent someone’s “whole being” (Ps. 24:4; Acts 2:23). t he physical position of the hands suggests a person’s attitude. Uplifted hands symbolize either praise and petition to god or violence against another person (1 Kin. 11:27; Ps. 63:4; 1 t im. 1:8). t he expression “hand of the LORD” refers to His great power (Deut. 2:15; Ezek. 1:3). Often the emphasis of this expression is on god’s power in creation (Ps. 8:6; is. 64:8). s ometimes His power in judgment is emphasized, especially in the phrase, “His hand is stretched out” (is. 9:12, 17; see also r uth 1:13). However, god may also extend His hand to express His mercy and forgiveness (Ps. 37:24).

himself was making the offering. if it was Jehu, it would have been the most effective way of keeping the priests from suspecting any danger. kill them: Jehu followed Elijah’s example on Mt. Carmel (see 1 Kin. 18:40). Yet Jehu’s executions were more thorough, for he had gathered all the priests and prophets of Baal in the nation. to this day: t hat is, at the time of writing. t he suggestion is that even after the fall of samaria one could see the foul place where the temple to Baal once had been. destroyed Baal: t his summary statement refers only to the overt forms of Baal worship.

10:29 Jehu’s destruction of Baal worship (vv. 18–28) was a political act. His continuing the state worship policies established by Jeroboam i clearly shows his disregard for true spiritual revival in israel.

10:30 done well: t he evaluation of Jehu is one of limited obedience (see v. 31). n onetheless, he accomplished a great deal and received god’s commendation for his work. Most likely, a prophet communicated god’s message to Jehu.

10:32, 33 Because s halmaneser iii was occupied with political pressures in the east, Hazael took advantage of the situation, harassing israel throughout his long reign. After Jehu’s death, Hazael marched freely into israel and even into Judah (12:17, 18; 13:22). t he important point of these verses is that the attacks of Hazael were part of god’s judgment on israel.

10:35 t he record of Jehoahaz is given in 13:1–9. He was followed by Joash (also called Jehoash; 13:10–13), Jeroboam ii (14:23–29), and very briefly by Zechariah (15:8–12). t he assassination of Zechariah by s hallum after a reign of only six months ended the line of Jehu in the fourth generation, just as the Lord had said (10:30).

11:1 Athaliah means “t he Lord is Exalted.” s adly, she did not live up royal heirs. <sup>2</sup>But <sup>1</sup>Jehosheba, the daughter of King Joram, sister of <sup>d</sup>Ahaziah, took <sup>2</sup>Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him away from among the king's sons who were being murdered; and they hid him and his nurse in the bedroom, from Athaliah, so that he was not killed. <sup>3</sup>So he was hidden with her in the house of the LORD for six years, while Athaliah reigned over the land.

Joash Crowned King of Judah

<sup>4</sup>In <sup>e</sup>the seventh year Jehoiada sent and brought the captains of hundreds—of the bodyguards and the <sup>3</sup>escorts—and brought them into the house of the LORD to him. And he made a covenant with them and took an oath from them in the house of the LORD, and showed them the king's son. <sup>5</sup>Then he commanded them, saying, “This is what you shall do: One-third of you who <sup>4</sup>come on duty <sup>f</sup>on the Sabbath shall be keeping watch over the king's house, <sup>6</sup>one-third shall be at the gate of Sur, and one-third at the gate behind the escorts. You shall keep the watch of the house, lest it be broken down. <sup>7</sup>The two <sup>5</sup>contingents of you who go off duty on the Sabbath shall keep the watch of the house of the LORD for the king. <sup>8</sup>But you shall surround the king on all sides, every man with his weapons in his hand; and whoever comes within range, let him be put to death. You are to be with the king as he goes out and as he comes in.”

<sup>9g</sup>So the captains of the hundreds did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded. Each of them took his men who were to be on duty on the Sabbath, with those who were going off duty on the Sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the priest. <sup>10</sup>And the priest gave the captains of hundreds the spears and shields which had belonged to King David, <sup>h</sup>that were in the temple of the LORD. <sup>11</sup>Then the escorts stood, every man with his weapons in his hand, all around the king, from the right <sup>6</sup>side of the temple to the left side of the temple, by the altar and the house. <sup>12</sup>And he brought out the king's son, put the crown on him, and gave him the <sup>i</sup>Testimony;<sup>7</sup> they made him king and anointed him, and they clapped their hands and said, <sup>j</sup>“Long live the king!”

Death of Athaliah

<sup>13k</sup>Now when Athaliah heard the noise of the escorts and the people, she came to the people in the temple of the LORD. <sup>14</sup>When she looked, there was the king standing by <sup>l</sup>a pillar according to custom; and the leaders and the trumpeters were by the king. All the people of the land were rejoicing and blowing trumpets. So Athaliah tore her clothes and cried out, “Treason! Treason!”

<sup>15</sup>And Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of the hundreds, the officers of the army, and said to them, “Take her outside <sup>8</sup>under guard, and slay with the

to her name. all the royal heirs: Jehu had executed King Ahaziah of Judah, Athaliah's son, shortly after he had executed Joram of Israel (see 9:27–29). Ahaziah's older brother had been killed in an Arabian raid (2 Chr. 22:1). Further, Jehoram had killed his brothers and other royal relatives when he took the throne (2 Chr. 21:4), while Jehu had slain still more of the royal house (10:14). Therefore, Athaliah's destruction of all of the royal heirs must have concentrated on her own grandchildren. None of the usual details relative to accession to the crown in Judah are given here; Athaliah clearly usurped the office, setting aside the precepts of the Davidic covenant (see 2 sam. 7:12–16; Ps. 89:35–37). 11:2, 3 Josephus says that Jehosheba was Ahaziah's half sister (Antiquities 9.7.1). As the wife of the high priest Jehoiada, her marriage and her relation to the royal house made it possible for her to rescue and hide the young Joash. Joash (or Jehoash; see 12:1) was the son of Ahaziah. He apparently was an infant at this time. Athaliah might not have known of his existence and for this reason failed to kill him in her purges. Yet Joash was to inherit the promises of the Davidic covenant. His righteous reign (12:2) may be attributed in part to his early years spent in the house of the LORD and to the godly instruction and protection of his aunt Jehosheba and his uncle, the high priest Jehoiada. Meanwhile, the unthinkable was happening: the daughter of Jezebel was now the queen of Judah. A worshiper of Baal was in power in the nation of god's promise. She built in Jerusalem a temple to Baal (v. 18).

11:4–8 the seventh year, that is, of the reign of Athaliah and the life of Joash (v. 21). Jehoiada: the name of the high priest means “the Lord Knows.” Other details about Jehoiada's careful preparations are given in 2 Chr. 23:1–11. Jehoiada's plan included the royal guard: the presentation and crowning of the legitimate royal heir coincided with the changing of the guard on the sabbath.

the Cherethites and Pelethites in 2 sam. 20:23; 1 Kin. 1:38. showed them the king's son: the revelation of this young prince was the critical moment. A zealous guard might easily have put him to death at once. There must have been a great deal of preparation on Jehoiada's part—and considerable prayer—for this moment.

11:9 the fact that the men of the royal guard followed the commands of Jehoiada the priest was remarkable. It must have been because they were utterly disgusted by the wickedness of Athaliah. 11:10, 11 spears and shields: David had dedicated these weapons to the temple after his campaigns against Hadadezer (2 sam. 8:11). Since they were not gold or silver, they had apparently been ignored by Shishak when he looted the temple and palace in the days of Rehoboam (1 Kin. 14:26).

11:12 Deuteronomy prescribed the duties of the king with regard to the preservation of god's law (Deut. 17:18). By putting a copy of the law in Joash's hand and the crown on his head, Jehoiada presented him as the rightful heir to the throne. The term Testimony recalls the covenant, emphasizing that Joash's coronation was given both its scriptural warrant and its rightful connection to the Davidic covenant.

11:13–16 the execution of Athaliah is described in this section. in the temple of the LORD: the temple was the appropriate place to crown the king of god's appointment. It was also probably a good place to hide from a queen whose god was Baal. there was the king: What a shock this must have been to Athaliah. There stood a little boy that guaranteed the end of her reign. Her words Treason! Treason! were technically correct. But it was she who had committed treason by murdering all the survivors of the Davidic house—except for the one who was now king. killed: the priest would not allow her execution in the temple, but her death was necessary. With her dead, the young Joash was safe.

sword whoever follows her.” For the priest had said, “Do not let her be killed in the house of the LORD.”<sup>16</sup> So they seized her; and she went by way of the horses’ entrance into the king’s house, and there she was killed.

<sup>17</sup> Then Jehoiada<sup>n</sup> made a covenant between the LORD, the king, and the people, that they should be the LORD’s people, and also<sup>o</sup> between the king and the people.<sup>18</sup> And all the people of the land went to the<sup>p</sup> temple of Baal, and tore it down. They thoroughly<sup>q</sup> broke in pieces its altars and<sup>9</sup> images, and<sup>r</sup> killed Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars. And<sup>s</sup> the priest appointed<sup>t</sup> officers over the house of the LORD.<sup>19</sup> Then he took the captains of hundreds, the bodyguards, the escorts, and all the people of the land; and they brought the king down from the house of the LORD, and went by way of the gate of the escorts to the king’s house. Then he sat on the throne of the kings.<sup>20</sup> So all the people of the land rejoiced; and the city was quiet, for they had slain Athaliah with the sword in the king’s house.<sup>21</sup> Jehoash was<sup>u</sup> seven years old when he became king.

Jehoash Repairs the Temple

that <sup>4</sup>a man <sup>g</sup>purposes in his heart to bring into the house of the LORD, <sup>5</sup>let the priests take it themselves, each from his constituency; and let them repair the <sup>5</sup>damages of the temple, wherever any dilapidation is found.”

<sup>6</sup> Now it was so, by the twenty-third year of King Jehoash, <sup>h</sup>that the priests had not repaired the damages of the temple. <sup>7</sup> So King Jehoash called Jehoiada the priest and the other priests, and said to them, “Why have you not repaired the damages of the temple? Now therefore, do not take more money from your constituency, but deliver it for repairing the damages of the temple.” <sup>8</sup> And the priests agreed that they would neither receive more money from the people, nor repair the damages of the temple.

11:17 Covenant renewal was particularly necessary after the unholiness usurpation by the wicked Athaliah.

11:18 As Jezebel had seen her wicked husband Ahab build a temple to Baal in samaria (see 1 Kin. 16:32), so her daughter Athaliah was behind the building of a temple to Baal in the holy city of Jerusalem.

Mattan the priest of Baal: t he very fact that there was a priest of Baal in Jerusalem is astonishing. if Athaliah and her associates had not been stopped, the sins of samaria would have paled beside the sins of Jerusalem.

11:19–21 t he young child was established as king before the nation. rejoiced . . . quiet: t he joy of the people and the peacefulness of the land were marks of god’s blessing to the restored Davidic dynasty.

12:2 All the days in which Jehoiada the priest instructed him has an ominous tone. After Jehoiada’s death, the king’s activities would take a different turn, for Jehoash would become dependent upon counsel of a different sort (see 2 Chr. 24:17–19). nonetheless, among the kings of Judah, he was one of the few who showed some signs of righteousness.

12:3 Although god Himself might be worshiped in such high places, the setting provided an association with Canaanite religious rites that could too easily lead to spiritual compromise (1 Kin. 3:2–4; see also 14:23). Apostasy would become a besetting sin later in Jehoash’s reign (2 Chr. 24:17–19, 24).

12:5 Money collected from special taxes and voluntary offerings was designated for repairing the temple. t hus renewed concern for spiritual things was evidenced after the neglect and abuse of the previous seven years (2 Chr. 24:7).

12:9 a chest: When the priest failed to do the work (vv. 6, 7), the king took a personal hand in seeing to its accomplishment. t he chest he prepared was set against the wall at the entrance facing the right side of the altar. Because the people responded generously (2 Chr. 24:10), the work proceeded and was soon completed (vv. 11, 12; 2 Chr. 24:11–13).

12:13 At first no funds were used for fashioning the sacred vessels, but there was money left over at the completion of the building repairs, and with it the sacred vessels could be completed as well (2 Chr. 24:14).

from the money brought into the house of the LORD. <sup>14</sup>But they gave that to the workmen, and they repaired the house of the LORD with it. <sup>15</sup>Moreover <sup>o</sup>they did not require an account from the men into whose hand they delivered the money to be paid to workmen, for they dealt faithfully. <sup>16</sup><sup>p</sup>The money from the trespass offerings and the money from the sin offerings was not brought into the house of the LORD. <sup>q</sup>It belonged to the priests.

Hazael Threatens Jerusalem

Death of Joash

Millo

the Millo of Jerusalem was probably part of the fortification of the Jebusite city that David captured. It may have been either a solid tower full of earth or a bastion strengthening a weak point in the wall. It was already in existence when David's army captured the Jebusite city (2 Sam. 5:9). The Millo was one of the building projects included in King Solomon's expansion program in Jerusalem in later years. He strengthened the Millo by using conscripted labor (1 Kin. 9:15). Centuries later, King Hezekiah had the Millo repaired in preparation for an invasion and siege by the Assyrians (2 Chr. 32:5). King Joash was killed "in the house of the Millo" (2 Kin. 12:20)—the victim of a conspiracy.

Jehoahaz Reigns in Israel

12:15 dealt faithfully: Joash had commissioned such trustworthy men that no accounting of their use of the funds was necessary.

12:17, 18 The Aramean invasion recorded here took place late in Joash's reign. The king fell into apostasy after the death of his godly counselor, the high priest Jehoiada (2 Chr. 24:17-19, 23, 24), and this invasion came as a judgment of his wickedness.

12:20, 21 Joash was severely wounded in Hazael's invasion (see 2 Chr. 24:24, 25), then he fell victim shortly afterward to the dissent and unpopularity that culminated in his assassination. Because of Joash's apostasy and murder of Zechariah, Jehoiada's son (2 Chr. 24:17-22), the king was not laid to rest in the royal tombs (see 2 Chr. 24:25).

13:1 The name Jehoahaz means "the Lord Has grasped." Two centuries later another Jehoahaz would become king of Judah following the death of his father, the godly Josiah (23:31). The 17-year reign of Jehu's son Jehoahaz lasted from 814 to 798 B.C.

13:2, 3 evil . . . sins of Jeroboam: After the end of the house of Ahab in Jehu's purge (chs. 9; 10), the kings of Israel reverted to the level of syncretism that had been established by Jeroboam I. The mention of Hazael's son Ben-Hadad III (802-780 B.C.) may refer to his serving as a commander in his father's army or to his growing prominence in his father's later years (v. 24).

13:4 Although Jehoahaz did not follow the Lord exclusively (v. 6), God graciously heard his genuine plea for help. In His long-suffering mercy, God often deals patiently with people and blesses them despite their failures (see 1 Kin. 21:25-29; 2 Pet. 3:9).

13:5 Israel's deliverer has been variously identified. Probably it was the Assyrian king Adad-n-erari III, referring to an Assyrian king as a

anger

(Heb. 'aph) (13:3; Deut. 6:15; Ps. 18:8; Prov. 11:22; 29:8) strong's #639

Depending upon the context, this word signifies either "nose," "nostril," or "anger" (gen. 2:7; Prov. 15:1). This term occurs about half of the time with words referring to burning. It has these figures of speech typically depict anger as the fierce breathing of a person through his nose: "a burning nose" (Ex. 32:10-12). Most of the references describe God's anger. God is said to be slow to anger, but can be provoked into exercising judgment (Ps. 103:8; Deut. 4:24-25). He is compassionate, but His wrath is reserved for those who break His covenant (Deut. 13:17; 29:25-27; Josh. 23:16; Judg. 2:20; Ps. 78:38). Although God's wrath is righteous, human anger is almost always evaluated in negative terms in the OT (gen. 49:6; Prov. 14:17).

escaped from under the hand of the Syrians; and the children of Israel dwelt in their tents as before. <sup>6</sup>Nevertheless they did not depart from the sins of the house of Jeroboam, who had made Israel sin, but walked in them; <sup>7</sup>and the <sup>3</sup>wooden image also remained in Samaria. <sup>7</sup>For He left of the army of Jehoahaz only fifty horsemen, ten chariots, and ten thousand foot soldiers; for the king of Syria had destroyed them <sup>h</sup>and made them <sup>i</sup>like the dust at threshing.

Jehoash Reigns in Israel

<sup>10</sup>In the thirty-seventh year of Joash king of Judah, <sup>6</sup>Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz became king over Israel in Samaria, and reigned sixteen years. <sup>11</sup>And he did evil in the sight of the LORD. He did not depart from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel sin, but walked in them.

the king of Israel came down to him, and wept over his face, and said, “O my father, my father, <sup>q</sup>the chariots of Israel and their horsemen!”

<sup>15</sup>And Elisha said to him, “Take a bow and some arrows.” So he took himself a bow and some arrows. <sup>16</sup>Then he said to the king of Israel, “Put your hand on the bow.” So he put his hand on it, and Elisha put his hands on the king’s hands. <sup>17</sup>And he said, “Open the east window”; and he opened it. Then Elisha said, “Shoot”; and he shot. And he said, “The arrow of the LORD’s deliverance and the arrow of deliverance from Syria; for you must strike the Syrians at <sup>r</sup>Aphek till you have destroyed them.” <sup>18</sup>Then he said, “Take the arrows”; so he took them. And he said to the king of Israel, “Strike the ground”; so he struck three times, and stopped. <sup>19</sup>And the man of God was angry with him, and said, “You should have struck five or six times; then you would have struck Syria till you had destroyed it!” <sup>8</sup>But now you will strike Syria only three times.”

<sup>20</sup>Then Elisha <sup>8</sup>died, and they buried him. And the <sup>t</sup>raiding bands from Moab invaded the land in the spring of the year. <sup>21</sup>So it was, as they were burying a man, that suddenly they spied a band of raiders; and they put the man in the tomb of Elisha; and when the man was let down and touched the bones of Elisha, he revived and stood on his feet.

Israel Recaptures Cities from Syria

divinely commissioned deliverer of israel is similar to the words of god in isaiah describing the Persian King Cyrus as “His anointed” (see is. 45:1; compare is. 44:28).

13:6 the wooden image: t the Hebrew word for wooden images is a reference to the Canaanite goddess Asherah. t the image itself was a sacred tree or pole that was perceived perhaps as some sexually-oriented symbol of the fertility religion of Canaan.

13:11 At first, the 16-year reign of Jehoash of israel appears to be recorded without further elaboration (vv. 10–13). But three stories are added: the death of Elisha during his reign (vv. 14–21), his military victories over the Aramean forces (vv. 24, 25), and his war with Amaziah of Judah (v. 12; 14:8–14).

13:14 O my father: Jehoash’s cry over the aged Elisha repeats the words of Elisha spoken when Elijah was taken up to heaven (2:12). t thus, both at the beginning of his ministry and at its conclusion, Elisha is unmistakably linked to his mentor Elijah. t the grief of Jehoash at the impending death of Elisha shows that, like his father Jehoahaz (see vv. 4, 5), this israelite king possessed some genuine spirituality. t the line of Jehu had its good moments and received some reward from the Lord (see 10:30). However, none of this line or any other of the kings of israel served god with all their heart (see 10:31).

13:15–19 t his section describes a symbolic act that Elisha had Joash perform to ensure victories over his enemies; the king was only partially successful in completing the task. Elisha’s symbolic act of putting his hands on the king’s hands should have alerted the king that the aged prophet was conveying a divine blessing on him. Jehoash’s halfhearted compliance with Elisha’s instructions exposed his weak faith and illustrated god’s unfavorable evaluation of his character (v. 11). god’s dying prophet was rightly disturbed. Although god would allow israel to defeat the Aramean army three times, their victory would be incomplete.

13:20 Elisha died: t the supernatural translation of Elijah (ch. 2) was an unusual example of god’s power; Elisha died a normal death. bands from Moab: t his prepares for the miracle in the grave of Elisha (v. 21), but the mention of invasions such as this reminds us of how perilous life was during so much of israel’s history.

13:21 the man . . . revived: Even in death the mere presence of Elisha’s body was sufficient for a miracle. t there was no magic in Elisha’s bones, but a demonstration of the power of god associated with His servant. t his miracle should have reassured Jehoash that god did intend to rescue israel from the deadly grip of Aramean domination (see v. 25).

13:23 t his verse is one of those dazzling lights that burst from the pages of the Bible, describing the wonderful mercy of the living

Isaac, and Jacob, and would not yet destroy them or cast them from His presence.

Amaziah Reigns in Judah

god (see 14:26, 27). it draws in part on the imagery of Ex. 34:6. His covenant: god’s faithfulness to His own promise is a regular theme of the Ot (Ex. 2:23–25).

13:24 t his Ben-Hadad is the son of Hazael (v. 3). After his father’s death, he reigned as Ben-Hadad iii (802–780 B.C.).

13:25 in accordance with Jehoash’s striking the ground three times with arrows (v. 18), god gave Jehoash victory over the Arameans only three times. Yet god graciously overruled Jehoash’s inadequate faith by granting israel full victory over the Arameans during the reign of his son Jeroboam ii.

14:1–3 t he name Amaziah means “t he Lord is Mighty,” did what was right: Amaziah was one of the few godly kings in the kingdom of Judah; the best kings were Hezekiah (see 18:1) and Josiah (see 22:1). his father David . . . his father Joash: Here is a good example of different uses of the Hebrew word for father. it can signify either remote or immediate ancestry.

14:4 Like his father Jehoash before him (see 12:3), Amaziah allowed worship at the high places. t his practice would blossom into open idolatry in the reigns of subsequent kings (16:4; 21:3).

14:5, 6 executed his servants: t he principals are named in 12:20, 21. t hese men were guilty of assassinating his father and might have been a threat to his own reign. Book of the Law of Moses: Amaziah followed the law laid down in Deut. 24:16.

14:7 A more detailed account of Amaziah’s defeat of the Edomites is given in 2 Chr. 25:5–13. Edom had regained its independence during the reign of Jehoram (see 8:20–22). Amaziah’s conquest of the formidable city of Sela atop the seemingly unapproachable cliffs of the Wadi Musa was a monumental accomplishment. r ather than recognize god’s hand in this feat, Amaziah became proud and fell into spiritual compromise (2 Chr. 25:14–16).

14:8 let us face one another: Amaziah’s pride over his accomplishment (v. 10) and his anger over the looting of Judean cities by israelite mercenaries dismissed before the Edomite campaign (2 Chr. 25:6–10, 13) clouded his thinking.

14:9, 10 Jehoash replied to Amaziah in the form of a fable—a kind of story designed to teach a moral. By speaking of Amaziah as a thistle in comparison with the cedar of Lebanon, Jehoash tried to help Amaziah put a more realistic construction on his recent victory.

14:11 Beth Shemesh: t he name of the city means “House of the sun,” indicating that there had once been a temple to the sun god there in Canaanite times. Beth s hemes h was in the Valley of s orek, about 15 miles west of Jerusalem. t his was the town where the holy ark was taken (1 sam. 6:10–7:2) when it came back into israelite hands after its “wanderings” among the Philistines. t he tragedy of the battle between Amaziah and Jehoash was heightened by the fact that the proud Amaziah forced a battle in his own territory, Judah.

14:12 Judah was defeated: Jehoash’s forces were seasoned warriors and had defeated the Arameans (see 13:25). Amaziah’s pride spelled not only his own downfall (v. 13) but that of his capital city t his word often refers to a sacred area, an open-air sanctuary, located on top of a ridge. Before the temple was built, the israelites could worship the true god at high places (see s olomon’s worship of god at the high place at g ideon, 1 Kin. 3:2–4). But the israelites soon began worshipping other gods, especially Baal, at these high places, copying the practices of the surrounding nations. t he israelites decorated these hilltops with pagan symbols, sacred pillars and stones, and these places were rallying points for pagan worship. t hey often were associated with israel’s religious rebellion and apostasy (1 Kin. 14:23; Jer. 19:5). t hus throughout the Ot, the existence of high places and the worship that was practiced there was labeled as an affront to god (Ps. 78:58).

Jeroboam II Reigns in Israel

<sup>23</sup>In the fifteenth year of Amaziah the son of Joash, king of Judah, Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel, became king in Samaria, and reigned forty-one years. <sup>24</sup>And he did evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not depart from all the <sup>x</sup>sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who had made Israel sin. <sup>25</sup>He <sup>y</sup>restored the <sup>1</sup>territory of Israel <sup>z</sup>from the entrance of Hamath to <sup>a</sup>the <sup>2</sup>Sea of the Arabah, according to the word of the LORD God of Israel, which He had spoken through His servant <sup>b</sup>Jonah the son of Amittai, the prophet who was from <sup>c</sup>Gath Hopher. <sup>26</sup>For the LORD <sup>d</sup>saw that the affliction of Israel was very bitter; and whether bond or free, <sup>e</sup>there was no helper for Israel. <sup>27</sup><sup>f</sup>And the LORD did not say that He would blot out the name of Israel from under heaven; but He saved them by the hand of Jeroboam the son of Joash.

<sup>28</sup>Now the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, and all that he did—his might, how he made war, and how he recaptured for Israel, from <sup>g</sup>Damascus and Hamath, <sup>h</sup>what had belonged to Judah—are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? <sup>29</sup>So Jeroboam <sup>3</sup>rested with his fathers, the kings of Israel. Then <sup>i</sup>Zechariah his son reigned in his place.

Azariah Reigns in Judah

15 In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel, <sup>a</sup>Azariah the son of Amaziah, king of Judah, <sup>b</sup>became king. <sup>2</sup>He was sixteen years old when he (14:13, 14). fled to his tent: t his is an idiom for a complete rout (2 sam. 18:17).

14:13 t the damage to Jerusalem's northern walls extended from the Corner Gate, at the northwest corner of the city wall, east to the Gate of Ephraim. t he northwest corner of Jerusalem had always been the city's most vulnerable point (18:17). A breach in the wall of four hundred cubits (600 feet) was a huge gap for the invading army to enter the holy city through.

14:14 gold and silver . . . articles: t he looting of precious objects from the temple, as well as from the palace—the king's house—shows the humiliation that Judah suffered as the result of this disastrous war fueled by Amaziah's pride. hostages: People as well as goods were carried off by the king of israel. returned: it had not been the intention of Jehoash to occupy foreign territory.

14:17 t the notice of fifteen years of life for Amaziah suggests he was released after the death of Jehoash for an additional period (782–767 B.C.), if so, he reigned alongside his son Azariah (or Uzziah), whose 52-year reign began in 792 B.C. (15:2).

14:19, 20 Amaziah not only reproduced his father's spiritual problems (see 14:3), he also died as his father had, at the hand of an assassin (12:20, 21). Lachish: t his was one of the guard cities for Jerusalem, about 30 miles southwest of the capital. Lachish was seized by sennacherib in 701 B.C., in the days of Hezekiah (18:13–17).

14:22 Elath is the famous seaport on the gulf of Aqaba. During the reign of Ahaz, Elath was captured by rezin of Aram and became an Edomite holding (see 16:6).

14:23 Jeroboam: t his is the second king of israel to have this name.

Jeroboam i was the founder of the northern kingdom at the time of the death of solomon (930 B.C.; see 1 Kin. 11; 12). forty-one years: Jeroboam ii had a very long reign. His 41 years included ten years as coregent with his father Jehoash (792–782 B.C.).

14:24 did evil: t he assessment of his reign is like that of all the kings of israel, except for the graver assessment given to the house of Ahab (see 10:29–31).

14:25 restored the territory: t he first half of the eighth century B.C. was a period of prosperity and strength for the northern and southern kingdoms. Jeroboam ii extended israel's influence from the entrance of Hamath down the eastern side of the Jordan to the southern end of the Dead sea. since Azariah also campaigned in the southern territory, the two kingdoms must have been living in harmony and enjoying mutual cooperation. Jonah: Once again a prophet of god gave direction to a king. t he reference to Jonah here provides the historical setting for the famous prophet.

14:26, 27 no helper: t he living god saw that His people needed His help, and He became the helper of His people. god used Jeroboam ii to bring israel to a new period of greatness.

14:28 t he scriptures emphasize Jeroboam's military prowess. Yet Jeroboam's might may have also been economic. t he well-known samarian Ostraca, which may date from this period, record the delivery to samaria of fine oil and barley produced on the royal estates.

14:29 t he brief reign of Zechariah is noted in 15:8–12. He was the fourth in the line of Jehu to reign in israel, in fulfillment of god's gracious promise to Jehu (see 10:30).

15:1, 2 Azariah (or Uzziah, 2 Chr. 26:1; is. 1:1) is credited with became king, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jeholiah of Jerusalem. <sup>3</sup>And he did what was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done, <sup>4c</sup>except that the <sup>1</sup>high places were not removed; the people still sacrificed and burned incense on the high places. <sup>5</sup>Then the LORD <sup>d</sup>struck the king, so that he was a leper until the day of his <sup>e</sup>death; so he <sup>f</sup>dwelt in an isolated house. And Jotham the king's son was over the royal house, judging the people of the land.

Zechariah Reigns in Israel

<sup>8</sup>In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah king of Judah, <sup>h</sup>Zechariah the son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel in Samaria six months. <sup>9</sup>And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, <sup>i</sup>as his fathers had done; he did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who had made Israel sin. <sup>10</sup>Then Shallum the son of Jabesh conspired against him, and <sup>j</sup>struck and killed him in front of the people; and he reigned in his place.

<sup>11</sup>Now the rest of the acts of Zechariah, indeed they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

<sup>12</sup>This was the word of the LORD which He spoke to Jehu, saying, <sup>k</sup>“Your sons shall sit on the throne of Israel to the fourth generation.” And so it was.

Shallum Reigns in Israel

<sup>15</sup>Now the rest of the acts of Shallum, and the conspiracy which he <sup>4</sup>led, indeed they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel. <sup>16</sup>Then from Tirzah, Menahem attacked <sup>m</sup>Tipsah, all who were there, and its territory. Because they did not surrender, therefore he attacked it. All <sup>n</sup>the women there who were with child he ripped open.

Menahem Reigns in Israel

<sup>17</sup>In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah king of Judah, Menahem the son of Gadi became king over Israel, and reigned ten years in Samaria. <sup>18</sup>And he did evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not depart all his days from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who had made Israel sin. <sup>19</sup><sup>o</sup>Pul <sup>5</sup>king of Assyria came against the land; and Menahem gave Pul a thousand talents of silver, that his <sup>6</sup>hand might be with him to <sup>p</sup>strengthen the kingdom

52 years of reign. t his figure includes 10 years during which his father Amaziah was held captive (792–782 B.C.), 15 years of coregency with Amaziah upon his release from captivity (782–767 B.C.), and 27 years of sole reign (767–740 B.C.), t the latter part of Azariah's reign was tainted by his intrusion into the priestly office (2 Chr. 26:16–19), an act that resulted in his being stricken with leprosy (v. 5). t his condition put his son Jotham on the throne to rule with him and handle public matters relative to the royal office. t the nature of Jotham's duties (v. 5), the assigning of a full 52 years of reign to Azariah, and isaiah's dating of his call to the year of Azariah's (or Uzziah's) death (is. 6:1) may indicate that Azariah retained the power of the throne until the end. His name Azariah means “t he Lord Has Helped.”

15:3, 4 Azariah was another of the good kings in Judah and received some of the same evaluation that was given to Jehoash in 12:2, 3 and to Amaziah in 14:3, 4.

15:5 leper: t he events that brought about this affliction are described in 2 Chr. 26:16–21. over the royal house: Jotham assumed the office of senior administrator. While the term over the house is used of the office of royal steward, this office grew in prestige, and the term came to designate a senior official of high standing. Jotham handled the business of state during his father's period of isolation.

15:12 fourth generation: Jehu had been promised a continuing posterity into the fourth generation as a reward for carrying out his divine commission (see 10:30). Unfortunately, Jehu and his house proved unworthy of their god-given opportunities so that they repeatedly earned the condemnation of god's prophets (13:18, 19; Hos. 1:4; Amos 7:9). After the death of Zechariah in 752 B.C. and the end of the fourth dynasty, israel plunged into a period of degeneracy, bloody conspiracies, and international intrigue that would bring about its demise in 722 B.C. so Zechariah, whose name means “t he Lord r emembers” (see 14:26, 27), was the last of the effective kings of israel.

15:13–16 t he short reign of Shallum, only one month, was indicative of the emerging collapse of the nation.

15:15 the rest of the acts: t his follows the normal pattern for the obituaries of the kings of the northern kingdom. Even though shallum was king for only one month, he still received the complete royal obituary.

15:16 Because of its beauty (song 6:4), Tirzah served as a royal retreat (see 1 Kin. 14:17); it also was the national capital during israel's first two dynasties. ripped open: such inhuman atrocities were all too common in times of warfare in the ancient world (see 8:12; Amos 1:13). israel's sin repeatedly placed it in danger of such barbaric acts (see Hos. 10:13, 14; 13:16).

15:17, 18 Menahem: t his wicked king came to power by assassination and established his authority by brutal acts against humanity (vv. 14, 16), ironically, his name means “Comforter.”

15:19 Pul is a second Babylonian name for the Assyrian king t iglath-Pileser iii (745–727 B.C.; see v. 29; 1 Chr. 5:26). Although he came to the throne as a usurper from the ranks of the military, he would prove a competent king. Under t iglath-Pileser iii and his successors, Assyria became the dominant power in the Middle East for well over a century (747–612 B.C.). it was a period of repeated Assyrian interference in the affairs of israel and Judah. t he first such instance came quickly. In 743 B.C. t iglath-Pileser iii launched a western invasion that brought a great deal of syria and Palestine under his control. t he annals of this Assyrian king record that Menahem of israel paid tribute to him, as is also recorded here (vv. 19, 20).

Assyrian Campaigns Against Israel and Judah

the Assyrian invasions of the eighth century B.C. were the most traumatic political events in the entire history of Israel.

the brutal Assyrian style of warfare relied on massive armies, superbly equipped with the world's first great siege machines manipulated by an efficient corps of engineers.

Psychological terror, however, was Assyria's most effective weapon. it was ruthlessly applied, with corpses impaled on stakes, severed heads stacked in heaps, and captives skinned alive.

the shock of bloody military sieges on both Israel and Judah was profound. the prophets did not fail to speak out against their horror, while at the same time pleading with the people to see god's hand in history, to recognize spiritual causes in the present punishment.

1. CAMPAIGNS OF TIGLATH-PILESER III (738–732 B.C.)

King Tiglath-Pileser of Assyria (745–727 B.C.) proved to be a vigorous campaigner, first exacting tribute from Menahem and then annexing Hamath, Philistia, Galilee, Gilead, and Damascus (738–732 B.C.) during the reign of Pekah.

the ferocious onslaught against the northern tribes left only central Israel and the capital city of Samaria intact.

By this time Israel was a tiny nation wracked by pro- and anti-Assyrian factions, multiple assassinations, hypocrisy, arrogance, and fear.

2. CAMPAIGN OF SHALMANESER V (725–722 B.C.)

The last king of Israel, Hoshea, conspired with Egypt and withheld the annual tribute to the Assyrians. A protracted three-year siege conducted by Shalmaneser and concluded by Sargon II saw the end of the Israelite kingdom in 722–721 B.C.

At that time, according to Assyrian annals, “[Sargon] besieged and conquered Samaria, led away as plunder 27,290 inhabitants . . . [and] installed over [those remaining] an officer of mine and imposed upon them the tribute of the former king.”

3. SENNACHERIB'S CAMPAIGN AGAINST JUDAH (701 B.C.)

In the 14th year of Hezekiah, the Assyrians finally attacked Judah. The Prism of Sennacherib calls Hezekiah “overbearing and proud,” indicating that he was part of Philistia’s and Egypt’s effort to rebel against Assyria.

A battle in the plain of Eltekeh was won by Assyria; the Egyptian and Cushite charioteers fled. Lachish was besieged and taken. Sennacherib’s annals note: “As for Hezekiah the Jew, he did not submit to my yoke. I laid siege to 46 of his strong cities, walled forts and the countless small villages in their vicinity, and conquered them by means of well-tamped earth ramps and battering-rams brought near to the walls combined with the attack by foot-soldiers, using mines, breaches, and sapper work. I drove out 200,150 people, young and old, male and female, horses, mules, donkeys, camels, large and small cattle beyond counting, and considered them plunder. Himself I made a prisoner in Jerusalem, his royal residence, like a bird in a cage.”

Nowhere, however, does the boastful Assyrian king record the disaster mentioned in 2 Kin. 19:35, 36; 2 Chr. 32:21; Is. 37:36, 37.

of silver, to give to the king of Assyria. So the king of Assyria turned back, and did not stay there in the land.

and all that he did, are they not written

<sup>32</sup>In the second year of Pekah the son

evil reign of two years, a usurper "closed his eyes" for him.

15:27, 28 Like shallum and Menahem before him, Pekah sat on the throne through usurpation and bloody deeds. Because Hoshea's nine-year reign (17:1) began in 732 B.C., Pekah's twenty years must have included a time of kingship in his own district during the unsettled days of shallum, Menahem, and Pekahiah (752–740 B.C.).
Apparently Pekah rode the crest of anti-Assyrian sentiment. t hat same political stance ultimately brought about his downfall, during Tiglath-Pileser iii's second western campaign (734–732 B.C.). it is this campaign in galilee to which isaiah alluded (see is. 9:1).

15:30 Hoshea . . . killed him: t iglath-Pileser iii's campaign apparently caused a pro-Assyrian reaction within israel that brought about both Pekah's death and Hoshea's ascension to the throne. t he annals of t iglath-Pileser iii record Hoshea's heavy tribute and the Assyrian king's claim that he himself set the new israelite king in office.
15:32, 33 Jotham means "t he Lord is Perfect." Jotham's reign of sixteen years (752–736 B.C.) includes a 12-year coregency with his father Azariah. s ince Jotham is earlier credited with 20 years (v. 30), it may be that he turned over the reigns of government to his son Ahaz in 736 B.C., even though he lived on for four more years.

15:34 Jotham's reign was partly righteous. After the purge of Ahazi-ah and Athaliah (9:27–29; 11:13–16), the kings of Judah who reigned in relative righteousness were Joash (Jehoash) (12:2, 3), Amaziah (14:3, 4), and Azariah (Uzziah, 15:3, 4). A positive righteousness would be modeled by Hezekiah (see 18:3–6) and again by Josiah (see 22:2).

15:36 t he author of Chronicles indicates that Jotham did extensive building in Jerusalem and Judah (2 Chr. 27:3, 4) and engaged in a war against the Ammonites (2 Chr. 27:5). Jotham apparently carried out the practices that brought Judah power and prosperity during the years of his father Azariah (Uzziah).

15:37, 38 Rezin . . . Pekah: t hese two adversaries were even more prominent in the time of Ahaz (see ch. 16; see also is. 7).

16:1 t he name Ahaz means "He Has grasped." t he seventeenth year of Pekah was 736–735 B.C. Ahaz's 16-year reign apparently ended in 720 B.C. if so, like Jotham before him, Ahaz must have lived on another four years after giving up his rule. Hezekiah's first year of independent rule began in 715 B.C., 14 years before s ennacherib's what was right in the sight of the LORD his God, as his father David had done.<sup>3</sup> But he walked in the way of the kings of Israel; indeed <sup>a</sup>he made his son pass through the fire, according to the <sup>b</sup>abominations of the nations whom the LORD had cast out from before the children of Israel. <sup>4</sup>And he sacrificed and burned incense on the <sup>c</sup>high places, <sup>d</sup>on the hills, and under every green tree.

made offerings on it. <sup>13</sup>So he burned his burnt offering and his grain offering; and he poured his drink offering and sprinkled the blood of his peace offerings on the altar. <sup>14</sup>He also brought <sup>n</sup>the bronze altar which was before the LORD, from the front of the <sup>4</sup>temple—from between the new altar and the house of the LORD—and put it on the north side of the new altar. <sup>15</sup>Then King Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying, “On the great new altar burn <sup>o</sup>the morning burnt offering, the evening grain offering, the king’s burnt sacrifice, and his grain offering, with the burnt offering of all the people of the land, their grain offering, and their drink offerings; and sprinkle on it all the blood of the burnt offering and all the blood of the sacrifice. And the bronze altar shall be for me to inquire by.” <sup>16</sup>Thus did Urijah the priest, according to all that King Ahaz commanded.

Hoshea Reigns in Israel

17 In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, <sup>a</sup>Hoshea the son of Elah became king of Israel in Samaria, and he reigned nine years. <sup>2</sup>And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, but not as the kings invasion of Judah and his siege of Jerusalem in 701 B.C. (18:13), if Ahaz was 20 years old at his accession in 736 B.C. (v. 2), he would have lived to be around 40, since Hezekiah was 25 years old at his accession to coregency in 729 B.C., Ahaz was in his early teens when Hezekiah was born.

16:3, 4 After a series of kings in Judah who demonstrated a relative righteousness, Ahaz followed the evil ways of the kings of the northern kingdom. The author of Chronicles reports that the rite of making one’s son pass through the fire was connected with the Baal worship practiced in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom (23:10; 2 Chr. 28:2, 3). Ahaz was an apostate who personally led his people in the religious worship practices of Canaan (v. 4; see 2 Chr. 28:2–4).

16:5 Because of Ahaz’s sin god delivered him into the hands of an alliance of the two kings Rezin and Pekah (see 15:37). A great slaughter followed, and a complete deportation of Judah was averted only by divine intervention (2 Chr. 28:5–15).

16:6 Azariah had recovered Elath for Judah (see 14:22), now this major port city (see 1 Kin. 9:26) was taken from Judah. to this day:

that is, the day of the narration of these events.

16:7–9 Ahaz’s request of Tiglath-Pileser iii coincides with the Assyrian king’s second western campaign (734–732 B.C.) that eventually brought about the fall of Damascus in 732 B.C. and the replacement of Pekah with Hoshea on the throne of Israel in the same year. Tiglath-Pileser listed the tribute of both Hoshea and Ahaz in connection with his campaigning.

16:10–15 Having been summoned to Damascus by Tiglath-Pileser iii, Ahaz saw a pagan altar that suited his tastes. His use of the altar to make sacrifices to god underscored Ahaz’s essential paganism. His paganism was also evident in his many other religious innovations (vv. 14–18; 2 Chr. 28:2–4, 22–25). Ahaz went so far in his apostasy as to shut the doors of the temple (2 Chr. 28:24).

17:1 twelfth year: Hoshea became king in 732 B.C., so the 12 years of Ahaz indicate a period of coregency with his father Jotham, perhaps arranged due to the pressures of Tiglath-Pileser’s first western campaign (744–743 B.C.). Hoshea: the name means “salvation.”

of Israel who were before him. <sup>3b</sup>Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against him; and Hoshea <sup>c</sup>became his vassal, and paid him tribute money. <sup>4</sup>And the king of Assyria uncovered a conspiracy by Hoshea; for he had sent messengers to So, king of Egypt, and brought no tribute to the king of Assyria, as he had done year by year. Therefore the king of Assyria shut him up, and bound him in prison.

Israel Carried Captive to Assyria

and My statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by My servants the prophets.” <sup>14</sup>Nevertheless they would not hear, but <sup>t</sup>stiffened their necks, like the necks of their fathers, who <sup>u</sup>did not believe in the LORD their God. <sup>15</sup>And they <sup>v</sup>rejected His statutes <sup>w</sup>and His covenant that He had made with their fathers, and His testimonies which He had testified against them; they followed <sup>x</sup>idols, <sup>y</sup>became idolaters, and went after the nations who were all around them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them that they should <sup>z</sup>not do like them. <sup>16</sup>So they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, <sup>a</sup>made for themselves a molded image and two calves, <sup>b</sup>made a wooden image and worshiped all the <sup>c</sup>host of heaven, <sup>d</sup>and served Baal. <sup>17e</sup>And they caused their sons and daughters to pass through the fire, <sup>f</sup>practiced witchcraft and soothsaying, and <sup>g</sup>sold themselves to do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger. <sup>18</sup>Therefore the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them from His sight; there was none left <sup>h</sup>but the tribe of Judah alone.

<sup>19</sup>Also <sup>i</sup>Judah did not keep the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the statutes of Israel which they made. <sup>20</sup>And the LORD rejected all the descendants of Israel, afflicted them, and <sup>j</sup>delivered them into the hand of plunderers, until He had cast them from His <sup>k</sup>sight. <sup>21</sup>For <sup>l</sup>He tore Israel from the house of David, and <sup>m</sup>they made Jeroboam the son of Nebat king. Then Jeroboam drove Israel from following the LORD, and made them commit a great sin. <sup>22</sup>For the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did; they did not depart from them, <sup>23</sup>until the LORD removed Israel out of His sight, <sup>n</sup>as He had said by all His servants the prophets. <sup>o</sup>So Israel was carried away from their own land to Assyria, as it is to this day.

17:3 Shalmaneser V succeeded Tiglath-Pileser III as king of Assyria in 727 B.C.

17:4 conspiracy by Hoshea: several elements of intrigue and international affairs may have entered into the picture here. transitions in power were often occasions for rebellion or attempted overthrow. Further, a new strong man had appeared in Egypt—Tefnekht, a pharaoh of the twenty-fourth dynasty. the time may have seemed ripe for Hoshea to enter into an anti-Assyrian coalition.

17:5, 6 After a three-year siege, samaria fell to the Assyrians in 722 B.C. sargon, the field commander of shalmaneser V who succeeded him to the throne, would later claim that it was he who took Samaria. it was ancient practice to deport large numbers of influential citizens of a conquered country or city to decrease the possibility of rebellion (see 25:11, 12; Ezek. 1:2, 3).

17:7 Israel had sinned: the reason for the fall of samaria and the end of the northern kingdom is clearly stated to be its spiritual failure, in turning from the living god to worship other gods that exist only in people's depraved imagination. the rehearsal that follows of israel's spiritual adultery (vv. 9–17) makes it clear that israel had grown thoroughly corrupt from the leaders on down (vv. 7–9, 21). Despite repeated warnings (vv. 13, 14, 23), israel had persisted in every form of idolatry and licentious worship (vv. 10–12, 16, 17).

17:21 Jeroboam . . . made them . . . sin: Jeroboam I had initiated the state worship that in effect set the standard for all of israel's idolatrous activities. the worship of the calves at Dan and Bethel, and israel's fascination with Baal (v. 16; see 1 Kin. 12:28, 29; 16:32, 33), are repeatedly cited as the chief causes of israel's spiritual defeat and political collapse. Jeroboam I's heresy was a standard of wickedness for the kings who followed him in the northern kingdom.

Assyria Resettles Samaria

them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel; and they took possession of Samaria and dwelt in its cities. <sup>25</sup> And it was so, at the beginning

17:24 t he king of Assyria was probably sargon ii (722–705 B.C.), although the practice described here was continued by later kings as well, such a mixing of populations would break down ethnic dis-

Exile of the Northern Kingdom

t he mass deportation policy of the Assyrians was a companion piece to the brutal and calculated terror initiated by Ashurnasirpal and followed by all his successors. it was intended to forestall revolts but, like all Draconian measures, it merely spread misery and engendered hatred. in the end, it hastened the disintegration of the Assyrian Empire.

t here is some evidence that israel experienced its first deportations under tiglath-Pileser iii (745–727 B.C.), a cruelty repeated by sargon ii (721–705 B.C.) at the time of the fall of samaria. t he latter king's inscriptions boast of carrying away 27,290 inhabitants of the city "as plunder." According to 2 Kin. 17:6, they were sent to Assyria, to Halah, to gozan on the Habor r iver, and apparently to the eastern frontiers of the empire (to the towns of the Medes, most probably somewhere in the vicinity of Ecbatana, the modern Hamadan).

t he sequel is provided by the inscriptions of sargon: "t he Arabs who live far away in the desert, who know neither overseers nor officials, and who had not yet brought their tribute to any king, i deported ... and settled them in samaria."

Much mythology has developed around the theme of the so-called ten lost tribes of israel. A close examination of Assyrian records reveals that the deportations approximated only a limited percentage of the population, usually consisting of noble families. Agricultural workers, no doubt the majority, were deliberately left to care for the crops (cf. the Babylonian practice, 2 Kin. 24:14; 25:12).

of their dwelling there, that they did not fear the LORD; therefore the LORD sent lions among them, which killed some of them. <sup>26</sup> So they spoke to the king of Assyria, saying, “The nations whom you have removed and placed in the cities of Samaria do not know the rituals of the God of the land; therefore He has sent lions among them, and indeed, they are killing them because they do not know the rituals of the God of the land.” <sup>27</sup> Then the king of Assyria commanded, saying, “Send there one of the priests whom you brought from there; let him go and dwell there, and let him teach them the rituals of the God of the land.” <sup>28</sup> Then one of the priests whom they had carried away from Samaria came and dwelt in Bethel, and taught them how they should fear the LORD.

<sup>34</sup> To this day they continue practicing the former rituals; they do not fear the LORD, nor do they follow their statutes or their ordinances, or the law and commandment which the LORD had commanded the children of Jacob, <sup>x</sup> whom He

Hezekiah Reigns in Judah

18 Now it came to pass in the third year of <sup>a</sup> Hoshea the son of Elah, king of Israel, that <sup>b</sup> Hezekiah the son of Ahaz, king of Judah, began to reign. <sup>2</sup> He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother’s name was <sup>c</sup> Abi <sup>1</sup> the daughter of Zechariah. <sup>3</sup> And he did what was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father David had done.

17:28 one of the priests: Although a deported israelite priest was sent back to instruct the samaritan population in the worship of the Lord, the end result was a mixture of various forms of paganism with the apostate religion of the northern kingdom (vv. 30–33, 40, 41). in the course of time, both the samaritans and their religion were rejected by the Jews (see John 4:9; 8:48).

17:34–39 A double charge is laid against the samaritans: t they did not worship the Lord, and they did not keep the laws and ordinances laid down by the Lord of the covenant. t the author reminds all concerned that only the Lord is israel’s redeemer.

18:1, 2 t the third year of Hoshea is 729 B.C. t he 29 years of Hezekiah’s reign thus include a period of coregency with his father Ahaz before he ruled independently (715–699 B.C.). t he name Hezekiah

18:3 t he assessment of Hezekiah begins similar to that of his predecessors, but it goes on to transcend the evaluations of “relative righteousness” that are typical of the other kings of Judah (see 15:34, 35).

18:4 Consistently, the kings who preceded Hezekiah are criticized by the author for not destroying the high places (15:34, 35). While there were traditions of worship of the true god at these locations, far too often they became sites for the licentious worship of Baal and Asherah. Hezekiah’s reforms included not only the destruction of the pagan cult objects introduced in the days of his apostate father Ahaz, but the bronze serpent that had been preserved since the days of Moses (2 Chr. 29–31). symbols all too easily can be made into objects of veneration. Apparently such had become the case with this precious ancient object.

18:5, 6 none like him: Hezekiah’s faith was unparalleled by any other king who had preceded him after the time of David; Josiah’s adherence to the law would be extolled in a similar manner (23:25). t the fact of Hezekiah’s faith forms the basis for the account that fol-

The Danger of Relics

Jesus said, “god is spirit, and those who worship Him must worship in spirit and truth” (John 4:24). That means that we worship and serve a god whom we cannot see with our eyes but must believe with our hearts. As a result, god is a bit of an abstraction for some people. One way that they have tried to make Him more real and present is through artifacts that they have associated with Him.

Yet as understandable as the veneration of relics may be, it is a dangerous practice. It can easily tempt people to worship the object rather than the god whom the object is supposed to point to. In essence, the relic becomes a focus of idolatry.

That happened with a number of items that the Israelites venerated, including the bronze serpent that Moses had made during the Exodus journey (2 Kin. 18:4). Originally, the serpent on the pole had served as a means of healing by causing those bit by a snake to look to the Lord for help. But after the people settled in the Promised Land, they apparently turned this standard into an idol, as if the bronze serpent itself had power to heal. They burned incense to it and even gave it a name, nēhushtan.

Similarly, the Israelites turned a ceremonial robe, or ephod, that Gideon made from the spoils of his victory over the Midianites, into an idol (Judg. 8:25–27). Later they tried to use the ark of the covenant as a charm against the Philistines, with disastrous results (1 Sam. 4:1–11).

These examples show the dangers of making too much of objects and places that have had a close association with the work of god. As human beings, we live in the natural world, but we worship a supernatural god. Therefore, we need to treat shrines and relics merely as means toward that end, never as ends in themselves.

talents of gold. Because Hezekiah trusted the Lord, he could courageously withstand Assyrian tyranny. The northern kingdom fell to King Shalmaneser V in 722 B.C. because it did not keep god’s holy standards (vv. 9–12), but Hezekiah’s trust and faithfulness would let him face the later invasion of King Sennacherib (701 B.C.) and receive divine help (19:32–36).

18:7, 8 In addition to refusing to serve any longer as a vassal of Assyria, Hezekiah also conquered the Philistines. This helped establish Judah as an independent nation and new power in the region. No longer was Judah under the threat of military incursions from neighboring states simply because of its weakness.

18:13 Hezekiah’s fourteenth year of sole rule was 701 B.C. The details of the generally rebellious situation that provoked Sennacherib to invade the western portion of his empire are recounted in his annals, where Hezekiah is particularly mentioned for his involvement in the whole affair.

18:14 I have done wrong: Literally, “I have sinned.” Hezekiah had refused to be a vassal of Assyria and was now threatened by their army. The annals of Sennacherib report how he made a wide-ranging invasion of Judah. With the Assyrian army already at Lachish, Hezekiah felt an overwhelming sense of doom. One of Sennacherib’s inscriptions describes the siege of Lachish and reports the heavy tribute demanded from Hezekiah. His fulfillment of Sennach-erib’s demands (vv. 14–16) doubtless whetted the conqueror’s appetite for additional booty. Therefore Sennacherib placed Jerusalem

done wrong

The meaning of this verb is “to miss (a target)” or “to fall short (of a goal).” The word expresses this basic meaning in Judg. 20:16, where it is translated miss: “every one could sling a stone at a hair’s breadth and not miss.” When applied to ethics, the word implies falling short of a moral requirement. The word is the most common OT expression for sin. Several nouns are derived from the verb, including chet' “sin” or “guilt” (is. 53:12), chatta' “sinful men” (num. 32:14), and chatta't “sin offering” (Lev. 4:3). In the NT, Paul also defined sin as “falling short”: “for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of god” (r om. 3:23). But then Paul offered the perfect remedy for our fallen condition: salvation through Jesus Christ (r om. 3:24).

18:15, 16 t his removal from the temple of immense amounts of silver, gold, and precious objects followed an earlier despoiling in the days of Amaziah (see 14:14).

18:17 Tartan . . . Rabsaris . . . Rabshakeh: t these titles suggest persons of high station in Assyria. a great army: t the accounts of the Assyrian kings suggest that they had mounted the largest armies known in the ancient Middle East. t his huge army was stationed in the land of Judah. Fuller's Field was in the northwest corner of the city, the area most vulnerable to attack.

18:18 Eliakim was the senior palace administrator (see 15:5), and Shebna was the royal scribe. t his verse indicates that Eliakim had already replaced s hebna in the office of senior palace administrator, as mentioned in is. 22:15-25.

18:19 in the literature of the ancient Middle East, the term great king was reserved for a king of a major power. Here the Assyrian delegation delivered an ultimatum from the "great king" of Assyria to Jerusalem.

18:20 t he r abshakeh questioned the object of Hezekiah's trust. Perhaps Hezekiah's reputation for trusting in god was already widely known (v. 5). trusting became the focal point of the Assyrian's psychological warfare (vv. 19-22, 24, 30).

18:21 Because Egypt depended upon the life-giving Nile with its reeds, the figure of a broken reed is most appropriate. Actually sennacherib's warning against confidence in Egypt was well taken, the point having been made previously by isaiah (is. 30:3-5; 31:1-3). 18:23 if you are able: t he Assyrian official's taunt is that the israelites do not have enough men and that the men they have are not trained for the coming conflict.

18:25 The LORD said: t he Assyrians may have been aware of prophecies concerning the judgment of Judah and Jerusalem and Assyria's own role as god's avengers (is. 10:5-11). t the remark was intended to introduce stark terror into the hearts of the people of Jerusalem (see 2 Chr. 32:18) by pointing out that now even their god was against them.

18:26 since Aramaic was by this time the language of international communication, it might be expected that the r abshakeh would carry on diplomatic negotiations with officials in Judah and avoid speaking the Hebrew of the common citizens. But the Assyrians loved speaking to people in their native dialect to make the intimidation more effective.

18:27 their own waste: t he r abshakeh portrayed the potential horror of the coming siege by using an obscene expression. t he words were drawn from street language.

18:29-32 trust in the LORD: t he matter of trust (vv. 19-24) continued as an issue. t he r abshakeh tempted the israelites to abandon their trust in the Lord and trust in sennacherib instead. t hen the promised covenantal blessings (vv. 31, 32; see Deut. 8:8; Mic. 4:4; Zech. 3:10) could all be theirs. t he repeated use of the words Do not listen to Hezekiah (vv. 22, 29, 30) was designed to lead the people to rebellion against their king. Moreover, he presented you away to a land like your own land, <sup>a</sup>a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olive groves and honey, that you may live and not die. But do not listen to Hezekiah, lest he persuade you, saying, “The LORD will deliver us.” <sup>33f</sup>Has any of the gods of the nations at all delivered its land from the hand of the king of Assyria? <sup>34</sup>Where are the gods of <sup>g</sup>Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim and Hena and <sup>h</sup>Ivah? Indeed, have they delivered Samaria from my hand? <sup>35</sup>Who among all the gods of the lands have delivered their countries from my hand, <sup>i</sup>that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem from my hand?”

19 And <sup>a</sup>so it was, when King Hezekiah heard it, that he tore his clothes, covered himself with <sup>b</sup>sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD. <sup>2</sup>Then he sent Eliakim, who was over the household, Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz. <sup>3</sup>And they said to him, “Thus says Hezekiah: ‘This day is a day of trouble, and rebuke, and blasphemy; for the children have come to birth, but there is no strength to <sup>l</sup>bring them forth. <sup>4c</sup>It

<sup>5</sup>So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah. <sup>6f</sup>And Isaiah said to them, “Thus you shall say to your master, ‘Thus says the LORD: “Do not be <sup>g</sup>afraid of the words which you have heard, with which the <sup>h</sup>servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed Me. <sup>7</sup>Surely I will send <sup>i</sup>a spirit upon him, and he shall hear a rumor and return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.”’”

Sennacherib’s Threat and Hezekiah’s Prayer

<sup>8</sup>Then the Rabshakeh returned and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah, for he heard that he had departed <sup>j</sup>from Lachish. <sup>9</sup>And <sup>k</sup>the king heard concerning Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, “Look, he has come out to make war with you.” So he again sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying, <sup>10</sup>“Thus you shall speak to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying: ‘Do not let your God <sup>l</sup>in whom you trust deceive you, saying, “Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.” <sup>11</sup>Look! You have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands by utterly destroying them; and shall you be delivered? <sup>12</sup><sup>m</sup>Have the gods of the nations delivered those whom my fathers have destroyed, Gozan and Haran and Rezeph, and the people of <sup>n</sup>Eden who were in Telassar? <sup>13</sup><sup>o</sup>Where is the king his land as a wonderful place for them to live in.

18:33–35 t he r abshakeh’s assertion that none of the gods of the nations who had opposed Assyria had withstood the Assyrian king is both another aspect of the continued psychological warfare and another evidence of the r abshakeh’s awareness of isaiah’s prophetic words (see v. 25; is. 10:7–11).

19:1 h e tore his clothes: tearing of clothes was often a sign of grief (6:30) or of sorrowful repentance (see Joel 2:12, 13). t he humility of the king was evidenced in this action, one already performed by his trusted servants (see 18:37). in addition to humbling himself, the king went into the house of the LORD. t hat is, he sought guidance from the living god.

19:2 t he ministry of the great prophet Isaiah had begun in the year that Uziah or Azariah died (see is. 6:1), nearly four decades earlier (740 B.C.). Once isaiah had sought out Judah’s godless King Ahaz to minister to him (is. 7:3); now the prophet was being sought by the godly Hezekiah. isaiah participated in the events of Hezekiah’s reign, and the details of 18:13–20:19 are also recorded in is. 36–39.

19:3 day of trouble: t he Hebrew phrase translated here indicates not only the great danger of the present Assyrian crisis, but the distress that Hezekiah felt. Hezekiah realized that the Lord’s corrective chastisement had come upon Judah and Jerusalem. t he closing proverb using the imagery of birth (see Hos. 13:13) stresses the need for god’s intervening strength if Jerusalem were to be delivered.

19:4 hear . . . reproach: t he first verb does not suggest that god might not be aware of the words of the r abshakeh. r ather, the words describe god as determining to redress the wrong.

19:6, 7 isaiah’s prophecy was one of comfort. n ot only would sennacherib fail to conquer Jerusalem, but he would face a violent death upon his return home. Both points of the prophetic message would come true, although sennacherib was not assassinated until 20 years later (c. 681 B.C.). in his annals sennacherib boasts of five more campaigns; however, he makes no mention of any other invasions of Judah.

19:8 returned . . . departed: t he r abshakeh had been doing everything in his power to persuade Jerusalem to surrender without being attacked. But when he returned with his report, he found that his king was already distracted with another war and had already moved his army away. still, the r abshakeh did not give up, as v. 9 describes.

19:9 since Tirhakah did not become king until 690 B.C., there is an apparent problem in the chronology of this verse. However, it is possible that the biblical author merely calls t irhakah by the title he was best known by at the time of writing.

19:12 t his is not the Eden of genesis, but an area known today as Bit-Adini, south of Haran (see Ezek. 27:23; Amos 1:5).

of Hamath, the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Iyah?”

<sup>14</sup> And Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it; and Hezekiah went up to the house of the LORD, and spread it before the LORD. <sup>15</sup> Then Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and said: “O LORD God of Israel, the One <sup>q</sup> who dwells between the cherubim, <sup>r</sup> You are God, You alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth. You have made heaven and earth. <sup>16</sup> Incline Your ear, O LORD, and hear; <sup>t</sup> open Your eyes, O LORD, and see; and hear the words of Sennacherib, “which he has sent to reproach the living God. <sup>17</sup> Truly, LORD, the kings of Assyria have laid waste the nations and their lands, <sup>18</sup> and have cast their gods into the fire; for they were <sup>v</sup> not gods, but <sup>w</sup> the work of men’s hands—wood and stone. ### The Word of the LORD Concerning Sennacherib

And its choice cypress trees;
I will enter the extremity of its borders,
To its fruitful forest.

All the brooks of defense.”

They were dismayed and confounded;
They were as the grass of the field

19:14 in a great act of faith, Hezekiah brought sennacherib’s threatening letter before the LORD. Of course, Hezekiah understood that the Lord already knew the contents of the letter. But by this symbolic action, Hezekiah expressed his own utter dependence on god for deliverance.

19:15–19 Hezekiah prayed: Hezekiah knew that there is a greater King than the king of Assyria (18:19). Hezekiah’s trust in the Lord was demonstrated in his habit of prayer (see 20:2), and his prayer was answered favorably (vv. 20–34).

19:20 Isaiah gave him a direct answer from the Lord. t his helps explain one of the ways in which the Lord spoke to the kings during the monarchy. Prophets could communicate the message from god to the king. Because you have prayed: t he Lord rewarded His king with a promise of deliverance based in large part on his practical faith in god.

19:21 The virgin: Here we sense god’s approval of Jerusalem. When god speaks to His people concerning their sin, His speech can be direct, confrontational, and sometimes scathing. But when He speaks to others about His people and His city, He uses favorable language. t hey are, on the ideal level, like a virgin daughter to Him.

the daughter of Zion: As elsewhere in the Ot (see Zeph. 3:14), this phrase should be written “daughter Zion,” without the “of.” Zion does not have a daughter; rather, Zion is the daughter. Zion (Jerusalem) is god’s daughter whom He will guard and protect as only a father would.

19:22–24 god’s answer to Hezekiah’s prayer came once again (see vv. 6, 7) through isaiah (vv. 20, 21). Holy One of Israel is characteristic of isaiah’s own manner of referring to god. He uses the phrase 26 times (see is. 6:3). sennacherib needed to know that his boastful pride blasphemed the sovereign and holy god of all nations. t he verses that follow indicate that god knew not only the boasts, but the most inward thoughts of the Assyrian king.

19:25, 26 Did you not hear: Here the Lord answered the sarcasm of the r abshakeh (18:17–25). in the manner of an ancient insult, god both asserted His own work on behalf of Judah and ridiculed the enemy who seemed completely unaware of reality.

19:27, 28 But I know: t he Assyrians had a great gap in their understanding of reality; they did not include the living god in their processes. But they, in turn, were fully known. Hook and bridle are used to restrain animals (see Ps. 32:9; Ezek. 19:4). Because the Assyrian kings often treated their prisoners of war in such fashion,

28 Because your rage against Me and your tumult
Have come up to My ears, Therefore <sup>l</sup>I will put My hook in your nose
And My bridle in your lips,
And I will turn you back
<sup>m</sup>By the way which you came.

29 ‘This shall be a <sup>n</sup>sign to you:

You shall eat this year such as grows
<sup>2</sup>of itself,
And in the second year what springs from the same;
Also in the third year sow and reap,
Plant vineyards and eat the fruit of them.

30 <sup>o</sup>And the remnant who have escaped of the house of Judah
Shall again take root downward,
And bear fruit upward.

31 For out of Jerusalem shall go a remnant,
And those who escape from Mount Zion.

<sup>p</sup>The zeal of the LORD <sup>3</sup>of hosts will do this.’

32 “Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the king of Assyria:

‘He shall <sup>q</sup>not come into this city,
Nor shoot an arrow there,
Nor come before it with shield,
Nor build a siege mound against it.

33 By the way that he came,
By the same shall he return;
And he shall not come into this city,’
Says the LORD.

Sennacherib's Defeat and Death

35 And “it came to pass on a certain night that the <sup>4</sup>angel of the LORD went out, and killed in the camp of the Assyrians one hundred and eighty-five thousand; and when people arose early in the morning, there were the corpses—all dead. 36 So Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and went away, returned home, and remained at <sup>v</sup>Nineveh. 37 Now it came to pass, as he was worshiping in the temple of Nisroch his god, that his sons
him down with the sword; and they escaped into the land of Ararat. Then <sup>y</sup>Esarhaddon his son reigned in his place.

Hezekiah's Life Extended

20 In <sup>a</sup>those days Hezekiah was sick and near death. And Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, went to him and said to him, “Thus says the LORD: ‘Set your house in order, for you shall die,
and not live.’”

<sup>2</sup>Then he turned his face toward the wall, and prayed to the LORD, saying, <sup>3b</sup>“Remember now, O LORD, I pray, how I have walked before You in truth and with a loyal heart, and have done what was good in Your sight.” And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

gone out into the middle court, that the word of the LORD came to him, saying, <sup>5</sup>“Return and tell Hezekiah <sup>c</sup>the leader of My people, ‘Thus says the LORD, the God of David your father: <sup>d</sup>“I have heard your prayer, I have seen <sup>e</sup>your tears; surely I will heal you. On the third day you shall go up to the house of the LORD. <sup>6</sup>And I will add to your days fifteen years. I will deliver you and this city from the hand sennacherib would understand the threat only too well.

19:29 god graciously gave Hezekiah a sign (see also 20:9–11) of His good intentions for His people. Despite the fact that the Assyrian invasion had adversely affected the crops for that year and the next, by the third year the fields would again yield a plentiful harvest. Even as a natural growth would remain for the two years preceding the harvest of the third year, so god left in israel a spiritual remnant that would in a future day swell into a mighty harvest of souls (see Joel 2:12–14; Mic. 2:12, 13; Zeph. 3:8–20).

19:30, 31 the promises in these verses were both for the immediate situation, for more remote times of regathering, and ultimately the final regathering of the Jewish people into their land in the time of the coming Messiah. zeal: the authenticating sign for the accomplishment of this promise is the solemn oath of god Himself (see is. 9:7).

19:32 not come into this city: While sennacherib later boasted of taking some 46 Judean cities, with reference to Jerusalem he could only report that he made Hezekiah “prisoner in Jerusalem, his royal residence, like a bird in a cage.” god’s defense and deliverance of Jerusalem demonstrated his faithfulness to the Davidic covenant (v. 34) in the face of blasphemous insults (vv. 22, 23, 27, 28; see 18:34, 35).

19:34 I . . . My own sake: As in the case of the redemption of israel from Egypt at the time of the Exodus, so in the deliverance of israel from the present trouble, god Himself would do it. He would not delegate the work of salvation to a lesser power.

19:36 departed: As god had promised through His prophet isaiah (vv. 32–34), sennacherib did not come against the city of Jerusalem.

19:37 the name Nisroch has been identified as the god n usku or a corrupted form of Marduk, the traditional god of Mesopotamia. the events depicted here took place 20 years after god’s deliverance of Jerusalem. When his father was assassinated, Esarhaddon took the throne and ruled from 681 to 668 B.C.

20:2, 3 Contrast the action of the sick Hezekiah with that of Ahaziah in 1:1, 2. Hezekiah was a great man of prayer (see also 19:1, 14, 15). I have walked before You: Hezekiah’s prayer recognized that although all of life is in god’s hands, god is also a r ewarder of those who faithfully serve Him (see Deut. 5:30–33; 30:15, 16). Hezekiah’s habit of prayer would once again serve him well (see vv. 5, 6; 19:14–19).

20:4–6 the pattern of divine revelation to Hezekiah was through His prophet isaiah (see 19:20); compare also the word of god through Jonah to King Jeroboam ii (see 14:25). defend this city: the Lord promised deliverance for Jerusalem.

Gihon

gihon was a spring outside the walls of Jerusalem where the city obtained part of its water supply (2 Chr. 32:30). The Canaanite inhabitants of ancient Jerusalem, or Jebus, had used and protected the spring in their fortifications. When David and his soldiers conquered Jebus, they entered it through the water shaft that led from the spring into the city (2 Sam. 5:8). Inhabitants of Jerusalem continued to use gihon and its water channel. King Hezekiah channeled the water more elaborately when he constructed the famous siloam tunnel in 701 B.C. as part of the city's preparation against the siege of the Assyrians (2 Kin. 20:20).

Gihon was the site where Solomon was anointed and proclaimed king (1 Kin. 1:33, 38, 45). Some scholars believe it later became customary for the new king to drink from the waters of gihon during his coronation ceremony (Ps. 110:7).

of the king of Assyria; and I will defend this city for My own sake, and for the sake of My servant David.””

<sup>7</sup>Then <sup>g</sup>Isaiah said, “Take a lump of figs.” So they took and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.

<sup>8</sup>And Hezekiah said to Isaiah, <sup>h</sup>“What is the sign that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up to the house of the LORD the third day?”

<sup>9</sup>Then Isaiah said, <sup>i</sup>“This is the sign to you from the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing which He has spoken: shall the shadow go forward ten degrees or go backward ten degrees?”

letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that Hezekiah had been sick. <sup>13</sup>And <sup>l</sup>Hezekiah was attentive to them, and showed them all the house of his treasures—the silver and gold, the spices and precious ointment, and <sup>4</sup>all <sup>5</sup>his armor—all that was found among his treasures. There was nothing in his house or in all his dominion that Hezekiah did not show them.

<sup>14</sup>Then Isaiah the prophet went to King Hezekiah, and said to him, “What did these men say, and from where did they come to you?”

So Hezekiah said, “They came from a far country, from Babylon.”

<sup>15</sup>And he said, “What have they seen in your house?”

So Hezekiah answered, <sup>m</sup>“They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shown them.”

20:7 The practice of applying figs to an ulcerated sore is well attested in the records of the ancient Middle East, being mentioned as early as the Ras Shamra (Ugaritic) tablets of the second millennium B.C.

20:9 Once more the Lord provided a sign of His superintending intervention (see 19:29–31). Unlike his father Ahaz who cared little about a divine sign (see is. 7:12), Hezekiah welcomed it (see vv. 10, 11). Hezekiah's underlying trust in the Lord (see 18:5) surfaced repeatedly throughout his reign.

20:12 Berodach-Baladan, or more properly Merodach-Baladan, was a Chaldean king who twice ruled in Babylon (721–710, 703 B.C.). A perennial enemy of Assyria, he was twice defeated by them and cast out from Babylon. His search for allies in his resistance to Assyria may have occasioned the embassy to Hezekiah, especially because he had heard of Hezekiah's miraculous deliverance from the Assyrian army (2 Chr. 32:31).

20:12–15 One of the remarkable features of the Bible is that it does not gloss over the faults of its best heroes and heroines. This is a case in point. His account of the foolishness of Hezekiah follows immediately on the narrative of his great trust in the Lord (vv. 1–11).

20:16–18 Isaiah's messages of judgment were as important as his messages of mercy (see ch. 19; 20:1–11). all . . . shall be carried to Babylon: Hezekiah's enthusiastic reception of Merodach-Baladan's ambassadors and disclosure of his wealth to them would be remembered in a future time when Babylon was no longer Judah's friend. Even before the fall of Jerusalem to Babylon (586 B.C.), Hezekiah's son Manasseh was carried off to Babylon by an Assyrian king (see 2 Chr. 33:11). Isaiah pointed out Hezekiah's foolishness.

they shall take away some of your sons who will <sup>6</sup>descend from you, whom you will beget; <sup>p</sup>and they shall be <sup>q</sup>eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.”

<sup>19</sup>So Hezekiah said to Isaiah, <sup>r</sup>“The word of the LORD which you have spoken is good!” For he said, “Will there not be peace and truth at least in my days?”

Death of Hezekiah

Manasseh Reigns in Judah

through the fire, practiced <sup>j</sup>soothsaying, used witchcraft, and consulted spiritists and mediums. He did much evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger. <sup>7</sup>He even set a carved image of <sup>4</sup>Asherah that he had made, in the <sup>5</sup>house of which the LORD had said to David and to Solomon his son, <sup>k</sup>“In this house and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put My name forever; <sup>8</sup>and I will not make the feet of Israel wander anymore from the land which I gave their fathers—only if they are careful to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that My servant Moses commanded them.” <sup>9</sup>But they paid no attention, and Manasseh <sup>m</sup>seduced them to do more evil than the nations whom the LORD had destroyed before the children of Israel.

20:19 The word . . . is good: Although Hezekiah recognized that Isaiah's dire prophecy was for a future day, he humbly acknowledged his folly in putting his people in danger.

20:20, 21 a pool and a tunnel: Hezekiah dug a tunnel between the spring of Gihon and the Pool of Siloam to bring a ready supply of water within the eastern wall of Jerusalem, a deed that would prove especially helpful in time of siege.

21:1 Manasseh: This wicked king bore the same name as the older son of Joseph (gen. 41:51). His reign of fifty-five years (697–642 B.C.) was the longest of any of the kings of the divided kingdom. Externally, the period was one of political stability; it is known as the Assyrian Peace, an era in which the kings Esarhaddon (681–668 B.C.) and Ashurbanipal (668–626 B.C.) reigned and brought the Assyrian Empire to its zenith. However, the length of Manasseh's reign does not indicate a good rule, but rather God's persevering mercy and faithfulness to the Davidic covenant (see 2 Chr. 33:10–13).

21:3 high places . . . Baal . . . wooden image: All that Hezekiah had done removing the wickedness of Canaanite religion from Israel was reversed by his son. The wording suggests not simply that he allowed the rebuilding of these obscene images, but that he actively directed their construction. host of heaven: Worship of heavenly bodies was strictly forbidden in the law of God (Deut. 4:19; 17:2–7) and was condemned strongly by Israel's prophets (see is. 47:13; Amos 5:26). Yet Manasseh paid no attention to either the law or the prophets (vv. 7, 8; 2 Chr. 33:2–10).

21:4–9 the list of religious outrages of Manasseh seems unbelievably perverse. He even brought objects of pagan worship and obscene symbols of the fertility religion of Canaan into the temple itself (see vv. 4, 5, 7). All that had been accomplished by the relatively godly kings following the purge of Jehu (see 15:34) and by the very godly king Hezekiah (see 18:4–6) was undone by this reprobate. But wicked as Manasseh was, God heard his prayer when he repented and did good (see 2 Chr. 33:12–16).

21:10 the author of Chronicles (2 Chr. 33:10, 11) reports that Manasseh's failure to heed the prophets of God led to his being taken prisoner by the Assyrian king. The chronicler also reports Manasseh's repentance, restoration, and subsequent reform efforts (2 Chr. 33:12, 13, 15, 16), all of which came too late to stop Judah's ongoing apostasy. As a result, with the accession of Manasseh's son Amon (642–640 B.C.), Judah's spiritual wickedness surfaced again (vv. 20–22).

21:12 his ears will tingle: the announcement of such a fearsome judgment was designed to bring the king to repentance. If God's purpose were merely to bring judgment, He would have done so without an announcement.

21:13 the measuring line of Samaria: the figures in this verse are marvelously powerful. If the people had any realization of the horrors that had befallen their sister city to the north, they would not want to be “measured” by the same implements that had designed Samaria's destruction. as one wipes a dish: God would soon bring a judgment so terrible that it would never be forgotten.

21:14 God's declaration that He would forsake the remnant does of My inheritance and deliver them into the hand of their enemies; and they shall become victims of plunder to all their enemies, <sup>15</sup>because they have done evil in My sight, and have provoked Me to anger since the day their fathers came out of Egypt, even to this day.”

<sup>16</sup>w Moreover Manasseh shed very much innocent blood, till he had filled Jerusalem from one end to another, besides his sin by which he made Judah sin, in doing evil in the sight of the LORD.

Amon's Reign and Death

<sup>19</sup>a Amon was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Meshullemeth the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah. <sup>20</sup>And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, <sup>b</sup>as his father Manasseh had done. <sup>21</sup>So he walked in all the ways that his father had walked; and he served the idols that his father had served, and worshiped them. <sup>22</sup>He <sup>c</sup>forsook the LORD God of his fathers, and did not walk in the way of the LORD.

Josiah Reigns in Judah

22 Josiah <sup>a</sup>was eight years old when he became king, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jedidah the daughter of Adaiah of <sup>b</sup>Bozkath. <sup>2</sup>And he did what was right in the sight of the LORD, and walked in all the ways of his father David; he <sup>c</sup>did not turn aside to the right hand or to the left.

Hilkiah Finds the Book of the Law

not mean He would abolish the Davidic covenant (see Ps. 89:30-37). Rather, the meaning of god's word here is that Judah, the political remnant of god's kingdom (17:18), would also know chastisement for its sin.

21:15 since the day: the story of the Ot is not a record of god's anger, but of the delay of the exercise of His wrath.

21:16 innocent blood: in times of deep wickedness true believers often lose their lives (see Joel 3:19). innocent blood may also refer to human sacrifice (v. 6; 2 Chr. 33:6).

21:18 garden of Uzza: His burial place apparently was not among the other kings of Judah. Some have suggested that the garden of Uzza was a sacred shrine to an astral deity.

21:19-22 Amon: His wicked king followed in the path of his father Manasseh, much as Ahaziah of Israel followed in the path of his father Ahab (see 1 Kin. 22:51-53).

21:23, 24 conspired against him: no reason is assigned for the conspiracy that brought about Amon's assassination. While it may have had some connection with the international crisis that precipitated Ashurbanipal's renewed attention to the west, Amon's own wickedness may have provided a sufficient cause. The assassins were themselves executed.

22:1 the name Josiah means “the Lord supports.” Like the name of Cyrus (is. 44:28; 45:1) and of the city of Bethlehem (Mic. 5:2), the name Josiah was announced by a prophet long before the time of his birth (see 1 Kin. 13:1, 2).

22:2 what was right: the young Josiah apparently was in the hands of godly advisors, one of whom may have been the prophet Zephaniah. In any case, his own concern for righteousness led to reform early in his reign (see 2 Chr. 34:3-7).

22:3 in his eighteenth year of reign (c. 622 B.C.), Josiah began extensive repairs on the temple (vv. 4-7; 2 Chr. 34:8-13).

22:4 Hilkiah the high priest: his man was a major figure in the revival of true religion that young Josiah accomplished. The work of restoring the temple was under his direction.

22:5-7 the careful accounting for the money used in the restoration of the temple is akin to that in the time of King Joash of Judah and of gardens that belonged to kings (25:4; neh. 3:15) were actually royal parks. Occasionally, parts of royal gardens might be used for purposes such as vegetable gardens (1 Kin. 21:2) or even burial grounds (21:18, 26). When ordinary people owned gardens, their main function was to produce food (num. 24:6; Jer. 29:5). gardens are spoken of symbolically in the Bible as portraits of happiness and fruitfulness. For example, the lovers in the song of Solomon compared one another to a garden of delights (song 4:12; 5:1; 8:13). The garden of Eden represented god's ideal environment for man. Some of this garden's features, especially its rivers and the tree of Life, are also used to portray god's final blessings for His people (Ezek. 47:12; r ev. 22:1, 2, 14).

<sup>8</sup>Then Hilkiah the high priest said to Shaphan the scribe, <sup>i</sup>“I have found the Book of the Law in the house of the LORD.” And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it. <sup>9</sup>So Shaphan the scribe went to the king, bringing the king word, saying, “Your servants have <sup>l</sup>gathered the money that was found in the house, and have delivered it into the hand of those who do the work, who oversee the house of the LORD.” <sup>10</sup>Then Shaphan the scribe showed the king, saying, “Hilkiah the priest has given me a book.” And Shaphan read it before the king.

<sup>14</sup>So Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam, Achbor, Shaphan, and Asaiah went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of <sup>l</sup>Tikvah, the son of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe. (She dwelt in Jerusalem in the Second Quarter.) And they spoke with her. <sup>15</sup>Then she said to them, “Thus says the LORD God of Israel, “Tell the man who sent you to Me, <sup>16</sup>“Thus says the LORD: ‘Behold, <sup>m</sup>I will bring calamity the high priest associated with him, Jehoiada (12:9–16).

22:8, 9 By the Book of the Law may be meant either parts or all of the Pentateuch. t his book, though placed by the side of the ark of the covenant (Deut. 31:26), may have been lost, set aside, or hidden during the wicked reigns of Manasseh and Amon.

22:10–13 read it before the king: t his is the dramatic event that shaped Josiah’s reign. imagine what it must have been for the young king to hear the Word of god read for the first time. to re his clothes: Once again (see 19:1) a godly king tore his clothes in genuine remorse. Josiah’s great qualities are seen in his desiring prophetic sanction for his new walk. He did not wish to move on with his own plan without a clear confirmation from the Lord.

22:14 Although Huldah the prophetess is mentioned only here (and in 2 Chr. 34:22–28) in the scriptures, some have suggested that her husband s hallum was related to Jeremiah (see Jer. 32:7–12).

22:15 Huldah takes her place beside several prophetesses recorded in the scriptures, such as Miriam (Ex. 15:20) and Deborah (Judg. 4:4). t his woman was an authoritative agent for the transmission of the word of god to the highest authorities in the land of Judah. she served at the same time as other godly prophets, such as Jeremiah and Zephaniah.

22:16 all the words: t he threat of calamity for apostasy that the

in Jerusalem, King Josiah of Judah initiated renewed interest in the Book of the Law, and Huldah participated in the subsequent spiritual revival. she was the wife of s hallum, who was “keeper of the wardrobe” (possibly either royal robes and attire or priestly garments and vestments). t hey lived in the second Quarter, a newer section of Jerusalem which developed as a westward or northern expansion of the old city (perhaps somewhat like a modern-day suburb).

Huldah, not Jeremiah or Zephaniah (both of whom were active as prophets during this time), was consulted when the king instructed the priests to “inquire of the LORD” as to the meaning of the Book of the Law, a scroll that had been found during the work of restoration and cleaning in the temple. it was significant that with the number of prophets living in Jerusalem at that time, the priest Hilkiah and the rest of the king’s advisors turned to a woman for a word from god. t his nullifies the reasoning some use to suggest that god only uses women for ministry when no men are available. Obviously, whether in a private audience or in the presence of the congregation, god used Huldah to bear testimony and deliver a message from Him to the high priest and to the king (22:14–20).

t he tradition of female prophets is mentioned only sporadically in the Old testament, but Huldah is not the only one highlighted. she is in good company with Miriam and Deborah (Ex. 15:20; Judg. 4:4); however, another female, n oadiah (neh. 6:14), was a false prophet who worked against the people of god.

t he regard for Huldah’s own integrity and authority as a woman of god made her validation of the recently discovered Book of the Law all that was required for immediate action on the part of the king. Her message was not her own, but from the Lord. t he fact that the phrase, “t hus says the LORD,” is repeated four times in her short prophecy emphasizes that Huldah understood her responsibility and opportunity to be a channel through whom god delivered His word (22:15–17, 19).

All of the reforms set forth by King Josiah were based on the word of god as given to a woman. Huldah was apparently so well known as a woman of god and so highly trusted with regard to her understanding of god’s Law that for a time her nation’s whole religious consciousness and practice were re-ignited in faithfulness to god. Huldah, a deeply devout woman, made her god-given spiritual gifts available to god, and she was obedient and faithful to deliver the Word from god to her people.

on this place and on its inhabitants—all the words of the book which the king of Judah has read—<sup>17</sup> because they have forsaken Me and burned incense to other gods, that they might provoke Me to anger with all the works of their hands. Therefore My wrath shall be aroused against this place and shall not be quenched.’”<sup>18</sup> But as for<sup>o</sup> the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the LORD, in this manner you shall speak to him, ‘Thus says the LORD God of Israel: “Concerning the words which you have heard—<sup>19</sup> because your<sup>p</sup> heart was tender, and you<sup>q</sup> humbled yourself before the LORD when you heard what I spoke against this place and against its inhabitants, that they would become<sup>r</sup> a desolation and<sup>s</sup> a curse, and you tore your clothes and wept before Me, I also have heard you,” says the LORD.<sup>20</sup> “Surely, therefore, I will<sup>3</sup> gather you to your fathers, and you<sup>t</sup> shall<sup>4</sup> be gathered to your grave in peace; and your eyes shall not see all the calamity which I will bring on this place.’”’ So they brought back word to the king.

22:17–19 First was the bad news, addressed principally to the wicked who had forsaken god. second was the good news, that Josiah would be delivered from impending judgment, basically due to his piety in a very difficult time.

22:20 in peace: Huldah's good word for Josiah personally was that #### wooden image

(Heb. asherah) (17:10; 21:7; 23:6) strong's #842

t his word is both the name of a Canaanite fertility goddess (Asherah) and the designation of a wooden object representing her. in the Ot, the word is rarely used as a proper name (21:7; 23:4; 1 Kin. 15:13; 18:19); far more often it is used for a carved image (21:7; 1 Kin. 14:15). Asherahs were placed on hills. Frequently altars and other images were next to these wooden images (1 Kin. 14:23; 2 Chr. 31:1; 33:19). t he Lord warned His people before they entered the Promised Land that this false religion would snare them if they did not banish it from the land (Ex. 34:12–16; Deut. 7:2–6; 12:3; 16:21). nevertheless, the problem persisted during much of the periods of the judges and kings (Judg. 3:7; 1 Kin. 16:33), although occasional reforms did seek to eliminate these images (18:4; Judg. 6:25–30). t he prophets consistently sounded a clarion call to abandon such false worship, for god's judgment was coming (is. 17:8; 27:9; Jer. 17:2; Mic. 5:14).

he would not see the calamity that god was going to bring upon the people. Josiah's subsequent death in battle (23:29, 30) was not at issue in Huldah's prophecy. Like his godly grandfather Hezekiah, the righteous Josiah would not live to see god's future judgment of Judah (see 20:19).

23:1 all the elders: We may contrast Jehu's great gathering of the priests and prophets of Baal, in anticipation of his great "sacrifice" (see 10:18–31).

23:2 he read . . . the Book of the Covenant: Like Moses (Ex. 24:3–8) and Joshua (Josh. 8:34, 35) before him, Josiah followed the ancient standard for godly leadership (Deut. 17:18–20; 31:9–13) and assembled the people to renew the covenant (see also Josh. 24). t he king's own spiritual reaction and the reforms that he enacted (see 2 Chr. 35:1–19) suggest that the texts dealing with covenant obligations and sanctions (Lev. 26; Deut. 28) were a part of the public reading.

23:4 Articles of pagan worship had been taken to the fields of Kidron in the reforms of Asa (1 Kin. 15:13) and Hezekiah (2 Chr. 29:16; 30:14). to Bethel: Carrying the remaining ashes of burned religious articles to Bethel was a bold condemnation of both the pagan religious rites and the place associated with them (see 1 Kin. 12:28–30; Amos 4:4, 5). t hus Josiah's reforms spilled over into the northern kingdom as well.

23:5 idolatrous priests: t he term used here is also used by Zephaniah, who employs it of those priests who led the rites associated with Baal and with star worship of various kinds (Zeph. 1:4). t hese priests had been appointed by Judah's past kings but functioned outside the divinely established priesthood. Hosea had condemned the idolatrous priests who officiated in the calf worship at Bethel (Hos. 10:5).

23:6 Although destroyed by Hezekiah (18:4), wooden images associated with the worship of Asherah had been reintroduced by common people. <sup>7</sup>Then he tore down the ritual <sup>5</sup>booths <sup>1</sup>of the <sup>6</sup>perverted persons that were in the house of the LORD, <sup>m</sup>where the <sup>n</sup>women wove hangings for the wooden image. <sup>8</sup>And he brought all the priests from the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the priests had burned incense, from <sup>o</sup>Geba to Beersheba; also he broke down the high places at the gates which were at the entrance of the Gate of Joshua the governor of the city, which were to the left of the city gate. <sup>9</sup>Nevertheless the priests of the high places did not come up to the altar of the LORD in Jerusalem, <sup>q</sup>but they ate unleavened bread among their brethren.

So the men of the city told him, “It is <sup>b</sup>the tomb of the man of God who came from Judah and proclaimed these things which you have done against the altar of Bethel.”

<sup>19</sup>Now Josiah also took away all the <sup>4</sup>shrines of the <sup>5</sup>high places that were <sup>d</sup>in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to provoke <sup>6</sup>the LORD to anger; and he did to them according to all the deeds he had done in Bethel. <sup>20</sup><sup>e</sup>He *f*executed all the priests of the <sup>7</sup>high places who were there, on the altars, and <sup>g</sup>burned men’s bones on them; and he returned to Jerusalem.

Manasseh (21:7) and also by Amon (21:21; see also 13:6).

23:7 perverted persons: sacred prostitution was part of the de-based practices of Canaanite religion (see 1 Kin. 14:24 and also 15:12; 22:46). *t*he horrible thing here is not just that these perverted persons were practicing their trade in Jerusalem, but that they actually had places for their booths in the temple precincts.

23:10 Topheth . . . Molech: some scholars equate Molech with a pagan deity such as the Ammonite god Milcom (1 Kin. 11:5) or an individual Canaanite god (Lev. 20:1–5), whose worship was carried on in Jerusalem. Other scholars think that Molech was the name of a type of child sacrifice associated with Baal (see Jer. 7:31, 32; 19:5, 6; 32:35). Evidence of child sacrifice has been found in the excavations at the Phoenician city of Carthage.

23:11 horses . . . dedicated to the sun: Excavations at Jerusalem have uncovered a sacred shrine used in solar worship and dating from the time of Jehoshaphat. Small horses with solar disks on their foreheads have been found both at Jerusalem and Hazor.

23:15 Josiah’s actions were prophesied long ago by a prophet who denounced Jeroboam’s altar that was at Bethel (1 Kin. 13:26–32). *t*he literal fulfillment of that prophecy confirms that this earlier man of god was a true prophet (see Deut. 18:22).

23:18 the prophet . . . from Samaria: *t*he prophet from samaria was the old prophet of Bethel (1 Kin. 13:11). samaria is the name for an entire area, not just the city that was later the capital of the northern kingdom (see 1 Kin. 13:32; 16:23, 24). After the death of the man of god who had denounced Jeroboam i’s altar at Bethel, the aged prophet of Bethel requested that at his death he should be buried in Bethel beside that prophet of Judah.

23:20 priests of the high places: Because these priests were not Levites, they were executed as god’s law demands (Deut. 17:2–7). *t*he true priests of the Lord who officiated at the high places in Judah were spared. *t*he shrines were demolished (vv. 8, 9). Finally, these priests could not officiate at the temple in Jerusalem. *t*hey were treated much as priests with bodily defects (see Lev. 21:17–23).

23:21, 22 the Passover: *t*he restoration of religious places was part of the revival of spiritual worship. since the days of the judges: Although Hezekiah had held a Passover (see 2 Chr. 30), he had done so with some modification of the Law (2 Chr. 30:13–20). Accordingly, Josiah’s meeting of the strict requirements of the Law (see 2 Chr. 35:1–19) was truly unparalleled since the days of the judges. Moreover, god’s law was observed by believers from Judah and israel alike (2 Chr. 35:18).

Israel and the kings of Judah. <sup>23</sup>But in the eighteenth year of King Josiah this Passover was held before the LORD in Jerusalem. <sup>24</sup>Moreover Josiah put away those who consulted mediums and spiritists, the household gods and idols, all the abominations that were seen in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, that he might perform the words of <sup>k</sup>the law which were written in the book <sup>l</sup>that Hilkiah the priest found in the house of the LORD. <sup>25</sup><sup>m</sup>Now before him there was no king like him, who turned to the LORD with all his heart, with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the Law of Moses; nor after him did any arise like him.

Impending Judgment on Judah

Josiah Dies in Battle

vants moved his body in a chariot from Megiddo, brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own tomb. And <sup>u</sup>the people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah, anointed him, and made him king in his father's place.

The Reign and Captivity of Jehoahaz

Jehoiakim Reigns in Judah

23:25 no king: Josiah's following of the Law was unparalleled among the kings of Israel and Judah. Like his grandfather Hezekiah, who was famed for being without equal in his trust of the Lord (18:5), Josiah was truly a righteous king. Because of their outstanding examples of godliness, the authors of Kings and Chronicles devote considerable space to their reigns (chs. 18–20; 22:1–23:30; 2 Chr. 29–32; 34; 35).

23:27 Despite their efforts, Judah's sin was so entrenched that judgment was inevitable (17:18, 19; 23:26, 27; Lam. 1:5). Even though Manasseh repented, he still reaped the results of his sin.

23:29, 30 Pharaoh Necho (609–594 B.C.) was the recently crowned king of Egypt's twenty-sixth dynasty. During the long years of Josiah's reign (640–609 B.C.), Assyrian power had steadily crumbled until, as Nahum had predicted, *n*ineveh itself had fallen (612 B.C.) to a coalition of Chaldeans, Medes, and others. The surviving Assyrian forces had regrouped at Haran. Because Egypt was a long-standing ally of Assyria, Necho journeyed northward to help the beleaguered Assyrians. Josiah's deployment of his forces in the Valley of Megiddo was an attempt to prevent the Egyptians from aiding the Assyrian forces at Haran. Although Pharaoh Necho would be delayed sufficiently so that Haran would be lost to the Assyrians, Josiah's action ultimately cost him his life (2 Chr. 35:20–25).

23:31 Jehoahaz (called Shallum in Jer. 22:11) was Josiah's third son (see 24:18; 1 Chr. 3:15). The name Jehoahaz means “*t*he Lord Has grasped.” *t*his is the same name as the king of Israel, the son of Jehu (10:35). Johanan, Josiah's first son, apparently had died and Eliakim (or Jehoiakim), the second son, was bypassed. A fourth son, Mattaniah (or Zedekiah), would eventually ascend to the throne and rule as Judah's last king (598–586 B.C.). Jehoahaz's reign of three months came to an end with the return of Pharaoh Necho from Haran. Jehoahaz was summoned to Riblah, Necho's headquarters in Syria. Then he was led away to die in Egypt. His brother Eliakim was installed on the throne with his name changed to Jehoiakim. Judah thus became no more than a vassal of Egypt. *t*he curse for Judah's disobedience was about to fall (see Deut. 28:64–68).

23:37 did evil: Jehoakim's short reign (608–598 B.C.) was noted for its extreme wickedness (2 Chr. 36:5, 8). Jeremiah depicts him as a despicable monster who took advantage of his people (Jer. 22:13, 14, 17), filled the land with every sort of vice and violence (Jer. 18:18–20), and opposed all that was holy (Jer. 25:1–7). Unlike his father Josiah, who led the nation in reformation at the hearing of the Word of God (22:11; 23:1–25), Jehoakim went so far as to cut up and burn a scroll of scripture (Jer. 36:21–24) and to kill Urijah, a true prophet of God (Jer. 26:20–23).

Judah Overrun by Enemies

24 In <sup>a</sup>his days Nebuchadnezzar king of <sup>b</sup>Babylon came up, and Jehoiakim became his vassal for three years. Then he turned and rebelled against him. <sup>2c</sup> And the LORD sent against him raiding <sup>1</sup>bands of Chaldeans, bands of Syrians, bands of Moabites, and bands of the people of Ammon; He sent them against Judah to destroy it, <sup>d</sup>according to the word of the LORD which He had spoken by His servants the prophets. <sup>3</sup>Surely at the commandment of the LORD this came upon Judah, to remove them from His sight <sup>e</sup>because of the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he had done, <sup>4f</sup>and also because of the innocent blood that he had shed; for he had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood, which the LORD would not pardon.

The Reign and Captivity of Jehoiachin

<sup>8j</sup>Jehoiachin <sup>2</sup>was eighteen years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem three months. His mother's name was Nehushta the daughter of El-nathan of Jerusalem. <sup>9</sup>And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

The Captivity of Jerusalem

<sup>13n</sup>And he carried out from there all the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the king's house, and he <sup>o</sup>cut in pieces all the articles of gold which Solomon king of Israel had made in the temple of the LORD, <sup>p</sup>as the LORD had said. <sup>14</sup>Also <sup>q</sup>he carried into captivity all Jerusalem: all the captains and all the mighty men of valor, <sup>r</sup>ten thousand captives, and <sup>s</sup>all the craftsmen and smiths. None remained except <sup>t</sup>the poorest people of the land. <sup>15</sup>And <sup>u</sup>he carried Jehoiachin captive to Babylon. The king's mother, the king's wives, his officers, and the mighty of the land he carried into captivity from Jerusalem to Babylon. <sup>16v</sup>All the valiant men, seven thousand, and craftsmen and smiths, one thousand, all who were strong and fit for war, these the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.

Zedekiah Reigns in Judah

24:1 After defeating the Assyrians and Egyptians at the Battle of Carchemish (605 B.C.), Nebuchadnezzar invaded Judah and made the country his vassal. He took Daniel and other notables to Babylon as spoils of war. Nebuchadnezzar, who succeeded his father as king of Babylon in 605 B.C. and reigned until 562 B.C., boasted in his annals of 605 and 604 B.C. of the subjugation and submission of all Syria and Palestine. Jehoiakim served Nebuchadnezzar three years and then rebelled, perhaps finding courage to do so when Pharaoh Necho succeeded in turning back the Babylonians at the Egyptian border in 601 B.C.

24:2 The name Chaldeans originally applied to certain inhabitants of southern Mesopotamia. But by the neo-Babylonian period, the term Chaldean had become identified with Babylonians, and Babylonia was called Chaldea. After the fall of the Chaldean or neo-Babylonian Empire, the term Chaldean was used to mean "soothsayer" (see Dan. 2:2). In this verse the ethnic sense of the term is meant. Not only Chaldeans but raiding parties from nearby countries harassed Judah.

24:3 Because Jehoiakim and Judah had reproduced the sins of Manasseh (see 21:1-17), God's judgment was inevitable. Jehoiakim himself would die soon, even as Nebuchadnezzar was launching a second campaign into Judah (598 B.C.).

24:8 The name Jehoiachin means "the Lord Has Appointed." eigh- teen years old: Because the scriptural descriptions of Jehoiachin seem to represent him as a mature young man (Jer. 22:24-30; Ezek. 19:6), Jehoiachin's age at accession was probably 18 rather than eight, as given elsewhere in some manuscripts (compare 2 Chr. 36:9).

24:12 Jehoiakim apparently had died before Nebuchadnezzar arrived at Jerusalem, because it was Jehoiachin who was carried off captive with other leaders of Judah (such as Ezekiel, see Ezek. 1:1). He had reigned only three months (v. 8); the year was 598 B.C. Jeremiah called him "Jeconiah" and "Coniah" (Jer. 22:24, 28).

24:14 Ten thousand is probably a round number for deportees of all types from Judah and Jerusalem. The figure probably includes various categories of exiles, such as those mentioned in v. 16.

24:15 Carried Jehoiachin captive: Jehoiachin's captivity (see 2 Chr. 36:9, 10) was prophesied in Jer. 22:24-27. Unlike Jehoahaz, who was carried off into Egypt previously (23:33) and disappears from the pages of sacred history, Jehoiachin's eventual release is recorded twice (25:27-30; Jer. 52:31-34).

24:17 Mattaniah is Josiah's youngest son. His name means "the gift of the Lord." All three of Josiah's sons who succeeded him as king reigned under a throne name: Shallum (1 Chr. 3:15; Jer. 22:11) ruled as Jehoahaz (23:31); Eliakim as Jehoiakim (23:34); and Mattaniah as Zedekiah. Likewise, Jeconiah (1 Chr. 3:16; Jer. 24:1), Jehoiakim's son, ruled as Jehoiachin (24:8).

Nebuchadnezzar's Campaigns Against Judah

605–586 B.C.

Events in Judah moved swiftly following the death of Josiah. Pharaoh Necho pressed his advantage by deporting Jehozahaz, the new ruler, and appointing a second son of Josiah, Jehoiakim, as king.

The prophet Jeremiah was taken to Egypt by Judahite refugees fleeing from Babylonian-controlled territory. They brought him to Tahpanhes, where he continued his prophecies.

DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM 586 B.C.

Zedekiah, the last king of Judah, was appointed by Nebuchadnezzar, but he also rebelled. Jerusalem was attacked and besieged for two and a half years. Lured by a feint of Pharaoh's army, the Babylonians withdrew temporarily. When the Egyptians retreated, however, the Babylonians returned with a vengeance to Jerusalem.

Facing starvation, Zedekiah with his army fled by night "by way of the gate between two walls" (2 Kin. 25:4) toward the Jordan River, but both were overtaken in the plains of Jericho.

Zedekiah was captured and was dragged off in chains to Riblah, where he saw his sons slaughtered before he was blinded and taken to Babylon. One month later (in 586 B.C.) Jerusalem was ransacked and burned. Numerous high officials were executed, the temple furnishings were carried off, and the people were exiled.

Dramatic military dispatches found at Lachish warn of the encircling army.

the Chaldeans (Kaldû), as the neo-Babylonians were called, had important connections at Ur and Haran, centers of worship of the moon-god sin. They also developed the trade routes across north Arabia, where Tema was particularly important, becoming the residence of Nabonidus during the last days of the kingdom.

CONQUEST OF JERUSALEM c. 597 B.C.

Soon a stronger power appeared in the north in the person of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Chaldeans (Neo-Babylonians), who determined to follow the fierce policies of his Assyrian predecessors.

The tribute of Jehoiakim was paid at a distance when he heard of Nebuchadnezzar's approach. After three years as a Babylonian vassal, he rebelled, bringing a rapid response in the form of small-scale raids from Babylonians, Arameans, Moabites, and Ammonites (c. 602 B.C.). Finally, Nebuchadnezzar's forces controlled all of the coastal territory north of the Brook of Egypt.

When 18-year-old Jehoiachin had ruled just three months (597 B.C.), the main Babylonian army struck, capturing Jerusalem and exiling the king as a captive in Babylon. Ten thousand persons were deported.

when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was <sup>a</sup>Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. <sup>19b</sup>He also did evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done. <sup>20</sup>For because of the anger of the LORD this happened in Jerusalem and Judah, that He finally cast them out from His presence. <sup>c</sup>Then Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

The Fall and Captivity of Judah

25 Now it came to pass <sup>a</sup>in the tenth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem and encamped against it; and they built a siege wall against it all around. <sup>2</sup>So the city was besieged until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. <sup>3</sup>By the ninth day of the <sup>b</sup>fourth month the famine had become so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land.

24:20 Zedekiah rebelled: t he king of Judah foolishly relied on the Egyptians under Pharaoh Apries (or Hophra, Jer. 44:30) for help (see Ezek. 17:15-18). Apries had recently succeeded Psamtik ii (594-588 B.C.) on the throne. He had great plans for Egypt's renewed glory. Unfortunately, his plans were not realized. Although Apries challenged Nebuchadnezzar by attacking Phoenicia and coming to Zedekiah's assistance (Jer. 37:5), he was not able to deliver Judah (Jer. 37:7, 8). His own reign ended in a coup d'état that ultimately cost him his life.

25:2 eleventh year: t he siege of Jerusalem lasted for nearly two years (see v. 1).

25:4 Zedekiah's escape route lay between two walls near the royal garden at the southeastern corner of the city.

25:6 After his capture, Zedekiah was taken to Riblah on the Orontes river in Syria, which was the field headquarters for Nebuchadnezzar's western campaigns. Jehoahaz had been summoned there earlier by Pharaoh Necho (23:33).

25:7 put out the eyes: t he annals of the ancient Middle East often mention putting out the eyes of conquered people. t he last thing Zedekiah saw was the reward of his sinful folly—the horrible spectacle of his own loved ones being put to death. He would carry this picture with him until his own death in a Babylonian prison (Jer. 52:11).

25:10 The walls of Jerusalem would lie in a ruined condition for a century and a half (see Neh. 2:11-6:16).

25:17 Three cubits may be the height of the capitals not including the upper portion of ornamental work, for 1 Kin. 7:16 and Jer. 52:22 record the height of the capitals as five cubits.

25:18 Although Seraiah was executed at Riblah (v. 21), his son Jehoazak was simply deported (1 Chr. 6:15). t hrough Jehoazak's line would come Ezra, the priest and great reformer, who one day would return to Jerusalem and take up seraiah's work (Ezra 7:1). t he second martyred priest Zephaniah may be the priest mentioned by Jeremiah (Jer. 21:1; 29:5). Jerusalem would be less prone to future rebellions with the chief religious and civil officials gone.

Exile of the Southern Kingdom

Knowledge about the destiny of the captives from Israel and Judah is sparse in the period following the capture of Samaria and the later destruction of Jerusalem.

Assyrians and Babylonians treated their subject peoples essentially the same: overwhelming military force used in a manner inspiring psychological terror, along with mass deportations and heavy tribute.

Three deportations are mentioned in Jer. 52:28–30, the largest one consisting of 3,023 Jews who were taken to Babylon along with King Jehoiachin in 597 B.C.

After the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuzaradan, the commander of the Babylonian army, hundreds of exiles were taken to Riblah in the land of Hamath, where, in addition to Zedekiah's sons, at least 61 were executed.

Clay tablets from the fifth century B.C. called the Murashu archives have been found at Nippur. They document the commercial transactions with Jewish families who remained in Mesopotamia following Ezra's return to Jerusalem.

Ezek. 1:1–3 and 3:15 indicate that other captives were placed at Tel Abib and at the Kebar River, both probably in the locale of Nippur, as were other villages mentioned in Ezra 2:59; 8:15, 17; Neh. 7:61.

Jehoiachin and his family were kept in Babylon, where clay ration receipts bearing his name and the names of his sons have been found.

men of <sup>5</sup>the king's close associates who were found in the city, the chief recruiting officer of the army, who mustered the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the city. <sup>20</sup>So Nebuzaradan, captain of the guard, took these and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. <sup>21</sup>Then the king of Babylon struck them and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. <sup>b</sup>Thus Judah was carried away captive from its own land.

Gedaliah Made Governor of Judah

<sup>25</sup>But <sup>f</sup>it happened in the seventh month that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama, of the royal family, came with ten men and struck and killed Gedaliah, the Jews, as well as the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah. <sup>26</sup>And all the people, small and great, and the captains of the armies, arose <sup>g</sup>and went to Egypt; for they were afraid of the Chaldeans.

Jehoiachin Released from Prison

25:21 Like Israel before it (17:18), Judah was carried away captive because of its sinful apostasy.

25:22 Gedaliah: gedaliah's father Ahikam had supported Jeremiah in his struggles with the apostate officials of Judah (Jer. 26:24). gedaliah's training and his descent from a family noted for its antiestablishment stance doubtless made him acceptable to the Babylonians. The prophet Jeremiah, spared by the Babylonians (Jer. 39:11-14; 40:1-5), was allowed to stay and assist gedaliah in the process of reconstruction in Judah (Jer. 40:6). There is confirmation of gedaliah's importance in a seal impression recovered at Lachish mentioning him as "over the house," that is, a senior administrator.

25:23 Mizpah had long been a center of spiritual and political prominence (1 sam. 10:17; 1 Kin. 15:22). It was an ideal location for the provincial government. Jaazaniah: His name appears on a seal impression found in Mizpah. The murderous deeds of Ishmael and the role of Johanan in the events are detailed by Jeremiah (Jer. 40:7-43:7).

25:27 Evil-Merodach succeeded Nebuchadnezzar and reigned a short time (561-560 B.C.). Tablets from the reign of Nabonidus (555-539 B.C.) record the daily rations of Jehoiachin who is called "Yaukin, king of the land of Yahud" (Judah).

25:28 spoke kindly: Evil-Merodach's kindness toward Jehoiachin brings the Book of 2 Kings to an end—on a ray of hope. Exile is the end neither of Israel nor of the Davidic line.

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES

FIRST CHRONICLES is an inspirational history. Writing after the Exile, the author sought to inspire the remnant of Israelites with their extraordinary spiritual heritage. Appropriately, the book focuses on David. He was not only Israel's great king, but also one of Israel's greatest spiritual leaders. When he became king, one of his first priorities was to establish the worship of God as the center of Israel's national life. Amidst a great celebration, David brought the ark of the covenant to Jerusalem and appointed priests to minister regularly before it (chs. 15; 16). His actions demonstrated his concern that all of Israel would "give to the LORD the glory due His name" (16:29). This was Israel's extraordinary spiritual legacy: true worship of the living God.

Author and Date Originally both 1 and 2 Chronicles were one book. The overall consistency of style in the book indicates that although several contributors might have worked on it at various stages, one editor shaped the final product.

Jewish tradition identifies the editor as Ezra. This view finds support in the common themes and emphases of Chronicles and the Book of Ezra. Both books focus on the building and dedication of the temple. However, some have argued that the genealogies in 3:17–24 preclude Ezra's authorship because they include as many as 11 generations past Zerubbabel. To include such information, the book would have to have been written as late as the middle of the third century B.C.

On the other hand, it is possible that 3:17–24 may embrace only three generations. If so, a date of approximately 425 B.C. for the completion of Chronicles is quite reasonable. Ezra was active between 460 and 430 B.C. and thus could have incorporated this particular genealogy into the book. In short, the traditional Jewish view that Ezra wrote Chronicles can be accepted if it is remembered that Ezra was a compiler. He used sources and documents that account for the stylistic differences between the Book of Ezra and Chronicles.

Sources and Historicity It is evident that Chronicles is the result of a compilation process. The chronicler made use of the Books of Samuel and Kings for about half the narrative. Also, the genealogies in the beginning of the book are largely derived from the Pentateuch. The compiler even cites some of the sources. Among these are the genealogical records of the various tribes (7:9, 40), the book of the kings of Israel (9:1), and the books of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad (29:29).

A number of accounts in Chronicles parallel parts of Samuel and Kings. The fact that these accounts do not match word for word has led some scholars to assume that the chronicler was not concerned about accuracy in citation, or that the authors of all the books drew upon another common source. In any case, the inspiration and authority of 1 Chronicles is not at stake. Writing about the same events, the compiler of 1 Chronicles simply emphasized a different perspective on them than did the authors of Samuel and Kings. The synoptic Gospels function the same way. Each Gospel presents some of the same stories of Jesus in a different way. Each gives us new details and a new perspective on the event.

his chronicler's different emphases explain many of the differences between the narratives of Chronicles and Samuel. Some of the other apparent contradictions, especially in matters of spelling and numbers, can be explained as inadvertence in copying and text transmission. Numerals appear to have been written in notations that could easily be confused, and most of the deviations between Chronicles and Samuel can be accounted for in this manner. In many instances, the discrepancies are only apparent and suitable ways have been suggested to harmonize them. In any case, none of them threatens the inspiration and inerrancy of the original text.

Purpose Writing approximately when the Israelites returned from captivity, the chronicler wanted to emphasize the Israelites' continuity with their past. The remnant was returning to Jerusalem to rebuild the temple because of the promises God had given to David many years before (see Ezra 7:10–23). God's promises were still in effect—even though the people had been in exile.

The long genealogical section in 1 Chronicles emphasizes this continuity with the past (chs. 1–9). The genealogies point out that the promises to David were founded on God's ancient promises to the patriarchs. God had pledged to Abraham that He would make him the father of a great nation, one through which He would bless the whole earth (Gen. 12:1–3). God had also promised that a king would rule over this special nation (Gen. 17:6). It was revealed to Jacob that the king would descend specifically from Jacob's son Judah (Gen. 49:10). Finally, the genealogy in the Book of Ruth explains the link between the promise and the fulfillment by tracing the line of Judah through his son Perez to King David (Ruth 4:18–22). God had faithfully fulfilled His promise.

First Chronicles recounts the lineage of the people of God's promise and emphasizes the connection between Perez and King David (2:5–15). God would establish His reign upon the earth through David's royal line (17:7–15; see Gen. 17:7, 8; 2 Sam. 7). The kings God had promised to Abraham would begin with David and culminate in the One who would reign forever, Jesus (17:14; see Matt. 9:27; 12:23; Mark 10:47, 48; Luke 18:38). God had given the promise to David, and the faithful remnant inherited that same promise.

Since the chronicler wanted to encourage the returning Israelites, he focused on the glories of David's reign—his conquest of Jerusalem (11:4–9), his heroic soldiers (11:10–47), his victories over the Philistines (18:1–12), and his celebration when bringing the ark to Jerusalem (15:25–29). On the other hand, the author of Samuel told the story of David as an objective, realistic biography that did not overlook David's sins and failures. While it does not depict David as spiritually and morally perfect (see 13:9–14; 21:1, 8), Chronicles surprisingly omits the stories that reveal David's weakness—his affair with Bathsheba, his murder of Uriah (2 Sam. 11), and his estrangement from his son Absalom (2 sam. 15). These are not omitted to give a false impression of David's character, for the books of Samuel recount these incidents in detail. Instead, Chronicles was written to inspire the remnant to follow in the spiritual footsteps of David.

Music was a significant part of life in the ancient Near East. The Bible mentions several instruments, five of which are listed in 1 Chronicles 15:28 (several more are mentioned in Ps. 150:3–5; Dan. 3:5).

At a time when the Israelites were rebuilding the nation and the temple (Ezra 3:7–13), the chronicler painted a picture of David's kingdom as a kingdom founded on the true worship of God. Not the throne, but the tabernacle and temple were the focus of David's kingdom. Chronicles extensively describes how David moved the ark of the covenant to a suitable place of worship (13:1–16:3), appointed appropriate religious personnel (16:4–6, 37–43; 23:1–26:32), and made plans for building a permanent temple (chs. 22; 28; 29). The theme of Chronicles is that God Himself established David's kingdom (29:10, 11) in fulfillment of His promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Through the Davidic covenant, David's kingdom itself embodies the promise of the future kingdom whose ruler is the great son of David, Jesus Christ.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

As in 1 and 2 Samuel, Jesus is foreshadowed in this book through the life and influence of King David. God's covenant with David is a prelude to what the Messiah will bring about (7:11–14). Some might try to reason that David's son Solomon fulfilled the covenant, but they would only be partly right. Only Jesus can ultimately fulfill it.

The fact that the tribe of Judah is listed first in the national genealogy (2:3–15) was not coincidental. The writer was quietly celebrating that the monarchy, the temple construction, and the future Messiah (Jesus) would come from this tribe.

1:1 Adam, Seth, Enosh: the names of these ancient, pre-Flood characters were included in the genealogical record with people whose historical identities have never been questioned, such as David (2:15) and Zerubbabel (3:19). This indicates that the chronicler had no question as to their historicity.

1:7, 8 Rodanim referred to the <sup>r</sup>hodontes, natives of the Greek island of Rhodes. sons of Ham: great nations were indicated by some of the names here: Cush referred to the Ethiopians, Mizraim to the Egyptians, Canaan to the Canaanites.

1:10 Cush begot Nimrod: it seems that the chronicler used the genealogy of gen. 10 as the primary source for this genealogy. However, he used it selectively. For example, gen. 10:9–12 was not included. The apparent purpose of this genealogy was to establish the line between Adam and David, and between David and the reigning Davidic monarch.

1:12 Caphtorim: these people lived in Caphtor (Deut. 2:23), known in ancient Akkadian texts as Kaptara and probably to be identified as Crete. The Caphtorim were related to the Philistines, or the two terms might even be interchangeable (see Jer. 47:4; Amos 9:7).

1:13 Heth founded the nation of the Hittites, a people in what is now central Turkey who achieved great power and prominence in the middle of the second millennium B.C. After the Hittite kingdom fell to the sea Peoples around 1200 B.C., many Hittites settled in enclaves in Syria and Palestine.

1:18 Eber was the ancestor of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. The name Hebrew, a derivative of Eber's name, was applied to the Israelites. The central place Eber occupies in the genealogies of Abram in Genesis and 1 Chronicles suggests a connection between the names Hebrew and Eber (1:24–27; see gen. 10:21; 11:10–26). Indeed the name Hebrew may simply mean an “Eberite.”

1:19 the earth was divided: this refers to the division of the earth's population by the scattering of the human race following the judgment of God on the tower of Babel. Chronologically, Peleg apparently fits about halfway between Shem and Abram (1:24–27), a most suitable place for the tower of Babel episode.

1:28 Isaac was the son of the covenant, so his name occurs first when the names Isaac and Ishmael are mentioned together, even though Ishmael was born first. Moreover, Ishmael was the son of Abraham's concubine Hagar—not of his wife Sarah.

1:32, 33 Both Ishmael and Midian were descendants of Abraham, Ishmael by a concubine and Midian by another wife Abraham married after Sarah's death (gen. 25:1, 2). The Ishmaelites and Midianites were tribes that lived in the Arabian deserts.

The Family of Seir

The Kings of Edom

<sup>43</sup>Now these were the <sup>z</sup>kings who reigned in the land of Edom before a king reigned over the children of Israel: Bela the son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dinhabah. <sup>44</sup>And when Bela died, Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his place. <sup>45</sup>When Jobab died, Husham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his place. <sup>46</sup>And when Husham died, Hadad the son of Bedad, who <sup>9</sup>attacked Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his place. The name of his city was Avith. <sup>47</sup>When Hadad died, Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his place. <sup>48a</sup>And when Samlah died, Saul of Rehoboth-by-the-River reigned in his place. <sup>49</sup>When Saul died, Baal-Hanan the son of Achbor reigned in his place. <sup>50</sup>And when Baal-Hanan died, <sup>1</sup>Hadad reigned in his place; and the name of his city was <sup>2</sup>Pai. His wife's name was Mehetabel the daughter of Matred, the

The Family of Israel

From Judah to David

1:38 Seir was the patriarchal name of the pre-Edomite population of the region east and south of the Dead sea (gen. 36:20-30). Esau's daughter-in-law t imna (vv. 35, 36) was the sister of Lotan and daughter of seir. t hus the people of seir and the descendants of Esau were related by marriage, and together these two people groups became the kingdom of Edom (v. 43).

1:43 the kings . . . of Edom: Compare gen. 36:31-39. t hese kings were apparently descendants of Esau. t he Edomites were ruled by kings several centuries before the israelites. t his fact helps explain Israel's later demand to have "a king to judge us like all the nations" (1 sam. 8:5). Although the Edomite kings ruled in succession, they were not parts of a dynasty, as the reference to their particular cities makes clear. Apparently Edom did not have a capital, and its kings ruled from whatever place they considered home.

1:51 t he Hebrew word translated chiefs usually referred to military leaders. Compare gen. 36:40-43.

2:1, 2 Compare the order of the sons of Israel with gen. 35:23-26.

2:3 t hough he was the fourth son of Jacob (v. 1), Judah appears first in the detailed genealogy because the messianic promise was to be channeled through him (gen. 49:10). t hus the chronicler reveals that his genealogy and his presentation of the events are controlled by theological concerns rather than strict chronology.

2:6 t hough the line to David passed through Zerah's brother Perez, Zerah's descendants are mentioned here because of the prominence of Achar (v. 7), called Achan in the narrative of Josh. 7:10-26.

Ethan, Heman, Calcol, and Dara are mentioned because of their role in temple music under King David and their distinction as poets and sages (15:16-19; 1 Kin. 4:29-31).

2:10 t his genealogy is selective, focusing on only those members important to the lineage. For example, Nahshon was head of the tribe of Judah at the time of the wilderness march from Sinai to Kadesh Barnea (num. 1:7; 2:3; 7:12). He was more than five generations removed from Judah himself (2:4-10), since the time between Judah and nahshon was over 450 years.

2:16 Sisters are rarely mentioned in ancient genealogies. However, this genealogy pays particular attention to the family of David and thus to David's sisters.

The Family of Hezron

The Family of Jerahmeel

<sup>29</sup>And the name of the wife of Abishur was Abihail, and she bore him Ahban and Molid. <sup>30</sup>The sons of Nadab were Seled and Appaim; Seled died without children. <sup>31</sup>The son of Appaim was Ishi, the son of Ishi was Sheshan, and <sup>w</sup>Sheshan's son was Ahlai. <sup>32</sup>The sons of Jada, the brother of Shammai, were Jether and Jonathan; Jether died without children. <sup>33</sup>The sons of Jonathan were Peleth and Zaza. These were the sons of Jerahmeel.

Genealogies

genealogies of the ancient Middle East were fluid in nature. the relationship between names might change—names might be added or omitted. genealogies were used to legitimize a person's position by showing his relationship to a recognized and accepted ancestor (linear genealogy). they also demonstrated the relationships among members or segments of the same family (segmented or mixed genealogy). the genealogies of 1 Chronicles provide evidence that god is sovereign over history from creation. names within genealogies are reminders of what god has done in the past and often embody hope for the future as well. Continuity with the past is also demonstrated in god's hand at work in establishing and preserving israel. the chronicler's interest was in god's choice—whether of an individual (Abraham), a nation (israel), a tribe (Judah), or a king (David and solomon).

Genealogies were important in the ancient world. The surface of this statue is covered with texts that record the names and titles of twenty-six generations of Basa's paternal family, 945–715 b.c., Egypt.

The Family of Caleb

2:18 t his Caleb was not the famous companion of Joshua (n um. 13:6; Josh. 14:6, 7), who lived several centuries later, during the conquest of Canaan. in fact, one of this Caleb's descendants, Bezalel (v. 20), was a craftsman charged with constructing the wilderness tabernacle (Ex. 31:2).

2:25 The sons of Jerahmeel would eventually occupy the negev, the desert area of southern Judah.

2:42 t his was the same Caleb as that of vv. 18, 19. Here his genealogy is much longer, apparently transmitted through other wives.

<sup>52</sup>And Shobal the father of Kirjath Jearim had descendants: <sup>7</sup>Haroeh, and half of the <sup>8</sup>families of Manuhoth. <sup>53</sup>The families of Kirjath Jearim were the Ithrites, the Puthites, the Shumathites, and the Mishraitites. From these came the Zorathites and the Eshtaolites.

<sup>55</sup>And the families of the scribes who dwelt at Jabez were the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and the Suchathites. These were the <sup>c</sup>Kenites who came from Hammath, the father of the house of <sup>d</sup>Rechab.

The Family of David

The Family of Solomon

2:49 t he Caleb of Joshua's time had a daughter named Achsah, who became the wife of Israel's first judge, Othniel (Judg. 1:12, 13), it might appear that the Caleb here in Chronicles must be the same as the later Caleb, but this is ruled out by the consistent use of Caleb throughout the chronicler's genealogy to refer to an earlier individual by that name. t he meaning probably is that Achsah is the "daughter" of the earlier Caleb in the sense that she is his descendant. t he later Caleb was doubtless a descendant of the early one, a conclusion supported by the record that both were from the tribe of Judah (2:4, 5, 9, 18, 42; n um. 13:6).

2:51 t he chronicler recorded Caleb's genealogy because of the significance of Bethlehem, the birthplace of King David. One of Caleb's descendants, salma, was the founder or father of Bethlehem.

2:55 since the compiler of Chronicles was obviously a scribe, he was interested in tracing, if only briefly, various families of the scribes. t hese families are otherwise unknown, as is Jabez, the place they lived. t hey were Kenites, a people related to Israel through Moses' marriage to a Kenite, sometimes referred to as a Midianite (Judg. 4:11). naming the Kenite scribes here suggests that they were descended from Judah, since the whole context of the passage is the genealogy of Judah. t he genealogy also connects them with Rechab, the saintly founder of a line of pious Israelites who obeyed the commands of their fathers (see Jer. 35:1-19).

3:1-5 t he fact that David had six sons by six wives in Hebron does not condone polygamy. David had fallen into the ancient custom among kings of marrying the daughters of neighboring kings in order to create allies. negative results inevitably followed such multiple marriages. David's first son, Amnon, raped his half sister tamar (2 sam. 13:14)—a deed for which he paid with his own life at the hands of his half brother Absalom. Later Adonijah tried to usurp the throne from Solomon to whom it had been promised (1 Kin. 1:5-10).

3:9 Tamar: t he fact that only one daughter of David is named does not mean that he had no other daughters. tamar appears in this genealogy because of her prominence in the story of King David's family (2 sam. 13:1-39). t he chronicler included those people who had particular relevance to the narrative and its theological purpose.

3:18 Shenazzar was probably the same man as sheshbazzar, leader of the first group of Jews to return from Babylonian captivity (Ezra 1:8, 11) and builder of the foundation of the second temple (Ezra 5:15-17).

3:19 Zerubbabel here is designated as a son of Pedaiah, but elsewhere (Ezra 3:2, 8; 5:2; n eh. 12:1; Hag. 1:12, 14; 2:2, 23) as a son of Pedaiah's brother shealtiel (v. 17). it is likely that shealtiel had died while Zerubbabel was young and that the youth was reared by his uncle Pedaiah, thus becoming Pedaiah's son. t his relationship may explain Luke's statement that Zerubbabel was "the son of shealtiel" (Luke 3:27), who was in turn a descendant of David through his son nathan. t hus in the gospels, the line of Jesus was traced back to David through David's two sons, solomon and nathan. t hese two lines met in the marriage of Jecooniah's daughter to shealtiel. Luke traced Jesus' line through Zerubbabel and an otherwise unknown were Zerubbabel and Shimei. The sons of Zerubbabel were Meshullam, Hananiah, Shelomith their sister, <sup>20</sup>and Hushubah, Ohel, Berechiah, Hasadiah, and Jushab-Hesed—five in all.

The Family of Judah

4 The sons of Judah were <sup>a</sup>Perez, Hezron, <sup>1</sup>Carmi, Hur, and Shobal. <sup>2</sup>And <sup>2</sup>Reaiah the son of Shobal begot Jahath, and Jahath begot Ahumai and Lahad. These were the families of the Zorathites. <sup>3</sup>These were the sons of the father of Etam: Jezreel, Ishma, and Idbash; and the name of their sister was Hazeleponi; <sup>4</sup>and Penuel was the father of Gedor, and Ezer was the father of Hushah.

These were the sons of <sup>b</sup>Hur, the firstborn of Ephrathah the father of Bethlehem.

son r hesa (Luke 3:27). Matthew, whose interest was particularly in Joseph, traced Jesus’ ancestry back to Zerubbabel through still another son of Zerubbabel, Abiud (Matt. 1:13). t hus Luke reconstructed Mary’s genealogy.

3:21–24 Pelatiah and Jeshaiah seem to be the only two sons of Hananiah. Rephaiah . . . Shechaniah: t hese names were detached from the Zerubbabel genealogy and may be other Davidic families. The sons of Shechaniah: Four generations of s hechaniah, ending in Anani, are listed. Hence the genealogy of vv. 17–24 presupposes about seven generations. s ince Jeconiah reigned around 598 B.C. (v. 17), a date of approximately 425 B.C. for Anani is reasonable. Anani is the latest generation recorded in Chronicles, and any dating of the book should take this into account.

4:1 Although the genealogy of Judah leading up to David has already been recorded (2:3–17), the chronicler here refers to other persons and events relative to that genealogy. in the list of this verse, only Perez is Judah’s own son. Hezron is his grandson, Carmi his nephew (2:5, 6), Hur the grandson of Hezron (2:18, 19), and Shobal the grandson of Hur (2:50).

4:4 Ephrathah has already been identified as Ephrath, a wife of the early Caleb (2:19) and mother of Hur. she was therefore the “great grandmother” of Bethlehem, since her son Hur was the “grandfather” of Bethlehem (2:50, 51). Elsewhere the names Bethlehem and Ephrath are closely connected. When Jacob was on the way to Mamre, his wife Rachel died near Ephrath, identified also as Bethlehem (gen. 35:19). in r uth 4:11, Ephrathah is synonymous with the town of Bethlehem, and in Mic. 5:2 the birthplace of the anticipated Messiah is called Bethlehem Ephrathah.

4:13 Othniel, the first of Israel’s judges (Josh. 15:17; Judg. 1:13; 3:9), was son-in-law of the later Caleb—the friend and colleague of Joshua.

4:15 Kenaz was the name of Othniel’s father (v. 13) and Caleb’s brother (Josh. 15:17), as well as of Caleb’s grandson. it is clear that Othniel had married his own first cousin, a practice that was common in the Ot (see Abraham and sarah in gen. 11:29) and one not prohibited in the Law of Moses.

(Heb. ben) (4:1; 7:14; Ex. 12:37; 1 Kin. 2:1) strong’s #1121

t he Hebrew noun ben is probably related to banah which means “to build,” as in “to build” a family (r uth 4:11). t he ancient Hebrews considered sons the “builders” of the next generation. Ben can either refer to a literal son as in 1 Kin. 2:1, or to one’s descendants as in 7:14. t he word may also pertain to an attribute of an individual, as in Ben-Oni, meaning “son of My sorrow,” and Benjamin, meaning “son of the r ight Hand” (gen. 35:18). in the plural, the Hebrew word for sons can be translated children regardless of gender, as in the phrase “children of Israel” (see Ex. 12:37). Perhaps the most significant use of the Hebrew word is for Israel’s relationship to the Lord. god Himself declared: “Israel is My son, My firstborn” (Ex. 4:22).

<sup>21</sup>The sons of <sup>j</sup>Shelah <sup>k</sup>the son of Judah were Er the father of Lecah, Laadah the father of Mareshah, and the families of the house of the linen workers of the house of Ashbea; <sup>22</sup>also Jokim, the men of Chozeba, and Joash; Saraph, who ruled in Moab, and Jashubi-Lehem. Now the <sup>2</sup>records are ancient. <sup>23</sup>These were the potters and those who dwell at <sup>3</sup>Netaim and <sup>4</sup>Gederah; there they dwelt with the king for his work.

The Family of Simeon

<sup>41</sup>These recorded by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah; and they <sup>n</sup>attacked <sup>4</sup> their tents and the Meunites who were found there, and <sup>o</sup>utterly destroyed them, as it is to this day. So they dwelt in their place, because there was pasture for their flocks there. <sup>42</sup>Now some of them, five hundred men of the sons of Simeon, went to Mount Seir, having as their captains Pelatiah, Neariah, Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the sons of Ishi. <sup>43</sup>And they <sup>5</sup>defeated <sup>p</sup>the rest of the Amalekites who had escaped. They have dwelt there to this day.

The Family of Reuben

4:21 t he fact that Shelah named his son Er indicates that he followed the levirate custom of raising up a child in the name of a deceased brother. Er, son of Judah, had died because of some unspecified sin, but had left no children by his wife tamar (gen. 38:6–11). His brother Onan refused to honor the levirate practice on Er's behalf, so tamar seduced Judah, her father-in-law, and bore the twin sons Perez and Zerah (gen. 38:27–30). shelah, the third son of Judah, apparently did honor his oldest brother by taking the widow tamar as his wife and rearing a son in Er's name.

4:22 t he chronicler made the point that his documentation rested on ancient texts. Even in the chronicler's own day, there were skeptics who questioned the accuracy of the genealogies.

4:24 t he genealogy of Simeon appears next because the simeonites were a small tribe (v. 27) and had no land allocated to them (Josh. 19:1–9). t hey settled in the territory of Judah, and their genealogy is attached to his.

4:31 Because the tribe of simeon was so small and had settled within Judah's territory, the tribe lost its identity and was considered a part of Judah when David became king.

4:39–41 t he chronicler describes how the simeonites lived as shepherds in gedor. this was an area next to Egypt, possibly the same as gerar (gen. 26:17–20). t he Hamites, who were Egyptians, had lived there at one time (v. 40), but were replaced by Meunites. t he simeonites expelled these people in the days of Hezekiah.

4:42, 43 t he simeonites pursued the Amalekites into Mt. seir, or Edom. to this day: t hat is, to the time Chronicles was written. t he simeonites had lived in Edom from Hezekiah's time.

5:1, 2 Usually the oldest son of an ancient family became head of the family upon his father's death and also received a larger share of the inheritance than the other children. But r euben, the firstborn of Jacob, had slept with his father's concubine—perhaps hoping in this way to guarantee his rights as the firstborn son (gen. 35:22). Because of this despicable act, he lost the birthright. instead, Jacob blessed the sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh (gen. 48:15–22), thereby transmitting the birthright to Joseph and his sons. t he birthright assigned to Joseph did not carry with it the right to rule the tribes and nation; that privilege was granted to Judah. Judah prevailed in the sense that god freely chose them as the tribe through which His messianic Deliverer and King would come (gen. 49:10). t he ruler from Judah was David and his dynasty, a fact well known to the ancient israelites.

He was leader of the Reubenites.<sup>7</sup> And his brethren by their families,<sup>8</sup> when the genealogy of their generations was registered: the chief, Jeiel, and Zechariah,<sup>8</sup> and Bela the son of Azaz, the son of Shema, the son of Joel, who dwelt in<sup>i</sup> Aroer, as far as Nebo and Baal Meon.<sup>9</sup> Eastward they settled as far as the<sup>3</sup> entrance of the wilderness this side of the River Euphrates, because their cattle had<sup>4</sup> multiplied<sup>j</sup> in the land of Gilead.

<sup>10</sup>Now in the days of Saul they made war<sup>k</sup> with the Hagrites, who fell by their hand; and they dwelt in their tents throughout the entire area east of Gilead.

The Family of Gad

Bashan and in its villages, and in all the<sup>5</sup> common-lands of<sup>o</sup> Sharon within their borders.<sup>17</sup> All these were registered by genealogies in the days of<sup>p</sup> Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of<sup>q</sup> Jeroboam king of Israel.

<sup>18</sup>The sons of Reuben, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh had forty-four thousand seven hundred and sixty valiant men, men able to bear shield and sword, to shoot with the bow, and skillful in war, who went to war.<sup>19</sup> They made war with the Hagrites, <sup>r</sup> Jetur, Naphish, and Nodab.<sup>20</sup> And <sup>s</sup> they were helped against them, and the Hagrites were delivered into their hand, and all who were with them, for they <sup>t</sup> cried out to God in the battle. He <sup>6</sup> heeded their prayer, because they <sup>u</sup> put their trust in Him.<sup>21</sup> Then they took away their livestock—fifty thousand of their camels, two hundred and fifty thousand of their sheep, and two thousand of their donkeys—also one hundred thousand of their men;<sup>22</sup> for many fell dead, because the war <sup>v</sup> was God's. And they dwelt in their place until <sup>w</sup> the captivity.

The Family of Manasseh (East)

5:6 t though the tribe of r euben virtually disappeared from the historical record by the time of the monarchy, there still remained people who identified themselves as Reubenites, as this verse makes clear.

5:9 Part of the reason for the absence of r euben in the historical account was the tribe's need to seek greater pasture lands for their animals. t hey had pushed east into the wilderness as far as the River Euphrates. For this reason, the r eubenites were the first to be deported by the Assyrians (see v. 6).

5:11 Gad lived near r euben and the half tribe of Manasseh. gad was one of the tribes that sought permission from Moses to settle east of the Jordan rather than west (n. um. 32:1–42). r euben occupied the area just east of the Dead Sea and the lower Jordan valley; gad, the land of Bashan due east of the river; and Manasseh, the land to the east and north of the sea of galilee.

5:17 Once more the chronicler alludes to his sources, this time to genealogical records from the time of Jotham (750–735 B.C.) and Jeroboam ii (793–753 B.C.). He wanted to emphasize that the genealogies are based on solid documentary research in texts that preceded his own time by more than 300 years.

5:19 t he Hagrites and their allies were probably desert peoples who felt increasing pressure from the expanding israelite population. t heir efforts at resisting the israelites took place in the days of saul (v. 10), though the narratives of saul do not mention them.

5:20 they were helped: t he help here came from god Himself in answer to their prayers. t he people of r euben, gad, and Manasseh fielded an army of more than 44,000 men (v. 18), but ultimately it was god who brought success.

5:22 the war was God's: t his confirms the statement about god helping the israelites in v. 20 and goes beyond it by referring to a practice of Ot times known as "t he Lord's War." At times, god commanded an offensive war as a means of achieving His purposes of conquest and occupation of the Promised Land (Deut. 20:1–20). At those times, god made it clear that the battle was by His initiative and that He would ensure its success. the captivity: in the light of vv. 6, 26, the captivity must be that of t iglath-Pileser of Assyria, who carried off a significant portion of the israelite population (2 Kin. 15:29).

generations

(Heb. toledoth) (5:7; gen. 10:1; r uth 4:18) strong's #8435

t he Hebrew toledoth is derived from the verb yalad, meaning "to give birth." Toledoth usually introduces an extended genealogical list, such as those in genesis (gen. 5:1; 10:1) and 1 Chronicles (5:7; 26:31). Ancient Hebrew culture depended on detailed genealogical lists to determine questions of inheritance and land use rights. After the conquest of Canaan, each tribe received its portion of the Promised Land to divide between its clans (Josh. 13–19). Land rights remained in the clans, passed down as part of the inheritance from father to oldest son, or daughter if there was no son (see n. um. 27). Other matters, such as service in the temple and royal succession, were also determined by genealogy. Old testament genealogies attest to god's faithfulness in fulfilling His promise to make israel a "great nation" (gen. 12:1–3), and the genealogy of Matt. 1 shows Jesus as the legitimate heir to David's throne.

Tiglath-Pileser

t iglath-Pileser iii, king of Assyria from 745 to 727 B.C., was also known as Pul in the Ot. After stabilizing his kingdom, he began military campaigns against smaller realms such as Palestine. Kings of the northern kingdom paid monetary tribute to t iglath-Pileser for his protection. Ahaz, king of Judah, made an alliance with him against the king of israel and the king of syria. t his episode may have been when t iglath-Pileser conquered the region east of the Jordan r iver and carried the people into exile in 733 B.C. (2 Kin. 15:29). Although the date given for the captivity of the northern kingdom by Assyria is 722 B.C., the deportation of israel to other parts of the Assyrian Empire occurred in stages. t his episode was consistent with the chronicler's theme of retribution.

6:1 Levi: All religious personnel involved in tabernacle or temple ministry had to be members of the tribe of Levi. Aaron was himself a Levite, and from the beginning of the priesthood his descendants were designated as the only ones who could serve as priests (see 6:16–25; Ex. 28:1). Later the Levites were especially set apart for service in the tabernacle in a role subsidiary to the priests (n um. 18:1–7). Anyone who wanted to serve in the temple had to establish his Levitical credentials. t he present genealogy was designed at least in part to meet that need.

6:2 Kohath: t his son of Levi was the one to whom the office of priest became exclusively connected. Hence, every priest had to be a Levite, but not every Levite could become a priest.

6:3, 4 Beginning with Eleazar, the genealogy traces the line of high priests through Jehozadak, the priest who went into Babylonian exile with his people (v. 15), including Eleazar and Jehozadak, there were at least 22 high priests in unbroken succession. Another line of priests began with Ithamar, including such persons as Eli, Ahimelech, and Abiathar. in the days of David, priestly service was divided between the Eleazar and ithamar priests, with the Eleazar serving two-thirds of the time and the ithamar one-third because of the difference in their numbers (24:1–5). solomon rejected the ithamar priesthood, reserving the honor of the priesthood exclusively for the priests descended from Eleazar (1 Kin. 2:26, 27).

6:8 Zadok: t his priest, not the same person as the Zadok of v. 12, was the one selected by David to serve along with Ahimelech the son of Abiathar as high priest (2 sam. 8:17). Eventually Zadok became sole high priest because of Abiathar's rebellion against solomon (1 Kin. 2:26, 27).

6:10 t he detail that this Azariah ministered in solomon's temple distinguishes this priest from his grandfather of the same name (v. 9).

6:14 Jehozadak: t his last priest in the list was carried into exile in Babylon (v. 15). He was the father of Joshua, the priest who returned from Babylon with Zerubbabel to rebuild the temple and reestablish the Jewish community (Hag. 1:1, 12, 14).

Now these are the families of the Levites according to their fathers: <sup>20</sup>Of Gershon were Libni his son, Jahath his son, <sup>m</sup>Zimmah his son, <sup>21</sup><sup>5</sup>Joah his son, <sup>6</sup>Iddo his son, Zerah his son, and <sup>7</sup>Jeatherai his son. <sup>22</sup>The sons of Kohath were <sup>8</sup>Amminadab his son, <sup>n</sup>Korah his son, Assir his son, <sup>23</sup>Elkanah his son, Ebiasaph his son, Assir his son, <sup>24</sup>Tahath his son, Uriel his son, Uzziath his son, and Shaul his son. <sup>25</sup>The sons of Elkanah were <sup>o</sup>Amasai and Ahimoth. <sup>26</sup>As for Elkanah, the sons of Elkanah were <sup>9</sup>Zophai his son, <sup>1</sup>Nahath his son, <sup>27</sup><sup>2</sup>Eliab his son, Jeroham his son, and Elkanah his son. <sup>28</sup>The sons of Samuel were <sup>3</sup>Joel the firstborn, and Abijah <sup>4</sup>the second. <sup>29</sup>The sons of Merari were Mahli, Libni his son, Shimei his son, Uzah his son, <sup>30</sup>Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, and Asaiah his son.

The Family of Aaron

<sup>49</sup><sup>w</sup>But Aaron and his sons offered sacrifices <sup>x</sup>on the altar of burnt offering and <sup>y</sup>on the altar of incense, for all the work of the Most Holy Place, and to make atonement for Israel, according to all that Moses the servant of God had commanded. <sup>50</sup>Now these are the <sup>z</sup>sons of Aaron: Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son, <sup>51</sup>Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son, <sup>52</sup>Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, <sup>53</sup>Zadok his son, and Ahimaaz his son.

Dwelling Places of the Levites

6:17 Gershon: the purpose of the following genealogy was to list the principal offspring of the sons of Levi who were not priests, but regular or "ordinary" Levites.

6:18 Amram was the father of Aaron and the whole line of high priests. All other priests had to trace their lineage to Kohath through his other sons Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. Descendants of Levi who were not sons of Kohath could not be priests at all.

6:22 Amminadab is another name for izhar (v. 18), who otherwise appears as the father of Korah (6:37, 38; see Ex. 6:21; num. 16:1).

6:28 Samuel: samuel's ancestors were described elsewhere as Ephraimites (1 sam. 1:1). Although samuel was an Ephraimite by virtue of his residence in ramathaim zophim, a city in the tribal territory of Ephraim, this genealogy makes it clear that he was in fact a Levite. This explains why he could be trained in the tabernacle under Eli the priest (1 sam. 2:11) and later officiate at public services that included sacrifices (1 sam. 9:13; 10:8).

6:33-47 the temple musicians also were Levites and were divided up into three groups according to their descent from Levi's three sons. The Kohathites in David's time were led by Heman, grandson of Samuel; the gershonites by Asaph (vv. 39, 43); and the Merarites by Ethan (vv. 44, 47). Ethan was otherwise known as Jeduthun (25:1).

6:49 in contrast to the Levites just listed, Aaron and his descendants had the privilege and responsibility of the office of the high priest. What set them apart from the other Levites was their access to the altar of burnt offering and incense and their work of making atonement for Israel. Levites could assist in this ministry and could officiate at local sacrifices. see the actions of the Levite samuel (1 sam. 7:9; 9:12, 13; 16:2-5). However, only priests in the line of Aaron could present sacrifices at the tabernacle or temple.

6:50 sons of Aaron: the genealogy of vv. 50-53 is the same as that in vv. 4-8, but this list ends with Ahimaaz. This list recites the line of Aaron only until the time of David (v. 31). Zadok and Ahimaaz were the last of the priests in the line of Eleazar under David's administration (2 sam. 15:35, 36).

6:54 dwelling places: the remainder of the chapter describes the allocation of cities and towns to the priests (vv. 54-60), the rest of the Kohathites (vv. 61, 66-70), the gershonites (vv. 62, 71-76), and the Merarites (vv. 63, 77-81).

the sons of Aaron, of the family of the Kohathites: <sup>55b</sup>They gave them Hebron in the land of Judah, with its surrounding <sup>1</sup>common-lands. <sup>56c</sup>But the fields of the city and its villages they gave to Caleb the son of Jephunneh. <sup>57</sup>And <sup>d</sup>to the sons of Aaron they gave one of the cities of refuge, Hebron; also Libnah with its common-lands, Jattir, Eshtemoa with its common-lands, <sup>58<sup>2</sup></sup>Hilen with its common-lands, Debir with its common-lands, <sup>59<sup>3</sup></sup>Ashan with its common-lands, and Beth Shemesh with its common-lands. <sup>60</sup>And from the tribe of Benjamin: Geba with its common-lands, <sup>4</sup>Alemeth with its common-lands, and Anathoth with its common-lands. <sup>61e</sup>To the rest of the family of the tribe of the Kohathites they gave <sup>f</sup>by lot ten cities from half the tribe of Manasseh. <sup>62</sup>And to the sons of Gershon, throughout their families, they gave thirteen cities from the tribe of Issachar, from the tribe of Asher, from the tribe of Naphtali, and from the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan. <sup>63</sup>To the sons of Merari, throughout their families, they gave <sup>g</sup>twelve cities from the tribe of Reuben, from the tribe of Gad, and from the tribe of Zebulun. <sup>64</sup>So the children of Israel gave these cities with their <sup>5</sup>common-lands to the Levites. <sup>65</sup>And they gave by lot from the tribe of the children of Judah, from the tribe of the children of Simeon, and from the tribe of the children of Benjamin these cities which are called by their names.

6:55 Because the priests were all Kohathites, the cities of the priests were within the districts assigned to Kohath. Hebron, located in Judah, is the first of these cities. surrounding common-lands: t he priests and Levites occupied not only houses within the city walls, but they owned and worked fields immediately adjacent to the cities as well. t hese common-lands extended out from the perimeters of the city walls for a thousand cubits (about 1,500 ft.) in every direction (n um. 35:4, 5) and could be used for farming and grazing (n um. 35:3). t his does not mean that the priests and Levites supported themselves by farming, for the Law is clear that they were to live on the tithes and offerings of the other tribes (n um. 18:21-32). t he produce they received from the common-lands was a bonus. 6:56 Hebron had originally been assigned to the faithful spy Caleb as part of his inheritance (Josh. 15:13). However, Caleb's inheritance was further defined as not the city proper, but the nearby fields and villages (Josh. 21:11, 12). Caleb's fields were outside the thousand-cubit circumference that belonged to the priests of Hebron. 6:57 t he Law specified that in the event of an unintentional killing, the perpetrator could find sanctuary in one of six cities of refuge scattered throughout the land (n um. 35:9-15). He or she could remain there in safety until the case came to trial (n um. 35:16-28). t hese six cities were included among the 48 Levitical cities, and Hebron was one of them.

6:60 t he number thirteen refers to the original allotment of cities in Josh. 21:13-19. t he chronicler was listing the priestly cities that existed in his own day, nearly a thousand years after the original distribution. t his accounts not only for two missing cities, Juttah and gibeon, but also for the variation in the spelling of some of the names as well. t he priestly cities were concentrated in the areas of Judah and Benjamin, conveniently located near the temple in Jerusalem.

6:61 rest of . . . the Kohathites: t hese were the Levites who were not priests. t heir cities were situated mainly in the half tribe of Manasseh on the west of the Jordan (see v. 70), just south of the plain of Jezreel.

6:66 Beginning here, there is a continuation of the description of non-priestly Kohathite cities begun in v. 61. some of these cities were in Ephraim, with Manasseh to the north and Benjamin to the south.

6:67 Like Hebron, Shechem was both a Levitical city and a city of refuge. shechem was especially significant in israel. it was the site of Abraham's first altar in Canaan (gen. 12:6, 7), the place where Jacob bought a piece of land (gen. 33:19), and the location of the first capital of the northern kingdom (1 Kin. 12:25).

6:71 Gershon: t he tribal areas containing the cities of the gershonite Levites were East Manasseh; issachar, north of West Manasseh (v. 72); Asher, on the Mediterranean coast north of Mt. Carmel (v. 74); and naphthali, west and north of the sea of galilee (v. 76). Golan: t his city in Bashan east of the Jordan was a city of refuge.

6:76 Kedesh was another of the six cities of refuge. it was the most northern of the three west of the Jordan.

6:77 t he third Levitical order, that of Merari, occupied cities in Zebulun. r euben was east of the Dead sea (v. 78), and gad was east of the Jordan from the Dead sea almost to the sea of galilee (v. 80).

6:78 Bezer was also a city of refuge, the farthest south of those east of the Jordan.

icho, on the east side of the Jordan, they were given from the tribe of Reuben: Bezer in the wilderness with its common-lands, Jahzah with its common-lands, <sup>79</sup>Kedemoth with its common-lands, and Mephaath with its common-lands. <sup>80</sup>And from the tribe of Gad: Ramoth in Gilead with its common-lands, Mahanaim with its common-lands, <sup>81</sup>Heshbon with its common-lands, and Jazer with its common-lands.

The Family of Issachar

<sup>5</sup>Now their brethren among all the families of Issachar were mighty men of valor, listed by their genealogies, eighty-seven thousand in all.

The Family of Benjamin

<sup>6</sup>The sons of <sup>c</sup>Benjamin were Bela, Becher, and Jediel—three in all. <sup>7</sup>The sons of Bela were Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jerimoth, and Iri—five in all. They were heads of their fathers' houses, and they were listed by their genealogies, twenty-two thousand and thirty-four mighty men of valor. <sup>8</sup>The sons of Becher were Zemirah, Joash, Eliezer, Elioenai, Omri, Jerimoth, Abijah, Anathoth, and Alemeth. All these are the sons of Becher. <sup>9</sup>And they were recorded by genealogy according to their generations, heads of their fathers' houses, twenty thousand two hundred mighty men of valor. <sup>10</sup>The son of Jediel was Bilhan, and the sons of Bilhan were Jeush, Benjamin, Ehud, Chenaanah, Zethan, Tharshish, and Ahishahar.

The Family of Naphtali

The Family of Manasseh (West)

6:80 Another city of refuge, Ramoth in Gilead, was directly east of the Jordan. in this way the cities of refuge were distributed throughout the land so that any israelite would be within a few miles of one of them. All six cities of refuge were assigned to the Levites, with Hebron designated for the priests (v. 55). t he cities of refuge were assigned this way because the priests and Levites had judicial responsibilities in the cases involving unintentional homicide (n um. 35:25, 28; Deut. 17:8-13; 19:17-21).

7:2 t he total here was limited to the sons of Tola. Undoubtedly there were thousands of other tribesmen of issachar at that time, descendants of the three other sons of issachar (v. 1).

7:4 thirty-six thousand: t hese appear to be the offspring of Uzzi (v. 3), the son of tola (v. 2). since the figure is much greater than the 22,600 of v. 2, it must reflect the population of a much later time, perhaps as late as the period just before the fall of samaria in 722 b.c. At that time, issachar would have had its largest population.

7:6 t he chronicler recounted the genealogies of Benjamin in some detail because King saul was a Benjamite (7:6-12; 8:1-40; 9:35-44). saul was an important figure even though his reign ended tragically. t he complexity of the biblical genealogies can be illustrated by comparing the list of Benjamin's sons here with that in 8:1, 2; gen. 46:21; num. 26:38, 39. t he differences in these genealogies are most likely due to the listing of principal descendants of different time periods.

7:13 t he unusual brevity of the genealogy here may reflect the greatly reduced size and importance of Naphtali following the maraudings of the Assyrians under t iglath-Pileser iii. n aphtali's tribal area was specifically pointed out as the object of the Assyrian campaigns (2 Kin. 15:29).

7:14 Manasseh was the son of Joseph. Machir: Machir's daughter became the wife of Judah's grandson Hezron, thus joining the two tribes of Manasseh and Judah (2:21).

7:15 if the Huphim and Shuphim here are the same as in v. 12, the tribe of Manasseh and the tribe of Benjamin were connected through the marriage of Machir and Maachah. Zelophehad: Apparently a grandson of gilead (num. 26:30-33), this man had no sons. t his situation prompted Moses to announce god's provision for the inheritance rights of daughters in such cases (num. 36:1-9).

The Family of Ephraim

<sup>20i</sup>The sons of Ephraim were Shuthelah, Bered his son, Tahath his son, Eladah his son, Tahath his son, <sup>21</sup>Zabad his son, Shuthelah his son, and Ezer and Elead. The men of Gath who were born in that land killed them because they came down to take away their cattle. <sup>22</sup>Then Ephraim their father mourned many days, and his brethren came to comfort him.

7:20, 21 t he genealogy of Ephraim follows the genealogy of his brother Manasseh. Tahath: t his name and Shuthelah both occur twice, illustrating the custom of sons being named for their grandfathers or more remote ancestors.

7:21, 22 The men of Gath were probably the pre-conquest Philistines (see gen. 21:32, 34; Ex. 13:17). since the story involves Ephraim's sons in particular and not just the tribe of Ephraim, this verse establishes that Jacob's family before the Exodus had not completely lost contact with the land of Canaan.

7:24 Lower and Upper Beth Horon: t these places were in Ephraim near the border with Benjamin.

7:27 t he fact that there were nine generations between Joshua, the famous successor to Moses, and Ephraim (vv. 23–27) supports the view that the story in vv. 21, 22 occurred before the Exodus.

7:29 children of Joseph: As this phrase makes clear, vv. 28, 29 include the cities of both Ephraim and Manasseh. t he cities of Beth shean, taanach, Megiddo, and Dor were located in Manasseh.

7:30 Asher: t his is the last tribal genealogy in 1 Chronicles. it may be compared with the genealogies of Asher in gen. 46:17; n um. 26:44–46.

7:40 twenty-six thousand: t his number of fighting men would place the completion of this genealogy in the period of David, as stated in v. 2.

8:1 t he reason for this second and much more detailed genealogy of Benjamin was its climactic focus on the genealogy of King saul (vv. 29–40).

8:6 A grandson of Jediel (see 7:10) or Ashbel (see 7:6), Ehud apparently was the link between Benjamin and saul. t he sons of Ehud moved the Benjamites from Geba to Manahath. t he former town was a Benjamite site on the border of Judah, about six miles north-east of Jerusalem.

8:9 t here was a well-known Moabite king named Mesha. Both the scriptures (2 Kin. 3:4) and the Moabite stone attest to this fact. t he reference here to Mesha as a son of shaharaim and Hodesh, a Moabite wife (see v. 8), suggests that the illustrious Moabite king may have had a Benjamite father, but the evidence is not conclusive.

8:12 Ono and Lod were ancient towns about 12 and 7 miles southeast of Joppa. t he sons of Elpaal probably rebuilt these ancient cities.

8:13 Aijalon and Gath were two places in the western lowlands of israel, about 17 miles apart.

were the sons of Azel. <sup>39</sup>And the sons of Eshek his brother were Ulam his firstborn, Jeush the second, and Eliphelet the third.

<sup>40</sup>The sons of Ulam were mighty men of valor—archers. They had many sons and grandsons, one hundred and fifty in all. These were all sons of Benjamin.

9 So <sup>a</sup>all Israel was <sup>1</sup>recorded by genealogies, and indeed, they were inscribed in the book of the kings of Israel. But Judah was carried away captive to Babylon because of their unfaithfulness. <sup>2b</sup>And the first inhabitants who dwelt in their possessions in their cities were Israelites, priests, Levites, and <sup>c</sup>the Nethinim.

Dwellers in Jerusalem

8:28 These dwelt in Jerusalem: t his means that the last generation in the preceding genealogy lived in Jerusalem. t his city was not taken by David until approximately 1004 b.c., so the line of Benjamin was traced to at least that time. Moreover, the fact that David succeeded saul did not mean that all Benjamites were excluded from Jerusalem or for that matter from David's favor. For example, David was careful to attend to Jonathan's survivors (2 sam. 9:1-13), and he gave other Benjamites positions of responsibility in his new government (11:31; 12:1-7, 29).

8:29 A comparison of this genealogy (vv. 29-40) with that of 9:35-44 shows that the father of Gibeon was Jeiel. t he city of Gibeon was a prominent city that existed long before this time, as the conquest narrative makes plain (Josh. 9:1-27).

8:30 Kish was the father of saul (v. 33; 9:39). in this passage the relationship between Jeiel and Kish is unclear, because Kish is also named as the son of ner (v. 33). However, in 9:35-39 the lineage is clearly traced from Jeiel to ner to Kish and finally to saul.

8:32 since saul was not yet born at this point in the genealogy, the Jerusalem here is the city of pre-Davidic times. Jerusalem remained under Jebusite control until David conquered it (2 sam. 5:6-10). Perhaps at this time the Benjamites lived among the Jebusites.

8:33 Abinadab was eventually killed with his father on the battlefield at gilboa (see 10:2; 1 sam. 31:2). Esh-Baal evidently was saul's youngest son, since he was not named in the genealogies of the beginning of saul's reign (1 sam. 14:49). He succeeded saul as king of the northern kingdom after the five-year period in which Abner was in charge (2 sam. 2:10; 5:4, 5). t he pagan name Esh-Baal demonstrates the degree to which saul had succumbed to religious syncretism. t he author of 2 samuel attempted to downplay the pagan connotations of Esh-Baal by calling him ishboeth, meaning the "Man of shame" (2 sam. 2:8).

8:34 t he same pagan tendency appears in the name of Jonathan's son. Merib-Baal means something like "Baal is My Advocate."

9:1 t he book or scroll mentioned here was not the canonical books of Kings, because those contain no genealogies. t he reference must be to genealogical sources compiled and collected by the scribes of the kings of israel. carried . . . to Babylon: t his reference to the Babylonian captivity prepares the way for the genealogies and lists that follow (vv. 3, 4). As v. 3 points out, the evacuation of the cities and towns of Judah provided dwelling places for the returnees whose names follow.

9:2 Israelites: t he deportation of israel by the Assyrians from 734-722 b.c. resulted in israel's dispersion throughout the eastern Mediterranean world. However, it is apparent from this verse that some of them joined their Judean brethren in the return from Babylon after 539 b.c. t he word Nethinim, derived from the Hebrew verb "to give" and thus meaning "the ones given," refers to temple slaves. since the nethinim were distinct from the priests and Levites, these temple slaves must have been from other tribes (see Ezra 2:43; 7:7; neh. 7:46, 60, 73; 10:28).

9:3 Ephraim and Manasseh: t hese two tribes descended from Joseph and were especially blessed by the Lord (gen. 49:22-26; Deut. 33:13-17). However, these two tribes did not belong to the nation of Judah. t his is another confirmation that the community included israelites as well as Judeans.

All these men were heads of a father's house in their fathers' houses.

The Priests at Jerusalem

<sup>10e</sup>Of the priests: Jedaiah, Jehoiarib, and Jachin; <sup>11</sup><sup>2</sup>Azariah the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, the officer over the house of God; <sup>12</sup>Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pashur, the son of Malchijah; Maasai the son of Adiel, the son of Jahzerah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer; <sup>13</sup>and their brethren, heads of their fathers' houses—one thousand seven hundred and sixty. They were <sup>3</sup>very able men for the work of the service of the house of God.

The Levites at Jerusalem

The Levite Gatekeepers

brethren, from his father's house, the Korahites, were in charge of the work of the service, <sup>4</sup>gatekeepers of the tabernacle. Their fathers had been keepers of the entrance to the camp of the LORD. <sup>20</sup>And <sup>j</sup>Phinehas the son of Eleazar had been the officer over them in time past; the LORD was with him. <sup>21</sup><sup>k</sup>Zechariah the son of Meshelemiah was <sup>5</sup>keeper of the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

Other Levite Responsibilities

<sup>28</sup>Now some of them were in charge of the serving vessels, for they brought them in and took them out by count. <sup>29</sup>Some of them were appointed over the furnishings and over all the implements of the sanctuary, and over the <sup>p</sup>fine flour and the wine and the oil and the incense and the spices. <sup>30</sup>And some of the sons of the priests made <sup>q</sup>the ointment of the spices.

9:14–16 t he normal pattern of dividing the genealogy of the Levites according to the three sons of Levi is not followed here (see 6:1). r ather, there are seven families listed in vv. 14–16, six of them living in Jerusalem and the seventh in netophah. Merari is mentioned, but not Kohath or gershon. in place of gershon stands his descendant Asaph (6:39–43). Jeduthun: t his is another name for Ethan, descendant of Merari (6:44–47). Both vv. 14 and 16 appear to list Merarites. Elkanah: t he presence of this name suggests that this family is Kohathite (6:33–38). Netophathites: t his refers to the inhabitants of the village of netophah, a little over three miles southeast of Bethlehem. t he gershonites and Merarites evidently lived in Jerusalem in the postexilic period, while the Kohathite or the Korahite Levites lived in netophah.

9:18 King's Gate on the east: t his was the famous gate just east of the temple (Ezek. 46:1, 2). After the days of the wilderness tabernacle (num. 3:27–31), and since the time of Zechariah and the temple of solomon (v. 21; see 26:1, 2, 14), the Korahites had been responsible for keeping the gates and attending to the place of worship.

9:19 As descendants of Kohath (Ex. 6:18, 21), Korah and his line had close connections with the priesthood. However, they could not be priests since they were descended from izhar rather than Amram. t heir close connection explains why these particular Levites ministered within the precincts of the temple.

9:22 t he gatekeepers had been appointed in the days of David and Samuel (see 26:1–19). since samuel died long before David made his appointments, the chronicler must be saying that David was encouraged and instructed by the prophet from the days of his youth. in a sense, samuel appointed the gatekeepers through David.

9:25 t he gatekeepers lived in villages surrounding Jerusalem (v. 22). t hey came to Jerusalem on a rotating schedule to attend to their temple duties, serving for periods of seven days.

9:26 chief gatekeepers: since there were four sides to the city and temple (v. 24) and four main gates, there must also be four Levites responsible for the oversight of these portals. t hey opened and closed the gates and provided security (v. 27). However, they also oversaw all the various rooms and other facilities of the temple. treasuries: t his referred to the places where money was kept and to storage rooms in general.

9:27 they lodged: Whereas the Levites who tended the gates lived in surrounding villages, those in charge must have lived in the city, probably near the gates of the temple. t hey had to be nearby in order to supervise temple affairs, including the opening and closing of the gates.

9:30 Although the Levites could handle such matters as the serving vessels (v. 28), furnishings, implements, and even materials for an offering (such as flour, wine, incense, and spices, v. 29), they were not allowed to prepare the ointment of the spices. t his was reserved for the priests alone, as Ex. 30:23–25, 33, 37, 38 states.

<sup>31</sup> Mattithiah of the Levites, the firstborn of Shallum the Korahite, had the trusted office *r*over the things that were baked in the pans. <sup>32</sup> And some of their brethren of the sons of the Kohathites *s*were in charge of preparing the showbread for every Sabbath.

<sup>33</sup> These are *t*he singers, heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites, who lodged in the chambers, and were free from other duties; for they were employed in that work day and night. <sup>34</sup> These heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites were heads throughout their generations. They dwelt at Jerusalem.

The Family of King Saul

rael fled from before the Philistines, and fell slain on Mount Gilboa. <sup>2</sup> Then the Philistines followed hard after Saul and his sons. And the Philistines killed Jonathan, <sup>1</sup> Abinadab, and Malchishua, Saul's sons. <sup>3</sup> The battle became fierce against Saul. The archers hit him, and he was wounded by the archers. <sup>4</sup> Then Saul said to his armorbearer, "Draw your sword, and thrust me through with it, lest these uncircumcised men come and abuse me." But his armorbearer would not, for he was greatly afraid. Therefore Saul took a sword and fell on it. <sup>5</sup> And when his armorbearer saw that Saul was dead, he also fell on his sword and died. <sup>6</sup> So Saul and his three sons died, and all his house died together. <sup>7</sup> And when all the men of Israel who were in the valley saw that they had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they forsook their cities and fled; then the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

9:33, 34 *t*he head singers, like the chief gatekeepers (vv. 26, 27), lived in Jerusalem to be constantly on hand to supervise the ministry of the temple musicians. They dwelt at Jerusalem: in fact, it was the general policy that all the heads of the various Levitical classes would live in the capital.

9:40 *t*he interest the chronicler has in the genealogy of Jonathan probably springs from Jonathan's close friendship with David (1 sam. 18:1).

10:1 some 1,700 feet in elevation, Mount Gilboa lies in the southeastern part of the plain of Jezreel. *t*his was Philistine territory from the time they arrived there in about 1200 B.C. *t*he following account of saul's final battle closely parallels the account in 1 sam. 31:1-13.

10:2 Saul's sons: *t*here was a fourth son, ishboseth. He survived this battle and became king of israel five years after saul's death.

10:4 Most *s*emites practiced circumcision for either hygienic or religious purposes, but for the Hebrews it was the sign of god's promise through Abraham to them. *t*he uncircumcised were those outside, often their enemies the Philistines. abuse: *t*he Philistines could not only harm saul personally, but bring shame on the nation that had him as their leader. saul was driven to an extreme course of action. suicide was a very rare occurrence among the Hebrews of Ot times (see v. 5; 2 sam. 17:23; 1 Kin. 16:18).

10:6 all his house died: *t*his statement was written in anticipation of the death of ishboseth, the last of saul's sons. With ishboseth's death (see 2 sam. 4:5, 7), saul's dynasty came to an end.

10:7 *t*hough the Philistines had long dominated the Jezreel-Esdraelon Valley, there were israelite cities in the region for some time. With saul's death, even these were lost to the Philistines, who took them over when the israelites abandoned them.

10:10 Dagon was worshiped by the Philistines and other peoples in syria and northwest Mesopotamia as the god of grain. A hundred years earlier, the Philistines had placed the captured ark of the covenant in the temple of Dagon at Ashdod (1 sam. 5:2). Later *s*amson stood between the central pillars of a temple of Dagon, where he was mocked by the assembled Philistines (Judg. 16:23-31). Apparently the Philistines celebrated military victory by bringing a trophy of their success back to their temple, where it could be displayed as a tribute to the might of their god.

10:11 Jabesh Gilead was just east of the Jordan, not far from Beth shan. *t*he care the people of this town took in retrieving saul's corpse from Beth shan was doubtless in memory of saul's quick response to their cry for help early in his reign (1 sam. 11:1-11).

10:13 saul's untimely death was the result of disobedience to god's word. He had disobeyed god by not waiting for *s*amuel to LORD, <sup>e</sup>because he did not keep the word of the LORD, and also because <sup>f</sup>he consulted a medium for guidance. <sup>14</sup>But he did not inquire of the LORD; therefore He killed him, and <sup>g</sup>turned the kingdom over to David the son of Jesse.

David Made King over All Israel

11 Then <sup>a</sup>all Israel came together to David at Hebron, saying, “Indeed we are your bone and your flesh. <sup>2</sup>Also, in time past, even when Saul was king, you were the one who led Israel out and brought them in; and the LORD your <sup>b</sup>God said to you, ‘You shall <sup>c</sup>shepherd My people Israel, and be ruler over My people Israel.’” <sup>3</sup>Therefore all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and David made a covenant with them at Hebron before the LORD. And <sup>d</sup>they anointed David king over Israel, according to the word of the LORD <sup>1</sup>by <sup>e</sup>Samuel.

The City of David

Joab <sup>5</sup>repaired the rest of the city. <sup>9</sup>So David <sup>h</sup>went on and became great, and the LORD of hosts was with <sup>i</sup>him.

The Mighty Men of David

perform a sacrifice and by not utterly destroying the Amalekites (1 sam. 13:1-15; 15:10-23). consulted a medium: Before the battle, saul had asked for samuel's advice through the witch of En Dor (1 sam. 28:3-25).

10:14 He killed him: t his statement is shocking in its bluntness. in the final analysis, saul's death was not by his own hand but by the hand of god. t the Lord let saul pursue a course that led to death. turned the kingdom over: t his statement confirmed samuel's earlier word to saul (1 sam. 15:28).

11:1, 2 Made famous because Abraham lived (gen. 13:18) and was buried there (gen. 25:9), Hebron was a Levitical city as well (6:54, 55). David made it his capital following saul's death (2 sam. 2:3) and reigned there until ishobeth's death seven years later (2 sam. 4:1-12; 5:5). David's legitimacy as successor to saul was confirmed by the support he received from all the tribes. You shall . . . be ruler: t he crowds were very much aware of the promise god had made to David (1 sam. 16:12; 24:20; 28:17).

11:3 t he covenant refers to mutual pledges made between a king and his people, ensuring stable and successful government. t he Law of Moses made provision for such a covenant (see Deut. 17:18-20). Hints of the king's covenant guidelines may be found in the accession of solomon (29:19; 1 Kin. 2:3) and Joash (2 Kin. 11:4), and in Josiah's promise to obey the statutes of the Book of the Covenant (2 Kin. 23:2, 3). according to . . . Samuel: Years before, samuel had anointed David (1 sam. 16:1, 3, 12, 13). t his second anointing confirmed the first one.

11:4 Jebus was another name for Jerusalem. t he name was coined by the israelites because the city belonged to the Jebusites. t he name does not occur outside the Ot (see Josh. 15:8; 18:16, 28).

11:5 Another name for Jerusalem was Zion. t the original Canaanite city, surrounded by high, thick walls, was considered a stronghold. After David took the city and made it his capital, it became known as the City of David. When the temple was built on Mt. Moriah (2 Chr. 3:1), a hill just north of the city, that area and sometimes the whole city was called Mt. Zion.

11:6 t he stronghold of Zion (11:5) seemed impregnable until Joab found a means of access. As a result, Joab was rewarded with the command of israel's army. He already enjoyed a close relationship with David because he was a son of Zeruiah, David's sister (2:15, 16).

11:8 Once David occupied Mt. Ophel, the original and very small area of Jerusalem, he greatly enlarged it by building retaining walls along the Kidron valley to the east and south and the tyropoeon valley (or the Valley of Maktesh) to the west. Between these walls and the top of the hill he built terraces, so that various buildings could be constructed there.

11:10, 11 the mighty men: t his phrase applied to three persons, Jashobeam, Eleazar (v. 12), and shammah (see 2 sam. 23:11, 12). t hey were distinguished for their bravery and their service to David. Joab, already singled out as “chief” (v. 6), was above them in rank. Jashobeam: t his first of the mighty men, known in 2 sam. 23:8 as Josheb-Basshebeth, showed his heroism by slaying three hundred of the enemy single-handed. t his event is recorded only here.

11:15 Another elite group of three, not named in this episode, penetrated the defenses of the Philistines. The cave of Adullam was about 12 miles southwest of Bethlehem and was one of David's favorite hiding places in the days of his flight from saul (1 sam. 22:1). The Valley of Rephaim is southwest of Jerusalem in the direction of Adullam.

stronghold, and the garrison of the Philistines was then in Bethlehem. <sup>17</sup> And David said with longing, “Oh, that someone would give me a drink of water from the well of Bethlehem, which is by the gate!” <sup>18</sup> So the three broke through the camp of the Philistines, drew water from the well of Bethlehem that was by the gate, and took it and brought it to David. Nevertheless David would not drink it, but poured it out to the LORD. <sup>19</sup> And he said, “Far be it from me, O my God, that I should do this! Shall I drink the blood of these men who have put their lives in jeopardy? For at the risk of their lives they brought it.” Therefore he would not drink it. These things were done by the three mighty men.

<sup>20</sup> q Abishai the brother of Joab was chief of another <sup>1</sup> three. He had lifted up his spear against three hundred men, killed them, and won a name among these three. <sup>21</sup> r Of the three he was more honored than the other two men. Therefore he became their captain. However he did not attain to the first three.

<sup>22</sup> Benaiah was the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man from Kabzeel, who <sup>2</sup> had done many deeds. <sup>3</sup> He had killed two lion-like heroes of Moab. He also had gone down and killed a lion in the midst of a pit on a snowy day. <sup>23</sup> And he killed an Egyptian, a man of great height, <sup>3</sup> five cubits tall. In the Egyptian’s hand there was a spear like a weaver’s beam; and he went down to him with a staff, wrested the spear out of the Egyptian’s hand, and killed him with his own spear. <sup>24</sup> These things Benaiah the son of Jehoiada did, and won a name among three mighty men. <sup>25</sup> Indeed he was more honored than the thirty, but he did not attain to

The Growth of David’s Army

12 Now <sup>a</sup> these were the men who came to David at <sup>b</sup> Ziklag while he was still a fugitive from Saul the son of

11:18 David would not drink it: t his was not an act of ingratitude. to the contrary, David expressed the utmost sense of appreciation. His men had risked their lives to bring water to David, and now in the face of their selflessness he felt unworthy to drink it. He poured it out to the LORD as though it were an offering of blood (v. 19).

11:20 Abishai was a brother of Joab and a son of David’s sister Zeruiah (2:16). Like Joab, Abishai was chief over other warriors because of his great exploits.

11:21 the first three: t his refers to Jashobeam, Eleazar (vv. 11, 12), and shammah. Chronicles does not mention the third one by name (see 2 sam. 23:11, 12) but does acknowledge his existence (v. 12). For reasons not spelled out, Abishai was not qualified to be in the ranks of the first three.

11:23 Five cubits was about seven and a half feet.

11:24 three mighty men: Only Abishai and Benaiah were named as members of this group.

11:25 t he next level below Joab, the commander, and the two groups of “three mighty men” was the thirty. t her names appear in vv. 26–47 and also in 2 sam. 23:24–39. t he term thirty may denote an elite military unit that consisted of approximately 30 men. t he term does not indicate a literal number, because the list in vv. 26–47 includes more than 30 names.

11:26 Asahel was the third son of David’s sister Zeruiah (2:16). Apparently he was not one of the “three mighty men,” but his position as first in the list of “the thirty” suggests that he had a high rank. He may have failed to achieve greater prominence because of his untimely death at the hand of Abner (2 sam. 2:18–23).

11:39 Ammonite: some of David’s heroes were not israelites. t hey may have been immigrants or mercenaries.

11:41 Uriah the Hittite: t he irony of including this warrior in the list is obvious from the story of his death at the hands of David and Joab (2 sam. 11:6–17). With remarkable candor, both samuel and Chronicles include Uriah’s name among the 30.

11:42 Adina . . . the Reubenite also appears to have led a group of the thirty. t hough there are only 16 names from Zabab through Jaasiel (vv. 41, 47), these 16 might have formed the nucleus of such a military unit. t he others were no longer known, or the list was drawn up before the unit was complete.

12:1 About 25 miles southwest of gath, Ziklag became David’s private possession. He received it after he had crossed over into Philistia to get away from saul and had placed himself under the lordship of Achish, the ruler of the city-state of gath (1 sam. 27:1–7). As an ally and vassal of Achish, David was required to pay tribute and show his loyalty and submission. t herefore, he made raids from Kish; and they were among the mighty men, helpers in the war, <sup>2</sup>armed with bows, using both the right hand and <sup>c</sup>the left in hurling stones and shooting arrows with the bow. They were of Benjamin, Saul's brethren.

<sup>16</sup>Then some of the sons of Benjamin and Judah came to David at the stronghold. <sup>17</sup>And David went out <sup>3</sup>to meet them, and answered and said to them, "If you have come peaceably to me to help me, my heart will be united with you; but if to betray me to my enemies, since there is no <sup>4</sup>wrong in my hands, may the God of our fathers look and bring judgment." <sup>18</sup>Then the Spirit <sup>5</sup>came upon <sup>g</sup>Amasai, chief of the captains, and he said:

So David received them, and made them captains of the troop.

Ziklag against various desert tribes, seizing their properties and bringing some of the plunder back to the Philistines. t he rest he distributed to his own countrymen without the Philistines' knowledge. Meanwhile, David was joined at Ziklag by many other "outlaws" and refugees from Judah until he had a sizable number of mighty men there (1 sam. 27:8–12).

12:2 included among his warriors were ambidextrous Benjamites, some of saul's own fellow tribesmen. *t*his shows the extent of dissatisfaction with saul's rule. *t*hat these Benjamites could use the right hand as well as the left was ironic, because the name Benjamin means "son of the right Hand" (see Judg. 20:16).

12:4 *t*his may suggest that the Benjamites listed here formed a unit known technically as the thirty (see 11:25), although not exactly 30 names are recorded here.

12:6 since the other heroes such as the gibeathite in v. 3 were listed by their place of origin, Korah was probably the name of a place in Benjamin. *t*hese Korahites should not be confused with the Levites of that name (9:19).

12:8 David had attracted a following from all over israel. *t*he Gadites came from the far northern and central areas east of the Jordan (5:11–17) to join him. The stronghold was the cave of Adullam, David's principal place of refuge in the Judean wilderness (see 11:15; 1 sam. 22:1).

12:14 hundred . . . thousand: *t*hese were terms for military units which may or may not have had precisely that many men. *t*he gadites were so famous for their valor and leadership skills (v. 8) that they rose to high ranks in David's army.

12:15 According to the agricultural calendar, the first month was in isan, corresponding approximately to April. *t*his was the time of the spring rains (Deut. 11:14), when the rivers were often at flood stage (see Josh. 3:13; 4:18, 19). Ordinarily a person could not cross the Jordan at such times, but the gadites were not deterred by such obstacles.

12:18 Amasai was probably an alternative spelling of Amasa, the son of David's sister Abigail (2:17). He became David's army commander after Joab had fallen from favor (2 sam. 19:13), but he held the post for only a short time before being assassinated by Joab (2 sam. 20:4–13). *t*he murder was all the more reprehensible because Joab and Amasa were first cousins.

12:19 Manasseh defected: *t*his incident reveals how compromised David's position was when he, as vassal to Achish of gath (see v. 1), was pressed into joining the Philistines against saul at gilboa (1 sam. 29:1–11). As it turned out, the other Philistine rulers outvoted Achish and sent David back to Ziklag before he had to go to war against his israelite countrymen.

*t*his word conveys the idea of completeness and well-being—of being a perfect whole. *t*he word denotes an absence of discomfort, whether physical ailments or strife, internal or external (gen. 43:28; is. 26:3; Eccl. 3:8). *i*t is used as an ordinary greeting, as a word of assurance, and as a term of blessing (gen. 43:23; 1 sam. 25:5, 6; 2 Kin. 5:19). *t*he prophets Jeremiah and Ezekiel spoke out against the false prophets of their day for erroneously prophesying peace (Jer. 6:14; 8:11; Ezek. 13:10, 16). After god's judgment fell, Jeremiah proclaimed that god's thoughts toward the captives were for peace and not evil (Jer. 29:11). *t*he word occurs in two important messianic prophecies identifying the Messiah as the Prince of Peace and the One who would assure our peace (is. 9:6; 53:5).

he went to Ziklag, those of Manasseh who defected to him were Adnah, Jozabab, Jediel, Michael, Jozabab, Elihu, and Zillethai, captains of the thousands who were from Manasseh. <sup>21</sup> And they helped David against <sup>j</sup>the bands of raiders, for they were all mighty men of valor, and they were captains in the army. <sup>22</sup> For at that time they came to David day by day to help him, until it was a great army, <sup>k</sup>like the army of God.

David's Army at Hebron

with all weapons of war, <sup>8</sup>stouthearted men who could keep ranks; <sup>34</sup> of Naphtali one thousand captains, and with them thirty-seven thousand with shield and spear; <sup>35</sup> of the Danites who could keep battle formation, twenty-eight thousand six hundred; <sup>36</sup> of Asher, those who could go out to war, able to keep battle formation, forty thousand; <sup>37</sup> of the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh, from the other side of the Jordan, one hundred and twenty thousand armed for battle with every kind of weapon of war.

The Ark Brought from Kirjath Jearim

13 Then David consulted with the <sup>a</sup>captains of thousands and hundreds, and with every leader. <sup>2</sup> And David said to all the assembly of Israel, “If it seems good to you, and if it is of the LORD our God, let us send out to our brethren everywhere who are <sup>b</sup>left in all the land of Israel, and with them to the priests and Levites who are in their cities and their common-lands, that they may gather together to us; <sup>3</sup> and let us bring the ark of our God back to us, <sup>c</sup>for we

12:21 When David returned to Ziklag, he found that Amalekites had attacked the city and carried off his family with other prisoners (1 sam. 30:1). Those who had abandoned David in his march to gilboa (v. 19) now joined him in his pursuit of these raiders (1 sam. 30:2–25).

12:22 The army of God refers to the angelic hosts, too vast to count. David attracted so many recruits while he was in the wilderness in flight from saul and at Ziklag that they were beyond counting.

12:28 His Zadok, apparently an Aaronite (v. 27) and therefore a priest, was probably the same Zadok who was first appointed by David as priest at gibeon (16:39), and then by solomon at Jerusalem (1 Kin. 2:26, 27, 35). The office of priest was not incompatible with that of warrior, as Phinehas clearly demonstrated (num. 25:6–9; Josh. 22:30).

12:39 eating and drinking: Besides the normal festivity that accompanied such a grand occasion as the installation of a king, this phrase alludes to a covenant meal (gen. 31:43–55; Ex. 24:11)—a meal that solemnized a covenant between David and the people (11:3).

12:40 Issachar, Zebulun, and Naphtali were geographically the most distant of the tribes. The phrase near to them was a way of speaking of the common identity of god's people.

13:1 David consulted: Though David was king and therefore could have acted independently, he understood the importance of godly counsel. Before he undertook the next major step, he sought the advice of his subordinate leaders.

13:2 His ark was the ark of the covenant that contained a copy of the ten Commandments (Ex. 25:10–22). In the days of Eli, the ark had been captured by the Philistines, in whose hands it remained for several months (1 sam. 4:11; 6:1). Next it remained at Beth shemesh for a short time (1 sam. 6:13–15) and finally it resided at Kirjath Jearim (1 sam. 6:20–7:1). since the days of Saul: During saul's reign, the people of Kirjath Jearim kept the ark in their city for safekeeping. Besides holding the ten Commandments and serving as a throne for god, the ark represented the presence of the living god among the israelites. David wanted to unify the israelites around their god, so he brought the ark to the nation's new political center, Jerusalem. The city was already the seat of David's government (11:4–9); now it would become the dwelling place of god.

have not inquired at it since the days of Saul.”<sup>4</sup> Then all the assembly said that they would do so, for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

David Established at Jerusalem

14 Now <sup>a</sup> Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and cedar trees, with masons and carpenters, to build him a house. <sup>2</sup> So David knew that the LORD had established him as king over Israel, for his kingdom was <sup>b</sup> highly exalted for the sake of His people Israel.

The Philistines Defeated

13:4 Again the chronicler highlighted the unity of the whole nation by saying that all the people agreed with David’s decision to bring the ark to Jerusalem.

13:5 Shihor in Egypt: t his was another way of referring to the Wadi el-Arish or “r iver of Egypt” that marked the boundary between Egypt and Canaan. t his was israel’s most southwestern point (see num. 34:5; Josh. 13:3). entrance of Hamath: t his was the most northern point of the kingdom under David, about one hundred miles north of the sea of galilee. it was also known as Lebo Hamath (Josh. 13:5; Judg. 3:3; 2 Chr. 7:8).

13:6 A major feature of the Most Holy Place in both the tabernacle and temple was the ark. Above and behind the ark of the covenant, cherubim extended their wings over the cover (also called the mercy seat) of the ark (Ex. 25:17–22). t he glory of god was perceived as sitting upon the top of the ark as a king sat on a throne.

His name: in Deuteronomy, the presence of god is often spoken of as the presence of His name (see Deut. 12:1–14).

13:7 Only the Levites carried the ark. t hey carried it on their shoulders with poles passing through rings on the ark’s corners (num. 4:1–16).

13:9 Chidon’s threshing floor is also called “nachon’s threshing floor” (2 sam. 6:6). A threshing floor was a flat rocky surface on which grain was crushed by threshing sledges drawn by oxen. t he floor was probably in or near Kirjath Jearim, for it is unlikely that the cart had gone far before god exposed to them their error in transporting the ark in a way contrary to His commands.

13:10 god struck Uzza dead because of the sacred inviolability of the ark. it was a holy object, representing the presence of god Himself (Ex. 25:21, 22), so it had to be handled in accord with the strictest regulations (num. 4:5). Handling the ark in any other way, even with the best intention, invited god’s anger (num. 4:15). t he narrative dramatically demonstrates god’s holiness. His people had to approach Him with respectful awe.

13:11 t he threshing floor of Chidon was renamed Perez Uzza, meaning “Outburst Against Uzza.” From that time forward, the name of this place would remind people that violating god’s holiness meant inviting His wrath.

13:13 A Gittite means someone from gath, the name of several cities. since Obed-Edom was a Levite (15:18, 24), he was probably from the Levitical city of gath r immon in Dan (Josh. 21:25).

14:1, 2 A powerful king of the Phoenician city-state of tyre, Hiram is mentioned in the s criptures and in other sources. He was a contemporary of both David and s olomon. His work for David, constructing a royal palace, must have begun late in David’s reign. Hiram supplied material for the temple and other buildings, a project not completed until solomon’s twentieth year (1 Kin. 9:10). All this indicates that the chronicler was not writing in chronological order about the building of David’s palace and the arrival of the ark. t hese did not take place early in his reign, but toward the end. build him a house: Once a king in the ancient Middle Eastern world had firmly established himself, he built a palace to publicize that fact. As v. 2 explicitly states, David built his palace with the understanding that god alone had put him in power and exalted him.

14:3 in addition to the wives he had taken in Hebron (2 sam. 3:2–5), David married others in Jerusalem. Although the Bible never justifies polygamy, ancient kings frequently undertook multiple marriages for political reasons—a king would marry the daughter of another king in order to create a stronger alliance. t he larger a king’s harem, the more prestige the king enjoyed (see 3:1–5).

14:4 t he four children listed here were all sons of Bathshua (Bathsheba; see 3:5).

14:9 Extending southwest from Jerusalem and marking the northern border of Judah (Josh. 15:8), the Valley of Rephaim was the scene of many battles between israel and the Philistines (11:15, 16; see 2 sam. 5:17–22; 23:13–17). t he conflict here was a preemptive strike by the Philistines designed to prevent David from taking Jerusalem and making it the capital of israel (11:4–9). god demonstrated that He was with David by granting him victory over the Philistines.

the Valley of <sup>5</sup>Rephaim. <sup>10</sup>And David <sup>f</sup>inquired of God, saying, “Shall I go up against the Philistines? Will You deliver them into my hand?”

The LORD said to him, “Go up, for I will deliver them into your hand.”

<sup>11</sup>So they went up to Baal Perazim, and David defeated them there. Then David said, “God has broken through my enemies by my hand like a breakthrough of water.” Therefore they called the name of that place <sup>6</sup>Baal Perazim. <sup>12</sup>And when they left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burned with fire.

<sup>13</sup>Then the Philistines once again made a raid on the valley. <sup>14</sup>Therefore David inquired again of God, and God said to him, “You shall not go up after them; circle around them, <sup>h</sup>and come upon them in front of the mulberry trees. <sup>15</sup>And it shall be, when you hear a sound of marching in the tops of the mulberry trees, then you shall go out to battle, for God has gone out before you to strike the camp of the Philistines.” <sup>16</sup>So David did as God commanded him, and they drove back the army of the Philistines from <sup>7</sup>Gibeon as far as Gezer. <sup>17</sup>Then <sup>i</sup>the fame of David went out into all lands, and the LORD <sup>j</sup>brought the fear of him upon all nations.

The Ark Brought to Jerusalem

15 David built houses for himself in the City of David; and he prepared a place for the ark of God, <sup>a</sup>and pitched a tent for it. <sup>2</sup>Then David said, “No one may carry the <sup>b</sup>ark of God but the Levites, for <sup>c</sup>the LORD has chosen them to carry the ark of God and to minister before Him forever.” <sup>3</sup>And David <sup>d</sup>gathered all Israel together at Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD to its place, which he had prepared for it. <sup>4</sup>Then David assembled the children of Aaron and the Levites: <sup>5</sup>of the sons of Kohath, Uriel the chief, and one hundred and twenty of his <sup>1</sup>brethren; <sup>6</sup>of the sons of Merari, Asaiah the chief, and two hundred and twenty of his brethren; <sup>7</sup>of the sons of Gershon, Joel the chief, and one hundred and thirty of his brethren; <sup>8</sup>of the sons of <sup>e</sup>Elizaphan, Shemaiah the chief, and two hundred of his brethren; <sup>9</sup>of the sons of <sup>f</sup>Hebron, Eliel the chief, and eighty of his brethren; <sup>10</sup>of the sons of Uzziel, Amminadab the chief, and one hundred and twelve of his brethren.

<sup>14</sup>So the priests and the Levites <sup>4</sup>sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel. <sup>15</sup>And the children of the Levites bore the ark of God on their shoulders, by its poles, as <sup>k</sup>Moses had commanded according to the word of the LORD.

14:15 God has gone out before you: t he strategy for this battle was different (vv. 10, 14) because god wanted David to understand that the battle was His, not David’s. People often attribute their success to their own intelligence or strength, overlooking the fact that god is the source of all victories.

14:16 Gibeon was about 6 miles northwest of Jerusalem, and Gezer was about 16 miles west of gibeon. t he Philistines evidently left the Valley of r ephaim, fled north to gibeon, and then were pursued all the way to gezer, a town close to their own territory.

15:1 t he place for the ark was in the tabernacle in the City of David. t he original tabernacle built in Moses’ day had been placed at shiloh, in central Manasseh (Josh. 18:1). it remained there until the capture of the ark by the Philistines (1 sam. 4:1-11), when it evidently was moved to nob, just two miles from Jerusalem (1 sam. 21:1-6). next, the tabernacle was moved to a high place at gibeon (2 Chr. 1:3), about two miles north of saul’s city gibeah. When David became king, he left the Mosaic tabernacle at gibeon and appointed the priest Zadok to attend to its ministry (16:39). Even after he had built a new tabernacle on Mt. Zion and brought the ark into it, the original tabernacle remained at gibeon. Finally, s olomon brought the ark from Mt. Zion and the “tabernacle of meeting” (the tabernacle of Moses) from gibeon and stored them in the new temple solomon had built on Mt. Moriah (2 Chr. 5:4, 5).

15:2 Having learned his lesson from the incident with Uzza (13:10), David commanded that the ark of God be moved this time according to the provisions of the Law. it was to be carried by Levites by means of poles inserted through corner rings (n.um. 4:14, 15).

15:5-7 David divided the Levites into divisions according to their genealogies. Uriel was head of the Kohathite clan (6:24), Asaiah was chief of the Merarites (6:30), and Joel was leader of the gershonites (23:8).

15:8-10 All three of the following families were subclans of the Kohathites. Elizaphan was a grandson of Kohath (Ex. 6:18, 22), Hebron was a son of Kohath (Ex. 6:18), and Uzziel was another son of Kohath (Ex. 6:18).

15:11 t he transition from the rule of saul to David involved a transition from the old Mosaic tabernacle to the new place David had established on Mt. Zion in preparation for the temple (see v. 1). t he father of Abiathar, the priest Ahimelech, was in charge of the old tabernacle when it left shiloh and was moved to nob (1 sam. 21:1). Ahimelech (also known as Ahijah; see 1 sam. 14:3; 22:9) was Eli’s great-grandson. Eli must have been a descendant of Aaron’s son ithamar, for the priesthood was taken from his line and given to the line of Eleazar, another son of Aaron (6:3, 4; see 1 sam. 2:22-36). t he line of Eleazar produced Zadok (6:8). During David’s time, representatives of both the ithamar and Eleazar high-priestly lineages served concurrently. Zadok, who descended from Eleazar, served at the tabernacle at gibeon. Abiathar, a descendant of ithamar, was chief priest at Jerusalem. When solomon came to power, Abiathar was deposed and Zadok ministered as high priest at the temple (1 Kin. 2:26, 27, 35).

15:17 t he musician Heman was the grandson of the prophet Samuel (see 6:33), a Kohathite. He is probably the same Heman who appears in the superscription of Ps. 88. Asaph was leader of the gershonite Levites (6:39, 43). Asaph and his sons ministered primarily as singers (25:1, 2; 2 Chr. 20:14) and composers, as their superscriptions suggest (Ps. 50; 73–83). Ethan was the head of the Merarite division of musicians (6:44). Ethan might be the same as “Ethan the Ezrahite,” composer of Ps. 89 and known as a wise man (1 Kin. 4:31).

15:18 second rank: t he musicians apparently occupied a place of higher status than the gatekeepers, who are mentioned next (see 9:17–27).

15:20 strings according to Alamoth: t he musicians listed here are the same as the gatekeepers of v. 18. since gatekeeping was on a rotating basis and might not have required full-time attention, these two responsibilities could have been combined.

15:21 t he word Sheminith might be derived from the Hebrew word for “eighth,” referring to the musical scales.

15:23 t he responsibility of the doorkeepers for the ark appears limited to the task of moving the ark from the house of Obed-Edom to the Davidic tabernacle.

15:24 it is likely that Obed-Edom in this verse was the same person who had custody of the ark in the months just before it was brought to Jerusalem (13:13, 14). He apparently was a Levite (see 13:13) and was certainly a righteous man (see v. 25; 16:38).

15:29 David had married Michal, Saul's daughter, at the beginning of his time of service in saul's court (1 sam. 18:27). t heir relationship had been stormy, perhaps in part because David had spent at least ten years in flight from her father. in fact, saul had annulled the marriage and had given Michal to another man (1 sam. 25:44). One of the conditions of David's peace agreement with Abner and the reunification of the nation under David's kingship was that Michal be returned to him (2 sam. 3:13–16). Michal was one of the few links remaining between David and the dynasty of saul. For the transfer of government from saul to David to be complete, it was necessary for saul's daughter to be transferred back to David—even against her will. When Michal saw David rejoicing at the return of the ark, she despised him out of loyalty to her father and anger that she had been forced to return.

King David as Priest

David's actions on the day that the ark of the covenant was brought into Jerusalem were peculiar for a king. First, David put on a linen ephod. t his fine garment represented god's presence among His people and was part of the uniform of the high priest (Ex. 28:4; 1 sam. 2:28). t hen, after celebrating before the Lord and offering sacrifices to Him, David blessed the people. Blessing the people after their participation in sacrificial worship was another task of the priests (Lev. 9:22, 23; num. 6:23). David's dress and behavior on that day resembled that of a priest (1 Chr. 15:27; 16:1–3).

t he author of Hebrews gives us some insight into what occurred on that day, for he describes a priestly line different from Aaron's line—the priestly line of Melchizedek (Heb. 4:14–16; 7:20–28; 8:6). Like David, Melchizedek was a king, the king of salem. But he was more than king; he also functioned as a priest, one who blessed Abraham (gen. 14:18–20; Heb. 7:1–3). t he Book of Hebrews identifies Jesus, a descendant of David's royal line, as a royal priest of the order of Melchizedek. Moreover, Jesus' priesthood is far superior to that of Aaron (Heb. 5:5–11; 6:13–20; 7:1–10). in the course of discussion, the author of Hebrews cites Ps. 110, a psalm of David. t his psalm teaches that there would someday be a priest from a different line than Aaron's who would be a priest forever. t his is Jesus, the son of David, as the author of Hebrews explains. t hus, when David took on some of the roles of a priest on this occasion, he was acting as a royal priest in the order of Melchizedek. He was anticipating the priestly role of the second David, Jesus Christ, who now sits as High Priest at the right hand of god the Father (Heb. 8:1).

looked through a window and saw King David whirling and playing music; and she despised him in her heart.

The Ark Placed in the Tabernacle

16 So <sup>a</sup>they brought the ark of God, and set it in the midst of the tabernacle that David had erected for it. Then they offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before God. <sup>2</sup>And when David had finished offering the burnt offerings and the peace offerings, <sup>b</sup>he blessed the people in the name of the LORD. <sup>3</sup>Then he distributed to everyone of Israel, both man and woman, to everyone a loaf of bread, a piece of meat, and a cake of raisins.

David's Song of Thanksgiving

16:3 he distributed: David's distribution of food was in line with the nature of the peace offerings of vv. 1, 2, such offerings often accompanied occasions of praise and thanksgiving such as this one. t they were unique in that they provided a common meal in which all participated—the offerer, his family and friends, the priests, and even god (Lev. 7:11–14, 28–34; Deut. 12:17–19).

16:4 t the appointment of Levites described here was of a more permanent nature than that of 15:1–24, which concerned the immediate task of moving the ark into Jerusalem. some of the same persons were involved, as vv. 5, 6 make clear.

16:7 t his strongly implies that David himself composed the psalm. David's musical abilities were well attested (2 sam. 22:1; see the superscriptions of Ps. 3–9). t his psalm consists of three different parts. Each portion correlates with part of another psalm, as follows: 16:8–22 with Ps. 105:1–15; 16:23–33 with Ps. 96:1–13; and 16:34–36 with Ps. 106:1, 47, 48.

16:12 His marvelous works: David appealed to the nation to reflect upon god's faithfulness as manifested in the nation's history. t he god who had proved Himself in the past was the One upon whom the unified nation could depend in the years to come.

16:13 servant . . . chosen ones: these words reflect the role of israel as an elect nation called by god to serve Him as “a kingdom of priests and a holy nation” (Ex. 19:6). David was very much aware of the importance of god's calling of israel and of his responsibility as leader of this privileged nation.

16:16–18 t Abraham, god promised land (gen. 12:7) and innumerable descendants (gen. 15:5; 17:5–8). god designated Abraham's descendants as the people through whom He would bless all nations (gen. 12:2, 3). in his psalm, David was reflecting on the reliability of god's promise to Abraham—a promise renewed to isaac and confirmed to Jacob. Having just become king over all israel, David was very much aware of god's faithfulness in granting the israelites the land over which he had dominion.

16:19 very few: t his refers to the time of the patriarchs. When Jacob went to Egypt, his extended family amounted to only 70 persons (gen. 46:27).

t his Hebrew word means “to serve.” t he Hebrew term can denote honorable, high-level service, either secular or sacred. t he secular sense of the term refers to the work of personal attendants, usually those who would succeed the office of the one served (gen. 39:4; Josh. 1:1, 5). t he sacred use of the word applies primarily to the work of priests, although occasionally Levites, and once even angels (15:2; Deut. 17:12; Ps. 103:21; see also Heb. 1:14). Most of the time the ministering is described as to or before the Lord, but the Levites are also said to minister to the priests (n. um. 18:2), to the people (n. um. 16:9; Ezek. 44:11), and to the tabernacle (n. um. 1:50). Ministering before the Lord occasionally involved music and song (6:31, 32; 16:4, 5).

Regular Worship Maintained

16:20, 21 one nation to another: in patriarchal times, god’s people moved about in Canaan and occasionally dwelt among other peoples such as the Egyptians (gen. 12:10), Philistines (gen. 20:1; 21:34; 26:1), and even the Hittites (gen. 23:4, 17–20). reproved kings: t his is a reference to god’s judgment on Pharaoh (gen. 12:17) and particularly his rebuke of Abimelech, the Philistine king of Gerar (gen. 20:3–7).

16:22 Abraham and the patriarchs were not literally anointed with oil as though they were entering the priesthood or kingship. in this context, anointed ones means those set apart for god’s service. prophets: t though the office of prophet as a “professional” calling began with samuel, there were individuals from the earliest days of biblical history who were known as prophets. t he reference here is specifically to Abraham, who is called a prophet in gen. 20:7, the first occurrence of the word in the Bible.

16:25 above all gods: t his does not admit the real possibility of other gods. instead it refers to the various “gods” in which the pagans believed. t he heathen might fear nonexistent gods, but the living Lord was to be feared more than them all, for He is alive and demands accountability.

16:31 t he phrase, the LORD reigns, is an appeal for the universal recognition of the sovereignty of the god of israel. t he Lord had called israel into a special covenant relationship with Himself, but He did not thereby reject the other nations. indeed, the whole purpose of israel’s election was that israel might be the light to the nations that would cause them to turn to the one true god (is. 42:5–7; 43:8–13).

16:33 trees . . . rejoice: t his is a figure of speech called “personification,” in which inanimate things are spoken of as if they had human characteristics. Because the whole creation was negatively affected by the fall of humanity into sin, it could not be restored to perfection and could not truly rejoice until humanity was redeemed. He is coming: t his consummation of the ages will make all creation burst out in praise.

16:37 David appointed Asaph to be overall supervisor of worship before the Lord (see v. 5).

16:38 Obed-Edom: t here are two men by this name in this verse. t he first is the Obed-Edom whose house sheltered the ark for three months (13:14) and who was a chief doorkeeper (15:24). t he second, also a gatekeeper, was a son of Jeduthun (perhaps the one known as Ethan; see 6:33, 39, 44).

16:39 Until the temple of solomon was completed, there were two legitimate places for community worship—the Mosaic tabernacle at gibeon and David’s tabernacle on Mt. Zion. Zadok, a descendant of Eleazar, served at gibeon, while Abiathar, a descendant of Aaron, served at Jerusalem (see 15:11).

16:40 t here must have been such an altar on Mt. Zion, but the one at gibeon was apparently considered more “official,” no doubt

Temple Music

Music was an important part of the religious life of Israel. Temple music consisted of singers and an orchestra. The singers and musicians could come only from the males of certain families. Likewise, the types of instruments were restricted. Instruments that were associated with women, with raucous merrymaking (such as the Egyptian sistrum), or with pagan worship were banned from the temple orchestra. The OT lists several kinds of instruments in the temple orchestra (15:28; 16:42; 25:1). These instruments include the big harp (nevel), the lyre (kinnor), the ram's horn (shophar), the trumpet (chatsoțerah), the timbrel (toph), and cymbals (metsiltayim). Cymbals were made of copper and were the only percussion instrument in the temple orchestra. They were used when the people were celebrating and praising God. Asaph, David's chief musician (16:5), was a cymbal player. When the people returned from captivity, Asaph's descendants were called to join singers and trumpets in praise to the Lord (Ezra 3:10).

Now the sons of Jeduthun were gatekeepers.

<sup>43 d</sup> Then all the people departed, every man to his house; and David returned to bless his house.

<sup>3</sup> But it happened that night that the word of God came to Nathan, saying, <sup>4</sup> “Go and tell My servant David, ‘Thus says the LORD: “You shall <sup>b</sup> not build Me a house to dwell in. <sup>5</sup> For I have not dwelt in a house since the time that I brought up Israel, even to this day, but have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another. <sup>6</sup> Wherever I have moved about with all Israel, have I ever spoken a word to any of the judges of Israel, whom I commanded to shepherd My people, saying, ‘Why have you not built Me a house of cedar?’”’ <sup>7</sup> Now therefore, thus shall you say to My servant David, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts: “I took you <sup>c</sup> from because it had been built under Moses' leadership (2 Chr. 1:3, 5, 6). Zadok and his fellow priests officiated at the regular morning and evening sacrifices in Gibeon. Early in his reign, Solomon also went to the high place at Gibeon to offer sacrifices—an act completely acceptable to God, who blessed him there (1 Kin. 3:4, 5, 10–13; see 2 Chr. 1:3, 11, 12).

16:41 Jeduthun: This was probably another name for the musician Ethan, who is usually named together with Asaph and Heman (see 15:17, 19; 6:33, 39, 44).

16:42 instruments of God: This brief expression refers to instruments that play songs or praises to God. It is difficult to overemphasize the importance of music in OT worship. The Book of Psalms in itself and constant references to choral and orchestral ministry demonstrate the significance of music (9:33; 15:16–24; 16:4–6; 25:1–31). Music was an important way in which the people worshiped their Creator.

17:1 Nathan the prophet: This is the first time in this book that a prophet's name appears. Nathan apparently served David and Solomon as a private chaplain or counselor (2 sam. 7:2, 3; 12:1–15;

1 Kin. 1:8–30, 32–38, 45; 2 Chr. 29:25). One of his written works, “the book of Nathan the prophet,” provided a source for the composition of the books of Chronicles (29:29; 2 Chr. 9:29). A house of cedar indicates David's wealth, because cedar paneling was too expensive to be used in ordinary homes.

17:5 from tent to tent: This is a reference to the movement of God from the provisional “tabernacle of meeting” (Ex. 33:7), to the Mosaic tabernacle (Ex. 40:34–38), and then to the tabernacle David erected on Mt. Zion (16:1).

17:6 in addition to having “lived” in modest surroundings, God had also “lived” like a nomad, as the house of worship moved from one place to another. In the time of the judges, the tabernacle was at Shiloh (Josh. 18:1) and possibly Nob (1 sam. 21:1). Before that, it had wandered with Israel through the Sinai desert before being set up at Gilgal (Josh. 4:19; 5:10). At this time it resided at Gibeon.

17:7 in the ancient Middle East generally, as well as in the OT, kings were often compared to shepherds (Is. 44:28; Zech. 10:3; 11:4–17). It was most fitting that David, who had literally shepherded sheep, should be called by God to shepherd His flock, Israel.

the sheepfold, from following the sheep, to be <sup>1</sup>ruler over My people Israel. <sup>8</sup>And I have been with you wherever you have gone, and have cut off all your enemies from before you, and have <sup>2</sup>made you a name like the name of the great men who are on the earth. <sup>9</sup>Moreover I will appoint a place for My people Israel, and will <sup>d</sup>plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own and move no more; nor shall the sons of wickedness oppress them anymore, as previously, <sup>10</sup>since the time that I commanded judges to be over My people Israel. Also I will subdue all your enemies. Furthermore I tell you that the LORD will build you a <sup>3</sup>house. <sup>11</sup>And it shall be, when your days are <sup>e</sup>fulfilled, when you must <sup>4</sup>go to be with your fathers, that I will set up your <sup>f</sup>seed after you, who will be of your sons; and I will establish his kingdom. <sup>12g</sup>He shall build Me a house, and I will establish his throne forever. <sup>13h</sup>I will be his Father, and he shall be My son; and I will not take My mercy away from him, <sup>i</sup>as I took it from him who was before you. <sup>14</sup>And <sup>j</sup>I will establish him in My house and in My kingdom forever; and his throne shall be established forever.””

<sup>15</sup> According to all these words and according to all this vision, so Nathan spoke to David.

<sup>16k</sup> Then King David went in and sat before the LORD; and he said: “Who am I, O LORD God? And what is my house, that You have brought me this far? <sup>17</sup> And yet this was a small thing in Your sight, O God; and You have also spoken of Your servant’s house for a great while to come, and have regarded me according to the rank of a man of high degree, O LORD God. <sup>18</sup> What more can David say to You for the honor of Your servant? For You know Your servant. <sup>19</sup> O LORD, for Your servant’s sake, and according to Your own heart, You have done all this greatness, in making known all these great things. <sup>20</sup> O LORD, there is none like You, nor is there any God besides You, according to all that we have heard with our ears. <sup>21</sup> And who is like Your people Israel, the one nation on the earth whom God went to redeem for Himself as a people—to make for Yourself a name by great and awesome deeds, by driving out nations from before Your people whom You redeemed from Egypt? <sup>22</sup> For You have made Your people Israel Your very

17:9 appoint a place: t his phrase did not suggest that Israel would move to a land other than Palestine, for that was the land of promise from the beginning (gen. 13:14–17; 15:18–21; 17:8; Ex. 3:16, 17; 6:8; Deut. 1:8; Josh. 1:2–5). sons of wickedness: t this was a general term for the Israelites’ enemies—those who had persecuted them and taken them from their homeland.

17:10–12 As used here, house meant dynasty. David had said that he would build a house—that is, a temple—for god, but god told David that He would build a house—that is, a dynasty—for David. A human monarchy blessed by god was already apparent in the promise god had made to Abraham (gen. 17:6). in addition, when Jacob blessed his sons, he asserted that a scepter and lawgiver—that is, a king—would arise out of Judah (gen. 49:10). samuel anointed David as king (1 sam. 16:1, 12, 13) and David received assurances that he would rule over Israel (1 sam. 23:17; 24:20; 26:25; 28:17). But god’s promise to establish David’s dynasty forever was unprecedented.

your seed: t his is a reference to Solomon. Here house can only mean temple, because god has no dynasty. t he temple was the dwelling place of god among His people (1 Kin. 8:10, 11).

17:13 Father . . . son: t his remarkable statement affirmed that the dynasty of David had such an intimate relationship with god that its kings would be considered god’s sons in an extraordinary way. him who was before you: t this was a reference to saul, from whom god had removed His blessing (see 10:14).

17:14 t he focus clearly shifts here from David’s immediate successor, Solomon, to the entire succession of kings in David’s line. it was the kingdom and throne of the dynasty that would endure forever, a promise made possible only by the reign of Jesus Christ, the son of David (Luke 1:32, 33).

17:16–18 David responded to god’s blessing with praise. house: David asked what made him the object of god’s grace. He did not have any credentials to deserve god’s amazing promises of an eternal kingdom. small thing: David’s lack of pedigree and royal ancestry were of no consequence to god, because He was not impressed by such things. What more can David say: Once the truth of the promise sank into David’s understanding, he found himself speechless.

17:20 any God besides You: t this is a clear assertion of the uniqueness of Israel’s god. statements such as “all gods” and “the gods of the peoples” in David’s song of thanksgiving (16:25, 26) must be understood in light of this clear confession that there is only one living god.

17:21 David’s observation here was not blind nationalism. As David continued to praise god, he expressed like Moses a theology of the election of Israel. god had chosen Israel, His treasured possession, by His will alone. t he Israelites had nothing by which they could commend themselves to god. in fact, they were an insignificant and enslaved people (Deut. 7:6–11). Israel’s prominent place among the nations was due to the Lord’s abundant mercy.

17:22 Your very own people: t his expression is clearly based on Ex. 19:5; Deut. 7:6; 14:2, where Israel is described as “a special treasure.” t he statement lies at the very center of the Mosaic covenant. At Mt. Sinai, god had become the god of Israel; and Israel, in turn, had become the people of god.

throne

(Heb. kisse) (17:12; Ps. 103:19; is. 66:1) strong’s #3678

t he Hebrew word can refer to any kind of seat or chair (Ps. 1:1), but usually it refers to a seat of honor (is. 22:23), especially a throne (Esth. 5:1). Frequently the word is used to denote royal position or authority (1 Kin. 16:11). to “set up” or “establish” a throne is to establish or confirm a king and his dynasty. David’s throne was particularly important in this respect, for in His covenant with David, god promised that the throne of David’s son would be “established forever” (17:12; Ps. 89:4). Although Solomon and the succeeding kings of Judah sat on David’s throne (1 Kin. 2:12; Jer. 22:2, 4), it is Jesus, the son of David, who will fulfill this prophecy, reigning “upon the throne of David” forever (is. 9:7).

own people forever; and You, LORD, have become their God.

23 “And now, O LORD, the word which You have spoken concerning Your servant and concerning his house, let it be established forever, and do as You have said. 24 So let it be established, that Your name may be magnified forever, saying, ‘The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, is Israel’s God.’ And let the house of Your servant David be established before You. 25 For You, O my God, <sup>5</sup> have revealed to Your servant that You will build him a house. Therefore Your servant has found it in his heart to pray before You. 26 And now, LORD, <sup>6</sup> You are God, and have promised this goodness to Your servant. 27 Now You have been pleased to bless the house of Your servant, that it may continue before You forever; for You have blessed it, O LORD, and it shall be blessed forever.”

David’s Further Conquests

The King’s Cabinet

the office of royal scribe or secretary appears frequently throughout the history of the kingdom. this high official seems to have had special assignments from time to time, but his regular duties included writing the royal correspondence and keeping the royal records—the annals of the events during the king’s reign. the office of recorder seems to have been one of high rank from the reign of King David on. He was called mazkir in Hebrew (“one who brings to mind”), and his official duty was to advise the king respecting important events. Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, served as recorder for both David and solomon (18:15). the recorder represented Hezekiah in public business (is. 36:22), and during the reign of Josiah the recorder was placed in charge of repairs of the temple (2 Chr. 34:8).

of Damascus; and the Syrians became David’s servants, and brought tribute. So the LORD preserved David wherever he went. <sup>7</sup> And David took the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem. <sup>8</sup> Also from <sup>7</sup> Tibhath and from <sup>8</sup> Chun, cities of <sup>9</sup> Hadadezer, David brought a large amount of <sup>f</sup> bronze, with which <sup>9</sup> Solomon made the bronze <sup>1</sup> Sea, the pillars, and the articles of bronze.

17:23 the word which You have spoken: David referred here to the covenant god had just made with him concerning his dynasty (17:7–14). David’s appeal to god to establish His word came immediately after his reference to the Exodus and the Mosaic covenant. David knew that god’s covenant with him was founded on god’s previous promises to Abraham.

18:1 this is the only record of David taking a Philistine city, although he had defeated the Philistines many times in battle. Gath was the Philistine city closest to israelite territory, so it offered the greatest threat to israel.

18:2 it must have been with mixed feelings that David undertook a campaign against the Moabites, for he had strong emotional links with Moab. His great-grandmother Ruth came from Moab (Ruth 4:13–17) and David had sent his own family there for protection when he was hiding from saul (1 sam. 22:3, 4).

18:3 the campaign here may be connected to the Aramean war more fully outlined in 19:1–19, because Hadadezer is mentioned in both places. His kingdom, Zobah, lay immediately north of Damascus. David pursued him as far as Hamath, a hundred miles beyond Damascus, in an effort to extend the israelite empire all the way to the river Euphrates. David’s justification may have been god’s promise to Abraham that the land He was giving him would extend “from the river of Egypt to the great river, the river Euphrates” (gen. 15:18).

18:5 the capital of the Aramean kingdom just north and northeast of israel was Damascus.

18:6 servants . . . tribute: these technical terms, as in the case of Moab (v. 2), suggest that Damascus became a vassal state under israel. Very quickly, Moab and Damascus became client states and Zobah an occupied territory.

18:8 to the two cities Tibhath . . . Chun, samuel added a third Berothai (2 sam. 8:8). All three are referred to in Egyptian texts. they were northeast of Baalbek in central Lebanon.

18:10 greet . . . bless: this apparently casual language covers a more formal situation in which Tou, king of Hamath, was approaching David in willing submission to him as king. in other words, what Moab and Damascus did involuntarily, Hamath was doing voluntarily, making itself a vassal state under israel.

18:11 the fact that David dedicated all the spoils of war to god suggests that he viewed the battles as campaigns of holy war. in these to the LORD, along with the silver and gold that he had brought from all these nations—from Edom, from Moab, from the <sup>i</sup>people of Ammon, from the <sup>j</sup>Philistines, and from <sup>k</sup>Amalek.

David's Administration

<sup>14</sup>So David reigned over all Israel, and administered judgment and justice to all his people. <sup>15</sup>Joab the son of Zerui-ah was over the army; Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was recorder; <sup>16</sup>Zadok the son of Ahitub and <sup>7</sup>Abimelech the son of Abiathar were the priests; <sup>8</sup>Shavsha was the scribe; <sup>17</sup><sup>o</sup>Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and David's sons were <sup>9</sup>chief ministers at the king's side.

The Ammonites and Syrians Defeated

19 It<sup>a</sup> happened after this that Nahash the king of the people of Ammon died, and his son reigned in his place. <sup>2</sup>Then David said, "I will show kindness to Hanun the son of Nahash, because his father showed kindness to me." So David sent messengers to comfort him concerning his father. And David's servants came to Hanun in the land of the people of Ammon to comfort him.

<sup>3</sup>And the princes of the people of Ammon said to Hanun, <sup>1</sup>"Do you think that David really honors your father because he has sent comforters to you? Did his servants not come to you to search and to overthrow and to spy out the land?"

<sup>8</sup>Now when David heard of it, he sent Joab and all the army of the mighty men. <sup>9</sup>Then the people of Ammon came out and put themselves in battle array before such war, initiated and led by god, all proceeds of the victory belonged to Him. such spoils were said to be "doomed to destruction" or "accursed" (Josh. 6:17, 18), meaning that they could not be used for secular purposes but were consecrated to god. When solomon built the temple, he brought all the dedicated things into the temple treasuries (2 Chr. 5:1).

18:12 One of David's nephews (2:15, 16), Abishai, was included in one of the groups of David's "three mighty men" (11:19, 20). Valley of Salt: t his was a few miles east of Beersheba.

18:13 t he term servants suggests that Edom became not just a defeated foe, but also a vassal state under israel's control. t his allowed Edom to retain its own leadership, but it was under David's close supervision, as the reference to israelite garrisons makes clear.

18:15 David awarded his nephew Joab (2:15, 16) the rank of commander of the army for his success in penetrating the walls of Jerusalem (11:4-9). recorder: Jehoshaphat was the keeper of the royal archives or records. t he chronicler himself may have had access to such documents when he composed the present work (see 27:24).

18:16 Zadok descended from Aaron through Eleazar (16:39). Abimelech: Abiathar, a descendant of Aaron's son ithamar, had served as David's priest in the wilderness (1 sam. 22:20) and later at Jerusalem (15:11). But he was disloyal to solomon and was removed from office, leaving Zadok alone as high priest (1 Kin. 2:27, 35). it seems that David must have suspended Abiathar as well from service at some earlier point, for in the present passage his son Abimelech was priest with Zadok.

18:17 Cherethites . . . Pelethites: t these were elite companies of soldiers, probably mercenaries. t they were commanded by Benaiah, a member of one of the groups of "three mighty men" (11:24). t here were Philistines known as Cherethites (Ezek. 25:16; see 1 sam. 30:14), and the connection between Pelethites and Philistines elsewhere

(2 sam. 15:18) leads to the conclusion that they were all from Philistia. chief ministers: t these were David's sons who served in his government. t they are called by the Hebrew word usually translated "priests" in 2 sam. 8:18.

19:1 since Nahash was reigning in saul's earliest years (1 sam. 11:1), the present incident must have occurred early in David's reign at Jerusalem. nahash evidently reigned for over 50 years (40 years of saul, plus seven of David in Hebron, plus whatever years had passed in Jerusalem).

19:4 shaved . . . cut off: Ancient s emitic men were inordinately proud of their beards and scrupulously modest in their attire. t he Ammonites humiliated David's men in the most offensive way possible.

19:6 made themselves repulsive: t he Ammonites realized that David would surely retaliate for the way they had offended his delegation. thousand talents of silver: A talent was 75 pounds.

Mesopotamia: t his was not the great land between the t igris and the Euphrates inhabited by the Assyrians and Babylonians, but a district on the upper Euphrates known as Aram naharaim. Syrian Maacah: t his was a small kingdom located between Damascus and the sea of galilee.

19:7 t he parallel account in 2 sam. 10:6 does not mention chariots but says there was a total of 33,000 men. t he chronicler does not mention the number of men, but only the chariots. Both writers gave different sources of the manpower and material, so clearly they were arriving at their totals from different perspectives or with different purposes in mind. Medeba was 20 miles southwest of r abbah, the capital of Ammon. it is called Madaba today. Ammon gathered: t he israelites were apparently between the Aramean armies and the city of r abbah (see v. 10), so when the Ammonites attacked from the city, the israelites were pinned between two forces.

the gate of the city, and the kings who had come were by themselves in the field.

<sup>10</sup>When Joab saw that the battle line was against him before and behind, he chose some of Israel's best, and put them in battle array against the Syrians. <sup>11</sup>And the rest of the people he put under the command of Abishai his brother, and they set themselves in battle array against the people of Ammon. <sup>12</sup>Then he said, "If the Syrians are too strong for me, then you shall help me; but if the people of Ammon are too strong for you, then I will help you. <sup>13</sup>Be of good courage, and let us be strong for our people and for the cities of our God. And may the LORD do what is good in His sight."

<sup>14</sup>So Joab and the people who were with him drew near for the battle against the Syrians, and they fled before him. <sup>15</sup>When the people of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fleeing, they also fled before Abishai his brother, and entered the city. So Joab went to Jerusalem.

<sup>16</sup>Now when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they sent messengers and brought the Syrians who were beyond <sup>5</sup>the River, and <sup>6</sup>Shophach the commander of Hadadezer's army went before them. <sup>17</sup>When it was told David, he gathered all Israel, crossed over the Jordan and came upon them, and set up in battle array against them. So when David had set up in battle array against the Syrians, they fought with him. <sup>18</sup>Then the Syrians fled before Israel; and David killed <sup>7</sup>seven thousand

Rabbah Is Conquered

20 It<sup>a</sup> happened <sup>1</sup>in the spring of the year, at the time kings go out to battle, that Joab led out the armed forces and ravaged the country of the people of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabbah. But <sup>b</sup>David stayed at Jerusalem. And <sup>c</sup>Joab defeated Rabbah and overthrew it. <sup>2</sup>Then David <sup>d</sup>took their king's crown from his head, and found it to weigh a talent of gold, and there were precious stones in it. And it was set on David's head. Also he brought out the <sup>2</sup>spoil of the city in great abundance. <sup>3</sup>And he brought out the people who were in it, and <sup>3</sup>put them to work with saws, with iron picks, and with axes. So David did to all the cities of the people of Ammon. Then David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

Philistine Giants Destroyed

19:10 Completely surrounded, Joab split up his forces so that half faced those before and half faced those behind. Joab led the section that opposed the Syrians, and Abishai commanded the section that opposed the Ammonites (v. 11).

19:13 may the LORD do what is good in His sight: t his may look like the resigned statement of a fatalist, but it was anything but that. Joab understood enough of the sovereignty and omniscience of god to know that after all human effort and energy had been expended, the battle was still god's.

19:15 t he Syrians were mercenaries and had no real commitment to the task at hand. When it appeared that they were in danger of defeat, they fled. t heir retreat so demoralized the Ammonites that they withdrew into the safety of their city.

19:17 samuel located the setting of the battle at Helam (2 sam. 10:17), about 40 miles east of the sea of galilee.

19:19 t he defeat of Hadadezer and all his vassal kings brought about a shift in allegiance, so that all the Aramean states that had paid tribute to Zoba came under tribute to israel. in this context, servants did not signify household slaves but national subservience to a greater power, in this case israel. t his effectively eliminated all the Arameans as allies of Ammon and precluded their being a further threat to israel. With the subjugation of everything from Aram Maachah to the Euphrates, David occupied all the boundaries of the land of promise as outlined in the Abrahamic covenant (gen. 15:18–21).

20:1 great military operations were conducted in the spring of the year for two main reasons: (1) the latter rains were over and the dry months of summer, most suitable for military activity, were at hand; and (2) the barley harvests were in and the wheat harvests sufficiently well along to free men of military age for battle. besieged Rabbah: Having defeated the Aramean allies of Ammon at Helam (19:17, 19), Joab led israel's armies against the main enemy and principal objective, the capital of the Ammonite kingdom, r abbah. t he modern city of Amman, Jordan, occupies the ancient site. David stayed at Jerusalem: t his agrees with samuel's account, but samuel also related the sordid story of David's adultery with Bathsheba, the plot to kill her husband Uriah, and the birth of David's son—all of which took place while Joab was laying siege to r abbah. t he chronicler omitted the material because it was not relevant to his literary and theological purposes. He was showing how the Davidic dynasty was the fulfillment of god's promises.

20:2 David did not participate in the initial attack on r abbah, but he did join Joab when it fell, because Joab earnestly entreated him to come share the credit for the victory (2 sam. 12:27, 28). t he crown David took was ceremonial and not for wearing, since it weighed a talent (about 75 pounds). set on David's head: t his was only for this ceremonial occasion. David put the crown on his head to demonstrate that he had vanquished the Ammonites and now reigned over them as well.

20:3 it was common in Ot times for people defeated in war to be consigned to forced labor, particularly if they had been coerced into some kind of vassal relationship (see Josh. 9:22–27; 1 Kin. 9:20, 21).

20:4 t he city of Gezer was on the frontier between israel and Philistia, and was constantly a bone of contention between them. Sibbechai the Hushathite: He was one of the 30 warriors who formed an elite corps (see 11:29). the giant: t his apparently did not refer to a single individual, but to a giant race indigenous to the country east of the Jordan (Deut. 2:10, 11, 20, 21).

<sup>6</sup>Yet again <sup>h</sup>there was war at Gath, where there was a man of great stature, with twenty-four fingers and toes, six on each hand and six on each foot; and he also was born to <sup>8</sup>the giant. <sup>7</sup>So when he defied Israel, Jonathan the son of <sup>9</sup>Shimea, David's brother, killed him.

<sup>8</sup>These were born to the giant in Gath, and they fell by the hand of David and by the hand of his servants.

The Census of Israel and Judah

21 Now <sup>a</sup>Satan stood up against Israel, and moved David to <sup>1</sup>number Israel. <sup>2</sup>So David said to Joab and to the leaders of the people, "Go, number Israel from Beersheba to Dan, <sup>b</sup>and bring the number of them to me that I may know it."

<sup>3</sup>And Joab answered, "May the LORD make His people a hundred times more than they are. But, my lord the king, are they not all my lord's servants? Why then does my lord require this thing? Why should he be a cause of guilt in Israel?"

All Israel had one million one hundred thousand men who drew the sword, and Judah had four hundred and seventy thousand men who drew the sword. <sup>6c</sup>But he did not count Levi and Benjamin among them, for the king's <sup>2</sup>word was abominable to Joab.

<sup>7</sup>And <sup>3</sup>God was displeased with this thing; therefore He struck Israel. <sup>8</sup>So David said to God, <sup>d</sup>"I have sinned greatly, because I have done this thing; <sup>e</sup>but now, I pray, take away the iniquity of Your servant, for I have done very foolishly."

<sup>11</sup>So Gad came to David and said to him, "Thus says the LORD: 'Choose for yourself, <sup>12h</sup>either <sup>4</sup>three years of famine, or three months to be defeated by your foes with the sword of your enemies overtaking you, or else for three days the sword of the LORD—the plague in the land, with the <sup>5</sup>angel of the LORD destroying throughout all the territory of Israel.' Now consider what answer I should take back to Him who sent me."

<sup>13</sup>And David said to Gad, "I am in great distress. Please let me fall into the

20:7 Shimea: t his was David's older brother, the third son of Jesse (2:13).

20:8 the giant: As in v. 4, this likely referred to a giant race living in and around Gath, though it is possible that a particular giant was in view. t he goliath killed by David was from gath (1 sam. 17:4).

21:1 t he word Satan means "Adversary." While at first he was called "the satan," this later came to be used as a proper name, satan (see Zech. 3:1, 2). t he nt identifies him as the evil one, the devil, and the dragon, thus linking him to the serpent in the garden of Eden (gen. 3:1). moved David: samuel attributed David's impulse to number the people to god Himself (2 sam. 24:1). t he apparent contradiction can be resolved by recognizing that though satan is the author of all evil, he cannot exercise his evil intentions apart from the permission of god. Moreover, god could use him to accomplish His own purposes of judgment (1 Kin. 22:19–23) or discipline (as here with David).

21:2 Go, number: David's plan to take a census was not evil in itself, for the Lord Himself at other times had commanded the israelites to be counted (see n um. 1). What was wrong with David's census was David's attitude—his pride. He wanted to know the number of the israelites so that he could glory in the extent of his reign (see 2 sam. 24:1). Beersheba to Dan: t his was the traditional way of describing all of israel from south to north. t he distance is about 150 miles.

21:3 Joab was concerned that David's arrogant command for a census would bring punishment, not only on the king but on innocent citizens, whom Joab described as David's servants. David's position as king and shepherd of his people implicated them in whatever he did. cause of guilt: in a courageous appeal, Joab pointed out that if David's decision was put into effect David would be personally accountable for whatever followed.

21:6 t he men of Levi, dedicated as they were to priestly service, were ordinarily exempt from military conscription (n um. 1:47–49).

Benjamin: t he reason this tribe was excluded may be that the judgment of god commenced before the task was completed (27:24). Perhaps Joab simply abandoned the task before he finished, his sense of revulsion growing more and more as he carried it out.

21:8 I have sinned: to his credit, David blamed no one but himself for the judgment of god that fell on the nation. He rightly believed that if god would forgive him, the affliction of the nation would also cease.

21:9 Gad is the second prophet named in the book (see 17:1). He also produced a composition to which the chronicler refers (29:29). Here the chronicler calls gad a seer, a person who sees or receives revelations from the Lord. t he author of samuel refers to him by the more familiar term prophet (1 sam. 22:5).

21:10 I offer . . . three things: t his is the only place in the Bible where god offers someone a choice of punishments.

21:13 David knew that the Lord is merciful—a god who forgives.

Satan

(Heb. satan) (21:1; 1 sam. 29:4; Job 2:1; Zech. 3:1) strong's #7854

t he Hebrew word from which Satan comes, which literally means "adversary," sometimes refers to human enemies (1 sam. 29:4; Ps. 109:6). Once it refers to the angel of the Lord who opposed Balaam (n um. 22:22). But whenever this word is used as a proper name in the Ot, it refers to the great superhuman enemy of god, people, and good (21:1; Job 1; 2). t his use of the word also occurs frequently in the nt. satan is destined to fail in his continuing rebellion against god. t he death of Christ on the cross is the basis for satan's final defeat (Heb. 2:14, 15; 1 Pet. 3:18, 22). t he final victory will come when Jesus returns and satan is cast into the lake of fire (r ev. 20:1–15).

hand of the LORD, for His <sup>i</sup>mercies are very great; but do not let me fall into the hand of man.”

continued threshing wheat. <sup>21</sup>So David came to Ornan, and Ornan looked and saw David. And he went out from the threshing floor, and bowed before David with his face to the ground. <sup>22</sup>Then David said to Ornan, <sup>1</sup>“Grant me the place of this threshing floor, that I may build an altar on it to the LORD. You shall grant it to me at the full price, that the plague may be withdrawn from the people.”

<sup>23</sup>But Ornan said to David, “Take it to yourself, and let my lord the king do what is good in his eyes. Look, I also give you the oxen for burnt offerings, the threshing implements for wood, and the wheat for the grain offering; I give it all.”

<sup>27</sup>So the LORD commanded the angel, and he returned his sword to its sheath.

<sup>28</sup>At that time, when David saw that the LORD had answered him on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite, he sacrificed there. <sup>29</sup><sup>s</sup>For the tabernacle of the LORD and the altar of the burnt offering, which Moses had made in the David’s willingness to fall into the hand of the LORD demonstrated his complete trust in the grace of god. Even when god was punishing him, David trusted god rather than man—god’s forgiving nature over any leniency people might offer.

21:15 t he Lord requires certain conditions people must meet in order for Him to act one way or another. One aspect of this is prayer, for often god chooses to act in specific cases according to whether and how His people pray. t his was clearly the case here, since God sent an angel to Jerusalem to destroy it, but when He saw David’s repentance and heard his intercessory prayer (v. 17), He relented.

21:16 Sackcloth was a rough garment usually made of goat’s hair (is. 50:3), worn by mourners to express grief (1 Kin. 21:27; is. 32:11). David and the elders of israel were dressed in such a manner because of the terrible calamity brought on the nation by the plague.

21:17 By calling his people sheep, David was acknowledging himself as their shepherd (17:7). since that designation first arose in the context of god’s covenant promises, David’s reference to his people as sheep very likely attested to his feelings of covenant unfaithfulness and irresponsibility. He was supposed to be the one who guided the flock to safety and security, but by his arrogance in numbering the people he had brought them harm.

21:18 Building an altar in a time of judgment or impending judgment was for the purpose of offering propitiatory sacrifices. sin had caused a breach between god and His people. t he presentation of appropriate burnt offerings and peace offerings (v. 26) would be the occasion for reconciliation, as the Law explained (num. 15:1–10). threshing floor: t he altar was located precisely where the angel of the Lord stood with sword in hand to destroy Jerusalem (v. 15). t his place of judgment would thereby become the place of grace and forgiveness.

21:22 Grant me . . . this threshing floor: David wanted the altar at precisely this place because this is where the angel stood with drawn sword (v. 15), and as was certainly known to David, this was where Abraham had prepared to offer isaac as a sacrifice to god (gen. 22:1, 2; see 2 Chr. 3:1). it is fitting that this holy place should be the site of an altar where David could make atonement for his sins and thus effect the withdrawal of the plague.

21:24 David again showed a clear perception of the essence of sacrifice. Until he owned what Ornan had, and until he had expended his own resources for it, he could not use it as an offering to god. which costs me nothing: While David could have rightfully accepted these gifts without paying for them, he felt that this would not suffice as sacrifice. A true sacrifice to god required labor and investment on David’s part.

21:25 t he chronicler referred to the price for the whole place, probably several acres of valuable property. t he fact that the temple was later built here suggests a large area.

21:26 Just as a three-year drought ended in the days of Elijah when the prophet called down fire on a sacrifice at Carmel (1 Kin. 18:38, 41), so the three-day plague god brought on israel ended with the sacrifice at Ornan’s threshing floor.

21:28 he sacrificed there: Once David saw that god had sanctified the spot by setting fire to the sacrifice, he continued to use the altar as a regular place of offering.

21:29 t his verse teaches explicitly that the original tabernacle and altar of the burnt offering had not been destroyed when the ark was taken from shiloh. t he Ot account does not trace their movement fully after shiloh, but they did end up at nob and finally at gibeon (see 15:1).

wilderness, were at that time at the high place in <sup>1</sup>Gibeon. <sup>30</sup>But David could not go before it to inquire of God, for he was afraid of the sword of the angel of the LORD.

David Prepares to Build the Temple

22 Then David said, <sup>a</sup>“This is the house of the LORD God, and this is the altar of burnt offering for Israel.” <sup>2</sup>So David commanded to gather the <sup>b</sup>aliens who were in the land of Israel; and he appointed masons to <sup>c</sup>cut hewn stones to build the house of God. <sup>3</sup>And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails of the doors of the gates and for the joints, and bronze in abundance <sup>d</sup>beyond measure, <sup>4</sup>and cedar trees in abundance; for the <sup>e</sup>Sidonians and those from Tyre brought much cedar wood to David.

<sup>5</sup>Now David said, <sup>f</sup>“Solomon my son is young and inexperienced, and the house to be built for the LORD must be exceedingly magnificent, famous and glorious throughout all countries. I will now make preparation for it.” So David made abundant preparations before his death.

<sup>6</sup>Then he called for his son Solomon, and <sup>1</sup>charged him to build a house for the LORD God of Israel. <sup>7</sup>And David said to Solomon: “My son, as for me, <sup>g</sup>it was in my mind to build a house <sup>h</sup>to the name of the LORD my God; <sup>8</sup>but the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>i</sup>“You have shed much blood and have made great wars; you shall not build a house for My name, because you have shed much blood on the earth in My sight. <sup>9</sup><sup>j</sup>Behold, a son shall be born to you, who shall be a man of rest; and I will give him <sup>k</sup>rest from all

The Divisions of the Levites

23 So when David was old and full of days, he made his son <sup>a</sup>Solomon king over Israel.

verse. At that time, the sanctuary was divided—at Gibeon and Mt. Zion—and the ark was not united with the altar at Zion (see v. 1). More than anything else, David wanted the Israelites to worship the Lord as He had instructed them.

23:1 made . . . Solomon king: The phrasing suggests that this is an official appointment of Solomon to be coregent with David, a choice that had to be accepted and later ratified by the whole nation (see 29:22).

23:3 A Levite normally entered service at age 25 (num. 8:24, 25). However, exceptions were made (num. 4:3) to answer the needs of various time periods and ministries. Evidently in David’s time enough Levites could be found aged thirty and over that there was no need to call younger Levites into service.

23:4 the work of the house of the Lord: The work clearly involved anything around the temple except the work of gatekeepers and musicians, who had their own divisions (v. 5). officers and judges: to provide ready access to the Levites in matters of religious questions and activities, six thousand Levites were distributed throughout the land (see 26:29–32), presumably in the Levitical cities (6:54–81).

23:13 give the blessing: This referred to the priestly benediction of num. 6:24–26.

23:14 sons of Moses: Because the priesthood was limited to Aaron, brother of Moses, and his descendants, Moses and his sons could not have served as priests. However, they could assume other responsibilities of Levites (see Judg. 18:30).

23:20 Uzziel was the fourth son of Kohath (v. 12). There were nine Kohathite divisions of Levites: two from Amram, one from Izhar, four from Hebron, and two from Uzziel.

23:22 Eleazar, son of Mahli, left no sons, so his daughters married their cousins, the sons of Kish. This resulted in a merger of the two lines of Mahli into one, so there was only one Levitical division through this branch of the Merarites.

23:23 The Mushi branch of Merarites produced three Levitical divisions in David’s temple organization, making four in all, including the one traced to Mahli.

23:24 These were the sons of Levi: All three Levitical lines resulted in a total of 22 divisions, nine Gershonite, nine Kohathite, and four Merarite (24:18; 25:31). twenty years and above: At the beginning of the lists of divisions, the minimum age of the Levites was 30 (v. 3). The number twenty here was not a contradiction, for as v. 27 makes clear, the lower age was set by David in his last words. It seems that as time went by even 38,000 Levites were not sufficient, so that within two years or so it was necessary to lower the minimum age requirement.

23:27 by the . . . words of David: This remarkable statement made David almost a second Moses, in the sense that he was free to change a Mosaic legislation without challenge or reproach.

words of David the Levites were numbered from twenty years old and above; <sup>28</sup>because their duty was to help the sons of Aaron in the service of the house of the LORD, in the courts and in the chambers, in the purifying of all holy things and the work of the service of the house of God, <sup>29</sup>both with <sup>e</sup>the showbread and <sup>f</sup>the fine flour for the grain offering, with <sup>g</sup>the unleavened cakes and <sup>h</sup>what is baked in the pan, with what is mixed and with all kinds of <sup>i</sup>measures and sizes; <sup>30</sup>to stand every morning to thank and praise the LORD, and likewise at evening; <sup>31</sup>and at every presentation of a burnt offering to the LORD <sup>j</sup>on the Sabbaths and on the New Moons and on the <sup>k</sup>set <sup>l</sup>feasts, by number according to the ordinance governing them, regularly before the LORD; <sup>32</sup>and that they should <sup>m</sup>attend to the <sup>n</sup>needs of the tabernacle of meeting, the needs of the holy place, and the <sup>o</sup>needs of the sons of Aaron their brethren in the work of the house of the LORD.

The Divisions of the Priests

24 Now these are the divisions of the sons of Aaron. <sup>a</sup>The sons of Aaron were Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. <sup>2</sup>And <sup>b</sup>Nadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children; therefore Eleazar and Ithamar ministered as priests. <sup>3</sup>Then David with Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and <sup>c</sup>Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, divided them according to the schedule of their service.

<sup>4</sup>There were more leaders found of the sons of Eleazar than of the sons of Ithamar, and thus they were divided. Among the sons of Eleazar were sixteen heads of their fathers' houses, and eight heads of their fathers' houses among the sons of Ithamar. <sup>5</sup>Thus they were divided by lot, one group as another, for there were officials of the sanctuary and officials of the house of God, from the sons of Eleazar and from the sons of Ithamar. <sup>6</sup>And the scribe, Shemaiah the son of Nethanel, one of the Levites, wrote them down before the king, the leaders, Zadok the priest, Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and the heads of the fathers' houses of the priests and Levites, one father's house taken for Eleazar and one for Ithamar.

23:29 to free the priests for the work of offering sacrifices, the Levites prepared elements for the sacrificial ritual, such as fine flour and unleavened cakes, and in other ways assisted the prescribed services.

23:30 thank and praise: t his ministry fell to the Levites engaged in choral and orchestral duties (25:1-31).

23:31 burnt offering: t hough Levites outside the priestly line could not officiate at the sacrifices of the central sanctuary, they could assist the priests, for example by helping to skin the animal and cut it up. Sabbaths: t he reason for the plural was not only because there were many saturdays in a year, but other days as well could be called a "sabbath." For example, the eighth day of the Feast of tabernacles was considered a sabbath no matter what day of the week it was (Lev. 23:39). New Moons: t his referred to the first day of every month, otherwise known as the Feast of trumpets (n um.

28:11-15). set feasts: t hese would be Passover and Unleavened Bread (Lev. 23:4-8), the Feast of Weeks or Pentecost (Lev. 23:9-22), and the Feast of tabernacles (Lev. 23:33-43).

23:32 tabernacle of meeting: At this point the temple had not yet been built, so David's regulations for the Levites pertained to their service in the intermediate tabernacles at gibeon and Mt. Zion. holy place: t his referred to the outer room of the tabernacle as opposed to the Most Holy Place, to which only the high priest had access.

24:1 in order for the priests to serve in rotation and have time off from their duties, they were assigned to shifts or divisions. For this rotation, David divided the priests by their lines of descent from Aaron (see v. 3).

24:2 Nadab and Abihu died: t his referred to the incident in which these two sons of Aaron incurred the wrath of god by offering up incense kindled with improper fire, that is, fire that did not originate from god (Lev. 9:23-10:2).

24:3 t he Ahimelech here was the son of Abiathar (see v. 6), the young priest of nob who had joined David in the wilderness many years before (1 sam. 22:20). t here is not a complete genealogy of Abiathar in the Ot, but it is clear from this passage that his ancestry was from Aaron through Ithamar.

24:4, 5 When the descendants of the two lines were identified there were sixteen family divisions from Eleazar and only eight from ithamar. t his complicated the process of dividing the service assignments fairly. t he solution was to assign the duties by casting lots. Evidently the priestly lines would each serve in turn, but the order of succession within each was determined by lot.

24:6 Shemaiah . . . wrote them down: in order to arrange the schedule for the priests' service and to keep it functioning properly, it was necessary that records be kept of all the names of the Levites by family and the shifts they were to fill in their rotation.

24:7 first lot: since Eleazar and ithamar are mentioned in that order in v. 6, it may be assumed that this list of names gives first someone from Eleazar, next someone from ithamar, and so on alternately through the list.

24:10 t his Abijah may be the ancestor of Zacharias, father of John the Baptist, who is named in Luke 1:5.

Levites

t he Levites were the descendants of Levi, one of the 12 sons of Jacob. t he name is related to the verb lavah meaning "to join," implying that the Levites were "joined" to god (see gen. 29:34). t he tribe had three branches, named after the three sons of Levi: the gershonites, the Kohathites, and the Merarites (n um. 3). At Mt. sinai, god chose Aaron, Moses' brother and a Kohathite, to be the nation's high priest (Ex. 28:1). no one but a descendant of Aaron could serve as a priest, but the other branches of the Levites shared many of their privileges and responsibilities (n um. 18:2). Originally the non-priestly Levites helped care for the tabernacle (n um. 4), but when David began preparations for building the temple, he created new duties for these Levites, making them singers, gatekeepers, treasurers, and royal officials (24:1-26:19).

ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah, the eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim, the thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab, the fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer, the seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Hapizzzez, the nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezkeel, the twenty-first to Jachin, the twenty-second to Gamul, the twenty-third to Delaiah, the twenty-fourth to Maaziah.

<sup>19</sup>This was the schedule of their service for coming into the house of the LORD according to their ordinance by the hand of Aaron their father, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded him.

<sup>30</sup>Also the sons of Mushi were Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of the Levites according to their fathers' houses.

The Musicians

25 Moreover David and the captains of the army separated for the service some of the sons of Asaph, of Heman, and of Jeduthun, who should prophesy with harps, stringed instruments, and cymbals. And the number of the skilled men performing their service was: <sup>2</sup>Of the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, and Asharelah; the sons of Asaph were <sup>2</sup>under the direction of Asaph, who prophesied according to the order of the king. <sup>3</sup>Of Jeduthun, the sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshiah, Shimei, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, <sup>5</sup>six, under the direction of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with a harp to give thanks and to praise the LORD. <sup>4</sup>Of Heman, the sons of Heman: Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, Romamti-Ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth. <sup>5</sup>All these were the sons of Heman the king's seer in the words of God, to exalt his horn. For God gave Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

24:20, 21 sons of Levi: t he non-priestly Levites also were divided by clan to determine their service rotation. t he first division is Kohath, whose name does not appear but is implied in the mention of his son Amram. Jehdeiah and Isshiah, who were direct descendants of Moses (23:14–17), were omitted from the earlier list of Levites (23:16, 17).

24:22–24 t he Izharites were Kohathites (see 23:12). Hebron was the third of the Kohathite clans (see 23:12). Uzziel was the last division of the Kohathites (see 23:12).

24:26 Founder of the entire clan that bears his name (see 23:6). Merari was the third son of Levi. Jaaziah: t his descendant of Merari appears for the first time here.

24:31 to assure the fairness of the Levites' assignments, they were selected by their divisions through the casting of the sacred lots (see v. 5). fathers . . . younger brethren: t here was no age discrimination in the work and shifts allocated to each. All served equally no matter what their age or status.

25:1 t he involvement of captains of the army in the selection of Levitical musicians may at first appear strange. However in the conduct of god's battles against those who opposed His people, music was frequently an important element. prophecy: t he role of a prophet was not limited to prediction or proclamation in words. Any divinely authorized utterance or deed from a prophet was a form of prophesying. Vocal and instrumental music could be a kind of prophetic message, usually in the form of praise (see 1 sam. 10:5, 6; 2 Kin. 3:15).

25:2 according to the order of the king: t his underscored the leading role David took in the religious life of the nation (see 23:27). Even as king, David ordered that proper worship be given to the Lord.

25:5 Like nathan (17:1) and gad (21:9), Heman enjoyed a close relationship to David. fourteen sons and three daughters: t he sons were accounted for in vv. 4, 13, 23–31. t he daughters were not named but clearly participated along with their brothers in the public worship of god.

25:6 the authority of the king: Once more the chronicler insisted that even the religious life of the nation was under the king's supervision. israel was a theocracy in which god was the ultimate King and therefore head over all aspects of national life. As god's son (17:13), the king not only oversaw civil affairs, but also the worship of the Lord, the true King of israel.

the second, Joah the third, Sacar the fourth, Nethanel the fifth, <sup>5</sup>Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eighth; for God blessed him.

<sup>6</sup>Also to Shemaiah his son were sons born who governed their fathers' houses, because they were men of great ability. <sup>7</sup>The sons of Shemaiah were Othni, Rephael, Obed, and Elzabad, whose brothers Elihu and Semachiah were able men.

The Treasuries and Other Duties

these servants of god is seen in the equal distribution of their assignments, a principle that had determined the nature of the ministry of the priests as well (24:31).

26:1 t here were four divisions of the gatekeepers, but they came from only two of the Levitical clans, Kohath and Merari.

26:2 t in both 9:21 and here, Zechariah is the son of Meshelemiah. t his means that the lists of 9:17–27 and 26:1–19 refer to the same time and circumstances.

26:4 t his Obed-Edom was probably not the Obed-Edom of 13:14, but a gatekeeper, the son of Jeduthun (16:38).

26:6 t the oldest son of Obed-Edom (v. 4), Shemaiah, gave rise to a subclan of gatekeepers whose total number is given in v. 8.

26:12 t the foregoing list appears to have identified the head gatekeepers only, that is, the chief men. Like their Levitical brethren in music (25:7) and the priests (24:31), these officials served right along with the four thousand others who made up the whole contingent of gatekeepers (23:5). t they were not excused from such work because of their leadership positions.

26:14 t the East Gate was the most important because it led straight into the main entrance of the temple (see 9:17, 18). it was therefore assigned to shelemiah (or Meshelemiah, v. 1) himself. North Gate: t his was the responsibility of the oldest son of shelemiah.

26:15 South Gate: Obed-Edom was in charge of the gate itself, and his sons (vv. 4, 5) took charge of the storehouse. t his was undoubtedly the same as the treasuries (v. 20).

26:20 house of God: t his likely referred to the storage area where

In the fortieth year of the reign of David they were sought, and there were found among them capable men <sup>s</sup>at Jazer of Gilead. <sup>32</sup>And his brethren were two thousand seven hundred able men, heads of fathers' houses, whom King David made officials over the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, for every matter pertaining to God and the <sup>t</sup>affairs of the king.

The Military Divisions

27 And the children of Israel, according to their number, the heads of fathers' houses, the captains of thousands and hundreds and their officers, served the king in every matter of the military divisions. These divisions came in and went out month by month throughout all the months of the year, each division having twenty-four thousand.

regular tabernacle or temple paraphernalia were kept at hand for the worship services (see 9:28, 29). dedicated things: t the second storehouse would contain the items taken as spoils of war that were used exclusively for holy purposes. David had already obtained a great amount of these (vv. 26–28).

26:21–24 t the Levites listed in vv. 21–23 were in charge of the regular storehouse (v. 22; see 23:8). Shebuel seems to have had general oversight of the regular storehouse. t the gershonites and other Kohathites of vv. 21–23 were under his direction.

26:25 t the descendants of Eliezer became directors of the second storehouse, that of “the dedicated things” (v. 20). All the Levites who attended to the affairs of the tabernacle and temple treasuries traced their lineage back to Moses.

26:26 t the treasuries of the dedicated things fell under Shelomith’s jurisdiction. t these spoils of war were kept in storage until they could be used in the building and decoration of the temple (22:14; 29:2; 2 Chr. 5:1).

26:28 showing the long-standing commitment of the nation to build and furnish the house of god, the chronicler listed leaders of the past who had dedicated spoils of war as readily as David had done.

26:30 t his third Kohathite clan was responsible specifically for israel on the west side of the Jordan.

26:31 since Hashabiah directed the Hebronites on the west (v. 30), Jerijah took charge of those on the east. He must have been over Hashabiah as well because he is called here head of the He- bronites. fortieth year: David reigned for 40 years (29:27), so these arrangements were completed in his very last year. Jazer of Gilead: t his Levitical city (6:81) was located in the tribal territory of gad, about seven miles west of r abba.

26:32 Reubenites . . . Gadites . . . half-tribe of Manasseh: t these were the tribes of israel who occupied the east side of the Jordan.

27:1 heads of fathers’ houses: t his probably referred to tribal units, since the order appears to be in decreasing size through thousands and hundreds. month by month: t the view that fathers’ houses meant tribes is strengthened by the fact that there were 12 divisions, one for each month. Apparently a professional standing army is being described here, one broken up into 12 corps that served a month at a time on a rotating basis. twenty-four thousand: t the total available manpower throughout israel would be 288,000.

27:2 A connection can be made here to the list of David’s mighty men, which is also headed by Jashobeam (11:11). He was one of “the three,” which meant he was regarded as unusually heroic.

27:4 Dodai’s son Eleazar was the second of the mighty men included in the first trio along with Jashobeam (11:12).

27:5 As the son of a priest, Benaiah was from the tribe of Levi. in the earlier list of mighty men he was celebrated for having killed a lion and a gigantic Egyptian (11:22, 23). Because of this kind of courage, he became part of the second group of “the three” (11:24). Later he was named commander of the entire israelite army (1 Kin. 4:4). His son served with him (v. 6).

These were the leaders of the tribes of Israel.

Other State Officials

<sup>25</sup>And Azmaveth the son of Adiel was over the king's treasuries; and Jehonathan the son of Uzziah was over the storehouses in the field, in the cities, in the villages, and in the fortresses. <sup>26</sup>Ezri the son of Chelub was over those who did the work of the field for tilling the ground. <sup>27</sup>And Shimei the Ramathite was over the vineyards, and Zabdi the Shiphmite was

27:7 David's nephew Asahel (see 2:15, 16) was among the 30 mighty men but did not achieve a position among "the three" (11:26). His son also served with him.

27:9 A Tekoite was a person from the village of tekoa, some five or six miles southeast of Bethlehem. t his would make ira a member of the tribe of Judah. it is clear that even if the military divisions were made up along tribal lines, their commanders were often David's own fellow Judeans. t his appears to be so for Jashobeam (v. 2), Asahel (v. 7), shamhuth (v. 8), and now ira.

27:10 Helez: t he leadership of the army was not limited to Judeans (27:9), since Helez was an Ephraimite in such a position.

27:11 since Husha was a Judean (4:4), Sibbechai also came from the tribe of Judah. Zarhites likely referred to descendants of Zerah, a son of Judah (2:4; see n um. 26:20). t he present passage apparently placed the Hushathites in a position subsidiary to the Zarhites. in any case, sibbechai was one of the 30 heroes, having distinguished himself by killing a Philistine giant (11:29; see 2 sam. 21:18).

27:12 A Benjamite commander, Abiezer came from the Levitical town of Anathoth, just north of Jerusalem. He was also a member of the elite 30 (11:28).

27:13 since netophah was a village near Bethlehem, Maharai was still another of David's fellow tribesmen named as commander of a division and member of the valorous 30 (11:30).

27:14 Another Ephraimite, this Benaiah (see v. 5) came from Pirathon, five miles south of samaria. Like the others he was one of the 30 mighty men (11:31).

27:15 Like Maharai (v. 13), this captain came from netophah. Besides being one of the 30 (11:30), Heldai could claim descent from israel's first judge, Othniel.

27:16 officer: t he list that begins here (vv. 16–22) is clearly nonmilitary and tribal in nature. t he description of these officers is much more political than the descriptions of the captains and officers of the military divisions (see v. 1).

27:18 Elihu: t his brother of David is usually called Eliab (1 sam. 16:6).

27:23 take the number: t his ties in the previous list of tribes and leaders with David's ill-fated census near the end of his reign (v. 24; 21:1–17). so confident was David that his military might would be sufficient for any encounter, he omitted from his census all those twenty years old and under. Even so, the result of this census was over a million men (see 21:5), a multitude very much like the stars of the heavens—the words of god's promise to Abraham (see gen. 12:2; 15:5).

27:24 Joab's count included all the tribes except for Levi and Benjamin (see 21:6). Although these two tribes are included in the present list (vv. 17, 21), nothing is said of their being counted. On the other hand, Asher and gad, missing in this list (see vv. 16–22), must have been included in Joab's census.

27:25 As opposed to the "treasuries of the house of god" and the "treasuries of the dedicated things" (26:20), the king's treasuries were the royal storehouses. t hey contained the revenues of the state in the form of precious metals (29:3–5) and other goods and commodities gained through taxation, tribute, and other means (see 2 Chr. 9:13, 14). storehouses: t hese were regional collection facilities ranging no doubt from granaries to warehouses to places of safe deposit of valuables. According to the following list, their primary purpose was to store agricultural produce.

27:27 vineyards: t his industry was in two divisions, one to grow the grapes and the other to make wine.

over the produce of the vineyards for the supply of wine. <sup>28</sup>Baal-Hanan the Gederite was over the olive trees and the sycamore trees that were in the lowlands, and Joash was over the store of oil. <sup>29</sup>And Shitrai the Sharonite was over the herds that fed in Sharon, and Shaphat the son of Adlai was over the herds that were in the valleys. <sup>30</sup>Obil the Ishmaelite was over the camels, Jehdeiah the Meronothite was over the donkeys, <sup>31</sup>and Jaziz the <sup>p</sup>Hagrite was over the flocks. All these were the officials over King David's property.

Solomon Instructed to Build the Temple

<sup>2</sup>Then King David rose to his feet and said, "Hear me, my brethren and my people: <sup>e</sup>I had it in my heart to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and for <sup>f</sup>the footstool of our

God, and had made preparations to build it. <sup>3</sup>But God said to me, <sup>o</sup>'You shall not build a house for My name, because you have been a man of war and have shed <sup>h</sup>blood.' <sup>4</sup>However the LORD God of Israel <sup>i</sup>chose me above all the house of my father to be king over Israel forever, for He has chosen <sup>j</sup>Judah to be the ruler. And of the house of Judah, <sup>k</sup>the house of my father, and <sup>l</sup>among the sons of my father, He was pleased with me to make me king over all Israel. <sup>5</sup><sup>m</sup> And of all my sons (for the LORD has given me many sons) <sup>n</sup>He has chosen my son Solomon to sit on the throne of the kingdom of the LORD over Israel. <sup>6</sup>Now He said to me, 'It is <sup>o</sup>your son Solomon who shall build My house and My courts; for I have chosen him to be My son, and I will be his Father. <sup>7</sup>Moreover I will establish his kingdom forever, <sup>p</sup>if he is steadfast to observe My commandments and My judgments, as it is this day.' <sup>8</sup>Now therefore, in the sight of all Israel, the assembly of the LORD, and in the hearing of our God, be careful to seek out all the commandments of the LORD your God, that you may possess this good land, and leave it as an inheritance for your children after you forever.

27:29 A fertile plain between israelite and Philistine territory, Sharon was ideal for grazing cattle and sheep. it is appropriate that someone from sharon, who knew the land and all its seasonal changes, should be in charge of the livestock of that region.

27:30 inhabitants of the desert were at home with the breeding and use of camels (gen. 37:25), so naturally an Ishmaelite would be in charge of such animals.

27:31 since there was no essential difference between the king and his state, the property of the king consisted of the assets of the nation.

27:34 Jehoiada the son of Benaiah: in the list of military officers there was also a "Benaiah who was a son of Jehoiada" (see v. 5). t his is probably an example of the custom in which a man is named after his grandfather. t he counselor Jehoiada was probably the grandson of Jehoiada the priest and son of the famous warrior Benaiah (v. 5). Joab: From the days of David's conquest of Jerusalem, Joab held the position of commander of the army of israel (11:6), a post he kept until solomon became king (1 Kin. 2:28-35).

28:1 t these were the individuals of 27:1-34, plus others no doubt, who were the leaders of all the branches and extensions of israel's government. t he occasion was of such significance that a total assembly of dignitaries was essential.

28:2 t he word footstool is a metaphor describing either the ark of the covenant or the tabernacle as the earthly base of god's activity. He sits on a throne in heaven, and His connection with the earth is focused in his earthly dwelling place, the tent or the ark. Elsewhere, the whole earth is described as god's footstool (is. 66:1).

28:5 t he call to rule was not limited to David, but included his descendants (see 17:11). s ince only one of his sons could reign in his place, a choice had to be made (see 14:3, 4), and god chose solomon to succeed David as the king of israel (22:9, 10; see 2 sam. 12:24; 1 Kin. 1:13, 30).

28:6 My son . . . his Father: t his remarkable statement not only shows that the Davidic kings enjoyed unparalleled access to the Lord as His adopted sons (see 17:3; Ps. 27), but it anticipates the absolute sonship of the son of David, Jesus Christ (Acts 13:33; Heb. 1:5).

28:7 t he conditional aspect of the covenant with David and his dynasty is real, not hypothetical. n ot one of the kings, including David, was able to observe the commandments and judgments perfectly. t herefore they were unable in themselves to reign forever or even set the stage for an everlasting rule. But One would come who would be able to do so and who would fulfill the covenant perfectly. t his One was Jesus, the son of David (see Matt. 5:7; 21:9).

28:9 t rue service of god is more than rational and intellectual. it requires a commitment of the emotions as well. t his was precisely where solomon failed. Even though he had great wisdom (2 Chr. 1:12; 9:3, 22, 23), he allowed his heart to turn aside from god because he loved foreign women (1 Kin. 11:1-4). Loyalty of heart is essential for faithful, effective service.

Offerings for Building the Temple

29 Furthermore King David said to all the assembly: “My son Solomon, whom alone God has <sup>a</sup> chosen, is <sup>b</sup> young and inexperienced; and the work is great, because the <sup>1</sup> temple is not for man but for the LORD God. <sup>2</sup> Now for the house of my God I have prepared with all my might: gold for things to be made of gold, silver for things of silver, bronze for things of bronze, iron for things of iron, wood for things of wood, <sup>c</sup> onyx stones, stones to be set, glistening stones of various colors, all kinds of precious stones, and marble slabs in abundance. <sup>3</sup> Moreover, because I have set my affection on the house of my God, I have given to the house of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the holy house, my own special treasure of gold and silver: <sup>4</sup> three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of <sup>d</sup> Ophir, and seven thousand talents of refined silver, to overlay the walls of the houses; <sup>5</sup> the gold for things of gold and the silver for things of silver, and for all kinds of work to be done by the

28:11 t he plans for the temple, as v. 12 makes clear, were not from David’s own creative imagination but from the spirit of god. vestibule: t his was a porch in front of the temple (see 2 Chr. 3:4). treasuries: t hese, also called storehouses (26:15, 17), included “treasuries of the house of god” and “treasuries of the dedicated things” (26:20). upper chambers: Besides the main temple building, there were rooms of all kinds attached to it to accommodate the priests, the Levites, and all the equipment and items they needed to carry out the temple worship (see neh. 13:4, 5). some of these chambers were built high on the outside of the temple walls (1 Kin. 6:6, 8). the place of the mercy seat: t his was the Most Holy Place, the inner room that housed the ark of the covenant, the cover of which was known as the mercy seat (Ex. 25:17).

28:12, 13 by the Spirit: Moses had received the plans for the tabernacle by direct revelation from god (Ex. 25:8, 9). David explained that he received the plans for the temple in the same way. David wanted it to be known that even the assignments he gave to the priests and the Levites (23:1—26:32) were revealed to him by god. 28:18 The chariot was a way of referring to the cherubim who hovered over the ark with outstretched wings, symbolizing the holiness of god. Cherubim appear in the story of the expulsion of man and woman from the garden of Eden (gen. 3:24) and as guardians of the “throne” of god in the tabernacle (Ex. 25:18–20) and temple (2 Chr. 3:10–13). t hey overshadowed the mercy seat of the ark of the covenant, enhancing its glory and protecting its holiness.

28:19 David asserted that all the works of these plans existed in written form from the hand of the Lord. David himself may have been the scribe, for he said that god’s hand was upon him in the production of the plans. t he detailed precision of the temple plans (vv. 11–18) attests to the clarity of the revelation and to its faithful recording by David.

28:20 Be strong and of good courage: David’s charge to solomon is very similar to the charge given to Joshua when Moses handed over the leadership of israel to him. For Moses’ charge to Joshua, see Deut. 31:7, 8; for god’s charge to Joshua, see Josh. 1:6–9. 29:1 god Himself had chosen David out of all his brothers (28:4). now He chose solomon out of all of his brothers to succeed David on the throne (28:5). the work is great: since the very plans and specifications had been revealed to David by god (28:19), David was fully aware of the significance of his charge to solomon. god’s work could not be undertaken lightly. solomon himself was aware of his limitations in this respect and of his need for supernatural direction (2 Chr. 1:10; 2:2–7).

29:3 Because David loved god, he loved the work of god. my own special treasure: As a testimony to his professed affection for the house of his god, David pledged generous gifts from his own resources.

29:5 t his magnanimous gesture by David gave him the boldness to solicit a similar response from those under him. it is important to note that David asked the others to consecrate themselves, hands of craftsmen. Who then is <sup>e</sup>willing to <sup>2</sup>consecrate himself this day to the LORD?"

David's Praise to God

<sup>10</sup>Therefore David blessed the LORD before all the assembly; and David said:

"Blessed are You, LORD God of Israel, our Father, forever and ever.
<sup>11</sup> <sup>k</sup>Yours, O LORD, is the greatness, The power and the glory, The victory and the majesty; For all that is in heaven and in earth is Yours; Yours is the kingdom, O LORD, And You are exalted as head over all.

not their treasures. David knew that those who first consecrated themselves to god would have no difficulty in being generous to the work of god.

29:7 five thousand talents: About 190 tons. ten thousand darics: About 185 pounds of gold. eighteen thousand talents of bronze: t his was equivalent to about 675 tons. one hundred thousand talents of iron: t his was approximately 3,750 tons.

29:8 t hese precious stones provided the adornments worn on the shoulders and breastplate of the high priest (Ex. 28:9–12, 17–21).

29:9 loyal heart: t he Hebrew is literally "with a fullness of heart." t his parallels the word willingly, and the two words together suggest that coercion played no part in the offering.

29:10 David blessed the LORD: Upon the completion of the offerings, David offered praise, using a song no doubt composed especially for this occasion (vv. 10–12), followed by a prayer of confession and petition.

29:11 t he purpose of the temple was to exalt the LORD and to acknowledge the universality of His kingdom. David modeled before the people the worship of the living god. it typically starts with praise for god's eternity, His complete control over the universe, and His great power. He is the glorious Master over all (see Ps. 134:3).

29:12–14 David confessed that the riches and honor he enjoyed had come from god's generosity. t he offerings he and his people had just made were possible only because god first had given to them. able to offer so willingly: n ot only the ability to give, but the willingness to give, is a gift of god (see 2 Cor. 9:7, 8).

29:15 aliens and pilgrims: David asserts that life on earth is transitory and even nomadic. Only when a person becomes conscious of his or her place within the care and blessing of a sovereign god does life become more than a shadow. suddenly the hope of a future with god illuminates that person's journey on this earth (see Heb. 11:13–16; 13:14).

29:17 if people truly can give nothing of value to god, why does He ask His people to give? David answers this question. god enjoys a person's uprightness or righteousness. With gifts, offerings, and sacrifices, a person tangibly demonstrates not only gratitude to god, but trust in Him (see 1 sam. 15:22). A righteous life always produces a generous spirit. For this reason, David could proclaim that his giving was only out of the uprightness of his heart. Moreover, his joy was heightened all the more when he saw that his people also understood this principle of true giving.

29:18 t his formula LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel was associated with god's covenantal promises to the israelites (see Ex. 3:6, 15; 6:3, 4; Deut. 6:10). With this name of god, David was petitioning god to keep His people always in covenant fellowship with Himself.

29:19 in his prayer, David used the language of the covenant—commandments, testimonies, and statutes (see Deut. 6:1, 2, 20; 8:11; 11:1). Unlike v. 18, David uses this language not as much for the nation as a whole as for his son s olomon. god had already made a covenant with David (17:7–14) and promised to renew it with his descendants. As with giving (see v. 14), zeal for faithfulness to god's covenant must also come from god Himself (v. 14). t herefore, David prayed that god would give s olomon a loyal heart to be obedient. in s olomon's case, David's particular concern was that his son would keep his pledge to build the temple.

all these things, and to build the <sup>7</sup>temple for which <sup>r</sup>I have made provision.”

<sup>20</sup>Then David said to all the assembly, “Now bless the LORD your God.” So all the assembly blessed the LORD God of their fathers, and bowed their heads and prostrated themselves before the LORD and the king.

Solomon Anointed King

The Close of David's Reign

29:22 the second time: t his unusual phrase can only refer to the ratification of Solomon's kingship, not to its original establishment. David had appointed his son to be king at least two years earlier (see 23:1), an appointment that made Solomon a coregent rather than a true king, since he ruled alongside his father David. Zadok . . . priest: Zadok had remained loyal to David and Solomon. But Abiathar defected to Adonijah, David's other son who attempted to overthrow Solomon's succession (see 1 Kin. 1:1-8).

29:23 Once more the chronicler ties the kingship of David and that of God closely together. As God's son (see 17:13), Solomon would sit on the throne as God's representative. In that sense, the royal throne was also the throne of the LORD (see also v. 20). Eventually, Jesus as the son of David and the son of God would sit on that throne and reign forever (see Luke 1:32).

29:25 any king before him: Obviously this included only Saul and David, but it is still a remarkable statement in light of David's widely recognized power and magnificence (11:9; 14:2; 18:1-13; 29:28).

29:28 in comparison to the patriarchs and even to such men as Eli and Samuel, David's 70 years seem short. However, in his time this was a good old age. Moses used it as the standard for reasonable longevity (see Ps. 90:10).

29:29 Here the chronicler revealed three sources he used in writing, and the reader interested in more information about the acts of King David is referred to those books. t his note shows that the author of Chronicles did not invent the account or depend on oral tradition. instead the chronicler cited texts available in his day.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES

WHEN IT WAS FIRST WRITTEN, 2 Chronicles brought a ray of hope to a people desperately in need of encouragement. The Israelite community, reduced to a tiny minority in exile among the Babylonians, was struggling to understand its place. Had God's promises to Abraham and David been revoked because of the nation's sins? Was there any hope of reviving David's dynasty? Could Judaism survive without the temple? Second Chronicles addressed questions like these. Its answers came in a historical review of God's faithfulness to the Israelites. Although the nation had steadily declined over the centuries, God had always been faithful to those who remained true to Him. The good that God had done in the past would be the pattern for His future acts. God would keep His glorious promises to the Israelites.

Author and Composition First and 2 Chronicles were at first a single book (see Introduction to 1 Chronicles). The book itself does not state who wrote it, but the overall consistency of viewpoint and style indicates that it was probably the work of one person. Most commentators refer to this person as the "chronicler." One Jewish tradition identifies him as Ezra (c. 460–430 B.C.) because Chronicles and Ezra share common themes like extensive lists, the Levites, and the temple.

The chronicler had access to many official documents, which he often mentions by name. These include (1) the book of the kings of Israel and Judah (27:7; 35:27; 36:8); (2) the book of the kings of Judah and Israel (16:11; 25:26; 28:26; 32:32); (3) the book of the kings of Israel (20:34; 33:18); (4) the annals (commentary) of the book of the kings (24:27); (5) the book of Nathan, the prophecy of Ahijah, and the visions of Iddo (9:29); (6) the history of Shemaiah (12:15); (7) the annals of Iddo (13:22); (8) the writings of the prophet Isaiah (26:22); (9) the sayings of Hozai (33:19); and (10) the Laments (35:25). The chronicler also cites the canonical books of 1 and 2 Kings.

Purpose The details of the history of Israel and Judah in 2 Chronicles communicate the great message of redemption—particularly God's blessing on David and his successors. First Chronicles focuses on the Davidic covenant during David's time, and 2 Chronicles continues that theme in the period after David's death. Even though 2 Chronicles relates the experiences of Solomon and his successors, it continues to emphasize God's promise of an everlasting dynasty to David. Successors to David came and went. Some were true to the requirements of that covenant—they "walked in the former ways of [their] father David" (17:3)—and others were not. But God's commitment to the household of David continued throughout, even after the exile to Babylon.

Because of this emphasis on covenant, 2 Chronicles makes frequent mention of priests, Levites, the temple, and other elements of Israel's religious life. It tells how Solomon's temple was built and furnished (2:1—8:16) and includes a thorough description of the temple and its ministry (20:5–13, 24–30; 23:12–21; 24:4–14; 29:3—31:21; 34:3—35:19).

The centrality of the Davidic covenant also explains why 2 Chronicles devotes more attention to Judah than to Israel. Ever since the division into southern and northern kingdoms (10:16–19; see 1 Kin. 11:9–13), Judah had become the inheritors of God's promises to David. Though David's successors ruled only the smaller kingdom of Tablet of Asherah, a Canaanite goddess. King Asa of Judah commanded that figurines, as well as foreign altars, high places, and sacred stones be destroyed (2 Chr. 14:3–5).

Judah, god had remained faithful to His unconditional covenant with David. Judah was the nucleus through which god would accomplish His work of redemption.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

The temple in 2 Chronicles is spotlighted in chapters 2 and 7. It suggests the incarnation of Jesus. Although the temple is built to be god's dwelling place on earth, Solomon realizes that no manmade building can house the god of the universe: "But will god indeed dwell with men on the earth?" (6:18). This verse touches on the truth—Solomon knows that god could willingly dwell in the temple, but beyond that He would come in a much more glorious way. Solomon's words anticipate Jesus' arrival as immanuel, "god with us" (Matt. 1:23). As beautiful as the temple is, when Jesus later walks inside its walls, He says of Himself, "in this place there is One greater than the temple" (Matt. 12:6). Jesus also likens His body to the temple (John 2:19). In fact, according to the Book of Revelation, at the end of time Jesus, the Lamb of God, will replace the need for an earthly temple (Rev. 21:22).

Solomon Requests Wisdom

Now <sup>a</sup>Solomon the son of David was strengthened in his kingdom, and <sup>b</sup>the LORD his God was with him and <sup>c</sup>exalted him exceedingly.

<sup>7</sup>On that night God appeared to Solomon, and said to him, "Ask! What shall I give you?"

<sup>8</sup>And Solomon said to God: "You have shown great <sup>l</sup>mercy to David my father, and have made me <sup>m</sup>king in his place. <sup>9</sup>Now, O LORD God, let Your promise to David my father be established, <sup>n</sup>for You have made me king over a people like the <sup>o</sup>dust of the earth in multitude. <sup>10</sup>Now

Solomon's Military and Economic Power

1:3 t he term high place comes from the fact that many ancient worshippers used hills for their sacred rites, thinking that such places were good "meeting points" between heaven and earth. Over time, high place came to mean any worship center, whether it was on a hill or not. In the OT, the high places were usually associated with pagan, particularly Canaanite, religion, but there was nothing inherently evil about using a hilltop as a place of worship. t he the patriarchs (gen. 12:8; 22:2) and other worshippers of god offered their sacrifices on high places (1 sam. 9:12; 1 Kin. 18:19, 36-38), t he high place at gibeon was the location of the Mosaic tabernacle after saul destroyed nob (1 sam. 22:19). it seems that the israelites moved the tabernacle to nob after they had stopped using shiloh as the religious center of israel (1 sam. 4:21, 22; Jer. 7:12). t he tabernacle remained in gibeon together with the great bronze altar throughout David's reign.

1:5 Bezalel was one of the two men chosen especially by god to build the tabernacle in the wilderness (Ex. 31:1-11). Aholiab was the other. t he text here mentions Bezalel alone apparently because he was the master craftsman, while Aholiab was his assistant. the assembly sought Him there: t his phrase is important because Solomon and the people, as a congregation, usually worshiped god at gibeon.

1:6 went up: s olomon's worship at gibeon affirmed the covenant that bound god and the Davidic dynasty together (1 Chr. 17:7-14) and showed that solomon accepted the religious responsibilities of his office (v. 3).

1:9 s olomon knew about the Abrahamic covenant and god's promise to make Abraham's descendants like the dust of the earth (gen. 13:16). s olomon believed that the promise had come to pass, and he was confident that god would fulfill His promise to David as well. t his meant that he saw his own succession (1 Chr. 17:11) and the building of the temple as fulfillment of god's promises (1 Chr. 17:12, 13).

1:10 go out and come in: t his figure of speech refers to the totality of s olomon's life. As king he would lead by example as well as by edict.

1:11, 12 s olomon's request for wisdom centered on god's people and how he could best serve them, not on his own gain. Once s olomon had demonstrated this spirit of servanthood, god granted many unsolicited blessings.

1:14 s olomon located his chariots in other cities besides Jerusalem, possibly in Hazor, Megiddo, and gezer (1 Kin. 9:15, 19). t he 1,400 chariots and twelve thousand horsemen here compare to four thousand stalls for horses and chariots and twelve thousand horsemen in 9:25. A chariot force of 1,400 units was a significant achievement for israel, a nation located primarily in hilly terrain where chariots were of limited value.

1:16 Keveh was probably an ancient name for what later came to be known as Cilicia. t his city was on the northeast Mediterranean coast, a region famous for horses. t he horses imported from Egypt were larger horses bred in nubia and used mainly for pulling chariots.

1:17 six hundred shekels of silver: it is often impossible to assign a price in a modern currency to the goods and services of the ancient world. But this verse suggests that a chariot cost as much as six hundred shekels of silver, and a horse for one hundred and fifty; thus, <sup>4</sup>through their agents, they exported them to all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Syria.

Solomon Prepares to Build the Temple

2 Then Solomon <sup>a</sup>determined to build a temple for the name of the LORD, and a royal house for himself. <sup>2b</sup>Solomon selected seventy thousand men to bear burdens, eighty thousand to quarry stone in the mountains, and three thousand six hundred to oversee them.

<sup>c</sup>As you have dealt with David my father, and sent him cedars to build himself a house to dwell in, so deal with me. <sup>4</sup>Behold, <sup>d</sup>I am building a temple for the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to Him, <sup>e</sup>to burn before Him <sup>2</sup>sweet incense, for <sup>f</sup>the continual showbread, for <sup>g</sup>the burnt offerings morning and evening, on the <sup>h</sup>Sabbaths, on the New Moons, and on the <sup>3</sup>set feasts of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance forever to Israel.

<sup>5</sup> And the temple which I build will be great, for <sup>i</sup>our God is greater than all gods. <sup>6j</sup>But who is able to build Him a temple, since heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain Him? Who am I then, that I should build Him a temple, except to burn sacrifice before Him?

four horses. they exported them: solomon had a thriving business in horses and chariots. Because israel was on the route between Asia and Africa, such goods would go through israel and become subject to solomon's heavy import and export taxes. Hittites were the peoples of the ancient nation of Hatti in central Asia Minor. t they reached the height of their power at about 1350–1300 B.C., but were nearly exterminated by the sea Peoples in about 1200 B.C. t here were pockets of Hittites in solomon's day, mainly north of israel among the syrians.

2:1 a royal house for himself: it was customary for a new king to build a palace as a physical and visible sign of his newly won sovereignty, though this usually was done right after a military conquest (see 1 Chr. 14:1, 2).

2:3 Hiram king of Tyre was the same Phoenician ruler who had provided men and materials for David's palace (1 Chr. 14:1).

2:5 solomon's statement that our God is greater than all gods means that god is the only true god, not that He is the greatest one among many lesser ones. All pagan "gods" are actually imaginary.

2:6 solomon could not build a dwelling place for god because god could never be contained within any physical structure. t he temple provided a place for god's people to go and offer sacrifices of worship to the Lord.

2:7, 8 The skillful men . . . with me refers to the ones David had already selected and organized for the purpose of building the temple (1 Chr. 22:15, 16). t he chronicler emphasized David's intense interest in the temple and the elaborate steps he took to prepare for its building (1 Chr. 22:1–19). Algum logs probably refers to a kind of exotic tree imported from Ophir—south Arabia, perhaps Yemen.

2:10 t he amount of ground wheat here is about 125,000 bushels or 3,750 tons. Twenty thousand baths is approximately 115,000 gallons.

2:12 Blessed be the LORD God of Israel: Most likely a polite salutation to solomon rather than a sincere recognition of god as the one true god. a wise son: it is clear from his letter that Hiram knew a great deal about solomon, including: (1) the background of solomon's request for materials and workmen, (2) solomon's selection by god to be king (v. 11), (3) solomon's unusual wisdom, and (4) solomon's call to build the temple. Apparently Hiram, David, and solomon maintained close contact.

2:14 Hiram had an israelite mother and a Phoenician father. Moses

Solomon Builds the Temple

had warned the israelites not to take spouses committed to pagan religions (Deut. 7:1–5).

2:16 Joppa, now known as Jaffa, was the only seaport on the israelite Mediterranean coast between Dor on the north and Philistia to the south. Jonah sailed from Joppa to escape god's call to Nineveh (Jon. 1:3). Though Hiram's rafts helped transport the timber from Lebanon to Israel, the route from Joppa to Jerusalem was not so easy—it was a winding, steep ascent of nearly 40 miles.

2:17 Solomon's policy of forced labor drafted aliens first into the hard work of carrying loads and quarrying stone (v. 18). The term suggests any persons living in Israel who were not native israelites.

The census refers to David's ill-advised count in the closing years of his reign (1 Chr. 21:1–5).

3:1 Mount Moriah was sacred and therefore an appropriate place for the temple not only because the threshing floor of Ornan was there (see 1 Chr. 21:18–30), but also because it was the "land of Moriah" to which Abraham took Isaac for sacrifice (gen. 22:2). David had received explicit instructions from the Lord that the very site that he had purchased from Ornan, and where he had already built an altar, should be the location of the future temple (1 Chr. 21:18, 26). Mount Moriah is known today as the temple mount and the site of the Muslim Dome of the Rock. It is

Solomon's Temple

Solomon's temple was the first of three temples that Israel built in its long history. David wanted to build it, but as a man of war he was unqualified to build such a holy place. So with the plans that God gave David and David passed on to him, King Solomon built the house of God. As God had instructed, Solomon built it on Mount Moriah just north of the ancient City of David.

Solomon wanted to build a temple worthy of being the center of worship for the entire nation, so he used only the best craftsmen and materials. The materials included cedar and algar logs, gold and silver, cut stone, and fine linen. Most of the temple's beams, posts, walls, and doors were overlaid with gold, decorated with carvings of palm trees, garlands, and cherubim. The Most Holy Place alone was overlaid with 23 tons of fine gold. In this room two giant gold cherubim, with seven-and-a-half-foot wings overshadowed the ark of the covenant. A veil of crimson and fine linen separated the Most Holy Place from the holy place. The temple's furnishings included ten lampstands of gold, ten tables, and one hundred bowls of gold. Only the most skilled craftsmen worked on these details. The temple was 60 cubits long and 20 cubits wide or 90 by 30 feet.

It took seven years for Solomon's workers to complete this grand building, and the finished structure dazzled all who saw it. Yet for all its beauty, Solomon knew that no manmade building could contain God, as heaven itself could not contain Him (6:18). The temple served mainly as a reminder of God's covenant. To all who came and worshiped there, God held out His promised presence.

However, the temple was no guarantee of that presence. God had promised to live among the israelites forever, and the temple was God's so-called "dwelling place," but for the Holy God to live among His people they had to remain faithful to Him. Unfortunately they did not remain faithful, and consequently the temple was looted and destroyed as were the second and third temples after it.

The Color Purple

since dyes were made from vegetable sources or from shellfish, quality control was difficult. The completed colors were often impure and inexact. These problems were compounded by the fact that many dyes were closely guarded family recipes that were sometimes lost or changed. The most precious of ancient dyes was purple. In Ugarit, a city of the Canaanites, wool was often dyed this color. Phoenicia derived its name from the source of the dye. The word “Canaan” probably means “land of purple.” The dye itself was derived from the murex shellfish found in the Mediterranean sea. Approximately 250,000 mollusks were required to make one ounce of the dye, which partly accounts for its great price. It was highly valued within the nation of Israel. The Lord prescribed the use of purple in several features of the tabernacle, such as the curtains (Ex. 26:1) and the screens (Ex. 27:16). It was also an essential part of the temple (2 Chr. 2:14).

<sup>2</sup>And he began to build on the second day of the second month in the fourth year of his reign.

The length was sixty cubits (by cubits according to the former measure) and the width twenty cubits. <sup>4</sup>And the *e*vestibule that was in front of <sup>3</sup>the sanctuary was twenty cubits long across the width of the house, and the height was <sup>4</sup>one hundred and twenty. He overlaid the inside with pure gold. <sup>5 f</sup>The larger <sup>5</sup>room he <sup>g</sup>paneled with cypress which he overlaid with fine gold, and he carved palm trees and chainwork on it. <sup>6</sup>And he decorated the house with precious stones for beauty, and the gold was gold from Parvaim. <sup>7</sup>He also overlaid the house—the beams and doorposts, its walls and doors—with gold; and he carved cherubim on the walls.

3:2 The second day of the second month fell in April of the modern calendar. Making arrangements for the building, amassing building materials, and clearing the site could easily have required four years.

3:3 The Israelites had two standard cubits, one about 17.4 inches long and the other about 20.4 inches. Probably the former measure mentioned here was the 17.4-inch cubit, making the temple foundation about 90 feet long and 30 feet wide. The Mosaic tabernacle was 45 feet long and 15 feet wide (Ex. 26:15–37).

3:5 The larger room was the holy place or “sanctuary” (1 Kin. 6:17).

3:8 The Most Holy Place was the inner sanctuary, where the ark of the covenant (1 Kin. 6:19) was kept. This room was cubical in shape, twenty cubits (30 ft.) on a side (see 1 Kin. 6:20 for the height). Six hundred talents is approximately 23 tons of gold.

3:9 Gold by itself is too soft to use for nails, so the nails mentioned here must have been decorative or else some other metal plated with gold. The weight fifty shekels (about 1.2 lbs.) implies that they were plated nails.

3:10 The cherubim that Solomon had fashioned for the Most Holy Place were not the ones carved into the walls of the holy place (see v. 7), but additional ones carved and plated with gold here in the Most Holy Place.

3:11–13 The cherubim stood side by side with outstretched wings touching in the middle and overshadowing the ark. Since each wing was five cubits long and the room was 20 cubits across, the cherubim’s wings spanned the entire width of the room. Facing inward meant that the cherubim were facing the veil and the holy place.

3:14 The veil was a heavy curtain between the holy place and the Most Holy Place. It shielded the ark and cherubim from view (see 5:9). Cherubim were woven into the fabric of the veil. The materials and colors used here—blue, purple, crimson, and fine linen—are the same as those of the veil of the tabernacle.

3:15 The two pillars in front were free-standing and did not support any part of the temple. Thirty-five cubits was about 53 feet, and with the capital that was . . . five cubits, the pillars were about 60 feet tall.

them was five cubits. <sup>16</sup>He made wreaths of chainwork, as in the inner sanctuary, and put them on top of the pillars; and he made <sup>m</sup>one hundred pomegranates, and put them on the wreaths of chainwork. <sup>17</sup>Then he <sup>n</sup>set up the pillars before the temple, one on the right hand and the other on the left; he called the name of the one on the right hand <sup>9</sup>Jachin, and the name of the one on the left <sup>1</sup>Boaz.

Furnishings of the Temple

A Moreover he made <sup>a</sup>a bronze altar: twenty cubits was its length, twenty cubits its width, and ten cubits its height.

<sup>2b</sup>Then he made the <sup>1</sup>Sea of cast bronze, ten cubits from one brim to the other; it was completely round. Its height was five cubits, and a line of thirty cubits measured its circumference. <sup>3c</sup>And under it was the likeness of oxen encircling it all around, ten to a cubit, all the way around the Sea. The oxen were cast in two rows, when it was cast. <sup>4</sup>It stood on twelve <sup>d</sup>oxen: three looking toward the north, three looking toward the west, three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east; the Sea was set upon them, and all their back parts pointed inward. <sup>5</sup>It was a handbreadth thick; and its brim was shaped like the brim of a cup, like a lily blossom. It contained <sup>2</sup>three thousand baths.

3:16 As in v. 5, chainwork appears to be a network of fruits and plants, as the presence of pomegranates indicates. First Kings expands the description (1 Kin. 7:17–20). t here were seven wreaths of chainwork on each capital and two rows of pomegranates above the wreaths. t he capitals seem to have been in the form of lilies four cubits high with a one-cubit width band at their base. t he wreaths and strands of pomegranates were intertwined around the base. t he one hundred pomegranates were one of four strands, two to each pillar, or 400 pomegranates in all.

3:17 t he names Jachin and Boaz mean “He Establishes” and “in Him is strength.” t us the two pillars were constant reminders of the presence and power of god.

4:1 t he bronze altar was for burnt offerings in the courtyard of the temple.

4:2 The Sea was a receptacle for water corresponding to the much smaller bronze laver of the Mosaic tabernacle (Ex. 30:17–21). t hat laver provided water for the priests to wash their hands and feet in preparation for ministering at the altar. t he sea served the same purpose (see v. 6). it was huge—15 feet in diameter and 45 feet in circumference.

4:3 t he oxen stood for strength and fertility. Other Bible passages use the ox’s horn to signify this (see 1 sam. 2:10).

4:4 t he twelve oxen were in addition to the ones engraved on the outside of the sea, and like them they symbolized strength and productivity. t heir number corresponds to the twelve tribes of israel.

4:5 t he sea was very heavy even when empty. When filled with three thousand baths (about 27,000 gallons) of water, it would have weighed about 110 tons more.

4:6 t he ten lavers were arranged in two rows of five, on the north and south sides of the sea. According to 1 Kin. 7:38, each held 40 baths or about 230 gallons. t hey could accommodate large animals such as oxen. t he law of the burnt offering required that certain parts of the animal be washed in water before being placed on the altar (see Lev. 1:9, 13).

4:7 Whereas the wilderness tabernacle had only one lampstand, this temple had ten (see Ex. 25:31), five on the north side of the holy place and five on the south. t hey probably had the same form as the one in the tabernacle—a central stand with three branches extending from each side, making a total of seven lamps per unit (see Ex. 25:32, 37). t hey symbolized the light of god’s creation (gen. 1:3–5) and the fact that god Himself is light (see John 8:12).

4:8 t here had been only one table in the tabernacle (Ex. 25:23), but the temple had ten. t hey held the loaves of showbread (Ex. 25:30). bowls of gold: t he word for bowls here is derived from the Hebrew verb meaning “to sprinkle.” t he priests used the bowls to hold liquids that were sprinkled.

4:9 t here were areas in and about the temple that only the priests could enter. One of these was the area immediately surrounding it and enclosed by a separating wall, the court of the priests. t he great court was an outer area where the people in general could go.

4:10 t he Sea was placed to one side of the entrance to the temple, to the southeast. t he temple faced east.

4:14 Carts were mobile stands designed as bases for the ten lavers referred to in v. 6. t hey were four cubits on a side and three cubits high, had four bronze wheels, and were covered on the sides by richly decorated panels (1 Kin. 7:27–37).

4:17 Many bronze products were made at a place in the Jordan valley about 35 miles north of the Dead sea. Archaeologists have uncovered evidence of this work in an area where the clay is suitable for bronze casting.

them cast in clay molds, between Succoth and <sup>5</sup>Zeredah. <sup>18</sup>s And Solomon had all these articles made in such great abundance that the weight of the bronze was not determined.

5 So <sup>a</sup>all the work that Solomon had done for the house of the LORD was finished; and Solomon brought in the things which his father David had dedicated: the silver and the gold and all the furnishings. And he put them in the treasuries of the house of God.

The Ark Brought into the Temple

ark, the tabernacle of meeting, and all the holy furnishings that were in the tabernacle. The priests and the Levites brought them up. <sup>6</sup>Also King Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel who were assembled with him before the ark, were sacrificing sheep and oxen that could not be counted or numbered for multitude. <sup>7</sup>Then the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD to its place, into the <sup>8</sup>inner sanctuary of the <sup>1</sup>temple, to the Most Holy Place, under the wings of the cherubim. <sup>8</sup>For the cherubim spread their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubim overshadowed the ark and its poles. <sup>9</sup>The poles extended so that the ends of the <sup>h</sup>poles of the ark could be seen from the holy place, in front of the inner sanctuary; but they could not be seen from outside. And <sup>2</sup>they are there to this day. <sup>10</sup>Nothing was in the ark except the two tablets which Moses <sup>i</sup>put there at Horeb, <sup>3</sup>when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they had come out of Egypt.

4:19 t his is the first mention of the altar of gold in Chronicles (see Ex. 30:1-10; 1 Kin. 7:48). t his altar was used for offering incense. it was in the holy place just in front of the veil (see 3:14).

4:22 inner doors: t he tabernacle had only a veil between the holy place, here called the sanctuary, and the Most Holy Place (Ex. 26:31-33). s olomon's temple had a set of doors there as well.

5:1 The treasuries of the house of God listed here were dedicated by David in the sense that he had allotted them to the building and maintenance of the temple (see 1 Chr. 18:7, 8; 29:3-5). s olomon put them in the regular temple treasuries.

5:2 t hough David had built a tabernacle on Mt. Zion to house the ark (1 Chr. 15:1), it was still separate from the original tabernacle at gibeon and thus was not yet in a permanent location. Completing s olomon's temple made it possible at last to place the ark in its proper setting.

5:3 s ince this was in the seventh month (that is, Ethanim or t ishri; 1 Kin. 8:2), the feast was tabernacles. t his feast was an appropriate occasion for moving the ark to a permanent location, because the Feast of tabernacles commemorated israel's wandering in the wilderness, when the ark had no permanent place (Lev. 23:39-43).

5:5 t he term tabernacle of meeting refers to the Mosaic tabernacle. s olomon ended worship at the high place at gibeon by dismantling the Mosaic tabernacle located there (see 1:3) and by bringing it and all its furnishings to Jerusalem.

5:6 Like David before him, s olomon, a priestly king, exercised the privileges of his office by offering sacrifices (see 1 Chr. 16:1-3).

5:8 According to Moses' instructions (Ex. 25:12-15; num. 4:6), the ark had rings attached to each corner, through which poles were inserted to carry it. t hese poles were about 20 cubits (30 feet) long, since those who ministered in the holy place could see them at either end of the veil (v. 9).

5:9 to this day: t his statement would be charged with emotion for any israelite who lived through the Babylonian Exile years later, when n ebuchadnezzar's army destroyed s olomon's temple and carried away many of its furnishings.

5:11 On this day of inaugurating the temple all the priests participated in the services regardless of their priestly divisions. From then on they would serve in rotation according to their division (see 1 Chr. 24:1-19). The Most Holy Place was normally restricted to the high priest only (Lev. 16:15; Heb. 9:7); on this occasion the regular priests had entered it to bring in the ark (v. 7).

5:12 Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun were the heads of the divisions of Levitical musicians (see 1 Chr. 6:33, 39, 44; 15:17; 16:37, 42; 25:1). t he east end of the altar was between the east gate of the inner court and the great bronze altar. Altogether there were far more than one hundred and twenty priests; the ones numbered here were probably a select group of instrumentalists.

5:13 As v. 14 suggests, the cloud was a manifestation of god's glory. in a sense, the cloud both revealed and concealed the glory of god, which is too awesome for human eyes to see (see Ex. 19:16, 18; 20:18, 21; 24:16-18; 33:9, 10, 22; 40:34-38).

one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the LORD, and when they lifted up their voice with the trumpets and cymbals and instruments of music, and praised the LORD, saying: that the house, the house of the LORD, was filled with a cloud, <sup>14</sup>so that the priests could not <sup>5</sup>continue ministering because of the cloud; <sup>n</sup>for the glory of the LORD filled the house of God.

<sup>m</sup>“For He is good,
For His mercy endures forever,”

6 Then <sup>a</sup>Solomon spoke:

“The LORD said He would dwell in the <sup>b</sup>dark cloud.

<sup>2</sup> I have surely built You an exalted house,
And <sup>c</sup>a place for You to dwell in forever.”

Solomon’s Speech upon Completion of the Work

<sup>3</sup>Then the king turned around and <sup>d</sup>blessed the whole assembly of Israel, while all the assembly of Israel was standing. <sup>4</sup>And he said: “Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who has fulfilled with His hands what He spoke with His mouth to my father David, <sup>e</sup>saying, <sup>5</sup>‘Since the day that I brought My people out of the land of Egypt, I have chosen no city from any tribe of Israel in which to build a house,

Solomon’s Prayer of Dedication

6:1, 2 The dark cloud which had represented the glory of god now filled the temple (5:14). t his was in line with god’s own promise to David when He said, in response to David’s decision to build a temple, that He had lived in a portable tabernacle (1 Chr. 17:5). Although David’s son built a temple for god, the time would come when god would build David an eternal house or dynasty. With David’s permanent dynasty would come god’s permanent relationship with His people (1 Chr. 17:7–14). t hus solomon built the “house” in which god could live among them.

6:4 fulfilled with His hands: A direct reference to the covenant that god had made with David, when He promised him an everlasting house (see 1 Chr. 17:11, 12). solomon, as David’s chosen heir, had lived to see god’s words of promise come true. god had made s olomon king and built the temple. solomon may have hired Phoenician craftsmen, but he knew that the project’s success lay with god, and that “His hands” really had done the work.

6:6 I have chosen Jerusalem: t his refers not so much to Jerusalem as a political capital, as it was for David and solomon (1 Chr. 11:4–8), but as a place for god’s name. t his emphasis is unmistakable in the narrative about Ornan’s threshing floor (see 1 Chr. 21:18—22:1). Only Jerusalem would be acceptable as a place for god’s earthly dwelling. I have chosen David: in His grace god chose David long before David actually took the throne, as samuel’s anointing of him in his youth made clear (1 sam. 16:1, 12, 13).

6:11 The covenant of the LORD refers to the stone tablets of the ten Commandments (see 5:10).

6:13 t he bronze platform was not a regular feature of the temple but a stage constructed for solomon’s speech, so the assembly outside the walls of the courtyard could see him. it was seven and a half feet square and four and a half feet high.

6:14 no God . . . like You: god is different from all other “gods.” He alone made and kept a covenant with His people, something unheard of in the religious traditions of the nations. solomon’s acclamation makes sense to every child of god who reflects on god’s faithfulness. covenant and mercy: t he word for mercy here

t he Hebrew term denotes a gathering of people for any type of occasion. it is used in a secular sense to designate civil meetings, war counsels, a gathering of evildoers, and even an assembly of the dead (1 sam. 17:47; 1 Kin. 12:3; Ps. 26:5; Prov. 21:16). But the word is also used to speak of the gathering of individuals for religious purposes, such as the receiving of the Mosaic Law and the celebration of religious festivals before the Lord (30:23; Deut. 5:22). sometimes the term applies to groups of men only—most frequently with assemblies for war, but once, apparently, for those gathered to hear Joshua’s reading of the Law (Josh. 8:35). During the time of Ezra, women, children, and even servants were specifically included in one religious assembly (Ezra 2:64, 65; 10:1). t he expression “assembly of the LORD” occurs several times in the Ot to indicate a gathering of god’s people for religious or secular purposes—including once to grumble against Moses (num. 20:4; Deut. 23:1–3; 1 Chr. 28:8; neh. 13:1).

“LORD God of Israel, <sup>m</sup>there is no God in heaven or on earth like You, who keep Your <sup>n</sup>covenant and mercy with Your servants who walk before You with all their hearts. <sup>15o</sup>You have kept what You promised Your servant David my father; You have both spoken with Your mouth and fulfilled it with Your hand, as it is this day. <sup>16</sup>Therefore, LORD God of Israel, now keep what You promised Your servant David my father, saying, <sup>p</sup>“You shall not fail to have a man sit before Me on the throne of Israel, <sup>q</sup>only if your sons take heed to their way, that they walk in My law as you have walked before Me.” <sup>17</sup>And now, O LORD God of Israel, let Your word come true, which You have spoken to Your servant David.

connotes loyalty; it means that god is faithful to His servants—to those who walk before Him with all their hearts.

6:16 solomon's very position as king attested to god's having fulfilled His promise (see v. 10). But portions of god's promise depended on god's people obeying god's law. Only if David's sons took heed to their way would they enjoy the full benefits of god's favor. so solomon prayed that his people would stay faithful. god would be faithful to them—would they be faithful to Him? no matter what their choice, however, god would carry out his ultimate plan to send the Messiah (see Ps. 89:30–37).

6:18 will God . . . dwell with men: god is altogether separate from humanity (2:6), but He accommodates Himself to the low position of human beings in order to fellowship with them (see gen. 2:8; 11:5; 18:1, 2; Ex. 23:20–26). He did this in an ultimate sense in the incarnation of Jesus Christ (John 1:14).

6:21 the temple was god's dwelling place in the sense that it gave god's people a place to pray to the living god. Yet god could not be contained within the four walls of a building (see v. 18).

6:22 comes and takes an oath: A reference to legal oaths in which people swore their innocence before god (see Ex. 22:8–11; Deut.

17:8, 9). such oaths had to be sworn in the temple and before the altar, symbolic of god's presence among His people.

6:23 solomon's request that god hear from heaven underscored god's transcendence. Although god had chosen to be present on earth at the temple, He also transcended the temple building.

6:25 bring them back: A hint of the future captivity and deportation of god's disobedient people (Deut. 28:29, 30). When the Exile to Babylon became a reality, the temple was destroyed and no one could pray at that place as before. But even in those days, god's people directed their prayer toward Jerusalem. t his is what Daniel did (see Dan. 6:10).

6:29 israel was a community and could pray together as a nation. But each member was also responsible for his or her own sin (Ezek. 18:1–4) and each needed to seek god's forgiveness. Prayer toward the temple could be national or individual.

6:32, 33 god made His covenant exclusively with israel, the nation descended from Abraham, but He did so for the purpose of attracting the nations to Himself, the Creator of all people. A foreigner who embraced the Lord as god would be numbered among god's people.

and do according to all for which the foreigner calls to You, that all peoples of the earth may know Your name and fear You, as do Your people Israel, and that they may know that <sup>4</sup>this temple which I have built is called by Your name.

Solomon Dedicates the Temple

“For He is good,

6:36 there is no one who does not sin: t his statement is repeated in the nt (see r om. 3:23; 1 John 1:8–10). All people sin and are guilty before god. take them captive: s olomon’s speech anticipated the possibility of exile (v. 25), something that had already taken place by the time Chronicles was written.

6:40 Let Your eyes be open: god is spirit (John 4:24) and doesn’t have physical eyes and ears, but He is a Person who intimately knows us and hears our prayers. s olomon was praying that god would not ignore His people.

6:41 in light of Ps. 132:8, 9 (the passage quoted by s olomon), the resting place is the temple. Ark is a synonym for the presence of god.

6:42 Your Anointed: A reference to s olomon, which shows that he understood his unique role as one set apart by god for royal service (see 1 Chr. 22:10, 11). Like David, s olomon was a messianic figure who anticipated the goal of his royal line, the true Anointed One, Jesus Christ (see 1 sam. 2:10; Ps. 2:2; 18:50; 89:38, 51; 132:17).

7:1, 2 god responded positively to s olomon’s prayer by igniting the sacrifices with heavenly fire, an act of approval recorded in other parts of the Bible as well (see Judg. 6:21; 1 Kin. 18:38). Glory . . . filled: t his was in the form of a thick cloud that filled the temple with darkness. t he priests could no longer minister because of their awe and reverence before the glory of the Lord.

7:3 t he people saw in god’s glory His acceptance of the king and the temple, two central elements in His covenant promise to David (see 1 Chr. 17:11, 12).

7:8 t he feast was the Feast of tabernacles, which began on the fifteenth day of the seventh month and continued through the twenty-second day (Lev. 23:34–36). Hamath and Brook of Egypt specify the extent of s olomon’s early kingdom from north to south.

Hamath to <sup>m</sup>the<sup>3</sup> Brook of Egypt. <sup>9</sup>And on the eighth day they held a <sup>n</sup>sacred assembly, for they observed the dedication of the altar seven days, and the feast seven days. <sup>10</sup><sup>a</sup>On the twenty-third day of the seventh month he sent the people away to their tents, joyful and glad of heart for the good that the LORD had done for David, for Solomon, and for His people Israel. <sup>11</sup>Thus <sup>p</sup>Solomon finished the house of the LORD and the king's house; and Solomon successfully accomplished all that came into his heart to make in the house of the LORD and in his own house.

God's Second Appearance to Solomon

<sup>12</sup>Then the LORD <sup>q</sup>appeared to Solomon by night, and said to him: "I have heard your prayer, <sup>r</sup>and have chosen this <sup>s</sup>place for Myself as a house of sacrifice. <sup>13</sup><sup>t</sup>When I shut up heaven and there is no rain, or command the locusts to devour the land, or send pestilence among My people, <sup>14</sup>if My people who are <sup>u</sup>called by My name will <sup>v</sup>humble themselves, and pray and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, <sup>w</sup>then I will hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin and heal their land. <sup>15</sup>Now <sup>x</sup>My eyes will be open and My ears attentive to prayer <sup>y</sup>made in this place. <sup>16</sup>For now <sup>z</sup>I have chosen and <sup>4</sup>sanctified this house, that My name may be there forever; and <sup>5</sup>My eyes and <sup>6</sup>My heart will be there perpetually. <sup>17</sup><sup>z</sup>As for you, if you walk before Me as your fa-

Solomon's Additional Achievements

t he Brook of Egypt is probably the Wadi el-Arish, a seasonal stream about 40 miles southwest of Gaza.

7:10 he sent the people away to their tents: Probably a reference to the huts or booths in which people stayed as part of the Feast of tabernacles (Lev. 23:42, 43). Few if any israelites used tents for their housing at this time.

7:11 The king's house refers to solomon's own palace, a project much more elaborately explained in 1 Kings (see 1 Kin. 2:1; 7:1, 8). since it took solomon 13 years to build his palace and 20 years in all

t he Hebrew verb translated pray in god's promise concerning the revival of israel (7:14) can also mean "to inter-vene," "to interpose," "to arbitrate," or even "to judge." t he Lord was asking His people to intercede for others in their prayers. During the dedication of the temple, solomon modeled intercessory prayer (6:3-42). He pleaded with god on behalf of the people and continued to pray with determination until the Lord answered. According to the Lord, this type of prayer would be the catalyst for revival and restoration in the future (see Dan. 9:3-19).

7:12 in the next several verses (vv. 13-15), the Lord reviews and answers the petitions of Solomon (6:14-42). solomon's prayers had been heard and would be answered, but there were conditions (see v. 14).

7:14 if god's people would do three things, god would respond in three ways. t he Lord's people needed to become humble, that is, confess; they needed to pray, or repent; and they needed to turn, or come back to Him. if they did, god would hear, forgive, and heal them.

7:17, 18 if you walk: t he Lord challenged solomon to remain faithful to Him and to the laws of the covenant so that he could enjoy the full benefit of god's blessing (vv. 17-20). I will establish the throne: t he conditions for god's blessing on David and his line did not extend to the ongoing existence of that dynasty. t he covenant promises to David were unqualified. t he Lord had told David that if his son—that is, solomon—sinned he would be disciplined, but "My mercy shall not depart from him," and "your house and your kingdom shall be established forever before you" (2 sam. 7:15, 16; see 1 Chr. 17:13, 14). solomon might sin and be disciplined, but god's promises would stand—David's dynasty would go on.

<sup>11</sup>Now Solomon <sup>i</sup>brought the daughter of Pharaoh up from the City of David to the house he had built for her, for he said, “My wife shall not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, because the places to which the ark of the LORD has come are holy.”

his father, he appointed the <sup>m</sup>divisions of the priests for their service, <sup>n</sup>the Levites for their duties (to praise and serve before the priests) as the duty of each day required, and the <sup>o</sup>gatekeepers by their divisions at each gate; for so David the man of God had commanded. <sup>15</sup>They did not depart from the command of the king to the priests and Levites concerning any matter or concerning the <sup>p</sup>treasuries.

The Queen of Sheba's Praise of Solomon

9 Now <sup>a</sup>when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon, she came to Jerusalem to test Solomon with hard questions, having a very great retinue, camels that bore spices, gold in abundance, and precious stones; and when she came to Solomon, she spoke with him about all that was in her heart. <sup>2</sup>So Solomon answered all her questions; there was nothing so difficult for Solomon that he could not explain it to her. <sup>3</sup>And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, the house that he had built, <sup>4</sup>the food on his table, the seating of his servants, the service of his waiters and their apparel, his <sup>b</sup>cupbearers and their apparel, and his entryway by which he the timber and gold that Hiram provided for Solomon's construction projects, Solomon gave 20 Galilean cities to Hiram. The Phoenician did not like the cities, but he took them anyway and even paid 120 talents of gold for them. Eventually Solomon took back the cities, rebuilt them, and settled Israelites in them once more.

8:4 Solomon built and fortified cities such as Tadmor because they were on vital caravan routes. These fortified cities provided protection to his own caravans and became the customs points at which Solomon collected taxes. storage cities: Facilities were scattered throughout Solomon's outlying provinces to provide warehouses for his armies and merchantmen, as well as to store produce and other tribute paid by the vassal states (see 1 Kin. 9:19).

8:5 Upper Beth Horon and Lower Beth Horon were strategically located near the border between Judah and the northern tribal districts, along a major mountain pass to the Mediterranean (see Josh. 10:10; 1 Sam. 13:18).

8:7, 8 The people groups named in this verse were remnants of the population of Canaan who survived the conquest. Israel reduced many of them to forced labor (see 2:17).

8:11 The daughter of Pharaoh is not named here. Solomon had married her early in his reign (1 Kin. 3:1) and had provided her housing near David's palace on Mt. Zion. She had been forbidden to live in the palace, presumably because she was neither Hebrew nor God-fearing.

8:13 The daily rate refers to the morning and evening sacrifices of lambs, one on each occasion (Ex. 29:38-42).

8:14, 15 Solomon, like all kings in David's line, had jurisdiction over the priests and Levites, as well as over civil, military, and political affairs.

8:17 Ezion Geber and Elath were cities located close together at the northern end of the east branch of the Red Sea.

8:18 The Phoenicians were world-famous mariners, so when Solomon undertook a merchant marine enterprise he called once more on his good friend Hiram, the King of Tyre. The land of Ophir, located apparently in South Arabia (see 1 Chr. 29:4), was a source of finest gold.

9:1 Sheba was more than a thousand miles south of Israel, at the southern end of the Arabian Peninsula. hard questions: Solomon was known for his great wisdom (1:10-12; 1 Kin. 4:29-34).

David and Solomon's Empire

went up to the house of the LORD, there was no more spirit in her.

<sup>5</sup>Then she said to the king: “It was a true report which I heard in my own land about your words and your wisdom. <sup>6</sup>However I did not believe their words until I came and saw with my own eyes; and indeed the half of the greatness of your wisdom was not told me. You exceed the fame of which I heard. <sup>7</sup>Happy are your men and happy are these your servants, who stand continually before you and hear your wisdom! <sup>8</sup>Blessed be the LORD your God, who delighted in you, setting you on His throne to be king for the LORD your God! Because your God has <sup>c</sup>loved Israel, to establish them forever, therefore He made you king over them, to do justice and righteousness.”

<sup>12</sup>Now King Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all she desired, whatever she asked, much more than she had brought to the king. So she turned and went to her own country, she and her servants.

Solomon’s Great Wealth

<sup>13e</sup>The weight of gold that came to Solomon yearly was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold, <sup>14</sup>besides what the traveling merchants and traders brought. And all the kings of Arabia and governors of the country brought gold and silver to Solomon. <sup>15</sup>And King Solomon made two hundred large shields of hammered gold; six hundred shekels of hammered gold went into each shield. <sup>16</sup>He also made three hundred shields of

BIBLE TIMES & CULTURE NOTES

Ophir

Although Ophir is mentioned several times in the Ot, its exact location remains a mystery. Some believe Ophir was an island situated in the red sea; others think it was in India; still others believe it was in Africa, perhaps Somaliland, or on the southwest corner of the Arabian Peninsula, perhaps in the land of Sheba. Ophir is consistently associated in the Ot with gold, probably its most noteworthy product. The gold may have come from Ophir itself, or it may have simply passed through Ophir from its place of origin. The air of mystery about Ophir adds to its significance when spoken of in a symbolic way in the Bible. Psalm 45:9 speaks of “the queen in gold from Ophir.” Job 28:16 says that wisdom “cannot be valued in the gold of Ophir,” suggesting its incomparable worth.

hammered gold; <sup>3</sup>three hundred shekels of gold went into each shield. The king put them in the <sup>f</sup>House of the Forest of Lebanon.

9:8 Blessed be the Lord your God: This was the language of politeness in the ancient world and does not suggest that the queen of Sheba was converted. Visiting dignitaries customarily praised the god of the host nation. Still, the queen’s statements about God’s love of Israel and election of Solomon were true enough (see 1 Chr. 17:11–14).

9:13 Solomon’s annual income in gold through taxes alone amounted to 25 tons. Since king and state were identified, this figure reflects the annual revenues of the entire nation through taxes.

9:14 The gold and silver that the kings and governors brought to Solomon was tribute—a form of taxation on vassal states, not a voluntary gift.

9:15 The shields of hammered gold were for decorative or ceremonial purposes, not the armory. Gold was too expensive, too heavy, and too soft to use in battle.

9:21 To Tarshish is possibly a figure of speech, meaning “a great distance” or “to the ends of the earth.”

9:23 In the context of Solomon’s own time and place, all the kings referred to the kings of the eastern Mediterranean world.

9:24 Each man brought his present: Ordinary presents are not of silver and gold, garments, <sup>h</sup>armor, spices, horses, and mules, at a set rate year by year.

Death of Solomon

The Revolt Against Rehoboam

10 And <sup>a</sup>Rehoboam went to Shechem, for all Israel had gone to Shechem to make him king. <sup>2</sup>So it happened, when Jeroboam the son of Nebat heard it (he was in Egypt, <sup>b</sup>where he had fled from the presence of King Solomon), that Jeroboam returned from Egypt. <sup>3</sup>Then they sent for him and called him. And Jeroboam and all Israel came and spoke to Rehoboam, saying, <sup>4</sup>“Your father made our yoke heavy; now therefore, lighten the burdensome service of your father and his heavy yoke which he put on us, and we will serve you.”

<sup>5</sup>So he said to them, “Come back to me after three days.” And the people departed.

<sup>7</sup>And they spoke to him, saying, “If you are kind to these people, and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be your servants forever.”

<sup>8</sup><sup>c</sup>But he rejected the advice which the elders had given him, and consulted the young men who had grown up with him, who stood before him. <sup>9</sup>And he said to them, “What advice do you give? How should we answer this people who have spoken to me, saying, ‘Lighten the yoke which your father put on us?’”

<sup>10</sup>Then the young men who had grown up with him spoke to him, saying, “Thus you should speak to the people who have spoken to you, saying, ‘Your father made our yoke heavy, but you make it lighter on us’—thus you shall say to them: ‘My little finger shall be thicker than my father’s waist! <sup>11</sup>And now, whereas my father put a heavy yoke on you, I will add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with <sup>1</sup>scourges!’” given and received at a set rate so these presents were tribute paid to the king by vassals.

<sup>12</sup>So <sup>d</sup>Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king had directed, saying, “Come back to me the third day.” <sup>13</sup>Then the king answered them roughly. King Rehoboam rejected the advice of the elders, <sup>14</sup>and he spoke to them according to the advice of the young men, saying, <sup>2</sup>“My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to it; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with <sup>3</sup>scourges!”

9:26 Most of the kings of Israel had continuing trouble with the Philistines, even though they were able to subdue every other surrounding neighbor. David had some success against the Philistines (1 Chr. 18:2), and later Jehoshaphat managed to exact tribute from some of them (see 17:11).

9:29 Nathan the prophet had rebuked David for his adultery and murder (2 Sam. 12:1) and had become a confidant and counselor on him (1 Kin. 14:1–16). Iddo the seer was a contemporary of Ahijah who compiled accounts of both Jeroboam and Rehoboam (12:15).

9:31 Rehoboam was a son of Solomon by his wife Naamah of Ammon (12:13). Rehoboam was 41 when he began to rule, so he must have been born during the period when Solomon ruled alongside David (see 1 Chr. 29:22, 23).

10:1 Why did Rehoboam go to Shechem to be crowned? First, shechem had a rich history dating back to Abraham’s travels in the land (see Gen. 12:6, 7; 35:4; Josh. 24:1–28). But more importantly, a rift had begun to develop between the northern and southern tribes (1 Kin. 11:26–40), and shechem would be a more neutral place than Jerusalem.

10:2 As head of all of Solomon’s forced labor in the district of Ephraim, Jeroboam enjoyed great favor with the king. But the prophet Ahijah informed him that he would become ruler of the ten northern tribes because of Solomon’s idolatry (1 Kin. 11:26–33). When Solomon heard of this he tried to kill Jeroboam (1 Kin. 11:40), but Jeroboam fled to Egypt.

10:4 Solomon’s heavy yoke included taxation and forced labor (see 1 Sam. 8:11–18; 1 Kin. 4:7; 9:15).

10:10, 11 Rehoboam promised that even the lesser evils of his reign—his finger—would be as hard as anything they knew under Solomon. The young men compared Solomon’s rule to a whip and Rehoboam’s to a scourge, a whip with sharp bits of metal that cut the flesh and caused excruciating pain.

<sup>15</sup>So the king did not listen to the people; <sup>e</sup>for the turn of events was from God, that the LORD might fulfill His *f*word, which He had spoken by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

<sup>16</sup>Now when all Israel saw that the king did not listen to them, the people answered the king, saying:

“What share have we in David?
We have no inheritance in the son of Jesse.
Every man to your tents, O Israel!
Now see to your own house,
O David!”

So all Israel departed to their tents. <sup>17</sup>But Rehoboam reigned over the children of Israel who dwelt in the cities of Judah.

<sup>18</sup>Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram, who was in charge of revenue; but the children of Israel stoned him with stones, and he died. Therefore King Rehoboam mounted his chariot in haste to flee to Jerusalem. <sup>19</sup>So Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David to this day.

11 Now <sup>a</sup>when Rehoboam came to Jerusalem, he assembled from the house of Judah and Benjamin one hundred and eighty thousand chosen men who were warriors, to fight against Israel, that he might restore the kingdom to Rehoboam.

Let every man return to his house, for this thing is from Me.”” Therefore they obeyed the words of the LORD, and turned back from attacking Jeroboam.

Rehoboam Fortifies the Cities

Priests and Levites Move to Judah

10:15 the turn of events was from God: Human foolishness and decisions achieved God’s purposes. Solomon’s defection from God late in his reign had already disqualified his descendants from ruling over all Israel (1 Kin. 11:9–13). Rehoboam initiated the split with his own foolish actions.

10:16 In the people’s poem, Israel referred to the ten northern tribes, David to the southern kingdom of Judah.

10:18 Hadoram, called Adoniram in 1 Kin. 4:6, was Jeroboam’s counterpart in Judah as officer in charge of forced labor.

11:1 Shortly after the kingdom divided, the tribe of Benjamin joined Judah to form the southern kingdom. This is ironic because Saul was a Benjamite. However, Benjamites had shown great loyalty to David many years before (see 2 Sam. 19:16–20, 40–43). Also, Benjamin was closer geographically to Judah than to the northern tribes. 11:2 Like Nathan, Ahijah, and Iddo (9:29), Shemaiah was a prophet who wrote. The writer of Chronicles depended on Shemaiah’s writings for some of his information (see 12:15).

11:13, 14 all their territories: Though Israel and Judah had split into two kingdoms, the priests and the Levites of Israel sided with Judah. One reason for this was that they knew that Rehoboam was David’s offspring, and therefore the heir of God’s covenant promise to David. Another reason was that Jeroboam had established his own religious cult which had no need for the true priests of God (see 1 Kin. 12:25–33).

11:15 The calf idols were the golden calves that Jeroboam had installed at Bethel and Dan.

The Family of Rehoboam

Egypt Attacks Judah

12 Now <sup>a</sup>it came to pass, when Rehoboam had established the kingdom and had strengthened himself, that <sup>b</sup>he forsook the law of the LORD, and all Israel along with him. <sup>2c</sup>And it happened in the fifth year of King Rehoboam that Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, because they had transgressed against the LORD, <sup>3</sup>with twelve hundred chariots, sixty thousand horsemen, and people without number who came with him out of Egypt—<sup>d</sup>the Lubim and the Sukkiim and the Ethiopians. <sup>4</sup>And he took the fortified cities of Judah and came to Jerusalem.

<sup>5</sup>Then <sup>e</sup>Shemaiah the prophet came to Rehoboam and the leaders of Judah, who were gathered together in Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said to them, “Thus says the LORD: ‘You have forsaken Me, and therefore I also have left you in the hand of Shishak.’”

<sup>7</sup>Now when the LORD saw that they humbled themselves, <sup>h</sup>the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, saying, “They have humbled themselves; therefore I will not destroy them, but I will grant them some deliverance. My wrath shall not be poured out on Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak. <sup>8</sup>Nevertheless <sup>i</sup>they will be his servants, that they may distinguish <sup>j</sup>My service from the service of the kingdoms of the nations.”

11:16 Once the legitimate religious leaders had left Israel, the worshipers of God in the northern kingdom could no longer worship in good conscience, so they made pilgrimages to Jerusalem three times a year (see 1 Kin. 12:27, 32, 33).

11:17 Jeroboam’s program of establishing a new religious structure in Israel apparently took at least three years. Meanwhile, the pilgrimage of Godly Israelites from the north to Jerusalem strengthened Rehoboam and weakened Jeroboam (1 Kin. 12:27).

11:18 Mahalath may have been David’s great-granddaughter. Rehoboam was David’s grandson, so in any case this marriage was within the larger royal family.

11:20 Rehoboam’s claims to legitimacy took further support from his marriage to Maachah, granddaughter of David’s son Absalom. Their son Abijah would eventually succeed Rehoboam (see 12:16).

11:22 Rehoboam named his son Abijah to be the next king to ensure a smooth succession following his death. Abijah probably served under or alongside Rehoboam, just as Solomon had served under David (1 Chr. 23:1).

12:1 the law: The normal Hebrew word for the Mosaic covenant, the Ten Commandments.

12:2, 3 Egypt was beginning to recover from a long period of decline and wanted to reestablish control over Palestine. God used their ambitions to discipline Rehoboam for abandoning the Lord.

The Lubim were the Libyans. The Sukkiim were other desert tribes, perhaps from western Libya. Ethiopians: sometimes referred to as Cushites, these famous warriors originated in the lands south of Egypt.

12:8 In order that the Judeans might understand how privileged they were to serve God, He would allow them to become servants to the Egyptians. Only then would they appreciate again the joy of being God’s servant people.

12:9 The treasures of the king’s house that the Egyptians seized

transgressed

(Heb. ma’al) (12:2; Lev. 6:2; Ezek. 14:13) strong’s #4603

The principal sense of this word is “to break a trust,” most often willfully but in some cases unintentionally (Lev. 5:15). The term is used in association with the word sin on several occasions (Lev. 5:15; 6:2; Ezek. 18:22–24). Transgression is almost always against the Lord and may be committed by individuals or communities, especially the covenant community (n um. 31:16; n eh. 1:6, 7; Ezek. 14:13). Also a wife can transgress against her husband, or a king can transgress by not rendering a true judgment (n um. 5:12; Prov. 16:10). The word occurs predominantly in the exilic and postexilic books. There death, military defeat, and exile are all viewed as divine judgments on Israel’s transgressions (12:1–9; 1 Chr. 10:13; Ezek. 39:23; Dan. 9:7).

against Jerusalem, and took away the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the king's house; he took everything. He also carried away the gold shields which Solomon had <sup>l</sup>made. <sup>10</sup>Then King Rehoboam made bronze shields in their place, and committed them <sup>m</sup>to the hands of the captains of the guard, who guarded the doorway of the king's house. <sup>11</sup>And whenever the king entered the house of the LORD, the guard would go and bring them out; then they would take them back into the guard-room. <sup>12</sup>When he humbled himself, the wrath of the LORD turned from him, so as not to destroy him completely; and things also went well in Judah.

The End of Rehoboam's Reign

<sup>13</sup>Thus King Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem and reigned. Now <sup>n</sup>Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he became king; and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, <sup>o</sup>the city which the LORD had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, to put His name there. His mother's name was Naamah, an <sup>p</sup>Ammonitess. <sup>14</sup>And he did evil, because he did not prepare his heart to seek the LORD.

Abijah Reigns in Judah

And there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam. <sup>3</sup>Abijah set the battle in had been spoils of war captured by David and dedicated to god (1 Chr. 18:6–8; 22:14). Judah was now a vassal state of Egypt.

12:12 t he king's conduct had inevitable consequences on the nation. When a king obeyed god, the Lord would bless the nation. When the king turned away from the Lord, his subjects would suffer. But when the king repented and humbled himself before god, god's forgiveness and restoration would cover both him and his kingdom.

12:14 did not prepare his heart to seek the Lord: note the differences between David, solomon, r ehoboam, and Abijah (in ch. 13). David, a man of god (see 8:14), died at a very old age with riches and honor. solomon died wise, rich, and powerful. But r ehoboam did evil. As a result, he fought wars throughout most of his troubled reign. Abijah followed r ehoboam's example of not honoring god (13:8–18).

Shishak

shishak was a Libyan war chieftain who became pharaoh of Egypt and reigned from about 940 to 915 B.C. in about 926 B.C., in the fifth year of the reign of King r ehoboam, shishak invaded Judah and captured many of its fortified cities (1 Kin. 14:25). He then marched against Jerusalem, r ehoboam's capital city, forcing r ehoboam to pay tribute and plundering the treasures of the temple and r ehoboam's palace (1 Kin. 14:25, 26). t he Egyptian account of shishak's invasion of Judah was recorded on the wall of the temple of the Egyptian god Amon at Karnak (ancient t hebes), in southern Egypt. More than a hundred cities captured or destroyed by shishak are listed, including Adoraim, Aijalon, and soch. Cities from the northern kingdom of israel, such as s hechem, Beth shean, and Megiddo, are also listed on this monument as being captured by shishak.

13:4 Mount Zemairaim was a few miles southwest of Bethel (see Josh. 18:22).

13:5 covenant of salt: salt was a preservative and symbolized durability—an apt description of the eternal Davidic covenant (see Lev. 2:13; n um. 18:19). Israel refers to the whole nation, not just the northern kingdom.

13:6 Abijah blamed the division of the kingdom on Jeroboam, not r ehoboam, or even s olomon (see 10:16). But Jeroboam's rebellion was fueled by s olomon's disobedience to the covenant and his harsh policies. Moreover, r ehoboam's foolish plan to increase the severity of those abuses infuriated the israelites even more. t he blame lay with all three—Jeroboam, r ehoboam, and s olomon.

13:7, 8 Abijah's version of the nation's division put his father in a relatively good light. According to Abijah, if r ehoboam had made any mistakes, it was merely because he was young and rogues gathered to him, and strengthened themselves against Rehoboam the son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was <sup>h</sup> young and inexperienced and could not withstand them. <sup>8</sup> And now you think to withstand the kingdom of the LORD, which is in the hand of the sons of David; and you are a great multitude, and with you are the gold calves which Jeroboam <sup>i</sup> made for you as gods. <sup>9j</sup> Have you not cast out the priests of the LORD, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and made for yourselves priests, like the peoples of other lands, <sup>k</sup> so that whoever comes to consecrate himself with a young bull and seven rams may be a priest of <sup>l</sup> things that are not gods? <sup>10</sup> But as for us, the LORD is our <sup>m</sup> God, and we have not forsaken Him; and the priests who minister to the LORD are the sons of Aaron, and the Levites attend to their duties. <sup>11n</sup> And they burn to the LORD every morning and every evening burnt sacrifices and sweet incense; they also set the <sup>o</sup> showbread in order on the pure gold table, and the lampstand of gold with its lamps <sup>p</sup> to burn every evening; for we keep the command of the LORD our God, but you have forsaken Him. <sup>12</sup> Now look, God Himself is with us as our <sup>q</sup> head, <sup>r</sup> and His priests with sounding trumpets to sound the alarm against you. O children of Israel, do not fight against the LORD God of your fathers, for you shall not prosper!"

Israel fled before Judah, and God delivered them into their hand. <sup>17</sup> Then Abijah and his people struck them with a great slaughter; so five hundred thousand choice men of Israel fell slain. <sup>18</sup> Thus the children of Israel were subdued at that time; and the children of Judah prevailed, <sup>u</sup> because they relied on the LORD God of their fathers.

Asa Reigns in Judah

inexperienced. Abijah further equated the kingdom of Judah with the kingdom of the LORD, making the victory of Judah over israel sound like a foregone conclusion. t his was a misrepresentation of the truth (see v. 6) designed to scare the israelites.

13:9 Jeroboam's illicit religion filled the priestly ranks with anyone who had the means to purchase the office. t hus Abijah asserted that all a person had to do to consecrate himself was to come with the appropriate sacrifices (1 Kin. 12:31; see Lev. 8:2). But Abijah's words were hypocritical, for the same evil deeds were going on in his own kingdom (see 14:2-5).

13:10, 11 t he priests of Judah were true priests, who traced their ancestry to Aaron as the Law required (see 1 Chr. 6:1-15). t hroughout the passage the contrast is between the authorized worship at Jerusalem and the illicit practice of religion at Dan and Bethel. In summary, Abijah argued that Judah had remained true to god while israel had forsaken Him.

13:19 Among the israelite cities that fell to Judah was none other than Bethel, the southern center of the false religious cult that Jeroboam had established (see 1 Kin. 12:29). Jeshanah may have been some six miles north of Bethel. Ephraim, otherwise known as Ephron, lay four miles northeast of Bethel.

13:21 One of the gauges of a king's power and prosperity was the size of his family.

14:1 Abijah's son Asa reigned for 41 years, until 870 B.C. (see 16:13). ten years: t his suggests that during the first ten years of Asa's reign there was peace between Judah and israel (see v. 6).

14:3 Sacred pillars were stone posts associated with Canaanite fertility rites. Wooden images were fashioned from live evergreen trees, which were regarded as a fertility symbol, since they retain their leaves throughout the year. Eventually, cut poles took the place of live trees, because they could be erected anywhere, even in places where trees did not grow.

14:6 r ehoabom had built fortified cities in his time, but s hishak of Egypt had destroyed them (11:5-12; 12:2-4). it is likely that Asa merely rebuilt them. t he phrase in those years refers to the first ten years of Asa's reign, the years of peace (v. 1).

walls around them, and towers, gates, and bars, while the land is yet before us, because we have sought the LORD our God; we have sought Him, and He has given us rest on every side.” So they built and prospered. <sup>8</sup> And Asa had an army of three hundred thousand from Judah who carried <sup>3</sup> shields and spears, and from Benjamin two hundred and eighty thousand men who carried shields and drew <sup>g</sup> bows; all these were mighty men of <sup>h</sup> valor.

<sup>12</sup> So the LORD <sup>n</sup> struck the Ethiopians before Asa and Judah, and the Ethiopians fled. <sup>13</sup> And Asa and the people who were with him pursued them to <sup>o</sup> Gerar. So the Ethiopians were overthrown, and they could not recover, for they were broken before the LORD and His army. And they carried away very much <sup>4</sup> spoil. <sup>14</sup> Then they defeated all the cities around Gerar, for <sup>p</sup> the fear of the LORD came upon them; and they plundered all the cities, for there was exceedingly much <sup>5</sup> spoil in them. <sup>15</sup> They also <sup>6</sup> attacked the livestock enclosures, and carried off sheep and camels in abundance, and returned to Jerusalem.

The Reforms of Asa

went out <sup>1</sup> to meet Asa, and said to him: “Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin. <sup>b</sup> The LORD is with you while you are with Him. <sup>c</sup> If you seek Him, He will be found by you; but <sup>d</sup> if you forsake Him, He will forsake you. <sup>3</sup> <sup>e</sup> For a long time Israel has been without the true God, without a <sup>f</sup> teaching priest, and without <sup>g</sup> law; <sup>4</sup> but <sup>h</sup> when in their trouble they turned to the LORD God of Israel, and sought Him, He was found by them. <sup>5</sup> And in those times there was no peace to the one who went out, nor to the one who came in, but great turmoil was on all the inhabitants of the lands. <sup>6</sup> <sup>i</sup> So nation was <sup>2</sup> destroyed by nation, and city by city, for God troubled them with every adversity. <sup>7</sup> But you, be strong and do not let your hands be weak, for your work shall be rewarded!”

14:9 since Egypt was strong at this time (12:3) and fully in control of its own territory, it is likely that Zerah and his large army were mercenaries of the Egyptian king Osorkon I (914–874 B.C.), successor to Shishak. Mareshah was one of Asa’s important fortified cities, about 25 miles southwest of Jerusalem (11:8). It was near the Via Maris, the coastal highway connecting Egypt and Canaan, making it strategically important.

14:10 t he Valley of Zephathah was on the north side of Mareshah. 14:11 it is nothing for You to help: Asa showed great faith in his prayer before the battle against Zerah’s huge army. in Your name: Asa believed that god was on his side and that Zerah’s attack was aimed at the Lord as well as at god’s people (see 13:8, 12, 14, 15).

14:13, 14 Gerar was at the frontier between Egypt and Canaan and might have been in Egyptian territory at this time.

15:3–5 For a long time: Much of what Azariah said to Asa could be said of the era of the judges, a time marked by long years of apostasy, ignorance, and lawlessness (see Judg. 18:1; 21:25). in their trouble: t these times were difficult. t the israelites were constantly being invaded and harassed. But when circumstances looked most hopeless, the people cried out to god in repentance, and He delivered them (see Judg. 2:11–19). no peace: Beside the dangers of war, the continual perils of robbery and crime plagued the nation, a point expressly made in the song of Deborah (Judg. 5:6, 7).

15:9 Along with godly priests and Levites (see 11:13–17), many of the ordinary citizens of israel came over to Judah when they saw Asa’s zeal for god, and god’s blessing upon him.

15:10 t he third month quite likely locates this festival at the time of the firstfruits, the Feast of Pentecost (see Lev. 23:15–21; num. 28:26–31).

15:11 Spoil likely refers to the animals taken from the Ethiopians after Asa’s victory over Zerah (14:15). if so, the battle of Mareshah (see 14:9, 10) must have taken place right before this event.

15:12 Asa gathered an assembly to reaffirm israel’s covenant (or promise) to seek the Lord. t he nation had assembled before to renew their commitment to god (Deut. 27:9, 10; 29:1; 31:10–13; Josh. 8:30–35; 24:1–28).

<sup>18</sup>He also brought into the house of God the things that his father had dedicated and that he himself had dedicated: silver and gold and utensils. <sup>19</sup>And there was no war until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

Asa's Treaty with Syria

16 In the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa, <sup>a</sup>Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah and built Ramah, <sup>b</sup>that he might let none go out or come in to Asa king of Judah. <sup>2</sup>Then Asa brought silver and gold from the treasures of the house of the LORD and of the king's house, and sent to Ben-Hadad king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying, <sup>3</sup>“Let there be a treaty between you and me, as there was between my father and your father. See, I have sent you silver and gold; come, break your treaty with Baasha king of Israel, so that he will withdraw from me.”

Hanani's Message to Asa

<sup>7</sup>And at that time <sup>e</sup>Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said to him: <sup>d</sup>*“Because you have relied on the king of Syria, and have not relied on the LORD your God, therefore the army of the king of Syria has escaped from your hand. <sup>8</sup>Were <sup>e</sup>the Ethiopians and <sup>f</sup>the Lubim not a huge army with very many chariots and horsemen? Yet, because you relied on the LORD, He delivered them into your <sup>g</sup>hand. <sup>9</sup><sup>h</sup>For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show Himself strong on behalf of those whose heart is loyal to Him. In this <sup>i</sup>you have done foolishly; therefore from now on <sup>j</sup>you shall have wars.”* <sup>10</sup>Then Asa was angry with the seer, and <sup>k</sup>put him in prison, for he was enraged at him because of this. And Asa oppressed some of the people at that time.

Illness and Death of Asa

15:14 taking an oath was an essential part of covenant-making (Ex. 24:7, 8; Deut. 27:11–26; 29:12). t the people declared their determination to keep the covenant and agreed to accept g od's judgment if they broke it.

15:15 t he conflict with Zerah the Ethiopian (14:9) had broken the ten-year period of peace at the start of Asa's reign (14:1). After winning the war and renewing the covenant with god, Judah once again had rest all around.

15:16 Maachah is called Asa's mother, a Hebrew word that can also mean grandmother. Maachah was the mother of Asa's father, Abijah (see 13:2). still, Asa demoted her from being queen mother because she had set up pagan idols—a courageous and delicate task for anyone, even a king.

15:17 high places were not removed from Israel: Asa destroyed the high places of Judah, but not those of israel (see 14:3, 5).

15:18 silver and gold and utensils: t these items were taken as spoils of war and dedicated to the worship of god; they could not then be used for any other purpose (1 Chr. 18:8; 26:20).

16:2, 3 t he treasuries of the house of the LORD were items of value stored in the temple as ordinary revenue (see 1 Chr. 26:20). t they did not include things dedicated to the Lord (see 15:18). Asa used these treasures to secure Ben-Hadad's assistance against Baasha king of Israel.

16:4 Ijon was in the tribal territory of n aphtali, some ten miles north of Dan and 35 miles north of the sea of galilee. Abel Maim was only three miles west of Dan. Naphtali was the most northern tribal territory of israel, very close to Damascus.

16:6 Diverted by attacks from the north, Baasha left Ramah unfinished (v. 5). Asa, the king of Judah, took advantage of the situation and built his own fortifications at Geba, just east of r amah, and at Mizpah, between r amah and Bethel. r amah ended up between Asa's fortresses and the israelites could not rebuild it.

16:7–9 Hanani the seer was probably the father of another prophet Jehu, who once challenged King Jehoshaphat of Judah (see 19:2; 20:34).

16:12 diseased in his feet: Asa may have been suffering from gout, a common disease in the ancient world. For his malady Asa did not seek the LORD, but the physicians. t he problem was not that Asa used doctors, but that he failed to turn to god during his sickness.

16:14 great burning: t his had nothing to do with cremation, but was the burning of spices and perfumes to mourn a king's death (see 21:19).

City of David; and they laid him in the bed which was filled <sup>o</sup>with spices and various ingredients prepared in a mixture of ointments. They made <sup>p</sup>a very great burning for him.

Jehoshaphat Reigns in Judah

17 Then <sup>a</sup>Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his place, and strengthened himself against Israel. <sup>2</sup>And he placed troops in all the fortified cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of <sup>b</sup>Judah and in the cities of Ephraim <sup>c</sup>which Asa his father had taken. <sup>3</sup>Now the LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the former ways of his father David; he did not seek the Baals, <sup>4</sup>but sought <sup>1</sup>the God of his father, and walked in His commandments and not according to <sup>d</sup>the acts of Israel. <sup>5</sup>Therefore the LORD established the kingdom in his hand; and all Judah <sup>e</sup>gave presents to Jehoshaphat, <sup>f</sup>and he had riches and honor in abundance. <sup>6</sup>And his heart took delight in the ways of the LORD; moreover <sup>g</sup>he removed the <sup>2</sup>high places and wooden images from Judah.

<sup>10</sup>And <sup>j</sup>the fear of the LORD fell on all the kingdoms of the lands that were around Judah, so that they did not make war against Jehoshaphat. <sup>11</sup>Also some of the Philistines <sup>k</sup>brought Jehoshaphat presents and silver as tribute; and the Arabians brought him flocks, seven thousand seven hundred rams and seven thousand seven hundred male goats.

<sup>12</sup>So Jehoshaphat became increasingly powerful, and he built fortresses and storage cities in Judah. <sup>13</sup>He had much property in the cities of Judah; and the men of war, mighty men of valor, were in Jerusalem.

Micaiah Warns Ahab

18 Jehoshaphat <sup>a</sup>had riches and honor in abundance; and by marriage he <sup>b</sup>allied himself with <sup>c</sup>Ahab. <sup>2</sup><sup>d</sup>After some years he went down to visit Ahab in Samaria; and Ahab killed sheep and oxen in abundance for him and the people who were with him, and persuaded him to go up with him to Ramoth Gilead. <sup>3</sup>So Ahab king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat king of Judah, "Will you go with me against Ramoth Gilead?"

And he answered him, "I am as you are, and my people as your people; we will be with you in the war."

<sup>4</sup>Also Jehoshaphat said to the king of

17:2 cities of Ephraim: Ephraim is a synonym for Israel. The cities referred to here are mentioned also in 15:8; they could include Ramah, Gaba, and Mizpah as well (16:6), depending on fluctuations of the border between Israel and Judah.

17:3 Jehoshaphat was the first king since David who walked in the former ways of his father David. He obeyed God's commandments and took delight in the Lord's ways.

17:9 The Book of the Law refers to the five books of Moses, the Pentateuch. When Moses passed the leadership of Israel on to Joshua he instructed him never to let "this Book of the Law" depart from his mouth (Josh. 1:8). Unfortunately, Jehoshaphat's initiative in sending out teachers to instruct the nation in God's laws was not the norm (see 15:3).

17:11 There is no record of Jehoshaphat conquering Philistia, but he was powerful enough to compel at least some of the Philistines to pay tribute to his sovereignty. Up to this point, only David had obtained such respect (see 1 Chr. 18:2).

17:13-18 Jehoshaphat's men of war were grouped into three divisions of Judeans with a total number of 780,000 (vv. 14-16), and two divisions of Benjamites numbering 380,000 (vv. 17, 18). The Hebrew word for thousand can also mean "clan" (as in Judg. 6:15; 1 Sam. 10:19) or "village" (as in Mic. 5:2), and possibly "company" in a military context. The 780,000 may refer to 780 companies and 380,000 to 380 companies. The totals would then be nearer to 78,000 and 38,000.

17:19 Jehoshaphat's troops were stationed at Jerusalem. He had additional forces in the fortified cities throughout the countryside.

18:1 Jehoshaphat allied himself with Ahab by arranging for his son Jehoram to marry Ahab's daughter Athaliah (see 21:5, 6; 22:2).

18:2 Ahab died in battle a few days after Jehoshaphat's visit (v. 34). Ramoth Gilead: This important city some 35 miles east of Bethshan was controlled by the Arameans. It was also one of the Israelite cities of refuge (Josh. 20:8; 1 Chr. 6:80).

18:3 I am as you are: Jehoshaphat was referring to the intermarriage of their families (v. 1).

Israel, “Please inquire for the word of the LORD today.”

<sup>5</sup>Then the king of Israel gathered the prophets together, four hundred men, and said to them, “Shall we go to war against Ramoth Gilead, or shall I refrain?”

So they said, “Go up, for God will deliver it into the king’s hand.”

<sup>6</sup>But Jehoshaphat said, “Is there not still a prophet of the LORD here, that we may inquire of Him?”<sup>1</sup>

<sup>7</sup>So the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “There is still one man by whom we may inquire of the LORD; but I hate him, because he never prophesies good concerning me, but always evil. He is Micaiah the son of Imla.”

And Jehoshaphat said, “Let not the king say such things!”

<sup>8</sup>Then the king of Israel called one of his officers and said, “Bring Micaiah the son of Imla quickly!”

<sup>11</sup>And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, “Go up to Ramoth Gilead and prosper, for the LORD will deliver it into the king’s hand.”

<sup>12</sup>Then the messenger who had gone to call Micaiah spoke to him, saying, “Now listen, the words of the prophets with one accord encourage the king. Therefore please let your word be like the word of one of them, and speak encouragement.”

<sup>13</sup>And Micaiah said, “As the LORD lives, whatever my God says, that I will speak.”

<sup>14</sup>Then he came to the king; and the king said to him, “Micaiah, shall we go to war against Ramoth Gilead, or shall I refrain?”

And he said, “Go and prosper, and they shall be delivered into your hand!”

<sup>15</sup>So the king said to him, “How many times shall I make you swear that you tell me nothing but the truth in the name of the LORD?”

<sup>16</sup>Then he said, “I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd. And the LORD said, ‘These have no master. Let each return to his house in peace.’”

<sup>17</sup>And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “Did I not tell you he would not prophesy good concerning me, but evil?”

<sup>23</sup>Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah went near and struck Micaiah on the cheek, and said, “Which way did the spirit from the LORD go from me to speak to you?”

<sup>24</sup>And Micaiah said, “Indeed you shall see on that day when you go into an inner chamber to hide!”

<sup>25</sup>Then the king of Israel said, “Take Micaiah, and return him to Amon the 18:5 The prophets were probably prophets of Asherah, the Canaanite goddess worshiped by Ahab’s wife Jezebel (see v. 6; 1 Kin. 18:19).

18:9 t he entrance of the gate often led to a large open place in israelite cities. Public assemblies could convene there or in rooms built into the sides of the gateway. t he threshing floor was a large, flat area where grain was separated from straw (see 1 Chr. 21:15). t he threshing floor of Ornan was just outside the walls of Jerusalem, where the winds could blow away the chaff. t his is probably where the kings had set up their thrones.

18:10 Horns symbolize strength in the Ot, so horns of iron would represent great strength (see Zech. 1:18–21).

18:11 in this context, prophesied suggests rantings and ravings typical of the demon-possessed false prophets of Canaan (see 1 Kin. 18:26–29), not true prophecy.

18:13 whatever my God says: t he true prophets’ prophecies come directly from god. t heir words are god’s words.

18:15 Ahab knew from experience that his prophets told him what they thought he wanted to hear, not the truth. Because their prophecies agreed with Micaiah’s, he knew that Micaiah must have been lying when he prophesied success.

18:16 t he Bible often uses sheep and shepherd as metaphors for the people of a nation and their king (see 1 Chr. 17:6, 7). no master: t his is a prediction of Ahab’s death (v. 34).

18:18 Micaiah saw the LORD in heaven. Here we see god’s sovereignty over all. t he spirits who stood before Him were both angels and demons, and none could act without god’s permission.

18:21, 22 A lying spirit was a demon whom the Lord allowed to deceive the prophets. god cannot lie (see n um. 23:19), but He does allow others to do so. in this sense, god put a lying spirit in the mouth of Ahab’s prophets.

<sup>27</sup>But Micaiah said, "If you ever return in peace, the LORD has not spoken by <sup>p</sup>me." And he said, "Take heed, all you people!"

Ahab Dies in Battle

<sup>28</sup>So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth Gilead. <sup>29</sup>And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "I will <sup>q</sup>disguise myself and go into battle; but you put on your robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself, and they went into battle.

<sup>30</sup>Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots who were with him, saying, "Fight with no one small or great, but only with the king of Israel."

<sup>31</sup>So it was, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, "It is the king of Israel!" Therefore they surrounded him to attack; but Jehoshaphat <sup>r</sup>cried out, and the LORD helped him, and God diverted them from him. <sup>32</sup>For so it was, when the captains of the chariots saw that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned back from pursuing him. <sup>33</sup>Now a certain man drew a bow at random, and struck the king of Israel between the <sup>2</sup>joints of his armor. So he said to the driver of his chariot, "Turn around and take me out of the battle, for I am wounded." <sup>34</sup>The battle increased that day, and the king of Israel propped himself up in his chariot facing the Syrians until evening; and about the time of sunset he died.

19 Then Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned safely to his house in Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup>And Jehu the son of Hanani <sup>a</sup>the seer went out to meet him, and said to King Jehoshaphat, "Should you help Therefore the <sup>c</sup>wrath of the LORD is upon you. <sup>3</sup>Nevertheless <sup>d</sup>good things are found in you, in that you have removed the <sup>1</sup>wooden images from the land, and have <sup>e</sup>prepared your heart to seek God."

The Reforms of Jehoshaphat

18:27 A real prophet's predictions always came true (Deut. 13:1–3; 18:22). Micaiah staked his reputation on the fact that Ahab would not come home in peace—that is, alive.

18:33 at random: t his is the human perspective. t he wounding of Ahab, disguised as he was, appeared to be an accident. But from god's perspective, chance had no part in it. t he arrow reached its true destination. Ahab's disguise could not foil god's plan. Micaiah's prophecy had come true (see v. 16).

19:2 t he prophet Hanani had once chastised King Asa for depending on the Arameans to defeat Baasha, king of israel (see 16:7). Jehu the son of Hanani, also a prophet, now went on a similar mission to Jehoshaphat.

19:4 Originally the land of israel stretched "from Dan to Beersheba" (see Judg. 20:1). Dan refers to the town of Dan just north of the sea of galilee, not the tribe of Dan near Judah. But after the division into two kingdoms the mountains of Ephraim became the northern border of Judah. t his verse asserts that Jehoshaphat restored the people of Judah to more faithful observance of the covenant. t his was admirable, but it was also a basic duty of the Davidic monarch (see 14:4; 15:9; 17:7–9). Jehoshaphat was only doing his job.

19:5, 6 t he role of Jehoshaphat's judges differed from that of the heroic leaders who led israel before David's time (Judg. 2:16). t he judges that Jehoshaphat appointed served as local officials in the fortified cities.

19:8 Matters too difficult for the local judges or those that required appeal went to the high court in Jerusalem where the Levites, priests, and chief fathers sat.

19:11 As chief priest, Amariah (mentioned only here) held jurisdiction over all matters of the LORD, that is, religious cases. Zebadiah, the ruler of the house of Judah (see 1 Kin. 4:7), ruled over all the king's matters—that is, civil cases.

Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir Defeated

<sup>5</sup>Then Jehoshaphat stood in the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the LORD, before the new court, <sup>6</sup>and said: “O LORD God of our fathers, are You not <sup>i</sup>God in heaven, and <sup>j</sup>do You not rule over all the kingdoms of the nations, and <sup>k</sup>in Your hand is there not power and might, so that no one is able to withstand You? <sup>7</sup>Are You not <sup>l</sup>our God, who <sup>m</sup>drove out the inhabitants of this land before Your people Israel, and gave it to the descendants of Abraham <sup>n</sup>Your friend forever? <sup>8</sup>And they dwell in it, and have built You a sanctuary in it for Your name, saying, <sup>9</sup>“If disaster comes upon us—sword, judgment, pestilence, or famine—we will stand before this temple and in Your presence (for Your <sup>p</sup>name is in this temple), and cry out to You in our affliction, and You will hear and save.” <sup>10</sup>And now, here are the people of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir—whom You <sup>q</sup>would not let Israel invade when they came out of the land of Egypt, but <sup>r</sup>they turned from them and did not destroy them— <sup>11</sup>here they are, rewarding us <sup>s</sup>by coming to throw us out of Your possession which You have given us to

<sup>14</sup>Then <sup>v</sup>the Spirit of the LORD came upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, in the midst of the assembly. <sup>15</sup>And he said, “Listen, all you of Judah and you inhabitants of Jerusalem, and you, King Jehoshaphat! Thus says the LORD to you: <sup>w</sup>“Do not be afraid nor dismayed because of this great multitude, <sup>x</sup>for the battle is not yours, but God’s. <sup>16</sup>Tomorrow go down against them. They will surely come up by the Ascent of Ziz, and you will find them at the end of the <sup>4</sup>brook before the Wilderness of Jeruel. <sup>17</sup><sup>y</sup>You will not need to fight in this battle. Position yourselves, stand still and see the salvation of the LORD, who is with you, O Judah and Jerusalem!” Do not fear or be dismayed; tomorrow go out against them, <sup>z</sup>for the LORD is with you.”

<sup>20</sup>So they rose early in the morning and went out into the Wilderness of Tekoa; and as they went out, Jehoshaphat stood and said, “Hear me, O Judah and you inhabitants of Jerusalem: <sup>b</sup>Believe in the LORD your God, and you shall be established; believe His prophets, and you shall prosper.” <sup>21</sup>And when he had

20:1 Moab went to battle against Jehoshaphat under the leadership of Meshah, who had gained Moab’s independence from the Omri dynasty of Israel soon after Ahab died (see 18:34). t he battle mentioned here took place when Ahab’s son Ahaziah was king of Israel (20:35). t he defeat of Jehoshaphat’s enemies in Israel only meant the rise of other enemies outside Israel. t his situation would test Jehoshaphat’s faith.

20:2 Hazazon Tamar is on the western shore of the Dead sea, a few miles south of Qumran. it was David’s hiding place in the days of Saul (1 sam. 23:29).

20:3, 4 seek the LORD: Jehoshaphat’s reforms (see 19:4) were not hollow religiosity, and they did not break under the strain of sour circumstances. As soon as he heard of bad news from the north, Jehoshaphat sought God and proclaimed a fast. He knew that success required God’s favor. And if God was for them, they could not lose (vv. 6–12; see 13:5, 12).

20:7 Jehoshaphat recalled God’s care for His people Israel in the past, when He had led them to victory over their Canaanite foes.

20:14 As a member of the Asaph division of the Levites (1 Chr. 6:39; 15:17, 19; 16:7), Jahaziel was probably a musician. Music was an important part of Israel’s religious life (see 13:12). t he people would go into battle praising God with instruments and voices (vv. 19, 21, 22, 28).

20:16, 17 t he Ascent of Ziz was a dry stream bed just north of En Gedi. t he Wilderness of Jeruel lay between Hebron and the Dead sea.

20:19 t he Kohathites were members of the Levitical division of Heman (1 Chr. 6:33). t he Korahites were a subclan of the Kohathites (1 Chr. 6:37, 39), who were employed as gatekeepers to the temple (1 Chr. 26:1–19). t heir positive response to Jahaziel’s speech and their praise to God (see vv. 15–17) was as important as any military preparation.

20:20 tekoa was a town about ten miles south of Jerusalem. t he Wilderness of Tekoa was between the town and the Ascent of Ziz (v. 16).

20:21 sing . . . praise: t he battle was the Lord’s and its outcome was certain. t he people celebrated God and His victory (see Ex. 15:1, 20, 21; Judg. 7:18–20; Ps. 47; 98).

consulted with the people, he appointed those who should sing to the LORD, <sup>e</sup>and who should praise the beauty of holiness, as they went out before the army and were saying:

<sup>24</sup>So when Judah came to a place overlooking the wilderness, they looked toward the multitude; and there were their dead bodies, fallen on the earth. No one had escaped.

<sup>25</sup>When Jehoshaphat and his people came to take away their spoil, they found among them an abundance of valuables on the <sup>6</sup>dead bodies, and precious jewelry, which they stripped off for themselves, more than they could carry away; and they were three days gathering the spoil because there was so much. <sup>26</sup>And on the fourth day they assembled in the Valley of <sup>7</sup>Berachah, for there they blessed the LORD; therefore the name of that place was called The Valley of Berachah until this day. <sup>27</sup>Then they returned, every man of Judah and Jerusa-

The End of Jehoshaphat's Reign

20:23 Before Judah's armies could even reach the battlefield, the Ammonites and Moabites attacked their Edomite allies and destroyed them, then they turned against each other. As a result, Judah won without even having to fight. god had demonstrated that the battle was His (v. 15) and that He could accomplish His purposes without even using an army.

20:25 spoils of war like valuables (precious metals) and jewelry became god's property, because god Himself had triumphed and therefore deserved the fruits of war (see 15:18; Josh. 6:24; 1 Chr. 18:7, 8).

20:26 After they experienced god's blessing and protection in the wilderness, the Judeans renamed Ziz the Valley of Berachah, meaning "Blessing," to remind themselves of god's goodness.

20:29 the LORD had fought: t he spectacle of Jehoshaphat's enemies in defeat, like the battles that Joshua had led years before, struck fear in the hearts of enemy nations (17:10; see Josh. 2:9–11; 1 Chr. 14:17) because it involved an obvious miracle. no human army could prevail over god's omnipotence.

20:34 For a complete account of Jehoshaphat's reign the chronicler recommended the book of Jehu, which itself was cited in the book of the kings of Israel. Jehu was the son of the prophet Hanani and was a prophet himself (see 19:2). He is mentioned in 1 Kings in connection with the kings of israel (see 1 Kin. 16:1, 7). He was therefore a good source of information about both the northern and southern kingdoms.

20:35 Ahaziah was the son of Ahab; he succeeded his father and reigned for two years (1 Kin. 22:51). Ahaziah was injured in a fall and turned to the Philistine gods rather than to the Lord for healing (2 Kin. 1:2).

20:36 Tarshish was in the western Mediterranean. t he name also came to represent any place far away. ships of tarshish were large vessels able to transport heavy cargo over long distances (see 8:17, 18; 9:21). Ezion Geber was a port on the gulf of Aqaba (or Elath), the eastern arm of the red sea (see 8:17).

t he Hebrew word frequently translated right (as when used in Chronicles and Kings to assess the reigns of the kings of israel and Judah) derives from a Hebrew word meaning "to be level" or "to be upright." By extension it carries connotations of being just or righteous. t he word is not only used to speak of the perfect righteousness of god (Deut. 32:4; Ps. 111:7, 8) but is also used to speak of the integrity of one's speech (Job 6:25; Eccl. 12:10) or the righteous quality of a person's lifestyle (Prov. 11:3, 6). t he word even implies pure and faithful motives (as in Deut. 9:5; 1 Kin. 9:4). As israel's second king, David exemplified these qualities in his life (1 Kin. 3:6), becoming a standard for assessing all the kings that followed him (see 17:3; 34:2).

Jehoshaphat, saying, “Because you have allied yourself with Ahaziah, the LORD has destroyed your works.” <sup>1</sup>Then the ships were wrecked, so that they were not able to go <sup>2</sup>to Tarshish.

Thus says the LORD God of your father David:

Because you have not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat your father, or in the ways of Asa king of Judah, <sup>13</sup>but have walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and have <sup>h</sup>made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to <sup>i</sup>play the harlot like the <sup>j</sup>harlotry of the house of Ahab, and also have <sup>k</sup>killed your brothers, those of your father’s household, <sup>who were</sup> better than yourself, <sup>14</sup>behold, the LORD will strike your people with a serious affliction—your children, your wives, and all your possessions; <sup>15</sup>and you <sup>will become</sup> very sick with a <sup>l</sup>disease of your intestines, until your intestines come out by reason of the sickness, day by day.

21:2 t he names of Jehoram’s brothers highlight Jehoram’s choice as king emphatically, as if to say, “not these brothers, but this one.” We soon learn how significant for all of them this choice turned out to be (see v. 4).

21:3 gifts . . . fortified cities: Jehoshaphat did what his great-grandfather r ehoab had done. He gave the kingdom to his firstborn and then distributed extravagant gifts to his other sons (11:23). t he purpose evidently was to satisfy each of his sons, since only one of them could succeed him as king.

21:4 princes of Israel: Jehoram extended his bloody purge as far as his distant relatives in israel (see 18:1). He was so evil that not even blood ties restrained his lust for power.

21:7 individual kings such as Jehoram committed evil and scored covenant obligations, but the promise of god to David (Ps. 89:30–37) concerning his house remained intact (see 1 Chr. 17:7–14).

a lamp: t his is a figurative way of describing a descendant of David (see 1 Kin. 11:36).

21:8 Edom revolted: Jehoram’s father Jehoshaphat had conquered Edom (20:22, 36).

21:10 in the western lowlands of Judah, Libnah was close to the border with Philistia.

21:11 commit harlotry: israel’s covenant with god was like a marriage relationship, and to violate it was to commit spiritual unfaithfulness (see Ezek. 16:15–43; 23:1–21; Hos. 4:11–19). Like s olomon before him (1 Kin. 11:1–8), Jehoram failed to provide godly leadership. He led Judah astray.

21:12 t hough 1 and 2 Kings pay considerable attention to Elijah the prophet (1 Kin. 17:1–2 Kin. 2:18), the books of the Chronicles mention him only here. He had been taken up into heaven after King Ahaziah’s death (2 Kin. 1:17; 2:1).

21:16 The Arabians were from the southwestern part of the Arabian peninsula, probably near present-day Yemen. t hey lived across the r ed sea from the Ethiopians.

<sup>20</sup>He was thirty-two years old when he became king. He reigned in Jerusalem eight years and, to no one's sorrow, departed. However they buried him in the City of David, but not in the tombs of the kings.

Ahaziah Reigns in Judah

<sup>7</sup>His going to Joram <sup>f</sup>was God's occasion for Ahaziah's <sup>5</sup>downfall; for when he arrived, <sup>g</sup>he went out with <sup>6</sup>Jehoram against Jehu the son of Nimshi, <sup>h</sup>whom the LORD had anointed to <sup>7</sup>cut off the house of Ahab. <sup>8</sup>And it happened, when

Queen Mothers

The writers of 1 and 2 Kings and 2 Chronicles tell us much about the queen mothers of Judah. In referring to the 20 different kings who ruled in Judah from the time of Solomon to the time of the Exile, only once do these books fail to mention a queen mother. We assume that the mother of the king must have been an important person in Judah. Unfortunately, very little is known about her role in the government or the society.

Athaliah, the mother of Ahaziah, seized the throne when her son was killed in battle. She then tried to kill all the rightful heirs (22:10). But one of the infant princes was hidden from her. For six years Athaliah ruled Judah with an iron hand; but as soon as the young prince was old enough to become king, Athaliah was overthrown and killed (2 Kin. 11:1-16).

Jehu was <sup>i</sup>executing judgment on the house of Ahab, and <sup>j</sup>found the princes of Judah and the sons of Ahaziah's brothers who served Ahaziah, that he killed them. <sup>9</sup><sup>k</sup>Then he searched for Ahaziah; and they caught him (he was hiding in Samaria), and brought him to Jehu. When they had killed him, they buried him, "because," they said, "he is the son of <sup>l</sup>Jehoshaphat, who <sup>m</sup>sought the LORD with all his heart."

So the house of Ahaziah had no one to assume power over the kingdom.

Athaliah Reigns in Judah

21:20 The tombs of the kings was a royal cemetery in Jerusalem where most of David's dynasty were buried (Asa was an exception; see 16:14). Jehoram was not buried there, but in Jerusalem, the City of David.

22:1 Ahaziah of Judah was the namesake of his uncle from Israel. Ahaziah's father Jehoram had married a sister of Ahab's son Ahaziah (see 1 Kin. 22:40; 2 Kin. 1:17; 8:18).

22:5 Jehoram the son of Ahab succeeded his brother Ahaziah because Ahaziah had no sons of his own (2 Kin. 1:17). He is also called Joram, a short form of Jehoram, to distinguish him from his brother-in-law Jehoram who was king of Judah. Hazael was the king of Damascus who came to power after assassinating Ben-Hadad (2 Kin. 8:7-15). Elijah had prophesied that this would come about and had even commissioned Elisha to anoint Hazael to his new position (1 Kin. 19:15). Ramoth Gilead: Ahab and Jehoshaphat had tried to recover this city from Aramean domination 12 years earlier (18:3, 28-34). Ahab's son Jehoram persuaded Ahaziah king of Judah to join him in a renewed effort to accomplish that objective.

22:6 Jezreel was a royal city located in the Plain of Jezreel and frequented by the kings of Israel. It was about 10 miles west of the Jordan and 25 miles west of Ramoth Gilead (see 1 Kin. 21:1-4). In this instance Ramah is an abbreviated form of Ramoth Gilead.

22:7, 8 Ahaziah's visit to his dying uncle turned out to be God's occasion for Ahaziah's downfall. Jehu was an officer in Israel's army who participated in the campaign against Ramoth Gilead and who was anointed there as king by a servant of Elisha (2 Kin. 9:1-6). Elijah had prophesied that Jehu would become king of Israel (1 Kin. 19:16). Elisha carried out the commission through his servant, telling Jehu to remove Joram from the throne and to eradicate the entire Omri dynasty (2 Kin. 9:7-10).

22:9 When Ahaziah became aware of the slaughter of the northern dynasty and even some of his own relatives who happened to be in Jezreel (see v. 8), he fled to Israel's capital, Samaria. But Jehu found him there and murdered him. In one day, both kingdoms lost their rulers. They buried him: The people honored him in this way only because Ahaziah was the grandson of the godly Jehoshaphat.

22:10 Most of the royal heirs Athaliah murdered were her own grandchildren. She wanted to stamp out the Davidic dynasty and bring Judah back under Israelite control. But this could not happen as long as Jehu was in power in the north.

22:11 It was Ahaziah's own sister Jehosheba who rescued her nephew Joash from her mother Athaliah.

the daughter of the king, took <sup>o</sup>Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him away from among the king's sons who were being murdered, and put him and his nurse in a bedroom. So Jehoshabeath, the daughter of King Jehoram, the wife of Jehoiada the priest (for she was the sister of Ahaziah), hid him from Athaliah so that she did not kill him. <sup>12</sup>And he was hidden with them in the house of God for six years, while Athaliah reigned over the land.

Joash Crowned King of Judah

23 In <sup>a</sup>the seventh year <sup>b</sup>Jehoiada strengthened himself, and made a covenant with the captains of hundreds: Azariah the son of Jeroham, Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, Azariah the son of <sup>c</sup>Obed, Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri. <sup>2</sup>And they went throughout Judah and gathered the Levites from all the cities of Judah, and the <sup>d</sup>chief fathers of Israel, and they came to Jerusalem.

<sup>3</sup>Then all the assembly made a covenant with the king in the house of God. And he said to them, "Behold, the king's son shall reign, as the LORD has <sup>e</sup>said of the sons of David. <sup>4</sup>This is what you shall do: One-third of you <sup>f</sup>entering on the Sabbath, of the priests and the Levites, shall be keeping watch over the doors; <sup>5</sup>one-third shall be at the king's house; and one-third at the Gate of the Foundation. All the people shall be in the courts of the house of the LORD. <sup>6</sup>But let no one come into the house of the LORD except the priests and <sup>g</sup>those of the Levites who serve. They may go in, for they are holy; but all the people shall keep the watch of the LORD. <sup>7</sup>And the Levites shall surround the king on all sides, every man with his weapons in his hand; and whoever comes into the house, let him be put to death. You are to be with the king when he comes in and when he goes out."

<sup>8</sup>So the Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded. And each man took his men who were to be on duty on the Sabbath, with those who were going off duty on the Sabbath; for Jehoiada the priest had not dismissed <sup>h</sup>the divisions. <sup>9</sup>And Jehoiada the priest gave to the captains of hundreds the spears and the large and small <sup>i</sup>shields which had belonged to King David, that were in the temple of God. <sup>10</sup>Then he set all the people, every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right side of the temple to the left side of the temple, along by the altar and by the temple, all around the king. <sup>11</sup>And they brought out the king's son, put the crown on him, <sup>j</sup>gave him the <sup>1</sup>Testimony, and made him king. Then Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and said, "Long live the king!"

Death of Athaliah

<sup>12</sup>Now when <sup>k</sup>Athaliah heard the noise of the people running and praising the king, she came to the people in the temple of the LORD. <sup>13</sup>When she looked, there was the king standing by his pillar at the entrance; and the leaders and the trumpeters were by the king. All the people of the land were rejoicing and blowing trumpets, also the singers with musical instruments, and <sup>l</sup>those who led in praise. So Athaliah tore her clothes and said, <sup>m</sup>"Treason! Treason!"

<sup>14</sup>And Jehoiada the priest brought out the captains of hundreds who were set over the army, and said to them, "Take her outside under guard, and slay with the sword whoever follows her." For the priest had said, "Do not kill her in the house of the LORD."

22:12 t hough Athaliah reigned for six years, she was not a descendant of David and therefore was never listed among the kings of Judah. Meanwhile, her grandson Joash remained the sole survivor in the Davidic line.

23:2 t he Levites were the religious leaders of the nation; the chief fathers were the civil leaders. Jehoiada needed support and help from both civil and religious leaders to overthrow Athaliah.

23:3 covenant: t his was a solemn pledge to restore the throne to Joash and to submit to him as David's rightful heir (see 1 Chr. 29:21-24). he said: t he speech was given by Jehoiada, not Joash (vv. 3, 8).

23:4 One-third: Jehoiada was referring to the changing of priests and the Levites for the week to come (see 1 Chr. 24:3). t he coming and going of so many men at once would disguise the plot.

23:8 t hough one division of priests and Levites would normally replace the other, both divisions remained at the temple so they would have enough men to place Joash, the true heir, on David's throne.

23:9 t he temple contained spears and shields that David himself had assembled over 150 years before (9:15, 16; 12:10, 11; see 2 sam. 8:10, 11; 1 Chr. 18:7, 10, 11; 29:2). Jehoiada distributed these among the soldiers, who could not have carried their own weapons into the area without arousing suspicion.

23:11 The Testimony was a copy of the Law of Moses, part of which outlined the king's covenant privileges and duties (see Deut. 17:18-20; 1 Chr. 29:19). anointed him: An anointing was the sign and seal of the king's appointment by god and a symbol of the spirit of god upon him (see 1 sam. 16:13; 1 Kin. 1:39).

23:13 t he pillar: Jehoiada was probably one of the two that stood in front of the temple (see 3:15).

23:14 not . . . in the house of the LORD: t he temple was regarded as a place of sanctuary from violence.

23:15 The Horse Gate in the temple provided access to the royal palace. t here was another Horse gate in the city wall.

tween himself, the people, and the king, that they should be the LORD's people. <sup>17</sup>And all the people went to the <sup>2</sup>temple of Baal, and tore it down. They broke in pieces its altars and images, and <sup>3</sup>killed Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars. <sup>18</sup>Also Jehoiada appointed the oversight of the house of the LORD to the hand of the priests, the Levites, whom David had <sup>4</sup>assigned in the house of the LORD, to offer the burnt offerings of the LORD, as it is written in the <sup>5</sup>Law of Moses, with rejoicing and with singing, as it was established by David. <sup>19</sup>And he set the <sup>6</sup>gatekeepers at the gates of the house of the LORD, so that no one who was in any way unclean should enter.

<sup>20</sup>Then he took the captains of hundreds, the nobles, the governors of the people, and all the people of the land, and brought the king down from the house of the LORD; and they went through the Upper Gate to the king's house, and set the king on the throne of the kingdom. <sup>21</sup>So all the people of the land rejoiced; and the city was quiet, for they had slain Athaliah with the sword.

Joash Repairs the Temple

24 Joash <sup>a</sup>was seven years old when he became king, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba. <sup>2</sup>Joash <sup>b</sup>did what was right in the sight of the LORD all the days of Jehoiada the priest. <sup>3</sup>And Jehoiada took two wives for him, and he had sons and daughters.

<sup>4</sup>Now it happened after this that Joash set his heart on repairing the house of the LORD. <sup>5</sup>Then he gathered the priests and the Levites, and said to them, "Go out to the cities of Judah, and <sup>c</sup>gather from all Israel money to repair the house of your God from year to year, and see that you do it quickly."

However the Levites did not do it quickly. <sup>6</sup><sup>d</sup>So the king called Jehoiada the chief priest, and said to him, "Why have you not repaired the Levites to bring in from Judah and from Jerusalem the collection, according to the commandment of <sup>e</sup>Moses the servant of the LORD and of the assembly of Israel, for the <sup>f</sup>tabernacle of witness?" <sup>7</sup>For <sup>g</sup>the sons of Athaliah, that wicked woman, had broken into the house of God, and had also presented all the <sup>h</sup>dedicated things of the house of the LORD to the Baals.

<sup>8</sup>Then at the king's command <sup>i</sup>they made a chest, and set it outside at the gate of the house of the LORD. <sup>9</sup>And they made a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem to bring to the LORD <sup>j</sup>the collection that Moses the servant of God had imposed on Israel in the wilderness. <sup>10</sup>Then all the leaders and all the people rejoiced, brought their contributions, and put them into the chest until all had given. <sup>11</sup>So it was, at that time, when the chest was brought to the king's official by the hand of the Levites, and <sup>k</sup>when they saw that there was much money, that the king's scribe and the high priest's officer came and emptied the chest, and took it and returned it to its place. Thus they did day by day, and gathered money in abundance.

<sup>12</sup>The king and Jehoiada gave it to those who did the work of the service of the house of the LORD; and they hired masons and carpenters to <sup>l</sup>repair the house of the LORD, and also those who worked in iron and bronze to restore the house of the LORD. <sup>13</sup>So the workmen labored, and the work was completed by them; they restored the house of God to its original condition and reinforced it. <sup>14</sup>When they had finished, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada; <sup>m</sup>they made from it articles for the house of the LORD, articles for serving and offering, spoons and vessels of gold and silver. And they offered burnt offerings in the house of the LORD continually all the days of Jehoiada.

Apostasy of Joash

<sup>15</sup>But Jehoiada grew old and was full of days, and he died; he was one hundred

23:17 killed Mattan: t he Law required that leaders in the worship of false gods be put to death (Deut. 13:6-11). t his sort of execution had been carried out before (see 1 Kin. 18:40; 2 Kin. 10:25-28).

23:20 The Upper Gate joined the temple to the royal palace on the north side of the temple (see 27:3).

24:1, 2 Joash could not rule alone at the age of seven, so his uncle Jehoiada acted as his guardian and counselor (see v. 3). As long as Jehoiada was alive, Joash did what was right (but see vv. 17, 18).

24:4 Repairing the house of the LORD was necessary because of the neglect it had suffered during the evil reigns of Jehoram, Ahaziah, and Athaliah (see v. 7).

24:6 the collection: t his was the "atonement money" that the Levites collected for the temple and its services (Ex. 30:11-16).

24:7 t he dedicated things included gold, silver, and other valuables collected as tribute from defeated enemies and presented to god as spoils of war (2 sam. 8:10, 11).

24:12 t he priests and Levites who supervised various ministries such as music, gatekeeping, and maintenance did the work of the service. t they knew best what the needs were, so the king and Jehoiada gave the money to them.

24:14 t he people had been so generous (see v. 11) that money remained after all the work had been done. t his extra money allowed for a complete restocking of the temple with the gold and silver implements needed for its services. t he daily burnt offerings were a sign of spiritual vitality and faithfulness to god. As long as Jehoiada remained alive, Judah enjoyed a revival of the true worship of god.

and thirty years old when he died. <sup>16</sup>And they buried him in the City of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel, both toward God and His house.

<sup>20</sup>Then the Spirit of God <sup>l</sup>came upon <sup>q</sup>Zechariah the son of Jehoiada the priest, who stood above the people, and said to them, “Thus says God: <sup>r</sup>“Why do you transgress the commandments of the LORD, so that you cannot prosper? <sup>s</sup>Because you have forsaken the LORD, He also has forsaken you.” <sup>21</sup>So they conspired against him, and at the command of the king they <sup>t</sup>stoned him with stones in the court of the house of the LORD. <sup>22</sup>Thus Joash the king did not remember the kindness which Jehoiada his <sup>2</sup>father had done to him, but killed his son; and as he died, he said, “The LORD look on it, and <sup>u</sup>reply!”

Death of Joash

Amaziah Reigns in Judah

25 Amaziah <sup>a</sup>was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup>And he did what was right in the sight of the LORD, <sup>b</sup>but not with a loyal heart.

<sup>3</sup><sup>c</sup>Now it happened, as soon as the kingdom was established for him, that he executed his servants who had murdered his father the king. <sup>4</sup>However he did not execute their children, but did as it is written in the Law in the Book of Moses, where the LORD commanded, saying, <sup>d</sup>“The fathers shall not be put to death for their children, nor shall the children be put to death for their fathers; but a person shall die for his own sin.”

The War Against Edom

24:16 Jehoiada was buried among the kings because of his service to god and to Joash.

24:19 t he extent of Jehoiada's positive influence on Joash became obvious soon after the priest's death. King Joash became a proponent of idolatry and would not listen to god's rebukes. Because of this, god abandoned the Judeans to their evil ways (v. 20).

24:20, 21 Jesus spoke of “Zechariah, son of Berechiah” as one of a series of prophets who was murdered in the temple court (Matt. 23:34, 35). t his could be the Zechariah who wrote the Book of Zechariah (Zech. 1:7), which says nothing about his death. Zechariah the son of Jehoiada also died a martyr in the temple court, as described here. Either (1) the chronicler's Zechariah was actually the grandson of Jehoiada and the son of an unmentioned Berechiah, or (2) the prophet who wrote the Book of Zechariah was also slain in the temple precincts, a fact recorded only in the gospels.

24:22 killed his son: Besides forgetting all the good Jehoiada had done for him, Joash had killed his own cousin (see 22:11; 24:20).

t his once-good king had sunk to the level of his evil grandmother Athaliah (see 22:10), despite decades of past faithfulness to god. t the weakness of his own convictions did him in. As long as he received good advice, he did well. But all depended on the quality of that counsel. Once it was gone, he abandoned god.

24:24, 25 god arranged for israel's defeat and Joash's death in fulfillment of Zechariah's dying cry for justice (v. 22). Judgment for evil does not always come so quickly, but it is just as inevitable no matter how long it is delayed. tombs of the kings: Like his grandfather Jehoram, Joash was excluded from the royal cemetery because he fell far short of the Davidic ideal (see 21:20). ironically, Jehoiada, who was not a king at all, was buried among the kings because of his faithfulness to god and to god's chosen king (v. 16).

25:4 Amaziah did what was “right in the sight of the LORD” (v. 2) by obeying the Book of Moses with regard to the innocent children of lawbreakers (Deut. 24:16).

three hundred thousand choice men, able to go to war, who could handle spear and shield. <sup>6</sup>He also hired one hundred thousand mighty men of valor from Israel for one hundred talents of silver. <sup>7</sup>But a f man of God came to him, saying, “O king, do not let the army of Israel go with you, for the LORD is not with Israel—not with any of the children of Ephraim. <sup>8</sup>But if you go, be gone! Be strong in battle! Even so, God shall make you fall before the enemy; for God has g power to help and to overthrow.”

<sup>9</sup>Then Amaziah said to the man of God, “But what shall we do about the hundred talents which I have given to the troops of Israel?”

And the man of God answered, h “The LORD is able to give you much more than this.” <sup>10</sup>So Amaziah discharged the troops that had come to him from Ephraim, to go back home. Therefore their anger was greatly aroused against Judah, and they returned home in great anger.

<sup>11</sup>Then Amaziah strengthened himself, and leading his people, he went to i the Valley of Salt and killed ten thousand of the people of Seir. <sup>12</sup>Also the children of Judah took captive ten thousand alive, brought them to the top of the rock, and cast them down from the top of the rock, so that they all were dashed in pieces.

<sup>13</sup>But as for the soldiers of the army which Amaziah had discharged, so that they would not go with him to battle, they raided the cities of Judah from Samaria to Beth Horon, killed three thousand in them, and took much l spoil.

<sup>14</sup>Now it was so, after Amaziah came from the slaughter of the Edomites, that j he brought the gods of the people of Seir, set them up to be k his gods, and bowed down before them and burned incense to them. <sup>15</sup>Therefore the anger of the LORD was aroused against Amaziah, and He sent him a prophet who said to him, “Why have you sought l the gods of the people, which m could not rescue their own people from your hand?”

<sup>16</sup>So it was, as he talked with him, that the king said to him, “Have we made you the king’s counselor? Cease! Why should you be killed?”

Then the prophet ceased, and said, “I know that God has n determined to destroy you, because you have done this and have not heeded my advice.”

Israel Defeats Judah

<sup>18</sup>And Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, “The thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, ‘Give your daughter to my son as wife’; and a wild beast that was in Lebanon passed by and trampled the thistle. <sup>19</sup>Indeed you say that you have defeated the Edomites, and your heart is lifted up to p boast. Stay at home now; why should you meddle with trouble, that you should fall—you and Judah with you?”

25:6 t he king of Israel was Jehoash (or Joash; v. 17). t he hiring of israelite mercenaries here, though judged evil (v. 7), implies that good relations existed between the two kingdoms.

25:7 As the breakaway kingdom that no longer stood within the Davidic covenant, Israel had disqualified itself as the people of the Lord. it was therefore improper for Judah to form alliances with the northern kingdom (see 19:2; 20:36, 37; 22:7). Because Ephraim was the dominant tribe in israel, the whole kingdom at times was known as Ephraim (see Hos. 4:15–19).

25:8 if this war had been sanctioned by the Lord, victory would have been certain. But Amaziah had made his own decision to go to battle (v. 5) and had no assurance of god’s help.

25:10 Amaziah heeded the prophet’s advice and sent the israelites back without even demanding the return of the hundred talents of silver he had paid them (v. 9). t his greatly aroused the israelite mercenaries because they thought their share of the spoils would have been much more than that.

25:11 t he Valley of Salt probably refers to the desert south of the Dead sea. t he people of Seir were the Edomites (see 20:10). Amaziah wanted to recover Edom as a Judean province, but he only succeeded in part (see 21:8, 10; 26:2).

25:13 t he soldiers who attacked and sacked cities of Judah were those from israel whom Amaziah had hired and then released (vv. 6, 10). Having been denied a part in the spoils of Edom, they set out to get them from Judah.

25:14 Amaziah had listened to the prophet of god, but then he turned around and worshiped the gods of the people of Seir. t his is why the chronicler said that Amaziah served god, “but not with a loyal heart” (v. 2).

25:18 t he thistle here represents Amaziah, and the cedar Joash. t he point is that it was arrogant for the weak, insignificant Amaziah to suppose that he could defeat Joash. t he wild beast that passes by and tramples the thistle represents the war that Amaziah was so eager to pursue. such a war would crush him.

25:20 it came from God: As we find several times in 2 Chronicles, what appears to be a purely human decision or action turns out to be part of god’s plan of blessing or judgment (see 22:7).

25:21 Of the three places named Beth Shemesh, this one was 18 miles west of Jerusalem. t he ark of the covenant came here when it returned from Philistia (see 1 sam. 6:12–14).

25:23 since Ephraim lay north of Jerusalem, the Gate of Ephraim was probably in the northern wall of the city, perhaps the same

Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Joash, the son of <sup>1</sup>Jehoahaz, at Beth Shemesh; and he brought him to Jerusalem, and broke down the wall of Jerusalem from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner Gate—four hundred cubits. <sup>24</sup>And he took all the gold and silver, all the articles that were found in the house of God with <sup>u</sup>Obed-Edom, the treasures of the king's house, and hostages, and returned to Samaria.

Death of Amaziah

Uzziah Reigns in Judah

26 Now all the people of Judah took <sup>1</sup>Uzziah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king instead of his father Amaziah. <sup>2</sup>He built <sup>2</sup>Elath and restored it to Judah, after the king rested with his fathers.

according to all that his father Amaziah had done. <sup>5b</sup>He sought God in the days of Zechariah, who <sup>c</sup>had understanding in the <sup>3</sup>visions of God; and as long as he sought the LORD, God made him <sup>d</sup>prosper.

<sup>9</sup>And Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the <sup>h</sup>Corner Gate, at the Valley Gate, and at the corner buttress of the wall; then he fortified them. <sup>10</sup>Also he built towers in the desert. He dug many wells, for he had much livestock, both in the lowlands and in the plains; he also had farmers and vinedressers in the mountains and in <sup>4</sup>Carmel, for he loved the soil.

as the later Damascus gate. t he Corner Gate was at the east or west end of the north wall. Four hundred cubits was about six hundred feet.

25:24 One reason Joash's forces demolished the north wall was to gain access to the temple and its treasures. Obed-Edom's sons had been put in charge of the storehouse of the temple, probably meaning both the treasuries of the house of the Lord and the treasuries of the dedicated things (see 1 Chr. 26:15, 20). t he treasures of the king's house refers not only to the king's private wealth but also to the state coffers, for there was no difference in principle and practice between the two (9:13; see 1 Chr. 29:3). hostages: t these might have included Amaziah himself.

25:27 They must refer to those who decried the defection of Amaziah from the Lord and who wanted to restore a godly regime. t hus Amaziah, like his father Joash (24:25), was assassinated. t he fact that Amaziah reached the city of Lachish on the border with Philistia, some 25 miles from Jerusalem, suggests that he may have been seeking sanctuary among the Philistines.

25:28 City of Judah: t this is an unusual way of speaking of the City of David. since there is no note that he was buried with his fathers in the royal tombs, he probably was not.

26:2 On the eastern arm of the red sea, Elath was technically in Edomite territory (see 8:17) but regularly was under israel or Judah throughout Ot times (20:36; 21:8–10). some time after Amaziah's death, Uzziah rebuilt Elath.

26:5 t he Zechariah named here may have been the son of Jehoia-da (24:20, 21).

26:6 Also known as Jabneel (see Josh. 15:11), Jabneh lay near the Mediterranean coast, less than 10 miles north of Ashdod. t he geographical pattern of Uzziah's campaigns suggests that he was trying to gain access to the Mediterranean sea and neutralize Philistine influence.

26:7 Gur Baal was most likely at present-day tell ghurr, about eight miles east of Beersheba. t he Meunites were a desert tribe living mainly in Edom, south and west of the Dead sea (see 1 Chr. 4:39–41).

26:8 t he last recorded contact of Judah with Ammon was almost a hundred years earlier, in the days of Jehoshaphat. t he Ammonites and Moabites had defeated the Edomites, but then began to fight each other (20:1, 22, 23). Evidently they still had not recovered sufficiently to prevent Uzziah from dominating them and extracting tribute from them.

26:9 t he Corner Gate was at one end of the north wall of Jerusalem (see 25:23). t he Valley Gate was on the west side of the city near the temple mount (see neh. 2:13, 15).

26:10 Archaeological research has uncovered many towers in the desert that date from the time of Uzziah. Carmel was a region south of Hebron, not the famous mountain where Elijah confronted the prophets of Baal. David often went to Carmel when he was fleeing from saul (1 sam. 25:2, 5, 7).

prepared for them, for the entire army, shields, spears, helmets, body armor, bows, and slings to cast stones.<sup>15</sup> And he made devices in Jerusalem, invented by <sup>i</sup>skillful men, to be on the towers and the corners, to shoot arrows and large stones. So his fame spread far and wide, for he was marvelously helped till he became strong.

The Penalty for Uzziah's Pride

<sup>21</sup><sup>r</sup>King Uzziah was a leper until the day of his death. He dwelt in an <sup>s</sup>isolated house, because he was a leper; for he was cut off from the house of the LORD. Then Jotham his son was over the king's house, judging the people of the land.

Jotham Reigns in Judah

27 Jotham <sup>a</sup>was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was <sup>1</sup>Jerushah the daughter of Zadok. <sup>2</sup>And he did what was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Uzziah had done (although he did not enter the temple of the LORD). But still <sup>b</sup>the people acted corruptly.

<sup>7</sup>Now the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars and his ways, indeed they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah. <sup>8</sup>He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he

26:15 devices: t his is one of the earliest references to catapults, which seem to have been defensive weapons, since their users were on the towers and the corners.

26:16 Uzziah, swollen with pride, entered the temple. Uzziah was a descendant of David, but there were strict limits on his role in worship. Evidently Uzziah chafed at the restrictions.

26:17 t he Azariah named here may be the same as Azariah the son of Johanan (1 Chr. 6:10).

26:18 the priests, the sons of Aaron: Uzziah sinned when he exercised priestly privileges that were reserved for the Aaronic order (see n um. 16:39, 40).

26:19 Leprosy was any kind of serious skin condition (see Lev. 13:1—14:32). today, leprosy refers technically to Hansen's disease, a disease not known in Biblical times.

26:20 t he urgency of the priests to thrust him out, as well as Uzziah's own haste to leave, came from the strict requirements of the Law (see Lev. 22:2-6; n um. 12:10, 15). t he Law viewed leprosy as a breach of god's own holiness; it was a graphic symbol of defilement.

26:21 isolated house: Because of his uncleanness, Uzziah had no access to the temple either as a worshiper or as king. was over the king's house: Control of the temple and the state now passed to Jotham. t his implies a coregency. As long as Uzziah lived, Jotham exercised power on his behalf.

26:22 Isaiah was the prophet who wrote the Book of isaiah (see is. 1:1). He witnessed the last years of Uzziah but wrote virtually nothing about him in his book that has survived.

26:23 reigned: t his simply means that Jotham made the transition from coregent (v. 21) to full and independent king.

27:1 Jotham's sixteen years began 11 years before Uzziah died. t his suggests that Uzziah had leprosy for more than a decade before he died.

27:3 t he Upper Gate connected the temple and the royal palace (23:20). Jotham repaired or rebuilt it. the wall of Ophel: Ophel was the original Jebusite area of Jerusalem. its walls dated back hundreds of years and must have required regular maintenance.

27:4 cities . . . fortresses and towers: From the earliest days, the kings of Judah had built defense works and facilities for storing food and supplies (8:2, 4-6; 11:5-12; 14:6, 7; 17:12; 26:9, 10). In Jotham's time the Assyrians and other potential enemies were becoming a threat, so this building was necessary.

27:5 Uzziah had reduced the Ammonite people to tributary status, but evidently they had broken free. Jotham therefore reasserted his control and forced renewed payments. second and third years: After three years the tribute ended, suggesting that Ammon once more regained its independence.

reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. <sup>9</sup>f/So Jotham <sup>2</sup>rested with his fathers, and they buried him in the City of David. Then <sup>g</sup>Ahaz his son reigned in his place.

Ahaz Reigns in Judah

28 Ahaz <sup>a</sup>was twenty years old when he became king, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem; and he did not do what was right in the sight of the LORD, as his father David had done. <sup>2</sup>For he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, and made <sup>b</sup>molded images for <sup>c</sup>the Baals. <sup>3</sup>He burned incense in <sup>d</sup>the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, and burned <sup>e</sup>his children in the <sup>f</sup>fire, according to the abominations of the nations whom the LORD had <sup>g</sup>cast out before the children of Israel. <sup>4</sup>And he sacrificed and burned incense on the <sup>1</sup>high places, on the hills, and under every green tree.

Syria and Israel Defeat Judah

<sup>5</sup>Therefore <sup>h</sup>the LORD his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria. They <sup>i</sup>defeated him, and carried away a great multitude of them as captives, and brought them to Damascus. Then he was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, who defeated him with a great slaughter. <sup>6</sup>For <sup>j</sup>Pekah the son of Remaliah killed one hundred and twenty thousand in Judah in one day, all valiant men, <sup>k</sup>because they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers. <sup>7</sup>Zichri, a mighty man of Ephraim, killed Maaseiah the king's son, Azrikam the officer over the house, and Elkanah who was second to the king. <sup>8</sup>And the children of Israel carried away captive of their <sup>l</sup>brethren two hundred thousand women, sons, and daughters; and they also took away much <sup>2</sup>spoil from them, and brought the spoil to Samaria.

Israel Returns the Captives

<sup>9</sup> But a <sup>m</sup> prophet of the LORD was there, whose name was Oded; and he went out before the army that came to Samaria, and said to them: “Look, <sup>n</sup>because the LORD God of your fathers was angry with Judah, He has delivered them into your hand; but you have killed them in a rage that <sup>o</sup>reaches up to heaven. <sup>10</sup>And now you propose to force the children of Judah and Jerusalem to be your <sup>p</sup>male and female slaves; but are you not also guilty before the LORD your God? <sup>11</sup>Now hear me, therefore, and return the captives, whom you have taken captive from your brethren, <sup>q</sup>for the fierce wrath of the LORD is upon you.”

<sup>12</sup>Then some of the heads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against those who came from the war, <sup>13</sup>and said to them, “You shall not bring the captives here, for we already have offended the LORD. You intend to add to our sins and to our guilt; for our guilt is great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel.” <sup>14</sup>So the armed men left the captives and the <sup>3</sup>spoil before the leaders and all the assembly. <sup>15</sup>Then the men <sup>r</sup>who were designated by name rose up and took the captives, and from the <sup>4</sup>spoil they clothed all who were naked among them, dressed them and gave them sandals, <sup>s</sup>gave them food and drink, and anointed them; and they let all the feeble ones ride on donkeys. So they brought them to their brethren at Jericho, <sup>t</sup>the city of palm trees. Then they returned to Samaria.

Assyria Refuses to Help Judah

28:1 Ahaz's reign of sixteen years could mean that he came to the throne about four years after the sixteen-year tenure of his father Jotham (see 27:1).

28:3 t he Valley of the Son of Hinnom was just outside the western wall of Jerusalem. it was a dumping ground for all kinds of refuse, much of which was burned. t the valley itself became a symbol of impurity. it was used as a site of pagan worship, including human sacrifice (see 2 Kin. 23:10; Jer. 7:31, 32; 19:2-6; 32:35). the abominations of the nations: Worshipers of the Ammonite god Molech practiced human and child sacrifice (see Lev. 18:21; 20:2-5; Deut. 12:31).

28:4 every green tree: Canaanite nature cults focused on evergreens, probably as symbols of perpetual fertility.

28:5 king of Syria: r ezin (2 Kin. 16:5).

28:6 Pekah, who assassinated Pekahiah son of Menahem so he could become king of israel (see 2 Kin. 15:23-25), reigned for 20 years (2 Kin. 15:27). He was murdered in a plot headed by Hoshea, the last king of israel. because they had forsaken the LORD God: Pekah was not offended by Judah's godlessness and did not himself initiate this purge. r ather, god used Pekah to carry out His judgment.

28:7 t he officer over the house was a manager of the palace and all of its staff and activities.

28:9 t his prophet Oded is mentioned only here. killed . . . in a rage: god used the israelite armies to carry out his judgment on Judah (v. 6), but He never intended for the israelites to enjoy it. Oded condemned their malicious and self-serving attitude.

28:10 t he israelites intended to make the survivors of Judah their slaves, although this was forbidden by the Law of Moses (Lev. 25:39-46).

28:13 offended the LORD: t his admission by israel's leaders applies not only to the outrageous slaughter of their brethren from Judah (v. 6) but also to the whole course of their history until then. t he israelites could see from the rise of the Assyrians and their encroachment on israel that the end was near. Within ten years, the Assyrians would capture s amaria and deport all of the israelites. t he israelites brought this judgment on themselves (see 2 Kin. 17:7, 18).

28:15 anointed them: t hey applied balms and oils to the wounded.

28:16 t he kings of Assyria were t iglath-Pileser iii, shalmaneser V, and sargon ii.

17 For again the <sup>v</sup>Edomites had come, attacked Judah, and carried away captives. 18 <sup>w</sup>The Philistines also had invaded the cities of the lowland and of the South of Judah, and had taken Beth Shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Sochoh with its villages, Timnah with its villages, and Gimzo with its villages; and they dwelt there. 19 For the LORD <sup>b</sup>brought Judah low because of Ahaz king of <sup>x</sup>Israel, for he had <sup>y</sup>encouraged moral decline in Judah and had been continually unfaithful to the LORD. 20 Also <sup>z</sup>Tiglath-Pileser <sup>7</sup> king of Assyria came to him and distressed him, and did not assist him. 21 For Ahaz took part of the treasures from the house of the LORD, from the house of the king, and from the leaders, and he gave it to the king of Assyria; but he did not help him.

Apostasy and Death of Ahaz

22 Now in the time of his distress King Ahaz became increasingly unfaithful to the LORD. This is that King Ahaz. 23 For <sup>a</sup>he sacrificed to the gods of Damascus which had defeated him, saying, “Because the gods of the kings of Syria help them, I will sacrifice to them <sup>b</sup>that they may help me.” But they were the ruin of him and of all Israel. 24 So Ahaz gathered the articles of the house of God, cut in pieces the articles of the house of God, <sup>c</sup>shut up the doors of the house of the LORD, and made for himself altars in every corner of Jerusalem. 25 And in every single city of Judah he made <sup>d</sup>high places to burn incense 26 <sup>d</sup> Now the rest of his acts and all his ways, from first to last, indeed they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. 27 So Ahaz <sup>9</sup> rested with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem; but they <sup>e</sup> did not bring him into the tombs of the kings of Israel. Then Hezekiah his son reigned in his place.

Hezekiah Reigns in Judah

29 Hezekiah <sup>a</sup> became king when he was twenty-five years old, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was <sup>1</sup> Abijah the daughter of Zechariah. 2 And he did what was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father David had done.

Hezekiah Cleanses the Temple

3 In the first year of his reign, in the first month, he <sup>b</sup> opened the doors of the house of the LORD and repaired them. 4 Then he brought in the priests and the Levites, and gathered them in the East Square, <sup>5</sup> and said to them: “Hear me, Levites! Now <sup>2</sup> sanctify yourselves, <sup>c</sup> sanctify the house of the LORD God of your fathers, and carry out the rubbish from the holy place. 6 For our fathers have trespassed and done evil in the eyes of the LORD our God; they have forsaken Him, have <sup>d</sup> turned their faces away from the <sup>3</sup> dwelling place of the LORD, and turned

28:17 t he relationship between Judah and the Edomites changed often. Judah usually dominated Edom and was never under its control, but the extent of domination varied from one generation to the next (see 8:17; 20:2, 22, 36; 21:8-10; 25:11; 26:2). n ow Edom was independent once again and powerful enough to invade Judah and take prisoners. Ahaz solicited help from Assyria (v. 16).

28:18 lowland: t his region between the hill country of Judah and the coastal plain is commonly called the shephelah. The South was the negev. Beth Shemesh was 18 miles west of Jerusalem near the Philistine border. Aijalon was in the Aijalon valley seven miles north of Beth shemesh. Gederoth was possibly the same as gederah, located about three miles west of Aijalon. Sochoh was in the southern lowlands, about ten miles southwest of Hebron. Gimzo was eight miles northwest of Aijalon. All these places were near valleys that led up to central Judah from the surrounding plains. Control of them meant control of Judah itself. Because Ahaz understood this, he appealed to Assyria.

28:20 Tiglath-Pileser brought Mesopotamian influence over the countries of the eastern Mediterranean to its highest point. He undertook a campaign against Arpad in syria and terrorized Menahem of israel so much that Menahem paid him a huge bribe to be left alone (2 Kin. 15:19). t iglath returned to the west again, and Ahaz scrambled for protection against syria and israel (2 Kin. 16:5-7; is. 7:1, 2). t he Assyrians overran Damascus and replaced the assassinated Pekah of israel with Hoshea (2 Kin. 15:30), but they did not assist Ahaz. t he king of Judah's troubles with the Edomites, Philistines, Arameans, and even israelites (is. 7:1) were over for the time being, but at great cost.

28:23 King Ahaz's idolatry and unfaithfulness to god (v. 19) led to god's judgment. r ather than repent, Ahaz sought to appease the gods who had defeated him, the gods of Damascus. n ot only was he being idolatrous, he was ignoring the fact that Damascus itself had fallen to the Assyrians.

28:24 t he account in 2 Kin. 16:10-18 relates how Ahaz, having seen an altar in Damascus, ordered one like it to be built in Jerusalem. On this altar he offered regular burnt offerings. He used the great bronze altar of solomon as a means of divination. He dismantled the carts supporting the lavers (4:14) and took the great bronze sea from its pedestals (4:2, 3). t hese must have been among the articles that he destroyed.

28:25 if destroying high places is a sign of a godly reign (see 14:3, 5; 15:16; 16:6), then constructing them is a clear sign of the opposite. t he phrase God of his fathers calls attention to god's covenant relationship with both israel and Judah.

28:27 t he term kings of Israel refers not just to the northern kingdom, but to the entire nation under god.

29:2 Hezekiah was the only king of Judah who was as faithful to the Lord as David had been.

29:3 t he first year of Hezekiah's independent rule began in 715 B.C. Hezekiah had ruled alongside Ahaz since 729 B.C. t he fact that Hezekiah began his work on the restoration of the temple in his first month testifies to his zeal for god's work. Hezekiah opened the doors of the temple as a step toward spiritual renewal. Ahaz had closed the doors as an expression of hostility to god and the covenant (see 28:24). Hezekiah wasted no time in dealing with the sins of his predecessor.

29:4 t he East Square was the courtyard directly in front of the portico of the temple (see 4:9, 10; 6:13; 7:7).

their backs on Him. <sup>7e</sup>They have also shut up the doors of the vestibule, put out the lamps, and have not burned incense or offered burnt offerings in the holy place to the God of Israel. <sup>8</sup>Therefore the <sup>f</sup>wrath of the LORD fell upon Judah and Jerusalem, and He has <sup>g</sup>given them up to trouble, to desolation, and to <sup>h</sup>jeering, as you see with your <sup>i</sup>eyes. <sup>9</sup>For indeed, because of this <sup>j</sup>our fathers have fallen by the sword; and our sons, our daughters, and our wives are in captivity.

<sup>12</sup>Then these Levites arose: <sup>m</sup>Mahath the son of Amasai and Joel the son of Azariah, of the sons of the <sup>n</sup>Kohathites; of the sons of Merari, Kish the son of Abdi and Azariah the son of Jehallelel; of the Gershonites, Joah the son of Zimmah and Eden the son of Joah; <sup>13</sup>of the sons of Elizaphan, Shimri and Jeiel; of the sons of Asaph, Zechariah and Mattaniah; <sup>14</sup>of the sons of Heman, Jehiel and Shimei; and of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah and Uzziel.

And the Levites took it out and carried it to the Brook <sup>q</sup>Kidron.

<sup>17</sup>Now they began to <sup>5</sup>sanctify on the first day of the first month, and on the eighth day of the month they came to the vestibule of the LORD. So they sanctified the house of the LORD in eight days, and on the sixteenth day of the first month they finished.

<sup>18</sup>Then they went in to King Hezekiah and said, “We have cleansed all the house of the LORD, the altar of burnt offerings with all its articles, and the table of the showbread with all its articles. <sup>19</sup>Moreover all the articles which King Ahaz in his reign had <sup>r</sup>cast aside in his transgression we have prepared and <sup>6</sup>sanctified; and there they are, before the altar of the LORD.”

Hezekiah Restores Temple Worship

29:9 captivity: t his could refer to the fall of samaria and deportation of the northern tribes just seven years earlier (2 Kin. 17:6). But under the wicked leadership of Ahaz, many of the people of Judah had been taken captive by r ezin of Damascus and Pekah of israel (see 28:5–8). Hezekiah’s reference to Judah and Jerusalem (v. 8) suggests that he might have been referring to this.

29:10 Hezekiah’s covenant placed him and his people under the authority of god. Hezekiah pledged himself to lead the nation in faithfulness, as the terms of the original Davidic covenant demanded (23:3, 11, 16; see Deut. 17:18–20; 31:9–13; 1 Chr. 28:9).

29:12 Kohathites . . . Merari . . . Gershonites: Hezekiah summoned the leaders of the three major Levitical clans, two leaders from each clan.

29:13, 14 t he family of Elizaphan was part of Kohath (1 Chr. 15:8). Asaph was the father of a division of Levitical musicians (see 1 Chr. 25:1, 2). Heman and Jeduthun were musicians (see 1 Chr. 25:1, 3–5). Jeduthun was also known as Ethan (1 Chr. 15:17, 19).

29:15 t he phrase at the words of the LORD means that Hezekiah undertook his reformation at god’s direction. His instructions to the nation in this case had unique authority (see 1 Chr. 28:11–19; 29:23, 24).

29:16 t he inner part apparently refers to the Most Holy Place, and the term temple must refer also to the larger chamber, the holy place (3:5–7; 4:7, 8). t he court was the inner court just outside the temple, the area restricted to the priests and Levites (4:9). t he work of temple repair and restoration began in the Most Holy Place and then continued until it reached the courtyard. t he Brook Kidron was the wadi just east of Jerusalem where debris was burned (see 15:16).

29:17 t he work began on the first day of the first month of Hezekiah’s reign, not of the calendar month (v. 3). t he vestibule was a porch across the front of the temple. Sanctify means to “cleanse or purify” or “to set apart for a holy purpose.”

29:19 articles: Ahaz had destroyed some but not all of the temple implements (see 28:24).

29:21 bulls . . . rams . . . lambs: t he Law required the sacrifice of these animals for atonement of sin in general (see Lev. 1:3–13). On the other hand, the sacrifice of goats atoned for specific sins (Lev. 4:1–5:13). Here the priests offered seven of each kind to signify the t his Hebrew term means “to make free from blemish,” almost always in a ritual or spiritual sense (although once the word is used for the wind’s cleaning away of clouds and once for the refiner’s purifying of silver; see Job 37:21; Mal. 3:3). Almost half the occurrences are in Leviticus, where ritual cleansing is related to sanctification and is opposed to the moral filthiness of the israelites (Lev. 16:19). Objects and people involved in the worship of the Lord—such as the temple, the furniture in the temple, and the Levites—needed cleansing because the Lord is a holy god (n um. 8:5–22; 1 Chr. 23:28). t he ritual external cleansing of people was a symbol of internal purity (gen. 35:2; Zech. 3:3–5). Jeremiah and Ezekiel prophesied of the future cleansing of the people from their sins so that they could truly be god’s people, both outside and inside (Jer. 33:8; Ezek. 36:25, 33; 37:23). t he idea of cleansing carries through into the nt. t he Book of r evelation pictures the Lamb’s bride—the church—in clean linen which symbolizes the righteous acts of believers (2 Cor. 7:1; Eph. 5:26; 1 John 1:9; r ev. 19:8).

offering for the kingdom, for the sanctuary, and for Judah. Then he commanded the priests, the sons of Aaron, to offer them on the altar of the LORD. <sup>22</sup> So they killed the bulls, and the priests received the blood and <sup>t</sup> sprinkled it on the altar. Likewise they killed the rams and sprinkled the blood on the altar. They also killed the lambs and sprinkled the blood on the altar. <sup>23</sup> Then they brought out the male goats for the sin offering before the king and the assembly, and they laid their <sup>u</sup> hands on them. <sup>24</sup> And the priests killed them; and they presented their blood on the altar as a sin offering <sup>v</sup> to make an atonement for all Israel, for the king commanded that the burnt offering and the sin offering be made for all Israel.

of David and of Asaph the seer. So they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshiped.

<sup>31</sup> Then Hezekiah answered and said, "Now that you have consecrated yourselves to the LORD, come near, and bring sacrifices and <sup>e</sup> thank offerings into the house of the LORD." So the assembly brought in sacrifices and thank offerings, and as many as were of a <sup>f</sup> willing heart brought burnt offerings. <sup>32</sup> And the number of the burnt offerings which the assembly brought was seventy bulls, one hundred rams, and two hundred lambs; all these were for a burnt offering to the LORD. <sup>33</sup> The consecrated things were six hundred bulls and three thousand sheep. <sup>34</sup> But the priests were too few, so that they could not skin all the burnt offerings; therefore <sup>g</sup> their brethren the Levites helped them until the work was ended and until the other priests had <sup>h</sup> sanctified themselves, <sup>i</sup> for the Levites were <sup>j</sup> more diligent in <sup>k</sup> sanctifying themselves than the priests. <sup>35</sup> Also the burnt offerings were in abundance, with <sup>l</sup> the fat of the peace offerings and with <sup>l</sup> the drink offerings for every burnt offering.

So the service of the house of the LORD was set in order. <sup>36</sup> Then Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced that God had prepared the people, since the events took place so suddenly.

Hezekiah Keeps the Passover

30 And Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and also wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the Passover to the LORD God of Israel. <sup>2</sup> For the king and his wholeness of their repentance. <sup>t</sup> the kingdom refers to the nation as a political entity, Judah to the people. Both the state and the people needed atonement. <sup>t</sup> the sanctuary refers to the temple itself. 29:24 <sup>t</sup> the repetition of all Israel here suggests that Hezekiah meant to include all twelve tribes, including the northern kingdom (see 30:1-9).

29:25 King David was responsible for religious as well as civil and political matters. He had exercised that responsibility by appointing Levitical musicians and instructing them about their temple ministries (see 1 Chr. 23:2, 27; 25:1-31). He was guided and advised by two of god's faithful prophets, Gad and Nathan.

29:26 <sup>t</sup> the instruments of David were those deemed appropriate for temple worship (see 1 Chr. 25:1, 3, 5, 6).

29:30 <sup>t</sup> the words of David and of Asaph refers to the psalms of David and Asaph (1 Chr. 6:39; 15:17; 16:5), many of them in the Book of Psalms. <sup>t</sup> the people of Judah used these psalms for community worship and private meditation.

29:31 sometimes called "peace" or "fellowship" offerings, thank offerings celebrated the relationship gained by the offerings of atonement (vv. 21-24; see Lev. 3:1-17; 7:11-36). willing heart: People gave these gifts to god not out of compulsion but as joyful responses to the grace of god.

29:33 <sup>t</sup> the thank offerings included people, priests, and god Himself. in effect, the consecrated things made up a banquet at which everyone gathered before the Lord for fellowship and communion. 29:34 Under Ahaz the priests and Levites had been stripped of their duties. Now, 20 years later, there were not enough priests. Hezekiah had to reconsecrate the older priests and commission new ones. His reforms took place so quickly (v. 3) that the priests received a special dispensation to assign Levites to areas of ministry otherwise closed to them, such as skinning sacrificial animals (see Lev. 1:5, 6).

30:1-3 <sup>t</sup> hough the kingdom of Israel had split more than two centuries before, Hezekiah never lost sight of the fact that god's covenant was made with all twelve tribes and that His promises included them all (see Ezek. 37:15-28). The Passover was ordinarily celebrated in the first month of the religious year (Ex. 12:6, 18). But this year the repair and consecration of the temple was still underway (see 29:1-17). <sup>t</sup> he Law made provision for the Passover to be postponed if a person was absent on an important journey or was ritually defiled (num. 9:9-12). Hezekiah interpreted this Law to include the priests who had not yet consecrated themselves to ministry (see 29:34). All the people of Israel had not had time to gather together at Jerusalem in any case, so they delayed the celebration until the second month.

leaders and all the assembly in Jerusalem had agreed to keep the Passover in the second <sup>a</sup>month. <sup>3</sup>For they could not keep it <sup>b</sup>at <sup>1</sup>the regular time, <sup>c</sup>because a sufficient number of priests had not consecrated themselves, nor had the people gathered together at Jerusalem. <sup>4</sup>And the matter pleased the king and all the assembly. <sup>5</sup>So they <sup>2</sup>resolved to make a proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beersheba to Dan, that they should come to keep the Passover to the LORD God of Israel at Jerusalem, since they had not done it for a long time in the prescribed manner.

30:5 t he fact that all Israel was included reveals that there were many followers of god left in the northern kingdom, despite more than two hundred years of backsliding and the Assyrian conquest (see 29:24).

30:6 the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel: Hezekiah appealed to the nation on the basis of the ancient Abrahamic covenant (see 29:5). Even though the kingdom was divided and many of its people languished in exile far from home, god’s promise could not change, and it bound them all together as god’s people. t hey still had time to return to the Lord. the remnant: in some places the word remnant means the godly elect from among the israelite people as a whole (Is. 46:3; Mic. 2:12; 5:7, 8). Here it means those israelites who had survived Assyrian slaughter and deportation.

30:8 People who were not priests were not allowed to enter the temple, so enter His sanctuary is a figure of speech for serving the Lord.

30:9 t he brethren and children were israelites who had been carried away into Assyrian captivity. Hezekiah pleaded with the remnant left behind to repent, promising that this would result in better treatment of those in captivity and would guarantee their return to the land. According to the covenant (see Deut. 28–30), obedience would lead to blessing in the land, and disobedience would result in exile.

30:10 Zebulun was probably the northernmost territory of israel at this time because naphtali had been taken by tiglath-Pileser iii (2 Kin. 15:29).

30:12 in Judah the reaction to Hezekiah’s invitation was totally different from israel’s (vv. 10, 11), because god had put His hand . . . on Judah. god’s grace is always a part of a person’s efforts to please Him.

30:13 Because the Feast of Unleavened Bread immediately followed the Passover and was connected to it (Lev. 23:4–8), the Feast of Unleavened Bread sometimes referred to the Passover as well (Ezra 6:22). second month: A postponement of the feast from the first month was possible under certain circumstances (see v. 2).

30:14 t he debris removed from the temple had already been hauled off to the Brook Kidron for burning (29:16), but the burnt offering and incense altars still remained in Jerusalem until the time of the Passover.

30:16 t he Levites killed the animals and then handed the blood over to the priests to apply it. Usually burnt offerings were sacrificed by the individual worshipers who gave the blood to the priests (Lev. 1:4, 5).

30:17 t raditionally the slaughter of the Passover lamb was performed by the head of the family (Ex. 12:3–6). But on this occasion many were not ritually purified, and the Levites acted on their behalf.

30:18–20 not cleansed . . . yet they ate: t hose who came from distant parts of israel were disqualified from sacrificing and did not do so. still, they ate the Passover meal, in violation of the Law of Moses (see Ex. 12:43–49). t hey felt it more important to obey the spirit of the Passover than its letter. Hezekiah prayed for them, asking god to observe the desire of their hearts. in response, god healed the people; that is, He healed their relationship with Him.

<sup>23</sup>Then the whole assembly agreed to keep the feast <sup>f</sup>another seven days, and they kept it another seven days with gladness. <sup>24</sup>For Hezekiah king of Judah <sup>g</sup>gave to the assembly a thousand bulls and seven thousand sheep, and the leaders gave to the assembly a thousand bulls and ten thousand sheep; and a great number of priests <sup>h</sup>sanctified <sup>8</sup>themselves. <sup>25</sup>The whole assembly of Judah rejoiced, also the priests and Levites, all the assembly that came from Israel, the sojourners <sup>i</sup>who came from the land of Israel, and those who dwelt in Judah. <sup>26</sup>So there was great joy in Jerusalem, for since the time of <sup>j</sup>Solomon the son of David, king of Israel, there had been nothing like this in Jerusalem. <sup>27</sup>Then the priests, the Levites, arose and <sup>k</sup>blessed the people, and their voice was heard; and their prayer

The Reforms of Hezekiah

31 Now when all this was finished, all Israel who were present went out to the cities of Judah and <sup>a</sup>broke the sacred pillars in pieces, cut down the wooden images, and threw down the <sup>1</sup>high places and the altars—from all Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh—until they had utterly destroyed them all. Then all the children of Israel returned to their own cities, every man to his possession.

genuine seeking after god is more important than adherence to ritual (see 1 sam. 15:22).

30:22 taught the good knowledge of the LORD: Because of Ahaz's many years of wicked rule (28:23-25), the people of Judah must have become ignorant of the truths of their faith. <sup>t</sup>he people from the north (v. 18) had virtually no preaching of god's revelation for 200 years, apart from the witness of the prophets such as Hosea and Amos. But the Levites' ministry included teaching (17:8-10; Deut. 17:18; 31:9-13; 33:10), and this great Passover was an opportunity to explain the history and purpose of god's covenant with israel. <sup>t</sup>he people ate throughout the feast because a meal was the central feature of the thank or peace offerings (see 29:31; Lev. 7:28-36; 9:18).

30:23 Like solomon before him (7:8-10), Hezekiah found it impossible to limit the festivities to eight days (including the Passover). <sup>t</sup>heir common consent to celebrate another seven days was a sure sign of renewed spiritual vitality.

30:25 <sup>t</sup>he sojourners were aliens who lived in israel and Judah and who could come to the festivals because they adhered to god and the Law (see Deut. 16:11; 26:11; 29:11; 31:12).

30:27 blessed the people: <sup>t</sup>his may have been the formal blessing of n um. 6:24-26.

31:1 <sup>t</sup>he phrases all Israel and all the children of Israel refer to the entire nation, north and south, israel and Judah.

31:2 <sup>t</sup>he long interruption (28:24) of Judah's official worship in the time of Ahaz brought chaos to their religious life. <sup>t</sup>hey abandoned the system of priestly and Levitical divisions. Just as David had originally organized the Levitical system (see 1 Chr. 23:1-26:28), so now Hezekiah had to reorganize it.

31:3 New Moons: this celebration came at the appearance of the new moon, the beginning of another month (see n um. 28:11-15). <sup>t</sup>hough there were many set feasts by the end of the Ot period, the ones in view here were the Passover and Feast of Unleavened Bread (Lev. 23:4-8); the Feast of Firstfruits or Pentecost (Lev. 23:15-22); and the Feast of tabernacles (Lev. 23:33-43).

31:4 The Law stated clearly that the people were to contribute support by their tithes and offerings so the work of the temple could go on (see n um. 18:8-24).

31:5 <sup>t</sup>he early harvests of grain, particularly barley, were being reaped at this time. <sup>t</sup>he Passover had been held in the second month (30:2) and it was now already the third (v. 7). <sup>t</sup>he firstfruits began appearing at the time of the Feast of Passover and Unleavened Bread—that is, in early April or so, and the harvests were fully gathered in some 50 days later, at the time of the Feast of Weeks or Pentecost (Lev. 23:9-22). the tithe: A tenth of the harvest belonged to the Levites, whose sustenance depended on it (v. 4; see n um. 18:21-24). <sup>t</sup>here were three tithes—two every year and one every third year.

<sup>6</sup>And the children of Israel and Judah, who dwelt in the cities of Judah, brought the tithe of oxen and sheep; also the <sup>j</sup>tithe of holy things which were consecrated to the LORD their God they laid in heaps.

<sup>16</sup>Besides those males from three years old and up who were written in the genealogy, they distributed to everyone who entered the house of the LORD his daily portion for the work of his service, by his division, <sup>17</sup>and to the priests who were written in the genealogy according to their father's house, and to the Levites <sup>u</sup>from twenty years old and up according to their work, by their divisions, <sup>18</sup>and to all who were written in the genealogy—their little ones and their wives, their sons and daughters, the whole company of them—for in their faithfulness they <sup>v</sup>sanctified themselves in holiness.

<sup>19</sup>Also for the sons of Aaron the priests, who were in <sup>v</sup>the fields of the common-lands of their cities, in every single city, there were men who were <sup>w</sup>designated by name to distribute portions to all the males among the priests and to all who were listed by genealogies among the Levites.

<sup>20</sup>Thus Hezekiah did throughout all Judah, and he <sup>x</sup>did what was good and right and true before the LORD his God. <sup>21</sup>And in every work that he began in the service of the house of God, in the law and in the commandment, to seek his God, he did it with all his heart. So he <sup>y</sup>prospered.

Sennacherib Boasts Against the LORD

32 After <sup>a</sup>these deeds of faithfulness, Sennacherib king of Assyria came and entered Judah; he encamped against the fortified cities, thinking to win them

31:6 t he holy things were likely metals and other nonperishables (24:10, 11; see 1 Chr. 29:2, 7, 8) which were consecrated to ... God for use in worship and service.

31:7 t he third month was the month after the delayed Passover (30:2) and the time of the early harvest (v. 5). t he seventh month was t ishri, the month of the final annual harvest of fruits. t he Feast of tabernacles celebrated the year-end harvest (Lev. 23:39; Deut. 16:13) at this time. t here was a continual ingathering from the third to the seventh month, and the people brought their tithes to the temple as an expression of renewed devotion.

31:10 t he chief priests from solomon's time onward were Zadokites (see 1 Kin. 2:27, 35).

31:11 prepare rooms: Places already existed in the temple for storing food supplies and other materials (see 1 Chr. 26:15, 20).

31:14 At the front of the temple the East Gate led to the great courtyard and the Kidron valley beyond (see 1 Chr. 26:14).

31:15 Because most of the priests lived in the cities allotted to them and not in Jerusalem (see 1 Chr. 6:54-60), Kore and his assistants took provisions to them (v. 14).

31:16 three years old: t he boys described here were young apprentice priests dedicated to the office by their parents. s amuel had such a ministry (see 1 sam. 1:24, 28; 2:18).

31:17 All religious personnel had to descend from Levi, but the priests as such had to trace their genealogy specifically to Aaron (see 1 Chr. 6:49-53).

31:18 all who were written in the genealogy: t his is an all-inclusive way of designating both priests and Levites. Anyone whose lineage was Levitical could draw upon the tithes and offerings raised for their support.

32:1 in Hezekiah's fourteenth year, Sennacherib invaded Judah and eventually laid siege to Jerusalem (2 Kin. 18:13-17). One of the

According to the Law, israelites were to set aside a tenth of their annual produce for god (Deut. 14:22-28). Whatever was given to the Lord was considered holy (Lev. 27:30-33) and was to be used to support the ministry of the priests and Levites (n um. 18:21). t he prophet Malachi proclaimed that the failure to bring a tithe to god was the equivalent of robbing Him (Mal. 3:8).

Hezekiah taken away His high places and His altars, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, saying, “You shall worship before one altar and burn incense on <sup>v</sup>it”? <sup>13</sup>Do you not know what I and my fathers have done to all the peoples of other lands? <sup>q</sup>Were the gods of the nations of those lands in any way able to deliver their lands out of my hand? <sup>14</sup>Who was there among all the gods of those nations that my fathers utterly destroyed that could deliver his people from my hand, that your God should be able to deliver you from my <sup>r</sup>hand? <sup>15</sup>Now therefore, <sup>s</sup>do not let Hezekiah deceive you or persuade you like this, and do not believe him; for no god of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people from my hand or the hand of my fathers. How much less will your God deliver you from my hand?”

<sup>17</sup>He also wrote letters to revile the LORD God of Israel, and to speak against Him, saying, <sup>t</sup>“As the gods of the nations of other lands have not delivered their people from my hand, so the God of Hezekiah will not deliver His people from my <sup>u</sup>hand.” <sup>18</sup><sup>v</sup>Then they called out with a loud voice in <sup>5</sup>Hebrew to the people of Jerusalem who were on the wall, to frighten them and trouble them, that they might take the city. <sup>19</sup>And they spoke against the God of Jerusalem, as against the gods of the people of the earth—<sup>w</sup>the work of men’s hands.

most imperialistic of Assyria’s kings, sennacherib undertook many military campaigns to the west. in his own inscriptions he boasts of having taken many of Judah’s cities, a claim supported by the parallel account in 2 Kings. t he fortified cities that he took had first been built and equipped by solomon (8:2-6), and then rebuilt and enlarged by solomon’s successors down to the time of Hezekiah (see 11:5-12; 14:6, 7; 17:12; 26:9, 10; 27:4; 32:29).

32:3 With the help of 2 Kin. 20:20 we learn that Hezekiah managed to stop the water by concealing the springs outside the city and then digging a tunnel to bring them to the Pool of siloam inside the city walls. Hezekiah hid the source of water and made it unavailable to the enemy. t he siloam inscription describes how workmen constructed the 1,800-foot tunnel connecting the springs of gihon to the Pool of siloam.

32:4 The brook was the Wadi Kidron, east of Jerusalem.

32:5 Millo means landfill and refers to extensive terracing that surrounded the ancient hills of Ophel and Mt. Zion. t he work of extending the hills of Jerusalem was first undertaken by David (1 Chr. 11:7, 8) and continued by solomon (1 Kin. 9:15).

32:6 t he main city gate was where the population could assemble and where court and other official functions were held (see 6:12; 29:4).

32:7 more with us: t his is not Judah’s army; Hezekiah meant the armies of heaven (see 2 Kin. 6:14-17).

32:9 Both the Ot and Assyrian inscriptions document the siege against Lachish, an important fortified city west of Jerusalem and near the great coastal route (see 11:9). its capture by Assyria would cut off access to Jerusalem from the west and would give Assyria control of the coast.

32:10 t he siege of Jerusalem had not actually begun, but sennacherib’s envoys spoke of it as already underway. Jerusalem was under siege psychologically.

32:13 sennacherib’s messengers tried to destroy the peoples’ faith in god by pointing out that the other nations, despite their many gods and many altars, had been powerless to resist the Assyrians. t he Assyrians thought the true god was no different than the gods of the nations they had already subjugated.

32:17 sennacherib also wrote letters because he wanted to avoid a long and costly siege.

32:18 Aramaic had become the language of international communication and diplomacy. t he Judean negotiators wanted the matter discussed in Aramaic because they felt that they deserved to be addressed in regular diplomatic language. t he Assyrians continued the dialogue in Hebrew to frighten and trouble the people.

32:20 By now the prophet Isaiah had been involved in public ministry to the kings of Judah for nearly 40 years (see 26:22; is. 6:1).

Amoz, prayed and cried out to heaven. <sup>21z</sup> Then the LORD sent an angel who cut down every mighty man of valor, leader, and captain in the camp of the king of Assyria. So he returned <sup>a</sup>shamefaced to his own land. And when he had gone into the temple of his god, some of his own offspring struck him down with the sword there.

Hezekiah Humbles Himself

Hezekiah's Wealth and Honor

<sup>31</sup> However, regarding the ambassadors of the princes of Babylon, whom they <sup>m</sup>sent to him to inquire about the wonder that was done in the land, God withdrew from him, in order to <sup>n</sup>test him, that He might know all that was in his heart.

Death of Hezekiah

Manasseh Reigns in Judah

33 Manasseh <sup>a</sup>was twelve years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup> But he did evil in the sight of the LORD, according to the <sup>b</sup>abominations of the nations whom the LORD had cast out before the children of Israel. <sup>3</sup> For he rebuilt the <sup>1</sup>high places which Hezekiah his father had <sup>c</sup>broken down; he raised up altars for the Baals, and <sup>d</sup>made wooden images; and he worshiped <sup>e</sup>all <sup>2</sup>the host of heaven and served them. <sup>4</sup> He also built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD had said, <sup>f</sup>“In Jerusalem shall

He had considerable prestige and was especially important as a counselor of young Hezekiah (see is. 37:1-7).

32:21 sennacherib returned shamefaced to his own land, Assyria, and its capital Nineveh. t the same sennacherib who had mocked god's ability to preserve Hezekiah and Judah (vv. 17, 19) now died a violent death while in the very act of worshipping his god. his own offspring: sennacherib's sons were Adrammelech and sharezer. His two sons assassinated him 20 years after the siege of Jerusalem and fled for their lives. t then a third son Esarhaddon became king.

32:24 Hezekiah was sick: His sickness struck shortly after sennacherib's defeat (see 2 Kin. 20:1, 12) and involved affliction with boils (see is. 38:10-21). a sign: When isaiah told Hezekiah he would recover, the king wanted confirmation. t the sundial moved backward for him ten degrees, adding 40 minutes to the day (is. 38:8).

32:25 god had given Hezekiah an extraordinary favor—15 additional years of life (2 Kin. 20:6). But his heart was lifted up: Hezekiah had received Babylonian envoys who had come to congratulate him on his recovery and probably to enlist his support in their struggle against Assyria (2 Kin. 20:12-19). t their visit ignited his desire to show off all the treasures of his kingdom. Because of this indulgence in pride, god's wrath was looming. t the account in Kings reveals isaiah's response to Hezekiah's pride. t the time would come, the prophet said, when all the wealth that Hezekiah had used to impress his visitors would be seized by the same Babylonians and taken to their distant land (2 Kin. 20:16-18; see is. 39:6, 7).

32:30 Upper Gihon was a spring in the Kidron valley near the Water gate. t the tunnel meandered from gihon south and then west for over five hundred yards (see vv. 3, 4). it ended at the Pool of siloam, then on the southwest side of Jerusalem.

32:31 t the test was not for god's benefit, but for Hezekiah's.

32:32 The vision of Isaiah is the prophetic Book of isaiah (is. 1:1).

32:33 t the term upper tombs probably refers to the royal cemetery where all the godly descendants of David were buried. Others were entombed in the City of David, but not in the same area (see 28:27).

honored: t his would include such rites and ceremonies as public lamentation and ritual fires (see 16:14).

33:2 Manasseh was not the only king who lived according to the abominations of the nations. Ahaz did too (see 28:3).

33:3 The host of heaven were the gods of the sun, moon, and stars. t the Babylonians especially revered these deities (see Deut. 4:19; Ezek. 8:16).

33:4 In Jerusalem shall My name be: t the point was that god had the exclusive right to inhabit the temple, as opposed to the deities Manasseh introduced (v. 5).

My name be forever.”<sup>5</sup> And he built altars for all the host of heaven<sup>g</sup> in the two courts of the house of the LORD.<sup>6h</sup> Also he caused his sons to pass through the fire in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom; he practiced<sup>i</sup> soothsaying, used witchcraft and sorcery, and<sup>j</sup> consulted mediums and spiritists. He did much evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger.<sup>7k</sup> He even set a carved image, the idol which he had made, in the<sup>3</sup> house of God, of which God had said to David and to Solomon his son,<sup>14</sup> “In this house and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put My name forever; <sup>8m</sup> and I will not again remove the foot of Israel from the land which I have appointed for your fathers—only if they are careful to do all that I have commanded them, according to the whole law and the statutes and the ordinances by the hand of Moses.”<sup>9</sup> So Manasseh seduced Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to do more evil than the nations whom the LORD had destroyed before the children of Israel.

Manasseh Restored After Repentance

his entreaty, heard his supplication, and brought him back to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh<sup>r</sup> knew that the LORD was God.

Death of Manasseh

<sup>18</sup> Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, his prayer to his God, and the words of<sup>x</sup> the seers who spoke to him in the name of the LORD God of Israel, indeed they are written in the<sup>8</sup> book of the kings of Israel. <sup>19</sup> Also his prayer and how God received his entreaty, and all his sin and trespass, and the sites where he built<sup>9</sup> high places and set up wooden images and carved images, before he was humbled, indeed they are written among the sayings of<sup>1</sup> Hozai. <sup>20y</sup> So Manasseh rested with his fathers, and they buried him in his own house. Then his son Amon reigned in his place.

33:5 in addition to altars inside the temple (v. 4), Manasseh erected altars to his astral deities in the two courts—that is, the court of the priests and Levites and the one open to the public (4:9; see 1 Kin. 7:9–12).

33:6 Valley of the Son of Hinnom: Like Ahaz, Manasseh practiced human sacrifice, going so far as to offer up his own children (28:3). Soothsaying is divination, an attempt to determine the plans and purposes of the gods so as to avert their hostility or take advantage of their favors. Witchcraft and sorcery attempt to bring about desired results by employing magical or mystical rituals. Mediums are those who claim to contact and consult with the dead. The witch of En Dor appears to have done this, for she feared for her life when she realized that Saul had condemned necromancers to death (see 1 sam. 28:3, 9). spiritists: these are “knowing ones” whose speciality also is communication with the dead in the hope of acquiring information inaccessible to the living. All such practices were common among Canaanite and other pagan religions and were to be strictly avoided by god’s people (see Deut. 13:1–6; 18:9–14).

33:8 god’s ancient promise never to remove the people of Israel from the land they had inherited was conditioned on their obedience to all the covenant stipulations—law, statutes, and ordinances—to which they had sworn (see gen. 17:7, 8; Lev. 26:27–35, 46). Manasseh’s behavior had greatly jeopardized the presence of the people in the land.

33:11 For some time Babylon had been part of the Assyrian Empire, though it had broken free on occasion, especially under the leadership of Berodach-Baladan, Hezekiah’s contemporary (see 2 Kin. 20:12). Ashurbanipal brought Babylon back under Assyrian domination. He was the king who took Manasseh to Babylon as a prisoner.

33:14 the term City of David originally referred to Mt. Zion alone (see 1 Chr. 11:5) but eventually designated the entire city including Mt. Ophel, the original Jebusite settlement. Gihon was the spring that was the main source of water for Jerusalem (see 32:3, 4, 30). it was in the Kidron valley near the northeastern brow of Mt. Zion. the Fish Gate was in the center of the wall north of the temple. Manasseh’s construction began at gihon and went north past Mt. Ophel to the northeast corner of the temple mount. then it went west to the Fish gate. this was a total distance of about 750 yards. these fortified cities were the same ones that had been captured by sennacherib.

33:15 Manasseh took away the old idols—a sign of true conversion and devotion to god (v. 13).

33:17 the sin of worshipping at high places was in their association with paganism (see Deut. 12:2, 3). the temple represented the dwelling place of god among His people. At this time, god wanted all worship by the people as a community to take place there. this is what is meant by the exclusiveness of the central sanctuary (see Deut. 12:5–28).

33:20 in his own house: Manasseh had truly converted (v. 13), but his prior sin had been so heinous that he was denied burial in the royal cemetery (see 32:33).

Amon's Reign and Death

<sup>21z</sup> Amon was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. <sup>22</sup> But he did evil in the sight of the LORD, as his father Manasseh had done; for Amon sacrificed to all the carved images which his father Manasseh had made, and served them. <sup>23</sup> And he did not humble himself before the LORD, <sup>a</sup> as his father Manasseh had humbled himself; but Amon trespassed more and more.

<sup>24b</sup> Then his servants conspired against him, and <sup>c</sup> killed him in his own house. <sup>25</sup> But the people of the land executed all those who had conspired against King Amon. Then the people of the land made his son Josiah king in his place.

34 Josiah <sup>a</sup> was eight years old when he became king, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. <sup>2</sup> And he did what was right in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the ways of his father David; he did not turn aside to the right hand or to the left.

33:22 t he carved images were in addition to the wooden images he had made (v. 3). t he images were representations of deity carved from wood or stone. t he carved image to which Amon sacrificed had been set up in the temple as an idol (v. 7). it was later removed from the city (v. 15) but apparently not destroyed, since Amon set it up again.

33:25 At this time people of the land was a technical term that indicated a certain level of leadership, perhaps a council of elders. in crises like the assassination of Amon they could assume interim powers until proper government could be restored (see 22:1; 26:1; 36:1).

34:3 t he wooden images were poles dedicated to Asherah, the Canaanite fertility goddess (see 33:3). t he molded images were like the carved images except that they were made of molded metal (see Ex. 32:4, 8; is. 42:17; Hos. 13:2).

34:4 Josiah's destruction of the altars and idols built by his grandfather Manasseh and father Amon recall Moses' grinding up the golden calf and scattering its dust upon the waters (Ex. 32:20).

34:5 burned the bones of the priests: t his act of Josiah, which took place at Bethel, fulfilled the words of the prophet of Judah in the days of Jeroboam i, king of israel (see 1 Kin. 13:1, 2; 2 Kin. 23:15, 16). t he prophet had mentioned Josiah by name three hundred years before.

34:6 Josiah's purge of the idolatrous cults was not limited to Judah and Bethel but extended from the south—Simeon—to the north—Naphtali. israel had been subject to Assyria for a century, and new religious movements such as that of the samaritans had gained a foothold in the region (see 2 Kin. 17:24-31; 23:19).

34:8 Shaphan was a scribe or secretary of the king (v. 15). He was responsible for state records that must have included the original temple plans and specifications. t he temple was repaired strictly according to its original pattern. t he office of governor was like that of the modern mayor (see 18:25). A recorder kept the royal diaries. Official happenings were duly noted and recorded for posterity. t he work of men like Joah provided sources for later historians such as the author of Chronicles (see 1 Chr. 18:15).

34:9 Hilkiah was probably the high priest of the genealogy of 1 Chr. 6:13 (see Ezra 7:1).

34:11 Josiah's work of restoring what was destroyed included not only repairs to the temple and related buildings, but repairs to the fortifications (see 15:8; 24:5; 28:24; 29:6, 7; 32:5).

34:12 t he sons of Merari and the Kohathites were two of the three clans of Levi (see 1 Chr. 6:1, 16; 23:6).

all who did work in any kind of service.<sup>9</sup> And some of the Levites were scribes, officers, and gatekeepers.

<sup>14</sup>Now when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the LORD, Hilkiah the priest found the Book of the Law of the LORD given by Moses.<sup>15</sup> Then Hilkiah answered and said to Shaphan the scribe, “I have found the Book of the Law in the house of the LORD.” And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan.<sup>16</sup> So Shaphan carried the book to the king, bringing the king word, saying, “All that was committed to your servants they are doing.<sup>17</sup> And they have gathered the money that was found in the house of the LORD, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers and the workmen.”<sup>18</sup> Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying, “Hilkiah the priest has given me a book.” And Shaphan read it before the king.

<sup>22</sup>So Hilkiah and those the king had appointed went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of Tokhath, the son of Hasrah, keeper of the wardrobe. (She dwelt in Jerusalem in the Second Quarter.) And they spoke to her to that effect.

<sup>23</sup>Then she answered them, “Thus says the LORD God of Israel, ‘Tell the man who sent you to Me,<sup>24</sup> ‘Thus says the LORD: ‘Behold, I will bring calamity on this place and on its inhabitants, all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah,<sup>25</sup> because they have forsaken Me and burned incense to other gods, that they might provoke Me to anger with all the works of their hands. Therefore My wrath will be poured out on this place, and not be quenched.’”<sup>26</sup> But as for the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the LORD, in this manner you shall speak to him, ‘Thus says the LORD God of Israel: “Concerning the words which you have heard—<sup>27</sup>because your heart was tender, and you humbled yourself before God when you heard His words against this place and against its inhabitants, and you humbled yourself before Me, and you tore your clothes and wept before Me, I also have heard you,” says the LORD.<sup>28</sup> “Surely I will gather you to

34:16 Shaphan delivered the scroll because he was the king’s scribe. He would know how to assess the authenticity of the text and tell the king whether it was important.

34:21 Josiah knew that the scroll contained the Book of the Law of the Lord, but he did not know what to do about the words of wrath and judgment that it contained. our fathers have not kept . . . all that is written: Josiah wanted to know what god demanded of him because he fully intended to comply.

34:22 Huldah the prophetess is one of four female prophets named in the OT, the other three being Miriam (Ex. 15:20), Deborah (Judg. 4:4), and Noadiah (Neh. 6:14). Shallum’s job was to supervide the storage and distribution of garments worn by the priests and Levites in the course of their duties. The Second Quarter was probably a suburb of Jerusalem near the Fish Gate north of the city (Zeph. 1:10).

The Book of the Law of the LORD

Hilkiah’s discovery of “the Book of the Law of the LORD” began a great revival in Israel (34:14). King Josiah’s response to the book inspired him to initiate a reformation and refocus attention on Jerusalem as the center of worship (see 2 Kin. 23:4–20). It was one of the nation’s greatest moments.

What was this “Book of the Law of the LORD”? The reforms that Josiah introduced reflect many of the themes of Deuteronomy, so it seems clear that Josiah’s book must have included at least Deuteronomy. But the law that was “given by Moses” (see 34:14) technically includes the whole Pentateuch, the first five books of the Bible (Ex. 24:4), and there seems no reason to doubt that this was the case in Josiah’s day.

This copy of the Law somehow survived the long period of religious suppression under Manasseh and Amon. We may never know who put it in the temple or why, but God saw to its preservation and discovery.

King Josiah’s humble, obedient response to the book was and remains a model of how all people should respond to God’s revealed Word. Josiah listened to the scripture, allowed its words of truth to judge him, and humbly confessed that he had neglected God’s commands (34:18, 19). After learning more about its truths (34:21), he shared the scripture with others and led them in following it. He had the book read before the entire nation and led the Israelites in recommitting their lives to the Lord (34:29–33).

your fathers, and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace; and your eyes shall not see all the calamity which I will bring on this place and its inhabitants.””” So they brought back word to the king.

Josiah Restores True Worship

<sup>29</sup> Then the king sent and gathered all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. <sup>30</sup> The king went up to the house of the LORD, with all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem—the priests and the Levites, and all the people, great and small. And he <sup>2</sup> read in their hearing all the words of the Book of the Covenant which had been found in the house of the LORD. <sup>31</sup> Then the king <sup>a</sup> stood in <sup>b</sup> his place and made a <sup>c</sup> covenant before the LORD, to follow the LORD, and to keep His commandments and His testimonies and His statutes with all his heart and all his soul, to perform the words of the covenant that were written in this book. <sup>32</sup> And he made all who were present in Jerusalem and Benjamin take a stand. So the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. <sup>33</sup> Thus Josiah removed all the <sup>d</sup> abominations from all the country that belonged to the children of Israel, and made all who were present in Israel <sup>8</sup> dil-

Josiah Keeps the Passover

35 Now <sup>a</sup> Josiah kept a Passover to the LORD in Jerusalem, and they slaughtered the Passover *lamb*s on the <sup>b</sup> fourteenth day of the first month. <sup>2</sup> And he set the priests in their <sup>c</sup> duties and <sup>d</sup> encouraged them for the service of the house of the LORD. <sup>3</sup> Then he said to the Levites <sup>e</sup> who taught all Israel, who were holy to the LORD: <sup>f</sup> “Put the holy ark <sup>g</sup> in the house which Solomon the son of David, king of Israel, built. <sup>h</sup> It shall no longer be a burden on your shoulders. Now serve the LORD your God and His people Israel. <sup>4</sup> Prepare yourselves <sup>i</sup> according to your fathers’ <sup>1</sup> houses, according to your divisions, following the <sup>j</sup> written instruction of David king of Israel and the <sup>k</sup> written instruction of Solomon his son. <sup>5</sup> And <sup>l</sup> stand in the holy place according to the divisions of the fathers’ houses of your brethren the lay people, and according to the division of the father’s house of the Levites. <sup>6</sup> So slaughter the Passover offerings, <sup>m</sup> consecrate yourselves, and prepare them for your brethren, that they may do according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.”

among his own people, not in a foreign land. Huldah’s promise that Josiah would die in peace meant that he would be spared the calamity by which Judah would be judged. Josiah died in a time of war (see 35:23, 24), but that war was not the time of calamity. t he calamity came later when Babylonian forces captured Jerusalem (see 36:17–20).

34:30 t he term Book of the Covenant refers to the Book of the Law of the Lord (v. 14), the Pentateuch. Josiah was about to lead the community in renewing the covenant. His reading of the scroll was part of his duties as king (see Deut. 17:18–20).

34:31 Very few of the kings of Judah promised to follow the LORD as Josiah did. After David, only Joash, Hezekiah, and Josiah made such public commitments (see 23:3; 29:10; 1 Chr. 17:7–14). t hey stand head and shoulders above the other kings of Judah and Israel. t he terms commandments, testimonies, and statutes were all technical terms referring to the covenant (see Deut. 4:40, 45; 5:31; 6:1, 17).

34:33 We know that Josiah’s commitment to the Lord was real because he removed all the abominations. t his included any and all idols that had been introduced by earlier kings.

35:3 Josiah’s command to put the holy ark in the house means that the ark of the covenant had been removed from the temple. Who removed it and when is not known, but there were plenty of wicked kings who could have done so. no longer . . . on your shoulders: t he only proper way for transporting the ark was by means of poles thrust through corner rings of the ark and borne on the shoulders of the Levites (see num. 4:5, 6; 1 Chr. 15:2). t he fact that they were carrying it about shows that it had no regular place of storage. Manasseh’s vehement opposition to god must have kept the ark in constant jeopardy. But once the temple had been cleansed and repaired, the ark could be returned to its place.

35:4 in preparation for the Passover the priests and Levites had to organize themselves by their assignments within divisions. t he divisions were determined by the genealogical registers (see 1 Chr. 6:1–30). David set up the divisions before the temple was built (see 1 Chr. 23:3–26:32) and Solomon confirmed them (8:14).

35:5 t he term holy place here refers to the whole temple area. t he lay people could not enter the area where the great bronze altar stood, so the Levites represented them there by tribe, clan, and family units. in former times the heads of families offered their own Passover lambs and thus had access to the altar (Ex. 12:3), but by Josiah’s time the responsibility for slaughter rested upon the Levites alone (see 30:15–20).

35:6 prepare them for your brethren: t he Levites were standing in for the people in the sacrifice of the Passover lambs. t his became the tradition from that time on, with the result that the priests gained influence and power.

Passover

(Heb. pesach) (30:1, 35:1; Ex. 12:11, 43; Ezek. 45:21) strong’s #6453

t he name Passover is derived from the Hebrew word meaning “to pass” or “to leap over.” t he festival was named in this way because it commemorated the time when god spared the firstborn of the israelites, who sprinkled the blood from the Passover lamb on their doorposts. t he Lord “passed over” the families so designated, not visiting their households with death (Ex. 12). so that the israelites would not forget god’s mercy on them, the Law of Moses prescribed in detail the ritual for commemorating the Passover (see Lev. 23:5–8; num. 28:16–25; Deut. 16:1–8). King Hezekiah’s great Passover signaled spiritual renewal in Judah, including the removal of sin and impurity (30:14), joyful praise for god’s pardon (30:21, 22), and a prolonged celebration of god’s blessing (30:23–26). Later Jesus celebrated this feast with His disciples (Matt. 26:2, 18), and in His death and resurrection He became its fulfillment, the ultimate Passover Lamb for our sins (John 1:29, 1 Cor. 5:7; 1 Pet. 1:19).

and for the priests, because the priests, the sons of Aaron, were busy in offering burnt offerings and fat until night; therefore the Levites prepared portions for themselves and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. <sup>15</sup>And the singers, the sons of Asaph, were in their places, according to the <sup>y</sup>command of David, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun the king's seer. Also the gatekeepers <sup>z</sup>were at each gate; they did not have to leave their position, because their brethren the Levites prepared portions for them.

<sup>16</sup>So all the service of the LORD was prepared the same day, to keep the Passover and to offer burnt offerings on the altar of the LORD, according to the command of King Josiah. <sup>17</sup>And the children of Israel who were present kept the Passover at that time, and the Feast of <sup>a</sup>Unleavened Bread for seven days. <sup>18</sup><sup>b</sup>There had been no Passover kept in Israel like that since the days of Samuel the prophet; and none of the kings of Israel had kept such a Passover as Josiah kept, with the priests and the Levites, all Judah and Israel who were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. <sup>19</sup>In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah this Passover was kept.

Josiah Dies in Battle

35:7 normally the people provided the Passover lambs and young goats from their own flocks (Ex. 12:3, 5), but Josiah was being generous (see 30:24). t hat Josiah gave thirty thousand of them means that the total number of people must have been 150,000 or more, as each household offered its own lamb or goat. t he cattle were for the burnt offerings that went with this particular Passover (v. 12).

35:8 Hilkiah was the chief priest under Josiah (see 34:9).

35:11 t he way the priests and Levites prepared the animals was in accord with Moses' instructions (Ex. 12:4, 8, 9, 21, 22).

35:12 t his particular Passover included a time of fellowship and praise. t he cattle were used for burnt offerings (vv. 7-9) for the celebration of the thank or peace offerings (see Lev. 3:1-5). t he offerer, his family, and the priests and Levites could all eat any Passover animals and burnt offerings that were sacrificed as thank offerings. t he Passover of Josiah was an occasion for recalling the deliverance of Israel from Egypt (Ex. 12:24-27), and a time of great festive celebration of god's goodness in bringing reformation and renewal. t he Book of Moses was probably the scroll that Hilkiah found in the temple (34:14, 15); Josiah's desire to conduct the Passover sprang from the discovery and reading of the book.

35:13 t he other holy offerings, distinguished from the Passover offerings, were the cattle slaughtered for thank or peace offerings (v. 7).

35:14 Themselves refers to the Levites, who had helped the priests.

35:15 Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun headed up the Levitical musical divisions in the days of David (see 1 Chr. 15:17; 25:1). t he day-long Passover celebration was accompanied by music.

35:16 it was most unusual to have such a combination of festivals and offerings all on the same day.

35:17 t he Passover was held on the fourteenth day of the month nisan (see v. 1) and was followed for the next seven days by the Feast of Unleavened Bread, up through the twenty-first day of nisan (see 30:21-23; Lev. 23:4-8; n um. 28:16-25; Deut. 16:1-8).

35:18 it had been almost four hundred years since the days of Samuel the prophet (see 1 sam. 7:15-17). None of the kings had held so great a Passover in all that time (30:26).

35:19 Josiah was 26 years old (see 34:8) in the eighteenth year of his reign.

35:20 Located on the upper Euphrates r iver, Carchemish was one of the last strongholds of Assyria to resist the onslaught of the rising neo-Babylonian kingdom. t he Babylonians and Medes were on their way to subdue Haran and Carchemish. n echo, more afraid of the Babylonians than the Assyrians, was hoping to get to Carchemish in time to assist his Assyrian allies in their time of peril. Josiah was an ally of Babylon, so he went to Megiddo (v. 22) to intercept the Egyptians and allow for the Babylonians to attack Haran and Carchemish without Egyptian interference.

35:21 The house is a reference to the Babylonians. God commanded me: god sometimes spoke to pagan rulers about a course of action He wanted them to take (36:22; see gen. 20:6; 41:25; Dan. 2:28). n echo did not know that the source of his divine leading was the god of Israel and not one of his own Egyptian deities. But god did direct him, displaying His sovereignty over even the wicked and unbelieving powers of this world (see is. 44:28-45:1).

Egypt's Pharaohs

t he pharaohs of Egypt had a long history with the Jews. During this time, necho succeeded his father as pharaoh in 610 B.C. recognizing the growing menace of Babylon, he marched through Canaan to help the Assyrians fight this common enemy. King Josiah tried to stop him at Megiddo, but necho defeated him and continued on his march. nebuchadnezzar destroyed the Egyptian army at Carchemish on the Euphrates river in 605 B.C., but necho escaped, captured the new king of Judah, and made Judah a buffer state between Babylon and Egypt. When nebuchadnezzar attacked Judah in 601 B.C., Egypt was able to stop him temporarily. Pharaoh Apries encouraged King Jehoiakin to resist the Babylonian intruders. But nebuchadnezzar succeeded in capturing Jerusalem in 586 B.C. and carried its people into exile.

king of Judah? I have not come against you this day, but against the house with which I have war; for God commanded me to make haste. Refrain from meddling with God, who is with me, lest He destroy you.<sup>22</sup> Nevertheless Josiah would not turn his face from him, but <sup>e</sup>disguised himself so that he might fight with him, and did not heed the words of Necho from the mouth of God. So he came to fight in the Valley of Megiddo.

<sup>26</sup> Now the rest of the acts of Josiah and his goodness, according to what was written in the Law of the LORD,<sup>27</sup> and his deeds from first to last, indeed they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

The Reign and Captivity of Jehoaahz

36 Then <sup>a</sup>the people of the land took Jehoaahz the son of Josiah, and made him king in his father's place in Jerusalem. <sup>21</sup> Jehoaahz was twenty-three years old when he became king, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. <sup>3</sup> Now the king of Egypt deposed him at Jerusalem; and he imposed on the land a tribute of one hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold. <sup>4</sup> Then the king of Egypt made <sup>2</sup>Jehoaahz's brother Eliakim king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. And Necho took <sup>3</sup>Jehoaahz his brother and carried him off to Egypt.

The Reign and Captivity of Jehoiakim

Jer. 36:30 <sup>4</sup> chains

35:22 t he major route from Egypt to the upper Euphrates was the Via Maris or the Way of the sea. t his route went up the coast of Palestine before turning inland through the mountain pass at Megiddo. it crossed the Plain of Jezreel or Esdraelon, crossed the Jordan near the sea of galilee, and passed through Damascus where it joined the north-south route to upper syria. Josiah's objective was to control the pass at Megiddo and dictate the movement of traffic through that vital point.

35:24 As a godly successor of David, Josiah was buried with full honors in the royal tombs of his fathers in the City of David (see 32:33).

35:27 The book of the kings of Israel and Judah may have been the canonical book of 1 and 2 Kings.

36:1 The people of the land was a technical term that referred to a body of leaders such as a council of elders or a kind of informal parliament (see 33:25). t his group acted in time of crisis, such as the death of Josiah in battle. His loss was made worse by the fact that he had at least four sons who could succeed him. Josiah may not have made his choice of successor clear. Johanan was the oldest son, followed by Jehoiakim, Zedekiah, and shallum (1 Chr. 3:15). shallum was the same as Jehoaahz (see Jer. 22:11).

36:3 t he king of Egypt was necho (see 35:20). After Assyria's defeat at Haran and Carchemish, the Egyptian army withdrew south of the Euphrates to dominate syria and Palestine. Judah became an Egyptian vassal state, which explains why necho could depose Jehoaahz and require tribute. Judah had become a poor and weak nation, smaller by far than at any other time in its history. Josiah left them richer spiritually, but poorer financially.

36:4 necho required the change of name in order to display his power over Eliakim.

36:6 Nebuchadnezzar was the son of nabopolassar, founder of the neo-Babylonian or Chaldean Empire. He was leading a campaign against Carchemish when he succeeded his father. He drove Egypt out of syria and Palestine and took some Jewish captives, including Daniel, back to Babylon (see Dan. 1:1). At the same time, Jehoiakim changed his loyalty from necho to nebuchadnezzar and remained a trusted vassal for three years (see 2 Kin. 24:1). But then <sup>7f</sup>Nebuchadnezzar also carried off some of the articles from the house of the LORD to Babylon, and put them in his temple at Babylon. <sup>8</sup>Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, the abominations which he did, and what was found against him, indeed they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah. Then <sup>5</sup>Jehoiachin his son reigned in his place.

The Reign and Captivity of Jehoiachin

Zedekiah Reigns in Judah

<sup>11k</sup>Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. <sup>12</sup>He did evil in the sight of the LORD his God, and <sup>l</sup>did not humble himself before Jeremiah the prophet, who spoke from the mouth of the LORD. <sup>13</sup>And he also <sup>m</sup>rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him swear an oath by God; but he <sup>n</sup>stiffened his neck and hardened his heart against turning to the LORD God of Israel. <sup>14</sup>Moreover all the leaders of the priests and the people transgressed more and more, according to all the abominations of the nations, and defiled the house of the LORD which He had consecrated in Jerusalem.

The Fall of Jerusalem

<sup>17t</sup> Therefore He brought against them the king of the Chaldeans, who <sup>u</sup>killed their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion on young man or virgin, on the aged or the weak; He gave them all into his hand. <sup>18v</sup> And all the articles from the house of God, great and small, the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king and of his leaders, all these he took to Babylon. <sup>19w</sup> Then they burned the house of God, broke down the wall of Jerusalem, burned all its palaces with fire, and destroyed all its precious possessions. <sup>20</sup> And <sup>x</sup>those who escaped from the sword he carried away to Babylon, <sup>y</sup>where they became servants to him and his sons until the rule of the kingdom of Persia, <sup>21</sup>to fulfill the word of the LORD by the mouth of <sup>z</sup>Jeremiah, until the land <sup>a</sup>had enjoyed her Sabbaths. As long as she lay desolate <sup>b</sup>she kept Sabbath, to fulfill seventy years.

The Proclamation of Cyrus

Jehoiakim rebelled against Babylon, and in about 602 B.C. nebuchadnezzar returned to Jerusalem to punish him. nebuchadnezzar bound Jehoiakim to carry him off to Babylon. He did not actually take him away, since Jehoiakim reigned until about 598 B.C. and died of natural causes in Jerusalem (see 2 Kin. 24:6; Jer. 22:18, 19).

36:7 Nebuchadnezzar . . . carried off: t the Babylonian king looted the temple of much of its treasure, fulfilling the prophecy made to Hezekiah a century earlier (see 32:31; 2 Kin. 20:17). His temple was the Esagila, the temple of Babylon's patron god Marduk.

36:10 Zedekiah was the youngest of the four sons of Josiah and the third to rule over Judah (see v. 1). He became king by nebuchadnezzar's appointment, showing Judah's status as a Babylonian vassal (see v. 3).

36:12 Jeremiah was the famous prophet who composed the Book of Jeremiah, which includes his words to Zedekiah (Jer. 21:3-7; 32:5).

36:13 By 588 B.C. Zedekiah rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar and, like his brother and nephew before him, invited swift Babylonian retribution. nebuchadnezzar captured Jerusalem after a two-year siege (see 2 Kin. 25:1-3).

36:14 The abominations of the nations refers primarily to idolatry and all the immorality and perversity that went with it. god's covenant with israel required them to be different from the nations in this key respect (see Ex. 23:24; Lev. 26:1; Deut. 4:15-20, 25-28; 18:9-14; 27:14, 15).

36:15 god's messengers were the prophets He had sent from the beginning of israel's history.

36:17 t the king of the Chaldeans (Babylonians) was nebuchadnezzar, who reigned from 605 to 562 B.C. He became an instrument of god's judgment all through Judah's last years and well into the Exile (see Dan. 2:37, 38; 5:18, 19).

36:20 until the rule of the kingdom of Persia: Cyrus conquered Babylon in 539 B.C. and allowed the Jews to return to Jerusalem the following year.

36:21 in two places (Jer. 25:12; 29:10), Jeremiah predicted the Exile and its length (see Dan. 9:2). Sabbaths: According to the Law of Moses the land was to lie fallow every seventh year (Lev. 25:4). t his became known as the sabbatical year. Judah's exile in Babylon allowed the land to enjoy the sabbaths it had missed (see Lev. 26:33-35).

36:22 t the first year of Cyrus refers to his first year of rule over Babylon, not his first year over Media and Persia. He began to rule Media and Persia in 550 B.C. twelve years later he brought Babylon under his control and issued his famous decree, known from the Ot (here and Ezra 1:2-4) and from the Cylinder of Cyrus. t his was his first year of involvement with the Jewish people. Jeremiah's 70 years were from about 609 to 539 B.C. the LORD stirred up: Cyrus was both a mighty monarch and the instrument by whom god delivered His people from exile, returned them to their land, and rebuilt the temple (see is. 44:28-45:1).

<sup>e</sup>Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and also put it in writing, saying,

LORD God of heaven has given me. And He has commanded me to build Him a <sup>g</sup>house at Jerusalem which is in Judah. Who is among you of all His people? May the LORD his God be with him, and let him go up!

36:23 the LORD God . . . has given me: According to his own account on the Cylinder of Cyrus, the god who called and blessed Cyrus was Marduk, chief deity of the Babylonian pantheon of gods. since that document was for Babylonian readers, his reference to Marduk is understandable. t he Bible attributes his success to the living Lord. it was god Himself who gave Cyrus sovereignty, who commanded him to rebuild the Jerusalem temple, and who had inspired him to release the Jews to their own country. it is not likely that Cyrus was a convert to Judaism. Like nebuchadnezzar (see Dan. 2:47; 3:28, 29; 4:34–37) and Darius the Mede (Dan. 6:26, 27), Cyrus was willing to include israel's god among the gods he recognized and extolled. t he temple and the holy city lay in ruins, but god was not done yet. He was about to bring His people back to the land and to revive His promises to save and restore them.

THE BOOK OF EZRA

THE BOOK OF EZRA is a remarkable witness to God's faithfulness to His people. Together with Nehemiah, Ezra describes the events leading to the return of the Judeans from captivity in Babylon and the discouraging experiences of that small community in the harsh world of the Promised Land. But through every experience God proved Himself faithful. Through the leadership of Ezra and Zerubbabel, God fulfilled His promises announced by His prophets to restore His people from Babylon, to rebuild the temple at Jerusalem, and to renew their hope that the Davidic kingdom would be restored.

Author and Composition The Book of Ezra does not name its author, but Jewish tradition ascribes the book to Ezra along with the books of Chronicles and Nehemiah. Modern scholars generally agree with this tradition. Despite some dissimilarities, Chronicles, Ezra, and Nehemiah form a connected work. The themes of the temple and the Levites, and the focus on lists, appear in all three books. In the Hebrew Bible, Ezra and Nehemiah are together as one book. Thus it seems that one author compiled all three books.

The fact that Ezra is the principal character of major sections of Ezra lends some credibility to his authorship of this book. Ezra participates in the events described in the second half of Ezra (chs. 7–10), as well as in events described in a portion of the Book of Nehemiah (chs. 8–10). Both passages are written in the first person and provide detailed descriptions. Such vivid descriptions point to an eyewitness as the author. It is generally agreed that these chapters at least were drawn directly from Ezra's memoirs.

On the other hand, the first half of Ezra records events that occurred nearly 60 years before Ezra returned to Judah. If Ezra compiled the book, he had to consult other sources for those passages. In fact, much of the Book of Ezra consists of information obtained from other official sources: (1) the decree of Cyrus (1:2–4), (2) the list of the articles of the temple (1:9–11), (3) the list of those who returned to Jerusalem (2:2–58), (4) the letter to Artaxerxes (4:11–16), (5) the reply of Artaxerxes (4:17–22), (6) the report of Tattenai (5:7–17), (7) the decree of Cyrus (6:2–5), (8) the reply of Darius (6:6–8), (9) the genealogy of Ezra (7:1–5), (10) the authorization of Artaxerxes (7:12–26), (11) the list of the heads of the clans (8:1–14), and (12) the list of those involved in mixed marriages (10:18–44). Over half of the Book of Ezra consists of official documents and lists. Moreover, the book is written in two languages. Most of the royal correspondence in the book is written in Aramaic, the international language of the Persian world, while the narrative sections are in Hebrew. In conclusion, the Book of Ezra is the work of a compiler, and that compiler certainly could have been the scribe Ezra.

Historical Setting In 539 B.C., Cyrus of Persia defeated the Babylonian Empire. Unlike the Babylonian kings before him, Cyrus allowed captive peoples to return to their homelands and live by their traditions and reestablish the worship of their respective gods. At the same time, all these peoples remained an integral part of the Persian Empire, subject to the emperor.

The Jewish people had been exiled to Babylon in three stages, and they returned with the permission of the Persians in three stages. Zerubbabel led the first group of returning Israelites (538 B.C.) and started to rebuild the temple (chs. 1–6). The priest Ezra led the second group (458 B.C.) and instituted a number of reforms (chs. 7–10). Finally, Nehemiah led the third group (444 B.C.) and rebuilt the wall around Jerusalem (neh. 1–6).

Work on the restoration of the temple began in the reign of Cyrus (536 B.C.), extended through the time of Cambyses, and was completed in the sixth year of Darius I (515 B.C.). The reforming careers of Ezra and Nehemiah spanned the reigns of Artaxerxes Longimanus (464–424 B.C.) and Darius II (423–405 B.C.).

Return from Exile

The restoration of the Jewish exiles began under Cyrus (559–530 B.C.), who allowed them to return to Judah with the captured temple treasures. The temple was consecrated in 516 B.C. by official permission of Darius I (522–486).

Ezra won the approval of Artaxerxes I (465–424 B.C.) to return with additional exiles and to promote obedience to the law; Nehemiah, to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem.

Babylon and vicinity long retained a large and prosperous Jewish community, as clay tablets from the Murashu archives at Nippur testify.

Content The Books of Ezra and Nehemiah are one work in the Hebrew Bible, and should be studied together for a better understanding of the return of the Babylonian exiles to Jerusalem. The combined narrative presents the story of the exiles' return in two time periods, each marked by two prominent leaders: rebuilding the temple, under Zerubbabel and Joshua the priest (538–515 B.C.); and restoring the worship of God and rebuilding Jerusalem's walls, under Ezra and Nehemiah (458–420 B.C.).

Yet the Book of Ezra is not simply a string of historical facts about the returning exiles. Instead, the narrative shows how God fulfilled His promises announced by the prophets. He brought His people back from Babylon, rebuilt the temple at Jerusalem, restored the patterns of true worship, and even preserved the reassembled community from fresh relapses into heathen customs and idolatrous worship. Through the prophets and leaders He had called, the Lord had preserved and cultivated a small group of returning exiles, the remnant of Israel.

The extraordinary reality of God's promised restoration of His people (Jer. 27:22) is recorded in detail in the Book of Ezra. The remnant did not merely return to the devastated ruins of Jerusalem; they came back with a hope, placed in their hearts by God, to rebuild the nation. With godly determination, they rebuilt the temple. Then the Lord sent Ezra and Nehemiah to exhort them to obey His law wholeheartedly. While the people were rebuilding Jerusalem's walls, God was rebuilding their hearts so that they would truly obey and worship Him. The restoration of the remnant was a complete restoration. The message for Ezra's day—as well as for our own—is that the God of Israel is faithful to His promises. He will completely restore His people when they come back to Him.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Ezra reveals God's continued fulfillment of His promise to keep David's descendants alive. Zerubbabel, the grandson of Jeconiah, is part of Jesus' earthly genealogy (1 Chr. 3:17–19; Matt. 1:12, 13). It may seem insignificant that the remnant of David's extended family had to return to Jerusalem, but it isn't. The positive turn of events sets up the good fortune that will give way to the good news of Jesus. Without access to the original "land of promise," Jesus couldn't have been born in Bethlehem, which was a requirement for the Messiah (Mic. 5:2). As Ezra documents the return from Babylon, the soundtrack of forgiveness and restoration plays in the background. It is a melody line that will accompany the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus. It is music to God's ears to hear His people confess and repent (10:1).

End of the Babylonian Captivity

Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the LORD <sup>a</sup>by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, <sup>b</sup>so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and also put it in writing, saying, <sup>2</sup> Thus says Cyrus king of Persia: All the kingdoms of the earth the LORD God of heaven has given me. And He has <sup>c</sup>commanded me to build Him a <sup>1</sup>house at Jerusalem which is in Judah. <sup>3</sup>Who is among you of all His people? May his God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem which is in Judah, and build the house of the LORD God of Israel <sup>d</sup>(He is God), which is in Jerusalem. <sup>4</sup>And whoever is left in any place where he dwells, let the men of his place help him with silver and gold, with goods and livestock, besides the freewill offerings for the house of God which is in Jerusalem.

1:1 The first year of Cyrus is the first year of his rule over Babylon. in 539 B.C. Cyrus the great, founder of the greater Persian Empire, conquered Babylon without a struggle. He ruled as king of Persia from 559–530 B.C. the word of the LORD by . . . Jeremiah: Jeremiah had prophesied that the Babylonian captivity would last 70 years (see Jer. 25:11; 29:10), after which the Lord would judge Babylon (see Jer. 25:12–14). Cyrus's proclamation was probably shouted by heralds in the principal towns of the empire and posted in public. put it in writing: the proclamation was also preserved in the official records in Persia (6:1).

1:2 the LORD God of heaven: After the destruction of Jerusalem, god was no longer identified with the temple as the One who dwelt between the cherubim (see 1 sam. 4:4; 2 sam. 6:2). the Persians could understand that there was a particular "god of israel," but they would have recognized Him as simply one god among others. However, the phrase God of heaven indicates that the Lord is not just another god, but that only He is god. the fact that Cyrus used this title for the Lord suggests that He was prompted by Jewish advisors. He has commanded me to build Him a house at Jerusalem: Over one hundred years before Cyrus issued this decree, isaiah prophesied that the king would make such an order (see is. 44:28; 45:1).

1:3 He is God: it is likely that Cyrus was speaking as a polytheist who merely recognized that the God of Israel should be worshiped in Jerusalem.

1:4 let the men of his place help him: the assistance that the israelites were to receive from their non-Jewish neighbors in rebuilding the temple is reminiscent of the help an earlier generation received from the Egyptians before the Exodus (see Ex. 12:35, 36). in a sense, the return to Jerusalem to rebuild the temple was a second Exodus (see is. 43:14–21; 48:20, 21).

1:5 Moved here translates the same Hebrew word as stirred in v. 1. the verb means "to rouse" or "to stir up" (see is. 45:13; Hag. 1:14; Zech. 4:1).

1:6 All those who were around included non-Jewish neighbors (v. 3) as well as Jews who wanted to stay in Babylon.

1:7 King Cyrus also brought: the people who returned to Jerusalem were helped not only by their neighbors, but by the king himself. Cyrus ordered the return of the temple articles that had been taken by Nebuchadnezzar (see 2 Kin. 24:1–7, 11–13; 25:8–17; 2 Chr. 36:5–7, 9, 10, 13–19; Dan. 1:2).

1:8 Mithredath the treasurer: not the same as the Mithredath in 4:7. the name Sheshbazzar occurs only in two passages (vv. 8–11; 5:14–16), both related to official Persian actions. On the

Cyrus, King of Persia

Cyrus the great was the founder of the Persian Empire and the Achaemenid dynasty. More than a century before Cyrus was born, isaiah prophesied—and named Cyrus in his prophecy—that he would issue a decree allowing the israelites to return to their homeland from exile. Josephus, a first-century Jewish historian, would later assert that Cyrus was shown the prophecy of isaiah recorded in is. 44:28–45:1 and "an earnest desire and ambition seized upon [Cyrus] to fulfill what was written" (Antiquities 11.1). if this story is true, it is possible that Daniel was the one who showed Cyrus isaiah's prophecy (see Dan. 6:28; 9:1, 2; 10:1). Certainly Cyrus's decrees might have been part of a clever military strategy. At this point, he had not yet conquered Egypt. A strong settlement of loyal people between him and the Egyptians would have been wise. this was a novel political policy; for the first time in hundreds of years, a king permitted a subjected people to return to their homeland. But the important point is that god worked through this powerful ruler of the ancient world.

The Captives Who Returned to Jerusalem

2 Now <sup>a</sup>these are the people of the province who came back from the captivity, of those who had been carried away, <sup>b</sup>whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away to Babylon, and who returned to Jerusalem and Judah, everyone to his own city.

other hand, the name Zerubbabel is used in passages related to Jewish activity. Ezra 5:2, 16 appear to identify sheshbazzar and Zerubbabel. It is possible that sheshbazzar was a name by which Zerubbabel was known in Persian circles. There are two other possibilities: (1) some suggest that sheshbazzar died and his work was continued by Zerubbabel; (2) some suggest that sheshbazzar is another name for shenazzar (1 Chr. 3:18), an uncle of Zerubbabel. The prince of Judah means he was in the Davidic royal line. Zerubbabel was the grandson of King Jehoiakim. In 1 Chr. 3:17-19 he is called the son of Pedaiah instead of shealtiel. It may be that shealtiel died childless and his brother Pedaiah married his widow, following the custom of levirate marriage (see Deut. 25:5-10; 1 Chr. 3:18).

1:9-11 The separate items listed in vv. 9, 10 total 2,499. However, the total for all the articles given in v. 11 is 5,400. Probably vv. 9, 10 list only the larger and more important items that were transported back to Jerusalem.

2:1 The people of the province refers to the Jewish people of Judah (see 5:8; neh. 1:2, 3; 11:3). The use of this phrase probably indicates that the register of ch. 2 was compiled in Babylon. Nehemiah's list in neh. 7:4-73 would have been compiled after he arrived in Jerusalem, which could account for some of the differences between the two registers. His own city means the city where a person's family had lived.

2:2 The men listed in this verse were the leaders of the expedition. Jeshua was Joshua the high priest (see Hag. 1:1; Zech. 3:1). Nehemiah, listed as a leader here, was not the same man who rebuilt the wall of Jerusalem 90 years later. Mordecai was not the man of the same name who figures so prominently in the Book of Esther. Nehemiah gives a similar list (neh. 7:7), with some differences of spelling and an extra leader nahamani on the list. Those who returned to Jerusalem are called the people of Israel and not Judah, because all twelve tribes of Israel were represented.

2:3–20 These verses contain the names and numbers of the families who returned to Jerusalem. It may be that these were the people whose homes were in the city of Jerusalem itself.

2:21–35 These verses list the returnees according to their cities. Note that Jerusalem is not listed. Perhaps the registry dealt first with the inhabitants of Jerusalem (vv. 2–20) and then focused on those outside Jerusalem.

2:36–39 The total number of priests listed is 4,289. This was about ten percent of the returning remnant.

2:40 The Levites assisted the priests in the temple and in teaching the people the Law (see neh. 8:7–9). Compared to the number of priests who returned to Jerusalem (vv. 36–39), it is striking how few Levites were with them (other Levites are included in the special lists of vv. 41, 42). According to 1 Chr. 23:4, 24,000 Levites were involved in the worship of God during the time of David.

2:41 The singers were Levites who had the responsibility of praising God with music (see 1 Chr. 15:16). Though only 128 singers returned to Jerusalem, at one time there had been as many as four thousand people who "praised the LORD with musical instruments" in Solomon's temple (1 Chr. 23:5).

2:42 The gatekeepers, who were also Levites (see 1 Chr. 26:1–19), prevented unauthorized people from entering the restricted area of the temple. There were 139 gatekeepers in the return to Jerusalem under Zerubbabel; compare that figure to the four thousand gatekeepers who guarded the temple during the time of Solomon (see 1 Chr. 23:5).

2:43–50 Nethinim means "given Ones" or "Dedicated Ones." In 1 Chr. 9:2, the nethinim are distinguished from the priests and the Levites. Jewish tradition identifies the nethinim with the Gibeonites who had been assigned by Joshua to assist the Levites in more menial tasks (see Josh. 9:27).

2:55 The sons of Solomon's servants are linked with the nethinim (v. 43). The numbers of the two groups are totaled together (see v. 58; neh. 7:60). The sons of Solomon's servants were probably descendants of the inhabitants of Canaan at the time of Solomon—that is, descendants of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites whom Solomon had hired to build the temple (see 1 Kin. 5:13).

sons of Sotai, the sons of <sup>1</sup>Sophereth, the sons of <sup>5</sup>Peruda, <sup>56</sup>the sons of Jaala, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel, <sup>57</sup>the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth of Zebaim, and the sons of <sup>6</sup>Ami. <sup>58</sup>All the <sup>m</sup>Nethinim and the children of <sup>n</sup>Solomon's servants were three hundred and ninety-two.

2:59–63 Although these people could not prove their Jewish origin, they were permitted to return to Jerusalem. But without genealogies they were excluded from the priesthood, according to the Law of Moses (see n um. 16:1–40). The governor Zerubbabel was careful to follow the Law by declaring that the would-be priests should not eat of the most holy things, meaning that they should not participate in priestly functions. The Urim and Thummim were sacred lots that were used to determine god's will (see Ex. 28:30).

2:64 forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty: t he individual numbers listed in ch. 2 add up to only 29,818. it is possible that the larger total includes women, who are not named in the lists.

2:65 t he singers listed here were not the temple choir of v. 41. t hese were professional singers employed for banquets, feasts, and funerals (see 2 Chr. 35:25; Eccl. 2:7, 8). t heir presence could be an indication of luxury (see 2 sam. 19:35). it appears that many of the Jewish people had achieved some prosperity while living in Babylon. t he Jews had not been enslaved in exile; they had only been restricted from returning to their land.

2:66 t he large number of horses listed here also suggests affluence among those who returned to Jerusalem. Prior to this time, horses in israel had been used only for war and ceremonies. Only the very rich and well-armed owned horses. t he rich also rode mules, for they were scarce in israel.

2:67 t he beasts of burden were camels and donkeys. Camels were expensive; the poorer classes rode donkeys.

2:68 when they came to the house of the LORD: t he first thing that many of the returnees did when they reached Jerusalem was to contribute to the rebuilding of the temple. Offerings were brought even before the people settled in their houses (v. 70).

2:69 Ezra records the amount of gold, silver, and garments given for the rebuilding of the temple, as does nehemiah (see neh. 7:70–72). However, the two sets of figures do not match. Apparently Ezra's list rounds off the figures, while nehemiah's list presents them in more precise detail. it is also possible that the two lists give totals from different times of collection—perhaps in Babylon and then later in Jerusalem. Drachmas were Persian gold coins that weighed about two-tenths of an ounce, the weight of a quarter. Five thousand minas were about 6,300 pounds of silver.

3:1 The seventh month was sacred to the Jewish people. t he first day of the month was the Feast of trumpets (see n um. 29:1–6), the tenth day was the Day of Atonement (see n um. 29:7–11), and the fifteenth day was the Feast of tabernacles (see n um. 29:12–38). as one man: t he people had come with the common desire of worshiping god (v. 9).

3:2, 3 Jeshua was the same person as the priest Joshua (see Hag. 1:1; Zech. 3:1); his father's name Jozadak was also spelled Jehozadak (see 1 Chr. 6:14; Hag. 1:1).

3:4 in obedience to god's Word, the israelites observed the Feast of Tabernacles or Booths, which commemorated the earlier generation's wanderings in the wilderness (see n um. 29:13–38).

Zerubbabel's Temple

Construction of the second temple was started in 536 B.C. on the solomonic foundations leveled a half-century earlier by the Babylonians. People who remembered the earlier temple wept at the comparison (Ezra 3:12). Not until 516 B.C., the 6th year of the Persian emperor Darius I (522–486), was the temple finally completed at the urging of Haggai and Zechariah (Ezra 6:13–15).

Archaeological evidence confirms that the Persian period in the Holy Land was a comparatively impoverished one in terms of material culture. Later Aramaic documents from Elephantine in Upper Egypt illustrate the official process of gaining permission to construct a Jewish place of worship and the opposition engendered by such a project.

Of the temple and its construction, little is known. Consequently, all art reconstructions of it are tentative. Among the few contemporary buildings, the Persian palace at Lachish and the Tobiad monument at Iraq al-Amir may be compared in terms of technique.

Unlike the more famous structures razed in 586 B.C. and A.D. 70, the temple begun by Zerubbabel suffered no major hostile destruction, but was gradually repaired and reconstructed over a long period of time. Eventually it was replaced entirely by Herod's magnificent edifice.

LORD. <sup>6</sup>From the first day of the seventh month they began to offer burnt offerings to the LORD, although the foundation of the temple of the LORD had not been laid. <sup>7</sup>They also gave money to the masons and the carpenters, and <sup>h</sup>food, drink, and oil to the people of Sidon and Tyre to bring cedar logs from Lebanon to the sea, to <sup>l</sup>Joppa, <sup>m</sup>according to the permission which they had from Cyrus king of Persia.

3:7 When Solomon built the first temple, he purchased materials from Sidon and Tyre, had them shipped to Joppa, and paid for them with grain, wine, and oil (see 2 Chr. 2:10–16).

3:8 The construction of Solomon's temple had begun in the second month of the year (see 1 Kin. 6:1). Likewise, construction of the second temple began in the second month. from twenty years old and above: The Law had required that Levites be at least 30 years old before they entered into service (Num. 4:1–3). Later, the minimum age was reduced to 25 (see Num. 8:24). Finally, David lowered the minimum age to 20 (see 1 Chr. 23:24, 27). The lower minimum age allowed more Levites to enter into temple service. The provision was vital in view of the small number of Levites who made the trip back to Jerusalem (2:40).

3:10, 11 The returnees to Jerusalem celebrated laying the temple's foundation in almost the same way that the previous generation had celebrated the first temple (see 2 Chr. 5:13). Two choruses were sung responsively. One group sang For He is good; the other group responded with For His mercy endures forever (see Neh. 12:31).

dation of the temple of the LORD, <sup>p</sup>the <sup>6</sup>priests stood in their apparel with trumpets, and the Levites, the sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise the LORD, according to the <sup>q</sup>ordinance<sup>7</sup> of David king of Israel. <sup>11</sup>r And they sang responsively, praising and giving thanks to the LORD:

Israel.”

Then all the people shouted with a great shout, when they praised the LORD, because the foundation of the house of the LORD was laid.

<sup>12</sup>But many of the priests and Levites and <sup>u</sup>heads of the fathers’ houses, old men who had seen the first temple, wept with a loud voice when the foundation of this temple was laid before their eyes. Yet many shouted aloud for joy, <sup>13</sup>so that the people could not discern the noise of the shout of joy from the noise of the weeping of the people, for the people shouted with a loud shout, and the sound was heard afar off.

Resistance to Rebuilding the Temple

A Now when <sup>a</sup>the <sup>1</sup>adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the descendants of the captivity were building the temple of the LORD God of Israel, <sup>2</sup>they came to Zerubbabel and the heads of the fathers’ houses, and said to them, “Let us build with you, for we seek your God as you do; and we have sacrificed to Him <sup>b</sup>since the days of Esarhaddon king of Assyria, who brought us here.” <sup>3</sup>But Zerubbabel and Jeshua and the rest of the heads of the fathers’ houses of Israel said to them, <sup>e</sup>“You may do nothing with us to build a <sup>2</sup>house for our God; but we alone will build to the LORD God of Israel, as <sup>d</sup>King Cyrus the king of Persia has commanded us.” <sup>4</sup>Then <sup>e</sup>the people of the land tried to discourage the people of Judah. They troubled them in building, <sup>5</sup>and hired counselors against them to frustrate their purpose all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, even until the reign of <sup>f</sup>Darius king of Persia.

Rebuilding of Jerusalem Opposed

<sup>6</sup>In the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign, they wrote an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

3:12 solomon’s temple had been destroyed in 586 B.C., and this scene took place 50 years later. t he old men could remember the grandeur of the first temple, and they wept.

4:1 The adversaries of Judah were the samaritans. Esarhaddon (v. 2), who ruled Assyria from 681–669 B.C., had transported the conquered people of the northern kingdom to other lands. He then brought people from other lands into Palestine. t hese foreigners intermarried with the Hebrews who were left in the land. t heir offspring became the samaritans. Judah and Benjamin: t he southern kingdom of Judah is called the nation of Judah and simeon. t he southern kingdom also included land from Benjamin, in which Jerusalem was located.

4:2 we seek your God as you do: t he samaritans did not use the proper name for god—that is, Yahweh—perhaps suggesting that their understanding of the Lord was still quite poor. As a result, they presented the threat of syncretism, or mixing true worship of god with the worship of false gods. t his was the sin that had led to the deportation of the israelites in the first place.

4:3 You may do nothing with us is not a rude rebuff; it is a righteous refusal. t he people offering help were not friends, but adversaries (v. 1). t hey may have sacrificed to the Lord, but they were idolatrous at the same time (see 2 Kin. 17:29–35).

4:4, 5 The people of the land is another way of referring to the samaritans, who became active enemies of israel’s rebuilding program for the next several years. t he samaritans troubled the Jewish people, perhaps with threats and attempts to cut off their supplies. t he samaritans then hired counselors, or lawyers, probably to represent them against the Jewish community at the Persian court. t he samaritans persisted in these attacks until the reign of Darius as much as 14 years later.

4:6 When Darius died (486 B.C.), his son Ahasuerus reigned (485–465 B.C.). Ahasuerus’s greek name was Xerxes. He is the same king who appears in the Book of Esther. At the beginning of his reign, the samaritans wrote him a letter hoping to stop the Jews from completing work on the temple. Apparently nothing was accomplished by the letter.

4:7 Artaxerxes Longimanus (464–424 B.C.) succeeded his father Xerxes. He too received a letter from the samaritans against the Jews (v. 6). t he letter was written in Aramaic script, and translated, or read aloud in Aramaic. Like the samaritans’ letter to Ahasuerus, this letter evidently was ignored.

4:9, 10 t he point of these two verses is that the samaritan letter reflected the views of the whole province. t he beginning of the letter, filled with rhetoric and flourish, was designed to bring political pressure on the Persian king. Osnapper was probably another name for Ashurbanipal, the king of Assyria (669–626 B.C.) who completed the transplanting begun by Esarhaddon (v. 2). The River is the Euphrates.

To King Artaxerxes from your servants, the men of the region beyond the River, <sup>9</sup> and so forth:

<sup>12</sup> Let it be known to the king that the Jews who came up from you have come to us at Jerusalem, and are building the <sup>1</sup>rebellious and evil city, and are finishing its <sup>m</sup>walls and repairing the foundations. <sup>13</sup> Let it now be known to the king that, if this city is built and the walls completed, they will not pay <sup>n</sup>tax, tribute, or custom, and the king's treasury will be diminished. <sup>14</sup> Now because we receive support from the palace, it was not proper for us to see the king's dishonor; therefore we have sent and informed the king, <sup>15</sup> that search may be made in the book of the records of your fathers. And you will find in the book of the records and know that this city is a rebellious city, harmful to kings and provinces, and that they have incited sedition within the city in former times, for which cause this city was destroyed.

<sup>16</sup> We inform the king that if this city is rebuilt and its walls are completed, the result will be that you will have no dominion beyond the River.

and to the remainder beyond the River:

Peace, <sup>1</sup> and so forth.

<sup>18</sup> The letter which you sent to us has been clearly read before me. <sup>19</sup> And <sup>2</sup> I gave the command, and a search has been made, and it was found that this city in former times has revolted against kings, and rebellion and sedition have been fostered in it. <sup>20</sup> There have also been mighty kings over Jerusalem, who have <sup>o</sup> ruled over all the region <sup>p</sup> beyond the River; and tax, tribute, and custom were paid to them. <sup>21</sup> Now <sup>3</sup> give the command to make these men cease, that this city may not be built until the command is given by me.

<sup>22</sup> Take heed now that you do not fail to do this. Why should damage increase to the hurt of the kings?

<sup>23</sup> Now when the copy of King Artaxerxes' letter was read before Rehum, Shimshai the scribe, and their companions, they went up in haste to Jerusalem against the Jews, and by force of arms made them cease. <sup>24</sup> Thus the work of the house of God which is at Jerusalem ceased, and it was discontinued until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

Restoration of the Temple Resumed

5 Then the prophet <sup>a</sup> Haggai and <sup>b</sup> Zechariah the son of Iddo, prophets, prophesied to the Jews who were in Judah and Jerusalem, in the name of the God

4:11 Your servants is a technical term for vassals. By including this term in the introduction of the letter, the men were assuring the king of their allegiance and were reporting the rebellion of the Jewish people. And so forth may mean "and now" (v. 10).

4:12 the rebellious and evil city: the rebellion to which the samaritans referred was the long period of siege the armies of Babylon were compelled to undertake against israel. finishing its walls: the Jews perhaps had begun construction on the walls but were nowhere near completing them. they were not finished until many years later (see neh. 6).

4:14, 15 the samaritans suggested that the king search his official records to see if Jerusalem had been destroyed in the past because of rebellion. indeed it had. nebuchadnezzar had conquered Jerusalem years before because it had rebelled against him.

4:16 the samaritan letter concluded with a warning that if the king did not stop the Jews, he would lose not only income, but also dominion over Jerusalem and the region beyond the Euphrates River.

4:17 in this context, the word peace is used of the treaty relationship that existed between the king and his vassals (5:7).

4:19 A search of the king's official records confirmed the samaritans' allegation of rebellion and sedition on the part of the people of Jerusalem, no doubt referring to the revolts under Jehoiakim, Jehoiachin, and Zedekiah (see 2 Kin. 24:1–20). the fact that these revolts were against the Babylonians and not against the Persians was not important. the Persians had become the heirs of the Babylonian Empire, and they would take such a report seriously.

4:20 the Persian king also found out that Jewish kings had ruled over a large region. David and solomon had both possessed a great sphere of rule. subsequent kings had aspired to the former glory of David and solomon.

4:21, 22 the Persian king Artaxerxes ordered the Jewish people to cease their work on the temple. However, he left open the possibility of a future change in policy. Years later at the request of nehemiah the decision was reviewed (see neh. 2:1–8).

4:23 By force may suggest that the enforcers of the king's edict demolished the part of the wall that had been repaired. this would have been part of the rubble that nehemiah discovered when he arrived in Jerusalem (see neh. 2:12–16).

5:1 Haggai, who wrote the Ot book that bears his name, began his ministry in August, 520 B.C. (see Hag. 1:1). Zechariah, the prophet who also wrote an Ot book, began his prophetic ministry in October or november of the same year (see Zech. 1:1). the Jews had been forced to stop working on the temple (4:24). now years later, god revived His work. He instructed His prophets to prophesy, and He expected His people to respond in faith and action. the phrase who was over them is a reminder of the sovereignty of god. no king other than the Lord Himself commanded His people.

of Israel, who was over them. <sup>2</sup>So <sup>c</sup>Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel and Jeshua the son of <sup>1</sup>Jozadak rose up and began to build the house of God which is in Jerusalem; and <sup>d</sup>the prophets of God were with them, helping them.

The governor of the region beyond the River, and Shethar-Boznai, <sup>j</sup>and his companions, the Persians who were in the region beyond the River, to Darius the king.

<sup>7</sup>(They sent a letter to him, in which was written thus)

<sup>8</sup> Let it be known to the king that we went into the province of Judea, to the <sup>4</sup>temple of the great God, which is being built with <sup>5</sup>heavy stones, and timber is being laid in the walls; and this work goes on diligently and prospers in their hands.

<sup>9</sup> Then we asked those elders, and spoke thus to them: <sup>k</sup>“Who commanded you to build this temple and to finish these walls?” <sup>10</sup>We also asked them their names to inform you, that we might write the names of the men who were chief among them.

5:2 Zerubbabel the civil governor and Jeshua (also known as Joshua) the high priest led the people once again in rebuilding the temple. t he prophets Haggai and Zechariah joined in this call to action.

5:3 When the temple rebuilding resumed, resistance renewed. Tattenai was a regional governor. since there were only 20 regional governors called satraps in the Persian Empire (8:36), it may be assumed that tattenai was a very powerful man. Zerubbabel, as governor of the small district of Judah, was under the authority of tattenai (1:8). t he position of Shethar-Boznai is not described, but he was probably an aide or a secretary to tattenai. t he regional governor and his staff personally visited Jerusalem.

5:4 t he official delegation of tattenai asked who had commanded the work on the temple to be done (v. 3). t he answer in this verse gives the names of the men who were constructing the temple, but not the name of the one who commanded the work to be done.

5:5 The eye of their God is a way of speaking of the sovereignty and providence of god (v. 1): god was protecting and watching over those who obeyed His command. t he governor decided that he would not stop the work on the temple until an answer was returned from the king. in other words, tattenai checked out the Jewish leaders' version of what was taking place.

5:6 The governor sent his inquiring letter to King Darius (who ruled from 521–486 B.C.). t he fact that tattenai contacted the emperor shows that despite his own considerable power, he still had to proceed under the process of Persian custom and law.

5:7, 8 The walls described in tattenai's letter were the walls of the temple, not the walls of the city. Timber was used for the beams of the temple floor and roof. Most of the temple construction was done with massive stones, but beams and slats were also used.

5:11 in his report to Darius, tattenai indicated that he had learned a great deal from the Jews about their history and destiny, including a reference to a great king, that is, Solomon.

5:12 though the Jewish people acknowledged that Nebuchadnezzar destroyed the first temple, they traced the cause not to his power, but to their sin and ultimately to god's judgment. tattenai's use of the title God of heaven is perhaps an unwitting acknowledgment of the reality and sovereignty of god.

5:13–16 t his portion of tattenai's letter to King Cyrus describes the events that led to the official Persian decree to rebuild the temple (1:1–4). *n*ote that the delay described in ch. 4 is not mentioned here. Sheshbazzar may have been the Persian name for Zerubbabel. Alternatively he may have been the Jewish prince who was first appointed to lead the temple rebuilding efforts, but who did not survive and was replaced by Zerubbabel (see 1:8).

Jews

t he name Jew is popularly associated with the verb yadah (meaning “to praise” or “to give thanks”) on the basis of Jacob's blessing upon his son Judah in gen. 49:8: “Judah, you are he whom your brothers shall praise.” t thus a Jew may be a person from the tribe of Judah (*n*um. 10:14). Later the name Jew was applied directly to those israelites living in the geographical region known as Judah (see Jer. 7:30). t he use of the name Jew for the israelites as a people group became prominent during the postexilic period. t his use is found in the *n*t as well: Jesus is called “King of the Jews” (Matt. 27:29). in his letter to the *r*omans, Paul states that the true Jew is a person marked by “circumcision . . . of the heart” (*r*om. 2:28, 29).

in Jerusalem and carried into the temple of Babylon—those King Cyrus took from the temple of Babylon, and they were given to <sup>r</sup>one named Sheshbazzar, whom he had made governor. <sup>15</sup> And he said to him, “Take these articles; go, carry them to the temple site that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be rebuilt on its former site.” <sup>16</sup> Then the same Sheshbazzar came and <sup>s</sup>laid the foundation of the house of God which is in Jerusalem; but from that time even until now it has been under construction, and <sup>t</sup>it is not finished.”

<sup>17</sup> Now therefore, if it seems good to the king, <sup>u</sup>let a search be made in the king’s treasure house, which is there in Babylon, whether it is so that a decree was issued by King Cyrus to build this house of God at Jerusalem, and let the king send us his pleasure concerning this matter.

The Decree of Darius

Nebuchadnezzar took from the temple which is in Jerusalem and brought to Babylon, be restored and taken back to the temple which is in Jerusalem, each to its place; and deposit them in the house of God<sup>29</sup>—

<sup>6</sup> Now therefore, Tattenai, governor of the region beyond the River, and Shethar-Boznai, and your companions the Persians who are beyond the River, keep yourselves far from there. <sup>7</sup>Let the work of this house of God alone; let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews build this house of God on its site.

<sup>8</sup> Moreover I issue a decree as to what you shall do for the elders of these Jews, for the building of this <sup>3</sup>house of God: Let the cost be paid at the king’s expense from taxes on the region beyond the River; this is to be given immediately to these men, so that they are not hindered. <sup>9</sup>And whatever they need—young bulls, rams, and lambs for the burnt offerings of the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the request of the priests who are in Jerusalem—let it be given them day by day without fail, <sup>10h</sup>that they may offer sacrifices of sweet aroma to the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king and his sons.

5:17 Apparently the king’s treasure house contained the official records as well as the treasury. tattenai’s request to find the original decree issued by King Cyrus delayed the rebuilding. t he trip from Jerusalem to Babylon (7:9) took eight months. t he search for official documents also took time. t he entire process could have taken as long as a year.

6:1, 2 At the suggestion of tattenai and his aides (5:17), King Darius ordered his staff to search the official records in the archives, or “house of the books,” to see whether Cyrus had authorized the rebuilding of the temple at Jerusalem. Apparently nothing was found in Babylon, and the search moved on to Achmetha, the summer residence of the Persian kings.

6:3–5 King Darius began his reply to tattenai by quoting from the decree of King Cyrus. Cyrus’s public proclamation can be found in 1:2–4. its height sixty cubits and its width sixty cubits: t hough the complete dimensions are not given, it is likely that the second temple was built on the foundation stones that were still in place from the time of solomon (see 1 Kin. 6:2). t he three rows of heavy stones and one row of new timber describes the construction of the wall of the inner court (see 1 Kin. 6:36). t he heavy stones that had aroused tattenai’s suspicion (5:8) were expressly authorized.

6:6, 7 therefore: Based on the discovery of the decrees of Cyrus, King Darius issued an order of his own. He concluded that what the Jewish people were doing was legal and that the regional government should stop opposing them.

6:8–10 Moreover: King Darius endorsed Cyrus’ order and added his own decree. taxes on the region beyond the River: n ot only could tattenai not stop reconstruction of the temple, he also had to fund its completion.

6:11, 12 Also I issue a decree: t o ensure obedience, Darius decreed that violation of his order would be punished by death. Hanged does not mean hanged by the neck from a rope. it refers to impaling the dead body of the condemned on a pole as a public display and a grim warning to others.

The Temple Completed and Dedicated

day of the first month. <sup>20</sup>For the priests and the Levites had <sup>u</sup>purified themselves; all of them were ritually clean. And they <sup>v</sup>slaughtered the Passover lambs for all the descendants of the captivity, for their brethren the priests, and for themselves. <sup>21</sup>Then the children of Israel who had returned from the captivity ate together with all who had separated themselves from the <sup>w</sup>filth<sup>8</sup> of the nations of the land in order to seek the LORD God of Israel. <sup>22</sup>And they kept the <sup>x</sup>Feast of Unleavened Bread seven days with joy; for the LORD made them joyful, and <sup>y</sup>turned the heart <sup>z</sup>of the king of Assyria toward them, to strengthen their hands in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

The Arrival of Ezra

6:13 tattenai diligently carried out the king's orders. t here is no indication that tattenai mistreated the Jews in any way.

6:14 and they prospered: g od blessed the people because they listened to the prophets and the preaching of the Word of god. Artaxerxes (464–424 B.C.) did assist the rebuilding of the temple, although it was completed years before Artaxerxes came to power. Artaxerxes contributed to the welfare of the temple by issuing a decree regarding its maintenance (7:15, 21).

6:15 t he temple was completed in 515 B.C. in Adar, the month of February–March.

6:16 celebrated . . . with joy: some people have suggested that Ps. 145–148 was used to celebrate the completion of the rebuilding of the temple.

6:17 As was the case with the dedication of the first temple, this dedication was celebrated with an abundance of sacrifices. Although there were more than 200 times as many sheep and oxen offered in solomon's dedication (see 1 Kin. 8:63), it should be noted there were more people—and more wealthy people—participating in solomon's dedication.

6:18 t he Law laid down the duties of the priests and Levites (see n um. 18). Later the divisions of priests and Levites were instituted by David.

6:19 t his celebration of the Passover must have been exceptionally memorable; it was the first time since the captivity that the people were able to celebrate according to the Law—with sacrifices offered in the temple (v. 20).

6:20 The priests and the Levites . . . purified themselves so that they could perform the duties of their office. t he Levites slaughtered the Passover lambs for themselves and others. Originally the Passover lamb was killed by the head of each household (see Ex. 12:6). in the days of Hezekiah, the Levites killed the Passover lambs t he people for everyone who was not clean (see 2 Chr. 30:17). in the days of Josiah, the Levites killed all of the Passover lambs for everyone (see 2 Chr. 35:10–14). t hus the observance of Passover was slightly modified over the years, though it was still observed on the original day (compare Ex. 12:6 with 6:19).

6:21 The nations of the land evidently refers to the people who had been transplanted into Palestine by the Assyrians (4:4). t hose who had separated themselves were israelites who had remained in the land during the captivity. t he filth from which they separated themselves was the idolatry practiced by the pagans and perhaps their intermarriages with foreigners.

6:22 The Feast of Unleavened Bread immediately followed the Feast of Passover. The king of Assyria is a reference to Darius. Even though he was actually the king of Persia, Darius could be called the king of Assyria because he was the ruler of the former realm of Assyria. t he title God of Israel was probably effective in helping the Jewish people recapture a sense of their true heritage and rekindle their true hope.

7:1–5 after these things: t he events of ch. 6 took place during the reign of King Darius; more specifically the temple was completed and dedicated in 515 B.C. Chapter 7 jumps forward many years to the reign of Artaxerxes (464–424 B.C.), for Ezra returned around 458 B.C. t hus between chs. 6 and 7 there is a gap of approximately 60 years. During this period, the events of the Book of Esther took place. Ezra, the leader of the second return to Jerusalem, is introduced with a long genealogy, demonstrating that he was from a priestly family—the family of Aaron. Seraiah saw the fall of Jerusalem (see 2 Kin. 25:18), and his son Jehozadak went into exile (see 1 Chr. 6:15). t he phrase son of Seraiah indicates Ezra's line of descent rather than the name of his father.

7:6 Ezra was not only from a priestly family, he was also a skilled scribe—one who copied and studied the Law. After the Exile, the office of scribe came into prominence, in some ways replacing the his request, <sup>f</sup>according to the hand of the LORD his God upon him. <sup>7g</sup>Some of the children of Israel, the priests, <sup>h</sup>the Levites, the singers, the gatekeepers, and <sup>i</sup>the Nethinim came up to Jerusalem in the seventh year of King Artaxerxes. <sup>8</sup>And Ezra came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was in the seventh year of the king. <sup>9</sup>On the first day of the first month he began his journey from Babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month he came to Jerusalem, <sup>j</sup>according to the good hand of his God upon him. <sup>10</sup>For Ezra had prepared his heart to <sup>k</sup>seek <sup>l</sup>the Law of the LORD, and to do it, and to <sup>l</sup>teach statutes and ordinances in Israel.

<sup>13</sup>I issue a decree that all those of the people of Israel and the priests and Levites in my realm, who volunteer to go up to Jerusalem, may go with you. <sup>14</sup>And whereas you are being sent <sup>4b</sup>by the king and his <sup>o</sup>seven counselors to inquire concerning Judah and Jerusalem, with regard to the Law of your God which is in your hand; <sup>15</sup>and whereas you are to carry the silver and gold which the king and his counselors have freely offered to the God of Israel, <sup>p</sup>whose dwelling is in Jerusalem; <sup>16q</sup>and whereas all the silver and gold that you may find in all the province of Babylon, along with the freewill offering of the people and the priests, are to be <sup>r</sup>freely offered for the <sup>5</sup>house of their God in Jerusalem— <sup>17</sup>now therefore, be careful to buy with this money bulls, rams, and lambs, with their <sup>s</sup>grain offerings and their drink offerings, and <sup>t</sup>offer them on the altar of the house of your God in Jerusalem.

<sup>18</sup>And whatever seems good to you and your brethren to do with the rest of the silver and the gold, do it according to the will of your God. <sup>19</sup>Also the articles that are given to you for the prophet in importance, and eventually eclipsing even the role of the priest. The Law of Moses actually refers to god's law. Moses may have been the person most closely associated with the Law, but it was the Law that the LORD God of Israel had given. t he latter is by far the more significant designation (see John 1:17). t he phrase according to the hand of the LORD his God upon him is used repeatedly throughout this chapter and the next one (7:9, 28; 8:18, 22, 31; neh. 2:8, 18). t he phrase depicts god's grace working on Ezra's behalf.

7:8, 9 The first month is March–April; the fifth month is July–August. t he route traveled by Ezra was dangerous because a rebellion had broken out in Egypt and spring was the time when ancient armies began their campaigns.

7:10 t hroughout his life, Ezra had concentrated fully on the study, practice, and communication of the Word of god. Heart indicates the whole of one's being. Ezra diligently searched the scriptures so that he could live by them and teach them to israel. Because of this, the gracious hand of god empowered him (v. 9).

7:11 the priest, the scribe, expert: t hese words describe Ezra with exceptional praise. Ezra is referred to as “the scribe's scribe” or the teacher of scribes.

7:12 Ancient Middle Eastern monarchs commonly took self-aggrandizing titles such as king of kings (see Ezek. 26:7; Dan. 2:37). t he Persian kings were literally kings over many kings because the Persian Empire included many conquered kingdoms. Perfect peace describes a treaty relationship between the Persian emperor and the vassal state of Judah.

7:15, 16 t hree sources of offerings for the temple are listed: (1) the silver and gold of the king and his counselors, (2) the silver and gold of the people of Babylon, and (3) the freewill offering of the Jewish people who remained in Babylon. n ote that god accepts the gifts of those who do not know Him, as well as the gifts of those who know and serve Him in truth. t he only gifts god rejects are those given by people who appear to know Him but whose hearts are far from Him (see is. 1:10–15). t he dwelling of god in Jerusalem is a reference to the temple.

Heads of Families Who Returned with Ezra

8 These are the heads of their fathers' <sup>8</sup> houses, and this is the genealogy of those who went up with me from Babylon, in the reign of King Artaxerxes: <sup>2</sup> of the sons of Phinehas, Gershom; of the sons of Ithamar, Daniel; of the sons of David, <sup>a</sup> Hattush; <sup>3</sup> of the sons of Shechaniah, of the sons of <sup>b</sup> Parosh, Zechariah; and registered with him were one hundred and fifty males; <sup>4</sup> of the sons of <sup>c</sup> Pahath-Moab, Eliehoenai the son of Zerariah, and with him two hundred males; <sup>5</sup> of <sup>1</sup> the sons of Shechaniah, Ben-Jahaziel, and with him three hundred males; <sup>6</sup> of the sons of Adin, Ebed the son of Jonathan, and with him fifty males; <sup>7</sup> of the sons of Elam, Jeshaiiah the son of Athaliah, and with him seventy males; <sup>8</sup> of the sons of Shephatiah, Zebadiah the son of Michael, and with him eighty males; <sup>9</sup> of the sons of Joab, Obadiah the son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen males; <sup>10</sup> of <sup>2</sup> the sons of Shelomith, Ben-Josiphiah, and with him one hundred and sixty males; <sup>11</sup> of the sons of <sup>d</sup> Bebai, Zechariah the son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight males; <sup>12</sup> of the sons of Azgad, Johanan <sup>3</sup> the son of Hakkatan, and with him one hundred and ten males; <sup>13</sup> of the last sons of Adonikam, whose names are these—Eliphelet, Jeiel, and Shemaiah—and with them sixty males; <sup>14</sup> also of the sons of Bigvai, Uthai and <sup>4</sup> Zabbud, and with them seventy males.

Servants for the Temple

7:20 And whatever more may be needed: Ezra had what amounted to a royal blank check.

7:21–23 t he decree of Artaxerxes included an order to the provincial treasurers to allow Ezra to claim extra supplies from them. However, there were limits on the supplies. Ezra could take no more than one hundred talents of silver (nearly four tons), one hundred kors of wheat (about 625 bushels), and one hundred baths each of wine and oil (about 600 gallons each).

7:24 All temple officials were exempt from every form of tax. Artaxerxes, like Cyrus (1:2–4) and Darius (6:1–10) before him, wanted to win the goodwill and avoid the wrath of the gods that were worshiped throughout the empire.

7:25, 26 Ezra was given authority to set up a judicial system with the power to punish. Although the magistrates and judges had authority over only Jewish people, their authority extended beyond Jerusalem to syria, Phoenicia, and Palestine. Ezra later used his authority to punish sin in the community (10:8).

7:27, 28 To beautify the house of the LORD is a reference to the reestablishment of moral, spiritual, and religious life. I was encouraged: With renewed vigor, Ezra gathered leading men of Israel to return to Jerusalem with him.

8:1 These are the heads of their fathers' houses: t he list of people who returned to Jerusalem recalls the list of the men for war at the time of the anticipated conquest of the land of Canaan (see n um. 1; 26).

8:2–14 in this list, 12 families are represented by their chiefs and the number of males in each family is given. t he total number of the heads of families who accompanied Ezra back to Jerusalem was 1,496.

8:15 Ezra discovered that there were no sons of Levi among the there three days. And I looked among the people and the priests, and found none of the <sup>e</sup>sons of Levi there. <sup>16</sup>Then I sent for Eliezer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and <sup>f</sup>Meshullam, leaders; also for Joarib and Elnathan, men of understanding. <sup>17</sup>And I gave them a command for Iddo the chief man at the place Casiphia, and <sup>5</sup>I told them what they should say <sup>6</sup>to Iddo and his brethren the Nethinim at the place Casiphia—that they should bring us servants for the house of our God. <sup>18</sup>Then, by the good hand of our God upon us, they <sup>8</sup>brought us a man of understanding, of the sons of Mahli the son of Levi, the son of Israel, namely Sherebiah, with his sons and brothers, eighteen men; <sup>19</sup>and <sup>h</sup>Hashabiah, and with him Jeshaiiah of the sons of Merari, his brothers and their sons, twenty men; <sup>20</sup><sup>i</sup>also of the Nethinim, whom David and the leaders had appointed for the service of the Levites, two hundred and twenty Nethinim. All of them were designated by name.

Fasting and Prayer for Protection

our God for this, and He <sup>r</sup>answered our prayer.

Gifts for the Temple

<sup>24</sup>And I separated twelve of the leaders of the priests—Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their brethren with them—<sup>25</sup>and weighed out to them <sup>s</sup>the silver, the gold, and the articles, the offering for the house of our God which the king and his counselors and his princes, and all Israel who were present, had offered. <sup>26</sup>I weighed into their hand six hundred and fifty talents of silver, silver articles weighing one hundred talents, one hundred talents of gold, <sup>27</sup>twenty gold basins worth a thousand drachmas, and two vessels of fine polished bronze, precious as gold. <sup>28</sup>And I said to them, “You are <sup>1</sup>holy <sup>7</sup>to the LORD; the articles are <sup>u</sup>holy also; and the silver and the gold are a freewill offering to the LORD God of your fathers. <sup>29</sup>Watch and keep them until you weigh them before the leaders of the priests and the Levites and <sup>v</sup>heads of the fathers’ houses of Israel in Jerusalem, in the chambers of the house of the LORD.” <sup>30</sup>So the priests and the Levites received the silver and the gold and the articles by weight, to bring them to Jerusalem to the house of our God.

The Return to Jerusalem

returnees who accompanied him back to Jerusalem. Zerubbabel had faced a similar problem. Over four thousand priests returned with him to Jerusalem, but only 74 Levites were among the returnees (2:36–42).

8:17 t the location and significance of Casiphia is uncertain. it has been suggested that this is Ctesipon on the Tigris river, near modern Baghdad. t he Hebrew word for the place, a synonym for the holy place (see Deut. 12:5), may mean that there was a Jewish sanctuary or temple in Casiphia.

8:21 On the road to Jerusalem, the large Jewish caravan would have been an easy target for robbers. Knowing that the returnees needed the Lord’s help, Ezra proclaimed a fast as a symbol of their submission to god.

8:22 to persuade the king to let him return to Jerusalem, Ezra had told him about the power and wrath of god. so when Ezra received the king’s permission to return, he was ashamed to ask for an armed escort. Later nehemiah would accept a military escort for his return to Jerusalem (see n eh. 2:7–9).

8:24–30 Before the returnees departed, Ezra entrusted the load of valuables to 12 people. Although v. 24 reads as though Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and their brethren were priests, v. 18 indicates that they were Levites. Verse 30 confirms that the treasure was entrusted to priests and Levites. Ezra followed the Law, which taught that the priests were to handle the sacred objects and the Levites were to carry them (see num. 3:8, 31, 45). the silver, the gold, and the articles: One talent was about 75 pounds (7:22). t he 650 talents of silver weighed nearly 25 tons. t he one hundred talents of gold weighed over three tons. t hese figures do not include the numerous other valuable objects of exquisite artistry.

8:31 According to 7:9, the returnees began their journey on the first day of the first month. According to v. 15, the returnees camped at the river for three days. Yet this verse speaks of the departure on the twelfth day of the first month. t hese time discrepancies may be explained as follows: t he people began to assemble at the river on the first day of the first month. During the course of the first three days, Ezra discovered that there were no Levites among the travelers. During the next eight days, Ezra enlisted Levites (vv. 15–20), entreated the Lord (vv. 21–23), and entrusted the travelers’ considerable load to the priests and Levites (vv. 24–30). t he returnees then departed from the river on the twelfth day of the first month, so from their point of view, the journey to Jerusalem began on the first day of the first month, when the people left their homes in Babylon. t he group departed from the river on the twelfth day of the first month. 8:32 t he returnees arrived in Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month (7:9). t he trip took about three and a half months (compare 7:9 with 8:31).

<sup>33</sup>Now on the fourth day the silver and the gold and the articles were <sup>a</sup>weighed in the house of our God by the hand of Meremoth the son of Uriah the priest, and with him was Eleazar the son of Phinehas; with them were the Levites, <sup>2</sup>Jozabab the son of Jeshua and Noadiah the son of Binnui, <sup>34</sup>with the number and weight of everything. All the weight was written down at that time.

<sup>35</sup>The children of those who had been <sup>a</sup>carried away captive, who had come from the captivity, <sup>b</sup>offered burnt offerings to the God of Israel: twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and twelve male goats <sup>a</sup>as a sin offering. All this was a burnt offering to the LORD.

<sup>36</sup>And they delivered the king's <sup>c</sup>orders to the king's satraps and the governors in the region beyond <sup>8</sup>the River. So they gave support to the people and the <sup>9</sup>house of God.

Intermarriage with Pagans

9 When these things were done, the leaders came to me, saying, “The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not <sup>a</sup>separated themselves from the peoples of the lands, <sup>b</sup>with respect to the abominations of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Periz-ites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites. <sup>2</sup>For they have <sup>c</sup>taken some of their daughters as wives for themselves and their sons, so that the <sup>d</sup>holy seed is <sup>e</sup>mixed with the peoples of those lands. Indeed, the hand of the leaders and rulers has been foremost in this <sup>f</sup>trespass.” <sup>3</sup>So when I heard this thing, <sup>f</sup>I tore my garment and my robe, and plucked out some of the hair of my head and beard, and sat down <sup>g</sup>astonished. <sup>4</sup>Then everyone who <sup>h</sup>trembled at the words of the God of Israel assembled to me, because of the transgression of those who had been carried away captive, and I sat astonished until the <sup>i</sup>evening sacrifice.

<sup>5</sup>At the evening sacrifice I arose from my fasting; and having torn my garment and my robe, I fell on my knees and <sup>j</sup>spread out my hands to the LORD my God. <sup>6</sup>And I said: “O my God, I am too <sup>k</sup>ashamed and humiliated to lift up my face to You, my God; for <sup>l</sup>our iniquities have risen higher than our heads, and our guilt has <sup>m</sup>grown up to the heavens. <sup>7</sup>Since the days of our fathers to this day <sup>n</sup>we have been very guilty, and for our iniquities <sup>o</sup>we, our kings, and our priests have been delivered into the hand of the kings of the lands, to the <sup>p</sup>sword, to captivity, to plunder, and to <sup>q</sup>humiliation,<sup>2</sup>

8:33, 34 After three days' rest, the returnees deposited their treasury in the temple (see neh. 2:11). Four men—two priests and two Levites—counted and weighed everything. A written inventory was then put on file.

8:35 t he sin offering, which consisted of twelve male goats, one for each tribe of israel, was for the atonement for sins. t he burnt offerings signified the surrender of the entire nation to the service of the Lord.

8:36 The king's orders were the authorization for Ezra to administer the Jewish law among the Jewish people of the province. s a-traps, or “protectors of the realm,” were highly placed individuals who ruled under the emperor in various regions of his empire (5:3).

9:1 When these things were done: t hese words seem to imply that the leaders came to Ezra immediately after the events of ch. 8. Actually, over four months passed between the events of ch. 8 and those of ch. 9. Ezra arrived on the first day of the fifth month (7:9) and he deposited the treasure in the temple on the fourth day of the fifth month (8:33). t he assembly that took place soon after the leaders' report occurred on the twentieth day of the ninth month (10:9). t he delivery of the royal orders to the regional governor (8:36) may have taken weeks or even months. it was after Ezra had delivered the decree and returned to Jerusalem that he received the report from the leaders. The people . . . have not separated themselves from the peoples of the lands: Both the leaders and the people of israel had failed to remain separate from the g entiles who lived in the land. t he same kind of problem existed in Zerubbabel's day (6:21). the abominations of the Canaanites: t he language here reflects that of the Law (see gen. 15:16, 19–21; Deut. 18:9–12). t he term abominations occurs often in the first five books of the Bible (see Deut. 17:1; 18:12; 22:5; 23:18) and in the Prophets (see Jer. 7:10; 44:22).

9:2 t he Jewish returnees were marrying the pagan peoples of the land, a practice that the Law of Moses expressly prohibited (see Ex. 34:16; Deut. 7:3).

9:5 knees . . . hands: Physical postures of prayer are often described in the Bible. Kneeling is a sign of humble respect. r aising one's hands is a sign of openness to god and recognizing that all gifts are from the Lord's hand.

9:6 ashamed and humiliated: Ezra felt an overwhelming sense of shame. His prayer was one of confession. t hough Ezra had not participated in this sin himself, he identified with the sins of the people.

9:7 Ezra further acknowledged that the people's sinful actions were part of their history. t he whole nation—kings and priests, as well as the people—had sinned in the past, and they had suffered for it at the hand of the kings of the lands. t his suffering had included the sword, loss of life; captivity, loss of freedom; plunder, loss of property; and humiliation, loss of honor.

remnant

(Heb. sha'ar) (9:8, 15) strong's #7604

to be a remnant means “to remain” or “to be left over.” A remnant is what survives after a catastrophe. in Ezra, the word frequently refers to those israelites who survived the Exile and returned to resettle the Promised Land (9:8). t he prophets use the word to speak not only of a group of israelites who survived a particular calamity but to those israelites who remained faithful to god (Amos 5:14, 15). t he concept of the remnant is central to isaiah, who prophesies that the r oot of Jesse, the Messiah, would one day gather the remnant of israel from all the nations, even attracting some gentiles to Himself (is. 11:10, 11, 16). t he remnant therefore becomes a powerful Ot theme of covenant faithfulness and salvation, for in sparing His people god maintained a nation through whom all the world would be blessed (gen. 12:3).

as it is this day. <sup>8</sup>And now for a little while grace has been shown from the LORD our God, to leave us a remnant to escape, and to give us a peg in His holy place, that our God may <sup>7</sup>enlighten our eyes and give us a measure of revival in our bondage. <sup>9</sup>For we were slaves. <sup>1</sup>Yet our God did not forsake us in our bondage; but <sup>10</sup>He extended mercy to us in the sight of the kings of Persia, to revive us, to repair the house of our God, to rebuild its ruins, and to give us <sup>11</sup>a wall in Judah and Jerusalem. <sup>12</sup>And now, O our God, what shall we say after this? For we have forsaken Your commandments, <sup>13</sup>which You commanded by Your servants the prophets, saying, ‘The land which you are entering to possess is an unclean land, with the <sup>14</sup>uncleanness of the peoples of the lands, with their abominations which have filled it from one end to another with their impurity. <sup>15</sup>Now therefore, <sup>16</sup>do not give your daughters as wives for their sons, nor take their daughters to your sons; and <sup>17</sup>never seek their peace or prosperity, that you may be strong and eat the good of the land, and <sup>18</sup>leave it as an inheritance to your children forever.’ <sup>19</sup>And after all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and for our great guilt, since You our God <sup>20</sup>have punished us less than our iniquities deserve, and have given us such deliverance as this, <sup>21</sup>should we <sup>22</sup>again break Your commandments, and <sup>23</sup>join in marriage with the people committing these abominations? Would You not be <sup>24</sup>angry with us until You had <sup>25</sup>consumed us, so that there would be no remnant or survivor? <sup>26</sup>O LORD God of Israel, <sup>27</sup>You are righteous, for we are left as a remnant, as it is this day. <sup>28</sup>Here we are before You, <sup>29</sup>in our guilt, though no one can stand before You because of this!’” weeping, and bowing down <sup>1</sup>before the house of God, a very large assembly of men, women, and children gathered to him from Israel; for the people wept very <sup>2</sup>bitterly. <sup>3</sup>And Shechaniah the son of Jehiel, <sup>4</sup>one of the sons of Elam, spoke up and said to Ezra, “We have <sup>5</sup>trespassed<sup>1</sup> against our God, and have taken pagan wives from the peoples of the land; yet now there is hope in Israel in spite of this. <sup>6</sup>Now therefore, let us make <sup>7</sup>a covenant with our God to put away all these wives and those who have been born to them, according to the advice of my master and of those who <sup>8</sup>tremble at <sup>9</sup>the commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the <sup>10</sup>law. <sup>11</sup>Arise, for this matter is your responsibility. We also are with you. <sup>12</sup>Be of good courage, and do it.”

<sup>13</sup>Then Ezra arose, and made the leaders of the priests, the Levites, and all Israel <sup>14</sup>swear an oath that they would do according to this word. So they swore an oath. <sup>15</sup>Then Ezra rose up from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Jehohanan the son of Eliashib; and <sup>16</sup>when he came there, he <sup>17</sup>ate no bread and drank no water, for he mourned because of the guilt of those from the captivity.

<sup>18</sup>And they issued a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem to all the descendants of the captivity, that they must gather at Jerusalem, <sup>19</sup>and that whoever would not come within three days, according to the instructions of the leaders and elders, all his property would be confiscated, and he himself would be separated from the assembly of those from the captivity.

9:8, 9 a peg in His holy place: t his metaphor refers to a peg in the wall on which a utensil is hung (see Eccl. 12:11). god’s mercy had permitted the remnant to be fixed in the place god had chosen. enlighten: god had given the light of His will to those who were in the darkness of sin. bondage: t he people were no longer slaves; they were free. repair the house of our God: t he temple had been rebuilt. wall: t he people had a wall of protection in the form of the king’s decree (7:12–26).

9:10–12 Ezra confessed the sins of the nation by referring to what the prophets had preached. t he prophets (Moses is called a prophet in Deut. 18:15; 34:10; Hos. 12:13) prohibited intermarriage with gentiles (see Deut. 7:1–3; 23:7; Mal. 2:10–16).

9:13–15 Ezra ended his prayer not by asking for forgiveness, but by declaring that god was righteous (see Deut. 32:4; Ps. 119:137; Zeph. 3:5). israel was guilty and deserved whatever justice god gave them. god would have been just in consuming them, even to the point that there was no remnant or survivor.

10:1 Many people in israel were concerned about the sin in their midst. so while Ezra wept, prayed, and confessed, these people gathered around him and wept very bitterly.

10:3 Making a covenant with god means binding oneself by an oath to god to do something. it was the most binding form of commitment a person could make.

10:4 Arise: s hechaniah (v. 2) reminded Ezra that it was his responsibility to teach israel the law of god (7:25).

10:7, 8 within three days: t his was a reasonable demand because Bethel (2:28), Lod (2:33), and Jericho (2:34) were some of the more distant Jewish cities, and they were all within three days’ journey. According to the Law, the money from the sale of confiscated property went into the temple treasury (see Lev. 27:28, 29, where devoted means “confiscated”).

10:9 The ninth month (Chislew; see neh. 1:1) is november–December.

<sup>12</sup>Then all the assembly answered and said with a loud voice, “Yes! As you have said, so we must do. <sup>13</sup>But there are many people; it is the season for heavy rain, and we are not able to stand outside. Nor is this the work of one or two days, for there are many of us who have transgressed in this matter. <sup>14</sup>Please, let the leaders of our entire assembly stand; and let all those in our cities who have taken pagan wives come at appointed times, together with the elders and judges of their cities, until <sup>o</sup>the fierce wrath of our God is turned away from us in this matter.” <sup>15</sup>Only Jonathan the son of Asahel and Jahaziah the son of Tikvah opposed this, and <sup>p</sup>Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite gave them support.

Pagan Wives Put Away

(2) t he weather would not permit them to stay in Jerusalem. t he people who had traveled from a distance could not stay in the city, living and sleeping in the open air, during the cold, rainy period. t herefore they requested that the investigation be organized by their officials.

10:15 two men, with the support of two Levites, opposed Ezra’s plan. t he reasons for their opposition are not given. Apparently their objections had no effect (vv. 16–18). Meshullam is likely the same man who was part of the group of learned teachers that Ezra had recruited (8:16); however, he is not the same man who is mentioned among the repentant offenders in v. 29.

10:18–44 t he list of those who had taken pagan wives included 113 men: 17 priests, 10 Levites, and 86 others.

10:19 They gave their promise may also be translated “they gave their hand.” t he symbol of raising a hand to take an oath is still practiced in many cultures. With this sign, the israelites agreed to put away their unlawful wives and offer a sacrifice according to the requirements of Lev. 5:14–19. Although this promise and sacrifice are mentioned only in connection with the priests, it is likely that everyone on the list fulfilled these requirements.

10:25–44 Others of Israel refers to the people, as opposed to the leaders.

10:44 Even though some had had children with their pagan wives, they still separated themselves from them.

THE BOOK OF

NEHEMIAH

TIMES OF TRIAL require godly leadership. This book is principally the story of such gifted leadership in the person of Nehemiah. Facing criticism and opposition, Nehemiah resolutely led the small Israelite community as they rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem for its physical protection. But he also did not hesitate to guide the Israelites spiritually. By demanding that the Israelites obey God's law, Nehemiah pursued their spiritual as well as their physical welfare.

Author Many readers naturally conclude that the book was written by Nehemiah because of the words of the first verse, "The words of Nehemiah the son of Hachaliah." In fact, it is widely believed that Nehemiah originated the following passages: 1:1—7:5; 12:27–43; 13:4–31. But there are two different views about the authorship of the rest of Nehemiah. Some believe that Nehemiah wrote the whole book, relying on his own memories. Others believe that Ezra wrote the book, using Nehemiah's memoirs, for the passages listed above. As evidence for the second view, it is noted that Neh. 7:5–73 and Ezra 2:1–70 are almost identical.

The similarities of Nehemiah and Ezra can be explained partly by the fact that they are only one book in the Hebrew Bible (see the Introduction for Ezra). In fact, many scholars argue that Chronicles, Ezra, and Nehemiah were compiled by the same person. All these books exhibit similar themes, such as a focus on the Levites, the temple, and extensive lists. With such priestly interests, the one who masterminded this long document may well have been a priest—like Ezra (see the Introduction to 1 Chronicles).

Historical Background The historical setting of Nehemiah is the setting of the second half of the Hebrew book of Ezra–Nehemiah (458–420 B.C.). During this period, the Persian Emperor Artaxerxes I Longimanus allowed the Jews to return to their land and rebuild Jerusalem.

At that time Nehemiah occupied a prominent position in the emperor's court: He was the trusted cupbearer of Artaxerxes I. In Artaxerxes's twentieth year on the throne (444 B.C.), he allowed Nehemiah to go to Jerusalem and rebuild its walls. Nehemiah stayed in Jerusalem for 12 years and then returned to Persia in Artaxerxes's thirty-second year (432 B.C.). Around 425 B.C., Nehemiah left Persia and returned to Jerusalem for the last time (13:6). Nehemiah's memoirs could not have been completed until after his second visit to Jerusalem. Thus the earliest that the Book of Nehemiah could have been completed would be around 425 B.C.

The Order of Ezra and Nehemiah There has been considerable discussion of the question of the order of the returns of Ezra and Nehemiah to Jerusalem. The Bible clearly presents the return of Ezra as preceding that of Nehemiah: Ezra returned in the seventh year of the reign of Artaxerxes (Ezra 7:8) while Nehemiah returned in the twentieth year (2:1). However, based on the way the revival of Ezra appears in the middle of the story of Nehemiah (chs. 8–10), many have argued that Nehemiah returned before Ezra.

The arguments for reversing Ezra and Nehemiah in this way are generally not convincing. Nevertheless, the inclusion of part of the Ezra story in the middle of the Nehemiah memoirs still needs explanation. It could be that Nehemiah's rebuilding the walls of the city was only part of the reconstruction needed among God's people. Even more necessary was the reinstatement of the Law. Certainly Ezra had used the Law previously in his dealings with the people, but at this time the great priest and scribe Ezra partnered with Nehemiah in order to thoroughly teach the people god's law (8:9). Apparently, the compiler of nehemiah wanted to show that the wall of the city would mean nothing without the wall of the Law surrounding the people.

Purpose in His covenant with israel, god had spoken of a place where He would establish His name. in fact, Moses had told the israelites to "seek the place where the LoRD your god chooses, out of all your tribes, to put His name for His dwelling place" (Deut. 12:5). Later, it was revealed that this place was Jerusalem. When the temple was built during solomon's reign, Jerusalem was at the height of its glory. its fame helped to spread the glory of god's name throughout the nations. But god allowed Jerusalem to be destroyed because of the faithlessness of the israelites. Even though Jerusalem lay in ruins during nehemiah's time, it was still god's purpose to establish His name there.

the Book of nehemiah records the restoration of Jerusalem under the leadership of nehemiah. in the book, the returning Jews showed spiritual lethargy and a coldhearted indifference toward god. this problem continued, for the Book of Malachi denounces the israelites for the same attitudes. it took a determined, godly leader like nehemiah to motivate this group to act on god's promises and rebuild Jerusalem's walls.

However, the completion of Jerusalem's walls is only half the story of nehemiah. the walls are rebuilt by chapter 6, but the book has seven more chapters. these last chapters record a revival and describe the repopulation of the city. the subject of the book is not merely the rebuilding of the walls, but the complete restoration of the people of Jerusalem.

the Book of nehemiah makes it clear that god did not restore His people only one time; rather, He repeatedly, constantly, and continually restored His people. He sent a number of prophets and leaders to teach, motivate, and guide the people into righteousness. Zerubbabel led a group of exiles to Jerusalem and began to rebuild the temple (see Ezra 1–6). then Ezra led a second group of exiles back to Jerusalem and helped restore the people to obedience to the Mosaic law (see Ezra 7–10). then nehemiah returned and motivated the people to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem (chs. 1–6). Finally, nehemiah returned a second time and exhorted the people to adhere closely to god's law (ch. 13). the pattern is clear: god continually restored His people. in spite of their unfaithfulness, god accomplished His will. the restored walls of Jerusalem, the repopulation of Jerusalem, and the repeated reformation of the israelites were clearly god's work. in the end, His name would be glorified.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Like Jesus, Nehemiah gives up a high position in order to identify with the plight of his people. Like Jesus, he comes with a specific mission and accomplishes it. And like Jesus, Nehemiah's life is punctuated by his prayerful dependence on God (1:5; Luke 6:12). His purpose is not just to get the Jews back to Jerusalem; his ultimate goal is restoration! The temple is rebuilt. The city walls are repaired. Jerusalem is reconstructed. The covenant is renewed. The people are reformed. According to the apostle Paul, Jesus came into our world for exactly the same reasons: reconciliation and renewal (2 Cor. 5:18, 19).

1:1 Nehemiah, whose name means “the Lord Comforts,” was a highly placed statesman associated with Ezra in the work of reestablishing the people of Judah in the Promised Land. The month of Chislev corresponds to our november–December (see Ezra 10:9). The twentieth year refers to the twentieth year of the rule of Artaxerxes I Longimanus (464–424 B.C.)—that is, 444 B.C. Artaxerxes was the same Persian king who had commissioned Ezra to return to Jerusalem (see Ezra 7:1). Shushan the citadel was about 150 miles north of the Persian gulf, in present-day Iran. The citadel, or the fortified royal palace, was built on an acropolis. The city served as a winter residence for the monarchs of Persia. Shushan is also notable in biblical history as the place where Daniel received his vision of the rams and goats (see Dan. 8:2), and as the home of Mordecai and Esther (see Esth. 1:2).

1:2 Nehemiah’s brother Hanani (7:2) had visited Jerusalem and returned to Shushan. His journey, which covered nearly a thousand miles one way, would probably have taken at least four months. It had taken Ezra and his caravan four months to make a similar round trip from Babylon to Jerusalem (see Ezra 7:9). Nehemiah was concerned about the Jewish people and Jerusalem.

1:3 Life was difficult for the people in Jerusalem. His difficulty was due in large part to the condition of Jerusalem’s wall. In the ancient Middle East, a city wall provided protection for the inhabitants. The condition of a city wall was also seen as an indication of the strength of the people’s gods. The ruined condition of the wall of Jerusalem reflected badly on God’s name.

1:4 wept . . . mourned: Nehemiah was deeply disturbed. Without a wall, Jerusalem was vulnerable to attack. The riches of the temple treasury (see Ezra 8:15–36) would have been quite a temptation for Israel’s enemies. God of heaven: His title for God is used frequently in the books of Ezra and Nehemiah.

1:5 LORD: Nehemiah called on God by using His covenant name (see Ex. 6:2–9). Nehemiah’s use of this title is similar to our use of the phrase “in Jesus’ name” in our prayers. God of heaven: Nehemiah acknowledged God’s government of the world, including His sovereignty over the pagan king who was over Nehemiah, the Jewish people, and the city of Jerusalem. covenant and mercy: By using these two words together, Nehemiah was holding God to His promises. The Lord had staked His character on His loyalty to His covenant with His people. According to the terms of the Mosaic covenant (see Deut. 28; 29), God made His covenant blessings available to those who kept His commandments.

1:6 let Your ear be attentive and Your eyes open: Nehemiah asked God to look at him and listen to him as he prayed. These words were designed to encourage the one praying, for God does not turn His ears from or close His eyes to His people (see Ex. 2:23–25). the children of Israel: By using this ancient name for the Jewish people, Nehemiah indicated the continuity of the Jewish people of his day with the Israelites of the past: Nehemiah then confessed the sins of his father’s house as well as his own. His confession was national, communal, and personal. His own sin was part of the whole.

1:7 Israel had sinned against the Lord and against His commandments. By using the word we, Nehemiah included himself among the sinful people. commandments . . . statutes . . . ordinances: These words describe the totality of God’s law (9:13, 14).

1:8 Remember: After confessing his sin and the sin of the people, Nehemiah reminded God of what He Himself had said. I will scatter you among the nations: This is an allusion to God’s covenant in Lev. 26:27–45 and Deut. 30:1–5. Nehemiah himself was born in Persia, a distant nation, because of God’s fulfillment of this promise.

1:9 The Lord had promised that if the nation of Israel would return to Him in obedience, He would gather them to their land. Nehemiah addressed the Lord as a covenant-keeping God. He confessed his and the people’s sin because the Law demanded confession (see Lev. 16:21). Then he held God to His covenant to return Israel to the land. bring them to the place which I have chosen as a dwelling for My name: The ultimate intent of God’s covenant was not just to return the people, but to return them to the place where God had established His name. For that to be accomplished, much needed to be done. So while it was true that some people had returned to the land and that the temple had been rebuilt, the fact remained that Jerusalem’s wall was in ruins and the people

(Heb. yadah) (1:6; Lev. 5:5; num. 5:7; Ps. 92:1; 106:47) strong’s #3034

His Hebrew verb conveys two distinct meanings. The first is related to the offering of thanksgiving or praise to God (2 Chr. 5:13; Ps. 92:1; 106:47). The second is that of confession, such as the confession of God’s greatness (1 Kin. 8:33, 35) and the confession of sin before God (1:6; 9:2; Dan. 9:4). The basic meaning of the word yadah is “to throw” or “to cast off.” In one sense, confession is the “casting off” of sin by acknowledging our transgressions of God’s commandments for holy living (Ps. 32:5; Prov. 28:13). In another sense, confession of sin is thanksgiving because it recognizes that forgiveness of sin is accomplished only by the grace and goodness of God (2 Chr. 30:22; Dan. 9:4).

For I was the king’s cupbearer.

Nehemiah Sent to Judah

2 And it came to pass in the month of Nisan, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes, when wine was before him, that I took the wine and gave it to the king. Now I had never been sad in his presence before. Therefore the king said to me, “Why is your face sad, since you are not sick? This is nothing but sorrow of heart.”

So I became dreadfully afraid, and said to the king, “May the king live forever! Why should my face not be sad, when the city, the place of my fathers’ tombs, lies waste, and its gates are burned with fire?”

4 Then the king said to me, “What do you request?”

So I prayed to the God of heaven. And I said to the king, “If it pleases the king, and if your servant has found favor in your sight, I ask that you send me to Judah, to the city of my fathers’ tombs, that I may rebuild it.”

6 Then the king said to me (the queen also sitting beside him), “How long will your journey be? And when will you return?” So it pleased the king to send me; and I set him a time.

7 Furthermore I said to the king, “If it pleases the king, let letters be given to me for the governors of the region beyond the River, that they must permit me to pass through till I come to Judah, and a letter to Asaph the keeper of the king’s forest, that he must give me timber to make beams for the gates of the citadel which pertains to the temple, for the city wall, and for the house that I will occupy.” And the king granted them to me according to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 Then I went to the governors in the region beyond the River, and gave them the king’s letters. Now the king had sent captains of the army and horsemen with were under reproach (5:9). in that sense, Jerusalem had not yet been restored.

1:10 Your servants and Your people: By using this phrasing, Nehemiah was suggesting to the Lord that the time was right, the people were right, and the task was right to restore Jerusalem. Your strong hand is one of the phrases associated with god’s deliverance of Israel from Egypt (see Ex. 6:1; 13:14; 15:6; Deut. 6:21).

1:11 Your servant . . . Your servants: Nehemiah and the godly people of Israel shared common concerns before God. Let Your servant prosper: Nehemiah requested permission to return to Jerusalem, rebuild the wall, and restore the community. He enjoyed the comfort and convenience of a royal palace and a position of honor and responsibility. There were many compelling reasons for him to stay where he was, but he asked for permission to do God’s work. As the king’s cupbearer, Nehemiah held an honored position. His constant proximity to the king of Persia made him privy to the state secrets and personal affairs of the king.

2:1 Nisan corresponds to March–April. sad in his presence: Four months after hearing the report from his brother concerning Jerusalem, Nehemiah was still grieving over the conditions in Jerusalem.

2:2 The king noticed Nehemiah’s sad expression and concluded that it was caused by sorrow of heart rather than physical illness.

I became dreadfully afraid: Persian monarchs believed that just being in their presence would make any person happy. Yet, Nehemiah was about to request the emperor’s permission to go to Jerusalem, suggesting that he would rather be somewhere other than in the emperor’s presence. On top of that, it was Artaxerxes himself who had ordered the work on the wall to be stopped (see Ezra 4:21–23). Nehemiah had reason to be afraid.

2:3 live forever: Addressing the king with proper respect, Nehemiah related the burden of his heart. the place of my fathers’ tombs: It is possible that this phrase was designed to catch the king’s attention. In many Asian cultures, a connection with the burial places of one’s ancestors was a matter of great importance.

2:4 I prayed: Even though Nehemiah had come into the presence of the king, he had never left the presence of the true King of kings.

2:5 After his silent prayer (v. 4), Nehemiah spoke boldly, asking for permission to leave the king’s palace to travel to Jerusalem to rebuild the wall. Again Nehemiah spoke of his fathers’ tombs (v. 3). Though this was not his principal concern, it must have been something he thought would be important to the king.

2:6 How long will your journey be . . . when will you return: In responding to Nehemiah’s request (v. 5), the king might have had Nehemiah executed on the spot; or he might have dismissed Nehemiah with a laugh. However, his questions implied that the request was already granted. I set him a time: The fact that Nehemiah responded quickly to the king’s request for specific details indicates that he had been planning the trip. It pleased the king to send me: The king not only sent Nehemiah to Jerusalem, he made him governor (5:14). With the possibility of unrest in Egypt and in Cyprus, the king might have decided that Jerusalem needed a wall after all (see Ezra 4:21).

2:7 Nehemiah knew that he needed safe passage for his journey to Judah, so he requested letters from the king to show to the governors of the region beyond the Euphrates River.

2:8 Nehemiah’s plans were detailed. He asked the king for permission to go to Jerusalem (v. 5), for letters to ensure safe passage (v. 7), and also for provisions. Nehemiah requested a letter addressed to Asaph, the man in charge of the king’s forest, to enable him to obtain supplies of lumber for three projects: (1) the gates of the citadel, (2) the city wall, and (3) his personal house. Jerusalem had plenty of limestone for building projects. But timber, necessary for making roofs and other parts of large building projects, was scarce. The citadel was a fortress situated just northwest of the temple. It overlooked and protected the temple area. According to the good hand of my God: The king graciously granted Nehemiah all that he had requested, but Nehemiah knew that the ultimate source of his provisions was God.

2:9 captains of the army and horsemen: Nehemiah had a military escort to Jerusalem. In 458 B.C. Ezra had journeyed to Jerusalem with 1,800 people carrying valuable treasures, and had refused a military escort (see Ezra 8:22). Fourteen years later, Nehemiah made the same trip with a smaller company and no valuables, but the king sent an escort with him.

Sanballat

The name Sanballat means “the god sin has given life.” A leading opponent of the Jews after their return from the captivity, he tried to hinder Nehemiah in his work of rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem. Sanballat’s designation as “the Horonite” probably indicates the town of his origin, possibly Horonaim of Moab (Is. 15:5; Jer. 48:3, 5, 34) or Beth Horon in Ephraim near Jerusalem (2 Chr. 8:5). In papyri found at the Jewish settlement in Elephantine, Egypt, Sanballat is called the governor of Samaria. His daughter married “one of the sons of Joiada, the son of Eliashib the high priest” (Neh. 13:28). Nehemiah viewed such a “mixed marriage” as a defilement of the priesthood, so he drove Joiada away. Sanballat’s opposition to Nehemiah’s work may have stemmed from jealousy; he may have felt that his authority was threatened by the reawakening of the land of Judah.

me. <sup>10</sup>When <sup>1</sup>Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite <sup>6</sup>official heard of it, they were deeply disturbed that a man had come to seek the well-being of the children of Israel.

Nehemiah Views the Wall of Jerusalem

<sup>11</sup>So I <sup>m</sup>came to Jerusalem and was there three days. <sup>12</sup>Then I arose in the night, I and a few men with me; I told no one what my God had put in my heart to do at Jerusalem; nor was there any animal with me, except the one on which I rode. <sup>13</sup>And I went out by night <sup>n</sup>through the Valley Gate to the Serpent Well and the <sup>7</sup>Refuge Gate, and <sup>8</sup>viewed the walls of Jerusalem which were <sup>o</sup>broken down and its gates which were burned with fire. <sup>14</sup>Then I went on to the <sup>p</sup>Fountain Gate and to the <sup>q</sup>King’s Pool, but there was no room for the animal under me to pass. <sup>15</sup>So I went up in the night by the <sup>r</sup>valley,<sup>9</sup> and <sup>1</sup>viewed the wall; then I turned back and entered by the Valley Gate, and so returned. <sup>16</sup>And the officials did not know where I had gone or what I had done; I had not yet told the Jews, the priests, the nobles, the officials, or the others who did the work.

<sup>17</sup>Then I said to them, “You see the distress that we are in, how Jerusalem lies <sup>2</sup>waste, and its gates are burned with fire. Come and let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we may no longer be <sup>s</sup>a reproach.” <sup>18</sup>And I told them of <sup>t</sup>the hand of my God which had been good upon me, and also of the king’s words that he had spoken to me.

So they said, “Let us rise up and build.” Then they <sup>u</sup>set<sup>3</sup> their hands to this good work.

2:10 Sanballat was the governor of Samaria. Horonite refers to Sanballat’s city Beth-Horon. Tobiah was probably Sanballat’s secretary and confidential advisor. Ammonite: At the time of Nehemiah, the Ammonites (see Gen. 19:38) had pushed west into the land vacated by Judah. The prospect of a strong Jewish community in newly fortified Jerusalem would have seemed threatening to the Ammonite power.

2:12–15 since Nehemiah had arrived in Jerusalem from the north, he would have seen that side of the wall as he approached the city. If he lived in the southwestern part of the city, he would have had ample time for viewing the western wall. Nehemiah seems to have been concerned with inspecting the southern and eastern walls of Jerusalem. With a few servants, he passed through the Valley Gate into the Valley of Hinnom. He then traveled along the south wall. When the piles of stone and heaps of rubble obstructed his passage, he dismounted his animal and continued on foot up the Kidron valley in order to view the eastern wall.

2:16 the officials did not know: The only people who knew Nehemiah’s plans were the few men who had made the secret night ride with him (v. 12).

2:17 we: Nehemiah encouraged all of the people to assist in rebuilding the city’s walls.

2:18 Nehemiah emphasized that it was not just his idea to rebuild the wall of Jerusalem. Rather, the idea had come to him from the Lord (vv. 8, 12). In response to Nehemiah’s challenge, the people replied, Let us rise up and build.

2:19 In v. 10, Nehemiah here mentioned two men who were unhappy about his coming—Sanballat and Tobiah. Here the opposition grows to three. Geshem was the leader of a company of Arab troops maintained by Sanballat. In v. 10, Nehemiah’s opponents were grieved; here they laughed. They accused Nehemiah of false motives, of plotting rebellion against the king. The same charge had been directed against the Jewish people in Zerubbabel’s time (see Ezra 4).

Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab heard of it, they laughed at us and despised us, and said, “What is this thing that you are doing? <sup>v</sup>Will you rebel against the king?”

<sup>20</sup>So I answered them, and said to them, “The God of heaven Himself will prosper us; therefore we His servants will arise and build, <sup>w</sup>but you have no heritage or right or memorial in Jerusalem.”

Rebuilding the Wall

2:20 nehemiah ignored his opponents’ accusation that he was rebelling against the king. He asserted that god was involved in what he was doing. nehemiah’s motive was not rebellion against the king, but submission to god. you have no heritage: nehemiah indicated that samaritans and foreign people had no place in Jerusalem (see Ezra 4:3).

3:1 Eliashib the high priest and the other priests were the first people to start rebuilding Jerusalem’s walls. At this point in israel’s history, the priests were the leaders. t here were no kings or judges, so the people looked to the priests for leadership. it is significant that the high priest and the priests built the Sheep Gate. t he sheep gate was on Jerusalem’s northeast side, just north of the temple and was used for bringing sheep to the temple for sacrifice. They . . . consecrated it: t he priests dedicated the repaired gate, wall, and tower to the Lord. t hey knew that unless g od blessed the city with His presence, no walls and gates would keep the people safe (see Ps. 127:1).

3:2 Next to: t he idea here is that the people worked together—not just in the same place, but in cooperation.

3:8–13 t hese verses detail the rebuilding of the western portion of Jerusalem’s wall.

3:8 The Broad Wall was probably built in the seventh century b.c. by Hezekiah to accommodate the influx of refugees from the fall of samaria in 722 b.c. (see 2 Chr. 32:5).

3:14 t his verse describes the rebuilding of the southern portion of Jerusalem’s wall.

3:15–32 t hese verses detail the rebuilding of the eastern portion of Jerusalem’s wall.

The Wall Defended Against Enemies

4 But it so happened, <sup>a</sup>when Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the wall, that he was furious and very indignant, and mocked the Jews. <sup>2</sup>And he spoke before his brethren and the army of Samaria, and said, “What are these feeble Jews doing? Will they fortify themselves? Will they offer sacrifices? Will they complete it in a day? Will they revive the stones from the heaps of rubbish—stones that are burned?”

<sup>6</sup>So we built the wall, and the entire wall was joined together up to half its height, for the people had a mind to work.

3:28 in the easternmost part of the city, the Horse Gate was the gate leading to the Kidron valley.

3:32 Goldsmiths and merchants also labored on the wall. They were not bricklayers, but they worked just the same.

4:1 furious . . . indignant: These two words together mean “burning with rage.”

4:2 sanballat gathered men from the army of Samaria, his local militia, and then mocked the Jewish people with sarcastic questions. these feeble Jews: the verb from which the adjective feeble is derived is used of a woman who is no longer able to bear children (1 sam. 2:5), of a fisherman whose trade fails (is. 19:8), and of the inhabitants of a defeated land (Hos. 4:3). fortify . . . offer sacrifices . . . complete it in a day . . . revive the stones: sanballat poured contempt on the Jewish people and on their god. The reference to reviving the stones came from the fact that the stones of the former wall had been burned. When limestone is subjected to intense heat, it becomes unsuitable for building.

4:3 Tobiah, the aide of sanballat (2:10, 19), carried sanballat's jest (v. 2) even further. tobiah declared that if a small creature like a fox jumped on the wall, the wall would collapse because of its flimsy construction.

4:4, 5 nehemiah did not respond to his opponents (vv. 2, 3). instead, he prayed that the Lord would not forgive them. nehemiah believed that when the people of god were involved in the work of god, any assault on them was an assault on god. in this case, to despise the Jewish workers was to despise god Himself.

4:7, 8 When their ridicule did not stop the work on the wall, nehemiah's opponents tried a threat of attack. The opposition against nehemiah had started with two people (2:10) and had grown to three (2:19). Here it had become a multitude, one which surrounded Jerusalem. Sanballat was a samaritan; samaria was north of Jerusalem. The Arabs were to the south, the Ammonites to the east and the Ashdodites to the west.

carefully

(Heb. charah) (3:20; Ex. 32:10; Jon. 4:1) strong's #2734

The Hebrew verb translated carefully here usually means “to burn with anger” (gen. 39:19; Jon. 4:1) and depicts anger as a burning fire. This is the type of intense anger the Lord displayed when the israelites worshiped a worthless idol of a calf instead of their Deliverer (see Ex. 32:10, where the word is translated “burn hot”), in the present passage, the word denotes burning with zeal, not anger. in other words, Baruch earnestly wanted to repair the walls of Jerusalem because he knew it was god's city and god's work. His repairs were for the glory of the living Lord.

<sup>h</sup> conspired together to come and attack Jerusalem and create confusion. <sup>9</sup> Nevertheless <sup>i</sup> we made our prayer to our God, and because of them we set a watch against them day and night.

<sup>10</sup> Then Judah said, “The strength of the laborers is failing, and there is so much rubbish that we are not able to build the wall.”

<sup>11</sup> And our adversaries said, “They will neither know nor see anything, till we come into their midst and kill them and cause the work to cease.”

<sup>12</sup> So it was, when the Jews who dwelt near them came, that they told us ten times, “From whatever place you turn, they will be upon us.”

<sup>13</sup> Therefore I positioned men behind the lower parts of the wall, at the openings; and I set the people according to their families, with their swords, their spears, and their bows. <sup>14</sup> And I looked, and arose and said to the nobles, to the leaders, and to the rest of the people, <sup>j</sup> “Do not be afraid of them. Remember the Lord, <sup>k</sup> great and awesome, and <sup>l</sup> fight for your brethren, your sons, your daughters, your wives, and your houses.”

<sup>15</sup> And it happened, when our enemies heard that it was known to us, and <sup>m</sup> that God had brought their plot to nothing, that all of us returned to the wall, everyone to his work. <sup>16</sup> So it was, from that time on, that half of my servants worked at construction, while the other half held the spears, the shields, the bows, and wore armor; and the leaders <sup>2</sup> were behind all the house of Judah. <sup>17</sup> Those who built on the wall, and those who carried burdens, loaded themselves so that with one hand they worked at construction, and with the other held a weapon. <sup>18</sup> Every one of the builders had his sword girded at his side as he built. And the one who sounded the trumpet was beside me.

<sup>19</sup> Then I said to the nobles, the rulers, and the rest of the people, “The work is great and extensive, and we are separated far from one another on the wall. <sup>20</sup> Whenever you hear the sound of the trumpet, rally to us there. <sup>n</sup> Our God will fight for us.”

<sup>21</sup> So we labored in the work, and half of <sup>3</sup> the men held the spears from daybreak until the stars appeared. <sup>22</sup> At the same time I also said to the people, “Let each man and his servant stay at night in Jerusalem, that they may be our guard by night and a working party by day.” <sup>23</sup> So neither I, my brethren, my servants, nor the men of the guard who followed me took off our clothes, except that everyone took them off for washing.

Nehemiah Deals with Oppression

5 And there was a great <sup>a</sup> outcry of the people and their wives against their

4:9 Prior to this verse the prayers recorded in the Book of Nehemiah are individual prayers. This one was a group prayer. Nehemiah's spirit had affected the entire group of workers. They not only prayed, but they set a watch and did what was humanly possible to protect themselves from attack.

4:10 Under the circumstances, some of the workers became discouraged. The wall was half finished (v. 6), but the task was taking its toll. The words of the fatigued laborers appear as a song or poem in the Hebrew text.

4:11, 12 While the Jewish workers became discouraged (v. 10), the opposition intensified. The adversaries began a whispering campaign among the Jewish people to stop the building of the wall. These enemies used fear as a weapon, and they used the Jewish people to do their dirty work.

4:13 I positioned men: Because there was no Jewish army, the people had to defend themselves. Nehemiah placed men strategically on the wall. From the high places on the wall, men could see the approaching enemy. Other men defended the low places of the wall.

4:14, 15 nobles . . . leaders . . . rest of the people: Nehemiah's strategy was to address both leaders and laypeople. In this way, all the community would have “ownership” of the same ideals. fight for your brethren: Nehemiah reminded the Jewish people that they were not mercenary soldiers earning a salary or hoping for loot. Not only were their own lives at stake, but so were the lives of their loved ones. God answered Nehemiah's prayers. The people were inspired by his wise words and returned to their tasks.

4:16–18 Nehemiah armed the workers and divided his own servants into two groups. Half of them worked on the wall and half of them stood guard. Since the builders needed both hands to work, their swords were hung on their sides. Those who carried baskets of debris on their heads held their weapons in one hand and supported the load with the other.

4:19, 20 Nehemiah instituted an alarm system for those who worked on the wall. Apparently the workers were scattered all over the wall and separated so far from each other that some were beyond the reach of the human voice. For that reason, a trumpeter with a ram's horn stood near Nehemiah wherever he went. If the wall was attacked, the alarm would gather all of the people quickly to the danger spot. Our God will fight for us: These words evoked the spirit of the Exodus (see num. 10:1–10). God had fought for their ancestors, and now God would fight for them.

4:21–23 Nehemiah instituted a 24-hour work and watch program. The people worked during the day and stood guard at night. Workers living out of town were asked to remain in the city rather than return home. Except for washing, Nehemiah and his men never took off their clothes. They worked day and night.

5:1–5 The prolonged period of working, watching, fear, and wear-

awesome

(Heb. yare') (1:5; 4:14; gen. 32:11) strong's #3372

The Hebrew word translated awesome is derived from the Hebrew verb meaning “to fear.” In this context, the word does not mean “frightening.” Rather it suggests the quality that inspires reverence or godly fear. In some Bible passages, “fearing” and godly living are so closely related that they are almost synonymous (Lev. 19:14; 25:17; Deut. 17:19; 2 Kin. 17:34). Thus while ordinary fear paralyzes a person, godly fear leads to submission and obedience to God. The person who properly fears God avoids evil (Job 1:1) and walks in God's ways (Ps. 128:1).

<sup>b</sup>Jewish brethren. <sup>2</sup>For there were those who said, “We, our sons, and our daughters are many; therefore let us get grain, that we may eat and live.”

<sup>3</sup>There were also some who said, “We have mortgaged our lands and vineyards and houses, that we might buy grain because of the famine.”

<sup>4</sup>There were also those who said, “We have borrowed money for the king’s tax on our lands and vineyards. <sup>5</sup>Yet now our flesh is as the flesh of our brethren, our children as their children; and indeed we <sup>d</sup>are forcing our sons and our daughters to be slaves, and some of our daughters have been brought into slavery. It is not in our power to redeem them, for other men have our lands and vineyards.”

Then they were silenced and found nothing to say. <sup>9</sup>Then I said, “What you are doing is not good. Should you not walk <sup>g</sup>in the fear of our God <sup>h</sup>because of the reproach of the nations, our enemies? <sup>10</sup>I also, with my brethren and my servants, am lending them money and grain. Please, let us stop this <sup>3</sup>usury! <sup>11</sup>Restore now to them, even this day, their lands,

<sup>12</sup>So they said, “We will restore it, and will require nothing from them; we will do as you say.”

Then I called the priests, <sup>i</sup>and required an oath from them that they would do according to this promise. <sup>13</sup>Then <sup>j</sup>I shook out <sup>4</sup>the fold of my garment and said, “So may God shake out each man from his house, and from his property, who does not perform this promise. Even thus may he be shaken out and emptied.”

And all the assembly said, “Amen!” and praised the LORD. <sup>k</sup>Then the people did according to this promise.

The Generosity of Nehemiah

ness inevitably led to trouble among the people in Jerusalem. <sup>t</sup>here were three groups of complainers, each introduced with the phrase there were those who said. <sup>t</sup>he first group had large families, and did not have enough food to eat. <sup>t</sup>he second group had large mortgages to pay and could not buy food. <sup>t</sup>he third group had large taxes to pay and had been forced to mortgage their land and even to sell their children. <sup>t</sup>he people’s basic problem is pinpointed in the words against their Jewish brethren. <sup>t</sup>he people were not complaining merely about poverty and high taxes; they were grumbling about each other. in v. 1 the people refers to the poor; the brethren refers to the rich rulers (v. 7). in short, this was a class conflict. <sup>t</sup>he poor people had mortgaged their lands and vineyards and houses. <sup>t</sup>hey had borrowed money and even had sold their sons and daughters into slavery. From the perspective of the Law, there were two problems here: (1) usury, lending money and charging interest, and (2) slavery. it was not wrong for a Jewish person to lend money with interest to a non-Jewish person (see Deut. 23:19, 20), nor was it wrong for a Jewish person to lend money to a fellow Jew. However, the Law did prohibit usury (see Ex. 22:25). Also, a Jewish person could hire himself out to someone, but not as a slave (see Lev. 25:35–40).

5:6 I became very angry: nehemiah’s first response to the sins of the Jewish people was anger. Deliberate disobedience to the Word of god ought to make a person indignant toward the sin—but not toward the sinner.

5:7–10 After getting angry at the sins of the Jewish people (v. 6), nehemiah spent some time in serious thought. He then confronted the guilty people. rebuked: <sup>t</sup>his term is used often by the prophets to speak of legal cases brought against guilty persons (13:11). After rebuking the guilty parties privately, nehemiah confronted them in public with the same charges. not good: two issues were at stake here—fear of god (1:5) and the reproach of the nations. When israel, a nation called by the Lord, stopped honoring and obeying Him, it became a scandal because god’s name was being dishonored.

5:11 nehemiah challenged the lenders to restore what they had taken with interest. <sup>t</sup>he hundredth of the money is probably a reference to the interest they had been charging.

5:13 nehemiah shook his garment as if he were getting rid of what he was carrying. in doing so, he dramatized what god would do if the people broke their promise. god would shake them loose from their houses and their possessions.

5:14 During his 12-year administration (444–432 B.C.), nehemiah did not collect taxes from the people, although as governor he had that right.

5:15 several former governors had paid their own expenses with the people’s taxes. laid burdens: <sup>t</sup>he former governors had made life difficult for the people. Rule here indicates an arbitrary, oppressive rule—the abuse of power through extortion.

5:16 nehemiah had not acquired mortgages on land. As governor, he could easily have acquired real estate and sold it at great profit. But instead of making money for themselves, nehemiah and his servants worked on the wall of Jerusalem for the protection of the people and the glory of god.

who came to us from the nations around us. <sup>18</sup>Now that <sup>r</sup>which was prepared daily was one ox and six choice sheep. Also fowl were prepared for me, and once every ten days an abundance of all kinds of wine. Yet in spite of this <sup>s</sup>I did not demand the governor’s provisions, because the bondage was heavy on this people.

<sup>19</sup>Remember me, my God, for good, according to all that I have done for this people.

Conspiracy Against Nehemiah

6 Now it happened <sup>a</sup>when Sanballat, Tobiah, <sup>1</sup>Geshem the Arab, and the rest of our enemies heard that I had rebuilt the wall, and that there were no breaks left in it <sup>b</sup>(though at that time I had not hung the doors in the gates), <sup>2</sup>that Sanballat and <sup>2</sup>Geshem <sup>c</sup>sent to me, saying, “Come, let us meet together <sup>3</sup>among the villages in the plain of <sup>d</sup>Ono.” But they <sup>e</sup>thought to do me harm.

<sup>3</sup>So I sent messengers to them, saying, “I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down. Why should the work cease while I leave it and go down to you?”

<sup>4</sup>But they sent me this message four times, and I answered them in the same manner.

<sup>5</sup>Then Sanballat sent his servant to me as before, the fifth time, with an open letter in his hand. <sup>6</sup>In it was written:

It is reported among the nations, and <sup>4</sup>Geshem says, that you and the Jews plan to rebel; therefore, according to these rumors, you are rebuilding the wall, <sup>f</sup>that you may be their king. <sup>7</sup>And you have also appointed prophets to proclaim concerning you at Jerusalem, saying, “There is a king in Judah!” Now these matters will be reported to the king. So come, therefore, and let us consult together.

<sup>8</sup>Then I sent to him, saying, “No such things as you say are being done, but you invent them in your own heart.”

<sup>9</sup>For they all were trying to make us afraid, saying, “Their hands will be weakened in the work, and it will not be done.”

Now therefore, O God, strengthen my hands.

5:19 nehemiah’s motives were pure. He was not doing good for the praise of men, but to please god. His prayer is repeated at the end of the book (13:31).

6:2 nehemiah’s enemies, realizing that open opposition had not worked and that the wall was close to being finished, suggested a conference. The plain of Ono was about 20 miles northwest of Jerusalem. somehow, perhaps by a word from the Lord, nehemiah was warned of his enemy’s intent.

6:7 the evidence that was used to accuse nehemiah of rebellion was the assertion that prophets were proclaiming nehemiah to be king. Zechariah had prophesied that a king was coming (see Zech.

9:9). With all the activity of the rebuilding of the wall, people were probably talking about what Zechariah had said. nehemiah’s enemies threatened to take the matter to the king of Persia. they used this threat as leverage to force nehemiah to attend their proposed meeting. Although they had no real intention of going to the king (v. 9), they hoped their threats would ruin nehemiah’s reputation so that the workers would lose their resolve.

6:8, 9 nehemiah would not allow himself to get sidetracked. instead, he committed his enemy’s accusations to the Lord (see Ps. 31:13, 14). His enemies wanted to weaken his hands, so he prayed for the Lord to strengthen him.

How Nehemiah Handled Opposition

As leader of the effort to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, Nehemiah faced resistance of almost every variety.

Resistance	Nehemiah’s Response	Reference
Sanballat and Tobiah angrily ridiculed Nehemiah.	Nehemiah and the people prayed and renewed their commitment to work.	4:1–6
Sanballat, Tobiah, and a coalition of Arabs, Ammonites, and Ashdodites threatened an attack.	Nehemiah and the people prayed and appointed an around-the-clock guard.	4:7–9
The Israelites became discouraged and fearful.	Nehemiah spoke words of reassurance and armed all the workers.	4:10–23
Some of the Jewish officials took advantage of the poor by charging exorbitant interest rates and seizing their property.	Nehemiah rebuked these opportunists and ordered them to return the seized assets.	5:1–13
Sanballat, Tobiah, and Geshem tried to distract Nehemiah with offers to meet and talk.	Nehemiah refused the offers and kept his focus on the goal of finishing the walls.	6:1–4
Sanballat spread slanderous reports that Nehemiah intended to make himself king.	Nehemiah denied the accusation and prayed for strength.	6:5–9
Shemaiah, a subordinate of Tobiah and Sanballat, tried to convince Nehemiah to be a coward and break God’s law by hiding in the temple.	Nehemiah discerned the trick and prayed for strength and justice.	6:10–14

<sup>11</sup>And I said, “Should such a man as I flee? And who is there such as I who would go into the temple to save his life? I will not go in!” <sup>12</sup>Then I perceived that God had not sent him at all, but that <sup>9</sup>he pronounced this prophecy against me because Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him. <sup>13</sup>For this reason he was hired, that I should be afraid and act that way and sin, so that they might have cause for an evil report, that they might reproach me.

<sup>14</sup><sup>h</sup>My God, remember Tobiah and Sanballat, according to these their works, and the <sup>i</sup>prophetess Noadiah and the rest of the prophets who would have made me afraid.

The Wall Completed

<sup>15</sup>So the wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of Elul, in fifty-two days. <sup>16</sup>And it happened, <sup>j</sup>when all our enemies heard of it, and all the nations around us saw these things, that they were very disheartened in their own eyes; for <sup>k</sup>they perceived that this work was done by our God.

sent many letters to Tobiah, and the letters of Tobiah came to them. <sup>18</sup>For many in Judah were pledged to him, because he was the <sup>l</sup>son-in-law of Shechaniah the son of Arah, and his son Jehohanan had married the daughter of <sup>m</sup>Meshullam the son of Berechiah. <sup>19</sup>Also they reported his good deeds before me, and reported my <sup>6</sup>words to him. Tobiah sent letters to frighten me.

<sup>3</sup>And I said to them, “Do not let the gates of Jerusalem be opened until the sun is hot; and while they stand guard, let them shut and bar the doors; and appoint guards from among the inhabitants of Jerusalem, one at his watch station and another in front of his own house.”

The Captives Who Returned to Jerusalem

<sup>4</sup>Now the city was large and spacious, but the people in it were <sup>e</sup>few, and the houses were not rebuilt. <sup>5</sup>Then my God put it into my heart to gather the nobles, the rulers, and the people, that they might be registered by genealogy. And I found a register of the genealogy of those

6:10 Evidently Shemaiah was a priest. When nehemiah visited him, shemaiah proposed that they enter the holy place to be safe from assassins. shemaiah's suggestion was for nehemiah to flee into the sanctuary. it was lawful for an israelite to seek refuge at the altar outside the temple (see Ex. 21:13, 14), but only a priest could enter the holy place. nehemiah's enemies were subtly tempting him. if they could trap him in sin, this would discredit him and the work. t hen the people would cease to follow him, and the work on the wall would stop.

6:11–14 god gave nehemiah the wisdom to discern the error in shemaiah's counsel. Tobiah and Sanballat were the principal instigators behind shemaiah. nehemiah indignantly rejected shemaiah's counsel for two reasons. First, a man such as himself should not flee. nehemiah was the governor, a leader of the people. He was responsible to the king and ultimately to the King of kings. A man in his position should not run and hide out of fear. second, nehemiah refused to go to the temple to save his life. t he Law prohibited him from entering the Most Holy Place under penalty of death (see n um. 18:7).

6:17–19 Here is a postscript. it turns out that during the building of the wall, a number of personal letters had been exchanged between some of the nobles of Judah and Tobiah. t obiah and his son Jehohanan had married Jewish women. some of the nobles sang tobiah's praises to nehemiah and then reported back to tobiah everything they learned from the governor. With these letters, they hoped either to entrap nehemiah in his own words or to intimidate him.

7:1 The Levites were assistants to the priests (n um. 18:1–4) and guarded and cleaned the sanctuary. nehemiah appointed the Levites to their duties in the temple. The gatekeepers and singers were numbered among the Levites. t he gatekeepers kept watch over the house of god and opened and closed the gates of the temple court (see 1 Chr. 9:17–19; 26:12–19). t he singers led the people in their musical worship of god. t he number of Levites, gatekeepers, and singers is given in vv. 43–45.

7:2 nehemiah appointed two guards over the city as municipal officers in charge of security, each guard responsible for half of Jerusalem (3:9–12). One of the guards was nehemiah's brother Hanani, who had visited Jerusalem and brought back a bleak report to nehemiah in shushan (1:2). t he other guard was Hananiah. nehemiah put him over the citadel because he was faithful and because he feared God.

7:3 nehemiah not only established guards over Jerusalem (v. 2), he also established guidelines for protecting the city. The gates of a city normally opened at sunrise, but nehemiah ordered Jerusalem's gates to be kept closed until the sun was high. t his extra precaution would have discouraged enemies from mounting a surprise attack at sunrise. gates were critical to the defense of an ancient city. nehemiah also ordered the citizens of Jerusalem to organize a civil defense, with people taking turns standing guard at night outside their own houses. t his was a clever strategy. t he people would have been more alert in guarding their own homes than they would have been in guarding a general part of the city.

7:4 For the size of the city, Jerusalem was underpopulated. Even though it was 90 years since people had returned under Zerubbabel to live there, there was still much undeveloped space within the walls renewed by nehemiah.

7:5 my God put it into my heart: nehemiah attributed to the Lord the idea of a census that would show the distribution of the population. if he knew the population pattern in the capital and the countryside, he could then determine which districts could best afford to lose a portion of their inhabitants to Jerusalem.

7:6-73 Nehemiah discovered a list, recorded by families, of the names of the Jewish people who came from Persia to Judah in 536 B.C. under Zerubbabel. This long list consisted of the names of leaders (v. 7), people by families (vv. 8-25), people by cities (vv. 26-38), priests (vv. 39-42), Levites (vv. 43-45), nethinim or temple servants

(vv. 46-56), Solomon's servants (vv. 57-60), returnees without a genealogy (vv. 61-65), the total number of people (vv. 66, 67), their animals (vv. 68, 69), and the gifts given for the support of the work (vv. 70-72). This same list is found in Ezra 2 with some minor variations.

the sons of <sup>1</sup>Koz, the sons of Barzillai, who took a wife of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite, and was called by their name.

64 These sought their listing among those who were registered by genealogy, but it was not found; therefore they were excluded from the priesthood as defiled. <sup>65</sup> And the <sup>2</sup>governor said to them that they should not eat of the most holy things till a priest could consult with the Urim and Thummim.

66 Altogether the whole assembly was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, <sup>67</sup> besides their male and female servants, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven; and they had two hundred and forty-five men and women singers. <sup>68</sup> Their horses were seven hundred and thirty-six, their mules two hundred and forty-five, <sup>69</sup> their camels four hundred and thirty-five, and donkeys six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

73 So the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, some of the people, the Nethinim, and all Israel dwelt in their cities.

Ezra Reads the Law

<sup>a</sup> When the seventh month came, the children of Israel were in their cities.

8 Now all <sup>a</sup> the people gathered together as one man in the open square that was <sup>b</sup> in front of the Water Gate; and they told Ezra the <sup>c</sup> scribe to bring the Book of 7:70 One thousand gold drachmas would weigh about nine pounds.

8:1 t he phrase all the people indicates that people gathered together from the cities and the countryside of Judah. t he open square was presumably located between the southeast part of the temple and the eastern wall. t he leader—in this case, the reader—was Ezra. t his is the first time Ezra is mentioned in the Book of Nehemiah. t he people instructed Ezra to get the Book of the Law, which Ezra had brought to Jerusalem as much as 13 years before. What had been confined to private study among learned men was made public to everyone.

the Law of Moses, which the LORD had commanded Israel. <sup>2</sup>So Ezra the priest brought <sup>d</sup>the Law before the assembly of men and women and all who could hear with understanding <sup>e</sup>on the first day of the seventh month. <sup>3</sup>Then he <sup>f</sup>read from it in the open square that was in front of the Water Gate <sup>1</sup>from morning until midday, before the men and women and those who could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive to the Book of the Law.

Then all the people <sup>h</sup>answered, “Amen, Amen!” while <sup>i</sup>lifting up their hands. And they <sup>j</sup>bowed their heads and worshiped the LORD with their faces to the ground.

<sup>7</sup>Also Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaijah, and the Levites, <sup>k</sup>helped the people to understand the Law; and the people <sup>l</sup>stood in their place. <sup>8</sup>So they read distinctly from the book, in the Law of God; and they gave the sense, and helped them to understand the reading.

<sup>9</sup>m And Nehemiah, who was the <sup>2</sup>governor, Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites who taught the people said to all the people, <sup>n</sup>“This day is holy to the LORD your God; <sup>o</sup>do not mourn nor weep.” For all the people wept, when they heard the words of the Law.

<sup>10</sup>Then he said to them, “Go your way, eat the fat, drink the sweet, <sup>p</sup>and send portions to those for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy to our Lord. Do not sorrow, for the joy of the LORD is your strength.”

<sup>11</sup>So the Levites quieted all the people, saying, “Be still, for the day is holy; do not be grieved.” <sup>12</sup>And all the people went their way to eat and drink, to <sup>q</sup>send portions and rejoice greatly, because they <sup>r</sup>understood the words that were declared to them.

The Feast of Tabernacles

<sup>13</sup>Now on the second day the heads of the fathers’ houses of all the people, with the priests and Levites, were gathered to Ezra the scribe, in order to understand the words of the Law. <sup>14</sup>And they found written in the Law, which the LORD had commanded by Moses, that the children of Israel should dwell in <sup>s</sup>booths<sup>3</sup> during the feast of the seventh month, <sup>15</sup>and <sup>t</sup>that they should announce and proclaim in all their cities and <sup>u</sup>in Jerusalem, say-

8:2 in scripture, women are often presumed to be present in group gatherings; here they are mentioned explicitly. Everyone who could hear with understanding—that is, older children as well as adults—gathered on the first day of the seventh month. The wall had been completed on the twenty-fifth day of the sixth month (6:15) so this event took place just a few days after the completion of the wall.

8:3 morning until midday: t his would have been a period of about six hours.

8:5 As Ezra unrolled the scroll, the people stood, signifying their reverence for the Word. t his gesture later became characteristic of the Jewish people in synagogue services.

8:6 Before reading the Book of the Law, Ezra led the people in prayer. Blessed here indicates identifying god as the source of the blessing of the people (see Ps. 103:1). t the people answered Amen and lifted their hands, indicating their participation with Ezra in prayer. t hen they bowed their heads and worshiped the Lord with their faces to the ground, indicating their willing submission to their Lord and Creator.

8:8 they read distinctly: t he Levites explained fully the meaning of the Law of god. they gave the sense: t he Levites explained the Law so that the people got the sense and insight of what was being read.

8:9-11 Once the people understood the Word of god, they wept. t hey had heard the high standard of the Law and recognized their low standing before the Lord, and were convicted. n ehemiah, Ezra, and the Levites were undoubtedly glad to see the people’s conviction. However, they urged the people to stop crying and reminded them that this day was holy to the Lord. t he first day of the seventh month (v. 2) was the Feast of trumpets. it was not a time to weep, but to celebrate. t he people were instructed to celebrate the feast with eating, drinking, and sharing. The joy of the Lord could refer to the joy that god has, but the context indicates that this is something the people also experienced. it is a god-given gladness found when we are in communion with god. When our goal is to know more about the Lord, the byproduct is His joy. Strength here means “place of safety,” a “refuge,” or “protection.” t he people’s refuge was god: t hey had built a wall and they carried spears and swords, but He was their protection.

8:12 t he people went to their houses to eat and drink, to share and rejoice, because they took to heart the words of n ehemiah, Ezra, and the Levites (vv. 1-9). t hey obeyed the Word of the Lord and celebrated the Feast of trumpets.

8:13 t he heads of families, the priests, and the Levites came back the next day to hear more teaching from god’s Word. understand: Even the leaders gathered to gain the sense of the scriptures and how they should act.

8:14 By this time, the reading of the Law had advanced to Lev. 23. t he listeners discovered that they were to observe the Feast of tabernacles from the fifteenth to the twenty-second day of the seventh month. During this time, the people were to live in booths made of fresh branches of fruit and palm trees. t he booths would be set up in courts, streets, public squares, and housetops. no secular work was to be done during this festival. t his feast was observed in memory of the their ancestors’ living in booths—that is, tents—after the Exodus (see Lev. 23:40). t he booth was not a symbol of misery, but of protection, preservation, and shelter.

ing, “Go out to the mountain, and <sup>v</sup>bring olive branches, branches of oil trees, myrtle branches, palm branches, and branches of leafy trees, to make booths, as it is written.”

The People Confess Their Sins

8:17 since the days of Joshua . . . the children of Israel had not done so: t he reference here is to the construction of booths. t he people of israel had certainly celebrated the Feast of tabernacles since the days of Joshua. in fact, those who had returned with Ezra kept the feast the first year of their return (see 1 Kin. 8:65; 2 Chr. 7:9; see especially Ezra 3:4).

8:18 t he reading of the Law was required during the celebration of the Feast of tabernacles, which occurred on the sabbath year (see Deut. 31:10, 11).

9:1 the twenty-fourth day of this month: t he people’s public worship had begun on the first day of the seventh month (8:2). More than three weeks later, the people were still engaged in public worship. Fasting, sackcloth, and dust were traditional signs of mourning; here these signs were preparation for the confession of the people’s sin (v. 2).

9:2 Of Israelite lineage means “the seed of israel.” t he separation from all foreigners was a sacred separation from foreign persons who worshiped other gods and whose practices might have brought harm to the integrity of the Lord’s worship by His people. their sins and the iniquities of their fathers: t he confession of the people’s own sins was for personal and corporate forgiveness; the confession of their fathers’ sins was for remembrance, that they might not continue in past evil actions and attitudes.

9:3 As in 8:5, the people stood in reverence at hearing the reading of the scriptures. one-fourth of the day: Approximately three hours (compare 8:3) were spent in public reading and three hours were spent in corporate worship. confessed: When this word is used with god as its object, as in this verse, it refers to the praise of god.

9:5 Stand up and bless the LORD your God: t these words were shouted by the Levites. Forever and ever: t he Lord of Hosts will be praised through all eternity. Your glorious name: t he importance of the name of god can scarcely be overestimated. t his psalm is solidly based on the theology of the Law (the books of Moses) as would be expected following the three-week reading of the scriptures (8:1, 2). t hus this poem’s exaltation of the Lord’s name is based on god’s own revelation of His name recorded in the Book of Exodus (see Ex. 3:14). t he prophet isaiah also praised the Lord’s “glorious name” (is. 63:14).

9:6 One of the fundamental teachings of s cripture is that god is not one among many; He alone is the living god (see Deut. 6:4). heaven . . . earth . . . seas: god alone has made all things, and He alone preserves all things. t herefore, worship is due Him. t he first section of this psalm (vv. 5, 6) establishes the mood for the whole poem: god is incomparable (see n um. 23:8, 9; Deut. 4:32–40; Ps. 113:4–6).

9:7, 8 You are the LORD God: t he word order of the Hebrew text is striking: “You are He, Yahweh (the) god.” t he use of the definite article on the word god marks Him as “the true god.” Abraham: t he story of the election of Abraham begins in gen. 12:1–3. t he point here is to emphasize god’s grace. You found his heart faithful: n one of the people of biblical history was without sin except Jesus. s till, there were some whose faithfulness to god was constant. Among them were Abraham and s arah (see Heb. 11). t he subsequent history of the people of israel was not marked by the steady faithfulness seen in Abraham, much to the displeasure of the Lord. t he Promised Land, the land of the Canaanites, was populated

9:9 t he Book of Exodus tells about the plight of the israelites in Egypt and their complaint to the Lord for deliverance. it then speaks of god’s mercy in His response to the people’s need. t his verse suggests that before the people expressed their hurt, the Lord was already aware of their troubles.

9:15 t he gifts of bread, or manna (see Ex. 16:9–35), and water (see Ex. 17:1–7) demonstrated god’s care for His people in their journey to the Promised Land.

The Levites’ Psalm

t he ninth chapter of nehemiah is one of the most eloquent recitals of god’s marvelous acts in israel’s history. Along with Moses’s “song of the sea” (Ex. 15), “t he song of Moses” (Deut. 32), “Deborah’s song” (Judg. 5), “Hannah’s song” (1 sam. 2), and David’s “song of the Bow” (2 sam. 1), t his poem is one of the great psalms in scripture.

i nterestingly enough, the occasion for t his grand psalm was not an official feast day. t he twenty-fourth day of t ishri was two days after the celebration of the Feast of tabernacles, the joyous celebration of god’s provision for the israelites in the wilderness. Apparently, Ezra and the Levites saw the need for the people to confess their sins more fully in light of the reading of god’s law (8:7, 8). t hus in the spirit of the Day of Atonement, which occurred on the tenth day of that month, the people gathered to praise god, confess their sins, and renew their commitment to the covenant. King Josiah had led a similar covenant renewal ceremony after reading god’s law (2 Chr. 34:29–32).

t he Levites led the confession with the psalm recorded here. similar to Psalms 78, 105, and 106, t his psalm vividly rehearses the story of the nation of israel with a glorious focus on god’s gracious action among His people. Ultimately, t his was the history of god’s saving works. t he poem has four parts: (1) glorification of god’s name (vv. 5, 6); (2) recital of god’s faithfulness to His people despite their checkered history (vv. 7–31); (3) acknowledgment of god’s righteousness (vv. 32–35); and (4) confession (vv. 36, 37). t his psalm about the history of israel’s salvation evoked a response: t he israelites humbled themselves before their Lord and recommitted themselves to His covenant.

A true understanding of god’s merciful work on our behalf always leads to confession, worship, and renewal. Psalms like t his one can help us restore a true picture of the gracious Lord we worship.

- Their <sup>q</sup> clothes did not wear out that they acted proudly—that is, they behaved toward god in the same way that the people of Egypt had behaved toward them. t he primary reference here is to the rebellion of israel against the Lord at Kadesh (see num. 13; 14). t he people’s rebellion went so far that they appointed a leader to take them back to Egypt. But You: t hese words contrast the words “But they” at the beginning of v. 16 (see Ex. 34:6). Ready to pardon means abounding in forgiveness. Slow to anger: t his phrase translates a Hebrew idiom (“long of nose”) that has the same meaning as the English expression “to have a long fuse.” Kindness, from a word that means “loyal love,” is used often in the Book of Psalms (see Ps. 13:5). Because of god’s loyalty and steadfastness, He did not forsake His people.

9:18–21 in these verses, the poet describes the faithfulness of god to the israelites in the wilderness despite their wretched behavior. Molded calf is a reference to the act of rebellion described in Ex. 32. Manifold mercies describes deep feelings like those of a mother for her child. You did not forsake them is repeated from v. 17. god would have been justified in abandoning His people because of their extreme sinfulness and wicked rebellion; yet He was compelled by His character not to do so. You also gave Your good Spirit: god not only gave gifts to His people, He made Himself known in their midst. Forty years: t he wilderness experience (see Deut. 2:7) is viewed in two ways in the Bible: (1) as a period of prolonged punishment because of rebellion; and (2) as a period of continued mercy because of god’s unchanging character. clothes . . . feet: god’s provisions were daily experiences of divine miracles (see Deut. 8:4; 29:5).

9:22–25 t he poet describes the mercies of god in israel’s conquest of the Promised Land and in god’s continuing provision for them. kingdoms and nations: t he Bible celebrates the conquest of the land east of the Jordan, as well as the conquest of Canaan itself. as the stars: t he miraculous growth of the people is described in this familiar hyperbole (see gen. 15:5; 22:17). the people went in: t he conquest of the land as described in the Book of Joshua is indicated here. strong cities . . . rich land . . . houses: With few exceptions, the people of israel conquered the inhabitants of Canaan in such a way that they were able to move into the Canaanites’ undamaged homes and cities. t he israelites were also able to enjoy crops and wells for which they did not have to work. All of this is testimony to god’s great goodness.

9:26–29 t he rebellion of the people was expressed during the period of the judges and throughout the period of the kings. Cast Your law behind their backs is a graphic metaphor for rebellion. killed Your prophets: Jesus also directed this charge against the rebellious people (see Matt. 23:31). You delivered them into the hand of their enemies refers to the experiences of the israelites during the period described by the Book of Judges. he shall live by them: salvation in any period is only by grace through faith

<sup>3</sup>testified against them
 To turn them to Yourself;
 And they worked great provocations.
 27 <sup>c</sup>Therefore You delivered them into the hand of their enemies,
 Who oppressed them;
 And in the time of their trouble,
 When they cried to You,
 You <sup>d</sup>heard from heaven;
 And according to Your abundant mercies
<sup>e</sup>You gave them deliverers who saved them
 From the hand of their enemies.
 28<sup>4</sup> But after they had rest,
<sup>f</sup>They again did evil before You.
 Therefore You left them in the hand of their enemies,
 So that they had dominion over them;
 Yet when they returned and cried out to You,
 You heard from heaven;
 And <sup>g</sup>many times You delivered them
 according to Your mercies,
 29 And <sup>4</sup>testified against them,
 That You might bring them back to Your law.
 Yet they acted <sup>5</sup>proudly,
 And did not heed Your commandments,
 But sinned against Your judgments, <sup>h</sup>Which if a man does, he shall live by them?
 And they shrugged their shoulders,
<sup>6</sup>Stiffened their necks,
 And would not hear.
 30 Yet for many years You had patience with them,
 And <sup>7</sup>testified <sup>i</sup>against them by Your Spirit <sup>j</sup>in Your prophets.
 Yet they would not listen;
<sup>k</sup>Therefore You gave them into the hand of the peoples of the lands.
 31 Nevertheless in Your great mercy
<sup>l</sup>You did not utterly consume them nor forsake them;
 For You are God, gracious and merciful.

 Do not let all the <sup>8</sup>trouble seem small

 That has come upon us,
 Our kings and our princes,

 33 However <sup>o</sup>You are just in all that has 38<sup>4</sup> And because of all this,

 We <sup>u</sup>make a sure covenant and (see Eph. 2:8, 9). Keeping the Law was never a means of salvation, but a guide for living a life that pleases the Lord.

9:30, 31 god continued to be faithful to His disobedient people. For many years refers to the history of the people of israel from saul to the last of the kings. Your Spirit in Your prophets speaks of god's work in inspiring the words of the prophets of israel (see Jer. 1:9). You gave them into the hand of the peoples of the lands refers to the captivity of israel. nor forsake them: For the third time in this psalm (vv. 17, 19), this reality is affirmed.

9:32 Now refers to the time of the great revival under Ezra (8:1, 2). covenant and mercy: god's covenant loyalty is unbreakable (see Heb. 6:17, 18). Do not let all the trouble seem small: in view of the unspeakable wonder of god, the hardship of His people might seem too small a matter to be noticed. kings . . . people: t he effects of israel's trouble were all-inclusive. From the days of the kings of Assyria: t he incursions of the Assyrians, beginning with tiglath-Pileser iii, began a period of oppression for the Jewish people.

9:33 You are just: t he poet affirms the righteousness of god. You have dealt faithfully . . . we have done wickedly: t his is the basic reality not only of this chapter, but of the history of god and His people.

9:36, 37 Servants is used as a term of irony here. t he people of israel had been called to be the servants of god (see Lev. 25:55), but here they were servants of foreign rulers. t he produce of the land did not belong to them; it went to kings. t he people were taxed by Persians for the produce of the land that was god's gift to them.

9:38 t he psalm ends in action, not just sentiment. t he intent was changed behavior. t he pledge was to mirror god's faithfulness. t he

The Covenant That Was Sealed

<sup>28d</sup>Now the rest of the people—the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the Nethinim, <sup>e</sup>and all those who had separated themselves from the peoples of the lands to the Law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, everyone who had knowledge and understanding— <sup>29</sup>these joined with their brethren, their nobles, <sup>f</sup>and entered into a curse and an oath <sup>g</sup>to walk in God’s Law, which was given by Moses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our Lord, and His ordinances and His statutes: <sup>30</sup>We would not give <sup>h</sup>our daughters as wives to the peoples of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons; <sup>31i</sup>if the peoples of the land brought <sup>2</sup>wares or any grain to sell on the Sabbath day, we would not buy it from them on the Sabbath, or on a holy day; and we would forego the <sup>j</sup>seventh year’s produce and the <sup>k</sup>exacting<sup>3</sup> of every debt.

new covenant community desired to demonstrate the faithfulness of Abraham and Sarah.

10:1 t he way someone “signed” a document in the ancient world was similar to the use of a wax seal in more recent times. A distinctive seal was pressed into soft clay. t he pattern of the seal showed what authority issued that document.

10:2–8 t he priests who sealed the covenant are listed here. some of these names appear in a later list as heads of priestly houses (12:11–20). twenty-one priests who were heads of households signed the agreement in the name of the houses and families of their respective classes. Ezra’s name does not appear, perhaps indicating that he was not the head of a household.

10:9–13 t he Levites also signed the covenant. some of these names appear later as heads of the orders of Levites (12:8).

10:14–27 Forty-four leaders also signed the covenant. in contrast to the religious leaders, these were the political leaders of the Jewish community (compare 7:4–63; Ezra 2).

10:28 not only leaders, but laypeople signed the covenant. The Nethinim were temple servants who did menial work in the sanctuary (see Ezra 2:43). Those who had separated themselves from the peoples of the lands were the descendants of those israelites who had been left in the land and who joined the returning remnant. Men, women, and children of sufficient age signed the covenant.

10:29 entered into a curse: t he phrase points to the penalties for failure to comply with the covenant. t he people took an oath to live by the Word of god. God’s Law: t he Law was a gift of god, given by Moses. t he israelites swore that they would observe the law of god. commandments . . . ordinances . . . statutes: t his is a way of speaking of the whole law of god (1:7).

10:30 t he israelites’ decision to obey the Word of god in every area of their lives (v. 29) was not just a general statement. t he people specifically vowed to obey the Word of god in their marriage relationships. Marriage with non-Jewish people was clearly forbidden in the scriptures (see Ex. 34:12–16; Deut. 7:3; Josh. 23:12; Judg. 3:6).

We would not give our daughters . . . nor take their daughters: t he parents of israel decided that they would not permit their children to marry non-Jews. in the ancient world, marriages usually were arranged by the parents.

10:31 Other areas of life were included in the people’s dedication to god’s law. t his verse deals with Sabbath observance. t hree particulars regarding the sabbath are mentioned. First, the people promised to stop all buying and selling from foreigners on the sabbath. second, they pledged to observe the sabbatical year—that is, to leave their fields uncultivated during every seventh year (see Lev. 25:1–7). t hird, they decided not to collect debts during the sabbatical year (see Deut. 15:1–6). t he people were dedicating themselves to observe the Word of god in their business life.

10:32–39 t he remainder of the chapter covers the people’s promise to obey the Word of god concerning the temple. in this area, the people made four promises: (1) t hey promised to pay a temple tax to defray the expenses of the worship services in god’s sanctuary. Verse 33 lists the objects that the tax would supply. (2) t hey promised to provide a wood offering. t he Law prescribed that wood should be constantly burning on the altar (see Lev. 6:12, 13). nehemiah made this the business of the congregation. (3) t hey promised to offer their firstfruits at the temple. t he firstfruits of the ground were given to the Lord as an acknowledgment of His status as landowner (see Ex. 23:19; 34:26; Deut. 26:2). t he people promised the firstfruits of all trees, which means that they were going beyond the requirements of the Law. t he firstborn of the animals also belonged to the Lord (see num. 18:15, 17–19). (4) t hey promised to pay the priests.

lots among the priests, the Levites, and the people, <sup>o</sup>for bringing the wood offering into the house of our God, according to our fathers' houses, at the appointed times year by year, to burn on the altar of the LORD our God <sup>p</sup>as it is written in the Law.

<sup>35</sup>And we made ordinances <sup>q</sup>to bring the firstfruits of our ground and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, to the house of the LORD; <sup>36</sup>to bring the <sup>r</sup>firstborn of our sons and our cattle, as it is written in the Law, and the firstborn of our herds and our flocks, to the house of our God, to the priests who minister in the house of our God; <sup>37</sup>to bring the firstfruits of our dough, our offerings, the fruit from all kinds of trees, the new wine and oil, to the priests, to the storerooms of the <sup>4</sup>house of our God; and to bring <sup>t</sup>the tithes of our land to the Levites, for the Levites should receive the tithes in all our farming communities. <sup>38</sup>And the priest, the descendant of Aaron, shall be with the Levites <sup>u</sup>when the Levites receive tithes; and the Levites shall bring up a tenth of the tithes to the house of our God, to <sup>v</sup>the rooms of the storehouse.

<sup>39</sup>For the children of Israel and the children of Levi <sup>w</sup>shall bring the offering of the grain, of the new wine and the oil, to the storerooms where the articles of the sanctuary are, where the priests who minister and the gatekeepers <sup>x</sup>and the singers are; and we will not <sup>y</sup>neglect the house of our God.

The People Dwelling in Jerusalem

11 Now the leaders of the people dwelt at Jerusalem; the rest of the people cast lots to bring one out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem, <sup>a</sup>the holy city, and nine-tenths were to dwell in other cities. <sup>2</sup>And the people blessed all the men who <sup>b</sup>willingly offered themselves to dwell at Jerusalem.

11:1 nehemiah cast lots to repopulate Jerusalem. Here the casting of lots was to determine god's will. solomon wrote, "the lot is cast into the lap, but its every decision is from the LORD" (Prov. 16:33). one out of ten: this was the proportion demanded in order to bring the population of Jerusalem to the level deemed necessary for its strength and viability.

11:4-9 Four hundred and sixty-eight men from the tribe of Judah lived in Jerusalem; nine hundred and twenty-eight men from the tribe of Benjamin also lived there. According to 1 Chr. 9:3, descendants of Ephraim and Manasseh also made their home in Jerusalem.

11:12 The work of the house refers to the work of the temple—specifically, attending the sacrifices of the temple.

11:14 Mighty men of valor refers to the men who guarded the city of Jerusalem.

11:16 The oversight of the business outside of the house of God refers to the maintenance of the temple, including repairs.

<sup>19</sup>Moreover the gatekeepers, Akkub, Talmon, and their brethren who kept the gates, were one hundred and seventy-two.

<sup>20</sup>And the rest of Israel, of the priests and Levites, were in all the cities of Judah, everyone in his inheritance. <sup>21</sup>m But the Nethinim dwelt in Ophel. And Zihai and Gishpa were over the Nethinim.

<sup>22</sup>Also the overseer of the Levites at Jerusalem was Uzzi the son of Bani, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Micha, of the sons of Asaph, the singers in charge of the <sup>3</sup>service of the <sup>6</sup>house of God. <sup>23</sup>For n it was the king's command concerning them that a <sup>7</sup>certain portion should be for the singers, a quota day by day. <sup>24</sup>Pethahiah the son of Meshezabel, of the children of <sup>o</sup>Zerah the son of Judah, was p the <sup>8</sup>king's deputy in all matters concerning the people.

The People Dwelling Outside Jerusalem

11:25 Kirjath Arba is another name for Hebron.

12:12-21 in vv. 1-7, the names of 22 priests are listed. Here only 20 names are recorded. Hattush (v. 2) and Maadiah (v. 5) are not mentioned in this list.

Nehemiah Dedicates the Wall

<sup>43</sup>Also that day they offered great sacrifices, and rejoiced, for God had made them rejoice with great joy; the women and the children also rejoiced, so that the joy of Jerusalem was heard <sup>k</sup>afar off.

Temple Responsibilities

12:27–29 After the completion of Jerusalem's wall (ch. 6), a revival of the people broke out (see chs. 8–10). After the revival, Nehemiah took steps to repopulate the city (see 7:4, 5; 11:1, 2). These two factors explain why the dedication of the wall was delayed. The people celebrated the dedication of the wall with gladness, referring not only to their festivity but to the worship of God. Thanksgivings, a term commonly found in the Book of Psalms (see Ps. 147:7), means "public acknowledgment," "to declare aloud, in public, to another." This word, along with singing and instruments, suggests the use of the Psalms in musical settings with words of praise and instrumental accompaniment.

12:30 The method of purification is not stated, but the order is—the priests and Levites, followed by the people, the gates, and the wall. Those who bore the vessels of the Lord had to be cleansed first.

12:36 The association of the name David with musical instruments was a reference to Israel's glorious past.

12:43 The sacrifices offered at the dedication of the wall probably were not burnt offerings, but peace offerings in which the people shared a common meal. The dedication was an occasion for great rejoicing. Everyone, including wives and children, took part.

12:44–47 After the dedication of the wall, the people took steps to provide for the priests, Levites, singers, and gatekeepers who served in the temple. The joy of the Lord should produce service for the Lord. In this case, the people's joy overflowed into providing for the temple. Men were appointed as custodians of the firstfruits and tithes. The days of David and Asaph: The times of the great music of Israel were never forgotten; they served as a model for the days still to come.

Principles of Separation

13 On that day <sup>a</sup>they read from the Book of Moses in the hearing of the people, and in it was found written <sup>b</sup>that no Ammonite or Moabite should ever come into the assembly of God, <sup>2</sup>because they had not met the children of Israel with bread and water, but <sup>c</sup>hired Balaam against them to curse them. <sup>d</sup>However, our God turned the curse into a blessing. <sup>3</sup>So it was, when they had heard the Law, <sup>e</sup>that they separated all the mixed multitude from Israel.

The Reforms of Nehemiah

<sup>10</sup>I also realized that the portions for the Levites had <sup>m</sup>not been given them; for each of the Levites and the singers who did the work had gone back to <sup>n</sup>his field. <sup>11</sup>So <sup>o</sup>I contended with the rulers, and said, <sup>p</sup>“Why is the house of God forsaken?” And I gathered them together and set them in their place. <sup>12q</sup>Then all Judah brought the tithe of the grain and the new wine and the oil to the storehouse. <sup>13r</sup>And I appointed as treasurers over the storehouse Shelemiah the priest and Zadok the scribe, and of the Levites, Pedaiiah; and next to them was Hanan the son of Zaccur, the son of Mattaniah; for they were considered <sup>s</sup>faithful, and their task was to distribute to their brethren.

<sup>14t</sup>Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and do not wipe out my good deeds that I have done for the house of my God, and for its services!

<sup>15</sup>In those days I saw people in Judah treading wine presses <sup>u</sup>on the Sabbath, and bringing in sheaves, and loading donkeys with wine, grapes, figs, and all kinds of burdens, <sup>v</sup>which they brought into Jerusalem on the Sabbath day. And I warned them about the day on which they were selling provisions. <sup>16</sup>Men of Tyre dwelt there also, who brought in fish and all kinds of goods, and sold them on the Sabbath to the children of Judah, and in Jerusalem.

<sup>17</sup>Then I contended with the nobles of Judah, and said to them, “What evil thing is this that you do, by which you profane the Sabbath day? <sup>18w</sup>Did not your fathers do thus, and did not our God bring all this disaster on us and on this city? Yet you bring added wrath on Israel by profaning the Sabbath.”

13:1-3 t he first area of backsliding for the people was their relationship with foreigners. Even though 9:2 states that “those of israelite lineage separated themselves from all foreigners,” the people once again allowed foreigners into the congregation. r e l a t i o n s h i p s between the Jewish people and the foreigners in the land had caused them to violate god’s command (see also 1 Cor. 15:33).

13:4-9 t he second major area of backsliding dealt with in this chapter (vv. 1-3) was that the high priest was allowing god’s enemy to live in god’s house. Eliashib was the high priest (vv. 4, 28). Tobiah was one of the men who had tried to stop the building of the wall (2:10, 19; 4:3; 6:10-12, 17, 19). Eliashib allowed tobiah to stay in the large room of the temple that had previously been used for storing grain and the like. in fact, tobiah had been given access to several rooms of the temple.

13:8, 9 When nehemiah returned to Jerusalem, he immediately initiated reforms. He removed tobiah’s furniture from the chamber and then ordered that the room be cleansed. When the washing, scouring, and sprinkling with blood were completed, the chamber was once again filled with grain and the other items that had been there before.

13:10, 11 Contended is a term used often in the prophets to refer to god bringing a legal case against His errant people (see Jer. 2:9). nehemiah was acting like a prophet, bringing a legal case against an apostate person. He contended for what was right. n o t e the pointed question he asked: Why is the house of God forsaken?

13:12, 13 Then all Judah brought the tithe: t he gifts that should have been brought earlier were finally being brought by the people. treasurers: nehemiah chose faithful men (see 7:2; 1 Cor. 4:2; 2 tim. 2:2) to make sure the gifts were distributed properly.

13:14 n o r m a l l y prayer is offered to the Lord before or during an event. in this case, nehemiah’s prayer followed his good deeds. nehemiah was saying, “What i did, i did in accordance with Your will; now preserve it and protect me.”

13:15-22 Another difficulty that nehemiah faced concerned the Sabbath. t he Jewish people in Judah were working on saturday. People were buying and selling produce in Jerusalem. Men of Tyre brought fish and other things to be sold both in Judah and Jerusalem. t h e s e were all violations of Ex. 20:8-11 and of the people’s own oath (10:31). t he people had put their business ahead of obedience to god’s command concerning their day of rest.

13:19-22 I commanded the gates to be shut: nehemiah took charge, ordering the gates to be closed from Friday evening to saturday evening and even posting his own servants as guards. When the merchants set up outside the wall, nehemiah warned them that if they stayed around again on the Sabbath, he would himself attack them. Awed by the threat of the one-man army, the merchants left.

Sabbath, that I commanded the gates to be shut, and charged that they must not be opened till after the Sabbath. <sup>19</sup>Then I posted some of my servants at the gates, so that no burdens would be brought in on the Sabbath day. <sup>20</sup>Now the merchants and sellers of all kinds of <sup>2</sup>wares <sup>3</sup>lodged outside Jerusalem once or twice.

<sup>21</sup>Then I warned them, and said to them, “Why do you spend the night <sup>4</sup>around the wall? 13:23, 24 t he problem of Jews marrying foreigners had been dealt with 30 years before by Ezra (see Ezra 9:1–4). t he people had then made a covenant, vowing that they would not do this (10:30). in this case n ehemiah found children of the mixed marriages who could not speak Hebrew, the language of s cripture. Without knowing Hebrew, these children could not learn the Law in their homes or worship in the holy temple. t he Jews were raising children who did not know or worship the living god.

13:25–27 n ehemiah’s attack on the Jews who had married non-Jews was confrontational, direct, and even brutal. contended . . . cursed . . . struck . . . pulled out their hair: it is unnerving to read this list of verbs and imagine the scene. t hese were not the dispassionate remarks of someone giving a seminar. n ehemiah used everything he could, including his hands, to enforce obedience to the Law. made them swear: n ehemiah forced them to comply to the will of god in this matter. After all, this was the principal issue that had led to israel’s captivity in the beginning. n ehemiah simply could not allow such a disaster to happen again. Solomon: Despite his greatness and god’s love for him, even s olomon had sinned greatly in this regard (see 1 Kin. 11:4–8). How then, with the great lessons of the past so clearly before them, could the people repeat these sins?

13:28, 29 I drove him from me: t his action was taken against the most prominent offender, the grandson of the high priest Eliashib. t his young man had married the daughter of s anballat (2:10), the governor of samaria and the archenemy of the Jewish people. t he marriage was particularly offensive because it formed a treasonable alliance with israel’s enemies and compromised the purity of the high priesthood (ch. 12). Because of the seriousness of this offense, n ehemiah took dramatic action. He expelled the young man from the community, praying that god would remember those who had defiled the priesthood.

13:30, 31 I cleansed them of everything pagan: n ehemiah’s testimony was that he had done everything he knew how to bring about righteousness in the priesthood and among the Levites, including their offerings and service. n ehemiah’s last recorded words (see 5:19), remember me, O my God, for good, would serve well as the last words of any person of faith.

THE BOOK OF ESTHER

THE BOOK OF ESTHER has all the elements of a great novel. There is the beautiful young orphan girl who rises from obscurity to become queen. She even hides a secret that could bring about her demise. Then there is the ambitious villain whose passion is to destroy the innocent. Finally the story line involves a power struggle, romantic love, and a startling exposé. But in the end, the point of this true story is clear: Once again the Israelites' God miraculously saves His people from certain destruction.

Author and Date The identity of the author of Esther is unknown. However the writer was probably Jewish and lived in Persia. A strong Jewish spirit pervades the book, particularly evident in the account of the establishment of the Jewish festival Purim. Moreover, the author was acquainted with Persian culture, as the extensive descriptions of the palace complex at Shushan (also called Susa) and the domestic details about the reign of King Ahasuerus indicate. For these reasons, some Jewish rabbis have ascribed the authorship of the book to Mordecai, one of its principal characters.

Whoever the author was, the Book of Esther was probably written shortly after the reign of Ahasuerus, no earlier than 465 B.C. The author writes of the rule of Ahasuerus and the deeds of Mordecai (10:2) in the past tense, indicating the book was not composed during Ahasuerus's reign. Yet the fact that Greek words do not appear in the book rules out a date after about 300 B.C. when the Greek language became more prominent in the ancient Middle East. On the other hand, the numerous words of Persian origin in the book point to its being composed during the latter half of the fifth century B.C. For example, the book calls Xerxes by the Hebrew name Ahasuerus, a spelling derived from the Persian Khshayarsha. If it had been written after 300 B.C. a spelling closer to the Greek form Xerxes would be expected.

Historical Accuracy Some critical scholars question the historical accuracy of Esther on various counts. One difficulty is the passage that describes the royal feast (1:3–5). The passage appears to indicate that the feast lasted a particularly long time: "one hundred and eighty days in all" (1:4). However, a better interpretation is that this long period of time was the period of preparation for the military campaign in Greece, during which Ahasuerus displayed his power and wealth to his officials. The feast itself lasted seven days—a lengthy time for a feast, but not an incredible period (1:5).

Another difficulty is that neither Vashti nor Esther is mentioned outside the Bible. However, historians do note that following his unsuccessful campaign against Greece (482–479 B.C.), Ahasuerus sought refuge in his harem. This coincides with the elevation of Esther (2:17). Furthermore, the word translated "queen" (1:9; 2:22) may refer merely to a principal wife rather than to a woman who ruled beside the king. Thus the obscurity of Esther and Vashti would be understandable. Even so, some still balk at the idea that a Persian ruler would marry a Jewish woman rather than choosing someone from the aristocratic Persian families. However, the Book of Esther makes it clear that Esther initially hid her Jewish identity. She used her Persian name Ishtar or Esther instead of her Hebrew name Hadassah. The climax of the story involves her surprising revelation that she was a Jew.

Importance in the Canon The Book of Esther has held an important place in the canon due to its strong testimony to God's providence and protection of His people. However, the book has been challenged by some. One of the main points in the dispute is the remarkable fact that neither the word God nor God's name Yahweh is found in the book. There are two explanations that may account for this. First, it may be a result of the author's chosen point of view. The author might have viewed the Jewish people who remained in Persia and did not return to the land of Israel (Ezra 1:1) as a people cut off from the principal blessings of God. Thus the absence of God's name in the book might be a way of expressing God's distance from the exiles. At the same time, the book clearly reveals God's surprising protection of them.

Second, the author may have written the book in the form of a Persian state chronicle in order to explain to the Persians the Jewish celebration of Purim. In accordance with this style, the author emphasizes the king's name, titles, and lists, but writes about the Jewish people in a detached tone. This could help explain why the Book of Esther is the only book in the Bible that does not directly mention God.

Themes Through the twists and turns of the Book of Esther's story line, the author weaves an underlying story about God's character. The narrative demonstrates God's providence and sovereignty in a situation that seemed hopeless. The Israelites were living among foreigners who did not fear God and who did not care about them. An implacable enemy of the Israelites had gained power at court and was laying a plan to destroy the Jews. But at a time when God seemed so distant, He was actually preparing to deliver His people. God was in control of every event—even the sleeplessness of a foreign king (6:1).

Thus in the Persian capital, God demonstrated His covenant loyalty to the Israelites. Long ago, God had promised Abraham that He would curse any individual who cursed the Israelites (Gen. 12:2, 3). The downfall of Haman dramatically illustrated God's faithfulness to His promise. Even to the Israelites who remained in a foreign land, God remained true to His word, for they were still His people. Thus the author of Esther clearly illustrates what the Israelites were celebrating at the Feast of Purim: God's faithful protection of His people.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Esther puts herself in harm's way for her people as she attempts to be an advocate. The similarities to Jesus' mission on our behalf are staggering. Esther's rise to power was orchestrated by God "for such a time as this" (4:14), the apostle Paul describes Jesus' entrance into our world as something that occurred "when the fullness of the time had come" (Gal. 4:4).

Another remarkable similarity between Esther's story and Jesus is the satanic attempt to destroy the divine plot of redemption God set in motion. But in both cases, God brings about His purpose by preserving His people in spite of opposition and danger.

1:1 the kingdom of Ahasuerus extended from India (the region drained by the Indus river) to Ethiopia (Cush, or northern Sudan). provinces: the Persian kingdom under Ahasuerus was divided into small areas called provinces and larger divisions called satrapies.

1:2 the capital of ancient Elam, Shushan (or Susa) was one of four royal residences for the Persian emperors. Shushan was 150 miles north of the Persian Gulf. It was the location of one of Daniel's visions (Dan. 8:2), and it was where Nehemiah served as cupbearer to King Artaxerxes I (see Neh. 1:1, 2). citadel: the capital city had a palace fortress on the highest point of the city, the acropolis.

1:3–5 in the third year of his reign, Ahasuerus displayed the riches of his kingdom for six months. made a feast: there is some uncertainty about whether the king gave one feast or two. It is possible that v. 3 introduces the idea of the grand banquet and v. 5 records the specifics of what turned out to be a seven-day festival. It is not likely that the feasting itself extended for 180 days. Persia and Media: Previously the Medes had been the stronger of the two nations. Beginning with the reign of Cyrus, the Persians dominated the kingdom. Together they established a powerful empire (see Dan. 5:28).

1:6, 7 white and blue: these were the royal colors of the Persians. The Persian custom was to recline on couches at the table.

1:8 the monarch ordered that guests could drink as much or as little as they pleased. This differed from the usual Persian custom by which people at a banquet were required to drink each time the king raised his cup.

1:9 Vashti: the queen gave a separate banquet for the women guests.

<sup>16</sup>And Memucan answered before the king and the princes: “Queen Vashti has not only wronged the king, but also all the princes, and all the people who are in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus. <sup>17</sup>For the queen's behavior will become known to all women, so that they will <sup>n</sup>despise their husbands in their eyes, when they report, ‘King Ahasuerus commanded Queen Vashti to be brought in before him, but she did not come.’ <sup>18</sup>This very day the noble ladies of Persia and Media will say to all the king's officials that they have heard of the behavior of the queen. <sup>21</sup>And the reply pleased the king and the princes, and the king did according to the word of Memucan. <sup>22</sup>Then he sent letters to all the king's provinces, <sup>q</sup>to each province in its own script, and to every people in their own language, that each man should <sup>r</sup>be master in his own house, and speak in the language of his own people.

Esther Becomes Queen

2 After these things, when the wrath of King Ahasuerus subsided, he remembered Vashti, <sup>a</sup>what she had done, and what had been decreed against her. <sup>2</sup>Then the king's servants who attended him said: “Let beautiful young virgins be sought for the king; <sup>3</sup>and let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom, that they may gather all the beautiful young virgins to <sup>1</sup>Shushan the <sup>2</sup>citadel, into the women's quarters, under the custody of <sup>3</sup>Hegai the king's eunuch, custodian of the women. This thing pleased the king, and he did so.

1:10 Castrated men, or eunuchs, were assigned to act as harem attendants and as agents of communication between the king and his harem (6:14). Because of the level of trust these men could attain, they might also function as administrators in the kingdom as well. Harbona plays a significant role later in the story (see 7:9).

1:13 men who understood the times: Court astrologers and magicians gave advice and predicted the future on the basis of what they pretended to know about the supernatural. The prophets often looked upon such charlatans with derisive scorn (see is. 44:24, 25).

1:14 The seven counselors of Ezra 7:14 were probably the same group of men. These men enjoyed the unusual privilege of speaking personally with the king.

1:16–18 Acting as spokesman for the others, Memucan responded shrewdly by enlarging the offense beyond a personal affront to the king.

1:18 contempt: The Hebrew word used occurs only here in the Ot. It is related to the verb translated despise in v. 17.

1:19 royal decree: Memucan urged the king to take immediate action against Vashti. The queen would be given what amounted to a divorce. This would have the effect of demoting her from her privileged position as the chief wife of the king.

1:22 sent letters: The Persians were known for their excellent postal system. Speak in the language of his own people: This suggests the respect that was held for local languages and dialects in the Persian Empire.

2:3 It was customary for the virgins of the king's harem to spend a year in beauty treatments and purification rites before going to see the king (see v. 12). Again we see the exaggerated sense of power of the king contrasted with the fragile status of women. Beautiful young virgins were seen to exist merely to bring pleasure to the king.

2:5 The name Mordecai is related to the name of Marduk, the principal Babylonian deity. The phrase a certain Jew, along with the genealogy and the tribal name Benjamite, prepares us for the upcoming conflict with Haman in ch. 3. Shimei may refer to the man from the family of Saul who cursed David (see 2 sam. 16:5–13). Kish may be the father of Saul (see 1 sam. 9:1, 2). If these figures are the ones intended, they are Mordecai's remote ancestors from the tribe of Benjamin.

Shushan

t he palace at shushan (also called susa) was built by Darius i, Ahasuerus's father. Archaeologists have found in its dedication inscription (housed at the Louvre in Paris), a confirmation of its lavish appointments and ornamentation. Excavation has determined that the king received visitors in a large hall separated from his private living quarters by a courtyard. t he hall contained 36 columns and was flanked on three sides by porticoes, each having two rows of six columns. t he remains of colorfully glazed decorative brick, which formed large mosaics of human figures, winged lions and bulls, sphinxes, and winged sun disks have also been unearthed at susa. t he foundation charter describes the materials used to build the royal compound (cedar, gold, ivory, lapis lazuli, turquoise, and marble) as tribute coming from all parts of the Persian Empire.

2:6 t his verse is difficult to interpret, as the Hebrew text does not indicate the subject of the verb had been carried away. t he subject could not be Mordecai. if he had been among those carried away into captivity, he would not likely have lived until the time of Ahasuerus. t he subject might be Mordecai's ancestor Kish, understood to be a different person than the father of saul. it is also possible that the original phrasing merely means that Mordecai and his family were among those descended from the captives who were taken to Babylon in the days of nebuchadnezzar. in this case, the person who was brought to Babylon is not specifically mentioned; only the more well-known ancestors are noted.

2:7 Hadassah is a Hebrew name that means "Myrtle." Esther is a Persian name meaning "star." Like the name of her cousin Mordecai, the name Esther was related to that of a local deity, the goddess ishtar. Jewish people in antiquity customarily had two names when they lived in regions distant from israel. One would be their secular name, a name understandable in their adopted culture, and the other would be their sacred name given in Hebrew. lovely and beautiful: t he two words complement each other to mean "supremely lovely" or "exceedingly beautiful."

2:8 We cannot determine whether Esther went willingly or reluctantly to the king's palace. s he was brought into the palace complex, but not yet into the living quarters of the king. As custodian of the king's harem, Hegai was a eunuch (2:3).

2:9 obtained his favor: t his phrase characterizes Esther's relationships with all who knew her, including the king (see v. 17). Esther found favor with many, as is demonstrated throughout the chapter. t he Hebrew word for favor is a term used regularly in the Bible to describe the character of god. t his word may be translated "loyal love." t he frequency of this concept with regard to Esther in this book may be a subtle way of suggesting the presence of the Lord without actually mentioning His name. her allowance: Hegai made certain that Esther received choice food in liberal portions. He also gave her seven personal attendants and the most desirable place to live within the quarters of the harem.

2:10 Many reasons have been suggested concerning Esther's hesitation to reveal her national origin. t he time does come when Esther would identify herself and her people (see ch. 8). in fact, her self-disclosure would come at the point when the danger to her person was highest.

2:14 concubines: t hese women lived unfortunate, though highly pampered, lives. if the king never called for them again, they were destined to live as though they were widows for the remainder of their years (see 2 sam. 20:3). t he point made here emphasizes how courageous Esther was when she later made her appearance before Ahasuerus (see 4:11; 5:1).

dy of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch who kept the concubines. She would not go in to the king again unless the king delighted in her and called for her by name.

Mordecai Discovers a Plot

<sup>19</sup> When virgins were gathered together a second time, Mordecai sat within the king's gate. <sup>20</sup> Now Esther had not revealed her family and her people, just as Mordecai had charged her, for Esther obeyed the command of Mordecai as when she was brought up by him.

the matter became known to Mordecai, <sup>m</sup> who told Queen Esther, and Esther informed the king in Mordecai's name. <sup>23</sup> And when an inquiry was made into the matter, it was confirmed, and both were hanged on a gallows; and it was written in <sup>n</sup> the book of the chronicles in the presence of the king.

Haman's Conspiracy Against the Jews

3 After these things King Ahasuerus promoted Haman, the son of Hammedatha the <sup>a</sup> Agagite, and <sup>b</sup> advanced him and set his seat above all the princes who were with him. <sup>2</sup> And all the king's servants who were <sup>c</sup> within the king's gate bowed and paid homage to Haman, for so the king had commanded concerning him. But Mordecai <sup>d</sup> would not bow or pay homage. <sup>3</sup> Then the king's servants who were within the king's gate said to Mordecai, "Why do you transgress the <sup>e</sup> king's command?" <sup>4</sup> Now it happened, when they spoke to him daily and he would not listen to them, that they told it to Haman, to see whether Mordecai's words would stand; for Mordecai had told them that he was a Jew. <sup>5</sup> When Haman saw that Mordecai <sup>f</sup> did not bow or pay him homage, Haman was <sup>g</sup> filled with wrath. <sup>6</sup> But he disdained to lay hands on Mordecai alone, for they had told him of the people of Mordecai. Instead, Haman <sup>h</sup> sought to destroy all the Jews who were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus—the people of Mordecai.

2:15 Again we see the providence of god at work. Esther found favor with everyone she encountered. Here we learn her father's name, Abihail (see 2:7).

2:16 Esther became the principal wife of the king four years after Vashti was divorced. t the month Tebeth corresponds to our December–January.

2:17 t the king apparently was so delighted with Esther that he made her queen right away. t he nouns grace and favor together mean "abundant favor."

2:19 sat within the king's gate: this phrase has a special significance; it means that Mordecai had an official position. s shortly after Esther became queen, she gave Mordecai a position within the king's gate where official business took place (see Deut. 22:13–15).

2:21, 22 Mordecai learned of a plot by two angry eunuchs to take the king's life. Mordecai not only used this information to save the king, but eventually his own people.

3:1 some believe Agagite is a reference to the historical district of Agag within the Persian Empire. Others believe this term more likely linked Haman's descent with the Amalekites. t these people, descendants of Esau (see gen. 36:12), were ancient enemies of the Hebrews (see Ex. 17:8). Agag, a king of the Amalekites, was captured by King saul (see 1 sam. 15:8). i if Mordecai descended from saul, and Haman from the Amalekites (as many rabbis believe), then what follows is the continuation of a long-standing hostility between their families.

3:2 All the officials of the king were on duty within the king's gate.

Mordecai would not bow or pay homage: to comprehend the force of this verse, we need to look at v. 4. t here Mordecai reportedly told the king's servants that he was a Jew. it is not known whether the bowing was required as an act of worship to the king's man or merely as an overt sign of deep respect. t the Hebrew verbs in this passage usually describe the worship of god. t here were occasions when Hebrews bowed before kings or high officials (1 sam. 24:8) without any violation of the prohibitions of false worship. it may be that in Mordecai's case also, the bow was not to be a religious act, but one of honor. As a Jew, Mordecai may not have been able to bring himself to show this sign of respect to one who was an ancestral enemy.

3:5, 6 Mordecai's daily refusal to bow down to Haman filled the official with such rage that he sought to kill all Jewish people in the Persian Empire. Haman's Amalekite ancestry would account for his deep hatred.

3:7 Nisan: t his, the first month of the ancient lunar calendar, corresponds to March–April. t the twelfth year of the king's reign was 474 b.c. they cast Pur: t the word pur was the basis for the name of the Feast of Purim in ch. 9. t the casting of lots was common in ancient times. t the fact that the lot was cast at the beginning of the year to determine the best time to destroy the Jewish people fits with the culture of the day. t the Babylonian religion maintained that the gods gathered at the beginning of each year to establish the destiny of human beings.

day and the <sup>2</sup>month, <sup>3</sup>until it fell on the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar.

<sup>8</sup>Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, “There is a certain people scattered and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of your kingdom; <sup>j</sup>their laws are different from all other people’s, and they do not keep the king’s laws. Therefore it is not fitting for the king to let them remain. <sup>9</sup>If it pleases the king, let a decree be written that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the work, to bring it into the king’s treasuries.”

<sup>12</sup><sup>n</sup>Then the king’s scribes were called on the thirteenth day of the first month, and a decree was written according to all that Haman commanded—to the king’s satraps, to the governors who were over each province, to the officials of all people, to every province <sup>o</sup>according to its script, and to every people in their language. <sup>p</sup>In the name of King Ahasuerus it was written, and sealed with the king’s signet ring. <sup>13</sup>And the letters were <sup>q</sup>sent by couriers into all the king’s provinces, to destroy, to kill, and to annihilate all the Jews, both young and old, little children and women, <sup>r</sup>in one day, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, and <sup>s</sup>to plunder their <sup>t</sup>possessions. <sup>14</sup><sup>t</sup>A copy of the document was to be issued as law in every province, being published for all people, that they should be ready for that day. <sup>15</sup>The couriers went out, hastened by the king’s command; and the decree was proclaimed in <sup>5</sup>Shushan the <sup>6</sup>citadel. So the king and Haman sat down to drink, but <sup>u</sup>the city of Shushan was <sup>7</sup>perplexed.

Esther Agrees to Help the Jews

<sup>4</sup>So Esther’s maids and eunuchs came and told her, and the queen was deeply distressed. Then she sent garments to clothe Mordecai and take his sackcloth away from him, but he would not accept them. <sup>5</sup>Then Esther called Hathach, one of the king’s eunuchs whom he had appointed to attend her, and she gave him a command concerning Mordecai, to learn what and why this was. <sup>6</sup>So Hathach went out to Mordecai in the city square that was in front of the king’s gate. <sup>7</sup>And Mordecai told him all that had happened to him, and <sup>d</sup>the sum of money that Haman had promised to pay into the king’s treasuries to destroy the Jews. <sup>8</sup>He also gave him <sup>e</sup>a copy of the written

3:8 Haman did not identify the people at first. He may have played on the Persian emperor’s native sense of superiority to other peoples. Haman acted as if his motive were no more than proper concern for the welfare of the king. He implied that this unnamed group was rebellious, a present danger to the king.

3:10 t he king’s signet ring symbolized his authority. When he gave this ring to Haman, he was passing to him a symbol of his own royal person. t his meant that Haman could proceed with his plan.

3:11 i t might seem that the king was refusing to accept the money. However, this is difficult to harmonize with Mordecai’s words to Esther in 4:7 and her comments about being “sold” in 7:4. More likely, the king was engaging in the common method of bargaining (g en. 23:7–18).

3:12 scribes: t he king had secretaries who put into writing the official documents. t his verse gives us a picture of the comprehensiveness of the decree. it was given to officials in the provinces, making sure it was distributed everywhere. it was also written in the language of each people group within the realm. t he mark of a signet ring was similar to an official signature in our own day (1 Kin. 21:8).

3:13 t he couriers were royal messengers stationed at various spots along the main roads who would carry messages on horseback. t he plot to kill the Jewish people included the slaughter of those of all age groups and both sexes. t he month Adar: t his corresponds to February–March (3:7; 8:12).

3:15 t he contempt of the king and Haman who sat down to drink while this message was being delivered cannot help but strike a responsive chord of empathy for the Jewish people among the readers of this book. t he text notes that even the people in the city of s hushan were perplexed.

4:1, 2 in the ancient Middle East sackcloth and ashes were used as a visible sign of mourning, indicating a sense of desolation.

4:3 in this book fasting connotes a strong but veiled appeal to god to intervene in a time of severe crisis. in v. 16 Esther commanded a three-day fast among s hushan’s Jews. t he queen herself, along with her maids, undertook a fast at this time before she approached the king. Even the Feast of Purim, which was established to commemorate the Jewish people’s deliverance, incorporated fasting (see 9:31).

4:4 t he verb distressed is strong, suggesting the idea of writhing in severe pain or anguish. Certainly Esther was deeply disturbed by Mordecai’s appearance and agony, though she did not as yet understand what had happened (see v. 5).

4:5, 6 city square: Many events took place in the plaza of a city, including gatherings, proclamations, and public lamentation.

4:7 if Mordecai had not been appointed as a high official at the king’s gate, it is unlikely that he would have known about Haman’s bribe to the king. He was providentially placed by god in an exalted position in a foreign government, as were Joseph (see gen. 41), Daniel (see Dan. 2:48), and nehemiah (see n eh. 1:11). t his is one of the many ways god used the descendants of Abraham to be a blessing to the nations (see gen. 12:2).

4:8 Mordecai recognized the decree as a threat to the very existence decree for their destruction, which was given at <sup>2</sup>Shushan, that he might show it to Esther and explain it to her, and that he might command her to go in to the king to make supplication to him and plead before him for her people. <sup>9</sup>So Hathach returned and told Esther the words of Mordecai.

<sup>10</sup>Then Esther spoke to Hathach, and gave him a command for Mordecai: <sup>11</sup>“All the king’s servants and the people of the king’s provinces know that any man or woman who goes into <sup>7</sup>the inner court to the king, who has not been called, <sup>8</sup>he has but one law: put all to death, except the one <sup>6</sup>to whom the king holds out the golden scepter, that he may live. Yet I myself have not been <sup>5</sup>called to go in to the king these thirty days.” <sup>12</sup>So they told Mordecai Esther’s words.

<sup>13</sup>And Mordecai told them to answer Esther: “Do not think in your heart that you will escape in the king’s palace any more than all the other Jews. <sup>14</sup>For if you remain completely silent at this time, relief and deliverance will arise for the Jews from another place, but you and your father’s house will perish. Yet who knows whether you have come to the kingdom for such a time as this?”

Esther’s Banquet

5 Now it happened <sup>a</sup>on the third day that Esther put on her royal robes and stood in <sup>b</sup>the inner court of the king’s palace, across from the king’s house, while the king sat on his royal throne in the royal house, facing the entrance of the <sup>1</sup>house. <sup>2</sup>So it was, when the king saw Queen Esther standing in the court, that <sup>c</sup>she found favor in his sight, and <sup>d</sup>the king held out to Esther the golden scepter that was in his hand. Then Esther went near and touched the top of the scepter.

of his people, so he boldly commanded Esther to intercede for her people before the king, knowing that this could only be at the risk of her life (see v. 11). if she was not identified as a Hebrew woman, she might possibly escape the fate of her people—but only if her association with Mordecai (see 2:7, 15) was not remembered by their enemies. in any event, she would be in a most risky position. make supplication: t the word means to ask for a gracious response. it is a term that often is used of coming to the Lord for deliverance; here it is used of coming to a king for mercy.

4:10, 11 Esther understood that Mordecai was asking her to risk her life. s he was understandably fearful. Her fear was compounded by the fact that the king had not summoned her for thirty days, implying that she had not been enjoying the king’s favor recently. Who knew if he would still have regard for her at all?

4:14 t his verse constitutes the classic reference to the providence of god in the book. Mordecai, by his confidence that relief and deliverance would come from another place, was strongly asserting his faith in god and His promised protection of the Jewish people. god controls all that happens in His world and would intervene with or without Esther. if she refused to help, she would perish, along with her father’s house. Mordecai may be referring to divine judgment here. in the closing appeal, Mordecai suggested a providential reason for her becoming queen at this precise time in history; that is, Esther was acting as god’s agent in delivering the Jewish people.

4:15, 16 Esther agreed to intervene with the king on behalf of her people. t he fasting for three days implies a period of earnestly seeking god in prayer at this critical juncture. But even at this point, the narrator did not use the name of god—something that is most remarkable. Esther was also looking for the support of the Jewish community by asking them to join in this fast. Esther understood fully that she was breaking the law of the land and that she might have to suffer the ultimate consequence; she might perish.

5:2 she found favor in his sight: Again we are struck by the providence of god, demonstrated by the king’s response to Esther. t o indicate his approval, the king held out the golden scepter to her.

5:3 t he king, knowing that Esther must have had an unusual reason for daring to approach him, asked her what she wanted. He promised her up to half his kingdom. A similar promise was given to the daughter of Herodias by King Herod in Mark 6:23. Perhaps the phrase was a common form of exaggeration among royalty. Although it probably was exaggerated, the statement certainly showed the king’s favorable attitude toward her.

5:4 If it pleases the king: t his expression is found frequently

fasting

(Heb. tsum) (4:16; 2 sam. 12:23) strong’s #6684

t he Hebrew root word simply means “to abstain from food.” At times fasting meant abstaining from drinking, bathing, anointing with oil, or sexual intercourse as well. in essence, fasting acknowledges human frailty before god and appeals to His mercy. Fasting was a common practice in the ancient world, associated with mourning for the dead (2 sam. 12:21, 22), intercessory prayer (4:3, 16), repentance and contrition for sin (Jer. 36:9; Jon. 3:5), and times of distress (Judg. 20:26; neh. 1:4). Fasting was required for the Day of Atonement (see the phrase “afflict your souls” in Lev. 16:31). t here were also four fast days that commemorated the destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonians (Zech. 8:19). Fasts varied in length from one day (1 sam. 14:24; Dan. 6:18) to seven days (1 sam. 31:13) and could even last up to 40 days on extraordinary occasions (Ex. 34:28). t he strict fasts lasted from sunset to sunset, whereas the more lenient fasts lasted from sunrise to sunset. But no matter what type of fasting was performed, the prophet isaiah admonished his people to participate in acts of righteousness and social justice with their fasting (is. 58:3–9).

<sup>5</sup>Then the king said, “Bring Haman quickly, that he may do as Esther has said.” So the king and Haman went to the banquet that Esther had prepared.

<sup>7</sup>Then Esther answered and said, “My petition and request is this: <sup>8</sup>If I have found favor in the sight of the king, and if it pleases the king to grant my petition and <sup>2</sup>fulfill my request, then let the king and Haman come to the <sup>h</sup>banquet which I will prepare for them, and tomorrow I will do as the king has said.”

Haman's Plot Against Mordecai

<sup>12</sup>Moreover Haman said, “Besides, Queen Esther invited no one but me to come in with the king to the banquet that she prepared; and tomorrow I am again invited by her, along with the king. <sup>13</sup>Yet all this avails me nothing, so long as I see

And the thing pleased Haman; so he had <sup>p</sup>the gallows made.

The King Honors Mordecai

6 That night <sup>1</sup>the king could not sleep. So one was commanded to bring <sup>a</sup>the book of the records of the chronicles; and they were read before the king. <sup>2</sup>And it was found written that Mordecai had told of <sup>2</sup>Bigthana and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, the doorkeepers who had sought to lay hands on King Ahasuerus. <sup>3</sup>Then the king said, “What honor or dignity has been bestowed on Mordecai for this?”

And the king's servants who attended him said, “Nothing has been done for him.”

<sup>5</sup>The king's servants said to him, “Haman is there, standing in the court.”

And the king said, “Let him come in.”

<sup>6</sup>So Haman came in, and the king asked him, “What shall be done for the man whom the king delights to honor?”

Now Haman thought in his heart, “Whom would the king delight to honor throughout the book. it was a formula of polite address. Esther made her initial request; she invited the king and Haman to come to her banquet that same day.

5:6–8 t he king continued examining Esther for the real request. she delayed and asked the two back for a second banquet the following day. One may ask why Esther waited instead of disclosing what was on her mind. t he delay providentially allowed time for the king's sleepless night and the events that followed (ch. 6).

5:9 Haman's good spirits on the way home from the banquet were from the wine he had drunk and from the honor of being invited along with the king to the feast at Esther's table. However, his mood changed quickly when he encountered Esther's cousin. t his time Mordecai did not even rise in his presence. Further, Mordecai showed no sign of fear before him, despite the death decree against the Jewish people.

5:11, 12 Haman's vanity matched that of the king he served. He bragged to his wife and friends about his wealth, his sons, and his status in the kingdom. it was considered a great blessing among ancient semitic peoples to have many sons. in Persia, the man with the most sons would receive presents from the king himself.

5:14 gallows: t his word is the usual word for wood, the material the gallows were made of (2:23). its height, fifty cubits, was about 75 feet.

6:1 t his verse marks the turning point of the book. Within this chapter we observe a series of events that unmistakably point to god's sovereign hand controlling all events. Only because of his sleepless night did the king learn of Mordecai's past bravery on his behalf. the book of the records of the chronicles: t his would be the official record of the events of the Persian Empire. it is referred to in 2:23 and again in 10:2. Ezra 4:15 also mentions such a work. Apparently the chronicles were read before the king for an extended period. 6:2, 3 t he king might have been aware to some extent of Mordecai's deed when it originally occurred. in 2:23 the author says that the events were written down “in the presence of the king.” n ow the Lord led the king to this very text. it was customary for the Persian kings to reward promptly those who performed some noteworthy act of service. t here are records of Darius and Ahasuerus bestowing such honors on deserving recipients. t he two nouns honor and dignity mean “great honor.”

6:4, 5 Again we see the hand of god sovereignly at work on behalf of His people. n o sooner had Mordecai's reward been discussed than Haman appeared in the king's court. ironically, Haman, who knew nothing of the recent discussion, was coming to recommend that Mordecai be hanged.

6:6–11 One cannot miss the irony and humor of this turn of events. in his arrogance, Haman presumed that the king desired to honor him. He suggested a course of action that he would most enjoy, a royal parade through the city plaza so that everyone could see and hear about the king's delight in him. t he king obliged, but was planning the reward for a man Haman regarded as his enemy. Worst of all, it was Haman who had to lead Mordecai through the square and proclaim the king's pleasure in Mordecai.

more than <sup>d</sup>me?”<sup>7</sup> And Haman answered the king, “For the man whom the king delights to honor, <sup>8</sup>let a royal robe be brought which the king has worn, and <sup>e</sup>a horse on which the king has ridden, which has a royal <sup>3</sup>crest placed on its head. <sup>9</sup>Then let this robe and horse be delivered to the hand of one of the king’s most noble princes, that he may array the man whom the king delights to honor. Then <sup>4</sup>parade him on horseback through the city square, <sup>f</sup>and proclaim before him: ‘Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor!’”

<sup>10</sup>Then the king said to Haman, “Hurry, take the robe and the horse, as you have suggested, and do so for Mordecai the Jew who sits within the king’s gate! Leave nothing undone of all that you have spoken.”

<sup>11</sup>So Haman took the robe and the horse, arrayed Mordecai and led him on horseback through the city square, and proclaimed before him, “Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor!”

<sup>14</sup>While they were still talking with him, the king’s eunuchs came, and hastened to bring Haman to <sup>j</sup>the banquet which Esther had prepared.

Haman Hanged Instead of Mordecai

7 So the king and Haman went to dine with Queen Esther. <sup>2</sup>And on the second day, <sup>a</sup>at the banquet of wine, the king again said to Esther, “What is your petition, Queen Esther? It shall be granted you. And what is your request, up to half the kingdom? It shall be done!”

<sup>3</sup>Then Queen Esther answered and said, “If I have found favor in your sight, O king, and if it pleases the king, let my life be given me at my petition, and my people at my request. <sup>4</sup>For we have been <sup>b</sup>sold, my people and I, to be destroyed, to be killed, and to be annihilated. Had we been sold as <sup>c</sup>male and female slaves, I would have held my tongue, although the enemy could never compensate for the king’s loss.”

<sup>5</sup>So King Ahasuerus answered and said to Queen Esther, “Who is he, and where is he, who would dare presume in his heart to do such a thing?”

So Haman was terrified before the king and queen.

<sup>7</sup>Then the king arose in his wrath from the banquet of wine and went into the palace garden; but Haman stood before Queen Esther, pleading for his life, for he saw that evil was determined against him by the king. <sup>8</sup>When the king returned from the palace garden to the place of the banquet of wine, Haman had fallen across <sup>e</sup>the couch where Esther was. Then the king said, “Will he also assault the queen while I am in the house?”

As the word left the king’s mouth, they <sup>f</sup>covered Haman’s face. <sup>9</sup>Now <sup>g</sup>Harbonah, one of the eunuchs, said to the

6:8 t he royal crest on the head of the horse was a crown that formed from the forelock of the horse. stone carvings of horses with this type of crest have been found at Persepolis, another Persian capital (1:2).

6:10 t he term Jew, derived from Judah, came into use during the Exile because the people were principally from the southern kingdom of Judah.

6:13 t he issue of the ongoing survival of the Jewish people is the point of this verse. Haman’s wife and friends told Haman that he would not prevail, for the very reason of Mordecai’s Jewish descent. t he Hebrew wording is quite strong; the meaning is that he will most certainly fall.

6:14 t he role of eunuchs as royal messengers is portrayed again in this verse (1:10). t hey were the ones who came to take Haman briskly to Esther’s second banquet.

7:3, 4 Esther repeated her address of 5:8 and now added her request. let my life be given: Esther asked the king to spare her life and the lives of her people. t his latter appeal was an impassioned plea to the king in which she also disclosed her true identity to him for the first time. Esther told the king that she and her fellow Jewish people have been sold, referring to Haman’s bribe to the king in 3:9.

7:5 Esther’s speech had a dramatic effect on the king. she had aroused more than his curiosity. He was angry. t he life of his own queen was in danger because of a plot by one of his trusted men.

t he phrase dare presume in his heart reflects the depths of the king’s passion here.

7:6 Esther finally exposed the culprit. it was none other than Haman, the adversary and enemy, “the fierce enemy.” it is no wonder that Haman was terrified before Esther and the king. in his evil plan to kill his enemy, he had unwittingly threatened the queen’s life.

7:7 t he king was astonished and furious. He left the room and went out to the palace garden. t his must have been a very unusual act for an autocrat. Usually, he would be expected to respond immediately and rashly. However, this time he was so taken aback by the turn of events that he needed time to think. t he king’s enraged response alerted Haman to the precariousness of his situation.

7:8 Haman was draped over the queen’s couch in a compromising position. Presumably, he was grasping at her with a desire to implore her favor. t he king, on discovering this outrageous situation, wondered aloud if Haman intended to ravage the queen. t he Persians had strict rules about contact with the harem by any male other than the king. t he eunuchs were the only persons who had access to the rooms of these women. Haman was in danger merely by being near her. t his sight enraged the king. As he spoke, they covered Haman’s face. it is likely that it was the eunuchs who came and did this. t he covering of his face signified that he was condemned to death.

7:9 Harbonah: t his eunuch, first mentioned in 1:10, spoke at a king, “Look! <sup>h</sup>The <sup>1</sup>gallows, fifty cubits high, which Haman made for Mordecai, who spoke <sup>i</sup>good on the king’s behalf, is standing at the house of Haman.”

Then the king said, “Hang him on it!”

<sup>10</sup>So <sup>j</sup>they <sup>k</sup>hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai. Then the king’s wrath subsided.

Esther Saves the Jews

<sup>3</sup>Now Esther spoke again to the king, fell down at his feet, and implored him with tears to counteract the evil of Haman the Agagite, and the scheme which he had devised against the Jews.

<sup>4</sup>And <sup>d</sup>the king held out the golden scepter toward Esther. So Esther arose and stood before the king, <sup>5</sup>and said, “If it pleases the king, and if I have found favor in his sight and the thing seems right to the king and I am pleasing in his eyes, let it be written to revoke the <sup>e</sup>letters devised by Haman, the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, which he wrote to annihilate the Jews who are in all the king’s provinces. <sup>6</sup>For how can I endure to see <sup>f</sup>the evil that will come to my people? Or how can I endure to see the destruction of my countrymen?”

<sup>7</sup>Then King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther and Mordecai the Jew, “Indeed, <sup>g</sup>I have given Esther the house of Haman, and they have hanged him on the gallows

<sup>9</sup><sup>i</sup>So the king’s scribes were called at that time, in the third month, which is the month of Sivan, on the twenty-third day; and it was written, according to all that Mordecai commanded, to the Jews, the satraps, the governors, and the princes of the provinces <sup>j</sup>from India to Ethiopia, one hundred and twenty-seven provinces in all, to every province <sup>k</sup>in its own script, to every people in their own language, and to the Jews in their own script and language. <sup>10</sup><sup>l</sup>And he wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus, sealed it with the king’s signet ring, and sent letters by couriers on horseback, riding on royal horses <sup>2</sup>bred from swift steeds.

critical moment to the ruler. He disclosed the story of the gallows which Haman had prepared for Mordecai and told the king where it was located. He reminded the monarch of Mordecai’s bravery on behalf of the king. Ahasuerus took Harbonah’s cue and commanded his servants to hang Haman on those very gallows.

8:1 On the same day as Haman’s execution, the king gave his queen the house of Haman. The term house here refers to his estate. <sup>t</sup>his was in keeping with Persian law, which put the estate of a traitor into the custody of the crown.

8:2 Mordecai was given Haman’s position as the prime minister. He received the full authority of the king, as evidenced by the transfer of the signet ring to him. Esther also put Mordecai in charge of Haman’s estate, which gave him great wealth.

8:3–6 Esther, knowing that danger still lurked ahead for her people, pleaded passionately for their lives before the king. <sup>t</sup>he queen continued to receive the blessing of the monarch as he again extended the golden scepter to her. Courageously Esther implored the king to revoke Haman’s hateful decree against all the Jews in the empire. <sup>t</sup>he parallel statements in v. 6 reinforce Esther’s poignant and personal plea to her king. <sup>t</sup>he queen, by speaking in the first person, demonstrated her deep attachment to her people.

8:7 Mordecai had heard Esther’s entire presentation to the king.

Ahasuerus, by reiterating what he already had done, communicated his support for Esther and her people.

8:8 In the Persian Empire, a royal decree could not be altered, but a second one could invalidate it. <sup>t</sup>hus the king instructed Mordecai and Esther to write a second decree. <sup>t</sup>he second decree would carry all the weight of the former one—but would reverse the expected results.

8:9 Sivan: <sup>t</sup>his would be May–June. <sup>t</sup>he date would give the Jewish people approximately eight months of preparation for any attack (see 3:13).

8:11 some commentators understand this verse to mean that the Jewish people were given permission to slaughter even the wives and children of any people that would attack them. Another view is that the Jewish people may not have carried out what was permitted, but killed only the men who attacked them (see 9:6). <sup>t</sup>here is another possibility that the verse refers to the women and children of the Jews. <sup>t</sup>hat is, the assault mentioned in the verse was expected to be directed against the men, women, children, and possessions of the Jews. Against such assault, the Jews were to arm themselves and make proper defenses (see 9:5, 6). plunder their possessions: <sup>t</sup>his concluding phrase could be a citation of Haman’s decree (see 3:13). if so, it would explain why the Jewish people did not take any plunder (see 9:10), but simply defended themselves against their enemies.

The Jews Destroy Their Tormentors

9 Now <sup>a</sup>in the twelfth month, that is, the month of Adar, on the thirteenth day, <sup>b</sup>the time came for the king's command and his decree to be executed. On the day that the enemies of the Jews had hoped to overpower them, the opposite occurred, in that the Jews themselves <sup>c</sup>overpowered those who hated them. <sup>2</sup>The Jews <sup>d</sup>gathered together in their cities throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus to lay hands on those who <sup>e</sup>sought their harm. And no one could withstand them, <sup>f</sup>because fear of them fell upon all people. <sup>3</sup>And all the officials of the provinces, the satraps, the governors, and all those doing the king's work, helped the Jews, because the fear of Mordecai fell upon them. <sup>4</sup>For Mordecai <sup>was</sup> great in the king's palace, and his fame spread throughout all the provinces; for this man Mordecai <sup>g</sup>became increasingly prominent. <sup>5</sup>Thus the Jews defeated all their enemies with the stroke of the sword, with slaughter and destruction, and did what they pleased with those who hated them.

The Feast of Purim

8:15, 16 Mordecai, dressed in royal attire, received a joyful welcome from the city of Shushan, which included both gentiles and Jews. t he residents of this city rejoiced that Mordecai had been appointed as prime minister. t he word light conveys the sense of happiness.

8:17 note the marked contrast of the reaction of the Jewish people to this second decree as compared to the first one (see 4:3). t the reality of their deliverance influenced the gentiles in the empire as well. became: t his is the only place in the Ot that this Hebrew word is used of conversion to Judaism. t he unexpected turn of events in favor of the Jewish people greatly moved their neighbors.

9:2 t the Jewish people assembled throughout the kingdom to lay hands on or kill (see 2:21) their foes. t the enemies of the Jewish people could not succeed in their assault against them due to a fear of them. t his may have included a fear of the god of the Jewish people.

9:3, 4 in addition to a fear of the Jewish people, there was also a fear of Mordecai among the leaders, which caused them to assist the Jewish people. t heir motive may have been to protect themselves politically in light of Mordecai's power and popularity.

9:5, 6 t he defense of the Jewish people against their enemies was strong and certain. t hey killed five hundred of their enemies in shushan alone.

9:7-10 t he patterns of reprisal and vengeance were so deeply ingrained in the cultures of the ancient Middle East that the survival of even one of these sons might mean trouble for the next generation of Jewish people. By listing each of the vanquished sons of their mortal enemy, the Jewish people celebrated the fact that the victory was complete.

9:11-14 Esther renewed her original request (8:11) for the Jews to have the authority to protect themselves against attack. t he king assented. He also ordered Haman's ten sons to be exposed on the gallows. t he men were already dead (v. 10). t heir bodies were displayed as a warning to anyone who planned evil toward the Jews.

9:16 in Deut. 25:17-19, Moses linked the people's continued rest from their enemies with the command to “blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven.” in this chapter, the blessing of rest for the Jewish people is associated with the destruction of their enemies (vv. 18, 22). t his similarity with Deuteronomy reinforces the argument that Haman was a descendant of the Amalekites. t his group may have been quite large by the time of King Ahasuerus.

9:18, 19 t hese verses summarize the days of deliverance for the assembled together <sup>r</sup> on the thirteenth day, as well as on the fourteenth; and on the fifteenth of <sup>1</sup> the month they rested, and made it a day of feasting and gladness. <sup>19</sup> Therefore the Jews of the villages who dwelt in the unwallied towns celebrated the fourteenth day of the month of Adar <sup>s</sup> with gladness and feasting, <sup>t</sup> as a holiday, and for <sup>u</sup> sending presents to one another.

<sup>20</sup> And Mordecai wrote these things and sent letters to all the Jews, near and far, who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, <sup>21</sup> to establish among them that they should celebrate yearly the fourteenth and fifteenth days of the month of Adar, <sup>22</sup> as the days on which the Jews had rest from their enemies, as the month which was turned from sorrow to joy for them, and from mourning to a holiday; that they should make them days of feasting and joy, of <sup>v</sup> sending presents to one another and gifts to the <sup>w</sup> poor. <sup>23</sup> So the Jews accepted the custom which they had begun, as Mordecai had written to them, <sup>24</sup> because Haman, the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews, <sup>x</sup> had plotted against the Jews to annihilate them, and had cast Pur (that is, the lot), to consume them and destroy them; <sup>25</sup> but <sup>y</sup> when <sup>2</sup> Esther came before the king, he commanded by letter that <sup>3</sup> this wicked plot which Haman had devised against the Jews should <sup>z</sup> return on his own head, and that he and his sons should be hanged on the gallows.

<sup>26</sup> So they called these days Purim, after the name <sup>4</sup> Pur. Therefore, because of all the words of <sup>a</sup> this letter, what they had seen concerning this matter, and what had happened to them, <sup>27</sup> the Jews established and imposed it upon themselves and their descendants and all who would

(Heb. pur) (3:7; 9:24, 26) strong's #6332

Pur, originally a Babylonian word meaning “lot” or “fate,” is used in the Book of Esther as a synonym for the normal Hebrew word for “lot.” Lot casting, similar to rolling dice, was a common way to make a random selection (neh. 11:1) or to discern the will of a god (Jon. 1:7). Believing that his gods controlled the fall of the pur, Haman cast lots to determine the right day to destroy the Jews (see 3:7). What he failed to realize was that god is sovereign and cannot be manipulated by superstition (see Prov. 16:33). By casting lots, Haman inadvertently chose the day of the Jews’ deliverance—a day that is still celebrated in the Festival of Purim (9:28).

9:26–28 Purim: t his verse explains the name of the two-day festival. t he name is derived from the word pur, meaning “lot,” the lot that was cast to determine the day of the Jewish people’s death. Purim reminds the Jews of god’s deliverance from their day of destruction. t he feast was established as an annual festival.

THE BOOK OF JOB

AT ONE TIME OR ANOTHER, almost everyone has felt like Job. While going through trials and times of suffering, we are often overwhelmed by self-pity. We want an explanation for why God allows trials to happen to us. The Book of Job records the troubling questions, the terrifying doubts, and the very real anguish of a sufferer. The Book of Job can help us in the time when we are surrounded with troubles by giving us a glimpse of God's perspective on our suffering.

Historical Setting Numerous details in the Book of Job indicate a patriarchal setting for its events: (1) Job's wealth is measured in livestock (1:3; 42:12), the same way Abraham and Jacob's wealth is measured (Gen. 12:16; 13:2; 30:43; 32:5). (2) The Sabeans and Chaldeans are portrayed as nomadic marauders (1:15, 17), indicating an early date. (3) The Hebrew word for "piece of silver" in Job (42:11) is otherwise found only in conjunction with the patriarch Jacob (Gen. 33:19; Josh. 24:32). (4) Without a priesthood or a sanctuary, Job offers sacrifices to God in a patriarchal fashion (1:5). (5) Job's longevity is consistent with the life spans of the patriarchs (42:16). (6) The preference in the poetic sections of the book for the divine name Shaddai over the divine name Yahweh may indicate a period before the Exodus (see Ex. 3:14, 15).

The text indicates that the events of Job occurred in the land of Uz (1:1), but the location of Uz is unknown. That Job was the greatest among the people of the East (1:3) indicates that Job lived east of the Jordan River. Some have concluded that Uz was located in Syria or northwest Mesopotamia. However, most writers think Uz was located near Edom, because many of the proper names in the Book of Job occur in the genealogy of Esau, the father of the Edomites (see Gen. 36).

Author and Date There is no consensus about who wrote the Book of Job or when it was written. Suggestions for an author include Job, Elihu, Solomon, and even Moses.

As for the time of writing, there is strong literary evidence that the Book of Job was compiled and written during the time of Solomon, when wisdom literature flourished. The mention of iron tools and weapons (19:24; 20:24; 40:18) and even mining (28:2) implies a date during the Iron Age (after 1200 B.C.). Moreover, the description of a horse in a military context (39:19–25) may indicate the mounted warhorse, which was used at the earliest around the tenth century B.C. Furthermore, at least two passages in Job may allude to biblical passages from the Solomonic era (compare 7:17, 18 with Ps. 8:4; compare 28:28 with Prov. 3:7; 9:10). These various strands of evidence may indicate that Job was written around Solomon's reign.

Structure The basic structure of the Book of Job consists of a prose framework in the prologue (chs. 1; 2) and epilogue (42:7–17) enclosing the poetic body of the book (3:1—42:6). There are significant differences between the poetic body and the prologue and epilogue. The prologue and epilogue present Job as a patient "saint" who righteously endured suffering. On the other hand, the poetic body presents Job as despairing of fair treatment by God (9:1–3, 13–21). According to some critics, these differences indicate that the two sections are separate works by different authors. According to this view, the compiler of Job simply failed to reconcile the "two Jobs."

“Your hands have made me and fashioned me, an intricate unity; yet You would destroy me. Remember, I pray, that You have made me like clay. And will You turn me into dust again?” (Job 10:8, 9).

The apparent contradictions within Job should not be considered an indication of poor editing, but the deliberate work of an accomplished author. The tension between the “patient” Job and the “impatient” Job contributes to the overall message of the book. It shows Job as a real person. He was no “plaster saint,” who suffered stoically. Instead, he struggled with his emotions and feelings as we do today. The Book of Job teaches that it is not wrong for a person to ask the question why, as Job did repeatedly (see ch. 3). But these questions must not grow into accusations against the sovereign Lord.

Themes The Book of Job explores all the traditional middle eastern explanations of the problem of the “righteous sufferer.” These include: (1) the inherent sinfulness of the human race (5:6, 7; 15:14, 16); (2) the accusation that God is unjust (9:22–24); and (3) the limitations of human understanding (11:7–9). But the main difference between the Book of Job and other ancient texts that address this same problem is God’s direct intervention in Job’s life. Thus the uniqueness of the Book of Job is not in its approach to the problem of suffering, but in its revelation of the sovereign God to whom everyone must properly relate. Sufferer and nonsufferer alike must humbly trust in God’s sovereign grace. Because Job and his friends were ignorant of Satan’s challenge to God, the Book of Job contains much bad theology and misapplied truth. It is important to read passages in the Book of Job in light of the message and purpose of the entire book. The only proper response to the omnipotent God is submission and faith.

The Book of Job repeatedly emphasizes the sovereignty and omnipotence of God. For instance, the Hebrew divine name Shaddai, usually translated as “Almighty,” is employed by all characters in the book. Eliphaz describes the Almighty as controlling the destiny of everyone (5:17–20) and as independent of humanity (22:2, 3). Bildad argues that the Almighty is just (8:3, 4) and sovereign in his rule over the universe (25:2, 3). Finally Zophar describes the ways of the Almighty as beyond human comprehension (11:7–10). Hence, Job’s friends use the name Shaddai to speak of God’s transcendence, as well as his sovereign power.

His emphasis on the sovereignty of God refutes a simplistic understanding of divine retribution, which assumes that there is an automatic connection between one’s spirituality and prosperity on earth. Such was the basis of Satan’s accusation in the prologue that Job served God only for his own profit (1:9–11). Moreover, it is the basis for Eliphaz and Bildad’s advice to Job. Both claimed that Job’s suffering pointed to a hidden sin in Job’s life, because God certainly would not punish an upright person (4:7–11; 8:11–22; 18:5–21). But God’s answer to Job refuted this false belief (38:1—39:30). The Lord declares himself completely sovereign. He is not obligated to bless those who obey him. All his actions are based on his gracious nature and his own free will.

in this way, the Book of Job is an extended refutation of Satan's challenge that prosperity is connected to people's goodness, and consequently that people's suffering is connected to their sin.

in this way, the Book of Job teaches that the Lord is not bound to anyone's preconceived theological system. elihu's speech on God's greatness and his sovereign majesty over nature (36:1—37:24) serves as a prelude to the climax of the book: the Lord's answer to Job (38:1—42:6). in his speech, God lowers himself to Job's level in order to answer Job's questions. in the process, he reveals to all people that he is completely free but also truly good. he is the sovereign and benevolent Creator who continues to determine the course of the universe according to his own hidden plan. Just like Job, we must learn to submit to the Almighty God and accept by faith that he has a good plan for us.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Although Jesus is not named in the Book of Job, he is the only redeemer Job could have been referring to when he says, "For i know that my r edeemer lives, and he shall stand at last on the earth" (19:25). no one else can be called our r edeemer who came to earth as a human being to die for us. no other book in the Bible includes such graphic detail of the problems and questions that believers wrestle with and skeptics ask. in this book are found the wide range of human hurts that Jesus identified with in his earthly life, as well as the ones he empathizes with as he intercedes for us in heaven (heb. 4:15).

Job was a great man with thousands of animals, including sheep, camels, oxen, and donkeys. The animals and servants were the first things taken from Job (Job 1:14–17).

Job and His Family in Uz

There was a man <sup>a</sup>in the land of Uz, whose name was <sup>b</sup>Job; and that man was <sup>c</sup>blameless and upright, and one who <sup>d</sup>feared God and <sup>e</sup>shunned evil. <sup>2</sup>And seven sons and three daughters were born to him. <sup>3</sup>Also, his possessions were seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred female donkeys, and a very large household, so that this man was the greatest of all the <sup>2</sup>people of the East.

<sup>4</sup>And his sons would go and feast in their houses, each on his appointed day, and would send and invite their three sisters to eat and drink with them. <sup>5</sup>So it was, when the days of feasting had run their course, that Job would send and <sup>3</sup>sanctify them, and he would rise early in the morning <sup>e</sup>and offer burnt offerings according to the number of them all. For Job said, “It may be that my sons have sinned and <sup>f</sup>cursed <sup>4</sup>God in their hearts.” Thus Job did regularly.

Satan Attacks Job's Character

<sup>6</sup>Now <sup>9</sup>there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and <sup>5</sup>Satan also came among them. <sup>7</sup>And the LORD said to <sup>6</sup>Satan, “From where do you come?”

So Satan answered the LORD and said, “From <sup>h</sup>going to and fro on the earth, and from walking back and forth on it.”

<sup>8</sup>Then the LORD said to Satan, “Have you <sup>7</sup>considered My servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, one who fears God and <sup>8</sup>shuns evil?”

<sup>9</sup>So Satan answered the LORD and said, “Does Job fear God for nothing? <sup>10</sup>i Have You not <sup>9</sup>made a hedge around him, around his household, and around all that he has on every side? <sup>j</sup>You have blessed the work of his hands, and his possessions have increased in the land. <sup>11</sup>k But now, stretch out Your hand and touch all that he has, and he will surely <sup>l</sup>curse <sup>1</sup>You to Your face!”

<sup>12</sup>And the LORD said to Satan, “Behold,

1:1 t he dramatic events of the prologue of the Book of Job set the stage for the intricate dialogues of the main body (3:1–42:6).

Uz: t he precise location is unknown but may have been near edom. two aspects of Job's character and actions are highlighted. Blameless and upright, meaning “straightforward,” and “ethically straight,” emphasize his spotless character. Like Daniel (see Dan. 6:4), Job was blameless before his human critics, but not completely sinless before God. he later testified of his personal integrity (31:5, 6). Job feared God and shunned evil, an indication that his right relationship with God motivated him to turn away from evil. t his descriptive phrase indicates that Job was the epitome of wisdom (28:28; Prov. 3:7; 14:16; see also Prov. 1:7; 9:10).

1:2 Job had an ideal family consisting of seven sons and three daughters. t he number seven was the biblical number of completeness. in the ancient middle east, having many children was generally considered a sign of God's blessing (Ps. 127:3–5).

1:4 each of Job's sons would participate in a feast with his siblings on his appointed day. t he term could refer to a birthday celebration. however, the context of v. 5 may indicate a regular, perhaps weekly or seasonal, cycle of celebration and feasting.

1:5 When Job undertook to sanctify his children through burnt offerings, he performed an intercessory role that corresponds to what he did when he prayed for his friends in the epilogue (42:10).

blameless

(heb. tam) (1:1, 8; 8:20; 9:21; Ps. 37:37; Prov. 29:10) Strong's #8535

t he verbal root of this hebrew word means “to be complete.” t hus this word signifies an individual's integrity—a wholeness and wholesomeness. t he word is used as a term of endearment for the Shulamite bride in the Song of Solomon (see “perfect” in Song 5:2; 6:9). in the ot, the blameless are frequently associated with the upright (1:1, 8; 2:3; Ps. 37:37; Prov. 29:10) and contrasted with the wicked (9:22; Ps. 64:2–4). Job's claim to be blameless agrees with God's assessment of him, but it is not a claim to absolute perfection (1:8; 9:21; 14:16, 17). t he psalmist writes that the future of the blameless man is peace—as was the case for Job (42:10–12; Ps. 37:37).

curse God: t he hebrew text has “blessed God,” which is probably a euphemism—a reverent substitution of a milder word by a hebrew scribe because he could not bear to have the word curse next to the divine name.

1:6 The sons of God are celestial beings or angels who were created by him and who serve him (4:18; Ps. 103:20, 21) as his “holy ones” (5:1). t he imagery seemingly indicates a heavenly council over which the Lord sits as Supreme King (Ps. 89:5–7; Dan. 7:9, 10). Strictly speaking, Satan may be a title rather than the personal name of the leader of all evil forces. t he hebrew word was not clearly used as a proper name until 1 Chr. 21:1, chronologically one of the last ot books written. nevertheless, the characteristics of the “Adversary” in the Book of Job imply that he was in fact Satan. he answered God's questions in an antagonistic manner and accused Job of ulterior motives. t hat Satan came among the hosts of heaven at this time suggests that Satan still had access to God's court, and that his final banishment was still in the future.

1:7 t he hebrew word Yahweh, usually translated the LORD, is the personal name of the true God of the ot (see ex. 3:14, 15). it is the particular name of God in covenantal relations with his people israel (see ex. 6:1–6; 19:3–8). t his indicates that though Job was not an israelite, he had a relationship with the true God (see v. 21 where the Lord's name is employed). From where do you come: God's inquiry does not imply an ignorance of Satan's behavior but was part of the conversation with Satan. See the similar function of the question posed to Adam after the Fall (Gen. 3:9).

1:8 My servant refers to the proper relationship every person should have with God—that is, a joyful and reverent trust in God. Job was a model of this type of relationship with the Lord in the prologue and the epilogue (see 2:3; 42:7).

1:9 Satan, always “the adversary,” questioned Job's motives for fearing and serving God. t he expression for nothing is emphatic in the hebrew text. t he question may be paraphrased, “is Job really free of ulterior motives?”

1:10 God had placed a hedge of protection around Job and his household. no harm could come to him unless the Lord permitted it (v. 12; see 2:4–6). Believers today should take great comfort from the biblical teaching that the Lord protects his people—whether by a cloud (ex. 14:19, 20), or by a wall of fiery hosts (2 Kin. 6:17), or through guardian angels (heb. 1:14).

1:11 Satan ignored customary court etiquette that would not permit him to address God directly as You, or use the personal references Your hand or Your face. Such irreverence was part of his all that he has is in your <sup>2</sup>power; only do not lay a hand on his person.”

So Satan went out from the presence of the LORD.

Job Loses His Property and Children

<sup>18</sup>While he was still speaking, another also came and said, <sup>n</sup>“Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in their oldest brother’s house, <sup>19</sup>and suddenly a great wind came from <sup>6</sup>across the wilderness and struck the four corners of the house, and it fell on the young people, and they are dead; and I alone have escaped to tell you!”

constant strategy to demean God. curse: t he sin of cursing God is a pivotal issue for the Book of Job. Job feared that his children might think or speak irreverently of God (v. 5). But Satan asserted that Job would surely curse God if his prosperity and blessings were removed. even Job’s wife would urge him to “curse God and die” (2:9).

1:12 t hat Satan must receive permission from the Lord to lay a hand on Job (see v. 11) indicates that God limits Satan’s power. Believers can find strength and assurance from the fact that Satan’s actions are limited by God’s sovereign control. After the prologue, Satan is never mentioned directly again in the Book of Job; he is only a minor character compared to the Lord of the universe.

1:13–19 in one day Job plummeted from the pinnacle of prosperity to the pit of poverty. he must have felt that all heaven and earth had turned against him. t he four rapid disasters that struck him came alternately from earth and heaven. First was the raiding of his livestock and servants; then from heaven, the fire of God; then again from earth, the loss of his camels and servants; and then the climactic blow again from heaven, a great wind that demolished his house and killed his children.

1:15 t he Sabeans were nomadic raiders from Sheba. t hey were probably the people of the queen of Sheba (see 1 Kin. 10:1–13). her homeland was probably southwestern Arabia, present-day Yemen. 1:17 The Chaldeans were part of various west Semitic marauding tribes active in the middle euphrates from the twelfth to the ninth century b.c. t hey migrated eastward into Assyria and then into Babylonia, and were the forerunners of the Chaldean or neo-Babylonian dynasty established by n ebuchadnezzar’s father.

1:20 Finally the spotlight focuses on Job’s reaction to his trials. Did he serve God for profit as Satan had alleged (1:9)? Job passed the first test with a model response. he showed intense grief according to the accepted custom of his day (v. 20). t hen he humbly accepted God’s will without complaining or blaming God for his tragedies. Job acknowledged God’s sovereign control over all circumstances when he fell to the ground and worshipped. t he context indicates that Job’s fall was not an involuntary reflex of despair but a deliberate act of humility before God. Job’s initial response was an ideal example of how to respond in time of crisis. Job is not only an ancient biblical hero but also an example for us when we face trials that test the mettle of each person’s faith (see 1 Pet. 1:6, 7).

1:21 Job gave a realistic appraisal of his status; just as he came into

Satan: The Accuser

While the Book of Job teaches us much about human suffering, we also learn a great deal about Satan and his relationship to God. t he first two chapters of Job demonstrate that although Satan is in rebellion, he is still accountable to God.

o riginally an angel of God, Satan became corrupt through his own pride (2 Pet. 2:4; Jude 6). ever since his rebellion against God, Satan has been God’s enemy as well as ours. in fact, the hebrew word for Satan means “Adversary.” in the story of Job, Satan remained true to his name by accusing Job and afflicting him with all kinds of suffering. however Satan’s power is not equal to God’s. Although Satan attempts to hamper God’s work, he is limited by God. As much as he may wish to be a god, Satan still remains answerable to God.

in addition to being accountable to God (1:6), Satan, as a created being, is finite. he is not all-powerful, and he can only be in one place at one time (1:7). t herefore, his fellow fallen angels must aid him in his evil work. o f course, Satan can tempt us, but he cannot know what is in our minds or foretell our future (1:9–11). most important, he can do nothing without God’s permission (1:6–12). Because God actively restrains Satan (1:12; 2:6) and promises that he will not allow us to be tempted beyond what we can bear (1 Cor. 10:13), we can be confident that with God’s power we can overcome Satan. Although we live in a fallen world, Satan does not have free reign to do whatever evil he wishes. God is still, and always will be, sovereign.

it was Satan who planned and implemented Job’s suffering. God may have allowed Satan to test Job for a time. But in his time God himself delivered Job from suffering, restored him, and blessed him even more than before (42:10). even through Satan’s evil plan, God had accomplished his good purposes. t he relationship between Job and God was tested, and it withstood the test. God’s love had won; Satan’s accusations were answered. it was finally clear to all that God was both sovereign and compassionate. t hrough the experience, Job learned to appreciate God’s gifts to him even more (42:1–6).

And naked shall I return there.
The LORD <sup>r</sup> gave, and the LORD has <sup>s</sup> taken away;

Satan Attacks Job's Health

2 Again <sup>a</sup> there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan came also among them to present himself before the LORD. <sup>2</sup> And the LORD said to Satan, “From where do you come?”

<sup>b</sup> Satan answered the LORD and said, “From going to and fro on the earth, and from walking back and forth on it.”

<sup>3</sup> Then the LORD said to Satan, “Have you considered My servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, <sup>c</sup> a blameless and upright man, one who fears God and shuns evil? And still he <sup>d</sup> holds fast to his integrity, although you incited Me against him, <sup>e</sup> to <sup>1</sup> destroy him without cause.”

<sup>6h</sup> And the LORD said to Satan, “Behold, he is in your hand, but spare his life.”

<sup>7</sup> So Satan went out from the presence of the LORD, and struck Job with painful boils <sup>i</sup> from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head. <sup>8</sup> And he took for himself a potsherd with which to scrape himself <sup>j</sup> while he sat in the midst of the ashes.

<sup>9</sup> Then his wife said to him, “Do you still hold fast to your integrity? <sup>3</sup> Curse God and die!”

Job's Three Friends

<sup>11</sup> Now when Job's three friends heard of all this adversity that had come upon him, each one came from his own place—Eliphaz the <sup>n</sup> Temanite, Bildad the <sup>o</sup> Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite. For they had made an appointment together to come <sup>p</sup> and mourn with him, and to comfort him. <sup>12</sup> And when they raised their eyes from afar, and did not recognize him, they lifted their voices and wept; and each one tore his robe and <sup>q</sup> sprinkled dust on his head toward heaven. <sup>13</sup> So they sat down with him on the ground <sup>r</sup> seven days and seven nights, and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw that his grief was very great.

Job Deplores His Birth

the world naked, so would he leave it naked. t hen he repeatedly acknowledged the control of the Lord over all circumstances. t he name Yahweh is used three times in this verse to emphasize Job's dependence on the true God. except for 12:9, this is the only place where Job mentions the covenantal name of God. t hough Job was not an israelite, having lived in Uz centuries before the nation of israel came out of egypt, he worshiped the God of israel.

2:3 t he first sentence of this verse repeats 1:8 verbatim, emphasizing that Job's character had remained flawless despite Satan's assaults. in the second sentence the Lord affirms that Job had maintained his integrity (the same hebrew root as blameless in 1:1, 8), although Satan had incited him to destroy Job without cause. “Without cause” translates the same hebrew word Satan had used in insinuating that Job did not serve God “for nothing” (1:9). now the Lord throws it back in his face.

2:4 t he origin of the proverb skin for skin utilized by Satan is disputed. Some think it may have originated from the practice of bartering animal skins. o thers believe that the phrase is similar to the proverb “life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth” (ex. 21:23–25). in the last half of the verse Satan charges that Job would be willing to lose his possessions or even his family, as long as his life was spared.

2:6 When the Lord placed Job into Satan's hand, it is extraordinary that he commanded Satan to spare his life. ironically, the word spare normally refers to God's role in his providential care of people (see 29:2).

2:7 t he disease that afflicted Job with painful boils from head to toe is difficult to identify. t he term for boils was used to describe the plague of boils in egypt (ex. 9:9–11). t he same phrase painful boils, as one of the covenant curses for the disobedient (see Deut. 28:35), denoted an incurable illness.

2:9 t he words of Job's wife—curse God and die—were probably Job's most severe trial. ironically, her question do you still hold fast to your integrity employs almost exactly the same wording the Lord had used (see v. 3). t he wording emphasizes Job's perseverance, which his wife misconstrued as religious fanaticism—she thought he was blindly refusing to face the reality of his desperate situation.

2:10 Job's response to the second test, the loss of his health and alienation from his wife, was once again commendable. his rhetorical question, urging the acceptance of both good and adversity from God, anticipates one of the central messages of the Book of Job: t he person of faith will trust in God through prosperity or adversity, even while unable to understand why bad things happen.

2:11 Eliphaz the Temanite was apparently an edomite from teman in northern edom (Gen. 36:11). t he term Shuhite may refer to Bildad's ancestry, or more likely to his geographical origin, since the other two friends seem to be identified by their home towns. Zophar the Naamathite may have come from naameh, a mountainous area in northwestern Arabia.

2:12, 13 t hese friends truly cared for Job because they wept and stayed close by him for seven days and seven nights. Yet later they would fail Job miserably by not listening to him (see 8:4–6; 13:5–13).

3:1 When Job . . . cursed the day of his birth, he came close to blasphemy. t he hebrew word for cursed, meaning “to hold in contempt,” is elsewhere employed of cursing God (ex. 22:28; Lev. 24:15) or cursing one's parents (ex. 21:17). Job's pain had driven him to express a very strong malediction against the day of his birth

- 3 “May<sup>a</sup> the day perish on which I was born,
And the night in which it was said,
‘A male child is conceived.’
4 May that day be darkness;
May God above not seek it,
Nor the light shine upon it.
5 May darkness and <sup>b</sup>the shadow of death claim it;
May a cloud settle on it;
May the blackness of the day terrify it.
6 As for that night, may darkness seize it;
May it not <sup>2</sup>rejoice among the days of the year,
May it not come into the number of the months.
7 Oh, may that night be barren!
May no joyful shout come into it!
8 May those curse it who curse the day,
Those <sup>c</sup>who are ready to arouse Leviathan.
9 May the stars of its morning be dark;
May it look for light, but have none,
And not see the <sup>3</sup>dawning of the day;
10 Because it did not shut up the doors of my mother’s womb,
Nor hide sorrow from my eyes.
11 “Why<sup>d</sup> did I not die at birth?
Why did I not <sup>4</sup>perish when I came from the womb?
12 <sup>e</sup>Why did the knees receive me?
Or why the breasts, that I should nurse?
13 For now I would have lain still and been quiet,
I would have been asleep;
Then I would have been at rest

BIBLE TIMES &amp; CULTURE NOTES

Miscarriage

Sensing he was about to lose family, health, and possessions, Job wished that he had been “hidden like a stillborn child, like infants who never saw light” (3:16). Just as in our day, not all women in Bible times were able to carry the fetus long enough to give birth. Although the tragedy of miscarriage was probably whispered about in the women’s circles, the people’s sense of good taste probably kept them from discussing it openly.

The women in Bible times might trace the problem to a food that had been eaten or something that had been drunk. For example, during the days of the prophet Elisha, the women in Jericho were convinced that the water from the nearby spring was causing them to miscarry (2 Kin. 2:19, 20). Sometimes miscarriage was caused by accident. A pregnant woman might be jostled or kicked by an animal. She might get caught between two men who were fighting. According to mosaic Law, the person who inflicted the blow was fined if the mother miscarried. If the miscarriage caused complications and the woman died as a result, the Law exacted the death penalty (ex. 21:22, 23).

- And there the <sup>5</sup>weary are at <sup>h</sup>rest.
18 There the prisoners <sup>6</sup>rest together;
<sup>i</sup>They do not hear the voice of the oppressor.
19 The small and great are there,
And the servant is free from his master.
20 “Why<sup>j</sup> is light given to him who is in misery,
And life to the <sup>k</sup>bitter of soul,
21 Who <sup>l</sup>long<sup>7</sup> for death, but it does not come,
And search for it more than <sup>m</sup>hidden treasures;
22 Who rejoice exceedingly,
And are glad when they can find the <sup>n</sup>grave?
23 Why is light given to a man whose way is hidden, and the night of his conception, which were personified as those responsible for his existence (see vv. 3–6). However, Job did not commit blasphemy. He did not curse the Chaldeans or Sabeans, much less God. Neither did he express thoughts of suicide.

3:3–10 Job’s wish that he had never been born because his life was full of sorrow (vv. 3, 10) reflects a serious misunderstanding about the basic meaning of human existence. The Bible teaches that the purpose of life is not happiness but the praise of God’s glory (Eph. 1:3–14).

3:8 Job employed two separate Hebrew words translated curse, different from the Hebrew term in v. 1. He wished that the popular magicians who cast spells on the day for their clients could have cast a spell on his day so that he would never have been born. Job’s belief in one God (see 31:26–28) indicates that he was speaking poetically and dramatically. He was not endorsing any kind of pagan magic, but employing vivid and forceful language to express the intensity of his agony and despair.

3:20–22 Even though Job longed for death, he was not considering suicide. The context of other passages indicates that Job merely wished that the Lord would let him die (see 7:15–21; 10:18–22).

3:23 Job bemoaned that God had hedged him in so that he could not die. The irony is that Job perceived God’s protective hedge around him as keeping him from a desirable death. This is a typical feeling of those who suffer.

- 24 For my sighing comes before <sup>8</sup>I eat,
And my groanings pour out like water.
- 25 For the thing I greatly <sup>9</sup>feared has come upon me,
And what I dreaded has happened to me.
- 26 I am not at ease, nor am I quiet;
I have no rest, for trouble comes.”

Eliphaz: Job Has Sinned

4 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

- 2 “If one attempts a word with you, will you become weary?
But who can withhold himself from speaking?
- 3 Surely you have instructed many,
And you <sup>a</sup>have strengthened weak hands.
- 4 Your words have upheld him who was stumbling,
And you <sup>b</sup>have strengthened the <sup>1</sup>feeble knees;
- 5 But now it comes upon you, and you are weary;
It touches you, and you are troubled.
- 6 Is not <sup>c</sup>your reverence <sup>d</sup>your confidence?
And the integrity of your ways your hope?
- 7 “Remember now, <sup>e</sup>who ever perished being innocent?
Or where were the upright ever cut off?
- 8 Even as I have seen,
<sup>f</sup>Those who plow iniquity
And sow trouble reap the same.
- 9 By the blast of God they perish,
And by the breath of His anger they are consumed.

Who are crushed before a moth?
- 20 <sup>l</sup>They are broken in pieces from morning till evening;
They perish forever, with no one regarding.
- 21 Does not their own excellence go away?
They die, even without wisdom.”

4:1 Since Eliphaz the Temanite spoke first, he was probably the oldest and therefore presumably the wisest of the three. eliphaz was a little more courteous to Job than were his other two friends. however, his observations were distorted. eliphaz firmly believed that God would never punish the righteous and would not preserve the sinner. he concluded that since Job was suffering, he must be a sinner (see 22:4–11, 21–30).

4:2–6 t hough eliphaz seems surprised at Job’s response (ch. 3), his initial remarks are complimentary and courteous. t he content of vv. 7–11 suggests that v. 6 probably contains at least a mild rebuke.

4:5 t he phrase you are weary translates one word in the original hebrew and repeats the same root word found in the phrase “will you become weary” in v. 2. t his repetition indicates that eliphaz had already recognized the apparent contradiction between the patient Job of the prologue and the impatient Job of the dialogue.

4:7–9 eliphaz highlights the retribution doctrine—that is, God supports the righteous but abandons the wicked—with two rhetorical questions. h e supports his belief by an appeal to his experience; that is, “you reap what you sow.” Because the word trouble is the same word used by Job to describe his own plight as full of “sorrow” (3:10) and “misery” (3:20), eliphaz may be equating Job with the wicked who plow iniquity.

4:10, 11 t o the reader it may seem that eliphaz suddenly adds illustrations of God’s retribution on animals. But probably these are proverbial sayings with a double meaning. eliphaz may have been implying that Job’s “groanings” or “roaring” made him comparable to the old lion, symbolizing the wicked, whose sins were now being repaid with suffering.

4:12–17 eliphaz appeals to a vision to authenticate his theology. h e claims that he heard a voice that told him that no one was righteous compared to God, implying that Job was not righteous. But contrast the Lord’s unqualified commendation of Job in the prologue (see 1:1, 8; 2:3).

4:19, 20 t he description of people as living in houses of clay with their foundation . . . in the dust emphasizes the mortality and fragility of human existence. Like the temporary houses they live in, people can perish without anyone knowing. elsewhere Job uses the same two hebrew words in parallel to describe the fragility of the human body. Since the body is fashioned from clay, God the potter who fashioned it can easily turn it back to dust (see 10:8, 9; 33:6).

4:21 t he hebrew word for the phrase their own excellence may mean “tent cord.” t hus the text may be stating that humanity’s existence is as precarious as a tent in the midst of a windstorm.

Eliphaz: Job Is Chastened by God

5 “Call out now;

you?
And to which of the holy ones will you turn?
2 For wrath kills a foolish man,
And envy slays a simple one.

5 Because the hungry eat up his harvest,
<sup>1</sup> Taking it even from the thorns,

6 For affliction does not come from the Nor does trouble spring from the

7 Yet man is <sup>d</sup>born to <sup>4</sup>trouble,
As the sparks fly upward.
8 “But as for me, I would seek God,

26 <sup>v</sup>You shall come to the grave at a full age,
As a sheaf of grain ripens in its season.
27 Behold, this we have <sup>w</sup>searched out;
It is true.
Hear it, and know for yourself.”

5:1 eliphaz’s warning against appealing to holy ones or angels anticipates Job’s later desire for a “mediator” (see 9:33).

5:3-7 eliphaz begins another appeal to personal observation and experience. eliphaz uses a play on the words ground and man, along with the repetition of the word trouble, to aid his argument that Job’s trouble did not come out of nowhere—that is, spring from the ground.

5:7 the word sparks may allude to the Ugaritic god of the underworld who was supposedly responsible for plagues and lightning. A reference like this to mythology does not imply or endorse a belief in other gods. eliphaz is saying “just as a plague springs up from the demonic forces of hell, so does trouble come from a person’s nature.”

5:17 eliphaz insinuates that since Job’s suffering was a result of God’s chastening for his sin, he should not despise or reject what God was trying to teach him. t though it is true that God sometimes disciplines people for their sin through pain and suffering (32:1—37:24; Prov. 3:11; heb. 12:7), eliphaz was wrong to suggest that this was necessarily so in Job’s case. t he divine title Shaddai, translated Almighty, is used in Job 31 times, but only 17 times in all the rest of the ot.

5:18-21 eliphaz states that God is the author of both pain and healing. God would heal the wounds he inflicted for discipline. When God does allow pain to come into our lives, it is not to harm us, but to make us better.

5:23 the presence of stones in a field could make land impossible to farm (see 2 Kin. 3:19, 25). t hus the expression covenant with the stones of the field would mean being at peace and harmony with even the destructive forces of nature—including the beasts of the field (see v. 22).

Job: My Complaint Is Just

6 Then Job answered and said:

- 2 “Oh, that my grief were fully weighed,
And my calamity laid with it on the scales!
- 3 For then it would be heavier than the sand of the sea—
Therefore my words have been rash.
- 4 <sup>a</sup> For the arrows of the Almighty are within me;
My spirit drinks in their poison;
<sup>b</sup> The terrors of God are arrayed <sup>c</sup> against me.
- 5 Does the <sup>d</sup> wild donkey bray when it has grass,
Or does the ox low over its fodder?
- 6 Can flavorless food be eaten without salt?
Or is there any taste in the white of an egg?
- 7 My soul refuses to touch them;
They are as loathsome food to me.
- 8 “Oh, that I might have my request,
That God would grant me the thing that I long for!
- 9 That it would please God to crush me,
That He would loose His hand and <sup>e</sup> cut me off!
- 10 Then I would still have comfort;
Though in anguish I would exult,
He will not spare;
For <sup>f</sup> I have not concealed the words of <sup>g</sup> the Holy One.
- 11 “What strength do I have, that I should hope?
And what is my end, that I should prolong my life?

6:1 When Job answered, he did not respond directly to eliphaz. t his may be the reason the text does not specify a name here. Job usually responded to all three of his friends, not to one individually (see 6:24–30). h his friends in turn did not respond point-by-point to what Job said. Consequently the dialogue is not so much a conversation between friends as it is a speech contest in which one speaker tries to win a debate and impress his audience with his rhetoric.

6:4 Job’s suffering was so intense that he portrayed it as caused by arrows of the Almighty that were dipped in poison. t he arrows of the Lord are generally symbolic of his judgment (Deut. 32:23, 42) or wrath (Ps. 38:1, 2). Job also assumed that God was required to reward the obedient and punish the guilty in this life, and he may have presumed that the Lord was punishing him unjustly.

6:10 t hough the exact translation is disputed, the overall context of this verse seems to indicate that Job was more concerned to preserve his relationship to the Holy One than to have God remove his pain and anguish through death (vv. 8, 9).

6:14 t he exact meaning of the hebrew word translated afflicted is disputed. it may mean “to melt”; thus the idea could be “failing” or “despairing.” Verse 14 seems to be transitional, linking Job’s despair of vv. 8–13 with his disappointment of vv. 15–21.

6:15 Since the friends are called my brothers, Job apparently at one time had a close relationship with them. t his only intensified his feelings of disappointment. h e compares them to the streams of the brooks, the torrents of water that fill the ravines during the rainy season and pass away in the summer.

6:18 t he word paths in this verse concludes the imagery of empty ravines left by the seasonal streams called “wadis” (vv. 15–18) and links this section to the next (see v. 19).

6:19, 20 Job compares his intense disappointment with his friends to the thirsty caravans of Tema and the travelers of Sheba, whose hopes for water were dashed by reaching the dry stream beds. tema was located in northern Arabia and Sheba in southwestern Arabia. t hese caravans and travelers would have been familiar to his friends, since the story of Job most likely occurred near edom in northern Arabia.

6:21 When Job hoped to receive help from his three friends, they offered nothing. t his was like a desert wadi, a seasonal stream that vanishes in the time of greatest need.

6:24–26 Job pleads with his would-be counselors to have understanding rather than an argumentative spirit. t he friends’ demeanor degenerates into arguments and reproofs as they overreact to Job’s words, which even Job admits belonged to the wind. A counselor must be willing to make allowances for overreaction in someone who suffers and not respond with similar emotion. t he sufferer often needs someone to be a friend who will listen with understanding, rather than a judge who simply wishes to give reproof.

- 25 How forceful are right words!
But what does your arguing prove?
- 26 Do you intend to rebuke my words,
And the speeches of a desperate one,

And you <sup>p</sup>undermine your

- 28 Now therefore, be pleased to look at

- 29 <sup>q</sup>Yield now, let there be no injustice!

<sup>n</sup> Let me alone,
For <sup>o</sup> my days are but <sup>3</sup> a breath.
- 17 “What <sup>p</sup> is man, that You should exalt
him,
That You should set Your heart on
him,

6:29, 30 t he repeated word injustice in these verses is the same term used by eliphaz in 5:16. eliphaz argued that God “saves the needy” from the unscrupulous tactics of the wicked (5:12–15), so that “the poor have hope and injustice shuts her mouth.” Job responds by implying that the words of eliphaz deal injustice to him in his time of need (see 6:14–21) by assuming that he is not righteous.

7:1, 2 Job argues that his own lot is worse than the hard service of the hired laborer or the common slave. Job’s use of the word servant is an ironic indicator that his life as God’s servant (see the same hebrew term in 1:8) has now become full of drudgery and slavery rather than joyous trust in the Lord.

7:3 Although the Book of Job does not record how long Job suffered, the phrase months of futility implies that it was a considerable time.

7:6 Job’s choice of the word hope in the context of the weaver’s shuttle may convey a double meaning (see also 11:18). t he hebrew word for hope sounds like the hebrew word that means “thread” or “cord” (see Josh. 2:18, 21). n ot only did Job believe his days were without hope but that he had not even a thread of hope left. As if he were regarding a thread in a weaver’s shuttle, Job could not see the design that God had for his life through the suffering that he was experiencing. t hough sometimes we may question the Lord as Job did, we must realize that the great Weaver has a design that we may not be able to see until he is finished with our lives.

7:9, 10 Job describes the grave (sometimes rendered Sheol) as a place from which one shall never return (see 10:21). t he focus here is on death. t hough the dead person would never return to his house on earth, there was a belief in a meeting “house” in the underworld for those who had been on earth (see 30:23).

7:11 Job speaks frankly with God as he begins to pour out his anguish and to complain in bitterness. he had no fear that the Lord would misinterpret him as his human counselors had. t he Lord did not reprimand Job for this but instead commended Job for speaking “what is right” (see 42:7).

7:12 t he sea and its terrifying inhabitant the sea serpent symbolized chaos and the forces of evil and were even considered gods in the pagan religions of the ancient world. o nce again Job employs mythological imagery to express his frustration and deep anguish. Although Job interprets the Lord’s guard as an invasion of privacy (vv. 13, 14, 17–20), God has designed it for a benevolent purpose (see 3:23).

7:15 Job is not considering suicide when he states that he would choose strangling and death rather than to live in his body (see 3:20–22). Strangling may refer to the symptoms of his disease, such as coughing or choking, that he wishes God would use to kill him.

7:17, 18 t hese verses sound similar to Ps. 8:4. Whereas the psalmist marvels that God should “visit him,” Job uses the same word in a negative sense to complain that he should visit him all the time.

- 18 That You should <sup>4</sup>visit him every morning,
And test him every moment?
19 How long?
Will You not look away from me,
And let me alone till I swallow my saliva?
20 Have I sinned?
What have I done to You, <sup>9</sup>O watcher of men?
Why <sup>7</sup>have You set me as Your target,
So that I am a burden <sup>5</sup>to myself?
21 Why then do You not pardon my transgression,
And take away my iniquity?
For now I will lie down in the dust,
And You will seek me diligently,
But I will no longer be.”

Bildad: Job Should Repent

8 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

- 2 “How long will you speak these things,
And the words of your mouth be like a strong wind?
3 <sup>a</sup>Does God subvert judgment?

Nor will He uphold the evildoers.
21 He will yet fill your mouth with laughing,
And your lips with <sup>6</sup>rejoicing.

7:20, 21 Job appeals to God to show him what he has done to deserve being made a target for God's persecution. When Job calls God the watcher of men, he employs a participle that normally describes God in a positive role as one who preserves his people (Ps. 31:23).

8:2 Bildad twists Job's words of 6:26. Job had acknowledged that he had overreacted with words that belonged to the wind, to paraphrase Bildad's sarcastic response: “Yes, you're right, Job! All your words are like a mighty wind; you are full of hot air!”

8:3 Bildad argues that God could never pervert justice. The only possible conclusion was that Job and his children received what they deserved as sinners (see vv. 4–7, 20).

8:4–6 The repetition of the word if in these three successive verses illustrates the presumptive nature of Bildad's statements (vv. 8–22). In his zeal to defend orthodox doctrine, he fails to listen to Job's pain.

8:5, 6 Bildad admonishes Job to seek God now so that God will restore Job's prosperity, rather than talking about how God will seek him unsuccessfully once he is dead (7:21). Bildad uses the words pure and upright, the same words the Lord has already employed in affirming Job's blameless character (see 1:8; 2:3).

8:7 The advice that Job's latter end would increase abundantly anticipates Job's restoration in the epilogue (42:10–17), though it came about in a way quite different from what Bildad envisioned.

8:11–19 Bildad uses illustrations from nature to support his belief that God punishes only the wicked and always rewards the righteous in this life. He falsely deduces that one can always determine the cause by looking at the effect. oversimplification resulting in pat, inadequate answers is a common error of Job's counselors.

8:14, 15 The metaphor of the spider's web implies that Job had trusted in his house and riches, which were no more permanent than the web.

8:20, 21 Bildad's dogmatic statement about how God will not cast away the blameless is undermined by the fact that he uses the word blameless in the same way the Lord used it in the prologue (1:1, 8; 2:3) to describe Job.

22 Those who hate you will be <sup>n</sup> clothed with shame,
And the dwelling place of the wicked
<sup>7</sup> will come to nothing.”

Job: There Is No Mediator

9 Then Job answered and said:

2 “Truly I know it is so,
But how can a <sup>a</sup> man be <sup>b</sup> righteous before God?
3 If one wished to <sup>1</sup> contend with Though I were blameless, it would prove me perverse.

21 “I am blameless, yet I do not know myself;
I despise my life.

9:3 t he verb to contend indicates that Job was considering the idea of entering a legal case against God. t he prophets often used this word when speaking of God bringing a legal case against israel (is. 1:2; mic. 6:1). Job’s legal dilemma before the Lord, who served simultaneously as Job’s judge and legal adversary (see 13:20–28), underscores the urgency and hopelessness of Job’s call for a mediator to hear his case (v. 33). Job calculates that the chances of answering God’s interrogation are very slim, one in a thousand—something God later verifies (see 38:1—42:6). t he legal term answer means to respond to an accusation in court, particularly under cross-examination.

9:8 spreads out the heavens: Job attributes this phenomenon to God alone. t he fact that the Lord treads on the waves of the sea shows his unique control over the alleged forces of evil (see 38:8–12). t he word treads emphasizes that the Lord treads the supposed sea god Yamm under his feet (see also v. 13). t his verse emphasizes that the sea is merely a natural force under the control of the omnipotent God.

9:9, 10 the Bear, Orion . . . the Pleiades: God’s creation of the wonders of the heavens is also celebrated by Amos (see Amos 5:8). indeed, these words come back on Job’s head (38:31–33). great things . . . wonders: t he works of God are so amazing and numerous that the human mind simply cannot comprehend them.

9:17 t his verse teems with possible ironic innuendoes. Job’s statement that God crushes him with a tempest anticipates the appearance of the Lord “out of the whirlwind” in 38:1, but with a different result. Job blames God for crushing and wounding him without cause, when actually it was Satan who had sought to destroy him without cause (2:3). t he hebrew word translated crushes in this verse is translated bruise in Gen. 3:15 and describes the conflict between Satan and humanity.

9:21 t he phrase I do not know myself means “i do not care for myself” according to the clarification given in the rest of the verse.

proud

(heb. rahab) (9:13; 26:12; is. 30:7) Strong’s #7293

t he verbal root of this word means “to act stormily” or “to behave tempestuously.” t he derived proper noun designates a mythological, primeval sea monster. Later it became a designation for egypt. isaiah reports the Lord himself calling egypt by this name (is. 30:7); elsewhere isaiah uses the word in a context that suggests a double reference—to both the sea monster and egypt (is. 51:9). When referring to the sea monster, this word is always couched in language depicting God’s cosmic power (9:1–13; 26:12, 13; Ps. 89:8–12; is. 51:6–11). t he ancient middle east had many mythological tales of powerful primeval sea monsters. t he Bible uses this image of r ahab, not to endorse mythology but to demonstrate the Lord’s supremacy over all powers—even the ones in people’s imagination.

Soapwort

Before the manufacture of soap as we know it today, people in Palestine used a crude form of soap made from the ashes of the roots of the soapwort, mixed with olive oil. The Hebrew words for these soap plants—bor and borith—literally meant “that which cleanses.” For making soap, the Hebrews used several types of scrubby alkaline plants that grew in the area of the Dead Sea and the Mediterranean. They often used this soft soap for bathing (9:30; Jer. 2:22). Generally, Hebrew women used the root of the soapwort for washing linens because they believed it would not make them shrink. Men used the ashes of the glasswort and the saltwort to make potash for smelting metals (Is. 1:25; Mal. 3:2).

Job: I Would Plead with God

- 10 “My <sup>a</sup> soul loathes my life;
I will ! give free course to my complaint, <sup>b</sup> I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.
- 2 I will say to God, ‘Do not condemn me;
Show me why You contend with me.
- 3 Does it seem good to You that You should oppress,
That You should despise the work of Your hands,
And smile on the counsel of the wicked?
- 4 Do You have eyes of flesh?
Or <sup>c</sup> do You see as man sees?
- 5 Are Your days like the days of a mortal man?
Are Your years like the days of a mighty man,
- 6 That You should seek for my iniquity
And search out my sin,
- 7 Although You know that I am not wicked,
And there is no one who can deliver from Your hand?
- 8 ‘Your <sup>d</sup> hands have made me and fashioned me,
An intricate unity;
Yet You would <sup>e</sup> destroy me.

9:22–24 Job contradicts Bildad’s claims of 8:3, 20 by accusing God of unjustly destroying both the blameless and the wicked (see 8:20, 21). Thus Job accuses God of being an unjust Judge who blindfolds earthly judges (v. 24).

9:28 Job desires to stand before God as an innocent man—not absolutely sinless, but innocent of any sin comparable to his suffering. 9:32, 33 Job complains that God is not a man who would go to court with him (see 9:3). Neither does Job have an impartial mediator between God and himself—a mediator who can present his case before God. The desire for a mediator between God and humanity is a key theme in Job (see 16:19; 19:25), and it anticipates the emphasis on Jesus as the true mediator between God and all of humanity (see 1 Tim. 2:5).

10:2 Show me: Job dares to speak to God as an equal. Again using legal language (see 9:3), Job demands that God give him a fair trial through proper court protocol. Here Job comes close to unjustified indignation at God’s sovereign will for his life.

10:7 This verse serves as a transition from Job’s complaint (vv. 1–6) to his brief description of how God had lovingly created him (vv. 8–12). Job knows that he is not wicked, and he thinks that God is unjust in oppressing him. Yet Job also realizes that there is no one who can deliver him from God’s hand.

10:8–17 In these verses, Job paints a portrait of the apparently contradictory nature of God, contrasting his loving character with his judgment. Job wonders how the God who had so carefully fashioned him in the womb can turn against him like a fierce

- 9 Remember, I pray, <sup>f</sup>that You have made me like clay.
And will You turn me into dust again?
- 10 <sup>g</sup>Did You not pour me out like milk,
And curdle me like cheese,
- 11 Clothe me with skin and flesh,
And knit me together with bones and sinews?
- 12 You have granted me life and favor,
And Your care has preserved my spirit.
- 13 ‘And these things You have hidden in Your heart;

And will not acquit me of my iniquity.
- 15 If I am wicked, <sup>i</sup>woe to me;
<sup>j</sup>Even if I am righteous, I <sup>2</sup>cannot lift up my head.
I am full of disgrace;
<sup>k</sup>See my misery!
- 16 If my head is exalted,
<sup>l</sup>You hunt me like a fierce lion,
And again You show Yourself awesome against me.
- 17 You renew Your witnesses against me,
And increase Your indignation toward me;
Changes and war are ever with me.
- 18 ‘Why <sup>m</sup>then have You brought me out of the womb?
Oh, that I had perished and no eye had seen me!
- 19 I would have been as though I had not been.

Zophar Urges Job to Repent

11 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

- 2 “Should not the multitude of words be answered?
And should <sup>1</sup>a man full of talk be vindicated?
- 3 Should your empty talk make men <sup>2</sup>hold their peace?
And when you mock, should no one rebuke you?
- 4 For you have said,
<sup>a</sup>“My doctrine is pure,
And I am clean in your eyes.”

lion. t his is the desperate cry of a sufferer blind to the fact that God is working good out of all the tragic events of his life (see 42:12).

10:15, 16 n not being able to lift up his head expresses Job’s shame and disgrace (see Judg. 8:28; Lam. 2:10). Job’s misery was so deep that although he believed he was innocent, he felt like a criminal with no self-esteem or dignity.

10:17 t he phrase You renew Your witnesses against me is a legal metaphor that may refer to each new aspect of Job’s illness. In the equivalent war metaphor, the Lord was sending changes or troop reinforcements against him.

10:18–22 Job asks why he was ever born (vv. 18, 19; see 3:3–10). t hen, he wishes the Lord would leave him alone to die (vv. 20–22; see 3:20–26; 7:16–21). In contrast to 3:17–19, where the grave is described as a place of rest and freedom, the grave here is the land of darkness lacking any order. Job amplifies his wish that he could have gone straight from the womb to the tomb by linking the darkness of the grave with the dark day of his birth (3:3–9).

Four different words for darkness in vv. 21, 22 stress the gloom and dreariness of the grave.

11:1–20 Zophar the Naamathite (see 2:11) was even more rude than Bildad (vv. 2–6; 8:1–13). he was a brash dogmatist who based his arguments on misapplied theology coupled with simplistic reasoning. 11:4 Zophar exaggerates what Job has said about his innocence (see 9:14–21) to make Job look foolish. Job never stated that his doctrine was pure.

11:7–9 When Zophar interrogates Job about the impossibility of comprehending the deep things of God, he employs for search out the same term Job used to describe God’s wonders as beyond “finding out” (9:10). t hus Zophar may be trying to turn Job’s words against him by saying that Job’s actions are inconsistent with his theology. Since these verses anticipate portions of the Lord’s speeches (see 38:16–18, 34–38), Zophar’s doctrine is correct, but the application is wrong. Biblical truth misapplied perverts the intent of the Scriptures and misleads.

- 10<sup>d</sup> If He passes by, imprisons, and gathers to judgment,
Then who can <sup>5</sup>hinder Him?
11 For <sup>e</sup>He knows deceitful men;
He sees wickedness also.
Will He not then consider it?
12 For an <sup>f</sup>empty-headed man will be wise,
When a wild donkey's colt is born a man.
- 13<sup>d</sup> If you would <sup>g</sup>prepare your heart,
And <sup>h</sup>stretch out your hands toward Him;
14 If iniquity were in your hand, and you put it far away,
And <sup>i</sup>would not let wickedness dwell in your tents;

16 <sup>k</sup> Is. 65:16
17 <sup>l</sup> Ps. 37:6; Prov. 4:18; Is. 58:8, 10
18 <sup>m</sup> Lev. 26:5, 6; Ps. 3:5; Prov. 3:24

- 15 <sup>j</sup> Then surely you could lift up your face without spot;
Yes, you could be steadfast, and not fear;
16 Because you would <sup>k</sup>forget your misery,
And remember it as waters that have passed away,
17 And your life <sup>l</sup>would be brighter than noonday.
Though you were dark, you would be like the morning.
18 And you would be secure, because there is hope;
Yes, you would dig around you, and <sup>m</sup>take your rest in safety.

11:10–12 Zophar's rhetorical question about God, who can hinder Him, echoes Job's sentiments in 9:12 verbatim. However, Zophar denies Job's allegation that God does not know the difference between the righteous and the wicked (v. 11; see 9:22). As a retort to Job's rhetorical question (6:5) in which he compared his own cries to the braying of the "wild donkey," Zophar employs what may be a proverbial statement about the wild donkey. He could be implying that Job's "empty talk" indicates that he is empty-headed (vv. 3, 12).

11:13, 14 stretch out your hands: Stretching out the hands was a posture of prayer as well as of praise (see Ps. 134:2). Assuming that Job is suffering because of his iniquity, Zophar rudely repudiates Job's assertion that he has no "injustice" on his tongue (6:30) by alleging that, in fact, it is Job's tents that are full of wickedness or injustice. The implication may be that Job had acquired his wealth by wrong means or had tolerated evil in his household.

11:16 as waters . . . passed away: This is similar to our expression "water under the bridge."

11:18, 19 The phrase dig around you is a literal rendition of a Hebrew root that may mean "to look carefully about" with "eagle eye" scrutiny (see the usage of the same Hebrew term in 39:29).

Job's Counseling Sessions

- 19 You would also lie down, and no one would make you afraid;
Yes, many would court your favor.
20 But <sup>n</sup>the eyes of the wicked will fail,
And they shall not escape,
And <sup>o</sup>their hope—<sup>6</sup>loss of life!”

Job Answers His Critics

- 12 Then Job answered and said:
2 “No doubt you are the people,

3 But I have <sup>j</sup>understanding as well as you;
I am not <sup>a</sup>inferior to you.

<sup>c</sup> You are all worthless physicians.
5 Oh, that you would be silent,
And <sup>d</sup>it would be your wisdom!

12:4 mocked by his friends: t he verb Job uses is also found in a similar negative context in Ps. 2:4. in those contexts, the verb indicates ridicule. But in other passages, this word expresses joy and laughter (Gen. 21:6).

12:22 God’s reversal of darkness to light was precisely what Job needed (see 10:21, 22).

12:24, 25 God’s coming reversal of human wisdom is desired by all who presently suffer the arrogance of people who prate their knowledge with no fear of the living God (see Prov. 1:7).

13:3, 4 Job desires to reason or argue his cause before God. he rejects the incompetent counsel of his three friends who, like worthless physicians, have made a wrong diagnosis concerning the cause of his disease and suffering. in fact they were forgers of lies, literally “falsehood-plasterers.” Job’s friends were smearing his sores with a sham concoction of dogma. instead of piously accusing their unfortunate friend, they should have been praying with him. 13:5–13 in response to Zophar’s derisive question concerning Job’s words (11:3), Job expresses the desire that his friends would be absolutely silent. indeed, that would have been the friends' wisest action (Prov. 17:28). Job's sarcasm reflects his earlier words to them in 12:2. Using the vocabulary of a wisdom teacher, Job explains his reason for insisting on silence. he wants them to hear and pay attention to his words. he urges them to listen diligently to his words instead of trying to defend God. t heir pious platitudes are as worthless as proverbs composed of ashes.

13:14 t he latter half of the verse seems to clarify take my flesh in my teeth to mean risking loss of one's life like an animal who tries to defend itself while carrying its prey in its mouth.

13:15 trust Him: While this verse is widely known as a powerful statement of Job's trust in God, it is not without difficulties. t he hebrew word translated Him is similar in sound to the hebrew word for no. t hus some have translated the verse as follows: "Behold, he will slay me; i have no hope." Yet the positive translation of the verse as it is here seems preferable because it follows the flow of the section (vv. 13–19), which has other positive elements (see vv. 16, 19). it also makes wonderful sense within the verse. Job believes that God is in the process of slowly taking his life. But in a bold declaration of faith, Job declares his absolute trust in God, for when he would be brought into God's presence, he would plead his cause directly with God. And then, if not before, Job would rediscover what he had never really lost: God's love and salvation (v. 16).

13:20–28 Since Job is still in this life of pain (see v. 15), he turns to God as best he can and appeals his case directly to him. Job requests that God, as plaintiff, list the specific charges he has against him rather than continue being his Judge.

13:24 t he hebrew terminology resembles vv. 20, 21. Job asks why does God hide his face, a hebrew idiom indicating the absence of God's favor and blessing.

13:27 in a portrait of God's "malevolent activities," Job uses the verb watch. t he word normally describes God's benevolent care over a person's life, but in the Book of Job it depicts the role God gives to Satan (in 2:6).

14:1–6 Job agrees with eliphaz's assessment that a person is born for trouble. he stresses life's misery and brevity through two vivid metaphors: a fading flower and a fleeing shadow.

14:5 t hat God has determined the length of a person's life (see Ps. 90:10) emphasizes God's sovereign power and wisdom, and conversely the impotence of human beings, who are under divinely set limits.

You have appointed his limits, so that he cannot pass.

6 <sup>g</sup> Look away from him that he may <sup>3</sup> rest,
Till <sup>h</sup> like a hired man he finishes his day.

7 “For there is hope for a tree,

And that its tender shoots will not cease.

8 Though its root may grow old in the earth,
And its stump may die in the ground,
9 Yet at the scent of water it will bud
And bring forth branches like a plant.

10 But man dies and <sup>4</sup> is laid away;
Indeed he <sup>5</sup> breathes his last
And where is <sup>i</sup> he?

11 As water disappears from the sea,
And a river becomes parched and dries up,
12 So man lies down and does not rise.

They will not awake
Nor be roused from their sleep.

Eliphaz Accuses Job of Folly

15 Then <sup>a</sup> Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

2 “Should a wise man answer with empty knowledge,
And fill <sup>1</sup> himself with the east wind?
3 Should he reason with unprofitable talk,
Or by speeches with which he can do no good?

8 <sup>d</sup> Job 29:4; r om. 11:34; [1 Cor. 2:11]

14:7–9 hope for a tree: Job implies that life is better for trees than for people. When a tree falls, it can sprout again. <sup>t</sup> This is precisely the point of Isaiah’s beautiful prophecy (Is. 6:13). <sup>t</sup> The house of Jesse—that is, Israel—will be cut off, as one might cut down a great oak tree. But in God’s great mercy, that tree will sprout new growth. <sup>t</sup> The “holy seed” is in the stump. <sup>t</sup> That new growth is the beautiful Branch (Is. 11:1), the Savior King whose name is Jesus.

14:13 Job’s wish for the grave to be a temporary hiding place from God’s wrath differs dramatically from his earlier remarks concerning the grave (see 7:9, 10; 10:18–22). <sup>h</sup> He attributes the cause of his suffering to God’s wrath because he assumes the retribution dogma that the righteous are always blessed and the wicked will eventually experience God’s judgment.

14:14 Job’s question if a man dies, shall he live again is answered with an emphatic “Yes” by Jesus and the NT authors (see John 11:23–26; 1 Cor. 15:3–57; see also Is. 26:19; Dan. 12:2). But Job responds to his own question by a determination to wait for his change to come. Since Job considers life hard (see 7:1), perhaps he is implying that he will wait for relief from his suffering through death to find out the answer.

15:2, 3 <sup>t</sup> The insinuation that Job had filled himself with the east wind is an allusion to the violent and scorching wind from the desert that brought no rain. <sup>t</sup> Thus Eliphaz is implying that Job’s arguments were destructive (see vv. 12, 13) and without beneficial substance (see the context of v. 3).

15:4–6 Eliphaz’s statement your own mouth condemns you expresses ironic agreement with Job’s earlier words (9:20). But Eliphaz deliberately twists Job’s words to say that Job no longer needs a day in court since his own mouth has already incriminated him.

15:7 Are you the first man who was born: <sup>t</sup> His sarcastic question anticipates a theme developed in the Lord’s speeches (see 38:4–21).

15:8–10 wisdom . . . know: Eliphaz throws Job’s words of 12:3; 13:2 back into his face. <sup>h</sup> He counters Job’s sarcastic rebuttal to Bildad that wisdom comes only with age (12:12) by saying that people much

- 9 <sup>e</sup> What do you know that we do not know?

 1 Troublesome

- 24 Trouble and anguish make him afraid;
 They overpower him, like a king ready for <sup>7</sup> battle.

 Nor will his wealth <sup>s</sup> continue,
 Nor will his possessions overspread the earth.
- 30 He will not depart from darkness;
 The flame will dry out his branches,
 And <sup>t</sup> by the breath of His mouth he will go away.
- 31 Let him not <sup>u</sup> trust in futile things,
 Deceiving himself,
 For futility will be his reward.
- 32 It will be accomplished <sup>v</sup> before his time,
 And his branch will not be green.
- 33 He will shake off his unripe grape like a vine,
 And cast off his blossom like an olive tree.
- 34 For the company of hypocrites will be barren,
 And fire will consume the tents of bribery.

 Their womb prepares deceit.”

Job Reproaches His Pitiless Friends

16 Then Job answered and said:

- 2 <sup>2</sup> “I have heard many such things;

older than Job's father are on their side. Since Job was already a mature man who had raised ten grown children, this may be an exaggeration for effect.

15:13 t the hebrew word translated spirit may also be translated “temper” or “anger,” as in Prov. 16:32.

15:14, 15 eliphaz rephrases his thought of 4:17, 18 by interweaving an apparent gibe at Job's complaint of 14:1 about man “born of woman.”

15:17, 18 t the phrase what I have seen shows that eliphaz bases his instruction on experience and observation (see 4:1). he also appeals to the wisdom tradition as Bildad has done in 8:8–10.

15:20 hidden from: t the hebrew could also be translated “stored up for.”

15:21 dreadful: eliphaz begins his subtle argument to prove that Job is a wicked man. he alludes to Job's dread, the same word translated feared in 3:25, as an implicit indicator that Job is wicked. 15:23, 24 By using the phrase make him afraid in the context of a day of darkness, eliphaz twists the words of Job's lament about the day of his birth (3:4, 5) to fit the dark day of his death (10:18–22). then in contrast to 14:20 where Job blames God for prevailing against people, eliphaz says that the wicked man's own fears overpower him.

15:27–33 t the imagery of the fat man who eventually loses his wealth and possessions by divine punishment for his wickedness, insinuates that Job's calamities have occurred because of his own self-indulgence.

15:34 in mentioning the fire that will consume the tents of the wicked, eliphaz employs the same two words that describe the fire of God that devoured Job's sheep and servants (see 1:16).

16:2 I have heard many such things: Beginning with a rare direct

- 15 "I have sewn sackcloth over my skin,
And <sup>m</sup>laid my <sup>5</sup>head in the dust.
- 16 My face is <sup>6</sup>flushed from weeping,
And on my eyelids is the shadow of death;
- 17 Although no violence is in my hands,
And my prayer is pure.
- 18 "O earth, do not cover my blood,
And <sup>n</sup>let my cry have no resting place!"
- 19 Surely even now <sup>o</sup>my witness is in

Job Prays for Relief

- 17 "My spirit is broken,
My days are extinguished,
<sup>a</sup>The grave is ready for me.
- 2 Are not mockers with me?
And does not my eye <sup>1</sup>dwell on their

Therefore You will not exalt them.

And I have become one in whose face men spit.
- 7 <sup>g</sup>My eye has also grown dim because of sorrow,
And all my members are like shadows.

allusion to what the previous speaker just said, Job belittles his friends as miserable comforters. to paraphrase Job: "Speaking of trouble, rather than comforting me in my troubles as a good counselor should, you have increased my trouble despite your claims to the contrary."

16:3 t the phrase words of wind is a caustic comeback to eliphaz's words in 15:2 and Bildad's in 8:2. Both had twisted Job's words of 6:26 (see 8:2; 15:2, 3).

16:4, 5 t the phrase shake my head at you indicates a mocking posture (as in Ps. 22:7). however, the word comfort, meaning "to nod the head sympathetically," is used in 2:11 of the friends who came to console him. in effect, Job is saying: "Please nod your head with understanding instead of mocking and ridiculing me."

16:10 strike me: t those who mocked and mistreated Job were probably various passersby (30:1, 9-12).

16:19, 21 t the identity of Job's witness is disputed. o ne's understanding about Job's "redeemer" in 19:25 will affect one's understanding of Job's witness (see 19:25). Some argue that Job was referring to God. however, the context of 9:33, where Job wished for an impartial mediator between God and himself (see 9:32, 33), and the immediate context of v. 21 suggest that Job was using a legal metaphor to express his wish for an advocate who would plead for him with God, as a man pleads for his neighbor on earth. t his anticipates Jesus Christ, who is our intercessor (heb. 7:25) and Advocate (1 John 2:1).

17:3 in another legal metaphor, Job appeals to God to act as his advocate by laying down a pledge, that is, providing bail. t he use of the same metaphor in Ps. 119:121, 122 to indicate the psalmist's request for relief from his "oppressors" may suggest that Job was pleading for God to demonstrate confidence in his innocence.

- 8 Upright men are astonished at this,
And the innocent stirs himself up against the hypocrite.
- 9 Yet the righteous will hold to his <sup>h</sup>way,
And he who has <sup>i</sup>clean hands will be stronger and stronger.
- 10<sup>a</sup> “But please, <sup>j</sup>come back again, <sup>2</sup>all of
you,
For I shall not find one wise man
among you.
- 11 <sup>k</sup>My days are past,
My purposes are broken off,
Even the <sup>3</sup>thoughts of my heart.

‘The light is near,’ they say, in the face

If I make my bed in the darkness,
- 14 If I say to corruption, ‘You are my father,’
And to the worm, ‘You are my mother and my sister,’
- 15 Where then is my <sup>l</sup>hope?
As for my hope, who can see it?
- 16 Will they go down <sup>m</sup>to the gates of

Shall we have <sup>n</sup>rest together in the

Bildad: The Wicked Are Punished

- 18 Then <sup>a</sup>Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:
- 2 “How long till you put an end to words?
Gain understanding, and afterward
we will speak.
- 3 Why are we counted <sup>b</sup>as beasts,

17:12 t his verse may be a caricature of the friends' false assurances that if he would repent, his darkness would soon become light.

17:13, 14 Job counters the false assurances of his friends with a facetious statement about waiting for the grave as one who longingly desires to go home to his house and his long-lost relatives, corruption (or “the pit”) and the worm.

18:3 When Bildad asks why he and his friends are counted as beasts, he apparently resents the implication of Job's words in 12:7–9. 18:4 the phrase you who tear yourself in anger seems to be Bildad's answer to Job's allegation that God had torn Job in his anger (16:13).

18:8–10 net . . . trap: Six different hebrew synonyms for various types of nets and traps emphasize the many imminent dangers that God has designed for the wicked to ensure that they will be caught in their wickedness.

18:13, 14 Bildad cruelly attributes Job's disease to the firstborn of death, a reference to the demon of plagues and disease (see 3:8). The king of terrors is probably death personified as a king, o thers suggest that this may refer to Satan.

18:16–19 in describing roots as being dried or withered, Bildad contradicts Job's previous argument about the tree that is cut down but sprouts up from its roots (see 14:7, 8). t here seems to be no hope for Job's family tree because God, who is about to wipe the memory of Job from the earth, has already removed his descendants or posterity. in ancient times this was a sign of a divine curse. o nce again Bildad manifests great insensitivity toward Job over the loss of his children (see 8:4).

18:21 in this summation of the evidence, Bildad uses the word wicked, in hebrew literally the “unjust one,” to suggest that he is refuting Job's allegation that God has turned him over to the “ungodly.” Bildad believes that the evidence he has exhibited in vv. 5–20 implicates Job himself as the culprit, the wicked one.

Job Trusts in His Redeemer

19 Then Job answered and said:

- 2 “How long will you torment my soul,
And break me in pieces with words?
3 These ten times you have
    <sup>1</sup>reproached me;
You are not ashamed that you <sup>2</sup>have wronged me.
4 And if indeed I have erred,
My error remains with me.
5 If indeed you <sup>a</sup>exalt yourselves
    against me,
And plead my disgrace against me, 6 Know then that <sup>b</sup>God has wronged me,
And has surrounded me with His net.

10 He breaks me down on every side,

11 He has also kindled His wrath
against me,
And <sup>f</sup>He counts me as one of His

19:2 How long will you torment: Job is tired of hearing Bildad's rude questions and the tormenting words of all his friends.

19:5-8 Job's friends have used the disgrace associated with his disease to plead the case that he is guilty of sin (10:17; 16:8; see 17:3). With the statement God has wronged me, Job responds to Bildad's implication in 8:3 that God does not subvert justice. He argues that Bildad's theory about God does not fit the facts. Instead he asserts that God has wrongly entrapped him as though he were a wild animal or criminal. In describing God as surrounding him with His net, Job continues the imagery of the divine hunter initiated by Bildad. essentially, Job feels fenced in by God when it is really Satan who has been mistreating him (see 1:10; 3:23).

19:9, 10 Job compares his removal from the respected position of judge or city councilman (see 29:7-25) to being dethroned like a king whose crown is taken from his head. Job's hope, which had once sprouted up like a new tree from a stump (see 14:7-9), has been totally uprooted.

The Mystery of Human Suffering

Bildad's speech to Job can be summed up: "You got what you deserved." Bildad and Job's two other friends Eliphaz and Zophar had concluded that Job's suffering was certainly evidence of some sin in his life.

Job's friends were not reciting falsehoods; much of what they said was theologically sound at least in the abstract. The Scriptures, especially Deuteronomy (see Deut. 27; 28), indicate that the righteous can expect God's blessing and the wicked can expect God's curse. Both Eliphaz (15:17-35) and Zophar (20:4-29) conceded that sometimes the wicked enjoyed temporary prosperity as Job had. However, they asserted, as the Book of Proverbs does (Prov. 1:17-19; 6:14, 15), that eventually the wicked would be punished. Conversely, Elihu declared that God would reward the righteous with prosperity and security (36:7-11). The Book of Psalms teaches the same doctrine, that whatever the righteous person does "shall prosper" (Ps. 1:3). With this type of reasoning, all of Job's friends came to the same conclusion: Job's suffering was a sign of sin in his life (4:7-11; 8:11-22).

So where did Job's counselors go wrong? Their mistake was that they misapplied an abstract truth. Yes, in the end God rewards the righteous and punishes the wicked. Moreover, God himself had declared to Moses that he would not leave the guilty unpunished (Ex. 34:7). But Job's friends did not have God's perspective on Job's situation. Like Jesus' disciples, they automatically assumed that when catastrophe struck, it was God's punishment on that person (see John 9:1-3). But Job's story and Jesus' response to his disciples (John 9:3) indicate that human suffering is not always the sign of God's judgment. In this fallen world, sometimes the innocent suffer. But even through their suffering, God accomplishes his good will. In Job's case, Satan's false accusation was refuted and God's sovereignty was proven. The suffering of the blind man made it possible for Jesus to demonstrate his healing power and to transform the man into a witness to Jesus' deity (John 9:3, 30-33). Often our suffering or the suffering of others blinds us to the reality that the sovereign God is working his own good purposes through a fallen world.

19:17 t he mention of the children of Job's own body is problematic since the book seems to document the loss of all ten of his children (see 1:2, 18, 19). it is possible this is a rhetorical statement: “i would be repulsive even to my children” (compare v. 18).

19:20 t he meaning of the phrase skin of my teeth is uncertain. it may imply that his body was so devastated by disease that his teeth had fallen out and only the skin or gums of his teeth were left intact.

behold

(heb. ra'ah) (19:27; Deut. 3:27; eccl. 11:7; is. 26:10; Lam 1:9) Strong's #7200

t his is the common term used in reference to the natural function of the eyes and is thus most often translated as see (Gen. 48:10; Deut. 1:8; 2 Kin. 3:14; mic. 7:9, 10). t he word also has a number of metaphorical meanings, such as acceptance (Gen. 7:1; num. 23:21) and provision (Gen. 22:8, 14; 1 Sam. 16:1). it can even convey the notion of assurance and salvation as is the case here. in 42:5 the word means “to see” in the sense of “to come to recognize” or “to experience fully” something previously known or understood. At times the word is associated with a prophetic message, as a prophet is described as seeing a vision from God (is. 6:1; Jer. 1:11–13; ezek. 1:1).

19:21 t hat Job believed the hand of God has struck him is ironic, since in fact, God had refused Satan's request to “stretch out his hand” against Job (1:11; 2:5).

19:25, 26 Job expresses his confidence in his living Redeemer, which in this legal context may be translated “Vindicator” or “Protector of the Family r ights” (see Ps. 119:154; also r uth 4:1 where the word is translated close relative). Some interpreters believe that Job was referring to God, a view supported by the context of 17:3 and possibly by the mention of God in v. 26. h owever, the context of the Book of Job—Job's longing for a mediator (9:33) and his desire for someone to plead on his behalf with God (16:19–21)—may suggest that he was thinking of someone other than God. h ere is a strong, resolute hope for a mediator between God and humanity. Ultimately Job's longing for a vindicator or mediator was fulfilled in Jesus Christ (see 1 t im. 2:5).

19:27 Again, the redundant, emphatic pronoun I in the hebrew text (as in v. 25) indicates a strong belief and deep conviction. t his is a wonderful example of a sufferer passionately expressing his resolute faith even in the middle of a horrible situation.

19:29 Job's warning to his friends to be afraid of the sword for yourselves may have been his rebuttal of eliphaz's remarks about the wicked person watching in dread for the sword (15:22).

20:4, 5 Zophar confronts Job's confident statement in 19:25 with a sarcastic rebuke. Since Job supposedly knew so much about his r edeemer, surely he knew the wisdom teaching that the wicked prosper only for a short time.

CHAPTER 21

2 <sup>1</sup> comfort
3 <sup>a</sup> Job 16:10

19 For he has <sup>3</sup> oppressed and forsaken the poor,
He has violently seized a house which he did not build.

20<sup>a</sup> Because <sup>k</sup> he knows no quietness in his <sup>4</sup> heart,
He will not save anything he desires.

21 Nothing is left for him to eat;
Therefore his well-being will not last.

22 In his self-sufficiency he will be in distress;
Every hand of <sup>5</sup> misery will come against him.

23 When he is about to fill his stomach, God will cast on him the fury of His wrath,
And will rain it on him while he is eating.

24 <sup>l</sup> He will flee from the iron weapon;
A bronze bow will pierce him through.

25 It is drawn, and comes out of the body;
Yes, <sup>m</sup> the glittering point comes out of his <sup>6</sup> gall.

<sup>n</sup> Terrors come upon him;
26 Total darkness is reserved for his treasures.
<sup>o</sup> An unfanned fire will consume him;
It shall go ill with him who is left in his tent.

27 The heavens will reveal his iniquity,
And the earth will rise up against
him.

28 The increase of his house will depart,
And his goods will flow away in the day of His <sup>p</sup> wrath.

29<sup>q</sup> This is the portion from God for a wicked man,
The heritage appointed to him by God.<sup>a</sup>

Job's Discourse on the Wicked

21 Then Job answered and said:

2 “Listen carefully to my speech,
And let this be your <sup>1</sup> consolation.

3 Bear with me that I may speak,
And after I have spoken, keep <sup>a</sup> mocking.

20:7 t he word refuse may also be translated “dung.” A scathing comment.

20:12–19 t hough evil may be sweet to the wicked for a while, the certain consequences of their behavior will bring about their downfall.

20:20, 21 in stating that the wicked person knows no quietness, Zophar implies that Job has received what he deserves. Zophar’s statement that the well-being or “prosperity” of the wicked will not last fits Job’s circumstances: Job has lost everything. In essence, Zophar is confirming Job’s complaint in 7:7 that he will “never again see good.”

20:27 Zophar apparently reverses Job’s appeal to the earth and heavens (16:18, 19) for vindication. he argues that the heavens and the earth will bear witness not to Job’s innocence but to his iniquity.

20:29 in this summary verdict, Zophar suggests that it is too late for Job to repent (contrast his previous words in 11:13–20). God would have no clemency for such a wicked person.

21:2 your consolation: Job tells the three friends that if they will listen carefully, they will finally be of some consolation, or comfort, to him.

21:3 keep mocking: Perhaps Job turned directly to Zophar to rebuke the most offensive of his friends. Zophar had not only claimed that Job mocked (see 11:3 where Zophar used the same hebrew word for mocking), but he mocked Job’s words (20:9).

- 4 “As for me, is my complaint against man?
And if it were, why should I not be impatient?”
- 5 Look at me and be astonished;
<sup>b</sup>Put your hand over your mouth.
- 6 Even when I remember I am terrified,
And trembling takes hold of my flesh.
- 7 <sup>c</sup>Why do the wicked live and become old,
Yes, become mighty in power?
- 8 Their descendants are established with them in their sight,
And their offspring before their eyes.
- 9 Their houses are safe from fear,
<sup>d</sup>Neither is <sup>2</sup>the rod of God upon them.
- 10 Their bull breeds without failure;
Their cow calves <sup>e</sup>without miscarriage.
- 11 They send forth their little ones like a flock,
And their children dance.
- 12 They sing to the tambourine and harp,
And rejoice to the sound of the flute.
- 13 They <sup>f</sup>spend their days in wealth,
And <sup>3</sup>in a moment go down to the <sup>4</sup>grave.
- 14<sup>g</sup> Yet they say to God, ‘Depart from us,
For we do not desire the knowledge of Your ways.
- 15<sup>h</sup> Who is the Almighty, that we should serve Him?
And <sup>i</sup>what profit do we have if we pray to Him?’
- 16 Indeed <sup>5</sup>their prosperity is not in their hand;
<sup>j</sup>The counsel of the wicked is far from me.
- 17<sup>k</sup> “How often is the lamp of the wicked put out?
How often does their destruction come upon them,
The sorrows God <sup>k</sup>distributes in His anger?”

- 31 Who condemns his way to his face?
And who repays him for what he has done?
- 32 Yet he shall be brought to the grave,
And a vigil kept over the tomb.

21:7 Why do the wicked live: With a rhetorical question, Job begins exposing the loopholes in the retribution dogma—the belief that suffering always indicates God’s punishment of a person. t he prosperity of the wicked is still a mystery for believers today. o ther biblical writers agonized over it (see Ps. 37; 73; Jer. 12:1–4). But the Scriptures affirm that God is controlling everything to accomplish his good purposes (see r om. 8:28).

21:9 Job reacts to eliphaz’s argument in 15:21–24 that although the wicked live peacefully for a while, they live in terror of inevitable destruction. Job contradicts this by saying that the wicked even live in their houses safe—without fear. t he wicked simply deny God’s existence, so they live without any fear of his judgment.

21:17 t he rhetorical questions introduced by how often expect the answer “not very often.” With the first question about the lamp of the wicked, Job challenges Bildad’s belief that the wicked person’s light does go out (see 18:5, 6). t he second question opposes Zophar’s dogmatic statement in 20:23 that God will judge the wicked before they find enjoyment in life.

21:19–21 Job denies the dogma that even if a wicked person prospers temporarily, his children will be punished. Job’s position is sustained by other passages in the Bible (see Deut. 24:16; ezek. 18:1–28; John 9:1–3).

21:30 Job may be quoting his friends’ position that the wicked are doomed. h owever, the hebrew words translated reserved for could also be rendered “spared from,” which would indicate Job’s own contrary belief. t his latter view is supported by the hebrew word translated brought out. t his word reappears in v. 32 in the context of a wicked person being brought to the cemetery without being repaid for what he has done (see v. 31).

- 33 The clods of the valley shall be sweet to him;
 Everyone shall follow him,
 As countless have gone before him.
- 34 How then can you comfort me with empty words,
 Since <sup>2</sup>falsehood remains in your answers?"

Eliphaz Accuses Job of Wickedness

22 Then <sup>a</sup>Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

- 2 "Can <sup>b</sup>a man be profitable to God,
 Though he who is wise may be profitable to himself?
- 3 Is it any pleasure to the Almighty that you are righteous?
 Or is it gain to Him that you make your ways blameless?
- 4 "Is it because of your fear of Him that He corrects you,
 And enters into judgment with you?
 5 Is not your wickedness great,
 And your iniquity without end?
 6 For you have <sup>c</sup>taken pledges from your brother for no reason,
 And stripped the naked of their clothing.
 7 You have not given the weary water to drink,
 And you <sup>d</sup>have withheld bread from the hungry.
 8 But the <sup>j</sup>mighty man possessed the land,
 And the honorable man dwelt in it.
 9 You have sent widows away empty,
 And the <sup>2</sup>strength of the fatherless was crushed.
 10 Therefore snares are all around you,
 And sudden fear troubles you,
 11 Or darkness so that you cannot see;
 And an abundance of <sup>e</sup>water covers you.

 Can He judge through the deep darkness?"
- 14<sup>g</sup> Thick clouds cover Him, so that He cannot see,
 And He walks above the circle of heaven?
- 15 Will you keep to the old way
 Which wicked men have trod,
- 16 Who <sup>h</sup>were cut down before their time,
 Whose foundations were swept away by a flood?
- 17 <sup>i</sup>They said to God, "Depart from us!

- 18 Yet He filled their houses with good things;
 But the counsel of the wicked is far from me.
- 19<sup>a</sup> The <sup>j</sup>righteous see it and are glad,
 And the innocent laugh at them:

- 21<sup>a</sup> Now acquaint yourself with Him, and <sup>k</sup>be at peace;
 Thereby good will come to you.
- 22 Receive, please, <sup>l</sup>instruction from His mouth,
 And <sup>m</sup>lay up His words in your heart.
- 23 If you return to the Almighty, you will be built up;
 You will remove iniquity far from your tents.

21:33 shall be sweet: Job uses the same hebrew word Zophar employed (in 20:12) in arguing that evil is sweet to the wicked person but will become bitter in his stomach (20:14). Job contradicts this by saying that things are sweet for the wicked even in the grave.

22:2 the implication of eliphaz's rhetorical question—that a human being cannot put God under any obligation that God must repay—is a valid theological principle that the Lord himself corroborates in 41:11. however, his application of that principle to Job's circumstances (vv. 3–5) was invalid, for it was based on the faulty assumption that the righteous are always blessed and the wicked always experience God's judgment on earth.

22:3, 4 the same hebrew root words for blameless and fear had earlier been used by eliphaz in his courteous remarks about Job's "reverence" and "integrity" (4:6). in these verses, eliphaz is being sarcastic. 22:6–9 naked . . . weary . . . widows: eliphaz lists some trumped up charges concerning the way Job gained his great wealth: greedy exploitation of the poor in business dealings; lack of hospitality or charity; and lack of compassion to the bereaved. Job categorically denied these charges (see 29:11–17; 31:13–22), and God's own witness to Satan reveals to the reader that the charges were false (1:8).

22:13, 14 Can He judge: eliphaz misrepresents Job's position. Although he accuses Job of not understanding God, it is eliphaz who has the greater misunderstanding.

22:15–17 eliphaz twists Job's words recorded in 21:14–16 to support his own view that Job was walking in wicked ways. Because of this, Job's prosperity was only temporary.

22:18 the phrase but the counsel of the wicked is far from me (quoting Job in 21:16) may be an example of innuendo, mocking Job for what he was saying and also expressing eliphaz's own sentiments.

22:21 the hebrew word translated acquaint yourself, or sometimes "yield," is derived from the same root as "be profitable" in v. 2. t his might be a play on words: "Although you cannot be profitable to God through your efforts, you can acquaint yourself with or yield to him."

22:23 eliphaz issues another call for repentance (5:8–17) by asking Job to return to the Almighty. t hen he suggests that Job remove iniquity far from his tents, a reiteration of Zophar's words (see 11:14).

- 24 Then you will <sup>n</sup>lay your gold in the dust,
And the gold of Ophir among the stones of the brooks.
- 25 Yes, the Almighty will be your <sup>5</sup>gold
And your precious silver;
- 26 For then you will have your <sup>o</sup>delight in the Almighty,
And lift up your face to God.
- 27 <sup>p</sup>You will make your prayer to Him,
He will hear you,
And you will pay your vows.
- 28 You will also declare a thing,
And it will be established for you;
So light will shine on your ways.
- 29 When they cast you down, and you say, ‘Exaltation will come!’
Then <sup>q</sup>He will save the humble person.
- 30 He will even deliver one who is not innocent;
Yes, he will be delivered by the purity of your hands.”

Job Proclaims God’s Righteous Judgments

23 Then Job answered and said:

- 2 “Even today my <sup>a</sup>complaint is bitter;
<sup>1</sup> My hand is listless because of my groaning.
- 3 <sup>b</sup>Oh, that I knew where I might find Him,
That I might come to His seat!

- 15 Therefore I am terrified at His presence;
When I consider this, I am afraid of Him.
- 16 For God <sup>l</sup>made my heart weak,
And the Almighty terrifies me;
- 17 Because I was not <sup>m</sup>cut off <sup>3</sup>from the presence of darkness,
And He did not hide deep darkness from my face.

Job Complains of Violence on the Earth

- 24 “Since <sup>a</sup>times are not hidden from the Almighty, Why do those who know Him see not His <sup>b</sup>days?
- 2 “Some remove <sup>c</sup>landmarks;
They seize flocks violently and feed on them;
- 3 They drive away the donkey of the fatherless;
They <sup>d</sup>take the widow’s ox as a pledge.
- 4 They push the needy off the road;
All the <sup>e</sup>poor of the land are forced to hide.

22:24, 25 eliphaz implies that Job has been trusting in his riches rather than in God, something Job would deny in 31:24, 25. t then he urges Job to trust in the Almighty God as he does in gold. 22:30 eliphaz’s prediction that God would deliver one who is not innocent through the purity of Job’s hands would be fulfilled ironically through Job’s prayer for the three friends (42:8–10). 23:10, 11 Job’s use of the metaphor about gold to express his assurance of being found pure from guilt may be a rebuttal to eliphaz’s brazen words of 22:24, 25. When Job asserts that he has kept God’s way, he rejects eliphaz’s accusation that he has kept the way of the wicked (see 22:15). 23:13–16 When Job contemplates the unique power and sovereign freedom of God, he is terrified. to him, God seems to be a capricious despot who does as he pleases (see 9:12, 34). 23:17 t his verse likely describes Job’s deep depression, not only because of his losses, but also because of his failure to understand God’s purpose. 24:1 Since times are not hidden from the Almighty might also be translated, “Why are not times stored up by the Almighty?” t the parallelism of the second line may indicate that the word times alludes to the set days of God’s judgment. 24:2 r emoving landmarks in the ancient middle east was tantamount to stealing land. it was a serious crime that placed a person under a divine curse (see Deut. 27:17).

- 5 Indeed, like wild donkeys in the desert,
They go out to their work, searching for food.
The wilderness yields food for them and for their children.
- 6 They gather their fodder in the field
And glean in the vineyard of the wicked.
- 7 They *f*spend the night naked,
without clothing,
And have no covering in the cold.
- 8 They are wet with the showers of the mountains,
And *g*huddle around the rock for want of shelter.
- 9 “Some snatch the fatherless from the breast,
And take a pledge from the poor.
10 They cause the poor to go naked, without h clothing;
And they take away the sheaves from the hungry.
- 11 They press out oil within their walls,
And tread winepresses, yet suffer thirst.
- 12 The dying groan in the city,
And the souls of the wounded cry out;
Yet God does not charge them with wrong.
- 13“ There are those who rebel against the light;
They do not know its ways
Nor abide in its paths.
- 14 i The murderer rises with the light;
He kills the poor and needy;
And in the night he is like a thief.
- 15 j The eye of the adulterer waits for the twilight,
k Saying, ‘No eye will see me’;
And he l disguises his face.
- 16 In the dark they break into houses
Which they marked for themselves in the daytime;
l They do not know the light.
- 17 For the morning is the same to them
as the shadow of death;
If someone recognizes them,
They are in the terrors of the shadow of death.

CHAPTER 25

1 <sup>a</sup> Job 8:1; 18:1
3 <sup>g</sup> James 1:17
<sup>l</sup> Can his armies be counted?
4 <sup>c</sup> Job 4:17; 15:14;
Ps. 130:3; 143:2
<sup>d</sup> [Job 14:4]

- 18“ They should be swift on the face of the waters,
Their portion should be cursed in the earth,
So that no one would turn into the way of their vineyards.
- 19 As drought and heat <sup>2</sup> consume the snow waters,
So <sup>3</sup> the grave consumes those who have sinned.
- 20 The womb should forget him,
The worm should feed sweetly on
him;
<sup>m</sup> He should be remembered no more,
And wickedness should be broken like a tree.
- 21 For he <sup>4</sup> preys on the barren who do not bear,
And does no good for the widow.
- 22“ But God draws the mighty away with His power;
He rises up, but no man is sure of life.
- 23 He gives them security, and they rely on it;
Yet <sup>n</sup> His eyes are on their ways.
- 24 They are exalted for a little while,
Then they are gone.
They are brought low;
They are <sup>5</sup> taken out of the way like all others;
They dry out like the heads of grain.
- 25“ Now if it is not so, who will prove me a liar,
And make my speech worth
nothing?”

Bildad: How Can Man Be Righteous?

- 25 Then <sup>a</sup> Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:
- 2 “Dominion and fear belong to Him;
He makes peace in His high places.
- 3 <sup>l</sup> Is there any number to His armies?
Upon whom does <sup>b</sup> His light not rise?
- 4 <sup>c</sup> How then can man be righteous
before God?
Or how can he be <sup>d</sup> pure who is born of a woman?”

24:9 it is ironic that Job complains about God allowing people to snatch an infant from its mother’s breast. Previously he had complained that God had not taken him from his mother’s breasts after his own birth (see 3:12).

24:12 in this transition between lists of social crimes and criminal acts, Job protests against God ignoring those who cry out for help, since God was supposedly ignoring his own cries for help.

24:16 thieves would break, literally “dig,” into houses by night. The walls of houses were built of mud bricks through which thieves could dig. Marked for themselves may mean “shut themselves up” by day.

24:18–25 these verses about the ultimate fate of the wicked are problematic. They sound more like the friends’ words than Job’s (see 15:1–21:34). Therefore, critics usually assign them to Zophar, who has no speech in the third cycle of dialogues, or to Bildad, whose last speech is very short (25:1–6). However, they should be considered as Job’s words, for he was probably quoting his friends’ viewpoint in order to refute them.

25:2 in referring to God’s dominion and fear, Bildad seems to be responding to Job’s comments (in 23:13–17) that the very thought of God’s sovereignty made him afraid.

25:4 Bildad repeats the previous rhetorical questions posed by Job

- 5 If even the moon does not shine,
And the stars are not pure in His <sup>e</sup>sight,
6 How much less man, *who is f*a maggot,
And a son of man, who is a worm?"

But Job answered and said:

- 2 "How have you helped him who is without power?
How have you saved the arm that has no strength?
3 How have you counseled one who has no wisdom?
And how have you declared sound advice to many?
4 To whom have you uttered words?
And whose spirit came from you?

Job Maintains His Integrity

27

Moreover Job continued his discourse, and said:

- 2 "As God lives, <sup>a</sup>who has taken away
my justice,
And the Almighty, who has made my soul bitter,

(see 9:2) and eliphaz (see 4:17; 15:14) to emphasize that a person cannot be righteous or pure before the Lord.

25:5, 6 Bildad's view of God's dominion and majesty in the heavens causes him to devalue mortal man as a maggot. he responds insensitively to Job by suggesting that Job does not need to wait until he dies to be grouped with the maggots (the same hebrew word that Job used in 17:14). t his was caustic sarcasm, for Job was in fact covered with worms (see 7:5).

26:2-4 How have: rather than presenting genuine questions, these verses are probably sarcastic exclamations by Job to imply how little Bildad has helped him. to paraphrase Job: "You've really been a big help to me! how encouraging that you tell me i'm nothing but a worm (see 25:6)! Finally my cries for help have been answered."

Sheol

(heb. she'ol) (11:8; 26:6; 2 Sam. 22:6; Ps. 16:10; is. 5:14; Jon. 2:2) Strong's #7585

t he hebrew word translated Sheol possibly derives from the verb meaning "to inquire" or "to question," and could be associated with the prevalent ancient practice of necromancy, the attempt to communicate with the dead through a medium. necromancy was condemned by God (see Lev. 20:27; 1 Chr. 10:13). Sheol was a common name for the grave (7:9; 14:13; Ps. 30:3) or hell (Ps. 139:8; is. 14:9; hab. 2:5). t he israelites understood Sheol to be the invisible domain for deceased souls of both the righteous and unrighteous—all awaiting the final resurrection on the last day. t he ot makes no distinction between the state of the righteous and unrighteous dead in Sheol, whereas Jesus' parable of the rich man and Lazarus implies separate realms for the two (Luke 16:19-31).

26:5, 6 t he words of these verses echo the thoughts of God's omnipotence found in the Psalms (see Ps. 139:7-12). While Sheol and Destruction—that is, death or the place of the dead—were fearful, hidden concepts to Job and his contemporaries, they caused no fear and held no secrets for the all-knowing God.

26:7 the north over empty space: t he hebrew word translated north probably does not refer to a geographical designation (see Ps. 48:1, 2, where the same hebrew term describes God's mountain), but to God's dwelling place in the heavens (see v. 9, which mentions God's throne). if the statement that God hangs the earth on nothing (see Gen. 1:2) refers to the suspension of earth in space, it preceded newton's concept of gravitational attraction by thousands of years. Job probably thought, as did other ancients, that the earth was a circular disk (see v. 10) supported by nothing. in other words, he thought of the earth as floating on the vast subterranean waters.

26:10, 11 Job's graphic description of the circular horizon and the pillars of heaven—probably the mountains that held up the heavens in ancient cosmology—pictures the way the earth appears to the human eye.

26:12, 13 With His power God controls the sea, which was a symbol of evil and chaos. t he highly figurative language may express the power of God over creation in a wide variety of ways. here the sea and storm are merely creatures under the control of the Creator.

26:14 t his is one of the most stunning of all the verses in the Bible that describe the power of God. Job asserts that if we truly considered God's great power, we would know that what we observe of creation represents the mere edges of his garment—just his whisper. What would happen to us if ever he were to thunder?

27:1 Moreover Job continued his discourse: t he different editorial formula for introducing the speaker (as in 29:1) suggests something unusual. Perhaps Job had paused briefly to wait for Zophar before he continued speaking.

27:2 As God lives: t hese words reflect part of an oath formula

- 3 As long as my breath is in me,
And the breath of God in my
nostrils,
- 4 My lips will not speak wickedness,
Nor my tongue utter deceit.

2 <sup>1</sup> Lit. dust

- 15 Those who survive him shall be buried in death,
And <sup>j</sup>their <sup>3</sup>widows shall not weep,
- 16 Though he heaps up silver like

And piles up clothing like clay—
- 17 He may pile it up, but <sup>k</sup>the just will

He flees desperately from its <sup>7</sup>power.
- 23 Men shall clap their hands at him,
And shall hiss him out of his place.

Job's Discourse on Wisdom

- 28 “Surely there is a mine for silver,
And a place where gold is refined.
- 2 Iron is taken from the <sup>1</sup>earth,
And copper is smelted from ore.
- 3 Man puts an end to darkness,
And searches every recess
For ore in the darkness and the shadow of death.

In places forgotten by feet used in ancient courts. Job paradoxically combines these words with two accusations against God. According to Job, the living God is the very one who has denied him justice—his legal right to due process. Job swears in the name of the divine Judge who, as his opponent, has perverted justice in his own favor. He alleges that God has made him bitter. Job's responses only exposed the attitude that lay deep within his being. The message of the Lord for Job was that no matter what the circumstances, one should resolutely trust in God (see 40:8; 42:1–6).

27:4, 5 Job denies that he would use the tactics of his so-called friends (see 13:7). He not only refuses to speak wickedness, he will not lie nor attempt to defend himself. you: This Hebrew plural (also in vv. 11, 12) refers to all of Job's three friends. Job maintains that they are erroneous in their reasoning, and to agree with them would be to compromise his integrity.

27:5, 6 Job's determination to hold fast his righteousness and integrity was remarkable. The Hebrew word translated hold fast also occurs in 2:9. Though Job believed that God had taken away a fair trial (v. 2), he would not put away his integrity. He persevered despite the discouraging words of his wife and friends.

27:7–12 In this imprecatory prayer, Job wishes that his enemy would receive the fate reserved for the wicked. Since he turns the words of his friends back against them, he may be alluding to his friends collectively as an enemy who rises up against him and deserves the fate of the wicked.

27:10, 11 Job returns eliphaz's own advice back to him (in 22:22–27). Whereas eliphaz counseled Job to turn to the Almighty for instruction and to delight in him, Job denies that a godless person would turn to God, much less delight himself in the Almighty. Therefore, Job insists that eliphaz and his friends should turn to the Almighty and receive instruction.

27:13–23 Since these verses sound more like the friends' words than Job's, some scholars assign them to Zophar or Bildad. However, since Job had a fondness for turning the words of his friends back in their faces, these verses may be a satirical paraphrase of the friends' teaching about the fate of the wicked (see 24:18–25). 27:17 Job's prediction that the innocent will divide the silver may foreshadow what happens to Job himself in 42:11.

28:1–28 This is a magnificent wisdom hymn that is naturally divided into three stanzas by the refrain of vv. 12, 20, with v. 28 serving as a conclusion. Only God knows true wisdom, the wisdom he has placed in the fabric of creation (vv. 21–27) and has revealed to humanity (v. 28).

28:2–4 The mention of iron being mined from the earth implies a time after the beginning of the iron Age (around 1200 B.C.) for the writing of the Book of Job.

Glass

Because it was so rare, glass was a form of wealth. Before craftsmen developed the art of glass blowing, they molded the glass around an inner core while the glass was in a sticky, plastic form. When the glass cooled and hardened, they took away the core and the glass object was ready for use. Archaeologists have discovered a glass factory that operated at el-Amarna in Egypt about 1400 B.C.; it produced small glass bottles that were exported to Palestine. The Egyptians also sent these bottles to Haran, Cyprus, and the Aegean islands. The Egyptians were good at making glass pots, bottles, and other vessels, and coloring them to look like the original containers. The Phoenicians began making blown glass about 100 B.C. They could produce blown glass much more rapidly than molded glass, so this lowered the cost of glass objects and made them more common. Romans used these glass vessels nearly as much as pottery.

28:6 The term translated sapphires probably means lapis lazuli.
28:7, 8 The bird, the falcon, and the lions represent all animals of every kind. No animal is familiar with the treasures hidden in the earth that human beings can discover (see vv. 2–11).

28:11 The streams from trickling may be rephrased “the sources of the rivers.”

28:12 The word wisdom (see also v. 20) may emphasize the true wisdom that only the Lord knows (see vv. 23–27) and that people may learn in relationship with him (see v. 28).

28:13–19 Every verse in this whole stanza has the Hebrew word for not at least once, stressing the absence of wisdom and even the desire for wisdom. Thus the rhetorical questions concerning the whereabouts of wisdom and understanding (v. 12) receive an emphatic answer: not anywhere in the land of the living or of the dead (see v. 14 and its parallel in vv. 21, 22).

28:23 Only God understands the way of wisdom and knows the place of understanding. Though people surpass the animals in knowing the place of precious metals (v. 1), and the “source” of gems (v. 6), God alone is the master and source of wisdom (see vv. 27, 28).

Job's Summary Defense

course, and said:

- 2 “Oh, that I were as in months <sup>a</sup>past,

28:28 t his verse vindicates Job’s stance and marks a transition from the dialogue to the discourses. t he words He said may introduce a reference to the Book of Proverbs (see Prov. 3:7; 9:10).

29:2 Job’s wish for the prosperity of months past suggests how long it was since his suffering began (see 7:3).

29:3 t he picture of God’s lamp shining on Job’s head symbolizes divine blessing and success (contrast 18:5, 6; 21:17; see also Ps. 18:28, 29).

29:7 The gate of the city with its nearby open square, similar to the modern courthouse square, was a place where town business and court proceedings were held (see r uth 4:1).

29:8–11 saw me and hid: Job describes the respect he had received from young and old alike because of his position in the city.

29:14 t he vivid portrait of Job being clothed in righteousness and wearing justice like a judicial robe is a stark contrast to his present condition, with his flesh being “clothed” with worms and dust (see 7:5). he will emphasize this in ch. 30.

29:17 broke the fangs: Job had rescued the poor (see v. 12) and the helpless from the wicked. Functioning much like a judge, Job had established justice and righteousness (see v. 14). t his explains his frequent use of legal metaphors in his speeches (see 9:3).

29:20 Job reminisces about his past days of glory. While undergoing severe trials, he did what many of us do: he longed for “the good old days” when he still had prowess or “glory” with the bow. t he phrase bow is renewed apparently symbolizes a rejuvenation of vigor and might (see Gen. 49:24). Bows were usually unstrung when not in use, allowing the wood to retain its strength.

25 I chose the way for them, and sat as chief;
So I dwell as a king in the army,
As one who comforts mourners.

30 “But now they mock at me, men
<sup>1</sup>younger than I, Whose fathers I disdained to put with the dogs of my flock.

2 Indeed, what profit is the strength of their hands to me?
Their vigor has perished.

3 They are gaunt from want and famine,
Fleeing late to the wilderness,
desolate and waste,

4 Who pluck <sup>2</sup>mallow by the bushes,
And broom tree roots for their food.

5 They were driven out from among men,

They shouted at them as at a thief.

6 They had to live in the clefts of the <sup>3</sup>valleys,

In <sup>4</sup>caves of the earth and the rocks.

7 Among the bushes they brayed,
Under the nettles they nestled.

8 They were sons of fools,
Yes, sons of vile men;
They were scourged from the land.

9 “And <sup>a</sup>now I am their taunting song;
Yes, I am their byword.

10 They abhor me, they keep far from me;
They do not hesitate <sup>b</sup>to spit in my face.

11 Because <sup>c</sup>He has loosed <sup>5</sup>my bowstring and afflicted me,
They have cast off restraint
before me.

12 At my right hand the rabble arises;
They push away my feet,
And <sup>d</sup>they raise against me their ways of destruction.

13 They break up my path,
They promote my calamity;
They have no helper.

14 They come as broad breakers;
Under the ruinous storm they roll along.

15 Terrors are turned upon me;
They pursue my honor as the wind,
And my prosperity has passed like a cloud.

16“ And <sup>e</sup>now my soul is <sup>f</sup>poured out because of my plight;
The days of affliction take hold of me.

17 My bones are pierced in me at night,
And my gnawing pains take no rest.

18 By great force my garment is disfigured;
It binds me about as the collar of my coat.

19 He has cast me into the mire,
And I have become like dust and ashes.

20“ I <sup>g</sup>cry out to You, but You do not answer me;
I stand up, and You regard me.

21 But You have become cruel to me;
With the strength of Your hand You
<sup>h</sup>oppose me.

22 You lift me up to the wind and cause me to ride on it;
You spoil my success.

30:1 But now introduces Job’s lament (ch. 30) about the complete reversal of his former prosperity (ch. 29). Rather than everyone respecting him (see 29:8–11, 21–25), even young ruffians were daring to mock him (see 29:24). These young people were so base that Job had disdained to put their fathers, who were presumably better than they, with his dogs. His words not only stress how low they are but also how humiliated he feels as an outcast among outcasts (see vv. 9–11).

30:7 brayed: Job’s use of this verb emphasizes not only that the ruffians are poor (see 24:5, where the poor are called “wild donkeys”), but also that they act more like animals than human beings.

30:11 When Job says God loosed his bowstring, he apparently expresses a meaning opposite to that in 29:20. Here the words mean that God had put him “on the shelf,” as a bow is set aside when it is unstrung.

30:16, 17 When Job says that his soul is poured out like water, he means being emotionally and physically drained of strength (see Lam. 2:11, 12) because of his days of affliction (see vv. 1–31). These words are much like those of David, as found in Ps. 22:14, 15.

30:18, 19 Job compares the terrible effects of his suffering and disease (see vv. 16, 17) to being choked by a powerful force. Then he identifies God as the one who abuses his great power by harming Job for no apparent reason (see 9:19; 24:22). To the suffering Job, God seems like a gangster who grabs a person by the neck and flings him into the mire. He blames the Lord for throwing him in the ashes (see 2:8), even though Satan was in fact the cause of his suffering (see 2:4–6).

30:21 ironically, Job blames God’s strong hand, which Satan could not move, for calamities that have actually been caused by the hand of Satan (see 1:11, 12, 18, 19).

affliction

(heb. oni) (30:16; Gen. 29:32; ex. 3:17; neh. 9:9; Lam. 1:9)
Strong’s #6040

The Hebrew word translated affliction here comes from a root meaning “misery” or “poverty.” The image evoked by this word is that of a person bowed down under the weight of a heavy burden. Scripture portrays the Lord as seeing the afflictions that bring pain to his people and hearing the anguished cries of those in distress (as in Gen. 16:11; ex. 2:23–25). The Lord urges us to place our burdens on him, for he is strong enough to bear them and loves us so much that he will assist us in our time of need (1 Pet. 5:7). Moreover, since he controls all events, we can be assured that he is accomplishing good out of the temporary difficulties we are now facing (rom. 8:28). The entire story of Job provides vivid example of this fact (42:10–17; 2 Cor. 12:7–10).

- 23 For I know that You will bring me to death,
And to the house <sup>i</sup>appointed for all living.
- 24<sup>a</sup> Surely He would not stretch out His hand against a heap of ruins,

30:23 I know: Job declares his frustration with God almost as directly as he had expressed his confidence in the redeemer (19:25). Just as surely as he knows that God will vindicate him, he also knows that God will bring him to death.

30:25 Job builds on the image of the helpless (v. 24) by remembering his own compassion for the poor. Now that he is downcast, why does God not sympathize with him?

30:28, 29 in light of the nearby reference to Job’s dark, diseased skin (see v. 30), the word mourning might mean “darkened,” as in 6:16. When Job cries out for help, both God (see v. 20) and people of all social classes ignore him. his loud cries for justice are as futile as the wails of jackals and ostriches. Because of his diseased condition (see v. 30), Job feels ostracized, like these animal inhabitants of desolate places.

31:1–40 Job’s oath of innocence (see 29:1—31:40) contains curses that he invites God to impose if he is to find Job guilty (see vv. 8, 10, 22, 40). Thus ch. 31 corresponds structurally to Job’s curse against his day of birth in ch. 3. It bears a general similarity to the oath of clearance, widely used in ancient Mesopotamia. In this oath, an accused person would swear his innocence at a trial. However, the ethical content of Job’s confession, with its emphasis on inward motivation (see vv. 1, 2, 24, 25, 33, 34) and attitude (see vv. 1, 7, 9, 26, 27, 29, 30), is unique and unparalleled until Jesus’ Sermon on the Mount (see matt. 5–7). Yet in this oath, a hint of pride creeps in (see vv. 13, 16, 37), setting the stage for the speeches of Elihu and the Lord.

31:1 t his verse begins Job’s oath of innocence (ch. 31). When Job made a covenant with his eyes, he wisely recognized that the eye is the main avenue for temptation (see vv. 7, 9, 26, 27).

31:5 t he word if was part of a formula used by accused persons to swear their innocence (see vv. 7, 9, 13, 16, 19–21, 24–26, 29, 33, 38, 39). t he full oath formula was, in effect, “if i am guilty of this crime, may God impose that curse.” Because of hesitation about speaking a curse, the person swearing the oath would normally use an abbreviated version. By contrast, Job’s daring use of the full formula four times (see vv. 7–10, 21, 22, 38–40) demonstrates his confidence that he would be acquitted.

31:13 Job implies that he had been fairer in listening to the lawsuit or cause (see mic. 6:1) of his own servants than God was being with his complaint.

31:16 Job claims to have satisfied the desire of the poor, possibly in contrast to God’s refusal to give Job a fair hearing before him.

18 (But from my youth I reared him as a father,
And from my mother's womb I guided <sup>4</sup> the widow);

19 If I have seen anyone perish for lack of clothing,
Or any poor man without covering;

20 If his <sup>5</sup> heart has not <sup>m</sup> blessed me,

1 <sup>a</sup> Job 6:29; 31:6;
33:9
2 <sup>b</sup> Gen. 22:21

31 If the men of my tent have not said,
'Who is there that has not been satisfied with his meat?'

32 <sup>u</sup> (But no sojourner had to lodge in the street,
For I have opened my doors to the <sup>8</sup> traveler);

<sup>v</sup> as <sup>9</sup> Adam,
By hiding my iniquity in my bosom,

34 Because I feared the great <sup>w</sup> multitude,
And dreaded the contempt of families,
So that I kept silence
And did not go out of the door—

35 <sup>x</sup> Oh, that I had one to hear me!
Here is my mark.
Oh, <sup>y</sup> that the Almighty would answer me,
That my <sup>1</sup> Prosecutor had written a book!

36 Surely I would carry it on my shoulder,
And bind it on me like a crown;

37 I would declare to Him the number of my steps;
Like a prince I would approach Him.

38<sup>o</sup> If my land cries out against me,
And its furrows weep together;

39 If <sup>z</sup> I have eaten its <sup>2</sup> fruit without money,
Or <sup>a</sup> caused its owners to lose their lives;

40 Then let <sup>b</sup> thistles grow instead of wheat,
And weeds instead of barley."

The words of Job are ended.

Elihu Contradicts Job's Friends

32 So these three men ceased answering Job, because he was <sup>a</sup> righteous in his own eyes. <sup>2</sup> Then the wrath of Elihu, the son of Barachel the <sup>b</sup> Buzite, of

31:22 t he loss of an arm in ancient society usually meant the loss of income, respect, and even life itself.

31:27 t he phrase my mouth has kissed my hand reflects the apparent ancient custom of kissing the hand as a prelude to the superstitious and idolatrous act of throwing a kiss to the heavenly bodies.

31:28 God who is above: Job was resolute in his belief in the one, living God. t hough he lived in a world filled with notions of many gods, Job believed in one God. t his text expresses the monotheism of early biblical faith, in contrast to the prevailing polytheism of that time.

31:35 Job's wish for one to hear him seems to express his continued desire for an impartial mediator or judge (see 9:32, 33; 16:19; 19:25). Job's mark refers to his written signature attached to his oath of innocence (ch. 31). he seeks a subpoena to compel God the Prosecutor to answer him with specific charges, or perhaps an acquittal in a book, that is, a legal document. hence, Job is arguing that God has not been following proper court procedure (13:22).

31:36 Job believed that the written charges would be so few, if any, that he could wear the document proudly on his shoulder.

31:37 Job would declare to God the number of his steps or give account for his every act and thought (see 14:16; 31:4). his idea of approaching God like a prince shows his confidence that he will be vindicated but reflects a lack of humility, an attitude that the Lord himself will address (see 38:2, 3; 40:9-14).

31:40 the words of Job are ended: For the second time, the dialogue comes to a close (see 27:23), ending in a stalemate. Job has finished his words, and his three friends have nothing more to say. t his leads to the voice of a new speaker, Elihu.

32:1 t he phrase these three men seems to stress the distant relationship between Job and his so-called friends. A gulf existed partly because the trio had been accusing Job of self-righteousness.

32:2 Elihu was of the tribe of Buz and of the family of Ram, perhaps an ancestor of King David (see r uth 4:19). his name means "he is my God." Elihu was angry about what both Job and his friends the family of Ram, was aroused against Job; his wrath was aroused because he <sup>c</sup>justified himself rather than God. <sup>3</sup>Also against his three friends his wrath was aroused, because they had found no answer, and yet had condemned Job.

<sup>4</sup>Now because they were years older than he, Elihu had waited <sup>1</sup> to speak to Job. <sup>5</sup>When Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of these three men, his wrath was aroused.

<sup>6</sup>So Elihu, the son of Barachel the Buzite, answered and said:

“I am <sup>d</sup>young in years, and you are very old;

Therefore I was afraid,
And dared not declare my opinion to you.

<sup>7</sup> I said, <sup>2</sup>‘Age should speak,
And multitude of years should teach wisdom.’

<sup>8</sup> But there is a spirit in man,
And <sup>e</sup>the breath of the Almighty gives him understanding.

<sup>9</sup> <sup>f</sup>Great <sup>3</sup>men are not always wise,
Nor do the aged always understand justice.

<sup>10</sup>“Therefore I say, ‘Listen to me,
I also will declare my opinion.’

<sup>11</sup> Indeed I waited for your words,
I listened to your reasonings,
while you searched out what to say.

<sup>12</sup> I paid close attention to you;
And surely not one of you convinced Job,
Or answered his words—

<sup>13</sup> <sup>g</sup>Lest you say,
‘We have found wisdom’;
God will vanquish him, not man.

<sup>14</sup> Now he has not <sup>4</sup>directed his words against me;
So I will not answer him with your words.

<sup>15</sup>“They are dismayed and answer no more;
Words escape them.

Elihu Contradicts Job

33 “But please, Job, hear my speech,
And listen to all my words.

<sup>2</sup> Now, I open my mouth;
My tongue speaks in my mouth.

<sup>3</sup> My words come from my upright heart;

<sup>4</sup> <sup>a</sup>The Spirit of God has made me,
And the breath of the Almighty gives me life.

<sup>5</sup> If you can answer me,
Set your words in order before me;
Take your stand.

<sup>6</sup> <sup>b</sup>Truly I am <sup>1</sup>as your spokesman before God;

I also have been formed out of clay.
<sup>7</sup> <sup>c</sup>Surely no fear of me will terrify you,
Nor will my hand be heavy on you.

<sup>8</sup> “Surely you have spoken <sup>2</sup>in my hearing,
And I have heard the sound of your words, saying,

<sup>9</sup> ‘I <sup>d</sup>am pure, without transgression;
I am innocent, and there is no iniquity in me.

<sup>10</sup> Yet He finds occasions against me,

had been saying. Like the other friends, Elihu thought that Job had only justified himself.

32:4, 5 The editorial introduction (vv. 1–5) emphasizes the wrath of the young man against Job (v. 2) and against his three friends (vv. 3, 5). The word wrath is found four times in these verses.

32:6–22 I am young: Elihu introduces himself and his four speeches as he explains why he has waited to speak but feels compelled to speak out at the present time.

32:21, 22 As a reassurance to Job concerning his complaint that the friends are partial to God (see 13:7–10), Elihu promises not to show partiality in his voluntary role as an arbiter (see vv. 12–14). 33:7 Elihu responds to Job’s fear of God (see 9:34; 13:21). Elihu reassures Job that he has nothing to dread since his hand will not be heavy on him.

33:9–13 in vv. 9–11, Elihu summarizes Job’s position as he perceives it. Then he confronts Job by saying that Job is not righteous in attacking God. With great perception, Elihu cuts straight to the heart of Job’s problem. Job has been treating God as though he were God’s equal. Since God is greater than man, Elihu asks: Why do you contend or “file a lawsuit” against God? Job had been treating God as though he were merely a human who could be held accountable in court (see 34:23). Elihu continues this thought when he implies that Job has become proud—even while he sits dejected in the ashes (see v. 17; 35:12–16).

- 11 <sup>f</sup>He puts my feet in the stocks,
He watches all my paths.<sup>7</sup>
- 12<sup>g</sup>“Look, in this you are not righteous.
I will answer you,
For God is greater than man.
- 13 Why do you <sup>g</sup>contend with Him?
For He does not give an accounting of any of His words.
- 14<sup>h</sup> For God may speak in one way, or in another,
Yet man does not perceive it.
- 15 <sup>i</sup>In a dream, in a vision of the night,
When deep sleep falls upon men,
While slumbering on their beds,
- 16 <sup>j</sup>Then He opens the ears of men,
And seals their instruction.
- 17 In order to turn man from his deed,
And conceal pride from man,
18 He keeps back his soul from the Pit,
And his life from <sup>3</sup>perishing by the sword.
- 19<sup>g</sup> “Man is also chastened with pain on his <sup>k</sup>bed,
And with strong pain in many of his bones,
- 20 <sup>l</sup>So that his life abhors <sup>m</sup>bread,
And his soul <sup>4</sup>succulent food.
- 21 His flesh wastes away from sight,
And his bones stick out which once were not seen.
- 22 Yes, his soul draws near the Pit,
And his life to the executioners.
- 23<sup>g</sup> “If there is a messenger for him,
A mediator, one among a thousand,
To show man His uprightness, 24 Then He is gracious to him, and says,
‘Deliver him from going down to the Pit;
I have found <sup>5</sup>a ransom’;
25 His flesh shall be young like a child’s,
He shall return to the days of his youth.
- 26 He shall pray to God, and He will delight in him,
He shall see His face with joy,
For He restores to man His righteousness.

was right,
And it <sup>o</sup>did not profit me.’
- 28 He will <sup>p</sup>redeem <sup>6</sup>his soul from going down to the Pit,
And <sup>6</sup>his life shall see the light.
- 29<sup>g</sup> “Behold, God works all these things,

30 <sup>q</sup>To bring back his soul from the Pit,
That he may be enlightened with the

- 33 If not, <sup>r</sup>listen to me;

Elihu Proclaims God's Justice

34 Elihu further answered and said:

- 2 “Hear my words, you wise men;
Give ear to me, you who have knowledge.
- 3 <sup>a</sup>For the ear tests words
As the palate tastes food.
- 4 Let us choose justice for ourselves;
Let us know among ourselves what is good.
- 5 “For Job has said, <sup>b</sup>‘I am righteous,
But <sup>c</sup>God has taken away my justice;
- 6 <sup>d</sup>Should I lie concerning my right?
My <sup>1</sup>wound is incurable, though I am without transgression.’
- 7 What man is like Job,
<sup>e</sup> Who drinks <sup>2</sup>scorn like water, 8 Who goes in company with the workers of iniquity,
And walks with wicked men?
9 For <sup>f</sup>he has said, ‘It profits a man nothing
That he should delight in God.’
- 10<sup>g</sup> “Therefore listen to me, you <sup>3</sup>men of understanding;
<sup>g</sup> Far be it from God to do wickedness,
And from the Almighty to commit
iniquity.

33:14, 15 in response to 7:14 where Job complained of nightmares, elihu suggests that God may have been trying to teach Job something through a dream or a vision of the night.

33:23 t he precise identity of the messenger or angel is disputed. God may have employed this figure as a mediator to address Job's need for an impartial arbiter (9:32, 33; 16:19) and to contradict eliphaz's counsel of 5:1. t he intercessory role of this messenger to lead Job to repentance (see v. 27) sounds much like the role that Christ would play (see heb. 7:25).

33:29, 30 t his conclusion to vv. 14–30 succinctly states God's primary purpose in getting a person's attention through dreams and suffering: he wants to keep him from the Pit—that is, the grave and hell—and give that person the light of life—a meaningful life.

34:2 in vv. 2–15 elihu addresses you wise men, probably a sarcastic reference to the three friends whose wisdom he had belittled in 32:12–16.

- 11 <sup>h</sup> For He repays man according to his work,
And makes man to find a reward
according to his way.
- 12 Surely God will never do wickedly, Nor will the Almighty <sup>i</sup> pervert justice.
- 13 Who gave Him charge over the earth?
Or who appointed Him over the whole world?
- 14 If He should set His heart on it,
If He should <sup>j</sup> gather to Himself His Spirit and His breath,
- 15 <sup>k</sup> All flesh would perish together,
And man would return to dust.
- 16 <sup>l</sup> “If you have understanding, hear this;
Listen to the sound of my words:
- 17 <sup>l</sup> Should one who hates justice govern?
Will you <sup>m</sup> condemn Him who is most just?
- 18 <sup>n</sup> Is it fitting to say to a king, ‘You are worthless,’
And to nobles, ‘You are wicked’?
- 19 Yet He <sup>o</sup> is not partial to princes, Nor does He regard the rich more than the poor;
For <sup>p</sup> they are all the work of His hands.
- 20 In a moment they die, <sup>q</sup> in the middle of the night;
The people are shaken and pass away;
The mighty are taken away without a hand.
- 21 <sup>r</sup> For <sup>r</sup> His eyes are on the ways of man,
And He sees all his steps.
- 22 <sup>s</sup> There is no darkness nor shadow of death
Where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves.
- 23 For He need not further consider a
man,
That he should go before God in judgment.
- 24 <sup>t</sup> He breaks in pieces mighty men without inquiry,
And sets others in their place.
- 25 Therefore He knows their works;
He overthrows them in the night,
And they are crushed.

CHAPTER 35

3 <sup>a</sup> Job 21:15; 34:9

- 26 He strikes them as wicked men
In the open sight of others,
- 27 Because they <sup>u</sup> turned back from Him,
And <sup>v</sup> would not consider any of His ways,
- 28 So that they <sup>w</sup> caused the cry of the poor to come to Him;
For He <sup>x</sup> hears the cry of the afflicted.
- 29 When He gives quietness, who then can make trouble?
And when He hides His face, who then can see Him,
Whether it is against a nation or a man alone?—
- 30 That the hypocrite should not reign,
Lest the people be ensnared.
- 31 <sup>l</sup> “For has anyone said to God,
‘I have borne chastening;
I will offend no more;
Teach me what I do not see;
If I have done iniquity, I will do no more’?
- 33 Should He repay it according to your terms,
Just because you disavow it?
You must choose, and not I;
Therefore speak what you know.
- 34 <sup>l</sup> “Men of understanding say to me,
Wise men who listen to me:
35 ‘Job <sup>y</sup> speaks without knowledge,
His words are without wisdom.’
- 36 Oh, that Job were tried to the utmost,
Because his answers are like those of wicked men!
- 37 For he adds <sup>z</sup> rebellion to his sin;
He claps his hands among us,
And multiplies his words against
God.”

Elihu Condemns Self-Righteousness

35 Moreover Elihu answered and said:

- 2 <sup>l</sup> “Do you think this is right?
Do you say,
‘My righteousness is more than God’s’?
3 For <sup>a</sup> you say,
‘What advantage will it be to You?
What profit shall I have, more than if I had sinned?’

34:11, 12 Surely God: Perhaps in response to Job’s charges in 9:22–24, elihu defends God’s impartiality according to the traditional retribution dogma: God will justly punish the wicked. elihu defends God’s justice by siding with Bildad (see 8:3) against Job (see 19:6).

34:16 elihu addresses Job directly in vv. 16–33, as indicated by the singular hebrew verb translated hear.

34:17 t he two rhetorical questions in this verse seem to rephrase Job’s complaints of 9:14–31 and 24:1–17 in order to refute them.

Will you condemn Him who is most just: t he second question anticipates the Lord’s own rebuke of Job in 40:8.

34:28 elihu responds to Job’s complaints about God ignoring the plight of the poor and afflicted (see 24:1–12) by asserting that God does hear the cry of the poor and the cry of the afflicted.

34:34–37 elihu’s conclusion mixes sound analysis with an unfair representation of Job’s position. his statement that Job’s words are without knowledge anticipates the Lord’s own words (see 38:2).

35:3 By reading between the lines of Job’s many complaints, elihu exaggerates Job’s position: “What benefit do i receive for being good?” t hough Job had never made a bargain to serve God for mutual benefit, as in the religions of his day, Job’s actions and words

- 4 “I will answer you,
And <sup>b</sup>your companions with you.
- 5 <sup>c</sup>Look to the heavens and see;
And behold the clouds—
They are higher than you.
- 6 If you sin, what do you accomplish
<sup>d</sup>against Him?
Or, if your transgressions are multiplied, what do you do to Him?
- 7 <sup>e</sup>If you are righteous, what do you give Him?
Or what does He receive from your hand?
- 8 Your wickedness affects a man such as you,
And your righteousness a son of man.
- 9 “Because <sup>f</sup>of the multitude of oppressions they cry out;
They cry out for help because of the arm of the mighty.
- 10 But no one says, <sup>g</sup>“Where is God my Maker,
<sup>h</sup>Who gives songs in the night, 11 Who <sup>i</sup>teaches us more than the beasts of the earth,
And makes us wiser than the birds of heaven?”
- 12 <sup>j</sup>There they cry out, but He does not answer,
Because of the pride of evil men.
- 13 <sup>k</sup>Surely God will not listen to empty talk,
Nor will the Almighty regard it.
- 14 <sup>l</sup>Although you say you do not see Him,
Yet justice is before Him, and <sup>m</sup>you must wait for Him.
- 15 And now, because He has not <sup>n</sup>punished in His anger,
Nor taken much notice of folly, 16 <sup>o</sup>Therefore Job opens his mouth in vain;
He multiplies words without knowledge.”

Elihu Proclaims God's Goodness

36 Elihu also proceeded and said:

- 2 “Bear with me a little, and I will show
you
That there are yet words to speak on God’s behalf.
- 3 I will fetch my knowledge from afar;
I will ascribe righteousness to my

- 4 For truly my words are not false;
One who is perfect in knowledge is

- 5 “Behold, God is mighty, but despises
no one;
<sup>a</sup>He is mighty in strength <sup>1</sup> of understanding.
- 6 He does not preserve the life of the wicked,
But gives justice to the <sup>b</sup>oppressed.
- 7 <sup>c</sup>He does not withdraw His eyes from the righteous;
But <sup>d</sup>they are on the throne with kings,
For He has seated them forever,
And they are exalted.
- 8 And <sup>e</sup>if they are bound in <sup>2</sup>fetters,
Held in the cords of affliction, 9 Then He tells them their work and their transgressions—
That they have acted <sup>3</sup>defiantly.
- 10 <sup>f</sup>He also opens their ear to <sup>4</sup>instruction,
And commands that they turn from iniquity.
- 11 If they obey and serve Him,
They shall <sup>g</sup>spend their days in prosperity,
And their years in pleasures.
- 12 But if they do not obey,
They shall perish by the sword,
And they shall die <sup>5</sup>without <sup>h</sup>knowledge.

right

(heb. mishpat) (35:2; Ps. 1:5; 9:4; Prov. 12:5; Jer. 26:11) Strong’s #4941

t he hebrew term translated here as right represents an important idea in the understanding of the judicial side of government, whether by humans or by God. t he central idea of most uses of the term in the Bible is “justice” (Ps. 72:1, 2). t he word can be used to designate the act (see “judgment” in Josh. 20:6), the place (see “the hall of judgment” in 1 Kin. 7:7), or the process (see “judgment” in is. 3:14) of a case of litigation, as well as the sentence (see “deserves” in Jer. 26:11) or the time of judgment (see “judgment” in Ps. 1:5). in the present passage, elihu was asking whether Job had the legal right to question God’s righteousness. elihu correctly perceived that Job was implying that his ethical standards were higher than God’s (see 29:12–17; 31:13, 16).

may have seemed to reflect that pagan attitude (see Job’s own paraphrase of the sentiments of the wicked in 21:15). 35:4–8 God was not under any obligation to Job for any work or deed (see 41:11). t herefore, it was logically inconsistent for Job to demand that God must appear in court (see 31:35).

35:12, 13 o ne reason God does not answer when people cry out is that they are full of pride and devoid of pure motives (see James 4:3). elihu implies that Job’s prayers have not been heard because of his pride (see also 33:17). t his accurate perception prepares the way for the speeches of God (see chs. 38; 39).

36:5, 6 elihu states his thesis: God is both mighty and just in his dealings with humankind (see 36:1—37:24). elihu challenges Job’s assertion that the wicked are not punished by God (21:7) and his subsequent arguments (see 21:27–33). t hen elihu counters Job’s complaints of 24:1–17.

- 27 For He <sup>x</sup>draws up drops of water,
Which distill as rain from the mist,
28<sup>y</sup> Which the clouds drop down
And pour abundantly on man.
- 29 Indeed, can anyone understand the spreading of clouds,
The thunder from His canopy?
- 30 Look, He <sup>z</sup>scatters His light upon it,
And covers the depths of the sea.
- 31 For <sup>a</sup>by these He judges the peoples;
He <sup>b</sup>gives food in abundance.
- 32 <sup>c</sup>He covers His hands with lightning,
And commands it to <sup>d</sup>strike.
- 33<sup>d</sup> His thunder declares it,
The cattle also, concerning <sup>g</sup>the rising storm.

- 37 “At this also my heart trembles,
And leaps from its place.
- 2 Hear attentively the thunder of His voice,
And the rumbling that comes from His mouth.
- 3 He sends it forth under the whole heaven,
His <sup>1</sup>lightning to the ends of the earth.
- 4 After it <sup>a</sup>a voice roars;
He thunders with His majestic voice,
And He does not restrain them when His voice is heard.
- 5 God thunders marvelously with His voice;
<sup>b</sup>He does great things which we cannot comprehend.
- 6 For <sup>c</sup>He says to the snow, ‘Fall on the earth’;
Likewise to the <sup>2</sup>gentle rain and the heavy rain of His strength.
- 7 He seals the hand of every man,
<sup>d</sup>That <sup>e</sup>all men may know His work.
- 8 The beasts <sup>f</sup>go into dens,
And remain in their lairs.
- 9 From the chamber of the south comes the whirlwind,
And cold from the scattering winds of the north.
- 10<sup>g</sup> By the breath of God ice is given,
And the broad waters are frozen.

36:13, 14 Affliction will also reveal the hypocrites who, because their hearts are incorrigibly wicked, do not cry to God for help. t he warning is clear: Do not reject God’s message by failing to cry out to him for help (see r om. 1:18–32).

36:16–25 Take heed: elihu says that God intended to teach Job something through his affliction. r ather than trying to correct the teacher, Job should remember to magnify God’s work as maker of all things. t hus elihu is setting the stage for the Lord, who will emphasize this concept in his speeches (see 38:1—42:6).

36:32 God the sovereign warrior commands the thunderstorm as he dispenses lightning from His hands like arrows (see 16:12, 13). t he Book of Job makes clear that God alone controls the unpredictable changes of the weather (see 38:22–30, 34–38).

37:2 t he plural h ebrew verb hear attentively indicates that elihu appeals to Job and his friends and perhaps to any bystanders listening.

37:4 t he voice of God roars. t he h ebrew word for roars seems to compare thunder to God growling like a lion, the majestic king of beasts.

37:6, 7 He says: As God once spoke and brought forth light, land, and all manner of life (see Gen. 1:3, 9, 14, 20, 24, 26), so now h e speaks and controls all that he has made (see Ps. 147:15–18). God uses the winter storms to stop the hand of every man so that he cannot work but instead may recognize the work of God.

37:9 elihu continues to praise the all-powerful God with a series of metaphors. h e describes God as keeping the wind in a chamber just as h e does the snow and hail (see 38:22, 23).

37:10 i n a poetic figure of speech, elihu speaks of the breath of

- 11 Also with moisture He saturates the thick clouds;
He scatters His <sup>3</sup>bright clouds.
- 12 And they swirl about, being turned by His guidance,
That they may <sup>h</sup>do whatever He commands them

The LORD Reveals His Omnipotence to Job

38 Then the LORD answered Job <sup>a</sup>out of the whirlwind, and said:

- 2 “Who <sup>b</sup>is this who darkens counsel
By <sup>c</sup>words without knowledge?
- 3 <sup>d</sup>Now <sup>1</sup>prepare yourself like a man;
I will question you, and you shall answer Me.
- 4 “Where <sup>e</sup>were you when I laid the foundations of the earth?
Tell Me, if you have understanding.
- 5 Who determined its measurements?
Surely you know!
Or who stretched the <sup>2</sup>line upon it?
- 6 To what were its foundations fastened?
Or who laid its cornerstone,
- 7 When the morning stars sang together,
And all <sup>f</sup>the sons of God shouted for joy?

God causing ice to form and waters to freeze. All of this is spoken with joyful delight, for elihu is celebrating God’s control of the world.

37:12 the nautical term guidance, literally “steerings” or “rope-pullings” (see the usage of this word in Prov. 1:5), portrays God as the wise Captain who skillfully charts the course for the clouds, which respond obediently to his hand at the helm.

37:13 God causes the storm to come for three specific reasons: (1) for punishment for people’s wickedness, (2) for the nourishment of the earth (see context of vv. 3, 6, 12), and (3) for supplying the needs of his people. For correction presents the idea of judgment by his rod or scepter. for mercy: the faithfulness and loyalty of God to his covenant promises are often tied to this word. t his is the word that may be translated “loyal love.” t hus God uses storms both to judge the earth and to bring the blessing of rain for his people (ex. 15:7-10; Deut. 28:12).

37:18 Strong as a cast metal mirror: Ancient mirrors were firm and unbreakable because they were made of polished bronze.

37:21, 22 if people cannot look at the bright light of the sun in the skies, how much more difficult is it to approach God (see v. 20), who appears in his own golden splendor and awesome majesty? See the experience of moyses described in ex. 34. the north: in ancient times, north was viewed as the direction of God’s abiding place (see is. 14:13).

37:23, 24 elihu’s concluding words offer praise to the living God who is at once elusive—we cannot find Him—and merciful—He does not oppress. Judgment means “justice.” Justice means “righteousness.” fear: Finally elihu speaks of the reverential awe and worshipful wonder that all people should have for their omnipotent Creator.

38:1 out of the whirlwind: though Job feared that God would crush him in a tempest (see 9:17), God does not come to destroy Job; rather God overwhelms Job into submission in order to restore him to his proper role as the Lord’s servant.

38:2, 3 t he theme of the first speech of the Lord is given here: Job darkens the counsel of the Lord—that is, God’s plan or design for the universe. ironically, God challenges Job to teach him (v. 3; 40:7). t hese challenges are designed to alert Job to the consequences of his complaints and demands. Job’s defiant attempt to meet God on equal footing in a law court (see 31:35-37) amounts to a rival claim to his throne (see 40:10-14).

38:4-7 Perhaps partially in reply to Job’s words about the Lord shaking the pillars of the earth (9:5, 6), the Lord asks Job if he was an eyewitness when he laid the earth’s foundations.

38:7 t he joyful response of the morning stars, personified as singing, and the sons of God (see 1:6) as eyewitnesses to the earth’s creation contrast with Job’s complaints that were spoken in ignorance.

8 “Or <sup>g</sup> who shut in the sea with doors, When it burst forth and issued from the womb;
9 When I made the clouds its garment,
And thick darkness its swaddling

10 When <sup>h</sup> I fixed My limit for it,
And set bars and doors;
11 When I said,
‘This far you may come, but no farther,
And here your proud waves <sup>i</sup> must 12 “Have you <sup>j</sup> commanded the morning

16 “Have you <sup>n</sup> entered the springs of the

38:8–11 t he Lord emphasizes his control of the sea and its proud waves. t hese forces, which ancient society considered to be chaotic and threatening, were allowed to exist only within divinely set limits (v. 10). t hough Job knew this in theory (see 26:12, 13), he needed to apply this truth to his life.

38:12–15 t he Lord answers Job’s complaints that wickedness is rampant at night (24:13–17). Using personification, the Lord describes how he alone commands the morning to get out of bed and the dawn to pull off the covers of the night in order to shake out the wicked like bedbugs. God implies that only because of his control of the darkness are the activities of the wicked curbed at all. t he Lord grants some freedom to humanity, but the wicked cannot go beyond his set limits. t his section may be compared with the more familiar words of David in Ps. 19.

38:16, 17 has Job ever been to the bottom of the sea, or taken a trip through the gates of death? Perhaps in response to Job’s desire for a respite in the darkness of Sheol (10:18–22), the Lord wants to know if he has ever been there.

38:19–21 Since Job had spoken intelligently about the distant horizons (see 26:10), the Lord exposes Job’s limited knowledge by asking him to lead a guided tour to the abode of light and darkness. Since Job had stated that the wicked “do not know the light” or “abide in its paths” (see 24:13, 16), the Lord reveals the deficiencies of Job’s secondhand knowledge. had Job been there in person, he would have understood that the Lord has a place for both darkness and dawn, as well as for good and evil.

38:22–30 By asking if Job understands the seemingly unpredictable weather phenomena, the Lord reveals that his designs are not centered on humanity alone. t hough God utilizes meteorological elements to intervene in human affairs (vv. 22–24), he also uses them to limit the chaotic wilderness and sea (vv. 25–30) that lie outside the human realm.

38:22, 23 t he graphic metaphor of the treasury for snow and hail portrays these elements as weapons in the arsenal of God. he uses hail as slingstones (see Josh. 10:11). he prepares other weapons, including snow (see Ps. 68:14), thunderstorms, lightning (see v. 24), and winds (see 37:9).

38:29 frost of heaven: Since frost is water vapor from the atmosphere that has condensed on cold surfaces, the word heaven may refer here to the atmospheric heavens.

38:32 t he Great Bear with its cubs is a reference to the constellation known as Ursa major.

38:34–38 in asking whose command the clouds obey, the Lord implies Job’s impotence and ignorance of these matters, as well as his own sovereignty and omniscience. voice: t he Lord alone controls the storms and lightning (see 36:32). t he obedience even of lightning to God’s command serves as another subtle rebuke to Job’s complaints.

38:39–39:30 t he Lord interrogates Job concerning the animal kingdom to demonstrate Job’s impotence to govern it and his ignorance of God’s providential plan (see 38:1—40:5). t he wild animals listed were either favorite game animals of kings or used by royalty. Before Job could validate his claims to be able to run the universe better than the Lord, he would need to prove that he could control these hostile forces.

38:41 if the Lord provides for the young raven who cries out for help, how much more will he hear and provide for people when they genuinely cry out for help?

39:1–4 God, who provides the prey for the predators (see 38:39–41), also takes care of that prey, which includes the mountain goats and deer. By taking care of them in their most vulnerable moment of giving birth, the Lord provides for order and balance in nature.

39:4 t he hebrew word translated with grain may also be rendered “in the open field.”

39:5–7 t he wild donkey, the symbol of the exploited poor in 24:5, finds satisfaction where God has placed him on earth free from the shouts of the driver or “slave driver.” t his contrasts with Job’s complaints about the voice of the oppressor (3:18). true freedom is found in being content where God has placed us (see Phil. 4:10–12).

39:13–18 Job had identified himself closely with the ostrich (see 30:29). t herefore, the Lord ironically agrees that there are similarities. Both are deficient in knowledge (see v. 17; 38:2). But although the ludicrous-looking ostrich is no doubt laughed at (as was Job; see 30:1) and experiences misfortunes (see vv. 14–16), the ostrich is not concerned about the situation. t his contrasts with Job, who has been full of worry (see 3:25; 15:24).

Job’s Response to God

<sup>3</sup>Then Job answered the LORD and said:

- 4 “Behold, <sup>d</sup>I am vile; What shall I answer You? <sup>e</sup>I lay my hand over my mouth.
- 5 Once I have spoken, but I will not answer; Yes, twice, but I will proceed no further.”

God’s Challenge to Job

<sup>6f</sup>Then the LORD answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said:

- 7 “Now <sup>g</sup><sup>1</sup>prepare yourself like a man; <sup>h</sup>I will question you, and you shall answer Me:
- 8 “Would <sup>i</sup>you indeed <sup>2</sup>annul My judgment? Would you condemn Me that you may be justified?

39:26–30 God asks Job if he designed the majestic birds—the hawk and the eagle—by his aerodynamic genius. eagle: t the context of v. 30, where the young birds feast on the blood of the slain, suggests that a vulture is in view. however, the traditional translation eagle conveys the royal and majestic qualities associated with the vulture in the ancient middle east (vv. 26–30), in contrast to the revulsion its name brings to many modern readers.

39:30 t the implication is that God allows the young vultures to feed on the blood of slain people to help prevent the spread of disease. t his is an answer to Job’s complaint about God’s failure to stop the exploitation of the helpless (24:1–17) and his ignoring of the pleas of the dying. t he Lord demonstrates to Job again that he limits evil.

40:1, 2 Moreover the LORD answered: t he Lord reinforces his initial thematic challenge (see 38:2, 3) with a dynamic question loaded with legal terminology. t he word contend means “to bring a lawsuit” (see 9:3). God reverses Job’s accusation that God has brought a lawsuit against him (see 10:2 for the same hebrew word). it really has been Job accusing God, not the other way around. t he Lord reprimands Job for his error. Who is Job to judge God? t he Lord might be implying that Job has been trying to be his own “mediator” or “redeemer” (see 40:14).

40:4 vile: t the context of vv. 4, 5 suggests that the hebrew word for vile means “insignificant” or “unworthy.” Job’s placing his hand over his mouth is probably a gesture of respect (see 29:9) as God’s subordinate.

40:6, 7 prepare yourself: But God has not finished speaking. t he words of v. 7 are repeated from 38:3; but the stakes are even higher now.

40:8 t he Lord confronts Job with critical errors in his speeches. Job has dared to annul God’s judgment or justice. t he context of elihu’s speeches, where elihu used this same word concerning the Lord’s kingship over the universe (see 34:17; 37:23), suggests that Job has maligned God’s justice by claiming that God rules without establishing moral or social order in the universe (see 24:1–17). Because Job had assumed the inflexible retribution dogma, which views suffering in this world as God’s punishment for sin, Job had to condemn God in order to maintain his own innocence.

40:9–14 t he absurdity of Job’s defiant criticism of the way the Lord runs the universe (see 29:2–17 for Job’s claim to be fair in his judicial duties) is forcefully brought to his attention by God’s ironic invitation to become “king for a day” over the whole universe. if Job had the power, let him don the royal regalia of God’s majestic attributes and humble the proud and wicked forces in the world. Job had criticized God for not doing this well enough (21:30, 31; 24:1–17).

- 10<sup>k</sup> Then adorn yourself with majesty and splendor,
And array yourself with glory and beauty.
- 11 Disperse the rage of your wrath;

40:15–24 t the identity of the behemoth, meaning the “great beast,” is disputed. Suggestions include the elephant, some sort of dinosaur, or a purely mythical monster. t the hippopotamus, which had overtones of cosmic evil, seems to fit the biblical and cultural evidence best. Job could not approach, much less subdue, this massive beast; how could he force his way to the Almighty with his case (see 40:15—41:34)? As the description of the beast continues, the elaborate language goes beyond any physical hippopotamus and presents the beast as a symbol of chaos. t the same pattern is seen in the development of the Leviathan in the next section (see ch. 41).

40:24 t the clause though he takes it in his eyes is one possible translation of the Hebrew. however, it might also be construed as a question: “Can one take him by his eyes?” t the phrase in his eyes may refer to the difficulty of capturing the hippopotamus when it is submerged, with only its eyes above the water. Also, because of the thick hide of the hippopotamus most weapons are ineffective unless they are shot through its eyes.

41:1 t the identity of Leviathan, basically a transliteration of the Hebrew word for “sea monster” or “sea serpent,” is disputed. t the traditional view is that it is the crocodile. As in the case of the behemoth (40:15–24), the description of Leviathan begins as a grand, poetic description of a well-known, formidable beast. But by the time the description is complete (see vv. 18–21), Leviathan has become a fire-breathing dragon, a powerful symbol of chaos, evil, and destruction. Ultimately, Leviathan’s image is a portrait of chaos at the beginning of God’s creation and of Satan at the consummation of the ages (see Ps. 74:2–17; Is. 27:1; 51:9). o nly God can control and destroy Leviathan; Job can only shrink back in humble fear.

41:2 t the reed indicates the material that was twisted or spun into a cord or rope, perhaps to “string” the Leviathan like a fish. however, the clause pierce his jaw with a hook may suggest the picture of Leviathan as a prisoner of war with a hook or ring in his jaw or nose (see 2 Chr. 33:11). t his view is supported by the context of v. 4. t his imagery is also used in Ezek. 29:3, 4, which describes the Lord capturing Pharaoh like a crocodile and putting hooks in his jaw.

41:4 t the Lord continues to confront Job with a series of rhetorical questions. Can Job make Leviathan an eternal servant or vassal? t the Lord’s mention of the covenant implies that perhaps Job could offer it a peace treaty, like a great king subduing a lesser king in battle (see v. 34).

41:10 When the Lord says no one would be so foolish as to stir Leviathan up, he is replying to Job’s desire that this monster be roused (see 3:8). in effect, the Lord questions Job: “What would you do, Job, if he were provoked?” (see vv. 8, 9).

two hebrew words refer to this plant—gome and agmon. Scholars generally believed this plant was the papyrus. it grew abundantly in northern egypt along the banks of the upper nile. Although it still grows there today, overuse has made it scarce. it also grows in northern Galilee at the mouth of the Jordan. Papyrus is a shallow-rooted plant that grows in mire (8:11). it reaches about ten feet high on an unbranched stem, which is two to three inches in diameter at the base. A large tufted head at the top of the stem droops when the plant is mature. the egyptians used this plant for making boats and fishing rope. they used its sap for sugars, medicine, and fuel. the pithy substance inside the stem was eaten. more important for us today is the fact that the egyptians first manufactured paper from this plant.

41:11 Who has preceded Me could also be rendered “who has confronted me?” that I should pay: the hebrew verb means “to pay a debt” or “to make restitution for something lost or stolen.” the Lord confronts Job for implying that God owed him something for being righteous (see 34:5–8) or that God had to make restitution for the property and posterity he had allegedly stolen from Job (see 10:3). the Lord plainly refutes Job’s misconception that God is obligated to reward a person who is obedient. the idea that God does not have to reward us for what we consider good works is an essential part of the biblical doctrine of salvation by grace apart from our works (see eph. 2:8–10).

41:12–34 mighty power: the Lord reinforces the argument of

vv. 1–11 by describing the invincibility and terrifying splendor of Leviathan’s bodily features.

41:19–21 Using poetic exaggeration (see v. 18), the Lord gradually transforms the physical Leviathan to the mythological dragon (see 7:12), which breathes fire and smoke (vv. 19–21). even though the Leviathan (probably the crocodile; see 41:1–34) was God’s creature, it terrified the egyptians so much that they worshiped it as a god.

41:34 the phrase he beholds every high thing could also be translated “he looks down on everything haughty.” King Leviathan, who is over all who have pride, gazes with a look of superiority at the haughty. therefore Job, whose pride had been exposed, could

Job's Repentance and Restoration

42 Then Job answered the LORD and said:

- 2 “I know that You <sup>a</sup> can do everything, And that no purpose of Yours can be withheld from You.
- 3 You asked, <sup>b</sup>“Who is this who hides counsel without knowledge?” Therefore I have uttered what I did not understand, <sup>c</sup>“Things too wonderful for me, which I did not know.

<sup>7</sup>And so it was, after the LORD had spoken these words to Job, that the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite, “My wrath is aroused against you and your two friends, for you have not spoken of Me what is right, as My servant Job has. <sup>8</sup>Now therefore, take for yourselves <sup>h</sup>seven bulls and seven rams, <sup>i</sup>go to My servant Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering; and My servant Job shall <sup>j</sup>pray for you. <sup>9</sup>So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went and did as the LORD commanded them; for the LORD had <sup>3</sup>accepted Job. <sup>10j</sup>And the LORD <sup>4</sup>restored Job's losses when he prayed for his friends. Indeed the LORD gave Job <sup>k</sup>twice as much as he had before. <sup>11</sup>Then <sup>l</sup>all his brothers, all his sisters, and all those who had been his acquaintances before, came to him and ate food with him in his house; and they consoled him and comforted him for all the adversity that the LORD had brought upon him. Each one gave him a piece of silver and each a ring of gold.

never succeed in subduing the mighty Leviathan or validating his claim to be able to rule the world better than God.

42:6 The phrase I abhor myself means “to reject” or “to recant.” Job repents of his words and accusations that were based on the false belief that God always rewards the righteous in this life. Instead of accusing God of injustice, Job submits to the will of the sovereign Lord of the universe.

42:7, 8 In contrast to his friends, Job had spoken of God what is right. Unlike the friends, Job had recanted his false belief, repented of his pride (v. 6), and affirmed God's unconditional sovereignty over his life (v. 2). Job had been right in maintaining his innocence in the face of his friends' false accusations.

42:10 Since Israelite law required a thief to restore double for stealing “an ox or donkey or sheep” (ex. 22:4), it was ironic that the LORD gave Job twice the amount of livestock he had before (see v. 12). Clearly, the Lord was not admitting that he owed Job anything (see 41:11), but he was expressing his benevolent mercy.

42:12-17 Job's restored prosperity should not be seen as compensation for his piety (see 41:11). After Job had given up his demand for his former prosperity, the Lord could give it to him as a free gift. His conclusion shows that the Book of Job does not totally reject the principle of divine retribution but only its false application. It concurs with the Book of Proverbs that the fear of the Lord normally leads to an abundant and long life. But we cannot presume that God will always operate in this manner, as Job's friends had done.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS

AS ONE OF THE GREATEST collections of songs, prayers, and poetry, the Book of Psalms expresses the deepest passions of humanity. In these pages we can hear the psalmist's desperate cry in the midst of despair, but also his ecstatic praise of his Provider and Comforter. We can hear him pouring out his soul in confession, but also bubbling over with joy. The psalms lead us through the valleys and peaks of human experience, but in the end they guide us to the praise of our loving Creator.

Authors The superscription, the introductory words found before the first verse in most psalms, many times attributes the following psalm to King David, the “sweet psalmist of Israel” (2 Sam. 23:1). These superscriptions were probably not part of the psalms when they were originally composed but were added by editors to aid in the interpretation of the poems. Nevertheless, there is no reason to discount them. The historical books of the Bible speak of David’s considerable accomplishments as a musician, singer, and composer of poems (1 Sam. 16:19–23; 18:10; 2 Sam. 1:17–27; 23:1–7; 1 Chr. 29:10–15). Moreover, one of David’s psalms is recorded in 2 Samuel 22 and reappears with only slight variation as Psalm 18. Parts of the medley that David presented to Asaph in 1 Chronicles 16:8–36 are taken from Psalm 105:1–15, Psalm 96, and Psalm 106:1, 47, 48. Thus the connection between King David and the Psalms is well documented.

Of course, David is not the only composer of the Psalms. Others include contemporaries of David whom he placed in charge of worship in Jerusalem: Ethan, Heman, and Asaph. Solomon followed in his father David’s footsteps by writing psalms as well as proverbs. Some of the earliest psalms were written by Moses, five centuries before the time of David. One priestly family, the sons of Korah, continued to write psalms for centuries. Women, such as Deborah (see Judg. 5) and Hannah (see 1 Sam. 2), wrote psalms as well. However, the composers of many of the psalms remain anonymous. Some of these anonymous psalms may be attributed to David, but certainly not all of them. Psalms were still being written during the time of Ezra. It was in Ezra’s time that the Book of Psalms as we know it was compiled.

Structure Like the Pentateuch, the five books of Moses, the Book of Psalms is arranged in five sections: Book I (Ps. 1–41), Book II (Ps. 42–72), Book III (Ps. 73–89), Book IV (Ps. 90–106), and Book V (Ps. 107–150). Each book concludes with a doxology, an affirmation of praise to God found in the last verse or two of the concluding psalm. In the case of Book V, the entire last poem, Psalm 150, is the concluding doxology. The reason for this arrangement of the Book of Psalms is not clear. Most likely it had something to do with the use of the Psalms in the praise of God in temple worship. Books I and II are composed primarily of Davidic psalms; Book III includes the psalms of Asaph (Ps. 73–83) and the psalms of the sons of Korah (Ps. 84–88). Books IV and V include anonymous psalms, along with a few by David and others.

Categories of the Psalms Many of the psalms can be identified as certain types by their theme.

The royal psalms emphasize God as King, often using the words “the LORD reigns.” These psalms speak of His rule as Creator, as Savior of Israel, and as the Coming One. The royal psalms often point forward to the coming rule of the Savior King, the Lord Jesus.

the psalms of Zion focus on Jerusalem, using its endearing name Zion. these psalms rhapsodize on the city as God's choice for the site of his holy temple, the place for true worship of his name.

the penitential psalms are poems in which the poet confesses sin to the Lord, asks for and receives forgiveness, and then praises God for the renewed relationship that God's forgiveness provides.

the wisdom psalms focus on some of the same issues that are found in the Book of Proverbs. these psalms present sharp contrasts between the righteous and the wicked, address God's blessing and cursing, and often focus on righteous living.

one subcategory of the wisdom psalms is the torah psalms. these are poems that focus on the beauty, truth, and sufficiency of the Law of God. two other subcategories of the wisdom psalms are the creation psalms and the history psalms. in the creation psalms, the poet calls for the believer to praise God as the Creator of the universe and the Savior of his people. in the history psalms, the poet recounts the history of israel and asks for a renewed commitment to God—even in the face of a history of rebellion.

Some of the most troubling psalms are those that contain prayers asking God to curse the wicked. these imprecatory psalms are sometimes thought to conflict with the sentiment of the gospel, but in fact they accurately reflect God's abhorrence of evil.

in contrast to the imprecatory psalms are the joyful and prophetic Passover psalms that became a part of the Passover celebration in Judaism. these psalms are a remarkable celebration of the great acts of the Lord in delivering his people from egypt, the theme of the Passover celebration. they point forward to the deliverance that would come through the Savior Jesus.

A final group of psalms is clustered at the end of the book. these are the hallel psalms, named for the principal hebrew word for praise, hallel. As their name suggests, these psalms praise God for his character and saving works.

Characteristics in order to fully appreciate the Psalms, a certain number of their characteristics should be kept in mind.

First, the psalms were written for singing. these were songs for public worship in the temple of ancient israel. they are not merely poems, but lyrics for music from the ancient world. As such they contain musical conventions peculiar to music and worship during that time.

Second, the poems in the Psalms were written over a period of a thousand years, from the time of mooses in the fifteenth century B.C. to the time of ezra in the fifth century B.C. Although David is the main author associated with the composition of the Psalms, many other authors from various time periods contributed psalms to what would become the Book of Psalms.

third, the psalms were collected and arranged over a long period of time. this process involved some editorial additions to the poems, some cutting and expanding, and some rearranging and restructuring of various psalms. the holy Spirit who had inspired these poems in the beginning oversaw this process of restructuring them for temple worship.

Fourth, the psalms were written in the language of the human spirit, the utterances of the soul. the psalms are not cool, reasoned prose, but deeply emotional works that use wrenching language, dramatic exaggeration, and figurative speech.

Fifth, psalms and the writing of psalms were part of ordinary life for the israelites. the Scriptures record a number of times when the israelites spontaneously responded to the Lord with a psalm of praise. moses sang a psalm in praise of God (ex. 15); Deborah and hannah did the same (Judg. 5; 1 Sam. 2); and David blessed the Lord with a psalm (1 Chr. 29). through a psalm the israelites would express their devotion and thanks to their Lord. this tradition continued into the new testament period, for mary in Luke 1 responded to the angel's message with a psalm. this israelite tradition of psalm writing was confirmed by the discovery of a number of original psalms among the Dead Sea Scrolls discovered in 1947.

Sixth, individual psalms were written for different purposes. Some began as works of private devotion, while others were designed from the beginning to be used in public worship. Ultimately, all the psalms became the treasure of all the people in temple worship, for no matter what subject they addressed, they always led the people to the worship of the living God.

Finally, it must be remembered that the psalms were written in the language of response. each psalm records in powerful, poetic language one individual's response to God. From a desperate cry to an ecstatic shout of joy, each psalmist responds to God in the middle of a particular situation. even though the psalms became a part of the community's worship life, they remained a vehicle for individual expression as well. even today, the psalms are used both in public worship and in the devotional moments of individual Christians.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Finding Jesus in the Book of Job is a bit more of a challenge than finding references to him in the Psalms. the Psalms are replete with allusions to him! the coming King is a frequently repeated theme of these ancient hebrew worship songs. many specifically anticipate the life and ministry of Jesus Christ, the one who came centuries later as the promised messiah. one kind of messianic psalm called the enthronement psalm anticipates the day when Yahweh (Jehovah) will consummate his kingdom in the person of the messiah. the psalmists may not have understood what they were writing, but they wrote with both eyes focused on eternity (see Ps. 96–99).

The Messiah's Triumph and Kingdom

- Why <sup>a</sup> do the <sup>1</sup> nations <sup>2</sup> rage,
 And the people plot a <sup>3</sup> vain thing?
 2 The kings of the earth set themselves,
 And the <sup>b</sup> rulers take counsel together, Against the LORD and against His <sup>c</sup> Anointed, <sup>4</sup> saying,
 3 “Let <sup>d</sup> us break Their bonds in pieces
 And cast away Their cords from us.”
 4 He who sits in the heavens <sup>e</sup> shall laugh;
 The Lord shall hold them in derision.

Psalm 1, a wisdom psalm, presents a vivid contrast between the way of the righteous (vv. 1–3) and the way of the wicked (vv. 4–6). no author is named nor is any circumstance given for the writing of this poem. it was probably written late in israel’s history. With its focus on the distinctions of character and the different destinies of the righteous and the wicked, this psalm serves as an introduction to the entire Book of Psalms. it affirms that there is one way to true life; to ignore this way is to foolishly accept death (see Prov. 1:20–33).

1:1 t he hebrew word for man in this context means “person,” without reference to gender. Who walks not: t he parallelism in this verse speaks of an increasingly deeper involvement with wickedness: “walking beside,” “standing with,” “sitting beside.” Similarly, the terms for the wicked are progressive: ungodly, sinners, and the scornful. t he imagery of this verse presents an ideal righteous person—one who is in the world, but quite unaffected by the world.

1:2 But his delight: instead of finding enjoyment in entanglements with wicked persons, the godly person finds his or her deep enjoyment in the things of God, particularly the Word of God. The law of the LORD refers specifically to the Pentateuch, the first five books of the ot. t he hebrew word for law expresses the idea of God pointing out the path for life in fellowship with him (19:7–11). Meditates means “to mumble” or “to speak to oneself” (4:4). Biblical meditation is focusing the mind on Scripture.

1:3 like a tree: t his simile presents an image of a desert date palm that has been firmly planted in a well-watered oasis (Jer. 17:8). everything about the tree is valuable and productive. Likewise, the righteous are valuable and productive to God—people in whom he finds pleasure (33:15; 147:11). Shall prosper is not a guarantee of the future financial worth of the righteous; rather, the righteous person is always useful and productive to the Lord.

1:4, 5 Like chaff, the refuse that is blown away by the wind after the grain harvest, the ungodly have no stability (35:5; 83:13). When the judgment comes, the ungodly will no longer stand (5:5). t his is similar to the picture of final judgment in the Olivet Discourse of Jesus (matt. 25:31–46).

1:6 t he Bible speaks of two ways (Prov. 2:8; 4:19), only one of which leads to God. t his is a consistent biblical theme, culminating in the celebrated words of Jesus, “i am the way” (John 14:6). t he verb knows in this context refers not just to God’s awareness, but to an intimate, personal knowledge (101:4). God is intimately involved with the way of the righteous, but has no connection with the way of the ungodly, except in judgment (146:9).

Psalm 2, a royal psalm, focuses on the coming glorious reign of the Lord’s messiah. t he author is anonymous in the hebrew text, but the nt apostles assign it to David (Acts 4:24–26). t his psalm should be read in conjunction with Ps. 110. Both psalms point prophetically to the coming rule of Jesus (see Acts 13:33; heb. 1:5; 6; 5:5; r ev. 2:26, 27; 12:5). Psalm 2 has four movements, each related to a different voice or speaker: (1) a description of the plans of the wicked (vv. 1–3); (2) the Father’s derisive laughter from heaven (vv. 4–6); (3) the Son’s declaration of the Father’s decree (vv. 7–9); (4) the Spirit’s instruction to all kings to obey the Son (vv. 10–12).

2:1 Why do the nations rage: t his passage has multiple meanings. o riginally it referred to the nations that confronted David and his legitimate successors. But the Davidic kings were mere shadows of the coming great King, the Savior Jesus. Consequently, the verse also refers to any attack on Jesus and his divine kingdom. t his assault by the nations occurred in its most dramatic form at the cross, but resistance to God’s kingdom has continued. t hroughout history, nations have resisted the claims of the gospel, the foundation of Jesus’ kingdom.

2:2 LORD refers to the Father. His Anointed (18:50; 132:10) refers to the Son. t he word conveys a sense of royalty, for kings were anointed (see 1 Sam. 10:1; 16:13). The kings of the earth would attempt to withstand the very King of the universe.

2:4, 5 hold them in derision: God laughs scornfully at an attack

nations

(heb. goy) (2:1; 10:16; Judg. 2:21) Strong’s #1471

t he hebrew word goy basically means a body or group of people and is usually translated nation. Although goy can be used to designate the people of israel, especially before their settlement in Canaan (Josh. 4:1; 5:6), the term generally refers to neighboring pagan nations (Deut. 4:38; Judg. 2:21, 22). t hese nations, characterized by wickedness (Deut. 9:4, 5), were considered enemies of God (2:1; 10:16). Yet the nations were not without hope, for the ot also speaks of the grace of God extending to all people through the coming of the promised messiah (is. 2:2; 11:10; 42:6).

- 5 Then He shall speak to them in His
wrath,
And distress them in His deep
displeasure:
6 “Yet I have <sup>5</sup>set My King
<sup>6</sup>On My holy hill of Zion.”
7 “I will declare the <sup>7</sup>decree:

iron;

on his Son (37:13). t he idea of “fighting off” the will of God is truly preposterous. He who sits in the heavens: God is King of the universe (Ps. 93). What are the puny kings of the earth compared to him?

2:6 My King: David and his legitimate heirs were given a divine promise that they would rule the israelites under the Lord’s blessing. Any attack on the king of israel was an assault on God’s promise. Zion is another name for Jerusalem. My holy hill: t he site of Zion was “holy,” for it was declared to be so by God. it was the place where Abraham bound his son isaac (Gen. 22), where the holy temple was built (2 Chr. 3), and where the Savior Jesus would die (matt. 27).

2:7 You are My Son: each time a legitimate son of David was crowned king as the successor to his father in the city of Jerusalem, these words could be used of him. t he new king was adopted by God as his “son”; he would look to God as his “Father” (see 2 Sam. 7:5, 14). t his formula of adoption was announced in a solemn ceremony of coronation attended by priests and prophets, with pomp and celebratory worship of God. in the nt, the Son of God is also declared to be the King, the true Anointed, the Christ (see matt. 3:17; mark 1:1, 11; Luke 3:22; John 1:18; Acts 13:33; heb. 1:5; 5:5). 2:9 rod of iron: t he future rule of the royal Son would be absolute. t here would be no rebellion.

The Poetry of the Psalms

A fuller appreciation of the eloquence of the Psalms can be gained by understanding the basics of hebrew poetry. t he lack of a predictable rhythm and rhyme has confused some people about the poetic nature of the Psalms. Although hebrew poetry contains some rhythm, it primarily makes use of repetition and recapitulation. o ne line of a verse is followed by another that gives a variation of the same idea. not only do the psalmists use this poetic technique, but the authors of proverbs use it as well (see the introduction to Proverbs). t he second line of a proverb usually reinforces the meaning of the first line (see Prov. 22:1). t his reinforcement of the thought is not mere tautology, but the graceful artistry of a poet. t he first line makes a statement that the second line sharpens or heightens.

A psalmist could modify this general pattern in a number of ways. First, the psalmist could use synonymous parallelism to make the two elements similar. For example:

But his delight is in the law of the LORD,
And in his law he meditates day and night. (1:2)

Second, the psalmist could contrast the two elements. t his type of parallelism, called antithetical parallelism, usually contains the word “but.” For example:

For the LORD knows the way of the righteous,
But the way of the ungodly shall perish. (1:6)

t hird, the psalmist could develop the theme of the first line in the second line. t his is called synthetic parallelism. For example:

Blessed is the man
Who walks not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stands in the path of sinners, nor sits in the seat of the scornful. (1:1)

A fourth improvement on general parallelism is climactic parallelism. in this type of parallelism, the first member of a couplet is incomplete and the second member partially repeats the first member and then completes the thought. For example:

Give to the LORD, o families of the peoples,
Give to the LORD glory and strength. (96:7)

Finally, the psalmist could use emblematic parallelism. in this type, the first line contains a figure of speech and the following lines explain the figure by expansion or explanation. in the following example, the parallel lines of this verse explain the meaning of the expression “like a tree.”

he shall be like a tree Planted by the rivers of water,
t hat brings forth its fruit in its season,
Whose leaf also shall not wither;
And whatever he does shall prosper. (1:3)

With poetic parallelism, the hebrew psalmist powerfully expresses his praise of the Lord. By reading the psalms aloud and emphasizing the parallel elements, one can gain some sense of the harmonious poetic language from which the translation is derived.

You shall dash them to pieces like a potter's vessel.”

<sup>10</sup> Now therefore, be wise, O kings;
Be instructed, you judges of the earth.

<sup>11</sup> Serve the LORD with fear,
And rejoice with trembling.

<sup>12,9</sup> Kiss the Son, lest <sup>1</sup>He be angry,
And you perish in the way,
When <sup>h</sup>His wrath is kindled but a little.

<sup>i</sup>Blessed are all those who put their trust in Him.

PSALM 4

The Safety of the Faithful

To the <sup>1</sup>Chief Musician. With stringed instruments. A Psalm of David.

Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness!
You have relieved me in my distress;
<sup>2</sup> Have mercy on me, and hear my prayer.

2:10, 11 be wise: Potentially rebellious kings would avoid terrible judgment only by submitting to the Anointed of God. rejoice with trembling: Only with the proper fear, adoration, reverence, and awe of the most holy God could there be genuine joy in the coming kingdom.

2:12 Kiss the Son: In this passage, the kings and all peoples were presented with a clear choice. They could either love and respect the Lord's Anointed and so experience his great blessing, or they could refuse to submit, and incur God's wrath.

Psalm 3 is a lament psalm ascribed to David. The superscription indicates a precise setting: the period of David's flight from his son Absalom (2 Sam. 15). This is one of the few psalm titles that ties a psalm to a specific incident in the life of David. The brief poem has four movements: (1) David's opening lament (vv. 1, 2); (2) his strong confession of trust (vv. 3, 4); (3) his determined act of faith (vv. 5, 6); (4) his continuing plea (vv. 7, 8).

3:1, 2 Many: At this point in David's life there was one specific foe who troubled him greatly—his son Absalom. However, David's friends had also become his foes because they were advising him that no one would help him, not even God. Selah: This is a musical term, perhaps indicating a pause in the lyrics for a musical interlude.

3:3, 4 The phrase but You, O LORD changes the mood of the psalm from dejection to confidence. David says three things of the Lord: (1) When no one would help David, God was his shield. (2) When David had nothing to treasure, God was his glory. (3) When no one would encourage him, God himself would encourage him and lift his head. Holy hill is a poetic reference to God's dwelling in heaven; the place of Israel's worship was but a physical symbol of this dwelling.

3:5, 6 I lay down and slept: Given the stress that David faced, it is remarkable that he was able to enjoy a night's rest. This was possible only because of God's sustaining power. God's gift of rest may be given even in the most troubling times. I will not be afraid: When God is one's protector, there is no need to fear (23:4; 27:3; 118:6).

3:7, 8 In the language of the lament psalms, David calls out for God to arise, to move on his behalf, to incline to his prayer (40:1). on the cheekbone: In the poetic imagery David uses, his enemies are like powerful beasts whose strength is in their jaws and whose terror is in their teeth. God's strike at the source of their strength means that they are no longer a threat. Salvation, in this instance, refers to deliverance from the immediate pressure that the psalm has already described. One meaning of the Hebrew word translated salvation is "room to breathe." Your people: As is the pattern in Psalms, the experience of the individual becomes the template for the community. Psalm 4 is linked to Ps. 3 in mood and concept. Both speak of the possibility of finding such peace in God's presence that even when torn by physical and emotional pain, a person may still have restful sleep (3:5; 4:8). This is a lament psalm of the individual, but one in which there is an unusual degree of confidence. Psalm 4 is the first of the psalms to have a superscription that focuses on its musical nature. To the Chief Musician is a notice that indicates that this psalm is from an early collection of psalms used in temple worship. With stringed instruments specifies the musical setting for the psalm. A Psalm of David serves not only as a notice of authorship, but also as a reminder that the poem was to be sung. The structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) a petition for deliverance (v. 1); (2) an address to the wicked, encouraging them to turn from falsehood and to trust in God (vv. 2–5); (3) an assertion that only God is able to provide genuine joy, deep peace, and abiding safety (vv. 6–8).

4:1 O God of my righteousness can also be translated "O my righteous God." The phrase has two meanings: (1) Only God is righteous. (2) All of a person's righteousness is found in Him alone. The psalmist is facing a very pressing need, but his confidence in God remains especially strong. He addresses God in terms of his character—his "righteousness." Then he speaks of God's earlier saving works in his life: You have relieved me in my distress.

4:2 How long: The psalmists often use these words to question God (13:1, 2). Here they are addressed to the wicked. my glory: For the believer, one's sense of glory or honor is found in relationship to the Savior.

- 2 How long, O you sons of men,
Will you turn my glory to shame?
How long will you love worthlessness
 And seek falsehood? Selah
- 3 But know that <sup>a</sup> the LORD has <sup>3</sup> set apart for Himself him who is godly;
 The LORD will hear when I call to Him.

 They flatter with their tongue.

4:3 set apart: t his is the central point of this psalm. God has identified the godly—those who are devoted to God and his ways. he exercises special care over them and listens to their prayers.

4:4, 5 Be angry, and do not sin: t these words are cited by Paul in the nt to describe “righteous indignation” (eph. 4:26). here the psalmist exhorts his reader not to let anger or anxiety erode complete trust or faith in the Lord. Offer the sacrifices of righteousness: t these words speak of the salvation experience. put your trust in the LORD: t hose being addressed here are the wicked (1:4–6). t hus in this psalm, the poet calls his neighbors to put their faith in God (Ps. 67).

4:6 any good: Although our lives often seem to be filled with uncertainty, there is never uncertainty with God. light of Your countenance: t his phrase recalls the Aaronic benediction (n um. 6:26) and indicates God’s favor. t hose on whom the Lord shines his face are truly blessed.

4:7 grain and wine: t he joy God gives transcends the joy of the harvest. Agricultural produce, the result of abundant rain on fertile soil, was a blessing of God on his people. But there is something greater than full barns and overflowing cisterns—the joy of God’s presence.

4:8 t he peace that God gives is far from a relaxation technique. it is a peace that enables an anxious person to lie down and sleep (3:5).

Psalm 5, a lament psalm, speaks of an unspecified but distressing period of David’s life, a time marked by enemies who verbally opposed him and his rule. When David’s enemies hurled curses at him, they believed that those curses called on divine power to destroy him. in this psalm, David is in distress because of the lies and boasts of his adversaries (101:7). he identifies his own cause with that of the Lord, so that attacks on him became attacks on God himself. t he “righteous” in v. 12 ultimately points to the Savior Jesus, as is common in the Book of Psalms (1:6). t he psalm has three movements: (1) a prayer to the Lord for deliverance in a time of trouble (vv. 1–6); (2) a desire to worship the Lord in a time of trouble (vv. 7–9); (3) a longing for final judgment by the Lord in times of trouble (vv. 10–12).

5:1–3 Give ear: As in 4:1, this is the language of a person who believes from experience that God has forgotten his plight. t he sufferer calls on the Lord to listen, even though the Lord has been continually listening and caring. Meditation here refers to incessant groaning. My King: t he psalmists often address God in heaven as King, the ruler over all. At times, the psalms focus on prayer in the morning (88:13)—a commendable habit that helps a person to dedicate all the activities of the day to the glory of God.

5:4–6 Takes pleasure means to find enjoyment or reason for laughter. t here is no enjoyment to be found in evil. t he hebrew word for boastful is the same one used to describe the praise of God. t he praise of God is the focus of the Psalms; but praise of self—a mere boast—is a twisted, human perversion of true praise. not stand: t his psalm speaks of final judgment on the wicked (c compare 1:5). t hey will not be allowed to stay in his glorious presence. You hate: God’s hatred is not merely a feeling, but an action of his will. t he phrase workers of iniquity occurs often in the Psalms to describe those who characteristically practice evil (14:4).

5:7, 8 But as for me: in the hebrew text, these words indicate a sharp contrast with the previous description of the wicked. t he hebrew word temple can be used of any very large structure—“palace” or “big house.” David was a leader in reforming the worship of God in Jerusalem, and he established a structure for the worship that would take place in the temple to be built by Solomon. David uses the word temple in anticipation of the future glorious building; all later generations of hebrew worshipers would understand their own worship better because of the use of this word in these psalms. Make Your way straight: David prayed that God would make clear his will for him.

5:9, 10 Their throat is an open tomb: t these words describe

- 10 Pronounce them guilty, O God!
Let them fall by their own counsels;
Cast them out in the multitude of
their transgressions,
For they have rebelled against You.
- 11 But let all those rejoice who put their trust in You;
Let them ever shout for joy, because
You <sup>6</sup> defend them;
Let those also who love Your name
Be joyful in You.
- 12 For You, O LORD, will bless the righteous;
With favor You will surround him as
with a shield.

PSALM 7

Prayer and Praise for Deliverance from Enemies

A <sup>a</sup>Meditation <sup>1</sup>of David, which he sang to the LORD <sup>b</sup>concerning the words of Cush, a Benjamite.

- O LORD my God, in You I put my trust;

the perverse language used by people in opposition to God. Paul used the words of these verses to argue for depravity of all people (r om. 3:13).

5:11, 12 Rejoice: here the psalmist describes the joy of the saved, the ecstasy of the ones whom God saves from their own deserved destruction. o ur joy must always be focused on our Savior (Phil. 4:4).

Psalm 6 is a lament psalm that shares elements of the penitential psalms. David was experiencing what he feared to be a mortal illness. he sensed that this illness may have fallen on him because of his own sinfulness. t he title of the psalm is similar to those of Ps. 4; 5. t he specification of instruments is a reminder that this very personal psalm became part of the worship of the community when the temple was built. t he psalm has four movements: (1) a petition for the Lord's mercy at a time of great pain (vv. 1–3); (2) an affirmation that the praise of the Lord comes from the living (vv. 4, 5); (3) a description of the psalmist's suffering (vv. 6, 7); (4) a rebuke of the psalmist's enemies, for the Lord has heard his prayer (vv. 8–10).

6:1–3 in Your anger: t he psalmist suffers from a grave physical illness, one from which he fears he might not recover (v. 5). h is principal concern is not only that his suffering might be more than he could stand, but that it comes as a result of God's severe anger. in his mourning, David cries out to God (as in 38:1). My bones is a poetic way of describing a deeply troubling illness; David's entire being is in torment.

6:4, 5 Return: t his is a typical part of a petition in the psalms of lament (Ps. 13). t he call for God to act is based on faith, even during a period of great stress. Your mercies' sake: Perhaps the most significant single term in the hebrew text regarding the character of God is the word rendered mercies here. t he hebrew word describes what some prefer to call the loyal love of God. t he translations vary because the word has much depth. Aside from the personal name of God (Yahweh), it may be the single most important term describing him as the object of praise in the Book of Psalms (36:5).

In the grave: if God still desires to hear David's voice in worship, he must keep David alive. David would be of no use to God dead; alive he could sing, shout, and testify to God's love and his mercy (94:17).

6:8–10 Depart: Psalm 6 is a lament psalm in which the Lord answers the prayer of the afflicted David. t he change of mood in the psalm is due to the Lord's response. David who has been so ill is now healed. t he Lord has answered David's prayer. workers of iniquity: See 14:4; 101:8. Let all my enemies be ashamed: t he psalmist speaks in righteous indignation against those who have reviled him, and more importantly have ridiculed his God.

Psalm 7 is a lament psalm, featuring David's protests of innocence. in some psalms, the psalmist indicates that his suffering is deserved. Such cases lead to confession of sin. But in other cases, psalmists, like David in this psalm, do not believe they deserve the suffering or the feeling of being abandoned by God. hence this psalm expresses David's extreme sorrow. o ften we are shocked when we face suffering. But the dominant message in the Book of Psalms is twofold: (1) God is good, and (2) life is difficult. t he life of faith is lived between these two realities. Although the title of the psalm refers to "Cush, a Benjamite," the Scriptures do not identify who this person was or what event in David's life prompted this psalm. t he psalm has several brief movements: (1) an initial appeal for deliverance (vv. 1, 2); (2) a protest of innocence (vv. 3–5); (3) an appeal for God's judgment, part one (vv. 6–8); (4) an appeal for God's judgment, part two (vv. 9, 10); (5) a picture of God's judging work (vv. 11–13); (6) a portrait of the wicked (vv. 14–16); (7) a vow of praise (v. 17).

7:1, 2 I put my trust: t he verb here can describe the action of a bird seeking refuge in the wings of its mother. t his picture is found

PSALM 8

The Glory of the LORD in Creation

To the Chief Musician. <sup>1</sup> On the instrument of Gath. A Psalm of David.

O LORD, our Lord,
How <sup>a</sup> excellent is Your name in all
the earth,
Who have <sup>b</sup> set Your glory above the heavens!

in the Book of Psalms (11:1; 17:8) and in the historical books (ruth 2:12). Tear me like a lion vividly conveys the psalmist's fear. David had witnessed a lion who had captured its prey, and he compares his own fate to being captured and torn apart.

7:3–5 if I have done this: David protests that he is innocent of whatever charge his enemy has brought against him (Ps. 94). let him trample my life: these solemn words are spoken to God. t he Lord can enact his judgment through David's enemies if his protest of innocence is false.

7:6–8 in Your anger: t his is a plea for God to display his anger against the psalmist's adversaries, to judge them for their slander against David. Lift Yourself up: David implores the Lord to rise from his throne to intervene on his behalf, to bring justice in the intolerable situation (3:7). Judge me: o nly someone confident of his own innocence would dare to pray these words before the Lord. David was innocent of the charges. he had not attacked someone without cause (see vv. 3–5).

7:9, 10 in the hebrew, hearts and minds is literally "hearts and kidneys"—an ancient way of describing the innermost person. My defense means "my shield." God hovers over the believer like a military shield, an invisible defense (33:20).

7:11–13 God is angry: t he indignation of God is directed at the enemies of his people. sharpen His sword: t he imagery in vv. 12, 13 is of a great warrior preparing for battle: the Warrior is the Lord and the battle is against the wicked (37:9; 118:10).

7:14–16 conceives trouble: t he wicked become "mothers" to trouble. t hey will give birth to their own destruction.

7:17 Most High is a term often used to describe God's authority over the nations (47:2; 78:35; Deut. 32:8). t he God of israel is not just another national deity—he rules all nations.

Psalm 8, a psalm of praise with wisdom connections, is a poetic reflection of the great creation text of Gen. 1. t his psalm expresses wonder at the majestic and sublime nature of God. however, the center of the psalm focuses on human beings, a rarity in Scripture. But even this focus leads to the praise of God, the Creator of humanity. t his psalm sets to music the significance of the phrase "in his image" in Gen. 1:26–28. t he structure of the poem is: (1) a prologue in praise of God's excellent name (v. 1); (2) the praise of God from children (v. 2); (3) the praise of the Creator of humanity (vv. 3–8); (4) an epilogue in praise of God's excellent name (v. 9).

8:1 How excellent is Your name: t he name of God and the glory of God are alternate ways of describing who he is. See the description of the meaning of the name of God in ex. 3:14, 15 and the focus on the name of God in 113:1–3. t his psalm ends with the same words it begins with. t hese words of praise to the name of

PSALM 9

Prayer and Thanksgiving for the LORD's Righteous Judgments

To the Chief Musician. To the tune of 1 "Death of the Son." A Psalm of David.

- I will praise You, O LORD, with my whole heart;
I will tell of all Your marvelous works.
2 I will be glad and <sup>a</sup>rejoice in You;
I will sing praise to Your name,

God form a frame for its central subject—the praise of man as male and female, whom God has made to reflect his majesty.

8:2 mouth of babes: t his verse was quoted by Jesus (matt. 21:16) to the priests and scribes who wanted to squelch the people who were speaking the words of 118:26 in praise of Jesus.

8:3, 4 Your heavens: David is in awe at the splendors of creation; the wonders of nature lead him to praise its Creator. even the universe with its infinite distances was the work of the Lord's fingers (19:1). What is man: in view of the vastness of creation and the surpassing glory of God the Creator, who are we to presume upon him? here man refers to all human beings regardless of gender.

8:5–8 You have made him a little lower than the angels: t he response to the rhetorical questions of v. 4 is stunning. man, as male and female, stands at the summit of God's creation. t he hebrew text is "You have made him to lack little of God." t he Septuagint, the ancient Greek translation of the ot., translates the hebrew word meaning "God" as angels. t he author of hebrews bases his argument in heb. 2:5–9 on the Septuagint. So both readings are true. God made human beings in his image, just a little lower than angels. t he words crowned him with glory fill out and explain the parallel phrase "a little lower than the angels." God created human beings as majestic creatures who were to rule over his creation. But in our fallen state, we are profoundly disfigured, a perversion of the majesty God has intended (9:20). however, Jesus restores those who put their trust in him.

8:9 O LORD, our Lord: t he first word is the divine name Yahweh. t he second hebrew word translated our Lord speaks of the o ne in control: "our Sovereign."

Psalm 9 may have been originally one poem with Ps. 10. indeed, there is evidence that several of the psalms have been restructured in varying ways (see Ps. 42; 43). n ote that Ps. 10 does not have a new superscription and that the two psalms deal with the same theme. moreover, the psalms in the hebrew text form a partial acrostic pattern. ten of the initial letters of verses in Ps. 9 follow the order of the hebrew alphabet, and seven initial letters in Ps. 10 continue the same pattern. in hebrew, this pattern is pleasing to the listener and attests to the skill of the poet. Although Ps. 9; 10 are psalms of lament, they present a triumphant determination to praise God. t he structure of Ps. 9 is as follows: (1) a determination to praise the Lord (vv. 1, 2); (2) a rehearsal of God's saving deeds (vv. 3–5); (3) a rebuke of God's enemies (vv. 6–8); (4) a statement of confession (vv. 9, 10); (5) an ascription of praise to God (vv. 11, 12); (6) a petition

Image of God: His Reflection in Us

What a magnificent concept—God's creation of mankind in his image—patterned after him, mirroring a family resemblance of him (2 Cor. 3:18). t his does not pertain to the physical nature but rather to the spiritual and moral nature. how are we like God?

- We are capable of communicating, and in so doing, we can bless or curse (James 3:9).
- We are creative, and creativity gives us joy and satisfaction (Prov. 31:13–22).
- We experience emotions and feelings; we long for relationships and fellowship (Ps. 16:11).
- We discern between right and wrong (is. 6:5).
- We act and are responsible for our actions (John 3:18).
- We long to pursue h im. mary sat at Jesus' feet, listening to him. Jesus let her know that sitting at his feet was important (Luke 10:42).

even though the original intimate relationship between God and humanity was severed by the Fall (Gen. 3:5–7), God has pursued his children down through the ages, sending his Son that we might be reconciled to him and become his daughters and sons, his heirs (r om. 8:14–17). his image can be reflected in us. t hrough Christ the image is brought back into focus so that his glory shines from the reflection.

- 3 When my enemies turn back,
They shall fall and perish at Your presence.
- 4 For You have maintained my right and my cause;
You sat on the throne judging in righteousness.
- 5 You have rebuked the <sup>2</sup>nations,
You have destroyed the wicked;
You have <sup>c</sup>blotted out their name forever and ever.
- 6 O enemy, destructions are finished forever!
And you have destroyed cities;
Even their memory has <sup>d</sup>perished.
- 7 <sup>e</sup>But the LORD shall endure forever;
He has prepared His throne for judgment.
- 8 <sup>f</sup>He shall judge the world in righteousness,
And He shall administer judgment for the peoples in uprightness.
- 9 The LORD also will be a <sup>g</sup>refuge<sup>3</sup> for
the oppressed,
A refuge in times of trouble.
- 10 And those who <sup>h</sup>know Your name will put their trust in You;
For You, LORD, have not forsaken those who seek You.

for deliverance by God (vv. 13–16); (7) a vision of the judgment of the wicked (vv. 17, 18); (8) a call for deliverance by God (vv. 19, 20). The title of the psalm, which ascribes the poem to David, may also indicate the tune to which it was to be sung, “Death of the Son.”

9:1, 2 with my whole heart: real praise is not halfhearted; it involves one’s whole being (146:2). The words of these two verses are characteristic of the praise of God in the Psalms. He is to be praised for his works and his name. His name represents who he is; his works stand for all he does. Most High is a designation for the Lord, especially as he rules the nations (47:2; 78:35; Deut. 32:8). 9:3–5 the enemies are not identified; this is common in the Psalms. All subsequent readers can fill in their own list of those who trouble them. The poet has confidence that God is in control (v. 4) and that he executes judgment (v. 5). Therefore in the middle of trouble, the psalmist is able to foresee the end of his enemies (vv. 17, 18).

9:6–8 one day even the names of the enemies of God will be forgotten. But the name of God will endure forever. one day there will be a final judgment when God will make right every wrong and establish his peace based on justice (96:13).

9:9, 10 Refuge speaks of a secure height, something inaccessiblely high. David was often outdoors, and he used images from physical geography to describe the wonder of God’s protective care (91:1, 2). who know Your name: to know the name of God was the equivalent of saving faith in the n.t. have not forsaken: this is a further explanation of the meaning of God’s name. Since the Lord is God, he cannot abandon those to whom he has bound himself. He is a faithful God—a God who never gives up on his people.

9:11, 12 He avenges blood: God is the Avenger, not any person (Deut. 32:35). one day God will judge the wicked. in the end, he will establish his just rule.

9:13–16 David asks that his life be spared from the gates of death so that he might praise the Lord in the gates of the temple. David moved from the gates of death to the gates of life. only God could accomplish such a sudden reversal; only the Lord could lift him from such depths. Daughter of Zion was an endearing term for Jerusalem. As Jacob was God’s “son,” so Jerusalem was God’s “daughter” (Ps. 48). In the net: David prays that the evil the wicked intend for him will become their own trap (7:15, 16; 35:7, 8).

9:17, 18 hell: Just as the Psalms speak of heaven as the destiny of the righteous (see 23:6), so they also speak of hell as the destiny of the wicked (see 1:6). it is a place from which the righteous want to be delivered (86:13). Passages like this one confirm the n.t. affirmation of a day of final judgment in which the righteousness of God will be displayed and the wickedness of unrepentant humankind will finally receive punishment (see matt. 25:31–46). The expectation of the poor describes the often frustrated hope that the oppressed may feel in this life. one day, however, they will be vindicated, for God himself is their Protector (140:12).

judgment

(heb. mishpat) (9:16; 99:4; 140:12; ex. 23:6; 1 Kin. 7:7; Amos 5:7, 15, 24; 5:12) Strong’s #4941

Judgment (also translated “justice”) specifies what is right, not only as measured by a code of law, but also by what makes for right relationships as well as harmony and peace. The other prophets were champions of social justice. God’s judgment is his just, fair, and impartial treatment of all people. his actions and decisions are true and right (Job 34:12; rev. 16:7). his demands on individuals and nations to look after victims of oppression are just demands (82:1–8). As Lord and Judge, God brings justice to nations (67:4) and “sets things right” in behalf of the poor, the oppressed, and the victims of injustice (103:6; 146:6–9). For the wicked, the unjust, and the oppressor, God as supreme Judge of the earth is a dreaded force. But for all who are unjustly treated, God’s judgment is reason for hope.

18<sup>p</sup> For the needy shall not always be forgotten;
 9 The expectation of the poor shall not perish forever.

19 Arise, O LORD,
 Do not let man prevail;
 Let the <sup>9</sup>nations be judged in Your sight.

20 Put them in fear, O LORD,
 That the <sup>1</sup>nations may know themselves to be but men.

 The helpless <sup>l</sup>commits<sup>7</sup> himself to You;

<sup>m</sup>You are the helper of the fatherless.

15 Break the arm of the wicked and the evil man;
 Seek out his wickedness until You find none.

9:19, 20 Do not let man prevail: Although human beings are made in God's image as described in Ps. 8, the wickedness of fallen humanity is profound. h humanity in rebellion against God is a gross perversion of God's plan. t he Lord cannot allow this arrogance to go unchallenged.

Psalm 10 was originally part of Ps. 9. t he two are found as one psalm in the Septuagint, the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Scripture. Psalm 10 reiterates the desire expressed in Ps. 9, that the Lord would deal with the wicked enemies of the psalmist. t his psalm reflects a sense of urgency: t he psalmist pleads for immediate deliverance from his enemies. t he structure of Ps. 10 is: (1) an inquiry into the Lord's inaction (vv. 1, 2); (2) a description of the actions of the wicked (vv. 3–11); (3) a renewed call for the Lord to rise in judgment (vv. 12, 13); (4) a confession of trust in the Lord's final judgment (vv. 14, 15); (5) a presentation of praise to God who is King (vv. 16–18).

10:1, 2 Stand afar off are classic words of lament or mourning (13:1–3). As the psalmist views the actions of the wicked, he finds himself angry at wickedness and wondering how God can remain apathetic and inactive. But even with his doubts, he continues to pray to the only God who can deliver him from his troubles.

10:3, 4 God is in none of his thoughts: For the psalmist, this is the most difficult part of his circumstances (14:1). With no thought of God, his wicked enemies are able to boast in themselves. t hey turn reality upside down by praising evil and spurning God.

10:6 only those who stand on the sure foundation of God's Word can confidently say, I shall not be moved (see 15:5). t he wicked who have lost all sense of God assume that they can use these words themselves. But eventually they will be swept away by the turmoil and troubles of this world (see Prov. 10:25; matt. 7:24–27). 10:8–10 sits in the lurking places: t he psalmist views the wicked as oppressors. t hey are similar to lurking beasts, ready to pounce on their prey.

10:11 God has forgotten: t he wicked behave the way they do because they doubt that the Lord knows, cares, or will act. t hey want to believe that there will be no final judgment, so they feel free to do as they please. But the truth is that God will establish justice (see vv. 14, 15).

10:12, 13 Arise, O LORD: t he psalmist returns to his call for God to act (see 9:19, 20).

10:14, 15 You have seen is the classic confession of trust in God in the psalms of lament. God does know; he does see; and he will act. God protects those like the fatherless who have no other protection (27:10). Break the arm: As in 3:7, this is a call for God to destroy the power of the wicked. t his impassioned curse on the wicked displays the righteousness of God.

- 16<sup>n</sup> The LORD is King forever and ever;
The nations have perished out of His land.
- 17 LORD, You have heard the desire of the humble;
You will prepare their heart;
You will cause Your ear to hear,
- 18 To <sup>8</sup>do justice to the fatherless and
the oppressed,
That the man of the earth may <sup>9</sup>oppress no more.

the sighing of the needy,

10:16–18 The LORD is King: t these words suggest that Ps. 9; 10 are royal psalms. Usually the royal psalms have a more positive viewpoint. t they take the stance that God is King and the world is established and will not be moved. o n the other hand, Ps. 9; 10 question how there can be such distress in the world with God as King. But since God is King, this psalm concludes with the fervent prayer that the will of God may be done on earth as it is in heaven (r ev. 19:1–6).

Psalm 11 is a psalm of trust. t he title ascribes the psalm to David. in the middle of the psalms of lament (see Ps. 9; 10; 12), this psalm expresses great trust in the Almighty Lord. it is the context of adversity that makes this psalm of trust all the more impressive. t his brief poem has three movements: (1) an affirmation of trust in the Lord even during the assaults of the wicked (vv. 1–3); (2) an affirmation of trust in the Lord who reigns above and who will judge the actions of the wicked (vv. 4–6); (3) an affirmation of trust in the Lord because of who he is (v. 7).

11:1–3 t he phrase I put my trust describes seeking refuge, similar to a bird under the wings of its mother (r uth 2:12). Flee as a bird: here is the contemptuous challenge of the wicked. t hey are like their father, the devil (John 8:44; 2 Cor. 11:13–15). t hey view the righteous as helpless birds flying to their mountain home. t hey do not realize that their mountain home is protection in the Lord h himself. bend their bow: t his is a picture of the wicked on the hunt for the righteous (10:8–10). foundations are destroyed: t these verses are the taunt of the wicked to the righteous. t hey are a false charge; the words are untrue. t he foundations are not destroyed; there is a great deal the righteous can do (eph. 6:10–18). most important, the righteous can keep trusting in God, their true foundation.

11:4–6 t he words in His holy temple prove that the charge of

v. 3 is false. God is in control; the foundations are not destroyed. His eyes behold: it may appear that God is not involved (10:11), but he does see and he will act (ex. 2:23–25; 3:6–15). tests the righteous: t here are times when the Lord allows trials to come into the life of the righteous as a test. But God's actions are more severe toward the wicked, whom he hates. t he hebrew word for hates is a strong term that speaks primarily of rejection (5:5). rain coals: t he source for “fire and brimstone” judgment is the story of God's judgment on Sodom and the other cities near the Dead Sea in Gen. 19.

11:7 Because the LORD is righteous, the believer who is under stress can continue to trust in him. Such faith allows one to ignore the taunts of the wicked. t he believer needs only to return to the enfolding wings of God to renew strength and purpose in the midst of a troubled day.

Psalm 12, a psalm of lament, begins with a focus on the power of the wicked's perverse mouth (Ps. 52; 120). it concludes powerfully with an assertion of the power of the pure and truthful words of God. t he title ascribes the poem to David. t he psalm has five movements: (1) a description of the language of the wicked (vv. 1, 2); (2) a prayer for God's intervention (vv. 3, 4); (3) the intervention of God to deliver his own (v. 5); (4) a characterization of the language of God (vv. 6, 7); (5) a reminder of the continuing presence of the wicked (v. 8).

12:1, 2 godly man ceases: David wonders if there are any righteous people left. speak idly: t his psalm charges the wicked for using words to destroy and hurt others.

12:4 With our tongue: Because the wicked do not submit to any authority over them, much less God h himself, they believe they can say anything they want.

12:5–7 Now I will arise: With these dramatic words, God speaks

Now I will arise,” says the LORD;
“I will set him in the safety for which he yearns.”

- 6 The words of the LORD are <sup>d</sup>pure words,
Like silver tried in a furnace of earth,
Purified seven times.
- 7 You shall keep them, O LORD,
You shall preserve them from this generation forever.
- 8 The wicked prowl on every side,
When vileness is exalted among the sons of men.

to David and reveals his righteous character. he will not linger; he will judge the speech of the wicked. pure words: in contrast to the idle words of the wicked (vv. 1–4), the words of God are altogether trustworthy. the eternal and steadfast nature of the Lord himself stands behind his words. he will establish justice just as he has promised to David (v. 5).

12:8 The wicked prowl: even with God's words of judgment, there are still wicked people looking for those whom they might destroy. one day there will be full punishment (10:16–18). For now, we still struggle with the help of the holy Spirit against the evil in our own souls and the pervasive wickedness in our world.

Psalm 13 is a psalm of lament, an impassioned cry to the Lord for help. it is ascribed to David. the psalm is brief, even terse; but it is remarkably powerful in its tone and imagery. there are similarities between this psalm and Ps. 142. t his psalm has three movements: (1) a lament of the forsaken (vv. 1, 2); (2) a petition for deliverance (vv. 3, 4); (3) a confession and a vow of praise (vv. 5, 6).

13:1, 2 t these two verses present all three pronouns that occur in a typical lament psalm: (1) I am hurting; (2) You have forgotten; (3) they are winning. Four times in two verses David screams out how long (4:2; 6:3). t he Lord allows David to pour out his anxiety before him. But by the end of David's prayer, the Lord has granted him a correct perspective on his situation. David's only option is to trust in the sovereign mercy of his loving God.

13:3, 4 Enlighten my eyes: As a person who is nearing death might sense the dimming of his vision (38:10), David also senses his death and pleads with God to intervene before he dies. Let my enemy say: if God does not intervene, not only will the psalmist be lost from the community that praises the living God (6:5), but his enemies will also claim a victory over him and his God. Fundamentally, the Lord's honor is at stake. rejoice: t he enemies' rejoicing would be intolerable because it would be aimed in part against God in whom the psalmist has trusted (35:19).

13:5, 6 t his is the turning point of the psalm. t he tone of the psalm abruptly changes from despair to hope. in this verse, David recalls his commitment to trust God completely. t he term mercy describes God's loyal love, h is faithfulness to his commitment to take care of his people. I will sing was the psalmist's vow to praise God in the worshiping community. Based on the assurance that God will deliver him, David resolves to tell the people about it—this is the essence of praise (40:1–3).

Psalm 14, which is closely allied with Ps. 53, is a wisdom psalm attributed to David. it speaks of the foolishness of living as if God did not exist. t he psalm has three movements: (1) a description of the pervasiveness of evil (vv. 1–3); (2) an assertion that final judgment is coming (vv. 4–6); (3) a prayer for God's kingdom (v. 7).

14:1 t he word fool refers not to mental inability but to moral and spiritual insensitivity. t he phrase no God suggests “practical atheism,” the view that if there is a God, it really does not matter to one's life. t his is the viewpoint stated in 10:4, 11; 12:4. t he hebrew word for corrupt has the idea of soured milk. t hose who cease to believe in God will eventually “sour”; they will degenerate into doing evil.

14:2, 3 The LORD looks down: here the Lord's inquiry leads to judgment (as in Gen. 6:12). t he pictorial language is a way of describing the omniscience of God, the fact that the Lord knows

t his hebrew word, based on the common verb meaning “to say,” occurs mainly in poetry. over half of its appearances are in Ps. 119, where it refers to what God has said. it is also used to refer to the prophetic warning of isaiah (is. 28:23), the humble prayer of the psalmists (17:6), or even the prideful boast of Lamech (Gen. 4:23). in Ps. 119, the term is used in parallel with “statute,” “commandment,” “judgment,” “precept,” and “testimony.” t he psalmist describes treacherous people as not keeping God's word, but the psalmist himself treasures God's word in his heart as a guide for life, that he might not sin against the Lord (119:11, 67, 133, 158).

everything. No, not one: t he biblical teaching on depravity is not that each individual is as evil as he or she could possibly be, but that sin is present in every individual (r om. 3). Since no one is perfect, all must ask God for his forgiveness—something he freely gives to those who place their trust in his son Jesus (eph. 1:7; 1 John 1:9). 14:4, 5 t he wicked lack knowledge of God’s truth. Although people may be brilliant in their chosen fields, they can still be morally insensitive and spiritually closed to the issues that have eternal consequences. My people refers to those who are faithful to God. God has delivered a group of people from the prison of wickedness. t hese people are his people and must follow his ways. t hey may become special targets of the wicked because they are different. There is an adverb of place that alludes to the final judgment. 14:6 His refuge speaks of shelter, as in the shadow of a tree. David as an outdoorsman had experienced the urgent need of shelter from the fierce elements. he uses this common experience to describe the various ways in which God protects his people from the storm of evil that surrounds them (9:9). 14:7 The salvation of Israel refers to a future salvation, the coming reign of God (Ps. 2; 89). Psalm 15 may be a wisdom psalm, but its principal focus is on the proper approach to the worship of God. Although all of the psalms were used in the worship of God, we might call this poem a worship psalm because of its special focus on this subject. t he psalm asks the question, Who is righteous enough to approach God? We who are in Christ learn to come boldly into the presence of the Father because we come on the authority of his Son (h eb. 4:16). Jesus makes us feel at home in the presence of the Father. t his psalm, ascribed to David, is posed in question-and-answer format. t here are three movements: (1) the question of who may approach the holy God (v. 1); (2) the response (vv. 2-4); (3) the blessing (v. 5). 15:1 who may abide: except for priests, people did not live in the precincts of the temple. t hese words describe an approach to God’s presence in which one might feel accepted, even “at home.” holy hill: As in 3:4, this phrase is used of the presence of God in the temple or the tabernacle. t he hebrew term is a general one that refers to wherever the tabernacle was in David’s day; later readers and singers of this psalm appropriately applied the word to the temple built in Jerusalem. 15:2-4 He who walks uprightly speaks of relative righteousness, not absolute righteousness, for no one is innocent before God. t he Lord commands us to be holy (see 1 Pet. 1:15, 16), and he also gives us the power to become holy (2 t hess. 2:16, 17). vile person is despised: t he righteous hate what God hates (vv. 4, 5). t he point is not so much the emotion of hatred as the deliberate rejection of wicked ways (1:1). swears to his own hurt: When a righteous person takes an oath, it must be honored even if it requires suffering. 15:5 never be moved: t he promise of God for the righteous is for this life and for the life to come. t he Lord is the righteous person’s sure foundation. Psalm 16, a psalm of lament, has a remarkable prophetic aspect that parallels many of the messianic prophecies concerning the Suffering Servant (is. 53). t his poem of David became central in the preaching of the apostles in the early church (Acts 2:22-31). t he psalm has four movements: (1) a petition to God for deliverance (vv. 1-3); (2) a condemnation of the wicked and their practices (v. 4); (3) an exaltation of the psalmist’s relationship with God (vv. 5-8); (4) a confident assertion that God will spare the psalmist’s life and bless it (vv. 9-11). 16:1 I put my trust: David uses the expression of a bird seeking refuge under its mother’s wing to indicate his complete trust in the Lord (compare 7:1; 11:1). From this strong stance of confidence, he is able to boast that his goodness comes only from God. he shares with the people of God the enjoyment of God’s presence.

Prayer with Confidence in Final Salvation

A Prayer of David.

- Hear a just cause, O LORD,
 Attend to my cry;
 Give ear to my prayer which is not from deceitful lips.
- 2 Let my vindication come from Your presence;

 are upright.

 I have kept away from the paths of the destroyer.
- 5 <sup>c</sup> Uphold my steps in Your paths,
That my footsteps may not slip.
- 6 <sup>d</sup> I have called upon You, for You will hear me, O God;
 Incline Your ear to me, and hear my speech.

16:5–8 My inheritance refers to the Promised Land. God had given this inheritance to his people (Deut. 6:1–3), however there was a greater inheritance for the Levites, who did not receive a share in the land (num. 26:62); their share of the inheritance was in the Lord. David had an ancestral inheritance in the land. As king, he also had extensive royal holdings. But he realized that no inheritance was greater than his relationship with Almighty God.

joy

(heb. simchah) (16:11; neh. 8:12, 17; Prov. 21:15; Jon. 4:6)
 Strong's #8057

t his hebrew word is one of several frequently occurring hebrew words that express exceeding gladness or rejoicing. Like its synonyms, this word can apply to a disposition of the heart (Prov. 14:10; Jer. 15:16). it is frequently set in a context of feasting (see neh. 8:12) and singing (137:3; 1 Sam. 18:6), as it is in a prophecy concerning God's singing over Jerusalem (Zeph. 3:17). t he word is also used for the senseless happiness of the enemies of God's people (Judg. 16:23; ezek. 35:15; 36:5), of the foolish (Prov. 15:21), of the lazy (Prov. 21:17), and of the hypocrites (Job 20:5). however, joy in the Bible is usually associated with the people of God, who celebrate God's blessing at a number of occasions—feasts, coronations of kings, victories in battle, and the dedication of the rebuilt walls of Jerusalem (num. 10:10; 1 Kin. 1:40; 2 Chr. 20:27; neh. 12:27). in fact, moSES exhorts the israelites to serve God with joy, so that they would not lose their blessing (see Deut. 28:47).

16:11 path of life: With this phrase David speaks of his escape from death at a critical point, but he also indicates the eternal life given by the resurrected Savior to all who trust in him.

Psalm 17 is a special use of the psalm of lament; it is a protest of innocence (Ps. 26; 35; 43; 69). t he psalm is ascribed to David. At times, David suffers under the heavy hand of God's anger because of unconfessed sin in his life. But there are other occasions where he insists that his present troubles are not caused by any fault in his life. in such a case, he calls upon God to vindicate him. God indicates through these psalms that he has a special concern for people who experience undeserved suffering, even though he allows the trouble to come for reasons that may never be known in this life. t he poem has six movements: (1) a plea for vindication (vv. 1, 2); (2) an acknowledgment of God's testing (vv. 3–5); (3) a plea for God's mercy (vv. 6–9); (4) a description of the wicked (vv. 10–12); (5) a renewed plea for vindication (vv. 13, 14); (6) a statement of resolute faith (v. 15).

17:1, 2 a just cause: With these words, David sets the tone of the psalm. By protesting his innocence, he hopes to convince God to move on his behalf and deliver him from his trouble. he asks for God to search him thoroughly and to declare his vindication, often translated “justice” or “judgment.”

17:3 tested my heart: David knows that God has done what he is requesting even before he asks. t hat is, God knew David's needs and what was in his heart. David's prayer helps David to focus on the source of his strength and reaffirm his determination to live a pure life (1:1–3; 19:14).

17:6–9 Incline Your ear is pictorial language describing the mercy of God (40:1): God will stoop down to earth to hear David's plea. lovingkindness: t his significant term for God's loyal love is enhanced by the hebrew term for marvelous, a word used in the

God the Sovereign Savior

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David
<sup>a</sup> the servant of the LORD, who spoke to the LORD the words of <sup>b</sup> this song on the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul.

And he said:

- I<sup>c</sup> will love You, O LORD, my strength.
<sup>2</sup> The LORD is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer;
My God, my<sup>1</sup> strength, <sup>d</sup> in whom I will trust;
My shield and the<sup>2</sup> horn of my salvation, my stronghold.
- <sup>3</sup> I will call upon the LORD, <sup>e</sup> who is worthy to be praised;
So shall I be saved from my enemies.
- <sup>4</sup> <sup>f</sup> The pangs of death surrounded me,
And the floods of<sup>3</sup> ungodliness made me afraid.
- <sup>5</sup> The sorrows of Sheol surrounded me;
The snares of death confronted me.
- <sup>6</sup> In my distress I called upon the LORD,
And cried out to my God;
He heard my voice from His temple,
And my cry came before Him, even to His ears.
- <sup>7</sup> <sup>g</sup> Then the earth shook and trembled;
The foundations of the hills also quaked and were shaken,
Because He was angry.

Bible only with reference to God. The apple of Your eye: Just as a person has an instinctive response to protect the eye, so God cares instinctively for his servants. shadow of Your wings: here God is described as a “mother hen” in a positive sense. Chicks who flee for protection to the wings of their mother find not only safety but warmth and love as well. In the same way, God protects us.

17:10–12 t he words fat hearts are a description of insensitivity, similar to the language of is. 6:10. As a lion: t his language is similar to that of 10:8–10. t he point is that the wicked are insensitive to human needs; they are like lions who wait for the right opportunity to destroy their prey.

17:13, 14 Arise, O LORD: t he same language is used in 9:19, 20; 10:12, 13. their portion in this life: t he wicked live their lives with only the pursuit of the pleasures of this world in mind. t he righteous should not try to obtain what this life can offer, but instead pursue God and his ways.

17:15 when I awake in Your likeness: t his verse is a key text on biblical immortality in the ot. having rejected the idea that the pleasures of this life are ultimately fulfilling, David anticipates the day when he will awake in glory and be made in the likeness of God.

Psalm 18 is attributed to David. t he text of this psalm is found in 2 Sam. 22 with some variations. t he superscription indicates that this psalm was David’s hymn of celebration to the grace of God. t his may be a psalm of trust (Ps. 23), but it is unique. t he lengthy poem has several movements: (1) a statement of faith and a description of deliverance (vv. 1–6); (2) a poetic description of God’s battle for David’s deliverance (vv. 7–19); (3) a recital of the blessings of God on the righteous (vv. 20–27); (4) an offering of praise to the person of the Lord (vv. 28–36); (5) a recounting of battles and victories in the Lord (vv. 37–45); (6) concluding praise for God’s work of deliverance (vv. 46–50).

18:1 I will love You, O LORD: t wice in the Psalms the poet declares a love for God (116:1). here an unusual word for love is used, referring to compassion as deep as a mother’s love.

18:2 t he hebrew word for my rock is balanced by its parallel hebrew word my strength, meaning also “my rock.” r eferences to God as a mountain fortress that protects the believer are found many times in the Psalms (91:1–3; 144:1). t his is a particularly apt image for David, who many times had to hide in the mountains for security (see 1 Sam. 26:1, 20). t he words strength and stronghold reinforce the image of God as Protector. t he horn symbolized strength.

18:4–6 in these verses, David describes how his life is endangered. Using very strong language, he expresses the pain he feels as he watches death come near: sorrows of Sheol. But even in the great depths of his trouble, David makes his distress known to God. he cries out to the Lord and the faithful God answers him.

18:7–9 the earth shook . . . He bowed the heavens: Underlying these poetic words is the understanding that the Almighty will turn the universe inside out, if necessary, to deliver his servant.

- 8 Smoke went up from His nostrils,
And devouring fire from His mouth;
Coals were kindled by it.
- 9 <sup>h</sup> He bowed the heavens also, and came down
With darkness under His feet.
- 10 <sup>i</sup> And He rode upon a cherub, and flew;
<sup>j</sup> He flew upon the wings of the wind.
- 11 He made darkness His secret place;
<sup>k</sup> His canopy around Him was dark waters
And thick clouds of the skies.
- 12 <sup>l</sup> From the brightness before Him, His thick clouds passed with hailstones and coals of fire.
- 13 The LORD thundered from heaven,
And the Most High uttered <sup>m</sup> His voice,
<sup>4</sup> Hailstones and coals of fire.
- 14 <sup>n</sup> He sent out His arrows and scattered <sup>5</sup> the foe, Lightnings in abundance, and He vanquished them.
- 15 Then the channels of the sea were seen,
The foundations of the world were uncovered
At Your rebuke, O LORD,
At the blast of the breath of Your nostrils.
- 16 <sup>o</sup> He sent from above, He took me;
He drew me out of many waters.
- 17 He delivered me from my strong enemy,
From those who hated me,
For they were too strong for me.
- 18 They confronted me in the day of my calamity,
But the LORD was my support.
- 19 <sup>p</sup> He also brought me out into a broad place;
He delivered me because He delighted in me.

And I did not put away His statutes

And I kept myself from my

18:10-12 <sup>t</sup> he language He rode upon a cherub is similar to the descriptions of Baal in Canaanite poetry. <sup>t</sup> hus David is taking the words typically used to praise Baal and applying them to the living God, the only one who truly deserves such praise. <sup>t</sup> he cherub is a royal symbol and thus speaks of God's power and glory (80:1). <sup>t</sup> he references to darkness speak of the hiddenness of God. <sup>h</sup> e cannot be completely understood by those whom he has created. <sup>t</sup> he references to brightness speak of God's holiness.

18:15 the channels of the sea: <sup>t</sup> his culminates the picture of God's turning the universe upside down (v. 7). even the most hidden passages of the sea are exposed, as are the elements that hold the earth together. <sup>t</sup> he Lord God does all this to rescue his servant David (v. 16). All of the Lord's fearsome power is used to save the one who worships him. <sup>t</sup> he passage vividly illustrates why the believer has no reason to fear (see heb. 13:6).

18:16-19 He drew me out of many waters: Again, David draws from the language of the Canaanites, turning it to the praise of God.

<sup>t</sup> he waters were regarded as dark gods in Canaan. But according to David, God is Lord of all, and the waters are his creatures. <sup>h</sup> e delivers his servant David from any power that might hold him. Why David might ask, would God tear apart all of creation to act on his behalf? Because God takes pleasure in those who serve him.

18:20-23 cleanness of my hands: David pleads his integrity, as in Ps. 17. Contrast this language with the description of the bloodied hands of unfit worshipers in is. 1:15. blameless: As in Ps. 15, these are descriptions of relative righteousness. no one is completely innocent before God. But God enables his servants to pursue godliness in this life.

18:25-27 With the merciful: <sup>t</sup> he poet describes the actions of God in terms of the people to whom he relates. God deals with each person according to his or her attitude. <sup>h</sup> e opposes the proud but delivers the humble, for the humble turn to him for strength.

18:31 who is God: With a question, David confesses that he cannot compare God to any person, god, or object (113:5; is. 40:25).

PSALM 19

The Perfect Revelation of the LORD

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

The <sup>a</sup>heavens declare the glory of God;
And the <sup>b</sup>firmament <sup>1</sup> shows <sup>2</sup>His handiwork.

18:35, 36 t he use of battle armor, such as a shield, as an image of God's provision for the righteous, is found in both the ot and nt (eph. 6:10–20).

18:37–41 pursued my enemies: God gives David strength to complete the battle against his enemies. God himself is a Warrior (ex. 15:3) and he outfits his servants for battle. to the LORD: Apparently in the extremes of battle, the enemies of David found no help from their gods, so they screamed aloud to David's God for deliverance. But God would not answer them. t here is only one prayer from the wicked to which he gladly listens—the prayer of repentance.

18:43 Head of the nations is language that prophetically speaks of the reign of the messiah. David gained his empire by the work of the Lord on his behalf. But David's empire was only a picture of the kingdom of God that will one day be governed by David's greater Son, the Lord Jesus.

18:49, 50 rdinarily, praise to the Lord was given in the congregation of the israelites. o n occasion the poets speak of God's victories among the Gentiles who still worship other gods (138:1). t his was a form of mission activity during the ot period (117:1). By proclaiming the victories of God to the nations, the poets were calling for the nations to respond in faith. h ow fitting that Paul would cite this verse (or its parallel in 2 Sam. 22:50) in r om. 15:9 as an indicator of God's ongoing intention to bring his salvation to all people. to His king: David's victories are prototypes of the victories of the great King to come. t he use of the word anointed is appropriate for David, but it points forward to the Savior who is the Anointed one (2:2). t he words to David and his descendants forevermore connect the previous promises to the only Son of David who inherited an eternal kingdom, the Savior Jesus (2 Sam. 7).

(heb. magen) (18:30, 35; Gen. 15:1) Strong's #4043

t he hebrew noun for shield is derived from the verb ganan, which means "to defend" and signifies the protective guardianship of God. t he shield is a common biblical symbol for protection. Kings and rulers are described as "shields" protecting their people (47:9; 89:1, 8), and the Bible frequently depicts God as a shield protecting those who trust in him (18:30). t his imagery has its roots in the Abrahamic covenant, where God describes himself as Abraham's shield (Gen. 15:1). David praises the Lord for being his "shield," "stronghold," and "refuge" (2 Sam. 22:3).

PSALM 20

The Assurance of God's Saving Work

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

May the LORD answer you in the day of trouble;
May the name of the God of Jacob

psalm. Both the creation psalms and the torah psalms are regarded as subgroups of the wisdom psalms. t he poem begins with the heavens, centers on the Word, and culminates in the heart of the servant of God. t he poem has three movements: (1) a celebration of the greatness of God's creation (vv. 1–6); (2) a celebration of the purity of the Word of God (vv. 7–11); (3) a contemplation of the life of the person of God (vv. 12–14).

19:1–6 All of creation including the heavens reveals God's glory and majesty (r om. 1:18–20). Firmament is another word for heaven (Gen. 1:6). t he vast expanse we see is testimony to the craftsmanship of God (8:3). From the vantage point of earth, there is no heavenly body so wonderful as the sun. in the ancient middle east the sun was often thought of as a god. in this poem, the sun is but a stunning symbol of the Creator. Like a bridegroom, it is pictured as celebrating its Creator.

19:7–10 The law is the torah, which means “instruction” or “direction.” t his passage (vv. 7–9) presents six words for the law of God—law, testimony, statutes, commandment, fear, and judgments; six evaluations of the law—perfect, sure, right, pure, clean, and true; and six results—converting the soul, making wise the simple, rejoicing the heart, enlightening the eyes, enduring forever, and righteous altogether. t he value of the Scripture cannot be compared with any other desirable thing—even gold. it provides the key to wisdom, joy, and most importantly, eternal life.

19:12–14 his errors: t he discussion of the nature and perfection of the law of God leads the psalmist to consider his own imperfection. he is aware of both hidden faults and presumptuous sins; he asks to be delivered from both. his final prayer corresponds to 139:23, 24. My strength means “my rock” (see 18:1). My Redeemer describes God as the one who purchases our freedom from any bondage or slavery. t he principal meaning of the word is “defender of family rights.”

Psalm 20, a royal psalm, is a psalm of trust ascribed to David. t he tone of the psalm is one of blessing, such as a king might bestow on his people, perhaps on the eve of battle. t he brief poem has three movements: (1) God's blessing in battle (vv. 1–5); (2) the assurance of God's deliverance (v. 6); (3) an assertion of faith in God the King (vv. 7–9).

20:1–5 The day of trouble likely refers to the day of battle. But it has wide application for any troubled day in the life of the believer. sanctuary: help from God was perceived to come from the temple in Jerusalem. Ultimately it comes from God's dwelling in heaven, of which the earthly sanctuary was a symbol. your offerings: t he

pure

(heb. bar) (19:8; 24:4; Prov. 14:4) Strong's #1249

t his hebrew term appears only seven times in the Bible and always in the poetic books. Possibly it derives from a verb that can mean (1) to purify, (2) to choose or select, or (3) to make shine or polish. in 19:8, the word is associated with the eyes, suggesting radiance (compare Prov. 4:18). t he concepts of “selectness” and “radiance” may fit the use of this word in the description of the chaste and pure Shulamite (the word is translated as favorite and clear in Song 6:9, 10). t he term appears with other words denoting cleanness and purity (19:7–9), especially purity of the heart (24:4; 73:1).

soldiers who were about to go to war would have completed the necessary sacrifices for confession of sin (see Lev. 1–7). in the immediate context, salvation is used to describe daily deliverance from the rigors of the battle and the victory over the enemy. But the Lord's deliverance of us from our spiritual troubles should prompt the same type of praise.

20:6 King David was the anointed of the Lord (18:50). His right hand: t his is a slogan that describes God's powerful deliverance of the israelites from egypt (17:7; 44:3; 118:16; see also ex. 15:6).

20:7–9 Chariots were the leading weapon on the ancient battlefield. t he implements of warfare are mere tools in God's hand—the wise trust in God because the battle belongs to him. May the King answer: Above King David was God the Great King; moreover, one day King Jesus would rule from sea to sea.

Psalm 21 is another of the royal psalms of David. Psalm 20 is a prayer of the king for God's blessing on his army. Psalm 21 is an assurance of God's blessing on the king. Both psalms, as is the case with all the royal psalms, speak ultimately of the great King to come, the Lord Jesus. Psalm 21 has four movements: (1) a declaration of praise to God by the king (vv. 1, 2); (2) a review of God's blessing on the king (vv. 3–7); (3) an expectation of the final destruction of all enemies of the king (vv. 8–12); (4) a renewed commitment by the people to praise God (v. 13).

21:1, 2 joy in Your strength: An ancient king would tend to find joy in his own strength and power (20:7, 8). But a wise king would find pleasure in the Almighty, for all power comes from him. Your salvation: Ultimately, spiritual salvation may be in view, but the immediate issue is more mundane. o ne meaning of the hebrew word salvation is "room to breathe." God had given King David a release from the pressures and constraints that bound him. Jesus speaks of this kind of salvation in matt. 24:13, as does Paul in Phil. 1:19 (see also James 1:21). his heart's desire: t he Lord gives people their aspirations when they are derived from a fundamental desire for God's honor and glory (20:4; 37:4; 145:19).

21:3–7 blessings of goodness: King David acknowledges that all he has is God's gift; his kingship itself (the crown) is a gift from the Lord. But God's greatest gift is life—temporal and eternal. in response to God for h is many gifts, David trusts in the LORD, for he knows that this trust is not misplaced (15:5). t hese words of this passage should not be limited to King David, for they also speak generally of God's blessings on all believers. each of us shares in the blessings of true royalty when we place our trust in the Lord, the Great King.

21:8–10 As is customary in the Psalms, the enemies of the king are the enemies of the Lord. t herefore the curse on the enemies is provoked by holy zeal for the glory of God (n um. 25). The time of Your anger may refer to any period of God's judgment, but compare to "the day of the LORD" (Joel 2:1; Zeph. 1:4). Their offspring: t he wicked intend evil against the Lord; but he will prevail, causing them to flee from his anger.

- 12 Therefore You will make them turn their back;
You will make ready Your arrows on Your string toward their faces.
- 13 Be exalted, O LORD, in Your own strength!
We will sing and praise Your power.

21:13 Be exalted: t he psalmist concludes with a shout of joy as he leads the faithful people in praising God for the promise of his final victory.

Psalm 22 is a profound lament psalm that concludes as a triumphant psalm of praise for God’s deliverance. Although this psalm speaks of David’s own distress and the Lord’s deliverance of him, it also prophetically describes in remarkable detail Jesus’ crucifixion and resurrection. t he language David uses to describe his own predicament is prompted by the holy Spirit. t hus it could span a thousand years to describe precisely the experiences of the Savior Jesus—both his excruciating death and victorious resurrection. See also Ps. 69, which predicts the emotional and spiritual suffering of Jesus. t he title of Psalm 22 indicates that it was sung to the tune “t he Deer of the Dawn.” t his lengthy poem has two main sections: (1) a description of the agony of impending death—an interplay of lament, confession, and petition (vv. 1–21); (2) an ecstatic celebration of great victory—a series of vows to praise God in the congregation (vv. 22–31).

22:1, 2 With the words My God, My God, David expresses a painful sense of separation from God at a time of great trouble (38:21). t hese words were quoted by Jesus while in agony on the cross (matt. 27:46; mark 15:34).

22:4 Our fathers trusted in You: even in the midst of great pain, David confesses his faith in the God of his fathers. God has been faithful to earlier generations; surely he will continue to be faithful to those who call upon him (see v. 21 for God’s faithful answer).

22:6–8 David’s suffering makes him feel as though he were no longer human—instead he feels like a worm. When David was at his lowest, his enemies ridiculed his faith in the Lord. t hese words also describe the experience of the Savior who endured the verbal abuse of his tormentors (matt. 27:27–31, 39–44).

22:9 You made Me trust: With troubles and taunts swirling around him, David places his trust in the Lord—the o ne he has trusted throughout his whole life. David’s response to difficult circumstances is instructive. instead of doubting God’s goodness, David reaffirms his lifelong faith in the Almighty.

22:11 Be not far from Me: David repeats his original plea (v. 1) for emphasis (vv. 19–21). he cannot endure his suffering without divine support.

22:12–15 David uses striking imagery to describe his distress. he is surrounded by animals—bulls and lions. moreover, David’s distress is so profound that he feels as if his life has been drained from him, as one might empty a jug of water. t hese words become even more poignant when they are applied to the sufferings of Jesus on the cross (see John 19:34). My tongue clings to My jaws: Jesus’ words “i thirst” (John 19:28) expressed the pain of terrible thirst. the dust of death: For David, death would be avoided at this time (as in 16:9, 10). For the Savior, however, there was no reprieve.

22:16 dogs: t his is the third animal portrayal of the psalmist’s enemies (vv. 12, 13). They pierced My hands and My feet explicitly predicts the crucifixion of the Lord Jesus Christ. t he words are merely a figure of speech for the terrifying experiences of David; but as a prophet (Acts 2:30), David spoke accurately of the sufferings of Jesus.

- <sup>a</sup>They<sup>6</sup> pierced My hands and My feet;
 17 I can count all My bones.
<sup>r</sup>They look and stare at Me.
 18 <sup>s</sup>They divide My garments among them,
 And for My clothing they cast lots.

 23 <sup>y</sup>You who fear the LORD, praise Him!
 All you <sup>8</sup>descendants of Jacob, glorify Him,
 And fear Him, all you offspring of Israel!

 Nor has He hidden His face from Him;

PSALM 23

The LORD the Shepherd of His People

A Psalm of David.

- The LORD is <sup>a</sup> my shepherd;
<sup>b</sup> I shall not <sup>1</sup> want.
 2 <sup>c</sup> He makes me to lie down in <sup>2</sup> green pastures;

22:18 t he soldiers at Jesus' crucifixion gambled for his garments, in direct fulfillment of this text (matt. 27:35).

22:19–21 Up to this point, the focus of this psalm has been on the suffering of the psalmist. t he Lord God, who seemed so distant (vv. 1, 11), is now petitioned to draw near, to help, deliver, and save. t he Lord is the only source of strength to help David fight off the attacks of his tormentors. t he use of animal imagery is now given in reverse order: dog, lion, and wild oxen—in contrast to bulls (v. 12), a lion (v. 13), and dogs (v. 16).

22:22–24 n ot only does the psalm describe David's pain and prophetically Jesus' suffering on the cross, it also depicts God's deliverance. t he Lord has answered, and David who has suffered so much promises to sing the praises of the Lord, his Deliverer. Nor has He hidden His face: t he psalm begins with a sense of desperation based on a feeling of separation from God (v. 1). But the psalm ends with praise and gratitude: in reality God is near, he has answered, and he does save. David's hope has not been misplaced.

22:25, 26 David promises to praise the Lord for his miraculous salvation among other believers—in the great assembly at the temple (13:6). t his public proclamation would encourage others to place their trust in the faithful Lord who rescues his people.

22:27–30 All the ends of the world: For David, these words refer to the spread of the news of his deliverance to places far outside of Judah. For the Savior Jesus, these words speak of the eventual spread of the gospel of redemption to all the families of the nations, a fulfillment of God's promise that he would bless all nations through Abraham's descendants (Gen. 12:3). Those who go down to the dust is a common biblical expression for physical death and the resulting decay.

22:31 to a people who will be born: t he gospel message of the death and resurrection of Jesus will spread not only geographically but also throughout all time. All people will hear the clear message of what God has done.

Psalm 23 is a psalm of trust. Within the six verses there is a development of the single theme of the first verse: David has no fear or concern, for the Lord is his Shepherd. t his psalm of trust presents David in two ways. o n the one hand, he is the "sheep" whose Shepherd is the Lord. At the same time, one of the most common descriptions of kingship in the ancient world is that of shepherd. in this sense, David as king was shepherd over the flock of israel. t his means that Ps. 23 is also a royal psalm. even though the word "king" does not appear in it, this psalm is a description of what it means to be a good ruler. moreover, the psalm prophetically speaks of Jesus. he is the Good Shepherd whose flock trusts in him (John 10) and the King whose perfect rule will be established (Luke 23:2, 3; r ev. 17:14). t he psalm has two movements: (1) a description of the Lord as Shepherd caring for the psalmist's every need (vv. 1–4); (2) a description of the Lord as Shepherd extending his mercy to all (vv. 5, 6).

23:1 The LORD is my shepherd: t he word pictures David uses for God come from his own life and experience. he had been a shepherd in his youth (1 Sam. 16:19).

23:2 Any disturbance or intruder scares sheep. t hey are very fearful animals and cannot lie down unless they feel totally secure. green

Shepherds and Sheep

Shepherding and goatherding were among the major occupations of Palestine throughout its history. Sheep and goats were sometimes herded together and sometimes herded separately. either way, the methods were the same. Shepherding had many other occupations that grew up around it, including sheepbreeders, and sheepshearers, who cut the sheep's wool. Ancient shepherds walked in front of their flocks. A flock knew its shepherd's voice and would follow only him. often for protection, flocks were lodged together at night and separated in the morning when the shepherds called their sheep by name. they provided their flocks with water and food. they knew each sheep and lamb. When one was lost, they went out to find it. Small lambs, unable to keep up with the flock, were often carried next to a shepherd's breast inside the fold of his outer garment. the shepherd also protected his flock, risking his life if necessary.

PSALM 24

The King of Glory and His Kingdom

A Psalm of David.

The <sup>a</sup>earth is the LORD's, and all its fullness,
 The world and those who dwell therein.

pastures: David uses eloquent language to express his view of the abundant care God gives to his people. still waters: Sheep are afraid of fast-flowing streams. God's provision of still waters has a soothing effect and calms the sheep.

23:3 He restores my soul: God refreshes his people with his quiet voice and gentle touch. For this reason, the sheep know the Shepherd and are known by him (John 10:14). For His name's sake: the loving actions of the Shepherd proceed from his nature.

23:4 The valley of the shadow of death can refer to any distressing time in our lives. the awareness of our own mortality often comes with sickness, trials, and hardship. But the Lord, our Protector, can lead us through these dark and difficult valleys to eternal life with him. there is no need to fear death's power (1 Cor. 15:25–27). You are with me: the Good Shepherd is with us even in what seem the most difficult and troubling situations. Your rod and Your staff: Ancient shepherds used the rod and staff to rescue, protect, and guide the sheep. thus they become symbols of the Good Shepherd's loving care over his flock. the sheep are not alone, their Shepherd is standing over them, guiding them into safety—just as the Lord stands over us and protects us.

23:5 a table before me: God's provision is so luxurious, it is as though he has prepared a banquet. anoint: typically an honored guest in the ancient middle east was anointed with olive oil that contained perfumes. My cup: God's provision is as abundant as the wine offered to a guest by a generous host. the lavish treatment of the guest is indicative of the loving care of God for his people.

23:6 the use of both goodness and mercy to describe God's loyal love intensifies the meaning of the two words. What is described in v. 5 is God's overabundant mercy—love that is in no way deserved. the hebrew verb follow describes an animal in pursuit. When the Lord is our Shepherd, instead of being stalked by wild beasts we are pursued by the loving care of the Lord. the house of the Lord forever: God's promise for the israelites was not just for the enjoyment of this life in the land of promise (see 6:1–3); it was also for the full enjoyment of the life to come in his blessed presence (16:9–11; 17:15; 49:15).

Psalm 24, a psalm of David, is one of the royal psalms. the psalm describes the Lord's entrance into the holy city. it may have been sung when David brought the ark of the covenant to Jerusalem (2 Sam. 6:15). the psalm is often linked with Ps. 22; 23, for all three psalms speak prophetically of the Lord Jesus. Psalm 24 also has some affinities with Ps. 15, for both ask and answer the question of who is fit to come into the presence of the Lord. the answer in Ps. 15 focuses on a person's righteousness; the answer in Ps. 24 focuses on the King of glory. Psalm 24 should also be read with Ps. 2; 110, which share a focus on the return of the Lord Jesus Christ to establish his kingdom on earth. this psalm has three movements: (1) praise to God the Creator and Sovereign of the world (vv. 1, 2); (2) an inquiry concerning the appropriate approach to the Lord (vv. 3–6); (3) an anticipation of the King of glory (vv. 7–10).

24:1, 2 The earth is the Lord's: the psalmist praises God as Sovereign over all he has created. these words also set the stage for the

A Plea for Deliverance and Forgiveness

A Psalm of David.

- To <sup>a</sup>You, O LORD, I lift up my soul.
<sup>2</sup>O my God, I <sup>b</sup>trust in You;
Let me not be ashamed;
<sup>c</sup>Let not my enemies triumph over me.
- 3 Indeed, let no one who <sup>l</sup>waits on You be ashamed;
Let those be ashamed who deal treacherously without cause.
- 4 <sup>d</sup>Show me Your ways, O LORD;
Teach me Your paths.
- 5 Lead me in Your truth and teach me,
For You are the God of my salvation;
On You I wait all the day.
- 6 Remember, O LORD, <sup>e</sup>Your tender mercies and Your lovingkindnesses,
For they are from of old.
- 7 Do not remember <sup>f</sup>the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions;
<sup>g</sup>According to Your mercy remember me,
For Your goodness' sake, O LORD.
- 8 Good and upright is the LORD;
Therefore He teaches sinners in the way.

question of vv. 3–5: if God is Lord over all, who then may approach him? those who dwell therein: God's rule extends to all people, even those who do not acknowledge his power. founded it upon the seas: Drawing on the language of Gen. 1 in which God calls the dry land to rise from the watery abyss (Gen. 1:2, 9), David describes God's continued control over the waters.

24:3 Who may ascend: As in Ps. 15, those who approach the holy one to worship him in the temple in Jerusalem—His holy place—must approach him in righteousness. This verse highlights the inability of any person except the King of glory to stand before God.

24:4, 5 Clean hands refers to a person's actions; pure heart refers to inner attitude.

24:7 Lift up your heads: The gates of the city seem to sag; the doors appear loose. But they must rouse themselves for the King of glory. One is coming who is worthy to stand in the holy place. As he nears, the gates raise themselves to honor his entry.

24:8 Who is this King: This is praise for the King who is fresh from battle. This is the one who may enter the city, the Lord himself. Only with the coming of Jesus did the meaning of this ancient poem become clear (see matt. 21:1–10; r ev. 19).

24:9, 10 The LORD of hosts: The repetition in these verses is for effect and emphasis. This is praise for the coming King.

Psalm 25 is a psalm of lament. But in the middle of his sorrow, David petitions the Lord to forgive him. Although the psalm contains elements of a lament psalm and a penitential psalm, the mixture of the two forms makes the psalm unique. The psalm is an acrostic, with one poetic line for each successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet. The structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) an introductory appeal that David will not be ashamed before his enemies (vv. 1–3); (2) a call for God to forgive David (vv. 4–7); (3) a focus on the character of God (vv. 8–10); (4) a renewed call for God to forgive David (vv. 11–18); (5) a concluding appeal that David will not be ashamed before his enemies (vv. 19–21); (6) a concluding prayer for Israel (v. 22).

25:1, 2 Let me not be ashamed is the opening and closing appeal of Ps. 25 (v. 20). Shame is the intended end of the enemies of God (35:26), but not of the faithful. who waits: Waiting on the Lord is the equivalent of hoping in him (25:5; 40:1).

25:4–7 Show me is an appeal to God to enter into David's life more directly, to help him become conformed to the character of God (r om. 12:1, 2). sins of my youth: Both the sins of immaturity and the transgressions of adulthood need forgiveness (see 1 John 1:9).

25:8 Good and upright is the Lord: in the midst of David's plea for forgiveness, he praises God by speaking of two of God's characteristics. God must be both good and upright. Because he is both, the Lord extends mercy to repentant believers and at the same time promises not to allow the guilty to go unpunished. God will bring justice to this fallen world.

remember

(Heb. zakar) (25:6, 7; 106:45) Strong's #2142

This Hebrew verb has as its basic meaning "to contemplate" or "to call to mind." When it refers to recalling past ideas or events it is translated remember (Gen. 42:9; num. 11:5). In other passages, it pertains to thinking about the future and is translated dwell on (eccl. 5:20), consider (Lam. 1:9), and mention (Jer. 20:9). The psalmists frequently call on God to remember his people (106:4) or his mercy (25:6, 7). This does not imply that God has forgotten, but instead it is a request that God would take action according to his promises.

PSALM 26

A Prayer for Divine Scrutiny and Redemption

A Psalm of David.

- Vindicate <sup>a</sup> me, O LORD,
For I have <sup>b</sup> walked in my integrity.
<sup>c</sup> I have also trusted in the LORD;
I shall not slip.
- 2 <sup>d</sup> Examine me, O LORD, and <sup>1</sup> prove me;
Try my mind and my heart.
- 3 For Your lovingkindness is before my eyes,
And <sup>e</sup> I have walked in Your truth.
4 I have not <sup>f</sup> sat with idolatrous mortals,
Nor will I go in with hypocrites.
- 5 I have <sup>g</sup> hated the assembly of evildoers,
And will not sit with the wicked.
- 6 I will wash my hands in innocence;
So I will go about Your altar, O LORD,
7 That I may proclaim with the voice of thanksgiving,
And tell of all Your wondrous works.
- 8 LORD, <sup>h</sup> I have loved the habitation of Your house,
And the place <sup>2</sup> where Your glory dwells.
- 9 <sup>i</sup> Do <sup>3</sup> not gather my soul with sinners,
Nor my life with bloodthirsty men,
10 In whose hands is a sinister scheme,
And whose right hand is full of <sup>j</sup> bribes.
- 11 But as for me, I will walk in my integrity;
Redeem me and be merciful to me.
- 12 <sup>k</sup> My foot stands in an even place;
In the congregations I will bless the LORD.

25:11–14 Pardon my iniquity: David returns to the subject of his own sinfulness, summarizing vv. 4–7 as well as expressing his desire for the Lord to teach him. fear Him: those who fear the Lord pay attention to his instructions and thus learn the secrets of God's wisdom (111:10; Prov. 1:7; 3:32).

25:19, 20 Let me not be ashamed is a reprise of the opening verses, with emphasis both on David's enemies (v. 2) and on his continuing stance of waiting in expectant hope (v. 5).

25:22 Redeem Israel: this concluding verse is outside the general acrostic pattern of the psalm. here David petitions the Lord to be compassionate with the nation israel just as he has been with David. t he Lord was not only the personal Savior of David, but also the Savior of all the israelites.

Psalm 26 is a psalm of lament in which there is a protest of innocence (Ps. 17; 35; 43; 69). t he structure of the Psalm is as follows: (1) a prayer for vindication (vv. 1, 2); (2) an assertion of integrity (vv. 3–5); (3) a vow of praise (vv. 6–8); (4) a prayer for discrimination (vv. 9, 10); (5) an assertion of integrity (vv. 11, 12).

26:1, 2 t he hebrew word for vindicate usually means “to judge”; however, here it means “to declare righteous.” my integrity: t his is the prayer of a forgiven sinner who is living in the fear of God but whose life has been plagued by undeserved evil. My mind and my heart refer to the innermost person.

26:3, 4 Your lovingkindness: t he loyal love (13:5) of God is the recurring focus of the Book of Psalms. have not sat: As in the description of righteousness in 1:1, David declares that he has no part with men of wickedness or idolatry. instead he has continually sought the Lord.

26:6–8 go about Your altar: t he heart of this psalm is the desire to worship God in integrity. in this regard, the poem shares the spirit of Ps. 15. where Your glory dwells: t he place where God chose to reveal his glory to his people. t he priests interceded for the people with the required offerings. today “the most holy Place” is in the presence of God, where our Savior pleads our case (see heb. 7:25).

26:9 Do not gather: o n the basis of his protests of integrity (vv. 1, 2), David prays for divine discrimination (4:3). God distinguishes those who have responded to his grace from those who have not.

26:12 As always in the Psalms, praise is a public and vocal action that has its proper place in the congregations of believers.

PSALM 27

An Exuberant Declaration of Faith

A Psalm of David.

The LORD is my <sup>a</sup>light and my salvation;
 Whom shall I fear?
 The <sup>b</sup>LORD is the strength of my life;
 Of whom shall I be afraid?
 2 When the wicked came against me
 To <sup>c</sup>eat <sup>1</sup>up my flesh,
 My enemies and foes,
 They stumbled and fell.
 3 <sup>d</sup>Though an army may encamp
 against me,
 My heart shall not fear;
 Though war may rise against me,
 In this I will be confident.
 4 <sup>e</sup>One thing I have desired of the LORD,
 That will I seek:
 That I may <sup>f</sup>dwell in the house of the LORD
 All the days of my life,
 To behold the <sup>2</sup>beauty of the LORD,
 And to inquire in His temple.
 5 For <sup>g</sup>in the time of trouble
 He shall hide me in His pavilion;
 In the secret place of His tabernacle
 He shall hide me;
 He shall <sup>h</sup>set me high upon a rock.
 6 And now <sup>i</sup>my head shall be <sup>3</sup>lifted up above my enemies all around me;
 Therefore I will offer sacrifices of <sup>4</sup>joy in His tabernacle;
 I will sing, yes, I will sing praises to the LORD.
 7 Hear, O LORD, when I cry with my voice!
 Have mercy also upon me, and
 answer me.
 8 When You said, “Seek My face,”
 My heart said to You, “Your face,
LORD, I will seek.”

Psalm 27, a psalm of trust (Ps. 23), begins with David’s affirmation of the reality of God in his life. The poem presents a strong desire to live in the presence of God and points to the ongoing need for believers to continue to “wait” on the Lord. The psalm has six movements: (1) a determination not to fear enemies because of God’s presence (vv. 1–3); (2) a desire to live in the presence of the Lord (vv. 4, 5); (3) an affirmation of praise in God (v. 6); (4) a prayer for God’s continuing presence (vv. 7–10); (5) a prayer for continuing trust in the midst of a life of stress (vv. 11–13); (6) a word of instruction (v. 14). 27:1, 2 Light indicates deliverance from darkness (Gen. 1:3), which is a biblical symbol of evil. The word salvation combined with the word light means “saving light” (3:8). To eat up my flesh: David pictures his enemies as ravenous beasts who would shred his flesh (10:8–10; 22:12–16).

27:4, 5 The phrase dwell in the house of the Lord expresses David’s desire to be always nearer to God’s presence. The beauty of the Lord speaks of God’s “pleasant nature.” The name naomi in the Book of Ruth is related to the Hebrew word for beauty.

27:6 Sacrifices of joy are praise offerings the believers bring to God to celebrate the blessings He gives them (Heb. 13:15).

27:8–13 Throughout this psalm, seeking the presence of God (his face) was the psalmist’s highest purpose. Enemies might dissuade

- <sup>9</sup> J Do not hide Your face from me;
Do not turn Your servant away in anger;
You have been my help;
Do not leave me nor forsake me,
O God of my salvation.

forsake me,
Then the LORD will take care of me.

because of my enemies.

And such as breathe out violence.

PSALM 29

Praise to God in His Holiness and Majesty

A Psalm of David.

- Give <sup>1</sup> a unto the LORD, O you mighty ones,

the righteous from seeking the presence of the Lord. But the psalmist wants to know God's presence in this life—in the land of the living.

27:14 to wait on the Lord is to demonstrate confident expectation. t the hebrew word for wait may also be translated "hope." t to hope in God is to wait for his timing and his action (40:1; is. 40:31).

Psalm 28, a psalm of lament, is attributed to David. t the psalm includes a prayer against David's enemies and a royal invocation of praise to the Lord. t the psalm has four movements: (1) an appeal to God that he not be silent (vv. 1, 2); (2) a petition to be distinguished from the wicked and their deserved punishment (vv. 3–5); (3) a blessing of the Lord for his work in the psalmist's life (vv. 6, 7); (4) praise for the Lord who delivers his anointed and his people (vv. 8, 9).

28:1, 2 my Rock: For further references to God as a fortress and refuge, see 91:1, 2. Do not be silent: o ne of the ways David senses the distance of God is his "silence" (13:1; 22:1). David might be referring merely to his lack of a sense of intimacy with God (27:4, 5), but it is also possible that he is awaiting a specific word from the Lord through a prophet or a priest. The pit is one of the terms for death in the Psalms (9:17, 18; 16:10; 143:7). As in 6:5, David asks to be rescued from death so that he might live to praise God. lift up my hands: o ne of the standard postures for prayer in the Bible (134:2).

28:3–5 Do not take me away: Again, the psalmist is asking to be delivered from death (6:5). according to their deeds: David pronounces his curse on the wicked, from whom he wishes to be distinguished (4:3). they do not regard: t he language here is similar to that of Paul in r om. 1:18–32. o ne day even the wicked will have to acknowledge God as their Creator and give him the glory he deserves.

28:6, 7 Blessed be the Lord: See 103:1, 2 for a development of this theme. Because the plea of the psalmist has been heard, the last section of the poem is a hymn of praise (138:1).

28:8, 9 t he term His anointed acknowledges God's covenant with David, his promise that he would be David's God and David would be his representative. t his passage became a heritage of the monarchy, a treasure for each godly king in the Davidic line to go back to for strength and encouragement. Shepherd them: As in Ps. 23; 80, the comparison of God with a shepherd is an image of the loving care of a great king (ecl. 12:11). t his image also foreshadows Jesus, the coming King and the Good Shepherd (John 10:11).

Psalm 29 is a worship psalm (see also Ps. 15). But it is also a royal psalm that uses striking language to assert the sovereign reign of the Almighty. David has taken over some of the vocabulary and poetic style of the Canaanites and used it to praise the living God.

- Give unto the LORD glory and strength.
- 2 Give unto the LORD the glory<sup>3</sup> due to His name;
Worship the LORD in<sup>b</sup> the<sup>4</sup> beauty of holiness.
- 3 The voice of the LORD is over the waters;
<sup>c</sup>The God of glory thunders;
The LORD is over many waters.
- 4 The voice of the LORD is powerful;
The voice of the LORD is full of majesty.
- 5 The voice of the LORD breaks<sup>d</sup> the cedars,
Yes, the LORD splinters the cedars of Lebanon.
- 6 <sup>e</sup>He makes them also skip like a calf, Lebanon and<sup>f</sup> Sirion like a young wild ox.
- 7 The voice of the LORD<sup>5</sup> divides the flames of fire.
- 8 The voice of the LORD shakes the wilderness;
The LORD shakes the Wilderness of<sup>g</sup> Kadesh.
- 9 The voice of the LORD makes the<sup>h</sup> deer give birth,
And strips the forests bare;
And in His temple everyone says,
“Glory!”
- 10 The<sup>i</sup> LORD sat enthroned at the Flood,
And<sup>j</sup> the LORD sits as King forever.

PSALM 30

The Blessedness of Answered Prayer

A Psalm. A Song<sup>a</sup> at the dedication of the house of David.

- I will extol You, O LORD, for You have<sup>b</sup> lifted me up,
And have not let my foes<sup>c</sup> rejoice over me.
- 2 O LORD my God, I cried out to You,
And You<sup>d</sup> healed me.
- 3 O LORD,<sup>e</sup> You brought my soul up from the grave;
You have kept me alive,<sup>f</sup> that I should not go down to the pit.
- 4 <sup>f</sup> Sing praise to the LORD, you saints of His,
And give thanks at the remembrance of<sup>2</sup> His holy name.
- 5 For<sup>g</sup> His anger is but for a moment,
<sup>h</sup> His favor is for life;
Weeping may endure for a night,
But<sup>3</sup> joy comes in the morning.
- 6 Now in my prosperity I said,
“I shall never be<sup>4</sup> moved.”
- 7 LORD, by Your favor You have made my mountain stand strong;
<sup>i</sup> You hid Your face, and I was troubled.

As in the case of Ps. 93, the result is both a debunking of Baal and an unusual way of praising the true God of Israel. The psalm has three movements: (1) a call to the angels and all people to acknowledge the supremacy of God (vv. 1, 2); (2) a description of the living God as Lord over storms (vv. 3–9); (3) a blessing from God, who is enthroned as King on high, to his people (vv. 10, 11).

29:1 Give here means “to ascribe.” O you mighty ones means “o sons of gods.” The Hebrew phrase refers to spiritual beings who are in the presence of God. We know these beings to be angels. The Hebrew words are similar to those of Job 1:6, which also describes the angels who are in the presence of God.

29:2 glory due to His name: The call is for the angelic hosts to acknowledge fully the wonder of God. The poets of the Bible delighted in taking the ideas of the Canaanites and then stripping them of their essentials. See the scathing attacks on idolatry in 115:4–8; is. 41:21–29. Here the poet takes a treasured image of Canaanite thought—Baal with other gods bowing before him—and turns it inside out. It is not Baal, but the true God who is worshiped. He is worshiped not by gods who do not even exist, but by his own angels.

29:3 The voice of the LORD: Both the language and the parallelism of this verse directly reflect Canaanite poetry. Baal was believed to be the god of the storm who thundered in the heavens. Here the sound of thunder is a symbol of the voice of God. The phrase “the voice of the LORD” occurs seven times in the passage (vv. 3–9), like rapidly succeeding peals of thunder.

29:5–9 cedars of Lebanon: There is a dramatic energy to these verses as they trace the movement of the storm from the north of Lebanon and Sirion, an ancient name for Mt. Hermon (Deut. 3:9) to Kadesh in the south. Nothing stops the advance of the storm; its effects reach from sea to land, from north to south, from animals to trees. As at the beginning of the psalm, all the angels in the heavenly sanctuary acknowledge the surpassing glory of the omnipotent God.

29:10, 11 As Baal was supposed to have been victorious over the waters, here it is God who is the true victor over all. He even controls the waters at the height of their destructive power, the Flood. There is no one to oppose his glorious rule; he is King forever. The LORD will give strength: Since he is the true God, there is none other. Only he can empower his people.

Psalm 30, a psalm of declarative praise, commemorates a time when God delivered David from mortal illness. The psalm has five movements: (1) a determination to praise the Lord (v. 1); (2) a report of deliverance (vv. 2, 3); (3) a call for others to join in the praise of the Lord (vv. 4, 5); (4) a report of the psalmist’s mortal illness (vv. 6–10); (5) a presentation of the psalmist’s praise to the Lord (vv. 11, 12).

30:1 I will extol You: David begins his song with a strong determination to praise God.

30:2, 3 up from the grave: David is not reporting a resurrection, but a deliverance from a nearly fatal illness. As in 28:1, the psalmist describes death as a great pit into which a person drops into the enveloping darkness of the unknown.

30:4, 5 Possibly David judges his illness to be in some way related to God’s anger in the morning: For a sick person, nothing is so long as a painful, sleepless night; few things are as desired as the coming of morning (5:3; 130:6; 143:8).

The Music of the Psalms

t he Book of Psalms is the hymnal of ancient Israel. t he psalms are ancient lyrics preserved with occasional musical notations. most of these musical notations are found in the superscriptions or titles. For instance, many are directed “to the Chief musician” (Ps. 31). others call for musical accompaniment. For example, Ps. 4 calls for stringed instruments, Ps. 5 for flutes, Ps. 6 for an eight-stringed harp, and Ps. 8 for the instrument of Gath. t he titles sometimes specify the tune to be used, such as “Death of the Son” in Ps. 9 and “t he Lilies” in Ps. 45. in this way the superscriptions contain hints of the musical nature of the psalms. Furthermore the psalms themselves present a balanced picture of the use of music in worship. For example, in Ps. 33 the purpose of godly music is to rejoice in the God who has given new life.

PSALM 31

The LORD a Fortress in Adversity

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

- In <sup>a</sup> You, O LORD, I <sup>1</sup> put my trust;
Let me never be ashamed;
Deliver me in Your righteousness.
2 <sup>b</sup> Bow down Your ear to me,
Deliver me speedily;
Be my rock of <sup>2</sup> refuge,
A <sup>3</sup> fortress of defense to save me.
3 <sup>c</sup> For You are my rock and my fortress;
Therefore, <sup>d</sup> for Your name's sake,
Lead me and guide me.
4 Pull me out of the net which they have secretly laid for me,
For You are my strength.
5 <sup>e</sup> Into Your hand I commit my spirit;
You have redeemed me, O LORD God of <sup>f</sup> truth.
6 I have hated those <sup>g</sup> who regard useless idols;
But I trust in the LORD.
7 I will be glad and rejoice in Your mercy,
For You have considered my trouble;
You have <sup>h</sup> known my soul in <sup>4</sup> adversities, 8 And have not <sup>i</sup> shut <sup>5</sup> me up into the hand of the enemy;
<sup>j</sup> You have set my feet in a wide place.
9 Have mercy on me, O LORD, for I am in trouble;
<sup>k</sup> My eye wastes away with grief,
Yes, my soul and my <sup>6</sup> body!
10 For my life is spent with grief,
And my years with sighing;
My strength fails because of my
iniquity,
And my bones waste away.

30:9, 10 As in 6:5, the psalmist pleads with God to save his life so that he can fulfill his promise to praise God in the worship of the community. t he emphasis is on singing praise to God in this life. Helper can be translated “power” or “strength” (33:20). What a sick person needs is strength for recovery; God is that powerful force. 30:11, 12 mourning into dancing: t he psalmist has been transformed and renewed because of God's blessing on his life. he boasts in God as he fulfills his vow of praise. My glory refers to the psalmist's inner being (16:9).

Psalm 31 is a psalm of lament, but it has such a strong element of trust that it can also be classified as a psalm of trust (see Ps. 23 for an example). t he psalms of trust grow out of the confession of trust that occurs in the psalms of lament. in this psalm, the relationship between the two classifications is apparent. t here are two major sections: (1) the presentation of lament in the context of trust (vv. 1–18); (2) the presentation of praise in the context of lament (vv. 19–24).

31:1–3 t he phrase I put my trust pictures the action of a bird seeking refuge under its mother's wings (11:1; 17:7; 91:1–4). A different word for trust occurs in vv. 6, 14, which has the connotation of leaning on someone or something (Prov. 3:5, 6). t he imagery of God as the rock and fortress for the believer recurs often in the Psalms (91:1–3).

31:5 With the words into Your hand I commit my spirit, David expresses a complete dependence on God—his life is in God's hands to do with as he pleases. t hese words were spoken by Jesus on the cross shortly before his death (Luke 23:46) and by Stephen before his death (Acts 7:59).

31:9–11 I am in trouble are classic words of lament and thus begin the lament section of this psalm. My eye wastes away: David uses similar language in 6:7 to express his sorrow. a reproach: As in the case of Ps. 30, it is possible that what faces the psalmist is a terrible illness—perhaps a physical condition that makes him repulsive to others.

- 11 <sup>l</sup> I am a <sup>7</sup> reproach among all my enemies,
 But <sup>m</sup> especially among my neighbors,
 And am repulsive to my acquaintances;
<sup>n</sup> Those who see me outside flee from me.
- 12 <sup>o</sup> I am forgotten like a dead man, out of mind;
 I am like a <sup>8</sup> broken vessel.
- 13 <sup>p</sup> For I hear the slander of many;
<sup>q</sup> Fear is on every side;
 While they <sup>r</sup> take counsel together against me,
 They scheme to take away my life.
- 14 But as for me, I trust in You, O LORD;
 I say, “You are my God.”
- 15 My times are in Your <sup>s</sup> hand;
 Deliver me from the hand of my enemies,
 And from those who persecute me.
- 16 <sup>t</sup> Make Your face shine upon Your servant;
 Save me for Your mercies’ sake.
- 17 <sup>u</sup> Do not let me be ashamed, O LORD, for I have called upon You;
 Let the wicked be ashamed;
<sup>v</sup> Let them be silent in the grave.
- 18 <sup>w</sup> Let the lying lips be put to silence,
 Which <sup>x</sup> speak insolent things proudly and contemptuously against the righteous.
- 19 <sup>y</sup> Oh, how great is Your goodness,
 Which You have laid up for those who fear You,
 Which You have prepared for those who trust in You
 In the presence of the sons of men!
- 20 <sup>z</sup> You shall hide them in the secret place of Your presence

PSALM 32

The Joy of Forgiveness

A Psalm of David. A <sup>1</sup> Contemplation.

- Blessed is he whose <sup>a</sup> transgression is forgiven, Whose sin is covered.
- 2 Blessed is the man to whom the LORD <sup>b</sup> does not <sup>2</sup> impute iniquity,
 And <sup>c</sup> in whose spirit there is no deceit.
- 3 When I kept silent, my bones grew old
 Through my groaning all the day long.
- 4 For day and night Your <sup>d</sup> hand was heavy upon me;
 My vitality was turned into the drought of summer. Selah

31:15–18 With the words my times are in Your hand, David reaffirms his earlier expression of complete dependence on the Lord (v. 5). David petitions the Lord, who is in complete control of his life, for deliverance. Your face shine: As in 4:6, this expression grows out of the words of the Aaronic benediction in n um. 6:24–26. It is a plea for God to “smile” in favor on David.

31:19–22 t his verse begins the praise section of the psalm. David affirms that the delights of knowing God far outweigh any other kind of pleasure. the secret place: God makes his people safe in the intimacy of his friendship (27:5). I said in my haste: t he psalmist says things in his pain that he would not say under normal circumstances.

31:23, 24 David encourages the community to join him in praising God. o f all the sacrifices offered in the ot period, only the sacrifice of praise continues in n t worship (heb. 13:15). All you who hope in the LORD is a characteristic term of piety in the Bible.

Psalm 32, a wisdom psalm, is also one of the great penitential psalms. It is generally believed that this psalm—like Ps. 51—has its origin in David’s response to God following his infamous affair with Bathsheba (2 Sam. 11). It is one of the marks of the integrity of Scripture that the low points as well as the triumphs of its principal characters are described. t he structure of this psalm is as follows:

(1) a description of blessing (vv. 1, 2); (2) a report of David’s agony before he confessed his sins (vv. 3–5); (3) a lesson to others based on David’s experience with the Lord (vv. 6, 7); (4) an oracle from the Lord on righteous living (vv. 8, 9); (5) concluding praise to the Lord for his mercy (vv. 10, 11).

32:1 Blessed, the word that begins the Book of Psalms (1:1), means “to be happy.” It is appropriate that this term is used of both the righteous person of the first psalm and the confessed sinner in this psalm. sin is covered: t he poet describes God’s dealing with sin in various ways. Sin can be taken away, the basic meaning of the word forgiven, and covered, the basic meaning of atonement.

32:3–5 I kept silent: t he silence was a stubborn resistance to admitting guilt, a hope that in time the sin and its penalty would go away. t he more David delayed his confession, the more he suffered. David realized it was not just his conscience or his feelings that were assaulting him, but the heavy hand of God (38:1, 6–8). n o matter who else is hurt, the principal offense of any sin is always against the Lord. You forgave: t he consequences of David’s sin with Bathsheba remained despite God’s forgiveness (2 Sam. 12:13–20). But at this point, the greater news was God’s forgiveness. God had restored his relationship with David.

- 5 I acknowledged my sin to You,
And my iniquity I have not hidden.
<sup>e</sup>I said, "I will confess my transgressions to the LORD,"
And You forgave the iniquity of my sin. Selah
- 6 <sup>f</sup>For this cause everyone who is godly shall <sup>g</sup>pray to You
In a time when You may be found;
Surely in a flood of great waters
They shall not come near him.
- 7 <sup>h</sup>You are my hiding place;
You shall preserve me from
trouble;
You shall surround me with <sup>i</sup>songs of deliverance. Selah
- 8 I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go;
I will guide you with My eye.
- 9 Do not be like the <sup>j</sup>horse or like the mule,
Which have no understanding,
Which must be harnessed with bit and bridle,
Else they will not come near you.
- 10 <sup>k</sup>Many sorrows shall be to the wicked;
But <sup>l</sup>he who trusts in the LORD,
mercy shall surround him.
- 11 <sup>m</sup>Be glad in the LORD and rejoice, you
righteous;
And shout for joy, all you upright in heart!

The Sovereignty of the LORD in Creation and History

- Rejoice <sup>a</sup> in the LORD, O you
righteous!
 For praise from the upright is beautiful.
- 2 Praise the LORD with the harp; <sup>1</sup> Make melody to Him with an instrument of ten strings.
- 3 Sing to Him a new song;
 Play skillfully with a shout of joy.
- 4 For the word of the LORD is right,
 And all His work is done in truth.
- 5 He loves righteousness and justice;
 The earth is full of the goodness of the LORD.
- 6 <sup>b</sup> By the word of the LORD the heavens were made,
 And all the <sup>c</sup>host of them <sup>d</sup>by the breath of His mouth.
- 7 <sup>e</sup> He gathers the waters of the sea together <sup>2</sup> as a heap;
 He lays up the deep in storehouses.
- 8 Let all the earth fear the LORD;
 Let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of Him.
- 9 For <sup>f</sup>He spoke, and it was done;
 He commanded, and it stood fast.
- 10 <sup>g</sup> The LORD brings the counsel of the nations to nothing;
 He makes the plans of the peoples of no effect.

32:6 who is godly: on the basis of his own experience, David instructs the congregation. t they too can experience forgiveness if they will come to the Lord in faith as David has.

32:7 t he psalm has quick and dramatic shifts. After addressing the congregation, David speaks directly to God: You are my hiding place.

32:8, 9 i will instruct you: t he speaker changes. t he Lord "comes into the psalm" to instruct the people. he exhorts the people not to be like a horse that will not go where its rider wants it to go; it has to be disciplined because it is stubborn. God does not want to muzzle or bridle his people like a horse. he expects his servants to respond promptly to him of their own accord.

32:10, 11 t he psalmist resumes his song by contrasting the many sorrows of the wicked with the joy of the forgiven sinner. he then calls for all the righteous to join him in public praise of the wonder of God's mercy.

Psalm 33, a psalm of descriptive praise, calls for all people to join israel's faithful in praising God and waiting on (trusting in) the Lord. t his is one of the few anonymous psalms in Book i (see also Ps. 1; 2; 10). t he structure is as follows: (1) a call for the righteous to praise God, in view of his righteous acts in creation (vv. 1–7); (2) a call for the nations to praise God, in view of his sovereign work in creation (vv. 8–12); (3) a call for the people to praise God, in view of his care of creation (vv. 13–19); (4) a concluding affirmation of confidence in God (vv. 20–22).

33:1–3 God sees the praise from believers as beautiful (147:1). harp: t hroughout the Psalms, many instruments are employed to praise the name of the Lord (98:5; 150:3–5). to Him: Praise is always directed to one who deserves all praise, the Lord Almighty. 33:4, 5 Although the world is filled with evil and with people who have no thought of God (Ps. 14), believers must look beyond the apparent confusion of the world to see God's goodness—the goodness that manifests itself every time the sun rises, a bird sings, and a mother lovingly embraces her child. o ut of his goodness, God holds together the earth and provides for the sustenance of all people. o ne day God's goodness will prevail over all evil (98:2). 33:6, 7 t he reference to God's control of the waters of the sea has a twofold origin (24:2; 93:3, 4). it grows out of the creation story in Gen. 1, in which God brings dry land from the waters and establishes his place for the waters that remain (Gen. 1:6–10). t he idea also grows out of Canaanite religious ideas, for the Canaanites considered the seas as malevolent deities. But the Lord alone is God. n o power—no matter how evil—is a threat to his control (Job 26:10; Prov. 8:28, 29).

33:8, 9 t he Bible presents the fear of the Lord as a mark of reverence and awe on the part of those who recognize him as Lord (40:3). He spoke: t he account of creation in Gen. 1 describes God's word as the sole source of creation. t his psalm emphasizes God's word as the controlling element in creation (vv. 4, 6). it was by God's "breath" (v. 6) that he made all things.

33:10–12 in contrast to the ineffective counsel of the nations, the counsel of God is wise counsel that lasts forever. Blessed means to be most happily happy; the same word is used at the beginning of Ps. 1. t hose who listen to God's counsel will be happy.

- 11 <sup>h</sup> The counsel of the LORD stands forever,
The plans of His heart to all generations.
- 12 Blessed is the nation whose God is the LORD,
The people He has <sup>i</sup> chosen as His own inheritance.
- 13 <sup>j</sup> The LORD looks from heaven;
He sees all the sons of men.
- 14 From the place of His dwelling He looks
On all the inhabitants of the earth;
15 He fashions their hearts individually;
<sup>k</sup> He <sup>3</sup> considers all their works.
- 16 <sup>l</sup> No king is saved by the multitude of an army;
A mighty man is not delivered by great strength.
- 17 <sup>m</sup> A horse is a <sup>4</sup> vain hope for safety;
Neither shall it deliver any by its great strength.

PSALM 34

The Happiness of Those Who Trust in God

A Psalm of David <sup>a</sup> when he pretended madness before Abimelech, who drove him away, and he departed.

I will <sup>b</sup> bless the LORD at all times;
His praise shall continually be in my mouth.

33:13–15 The LORD looks on humankind with a sense of discriminating pleasure. t he emphasis of this section is not condemnation, but discrimination.

33:16, 17 army: People should not rely on physical strength or material resources to save them. Salvation belongs to the Lord (3:8), both for spiritual deliverance and for physical strength.

33:18, 19 eye of the LORD: t his is a particularly warm image of God's care for his people. God watches all people, but he looks with delight on those who fear Him and hope in His mercy (147:11).

33:20–22 waits: to wait on God is to adopt a stance of resolute faith (40:1). Just as we hope: t he psalm concludes with a phrase similar to "Amen." t his is a "yes" to God's mercy, a statement of agreement with his provisions.

Psalm 34 is a wisdom psalm and a psalm of praise. it is written in the form of an acrostic, with one verse for each letter of the hebrew alphabet. o ne verse appears to have dropped out at some point; there is no verse for the hebrew letter waw, that would otherwise appear after v. 5. t he title of the psalm ascribes it to David and specifies that it was written to commemorate his escape from Abimelech the king of Gath (1 Sam. 21:10–15). t he name of the king in 1 Sam. 21 is Achish. it is believed that Abimelech was a throne name and Achish a personal name. t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a call for the congregation to join the psalmist in praise (vv. 1–3); (2) a declaration concerning the psalmist's deliverance from trouble (vv. 4–7); (3) instruction about the fear of the Lord (vv. 8–14); (4) a declaration of praise to the Lord (vv. 15–22).

34:1–3 at all times: t he determination of David to praise God is similar to the words of Paul in 1 t hess. 5:18. Exalt His name together is David's call for the congregation to join him in his praise of God.

Psalms on Creation

t he poets of the old testament loved to describe the natural world. Like all people in that ancient time, they lived closer to nature than do most of us. t hey enjoyed nature's beautiful and fascinating manifestations. t hey observed the ways of birds and badgers, the flowing rivers, and the pulsing of the waves. in this respect the biblical poets have much in common with many other poets throughout history.

But in two important ways the biblical poets were different from their neighbors in the ancient middle east. First, they resisted the temptation to deify nature. t heir neighbors did not merely rhapsodize about birds and trees, hills and seas—they worshiped them. t he biblical poets learned to do something truly new. namely, they loved nature but did not bow to it. t hey enjoyed nature but did not worship it.

t he second distinctive of the biblical poets was their identification of "nature." For them, nature was always "creation." t he word nature does not itself deify the world, but it still implies that the world has its own sense of being, its own power, and its own dynamic. o n the other hand, the word creation is a term of faith. it expresses the belief that everything that exists is made by God. All the beauty and splendor of the universe comes from God's creative hands.

in some ways, the modern emphasis on "mother earth" is simply a revival of the goddess cults of the ancient middle east. however, the authors of the creation psalms have the right perspective. We can express our enjoyment of creation without worshipping it. We can love the earth because we first love its Creator. We can rejoice in the marvels of nature—the sparkling waterfall and the soaring eagle—because we know they are the handiwork of God. Any efforts to "save" the earth should arise from our worship of its Creator and our knowledge that we are called to responsible stewardship because everything God created is a gift from him.

PSALM 35

The LORD the Avenger of His People

A Psalm of David.

Plead <sup>1</sup> my cause, O LORD, with those who strive with me;
Fight against those who fight against me.

34:4–7 He heard me is a classic statement of praise in the psalms. God is praised for the deliverance he provides in response to the prayers of his people (40:1). were radiant: those who came to God in prayer as David did found themselves transformed; it was as if they also experienced what Moses had on Mt. Sinai (ex. 34:29; 2 Cor. 3:18). Poor man refers to the needy as well as the humble, whom the Lord delights to deliver (147:6). The phrase the angel of the LORD and the name of God are often interchanged. With the sense of God surrounding or hovering over the believer in this manner, there is no need to fear—even in the most desperate times.

34:8, 9 the center of biblical mission in the OT is found in the words taste and see. The task of Israel was to attract the nations to their God. For their faithfulness to him, God had promised to bless them abundantly, and when the nations saw this blessing they would see that the living God was with them. In the midst of a world of gods who were not good at all, there was one living God, and he was altogether good (100:5). Fear is a call to awe, wonder, worship, and reverence (Prov. 1:7). To fear God is to respond to him in piety and obedience.

34:10 People who live by their wits may eat as infrequently as young lions. shall not lack: As is true of 23:1, this is not a categorical statement. Time after time, however, the believer is able to attest to the ways God has met needs.

34:11–14 Come, you children: David took on the role of a wisdom teacher addressing the young people who are in his charge (Prov. 3:1–12). Depart from evil: The same sentiment is found in 37:27.

34:15, 16 in this context, the eyes of the LORD symbolize his care and protection.

34:17–19 the LORD hears: With slight variations, this is a reprise of v. 6. The LORD is near: When the Scriptures speak of God being near, it is to comfort the believer with a sense of his care.

34:20 guards all his bones: This verse, which speaks of the Lord's preservation of the righteous, notes that not a bone is broken. John 19:33–36 shows that the words of this verse were fulfilled in detail in the death of Jesus. Despite the terrible suffering the Savior endured, none of his bones were broken. When the Roman soldiers came to break Jesus' legs to hasten his death, they found that he had already died.

34:22 This verse is outside the acrostic pattern; it summarizes the psalm, giving appropriate praise to the Lord who saves those who put their faith in him (see 1 Tim. 4:10).

Psalm 35 is a psalm of lament and a protest of innocence (Ps. 17; 26; 43; 69). Like Ps. 94, this poem by David places an unusual emphasis on the role of his enemies. Sometimes it is called an imprecatory psalm. The structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) an appeal to God the Warrior and Judge to plead the psalmist's cause (vv. 1–3); (2) a series of petitions for God to dishonor his enemies, deliver his servant, and glorify himself (vv. 4–10); (3) a second series of

- 2 Take hold of shield and <sup>2</sup>buckler,
And stand up for my help.
- 3 Also draw out the spear,
And stop those who pursue me.
Say to my soul,
“I am your salvation.”
- 4 “Let those be put to shame and brought to dishonor
Who seek after my life;
Let those be <sup>b</sup>turned back and brought to confusion
Who plot my hurt.
- 5 <sup>c</sup>Let them be like chaff before the wind,
And let the <sup>3</sup>angel of the LORD chase
them.
- 6 Let their way be <sup>d</sup>dark and slippery,
And let the angel of the LORD pursue
them.
- 7 For without cause they have <sup>e</sup>hidden their net for me in a pit,
Which they have dug without cause for my life.
- 8 <sup>4</sup>Let <sup>d</sup>destruction come upon him unexpectedly,
And let his net that he has hidden catch himself;
Into that very destruction let him fall.
- 9 And my soul shall be joyful in the LORD;
It shall rejoice in His salvation.
- 10 <sup>g</sup>All my bones shall say,
“LORD, <sup>h</sup>who is like You, Delivering the poor from him who is too strong for him,
Yes, the poor and the needy from him who plunders him?”
- 11 Fierce witnesses rise up;
They ask me things that I do not know.
- 12 <sup>i</sup>They reward me evil for good,
To the sorrow of my soul.
- 13 But as for me, <sup>j</sup>when they were sick,
My clothing was sackcloth;
I humbled myself with fasting;
And my prayer would return to my own <sup>5</sup>heart.

petitions and promises (vv. 11–18); (4) a third series of petitions and promises (vv. 19–28).

35:1–3 Plead my cause is the classic protest of innocence (Ps. 17; 26; 43; 69). David has been wrongly attacked, so he prays that God will deliver him from these assaults (see Ps. 94). stand up for my help: David is not afraid to ask God to take up arms like a soldier and fight for him. t he psalmist does not shrink from asking the Lord to comfort him by saying the words I am your salvation. All these demands demonstrated David's complete dependence on the Lord. 35:4–7 David's first petition calls for shame on his enemies (v. 26). t his is not just a call to embarrass them; it is a call for final judgment. in this instance, the angel of the Lord is a scourge (contrast 34:7). without cause: here is the heart of David's position: he has not done anything to cause this evil attack upon himself.

35:9, 10 t hese two verses are the first prayer of confidence in this psalm (vv. 17, 27). All my bones refers to the inner being, the total person. who is like You: t here is nothing in all the universe to be compared with God.

35:11–15 t he psalmist begins his second cycle of petition with reference to treacherous witnesses, like the false witnesses in the story of Jezebel and naboth in 1 Kin. 21. t he actions of these witnesses are even more shameful because they had received the help of the psalmist in their own times of need. they rejoiced: t he ferocity of these witnesses is appalling. t he psalmist finds that they are like animals in the way they treat him, rejoicing that troubles have come upon him.

- And I did not know it;
They tore at me and did not cease;
16 With ungodly mockers at feasts

PSALM 36

Man's Wickedness and God's Perfections

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David the servant of the LORD.

An oracle within my heart concerning the transgression of the wicked:

- <sup>a</sup>There is no fear of God before his eyes.
- 2 For he flatters himself in his own
eyes,
When he finds out his iniquity and when he hates.
- 3 The words of his mouth are wickedness and deceit;
<sup>b</sup>He has ceased to be wise and to do good.
- 4 <sup>c</sup>He devises wickedness on his bed;
He sets himself <sup>d</sup>in a way that is not good;
He does not <sup>i</sup>abhor <sup>e</sup>evil.

35:18 give You thanks: t his is the second of the vows of praise that follow each cycle of petition in this psalm (vv. 9, 10, 27, 28). t he hebrew word for thanks means “to make public acknowledgment,” to praise God in the community (122:4; 136:1).

35:19–21 t he enemies would rejoice if someone like David fell, who had trusted in the Lord. hate me without a cause: Again, David asserts his innocence (v. 7). t he fact that he is hated for no cause is baffling and discouraging. t he passage also predicts the suffering of the Savior Jesus (John 15:23–25). peace: Far more than simply an absence of war, the biblical peace has the idea of wholeness, things as they ought to be. n ote that the contrasting opposite here is not war, but deceit. Aha, aha: t hese contemptuous sneers are similar to the assaults in 22:7.

35:22–25 You have seen: t he wicked were not the only ones who have seen David’s grave distress (v. 21); God has also seen his pain. Stir up Yourself: t he people of israel know that God, unlike the false gods (1 Kin. 18:27), never sleeps (121:4; is. 40:28). Yet for David, it seems as though God is napping (44:23).

35:26–28 t he phrase be ashamed refers not to simple embarrassment, but to the revelation of the complete emptiness of wickedness before the judgment seat of God (14:5; 31:17; 36:12). Who favor: o nly here do we learn that David has defenders: those who are on his side will share his joy when he is saved.

Psalm 36 is a wisdom psalm that gives a revelation of the nature of sin and an exaltation of God’s unfailing love (see also Ps. 14; 53). t he structure is as follows: (1) a revelation of the nature of sin (vv. 1–4); (2) praises to God, centering on his loyal love (vv. 5–9); (3) a prayer for God to continue his loyal love to his people even in the context of his final judgment (vv. 10–12).

36:1–4 t he term oracle was used by the prophets of the ot to mean a divine utterance. in mic. 4:6 the same hebrew word is translated “says the LORD.” in this psalm, David “the prophet” (Acts 2:30) has received a prophetic revelation as striking as any among the sons of the prophets. he has received divine insight into the nature of wickedness. no fear of God: Underlying wickedness is a complete disregard for the reality of God in a person’s life and in the world. t he word translated fear in this psalm is the same word used for “terror” at the final judgment (14:5). flatters himself: With no sense of God or of final judgment, the wicked become egotistical. words of his mouth: t he theme of the wicked mouth is developed in Ps. 12. ceased to be wise: t he wisdom that the psalmist observes here is the practical outworking of the skill of sound living. Wickedness is crookedness and perversity.

- 5 Your mercy, O LORD, is in the heavens;
Your faithfulness reaches to the clouds.
- 6 Your righteousness is like the <sup>2</sup>great
mountains;
*f*Your judgments are a great deep;
O LORD, You preserve man and beast.
- 7 How precious is Your lovingkindness,
O God!
Therefore the children of men <sup>g</sup>put their trust under the shadow of Your wings.
- 8 <sup>h</sup>They are abundantly satisfied with the fullness of Your house,
And You give them drink from <sup>i</sup>the river of Your pleasures.
- 9 <sup>j</sup>For with You is the fountain of life;
<sup>k</sup>In Your light we see light.
- 10 Oh, continue Your lovingkindness to those who know You,
And Your righteousness to the upright in heart.
- 11 Let not the foot of pride come
against me,
And let not the hand of the wicked drive me away.
- 12 There the workers of iniquity have fallen;
They have been cast down and are not able to rise.

Trust also in Him,
And He shall bring it to pass.
- 6 <sup>f</sup> He shall bring forth your righteousness as the light,
And your justice as the noonday.
- 7 Rest in the LORD, <sup>g</sup> and wait patiently for Him;
Do not fret because of him who <sup>h</sup> prospers in his way, Because of the man who brings wicked schemes to pass.
- 8 <sup>i</sup> Cease from anger, and forsake wrath;
<sup>j</sup> Do not fret—it only causes harm.
- 9 For evildoers shall be <sup>2</sup> cut off;
But those who wait on the LORD,
They shall <sup>k</sup> inherit the earth.
- 10 For <sup>l</sup> yet a little while and the wicked
shall be no more;
Indeed, you will look carefully for his place,
But it shall be no more.
- 11 <sup>n</sup> But the meek shall inherit the earth,
And shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace.
- 12 The wicked plots against the just,

36:5, 6 t he contrast of these verses with the previous ones is extreme. Just as the revelation of depravity in vv. 1–4 is awful, the revelation of the Lord’s love is even more wonderful. great mountains . . . great deep: t he contrasts continue with David ranging from the highest mountains to the depths of the sea to describe the perfect character of God. t he height of the great mountains can be compared to how great God’s righteousness is; the depth of the seas can be compared with how mysterious and inaccessible God’s true judgments are. t he word deep is also used in Gen. 1:2. 36:7–9 their trust: Because of God’s nature, righteous men and women come to him like nestlings seeking shelter under the wings of the mother bird (7:1; 11:1; 16:1; 31:1). Although the wicked are never satisfied (Prov. 27:20), the one who trusts in the Lord can find ample satisfaction. fountain of life: God’s salvation and continuing mercy to his people are often described in terms of life-giving water (Is. 12:3; Jer. 2:13).

36:10–12 continue: o n the basis of two of the revelations this psalm presents—the nature of the wicked (vv. 1–4) and the nature of God’s loyal love (vv. 5–9)—David prays that God’s loyal love will continue in the lives of his people. There the workers of iniquity have fallen: t his is the third revelation in this psalm. David is given a glimpse of the horror of divine judgment on the wicked. in effect, the psalmist “sees” the judgment scene and shudders.

Psalm 37 is a wisdom psalm written as an acrostic. its simple message is to maintain patience in the midst of troubles. God’s people can have such patience because they know that their eternal reward will abundantly surpass any temporal troubles. t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) the need for patience in light of the apparent success of the wicked (vv. 1–11); (2) the need for patience in light of the final judgment of the wicked (vv. 12–22); (3) encouragement for the righteous in view of the role of the wicked (vv. 23–33); (4) a renewed call for patience in view of the apparent success of the wicked (vv. 34–40).

37:1–4 Do not fret is the theme of this psalm. When the wicked seem to prosper, the psalmist calls for patience, a renewed sense of dependence on the Lord, and a new sense of pleasure in knowing him. the desires of your heart: When the righteous have desires that spring from the Lord, the Lord will surely fulfill those desires. 37:5 to commit your way means “to roll it over on” the Lord. What a splendid picture of trusting in him.

37:7, 8 Rest . . . wait patiently: t hese commands reemphasize the major point of the psalm, “do not fret” (v. 1). t his is not a call to be inactive, but to depend actively on the living Lord. t he psalm gives us a commandment to cease from worry.

37:9–11 t he wicked sometimes appear to prosper; but constantly throughout this psalm the writer reminds his listeners that they will be cut off, yet a little while: From God’s vantage point, the flourishing of the wicked is short (eccl. 3:16, 17). the meek shall

13 <sup>p</sup> The Lord laughs at him,
For He sees that <sup>q</sup> his day is coming.

14 The wicked have drawn the sword
And have bent their bow,
To cast down the poor and needy,
To slay those who are of upright conduct.

15 Their sword shall enter their own heart,
And their bows shall be broken.

16 <sup>r</sup> A little that a righteous man has
Is better than the riches of many wicked.

17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken,
But the LORD upholds the righteous.

18 The LORD knows the days of the upright,
And their inheritance shall be forever.

19 They shall not be ashamed in the evil time,
And in the days of famine they shall be satisfied.

20 But the wicked shall perish;
And the enemies of the LORD,
Like the splendor of the meadows, shall vanish.
Into smoke they shall vanish away.

21 The wicked borrows and does not repay,
But <sup>s</sup> the righteous shows mercy and gives.

22 <sup>t</sup> For those blessed by Him shall inherit the earth,

25 I have been young, and now am old;
Yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken,
Nor his descendants begging bread.

26 <sup>w</sup> He is <sup>5</sup> ever merciful, and lends;
And his descendants are blessed.

27 Depart from evil, and do good;
And dwell forevermore.

28 For the LORD loves justice,
And does not forsake His saints;
They are preserved forever,
But the descendants of the wicked shall be cut off.

29 <sup>x</sup> The righteous shall inherit the land,
And dwell in it forever.

30 <sup>y</sup> The mouth of the righteous speaks wisdom,
And his tongue talks of justice.

31 The law of his God is in his heart;
None of his steps shall <sup>6</sup> slide.

32 The wicked <sup>z</sup> watches the righteous,
And seeks to slay him.

33 The LORD <sup>a</sup> will not leave him in his hand,
Nor condemn him when he is judged.

34 <sup>b</sup> Wait on the LORD,
And keep His way,
And He shall exalt you to inherit the land;
When the wicked are cut off, you shall see it.

35 I have seen the wicked in great power,
And spreading himself like a native green tree.

33 <sup>a</sup> Ps. 31:8; [2 Pet. 2:9]
34 <sup>b</sup> Ps. 27:14; 37:9

inherit the earth: Jesus quoted these words in Matt. 5:5, confirming the OT and showing the importance of the Psalms in his life.

37:13 The Lord laughs: These words recall the scornful laughter in 2:4. What sheer horror for the wicked to hear God's laughter directed against them! Contrast this laughter with the delight that the Lord finds in the ways of the righteous (see v. 23).

37:18 the phrase the LORD knows the days of the upright has several meanings: (1) God knows our circumstances and provides for us; (2) God knows how long we will live and will sustain us to the end (90:12); (3) God knows that our days on earth are only the beginning of our days with him in eternity.

37:21 the righteous shows mercy: There are many contrasts between the wicked and the righteous in the wisdom psalms; this one is based on contrasting attitudes toward possessions (15:5; 112:5). Of all the things on earth that God has created, only one will last—people. All material things will pass away (2 Pet. 3:10–12).

37:24 upholds him: The righteous know that when they fall, they are never left lying there; when they stumble, they are never completely forsaken.

37:25 begging bread: These words may be viewed from two perspectives: (1) the hunger of the righteous is temporary and will be replaced by fullness in the days to come; and (2) there is a hunger that the righteous never need to suffer: they are never deprived of the Lord's presence (see John 6:35). Perhaps this is also a call to help the righteous when they do suffer hunger in this world.

37:27–29 the same command to depart from evil is found in 34:14. In this life people must choose either to cling to God and righteousness, or to pursue evil. The way of God leads to everlasting life. The LORD loves justice: Because God stands opposed to injustice, to support injustice is to become his enemy. God's people ought to love the things that he loves and detest the things that he hates.

37:31 in his heart: At numerous places in the Psalms, the poet declares his love for God's law and his effort to make it integral to his life (1:2; 19:7–11; 119:1–176).

37:34, 35 to wait on the LORD is an act of faith; not to wait on him is foolishness. like a native green tree: David admits that the wicked might prosper, but he also affirms that they will not enjoy success forever.

36 Yet <sup>7</sup>he passed away, and behold, he was no more;
Indeed I sought him, but he could not be found.

37 Mark the blameless man, and observe the upright;
For the future of that man is peace.

38 <sup>c</sup>But the transgressors shall be destroyed together;
The future of the wicked shall be cut off.

39 But the salvation of the righteous is from the LORD;
He is their strength <sup>d</sup>in the time of trouble.

40 And <sup>e</sup>the LORD shall help them and deliver them;
He shall deliver them from the wicked,
And save them,
<sup>f</sup>Because they trust in Him.

Prayer in Time of Chastening

A Psalm of David. <sup>a</sup>To bring to remembrance.

O LORD, do not <sup>b</sup>rebuke me in Your
wrath,
Nor chasten me in Your hot
displeasure!
2 For Your arrows pierce me deeply,
And Your hand presses me down.
3 There is no soundness in my flesh
Because of Your anger,
Nor any health in my bones
Because of my sin.
4 For my iniquities have gone over my head;
Like a heavy burden they are too heavy for me.

title <sup>a</sup>Ps. 70:title
1 <sup>b</sup>Ps. 6:1

5 My wounds are foul and festering
Because of my foolishness.

6 I am <sup>1</sup>troubled, I am bowed down greatly;
I go mourning all the day long.

7 For my loins are full of inflammation,
And there is no soundness in my flesh.

8 I am feeble and severely broken;
I groan because of the turmoil of my heart.

9 Lord, all my desire is before You;
And my sighing is not hidden from
You.

10 My heart pants, my strength fails me;
As for the light of my eyes, it also has gone from me.

11 My loved ones and my friends <sup>c</sup>stand aloof from my plague,
And my relatives stand afar
off.

12 Those also who seek my life lay snares for me;
Those who seek my hurt speak of destruction,
And plan deception all the day long.

13 But I, like a deaf man, do not hear;
And I am like a mute who does not open his mouth.

14 Thus I am like a man who does not hear,
And in whose mouth is no response.

15 For <sup>2</sup>in You, O LORD, <sup>d</sup>I hope;
You will <sup>3</sup>hear, O Lord my God.

16 For I said, "Hear me, lest they rejoice over me,
Lest, when my foot slips, they exalt themselves against me."

15 <sup>d</sup>[Ps. 39:7]
<sup>2</sup>I wait for You,
O LORD <sup>3</sup>answer

37:37 in this context peace suggests "everything as it ought to be." t he destiny of the righteous is in sharp contrast to the fate of the wicked (1:4-6).

37:39, 40 salvation: t he principal issue here is not regeneration but sanctification—the daily deliverance of God's people from temptation and evil. they trust: t he psalm concludes with the righteous trusting God, like chicks running to the wings of their mother (17:8; 36:7).

Psalm 38 is a psalm of lament, specifically a penitential psalm. in it, David pleads earnestly for the mercy of God even when he senses God's discipline. t he structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) a plea to God to stop rebuking (vv. 1-5); (2) a description of David's suffering (vv. 6-8); (3) a second plea based on the actions of David's friends and foes (vv. 9-12); (4) a commitment by David to trust solely in the Lord even in the time of his anger (vv. 13-16); (5) a third plea for deliverance based on David's weakening condition (vv. 17-20); (6) a concluding plea based on David's certainty that there is salvation in the Lord alone (vv. 21, 22).

38:1-4 As in 6:1, David has two concerns. h is first concern is the painful distress he feels during the time of God's discipline on his life (32:4). David's second concern is that God might be placing his heavy hand on him in wrath, as he does on the wicked (37:22). my iniquities have gone over my head: David uses expressive language to describe his loss of control: he cannot free himself from the burden of sin (69:5). t his is similar to Paul speaking of himself as the "chief" of sinners (1 t im. 1:15).

38:6 I am troubled: David feels he is carrying an immense load. in this case, the heavy load is guilt.

38:9-12 light of my eyes: As in 13:3, David complains that he is about to lose his vision: probably he means that an oppression like death seems about to overcome him. My loved ones: David expresses sorrow because even those closest to him are leaving him. See Job's similar experience in Job 2:9, 10.

38:13 David is determined, even in the gravest suffering, not to present an opportunity for his enemies to condemn the name of the Lord. in this, David's silence foreshadows the silence of the Savior Jesus before his accusers (see mark 14:61).

- 17 <sup>c</sup>For I am ready to fall,
And my sorrow is continually
before me.
- 18 For I will <sup>f</sup>declare my iniquity;
I will be <sup>g</sup>in <sup>4</sup>anguish over my sin.
- 19 But my enemies are vigorous, and they are strong;
And those who hate me wrongfully have multiplied.
- 20 Those also <sup>h</sup>who render evil for good,
They are my adversaries, because I follow what is good.
- 21 Do not forsake me, O LORD;
O my God, <sup>i</sup>be not far from me!
- 22 Make haste to help me,
O Lord, my salvation!

And give ear to my cry;
Do not be silent at my tears;
For I am a stranger with You,
A sojourner, <sup>k</sup>as all my fathers were.

38:18 I will declare: David’s silence is only before his enemies (vv. 13–16); to the Lord he willingly confesses his sins. he expects that the merciful God will forgive and restore him (Ps. 32).

38:21 be not far from me: these words echo the sentiment of 22:1. All that is left for David is to trust in God. in that sense, David was in the right place, for confidence in any person or thing other than God himself is misplaced trust.

hope

(heb. yachal) (38:15; 130:5, 7; 131:3; Lam. 3:21–24) Strong’s #3176

t his hebrew word signifies “to wait with expectation.” Almost half of its occurrences are in the Psalms, and it is especially frequent in Ps. 119. Sometimes the idea of hope is expressed with confidence (Job 13:15; is. 51:5), and sometimes hope is clearly in vain (ezek. 13:6). t the Bible describes noah as waiting for seven days to send out the dove (Gen. 8:12) and men as waiting to hear the counsel of Job (Job 29:21); but by far the main object of “expectant waiting” or “hope” is God, his word, his judgment, and his mercy (33:18; 119:43; mic. 7:7). t hat hope is not misplaced, for the one in whom we hope is completely faithful to his promises (see heb. 10:23).

Psalm 39 is a wisdom psalm in the form of a psalm of individual lament. t he title indicates that this is a psalm of David composed for Jeduthun. Psalm 39 is unusual in many respects. it speaks of a determination to be silent against foes, whereas most psalms speak boldly against enemies. moreover, it ends with a request that God leave the psalmist alone, a stance that is remarkably like sections of the Book of Job. t he structure of the poem is in four movements: (1) a determination by the psalmist to be silent before his foes (vv. 1–3); (2) a petition to God for help in view of the brevity of life (vv. 4–6); (3) a petition for forgiveness and deliverance (vv. 7–11); (4) a petition for God to leave him alone (vv. 12, 13).

39:1 will restrain my mouth: David determines to be silent in suffering so that he will not speak out foolishly. See 32:3 for another reason to be silent.

39:4, 5 Make me to know my end is an appeal to God to deliver the psalmist before his life passes him by (90:7–12). Vapor refers to something that passes quickly, not something that has no meaning.

39:7, 8 My hope is in You: David knows that his only chance of deliverance is in God. But he also believes that his trouble has come from God. he is in a quandary. Should he ask for God’s help or should he ask God to leave him alone? Unlike most of the psalms of lament, there is noticeable difficulty in moving into a posture of praise. my transgressions: David acknowledges his sin and throws himself on the mercy of the Lord (Ps. 32).

39:12, 13 Hear my prayer: David has been silent for a period of his distress (vv. 2, 9) but can remain silent no longer. here he cries for God not to be silent, but to deliver him. Remove Your gaze:

13 <sup>l</sup> Remove Your gaze from me, that I may regain strength,
Before I go away and <sup>m</sup> am no more.”

O LORD, You Yourself know.
10 <sup>m</sup> I have not hidden Your righteousness within my heart;
I have declared Your faithfulness and
Your salvation;
I have not concealed Your lovingkindness and Your truth
From the great assembly.
11 Do not withhold Your tender mercies from me, O LORD;
<sup>n</sup> Let Your lovingkindness and Your truth continually preserve me.
12 For innumerable evils have surrounded me;
<sup>o</sup> My iniquities have overtaken me, so that I am not able to look up;
They are more than the hairs of my
head;
Therefore my heart fails me.
13 <sup>p</sup> Be pleased, O LORD, to deliver me;
O LORD, make haste to help me!
14 <sup>q</sup> Let them be ashamed and brought to mutual confusion
Who seek to destroy my <sup>r</sup> life;
Let them be driven backward and brought to dishonor
Who wish me evil.

if God is not going to deliver him, the despondent psalmist asks God to just leave him alone. it is rare outside the Book of Job to find language such as this (Job 7:19; 10:20, 21; 14:6). Sometimes the pain of the psalmist was so far from being resolved at the time when he composed his poem that he remained on the edge of despair to the last verse. Yet the fact that God saves those who call upon him is described again and again in the Book of Psalms (22:21; 118:21)

Psalm 40 is a psalm of declarative praise that moves into a psalm of lament. t his psalm is a remarkable example of how troubles and difficulties forced David to depend continually on the Lord. t he structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) a report of deliverance (vv. 1–3); (2) instruction to the people to commit their lives to the Lord (vv. 4, 5); (3) a confession about worship (vv. 6–8); (4) a report to God of the fulfillment of the vow of praise (vv. 9, 10); (5) a renewed lament (vv. 11, 12); (6) a set of petitions for deliverance (vv. 13–15); (7) continuing praise in the midst of trouble (vv. 16, 17).

40:1 t he hebrew translated I waited patiently is literally “waiting i waited.” t he emphasis of this phrase is not really on patience, but on the fact that David waited solely on the Lord. t he verb “to wait” expresses a confident trust or faith in the Lord (130:5). David knows that salvation comes only from the Almighty (3:8). t he words He inclined to me present the image of the Creator of the universe, the King of heaven, stooping from his throne to save the helpless.

40:2, 3 horrible pit: David writes this poem during a period of terrible stress; he feels as if he is stuck in a pit or swamp. n o matter how hard he tries, he cannot get out. But David turns his frustration over to the Lord and trusts in his strength. a new song: t he Lord’s salvation prompts David to praise God. t he music is new because God’s salvation is fresh and new to David.

40:4, 5 The proud refers to idolaters who will not bow in humility before the Lord (147:6). Lies refers to idols. n ot only are the works of God directed toward the people of faith, but so are his thoughts. he is thinking about us.

40:6 t he Lord takes pleasure in those who obediently come to him with praise on their lips (1 Sam. 15:22, 23). My ears You have opened: t he Lord not only gives us ears to hear his word, but also grants us understanding so that we can truly obey him.

40:7, 8 Behold, I come: David brings his sacrifice, but his focus is on presenting his own life to the Lord (r om. 12:1, 2). According to the Book of hebrews, Jesus spoke these words to the Father (heb. 10:4–6). Delight is related to the word desire in v. 6. What brings pleasure to God will also bring delight to his people.

40:11, 12 Do not withhold: even after the experience of deliverance with which the psalm begins, David has another reason to turn to the Lord in renewed prayer. t he hebrew for Your tender mercies (which can also mean “womb”) refers to God’s affection for us. in effect, David is asking the Lord to surround him with warmth and comfort that is practically maternal.

40:13–15 deliver me: David does not ask for forgiveness of sin here (contrast 51:3, 4), but for deliverance from powerful enemies.

Aha, aha: David’s enemies are all around him, taunting him mercilessly (35:21).

15 Let them be <sup>r</sup>confounded because of their shame,
Who say to me, “Aha, aha!”

16 <sup>s</sup>Let all those who seek You rejoice and be glad in You;
Let such as love Your salvation <sup>t</sup>say continually,
“The LORD be magnified!”

17 <sup>u</sup>But I am poor and needy;
<sup>v</sup>Yet the LORD thinks upon me.
You are my help and my deliverer;
Do not delay, O my God.

That I may repay them.

11 By this I know that You are well pleased with me,
Because my enemy does not triumph over me.

12 As for me, You uphold me in my integrity,
And <sup>e</sup>set me before Your face forever.

13 <sup>f</sup>Blessed be the LORD God of Israel
From everlasting to everlasting!
Amen and Amen.

40:16, 17 The LORD be magnified: With these great words of praise, David encourages others in the community to glorify the Lord (35:27). poor and needy: t he psalmist is still in trouble, pleading with God to deliver him anew.

Psalm 41 is a lament psalm. Since it begins and concludes with words of praise to God, it may also be called a psalm of praise. t he poem is ascribed to David and speaks of the plight of a person suffering from serious physical illness. Ultimately, it presents the victory of the Savior Jesus over his enemies, especially the great enemy Satan. t here are four movements in the psalm: (1) an affirmation of confidence in the Lord’s power to deliver the godly from distress (vv. 1–3); (2) a description of David’s distress (vv. 4–9); (3) a renewed expression of hope in the Lord (vv. 10–12); (4) a coda of praise marking the end of Book i of the Psalms (v. 13).

41:1 Blessed is the same word that begins Ps. 1. t he same word introduces the first and last psalms of Book i (see introduction). When the verb blessed is used with God as its object (as in v. 13), it serves as a word of praise (103:1, 2). to bless God is to identify him as the source of our blessings. The poor refers not only to those who do not have enough money, but also to those who suffer illness or misfortune through no fault of their own. For such persons, God is Defender, Deliverer, and Sustainer (10:2, 9; 35:10; 69:33; 109:16; 140:12).

41:2, 3 Blessed on the earth refers to the acts of God’s goodness in a person’s life, including health, wealth, longevity, spiritual vitality, and harmony with God and people (Prov. 3:1–4). bed of illness: t he distress in this psalm is the psalmist’s serious physical illness.

41:4 for I have sinned: in the context of the psalm, this is a general acknowledgment of sin and the need for God’s forgiveness and restoration (1 John 1:9).

41:5–8 At times, the psalmist’s enemies are indicated (3:1), but more often these enemies are left unspecified in the Psalms, allowing others to think in terms of their own situations. his name perish: in ancient cultures, for a person not to be remembered was like saying that he or she had never existed. t he righteous in israel hoped that their names would endure after them, that they would have a “great name” (Gen. 12:2). he speaks lies: David charges his enemies with visiting his sickbed on the pretext of mercy but with malice in their hearts.

41:9 Familiar friend describes a close, intimate relationship. t he outrage of betrayal by one so close is nearly unbearable (matt. 26:14–16). t he fulfillment of this verse in the experience of Jesus and Judas is remarkable. n ot only did the two eat a meal together (matt. 26:21–25; mark 14:18–21; Luke 22:21), but Jesus also called Judas a “friend” at the moment of betrayal (matt. 26:50). moreover Jesus quoted this verse, noting its fulfillment in Judas (John 13:18).

41:10–12 Raise me up was David’s prayer for healing from the disease that had him bedridden (v. 3). in another sense, these words look forward to Jesus’ resurrection (16:10, 11; 118:17, 18). does not triumph: t he failure of David’s enemy to destroy his life was an indicator of God’s pleasure in David’s life. my integrity: t he words suggest that it is the righteous person who is suffering in this psalm, not an unrepentant sinner (26:1). before Your face forever: David prays not only for a long life on earth (v. 2), but also for eternal life in God’s presence (23:6). his ultimate hope is to glorify and praise God in his presence forever.

41:13 Blessed: t his psalm begins with a blessing of God on the righteous; it ends with the righteous blessing their Lord. t he word here for blessed is different from the word in v. 1. here the word identifies the Lord as the source of our blessing. t he word Amen,

PSALM 43

Prayer to God in Time of Trouble

Vindicate <sup>a</sup> me, O God,
And <sup>b</sup> plead my cause against an ungodly nation;
Oh, deliver me from the deceitful and unjust man!

meaning “surely” and “let it be,” is an affirmation of faith in God. it is simply saying “yes” to God. t the repetition of the word parallels the repetition of the word everlasting and expresses enthusiastic agreement with the praise in the psalm.

Psalm 42 and Ps. 43 were probably originally one poem, like Ps. 9; 10. n note that Ps. 43 does not have a superscription and that 43:5 repeats the refrain of 42:5, 11. Apparently a longer psalm was divided into two sections for use in temple worship. As an independent poem, Ps. 42 is an individual lament with a strong emphasis on trust (see Ps. 23). t the psalm’s two movements both conclude with a refrain of encouragement to hope in God (vv. 5, 11), even though the psalmist was in exile far from the temple. t the psalm is attributed to the sons of Korah, a musical family in israel. t they descended from the priest who had led an abortive rebellion against the leadership of mooses and Aaron (num. 16). God’s judgment came upon Korah and his companions, but Korah’s family continued for hundreds of years to be some of the premier leaders of worship music in israel. t the structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a description of the psalmist’s longing for God’s presence (vv. 1–4); (2) a description of the psalmist’s fear that God might no longer remember him (vv. 5–11).

42:1–4 pants: t the verb “to pant” is unusually expressive of a spiritual thirst for God. t the poet describes his experience of being cut off from the worshipping community. he feels distant from God’s presence among his people and he longs for intimacy with God (see v. 4). For the believer who lived during ot times, there was only one place where the true worship of the Lord was possible—the temple in Jerusalem. go with the multitude: t the psalmist was consumed with thoughts of the worship of God that he had experienced at the temple in Jerusalem among throngs of joyful believers (Ps. 100). Generally the focus of worship in the Book of Psalms is on the community worshipping together (compare Acts 2:40–47; heb. 13:15, 16).

42:5 Why are you cast down: t these words are repeated in v. 11 and 43:5. t the psalmist reminds himself that one day he will experience anew the presence of God. in the end, his hope in the Lord will not be misplaced. praise Him: As is common in the Psalms, the poet is not describing an act of private devotion, but of public praise of the goodness of God. t his is praise in words and songs that would be repeated in the midst of the congregation (22:22; eph. 5:19; heb. 13:15).

42:6 The land of the Jordan and the heights of Hermon refer to the Promised Land, from which the people were exiled.

42:9–11 Why have You forgotten me: t the psalmist asks these troubling questions in faith, for he remembers that God is his Rock, his protector and foundation. he cannot help but hope in him in the middle of difficult circumstances.

Psalm 43 is a continuation of Ps. 42. t the original poem was separated into the two psalms we have today so they could more easily be used for worship in the temple. As it stands, Ps. 43 shares features of a psalm of lament and a psalm of trust. t the structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a call for vindication from the Lord (vv. 1, 2); (2) a prayer for the psalmist’s return to the temple to worship God (vv. 3, 4); (3) a renewed call for hope in God (v. 5).

43:1, 2 Vindicate me is a protest of innocence (Ps. 17; 26; 35). t the

PSALM 44

Redemption Remembered in Present Dishonor

To the Chief Musician. A <sup>a</sup> Contemplation <sup>1</sup> of the sons of Korah.

We have heard with our ears,
O God,
<sup>b</sup> Our fathers have told us,
The deeds You did in their days,
In days of old:

psalmist takes the stance of one wrongfully attacked. Why do You cast me off: more hurtful than the words of the psalmist's enemies is the sense that God has rejected him (Ps. 13).

43:3, 4 Your light and Your truth: t he psalmist asks God for deliverance. See 104:2 for the significance of light; see 100:5 for the significance of truth. o nly the "true light" of God could save the psalmist from the lies and darkness all about him. Your tabernacle: more than anything else the psalmist desires to rejoin the worshipping community in praising God (149:1).

43:5 Why are you cast down: t hese words are the refrain of this and the previous psalm (see 42:5, 11). in time of doubt and stress, the poet urges his inner being, by the power of God, to keep believing. h e knows that one day, by God's grace, he will return to the place of praise to God, the center of worship in Jerusalem.

Psalm 44 is a lament of the community, a collective sigh of the people of israel for God to help them in a time of great national stress. t he psalm also presents an occasion for a rehearsal of God's great deeds in the exodus, the major saving action of the Lord in the ot period (Ps. 105). t his psalm is attributed to the sons of Korah, the descendants of the rebellious priest mentioned in num. 16. t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a rehearsal of God's deliverance of israel in the past (vv. 1–3); (2) a statement of confidence in God the great King (vv. 4–8); (3) a lament of the people (vv. 9–12); (4) a protest of innocence of the people (vv. 13–22); (5) a petition of the people (vv. 23–26).

44:1–3 heard with our ears: God's marvelous intervention in history to deliver the israelites from egypt was the cornerstone of ot faith (17:7; 118:16; ex. 15:6). each generation of israelites was obligated to tell the next generation about what God had done for them. t he story that they told was not merely a national history, but also a description of the loving character of God (Deut. 8). Your right hand became a slogan of redemption in israel. You favored

5 Through You <sup>g</sup> we will push down our enemies;

6 For <sup>h</sup> I will not trust in my bow,
 Nor shall my sword save me.

7 But You have saved us from our enemies,
 And have put to shame those who hated us.

8 <sup>i</sup> In God we boast all day long,
 And praise Your name forever. Selah

9 But <sup>j</sup> You have cast us off and put us to shame,
 And You do not go out with our armies.

10 You make us <sup>k</sup> turn back from the enemy,
 And those who hate us have taken <sup>5</sup> spoil for themselves.

11 <sup>l</sup> You have given us up like sheep intended for food,
 And have <sup>m</sup> scattered us among the nations.

12 <sup>n</sup> You sell Your people for next to nothing,
 And are not enriched by selling them.

13 <sup>o</sup> You make us a reproach to our neighbors,
 A scorn and a derision to those all around us.

 And covered us <sup>v</sup> with the shadow of death.

 Arise! Do not cast us off forever.

24 <sup>a</sup> Why do You hide Your face,
 And forget our affliction and our oppression?

25 For <sup>b</sup> our soul is bowed down to the <sup>7</sup> dust;
 Our body clings to the ground.

26 Arise for our help,
 And redeem us for Your mercies' sake.

them: the selection of Israel as the people of God came by his grace alone (4:3; r om. 11).

44:4, 5 my King: in this community lament, it is striking that here the speaker is singular. It may be that these words are spoken by Israel's king to the King of glory. As the king of the nation, it was appropriate for him to lead the people in asking for God's renewed favor. through Your name: the king affirms that victory will be won only by God's Spirit.

44:9–12 the words cast us off begin the lament section of the psalm. the army of Israel was not to be regarded as merely a group of warriors—they were the warriors of the Almighty (Ps. 144). their victories were the victories of God and their defeats were losses that he allowed them to endure. You sell Your people: When the people suffered loss, it was as though God had “sold” them. But God's deliverance of them from suffering is depicted as his purchase of his people—the meaning of the word redemption (see v. 26).

44:17–20 we have not forgotten: the people protest that they have not rejected God. the implication is that their troubles would be deserved if they had rejected him. Stretched out our hands refers to a posture of prayer (Ps. 134). they protest that they have not prayed to the idols of the nations, but have been faithful to the only living God.

44:22 as sheep: these words predict another beloved Son of the most high who would also feel cast off by the Lord (is. 53:7; see also r om. 8:36).

44:23–26 Israel's God does not sleep (121:3, 4; is. 40:28). the cry to awake is an appeal for God to act on behalf of his people. the cry is based on the people's faith that the Lord will forgive. redeem us: in v. 12, the people suggested that God had sold them; here they ask him to redeem them—to buy them back for himself.

Scepter

t he scepter (45:6) was the official staff of a ruler, symbolizing his authority and power. Since the first kings were nomadic princes, originally the scepter was a simple shepherd's staff. In some instances the scepter was a strong rod (ezek. 19:11, 14). Sometimes the symbolism of a scepter refers to the messiah who will rule from israel, from the tribe of Judah in particular (Gen. 49:10). in the nt, the Book of hebrews describes Christ as the Son who rules with a scepter of righteousness (heb. 1:8, quoting Ps. 45:6).

t he breaking of a scepter signified the downfall of the one who possessed it. t his symbolism was used by several of the ot prophets to predict what would happen to the enemies of the nation of israel (is. 14:5; ezek. 19:1–14).

When the roman soldiers mocked Jesus before his crucifixion, they placed a reed in his hand as a mock scepter and saluted him as “King of the Jews” (matt. 27:29).

Psalm 45 is a royal psalm—a royal wedding song that celebrates human marriage in such a grand manner that the nt writers applied it to the great King Jesus as well (compare vv. 6, 7 with heb. 1:8, 9). Like many other psalms, this one not only portrays the joy of human marriage, but also describes prophetically the glorious reign of Jesus (see Ps. 2; 22; 69). t his psalm was composed by the sons of Korah. t he structure is as follows: (1) introduction of the “good theme” (v. 1); (2) wedding wishes for the great king (vv. 2–9); (3) wedding wishes for the beautiful bride (vv. 10–15); (4) concluding blessings on the king (vv. 16, 17).

45:2–5 You are fairer: t his poem's cultural setting is the opulence of an ancient eastern royal court. t he profuse description of the royal groom would be appropriate in that culture. O Mighty One: in the ancient middle east the king was supposed to be a great warrior. t he model in israel was David, the celebrated champion who defeated the giant Goliath (1 Sam. 17). t he term mighty one is also a messianic title. Your glory and Your majesty can be rephrased as “Your majestic glory.” right hand: t he victories of the king's hand would be awesome, a symbol pointing back to exodus and forward to the works of the Savior Jesus.

45:6–9 t he words Your throne indicate the messianic direction of the psalm. here the King is addressed as God, yet it is “God, Your God” who anointed him. t his these verses describe the interaction of the Father and the Son, for both are called “God.” t he writer of hebrews used these verses to assert Jesus' deity (heb. 1:8, 9). anointed You: Anointing set aside a particular person for special service to God. in ot times, those who were anointed for special service foreshadowed the Anointed one, the meaning of Messiah and Christ. As symbols appropriate for divine service, the garments of a priest or king had to be clean and luxurious. t he king was surrounded by radiant women; his bride the queen was resplendent in her precious golden garments. t his is a portrait of heaven, with God as King and the church as his radiant bride (r ev. 19:1–10). Ophir, possibly located in southern Arabia or on the east coast of Africa (2 Chr. 8:17, 18), was known in the ot world as a source of fine gold.

45:10–14 O daughter: t he beautiful bride forsakes her own family and relationships as she becomes part of the family of her king and husband. worship Him: t he bride is to give homage and worship to the great King. robes of many colors: in the ancient world, the beauty of the bride's gowns might be an expression of her family's wealth, their pride in her, and their love for her.

- <sup>n</sup>Forget your own people also, and your father's house;
11 So the King will greatly desire your beauty;
<sup>o</sup>Because He is your Lord, worship Him.
12 And the daughter of Tyre will come with a gift;
<sup>p</sup>The rich among the people will seek your favor.
- 13 The royal daughter is all glorious within the palace;
Her clothing is woven with gold.
14 <sup>q</sup>She shall be brought to the King in robes of many colors;
The virgins, her companions who follow her, shall be brought to
You.
15 With gladness and rejoicing they shall be brought;
They shall enter the King's palace.
- 16 Instead of Your fathers shall be Your sons,
<sup>r</sup>Whom You shall make princes in all the earth.
17 <sup>s</sup>I will make Your name to be remembered in all generations;
Therefore the people shall praise You

PSALM 47

Praise to God, the Ruler of the Earth

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

- Oh, clap your hands, all you peoples!

Psalm 46 as a psalm of trust (Ps. 23) rejoices in the deliverance that the Lord gives his people in the midst of a fearsome battle or siege. There is reason to believe that Ps. 46–48 form a trilogy that focuses on God's special love for Jerusalem. Psalm 46 was Martin Luther's basis for the reformation hymn "A mighty Fortress is our God." The poem has three movements, each indicated by the closing word Selah, a musical notation perhaps indicating a musical interlude (vv. 3, 7, 11). The psalm is also called "A Song for Alamoth," a word that may refer to soprano voices. The structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) a celebration of God as our defense even though the earth is moved (vv. 1–3); (2) a celebration of God as our defense even though the nations rage (vv. 4–7); (3) a celebration of God as our defense even when the Lord brings his judgment (vv. 8–11).

46:1 Our refuge and strength may be rephrased "our impenetrable defense." The psalms regularly use imagery of a fortress to describe God. In the ancient middle east, cities were built on heights with high walls for defense. Yet there was no city and no defensive structure that was impenetrable. However, the psalmist describes here the one who is a sure defense.

46:2, 3 earth be removed: The wording of vv. 2, 3 moves the action to a cosmic level. What if the struggle were not just an orinary war with ordinary weapons? What if the war involved even shaking the mountains and causing the seas to roar? It makes no difference. God is a refuge for his people against everything actual or imagined.

46:5 God is in the midst of her: The people do not have an absentee deliverer, a defense that is only sometimes present. The Lord lives with his people. Consequently, his protection can be counted on.

46:7 The Lord of hosts is with us: These words form a refrain (see v. 11). The pairing of the words "the LORD of hosts" with "the God of Jacob" is notable in both this verse and v. 11. The refrain praises the Almighty, the Commander of heaven's armies, for choosing to live with the descendants of Jacob, his people. Who could protect his people better? See 9:9; 48:3 for other uses of the word refuge.

46:8–10 desolations: The picture here is of final judgment (Ps. 1; 110). Be still: The call for stillness before the Lord is not a preparation for worship, but for impending judgment (hab. 2:20; Zeph. 1:7; Zech. 2:13). God will be exalted. All the earth will bow before him.

Psalm 47, a royal psalm attributed to the sons of Korah, presents the grand ascent of the King of kings to his throne. The psalm also presents the joy of the people over the fact that the great King's rule

- Shout to God with the voice of triumph!
- 2 For the LORD Most High is awesome; He is a great <sup>a</sup>King over all the earth.
- 3 <sup>b</sup>He will subdue the peoples under us, And the nations under our feet.
- 4 He will choose our <sup>c</sup>inheritance for us, The excellence of Jacob whom He loves. Selah
- 5 <sup>d</sup>God has gone up with a shout, The LORD with the sound of a trumpet.
- 6 Sing praises to God, sing praises! Sing praises to our King, sing praises!
- 7 <sup>e</sup>For God is the King of all the earth; <sup>f</sup>Sing praises with understanding.
- 8 <sup>g</sup>God reigns over the nations; God <sup>h</sup>sits on His <sup>i</sup>holy throne.
- 9 The princes of the people have gathered together, <sup>j</sup>The people of the God of Abraham.

The Glory of God in Zion

A Song. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

- Great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised

 In His holy mountain.
- 2 <sup>b</sup>Beautiful in <sup>i</sup>elevation,

 They passed by together.

 They were troubled, they hastened away.

means the end of all iniquity, warfare, and trouble (is. 11:3–5). t he poets of Scripture knew that God is King as Creator of the world (Ps. 93), that he is King of his people because he is their Savior (Ps. 99), and that he is the coming King in the prophetic future. t his last is the focus of Ps. 47. t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a call to shout in triumph at the coming of the King (vv. 1–4); (2) a call to shout in triumph at the enthronement of the King (vv. 5–7); (3) a call to rejoice in the rule of the King (vv. 8, 9).

47:1–3 clap your hands: t here are many ways in which the people of God express their joy in him; one is the clapping of hands in joyful adoration. all you peoples: it is principally the people of God who will praise the great King; but the call for the nations was always a part of the larger picture in the theology of the Psalms (Ps. 67; 117). the Lord Most High: t he divine name usually translated “the LORD” is buttressed by the term Most High, which speaks of God’s power over all nations (7:17; 77:10; 78:17, 35, 56; 82:6; 107:11; Deut. 32:8). Awesome is related to the word for “fear” and suggests reverence for Almighty God (147:11). Great King is the key phrase of this psalm. All kings have derived authority; only one King, the great God of heaven, is absolute in power and righteousness. He will subdue: t he promise of the eventual victory of God’s people under the leadership of their great King is a basic focus in the Bible (Ps. 2; 110; 1 Cor. 15:24–28). t he outcome of the final battle was determined long ago by God.

47:4 t he words whom He loves are perhaps the most significant contribution of this poem to our understanding of God’s purposes. t o love means “to make one’s choice in.” God had chosen the israelites to be his holy people and in that way he loved them. in his dialogue with nicodemus, Jesus explained that God’s love extended to all the nations as well as to israel (John 3:16).

47:5–7 God has gone up: t his psalm speaks of an anticipated enthronement of God. As he seats himself on the throne, all who see him in heaven and earth shout aloud in triumph. Sing praises: t he repetition of this command in vv. 6, 7 is similar to the angelic voices singing of the holiness of God in is. 6:3. t he reason for the call to sing is clear: God is the King of all the earth; he deserves our praise. t his psalm speaks of the coming great reign of Jesus when he establishes his holy rule.

47:8, 9 God reigns: We know that God is King over the earth. t here are other forces clearly at work, but they function only by his permission. o ne day there will be an end to all evil, to all acts of rebellion, and to all acts of oppression. The people of the God of Abraham: t his is the prophetic picture of the ultimate fulfillment of the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 12:1–3). o ne day all the peoples of the earth who have come to faith in God through Jesus will discover that they are one people. t hey are all the true seed of Abraham, because they, like Abraham, believed in God (Gen. 15:6; Gal. 3:5–8). t hen all shields will belong to God; there will be no other power on earth or in the universe apart from the power of God. Greatly exalted comes from the term meaning “to go up,” the same root used in v. 5. God’s ascent to his throne will come with the enthronement of Jesus and his coming rule in the new Jerusalem (r ev. 20).

Psalm 48 unites with Ps. 46; 47 to form three great psalms of praise to God for his kingship and his love for the holy city of Jerusalem. t his emphasis on Jerusalem has led many scholars to speak of these psalms as “Songs of Zion.” Attributed to the sons of Korah, this psalm calls the people to offer reverent praise to their Lord. t he structure is as follows: (1) a celebration of God’s greatness in the holy city of Zion (vv. 1–3); (2) a description of the gathering of the kings and the peoples to witness God’s rule (vv. 4–11); (3) a celebration of God’s greatness in the holy city of Zion (vv. 12–14).

48:1 Great is used often in the Psalms to describe the person of God (21:5; 77:13; 95:3; 96:4; 145:3; 147:5). city of our God: t he city of Jerusalem had a particularly dear place in the heart of God’s people (see 1 Kin. 14:21). t he city was holy because of the presence of God in the temple.

48:2, 3 The joy of the whole earth: As is strongly established in the Book of Psalms, the purpose of God’s work in israel was to draw all nations to himself (117:1). sides of the north: t his phrasing is likely borrowed from Canaanite poetry, in Canaanite thought, the great gods resided in some remote northern location. For israel, God’s dwelling was the physical city of Jerusalem. The city of the great King: Jesus quoted these words in matt. 5:35 and identified the city as Jerusalem. God is in her palaces: t hese words express a prayer for the present and hope for the future. t he point is clear: the beauty of the city of Jerusalem comes from the presence of the Lord, who has made his dwelling there.

48:4–7 t his section describes from a different point of view the final battle referred to in Ps. 2; 110. Psalm 48 describes the approach and hasty retreat of the errant kings. t he connection between this text and Ps. 2 is heightened by the use of an unusual hebrew word for fear—a term meaning “trembling” or “quaking terror”—which is found in both places (2:11).

Tarshish

tarshish was a city or territory in the western portion of the mediterranean Sea with which the Phoenicians traded. tarshish is believed by some to be tartessus, in southern Spain, near Gibraltar. When Jonah fled from God's instruction to go to nineveh, he boarded a ship bound for tarshish, in the opposite direction from nineveh (Jon. 1:3). tarshish was famous for its ships, which carried gold, silver, iron, tin, lead, ivory, apes, and monkeys.

Because the ships of tarshish carried such great riches, they became symbols of wealth, power, and pride. When God judged the nations for their sinful ways, he destroyed their "ships of tarshish" to humble them and to demonstrate his great power (2 Chr. 20:35–37; is. 2.16; 23:1, 14).

- 9 We have thought, O God, on <sup>g</sup>Your

The Confidence of the Foolish

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

- Hear this, all peoples;
Give ear, all inhabitants of the world,
2 Both low and high,
Rich and poor together.
3 My mouth shall speak wisdom,
And the meditation of my heart shall give understanding.
- 4 I will incline my ear to a proverb;
I will disclose my <sup>1</sup>dark saying on the harp.
- 5 Why should I fear in the days of evil,
When the iniquity at my heels surrounds me?
- 6 Those who <sup>a</sup>trust in their wealth
And boast in the multitude of their riches,
7 None of them can by any means redeem his brother,
Nor <sup>b</sup>give to God a ransom for
him—
- 8 For <sup>c</sup>the redemption of their souls is costly,
And it shall cease forever—

eternally,
And <sup>d</sup>not <sup>2</sup>see the Pit.

48:8 As . . . we have seen: t he people who first sang this song knew the presence of God in temple worship. t hey knew that they were in the city where God had chosen to establish his blessing.

48:9 We have thought: t he verb is an unusual one in hebrew. it refers to making comparisons and looking for similarities, thinking and considering with discrimination. t he point is that nothing can be compared to the loyal love of God.

48:12–14 Praising the city of Zion is another way of praising God, whose dwelling was there. t o be a guide describes the work of a shepherd (78:52).

Psalms 49, a wisdom psalm attributed to the sons of Korah, has many similarities with Proverbs and ecclesiastes. t he psalm calls for the wise person to realize that there is nothing to fear from the oppressive rich: like animals, they too will die. But the righteous will live forever. t his psalm is quite different from a psalm of praise; it is an instruction text set to music. its structure is: (1) a call for understanding (vv. 1–4); (2) a declaration of the vanity of trusting in wealth (vv. 5–9); (3) a declaration of the worthlessness of possessions after death (vv. 10–12); (4) a description of God's redemption (vv. 13–15); (5) the conclusion that there is no need to fear the rich (vv. 16–20).

49:1–4 Hear this, all peoples: t he call for wisdom and understanding goes to all, similar to the calls for universal worship of the Lord (Ps. 117). Dark saying, which may be translated "riddle" or "enigma," refers to a perplexing moral problem: how do the righteous come to terms with oppressive rich people who seem to have no thought for God?

49:6–9 Those who trust in their wealth: As in the teaching of Jesus (mark 10:24), there is a warning against trusting in wealth, for wealth can achieve nothing of lasting value in this life or the life to come. Nor give to God a ransom: Wealth cannot buy redemption. Pit refers to the power of death in its dark aspect (16:10). only God has the power to deliver us from death and hell.

PSALM 50

God the Righteous Judge

A Psalm of Asaph.

- The <sup>a</sup> Mighty One, God the LORD,
Has spoken and called the earth
From the rising of the sun to its going down.
- 2 Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty,
<sup>b</sup> God will shine forth.
- 3 Our God shall come, and shall not keep silent;
<sup>c</sup> A fire shall devour before Him,
And it shall be very tempestuous all around Him.
- 4 <sup>d</sup> He shall call to the heavens from above,
And to the earth, that He may judge
His people:
- 5 “Gather <sup>e</sup> My saints together to Me, <sup>f</sup> Those who have <sup>1</sup> made a covenant with Me by sacrifice.”
- 6 Let the <sup>g</sup> heavens declare His righteousness,
For <sup>h</sup> God Himself is Judge. Selah
- 7 “Hear, O My people, and I will speak, O Israel, and I will testify against
you;
<sup>i</sup> I am God, your God!
8 <sup>j</sup> I will not <sup>2</sup> rebuke you <sup>k</sup> for your sacrifices
Or your burnt offerings,
Which are continually before Me.
- 9 <sup>l</sup> I will not take a bull from your house,
Nor goats out of your folds.

49:10 t he theme that wise men die is developed in ecclesiastes. t he rich and the poor, the wise and the fool, all have the same fate—physical death.

49:14, 15 t hese verses vividly describe both the power of death and the greater power of God. their beauty shall be consumed: Death is the great leveler. People who have beauty, riches (vv. 16, 17), and power in this world will lose them all at death. t hey will be stripped of everything except their character or soul. t his is why the Scriptures exhort us to pursue character development—God’s law, holiness, wisdom, and knowledge—more than anything else. each use of the word grave in these two verses is a translation of the hebrew word Sheol, meaning death (16:10). God will redeem my soul: t he psalmist trusts in God to deliver him from the power of death.

Psalm 50, a wisdom psalm, is the first of 12 poems attributed to Asaph, one of the music leaders appointed by David. t his psalm contrasts the distinctions of the righteous and the wicked in the eyes of God, a constant theme of the wisdom writers. t rue wisdom in biblical thought is based on the “fear of the Lord,” a proper response to the awesome nature of God. in this psalm, God is portrayed as the great Judge (Ps. 96–98). t he structure of the psalm is: (1) the praise of God who shines forth from Zion (vv. 1–3);

(2) a vision of the coming of God, the great Judge (vv. 4–6); (3) the instruction of the great Judge to his people concerning sacrifice (vv. 7–15); (4) the rebuke of the great Judge to the wicked (vv. 16–21); (5) the words of the great Judge on condemnation and salvation (vv. 22, 23).

50:1, 2 t he hebrew text uses the three terms the Mighty One, God, and the LORD as a stunning introduction to this poem. t his language suggests a grand display of God h himself in the midst of his people (18:7–9). Out of Zion: t he glory of God shines from his sanctuary in Jerusalem.

50:3–6 Our God shall come: t his prophetic language speaks of the coming kingdom of God (Ps. 96–98). God Himself is Judge: See 75:7 for a powerful development of this idea. t his is the point of this psalm; God is the great Judge. When used of God, the hebrew word for Judge has connotations of royalty (94:2). t hus this wisdom psalm is also a royal psalm, because it speaks of the coming of the great King who both rules and judges.

50:8–10 not rebuke you: t he sacrifices were commanded by God in Leviticus, but the people had difficulty keeping a godly perspective on the nature of sacrifices. every beast of the forest: t he people were not doing God a favor by bringing their animals, for everything belonged to him anyway. he knows every bird and beast.

- 10 For every beast of the forest is Mine,
And the cattle on a thousand hills.
- 11 I know all the birds of the mountains,
And the wild beasts of the field are Mine.
- 12<sup>a</sup> If I were hungry, I would not tell
you;
<sup>m</sup>For the world is Mine, and all its fullness.
- 13<sup>n</sup> Will I eat the flesh of bulls,
Or drink the blood of goats?
- 14<sup>o</sup> Offer to God thanksgiving,
And <sup>p</sup>pay your vows to the Most High.
- 15<sup>q</sup> Call upon Me in the day of trouble;
I will deliver you, and you shall glorify Me.”
- 16 But to the wicked God says:
“What right have you to declare My statutes,
Or take My covenant in your mouth,
17<sup>r</sup> Seeing you hate instruction
And cast My words behind you?
18 When you saw a thief, you
<sup>s</sup>consented<sup>3</sup> with him,
And have been a ‘partaker with adulterers.
19 You give your mouth to evil,

PSALM 51

A Prayer of Repentance

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David
<sup>a</sup>when Nathan the prophet went to him, after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

- Have mercy upon me, O God,
According to Your
lovingkindness;
According to the multitude of Your tender mercies,
<sup>b</sup>Blot out my transgressions.
2 <sup>c</sup>Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity,
And cleanse me from my sin.
- 3 For I acknowledge my transgressions,
And my sin is always before me.
4 <sup>d</sup>Against You, You only, have I sinned,
And done this evil <sup>e</sup>in Your sight—<sup>f</sup>That You may be found just <sup>1</sup>when You speak,
And blameless when You judge.

50:12–15 If I were hungry: t he God of israel does not hunger for food; however, he does “hunger” for righteousness of his people.

Call upon Me: Sacrifice in the Bible was for the good of the people. t he Lord designated the sacrificial system as a the place when he would shower his mercy on those he loves.

50:16–20 As in the case of 1:4, the attention of the psalm turns from the righteous who need instruction to the wicked who merit judgment. t his section announces God’s judgment not against the nations, but against the people of israel who heard but spurned God’s word. You give your mouth to evil: God offered truth, but these people chose falsehoods. t hey had seen the light but preferred to live in darkness (John 3:16–21). your own mother’s son: t here was no sense of decency remaining in these wicked persons; even normal bonds of family relationships were disregarded.

50:22, 23 in the climax of the revelation of the coming judgment in this psalm, the Lord offers an opportunity to repent and receive forgiveness. t his is an indicator of his grace. t he Lord wants to save; his warnings are another expression of his mercy.

Psalm 51 is associated with one of the hardest experiences of David’s life, the aftermath of his affair with Bathsheba. t his is one of several psalms of David in which the title specifies the incident that inspired the poem. For the account of David’s sin and nathan’s rebuke, see 2 Sam. 11; 12:1–15. David’s response to nathan was immediate: “i have sinned against the LORD” (2 Sam. 12:13). Sometime later, he wrote this memorable, penitential psalm. t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a plea for God’s mercy in the context of David’s confession (vv. 1, 2); (2) an acknowledgment that David’s sin was against the Lord (vv. 3, 4); (3) a confession that sin pervades David’s being (vv. 5, 6); (4) a series of pleas for forgiveness (vv. 7–13); (5) a vow of praise by the forgiven sinner (vv. 14, 15); (6) a statement on the meaning of true worship (vv. 16, 17); (7) a plea for God to restore the fortunes of the people (vv. 18, 19).

51:1, 2 David’s call for mercy is the only appropriate request for a confessing sinner. n o sinner should ask for justice, for that would mean judgment and ruin. mercy and forgiveness is God’s gift to the confessing sinner. even when the Lord forgives, he does not tarnish his just character: confessed sins are covered by the sacrifice of his perfect Son on the cross (see 2 Cor. 5:21). t he phrase according to Your lovingkindness expresses God’s loyal or covenantal love to his people (13:5).

51:3, 4 t he months of agony that David suffered because of his guilt are expressed in the striking words—my sin is always before me. See the development of these ideas in Ps. 32. Against You: David had sinned against Bathsheba, Uriah, and the nation he was called to rule. But none of these indictments were as serious as David’s offense against God. t he first few verses use several different words to describe sin—“transgression,” “iniquity,” and “sin.” t he words for forgiveness are all pictorial words: “blot out” (v. 1), “wash,” and “cleanse” (v. 2). All these words express the seriousness of sin and the great lengths God goes to in removing our sin. be found just: t he Lord deals with sin in two ways: t he wicked receive God’s just condemnation; the righteous receive his undeserved mercy.

- 5 <sup>g</sup> Behold, I was brought forth in iniquity,
And in sin my mother conceived me.
- 6 Behold, You desire truth in the inward parts,
And in the hidden part You will make me to know wisdom.
- 7 <sup>h</sup> Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean;
Wash me, and I shall be <sup>i</sup> whiter than snow.
- 8 Make me hear joy and gladness,

- 9 Hide Your face from my sins,
And blot out all my iniquities.
- 10 <sup>k</sup> Create in me a clean heart, O God,

- 11 Do not cast me away from Your presence,
And do not take Your <sup>l</sup> Holy Spirit from me.
- 12 Restore to me the joy of Your salvation,
And uphold me by Your <sup>m</sup> generous Spirit.
- 13 Then I will teach transgressors Your ways,
And sinners shall be converted to You.

PSALM 52

The End of the Wicked and the Peace of the Godly

To the Chief Musician. A <sup>l</sup> Contemplation of David <sup>a</sup> when Doeg the Edomite went and <sup>b</sup> told Saul, and said to him, “David has gone to the house of Ahimelech.”

Why do you boast in evil,
O mighty man?

51:5, 6 brought forth in iniquity: Sin was found in David from the beginning; from birth he was inclined towards sin (see r om. 5:12). Inward parts, a rare word in the Hebrew Bible, indicates something clouded over, difficult for anyone but God to see. The Lord's penetrating gaze searches the innermost recesses of a person's mind and heart.

heart

(heb. leb) (51:10; Jer. 31:33) Strong's #3820

The Hebrew nouns leb and lebab are synonymous words, which speak of a person's inner being and therefore are often translated heart. To the Hebrews, the heart was the seat of the affections, will, and mind. One's emotions and understanding were centered in the heart (Prov. 15:13, 14), thus blurring the common dichotomy between mind and heart, intellect and emotions. Therefore to have a “clean heart” (51:10) is to have pure thoughts and desires. To have a “hardened heart” (ex. 4:21) or a “heart of stone” (ezek. 36:26) is to have a closed mind and deadened emotions. Early in human history, God identified the human heart as the center of rebellion, producing all kinds of evil (see Gen. 8:21). For this reason, people found it impossible to obey God's simple command to love him “with all [their] heart” (Deut. 6:5). To remedy this deplorable situation, God determined to replace their “stony heart” with a “heart of flesh,” one which would love and obey its Creator (ezek. 36:26, 27).

51:7 hyssop: Here David refers to the ritual acts of cleansing described in the Law of Moses (Lev. 14:4; num. 19:6). David repeatedly calls for his cleansing (see also v. 9). By this, he expresses his profound sense of guilt.

51:10 The verb translated create is the same one used in Gen. 1:1 and refers to what only God can do. David was asking that his heart be renewed, restored, and transformed. God is the only source of such a renewal.

51:13, 14 David calls sinners to salvation in this verse. He vows that he will use his experience of God's grace as a renewed motivation to bring others into the knowledge of the love and mercy of God (40:3). My tongue shall sing: David desires to be forgiven for several reasons: (1) for his own peace, (2) for the message of hope that he could communicate to others, and (3) for the praise he would be able to give in the community of the faithful.

51:16 You do not desire sacrifice: The key term here is the verb desire, which means “to find pleasure in.” God's pleasure is not in the sacrificed animal, but in the restored person. He demanded sacrifices, even from David; but his pleasure is in the person who comes obediently to him (Gen. 4:1-7; John 4:21-24; r om. 12:1, 2). Actions not accompanied by a contrite heart are not acceptable to God (is. 1:12-20).

51:18, 19 Do good: David declared God's goodness to the whole community in their collective worship (125:4). The Hebrew verb translated pleased is the same verb translated delight in v. 16. God took pleasure in those whose hearts were humble before him. Their sacrifices were a source of joy.

Psalm 52, a psalm of lament, strongly emphasizes judgment of David's enemies. The title of this psalm specifies the incident in Da-

- The goodness of God endures continually.
- 2 Your tongue devises destruction,
Like a sharp razor, working deceitfully.
- 3 You love evil more than good,
Lying rather than speaking righteousness. Selah
- 4 You love all devouring words,
You deceitful tongue.
- 5 God shall likewise destroy you forever;
He shall take you away, and pluck you out of your dwelling place,
And uproot you from the land of the living. Selah
- 6 The righteous also shall see and fear,
And shall laugh at him,
saying,
- 7 “Here is the man who did not make God his strength,
But trusted in the abundance of his riches,
And strengthened himself in his <sup>2</sup>wickedness.”
- 8 But I am <sup>6</sup>like a green olive tree in the house of God;
I trust in the mercy of God forever and ever.
- 9 I will praise You forever,
Because You have done it;
And in the presence of Your saints
I will wait on Your name, for it <sup>3</sup>is good.

PSALM 53

Folly of the Godless, and the Restoration of Israel

To the Chief Musician. Set to “Mahalath.”
A <sup>1</sup> Contemplation of David.

- The <sup>a</sup> fool has said in his heart,
“There is no God.”
They are corrupt, and have done abominable iniquity;
<sup>b</sup> There is none who does good.
- 2 God looks down from heaven upon the children of men,
To see if there are any who understand, who <sup>c</sup> seek God.
- 3 Every one of them has turned aside;
They have together become corrupt;
There is none who does good,
No, not one.
- 4 Have the workers of iniquity <sup>d</sup> no knowledge,
Who eat up my people as they eat bread,
And do not call upon God?
- 5 <sup>e</sup> There they are in great fear
Where no fear was,
For God has scattered the bones of him who encamps against you;
You have put them to shame,
Because God has despised them.
- 6 <sup>f</sup> Oh, that the salvation of Israel would come out of Zion!
When God brings back <sup>2</sup> the captivity of His people, Let Jacob rejoice and Israel be glad.

Prov. 28:1

vid's life that prompted him to write it. Doeg, an official of Saul, had spied on David when he fled to Ahimelech, the priest at nob, for provisions and guidance (1 Sam. 21:7). Doeg's report angered Saul so much that he destroyed the priestly family at nob (1 Sam. 22). t his incident must have been disheartening to David. his actions had caused the death of others, and his enemies were determined to destroy him. t he structure is: (1) the question of why the wicked boast in evil (vv. 1-4); (2) a proclamation that God will destroy the wicked (vv. 5-7); (3) a vow to praise the Lord (vv. 8, 9).

52:1-4 Boast is related to the word meaning “praise”; however, boasting in evil is no more than a perversion of praise. Mighty is likely used here sarcastically; the only mighty one is the Lord. The goodness of God is his “loyal love.” t he contrast is between a wicked man who boasts in evil and the Lord who is constant in his supreme character. Your tongue refers to more than just words. t hese people used language as a weapon, for they believed that the gods could empower their words to a devastating effect.

52:5-7 God shall likewise destroy you forever: t he poet uses the strongest terms to describe divine judgment on those who practice evil. Uproot you from the land of the living refers to death, but not eternal death. The righteous also shall see and fear: t his fear is a deepened respect for God and a sense of awe before his throne. Here is the man: t he righteous laugh at the wicked because of their foolishness. A reference to man often means man in his strength; but this “man” has no real strength at all. he seeks strength in himself instead of seeking the source of all strength, the Almighty.

52:8, 9 A green olive tree is a symbol of beauty. in r om. 11, the olive tree is used as a symbol of the Gentiles who are grafted into the root, the people of God or the church. t he hebrew word for mercy is the same term, meaning “loyal love,” that is translated “goodness” in v. 1. t he hebrew word for praise is the same word sometimes translated “give thanks” (105:1); it typically refers to vocal and public praise.

Psalms 53 is a recasting of Ps. 14 with only slight differences, particularly in the ending. its structure is as follows: (1) an announcement of the judgment of the fool (v. 1); (2) the Lord's examination of people (v. 2, 3); (3) the judgment of the Lord (vv. 4, 5); (4) a prayer for the salvation of israel (v. 6).

53:1 in the Bible, the term fool does not mean mental incompetence, but moral and spiritual insensitivity. t he fool is the one who ignores God.

53:4, 5 God has scattered the bones: t his is a prophetic pronouncement of the final judgment on the wicked. t hose who did not fear God will be filled with great fear, for God will come in his glory and power. one day there will be no more wickedness to contaminate the earth or to compromise the people of God.

Trust in God Concerning the Treachery of Friends

To the Chief Musician. With <sup>1</sup>stringed instruments. A <sup>2</sup>Contemplation of David.

Give ear to my prayer, O God,
And do not hide Yourself from my supplication.
<sup>2</sup> Attend to me, and hear me;
I <sup>a</sup>am <sup>3</sup>restless in my complaint, and moan noisily, <sup>b</sup> For they bring down trouble upon me,

And in wrath they hate me.
<sup>4</sup> <sup>c</sup> My heart is severely pained within me,
And the terrors of death have fallen upon me.
<sup>5</sup> Fearfulness and trembling have come upon me,
And horror has overwhelmed me.
<sup>6</sup> So I said, “Oh, that I had wings like a dove!
I would fly away and be at rest.
<sup>7</sup> Indeed, I would wander far off,
And remain in the wilderness. Selah
<sup>8</sup> I would hasten my escape
From the windy storm and tempest.”

Psalm 54 is a psalm of lament in which the answer to the prayer is declared before the end of the poem. t he prayer’s answer may have come through a priest or prophet. t he psalmist knew that he was being answered, and he sought immediately to make God’s goodness known. Psalm 54 is another of David’s psalms in which the title indicates the specific situation that gave rise to the poem (Ps. 51; 52). t wice the people of the Wilderness of Ziph had informed Saul that David was hiding in their region (1 Sam. 23:19–23; 26:1–3). David’s distress is understandable; yet from the Ziphites’ viewpoint, their actions were warranted. After all, Saul was the king and David was a fugitive. t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a call for God’s help in the midst of persecution from many foes (vv. 1–3); (2) a declaration that God is David’s helper (vv. 4, 5); (3) a vow of praise (vv. 6, 7).

54:1–3 Save me, O God, by Your name: t he poets of the Bible knew the significance of God’s name even when they did not use it. t he people of Ziph probably are indicated by the words strangers and oppressors. David makes the point that they are not pious people. Since he is God’s servant, he expects that God will deliver him.

54:4, 5 Helper could also be translated “power.” t he Lord was David’s strength in his time of need. Cut them off is David’s curse on his enemies, an imprecation. even so, David did not take vengeance into his own hands. o nly the Lord can take revenge.

54:6, 7 I will freely sacrifice to You: t he prayer has been answered, and God is honored. t hus David expresses his willingness to fulfill his vow.

Psalm 55 deals with life and death, deliverance from hell, and the abiding presence of God. it speaks prophetically of the experience of the Savior Jesus. t his psalm consists of many short sections, and its choppy quality shows the deep emotion behind it. t he structure of the poem is: (1) a call for God to hear in the midst of the distress (vv. 1–3); (2) a wish to escape death (vv. 4–8); (3) a prayer for God’s judgment on the wicked (vv. 9–11); (4) the description of a friend’s betrayal (vv. 12–14); (5) a renewed prayer for God’s judgment on the wicked (v. 15); (6) a prayer for deliverance for the righteous (vv. 16–19); (7) a retrospective on the friend’s betrayal (vv. 20, 21); (8) a call for hope in the midst of trouble (v. 22); (9) a concluding statement of confidence in view of final judgment (v. 23).

55:1–3 Give ear to my prayer: t he poem begins in a way that is common in the lament psalms. t here is a call to God, a reference to the psalmist’s distress, and a notice concerning his enemy. David’s shock is not that he is in distress again or even that he has more enemies. t he great shock is that the enemy is his own friend (vv. 12–14).

55:4–8 David’s intense pain can be felt in his strong language. t he phrase terrors of death is unusual. t he hebrew word for terror or “dread” is first used in Scripture to describe the horror that Abraham felt in the unnatural darkness that seized him as God was about to come near (Gen. 15:12). t he word also described the horrors that would fall on the people of Canaan when the Lord gave the land to the israelites (ex. 15:16). t o strengthen this feeling, David speaks of a “trembling fear” and an overwhelming horror (see also ezek. 7:18).

55:9 David calls for God’s judgment on the wicked; he renews this call in vv. 15, 23.

For I have seen <sup>d</sup>violence and strife in the city.
10 Day and night they go around it on its walls;
<sup>e</sup>Iniquity and trouble are also in the midst of it.
11 Destruction is in its midst;
<sup>f</sup>Oppression and deceit do not depart from its streets.
12 <sup>g</sup>For it is not an enemy who reproaches me;
Then I could bear it.
Nor is it one who hates me who has <sup>h</sup>exalted himself against me;
Then I could hide from him.
13 But it was you, a man my equal,
<sup>i</sup>My companion and my acquaintance.
14 We took sweet counsel together,
And <sup>j</sup>walked to the house of God in the throng.
15 Let death seize them;
Let them <sup>k</sup>go down alive into <sup>l</sup>hell,
For wickedness is in their dwellings and among them.
16 As for me, I will call upon God,
And the LORD shall save me.
17 <sup>l</sup>Evening and morning and at noon
I will pray, and cry aloud,
And He shall hear my voice.
18 He has redeemed my soul in peace from the battle that was
against me,
For <sup>m</sup>there were many against me.
19 God will hear, and afflict them,
<sup>n</sup>Even He who abides from of old.

PSALM 56

Prayer for Relief from Tormentors

To the Chief Musician. Set to <sup>1</sup>“The Silent Dove in Distant Lands.” A Michtam of David when the <sup>a</sup>Philistines captured him in Gath.

Be <sup>b</sup>merciful to me, O God, for man would swallow me up;
Fighting all day he oppresses me.
2 My enemies would <sup>c</sup>hound me all day,
For there are many who fight against me, O Most High.
3 Whenever I am afraid,
I will trust in You.
4 In God (I will praise His word),
In God I have put my trust;
<sup>d</sup>I will not fear.
What can flesh do to me?

55:12-14 here is the reason for David's terrible pain in this psalm. it was not an ordinary enemy who had risen up against him; it was his companion, his confidant and friend. t the one who betrayed him was not only a close friend, but a person with whom David had worshiped the Lord.

55:15 in rage, David cries: Let death seize them. his words are directed against the wicked generally, and not personally against the one who had distressed David (vv. 13, 14). David could express his emotions to God in prayer, but judgment or revenge was in God's hands (see r om. 12:19).

55:16-19 t he words as for me mark a dramatic turning point in the psalm. David reverts to a stance of faith; he declares his trust in the omnipotent Lord. God will hear: David reminds himself of the great acts of deliverance that God has done on his behalf in the past and the work that God will continue to do in the future. in a similar way, we should also remind ourselves of God's faithfulness in times of distress.

55:20 He has put forth his hands: David turns to describe his former friend, now his enemy (vv. 13, 14). he had been completely taken in by the man's lies.

55:22 to anyone who has experienced grief or desolation, the command to cast one's burden on the Lord is refreshing. t he Lord is the one constant in life (v. 19) and the one true friend (27:10). he can always bear the burden.

Psalm 56 is a psalm of lament. t his poem of David has the same setting as Ps. 34—the flight of David to Achish at Gath. in Ps. 34, Achish is referred to as “Abimelech,” his royal designation. t he fact that two of David's psalms are tied to this one event demonstrates how devastating the experience was to David. Cut off from all he had known, David tried to find refuge among the Philistines. When they turned on him, he nearly lost his life. he escaped by pretending to be insane (1 Sam. 21:10-15). t his psalm was sung in corporate worship, for it is addressed to the “Chief musician” and is set to the tune “t he Silent Dove in Distant Lands.” t he structure of the poem is: (1) a cry to God who alone is David's help (vv. 1, 2); (2) a confession of trust in God (vv. 3, 4); (3) a description of the work of David's enemies (vv. 5-7); (4) a confession of why David trusts in God during his time of distress (vv. 8-11); (5) a vow to praise the Lord (vv. 12, 13). 56:1 Be merciful to me: David cries out to God because of his overwhelming sense of loss during his time as a fugitive in a foreign land (see 1 Sam. 21:10-15).

56:3, 4 I will trust are words of abiding confidence, even in times of distress. Alternating passages of pain and faith are a characteristic of the lament psalms (Ps. 13). I will praise His word: t his insert is also found twice in v. 10. t he idea of what can flesh do is repeated in v. 11 and is developed more fully in 118:6. t hese words are also an ot basis for the apostle Paul's confidence expressed in r om. 8:31.

- 5 All day they twist my words;
All their thoughts are against me for evil.
- 6 They gather together,
They hide, they mark my steps,
When they lie in wait for my life.
- 7 Shall they escape by iniquity?
In anger cast down the peoples,
O God!
- 8 You number my wanderings;
Put my tears into Your bottle;

- 9 When I cry out to You,

- 10 In God (I will praise His word),
In the LORD (I will praise His word),
- 11 In God I have put my trust;
I will not be afraid.
What can man do to me?
- 12 Vows made to You are binding upon me, O God;
I will render praises to You,
- 13 <sup>g</sup>For You have delivered my soul from

56:5 All day they twist my words: in lament psalms, the poet typically complains about lies, the misuse of language, and deceitful speech (Ps. 12).

56:8–11 You number my wanderings: t he psalmist is confident that God has a particular interest in his every pain, even his every tear, he also knows the great truth that comes from the meaning of God’s name, that the Lord is for us. See 118:6, 7 for a further development of this idea. I will praise His word: t he double insert of this shout of praise shows the psalmist’s great enthusiasm for the praise of God. In God: t he poet repeats the words of v. 4 as a refrain of confidence.

56:12, 13 Vows made to You: t he poet takes very seriously his determination to praise the Lord. You have delivered my soul: here is the psalmist’s report of deliverance. in the congregation of believing people, David rejoices in the Lord.

Psalm 57 is another of David’s poems in which the title gives the specific setting of the psalm. t he narrative of David’s life indicates that he twice hid in caves—once in Adullam (1 Sam. 22:1–5) which was the setting of Ps. 142, and once in en Gedi (1 Sam. 24:1–7), the setting of this poem. in en Gedi, David spared Saul’s life even though Saul had become an easy target. While pursuing David, the king had entered a cave to relieve himself. it so happened that he chose the very cave in which David was hiding. r ather than killing Saul while he had the chance, David cut off a piece of the king’s garment. David later repented even of that act against Saul. t his psalm is one of four that were set to the tune “Do not Destroy” (Ps. 58; 59; 75). t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) a call for mercy in the midst of calamities (vv. 1–3); (2) a confession of trust in the midst of trouble (vv. 4–6); (3) a determination to praise God in the midst of the people (vv. 7–11).

57:1–3 t he opening cry be merciful to me is similar to many in the lament psalms, but here it is followed immediately by a confession of trust in the Lord. in the shadow: t he picture of hiding under the wings of a mother bird is a familiar theme in the Psalms (91:1–4). here the psalmist vows that he will pray only to his God, for God alone can deliver him from trouble. t he hebrew word for performs is translated “will perfect” in 138:8; the point is that God acts on behalf of his servant.

57:4–6 t he psalmist’s foes are like lions prowling about for prey. Be exalted: in the midst of his distress, the psalmist shouts his praise to God (v. 11). one of the ways in which God exalts himself is by graciously delivering the needy. They have prepared a net: t he psalmist is like a bird that is easily caught; yet by God’s mercy, his enemies will fall into their own pit.

57:7 near the end of his life, Paul was able to say that he had kept the faith (2 t im. 4:7). With the words my heart is steadfast, David is assuring God of much the same thing: he has remained faithful to the God who has provided for him from the beginning.

- 9 <sup>l</sup>I will praise You, O Lord, among the peoples;
I will sing to You among the <sup>3</sup>nations.
10<sup>m</sup>For Your mercy reaches unto the heavens,
And Your truth unto the clouds.

To the Chief Musician. Set to <sup>1</sup>“Do Not Destroy.” A Michtam of David.

Do you judge uprightly, you sons of men?
2 No, in heart you work wickedness;

PSALM 59

The Assured Judgment of the Wicked

To the Chief Musician. Set to <sup>1</sup>“Do Not Destroy.” A Michtam of David <sup>a</sup>when Saul sent men, and they watched the house in order to kill him.

- Deliver me from my enemies, O my God;

57:9, 10 I will praise You: As is common in the Psalms, the conclusion is a vow to praise the Lord. Such praise would be centered on the Lord's saving acts. In this poem, the praise of the Lord revolves around his mercy and truth (86:15). t he words of v. 11 serve as a refrain, a repetition of the words of praise in v. 5.

Psalm 58, an imprecatory psalm, might have been provoked by a very strong attack on David. t his is one of the four psalms set to the tune “Do not Destroy” (Ps. 57; 59; 75). it has four parts: (1) a description of wicked judges who wreak havoc on the earth (vv. 1, 2); (2) a description of the wicked who continue in evil (vv. 3–5); (3) a prayer for divine vengeance against the wicked (vv. 6–9); (4) a promise that the righteous will be vindicated (vv. 10, 11).

58:1, 2 You silent ones is a derisive term for the wicked judges. Although they were merely humans, they were behaving as though they had divine power. Wickedness . . . violence: instead of establishing righteousness, these wicked judges were producing havoc. t hey thought they had all power in the earth. But they would soon learn that God “judges in the earth” (v. 11).

58:4, 5 t he effects of the wicked in powerful places are as deadly as the effects of poisonous snakes that are out of control. t he word charmers refers to those who have the ability to “control” the behavior of snakes; but in this case, not even the equivalent of charmers could control the destruction and evil that resulted from wicked people in high places.

58:6, 7 in 57:4, the wicked are described as having powerful teeth, as though they were carnivores, eating the righteous alive. here David asks God to shatter their teeth, symbolizing the destruction of the power of the wicked over the poor and defenseless (3:7).

58:8 t he ancient israelites desired children so much that a live birth was considered extremely precious. Alternatively a stillborn child would cause great sorrow.

58:9 in this verse, David speaks of the certainty of divine judgment. Before your pots can feel: it takes some time for a pot to boil. But the judgment of God will come suddenly—even before a pot would feel the heat. as with a whirlwind: t he image speaks of sudden destruction. As in His living and burning wrath may also be translated “As he lives, so real is his anger.”

58:10 t he destruction of the wicked brings sadness at the thought of the waste of human dreams, lives, and hopes. But there is great joy for the righteous in the recognition that the Savior King has won the victory (r ev. 19:11–21). t here is also joy in knowing that wickedness will no longer anger the Lord of the universe (68:3). Justice will be established forever.

58:11 a reward for the righteous: See 1 Cor. 3:11–15 for further development of this theme. in the earth: t his is the fitting arena of divine judgment, for the wicked judges thought they possessed all authority on earth (v. 2).

Psalm 59, a psalm of lament, contains strong assurance of the final judgment of the wicked. t he superscription refers to the story found in 1 Sam. 19:9–17: David escaped Saul's anger with 2 Deliver me from the workers of iniquity,

And save me from bloodthirsty men.

help from his wife Michal. She showed unusual heroism and great devotion to David—actions that resulted in a strained relationship with her father Saul. Psalm 59 has four parts: (1) a prayer for deliverance (vv. 1–5); (2) a confident hope (vv. 6–10); (3) a renewed prayer for deliverance (vv. 11–13); (4) a renewed hope (vv. 14–17).

59:1, 2 t the repetition of the phrase deliver me is for emphasis, meaning “to bring one out” of trouble and distress. t he verb translated defend means “to set on high” or “to place out of reach of trouble” (91:14). Save me: t his is the most common of the Hebrew verbs for salvation. it suggests “to give room to” or “to expand an area to breathe.”

59:3, 4 they lie in wait: enemies become like wild animals on the hunt or enemy soldiers lurking along one’s paths. Not for my transgression: t here were times in David’s life when he knew that he was suffering because of sin in his life (Ps. 32). t here were other times when he believed himself to be innocent of sin, but still he was hounded by wicked persons. here he shouts his protest aloud: through no fault of mine. he was guilty of no wickedness that would cause such merciless attacks on him.

59:5 David’s call for the Lord to awake is another way of asking God to pay attention to his plight (7:6; 35:23; 44:23; is. 51:9). to ensure God’s reception of his bold shout, David uses the “full name” of God: LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel. t he Commander of the armies of angels is also the Protector of his people. Do not be merciful: t he righteous constantly experience the mercy of the Lord, but his mercy is not extended to those who constantly oppose him. t he wicked transgressors were those who engaged in constant acts of treachery.

59:6, 7 A dog in the ancient Hebrew culture was considered a semi-wild scavenger, not the beloved pet of our own day. Who hears: Like those described in Ps. 9; 10, the wicked here believe that they will face no punishment for their evil. t hey are profoundly mistaken (75:7, 10; 92:6).

59:8 But You: t his is a complete turnaround in the psalm—from thoughts about the wicked to an acknowledgment of the reality of God in human affairs. shall laugh . . . in derision: t he wording is the same as in 2:4 (Job 9:23; Prov. 1:26). t here is the pleasurable laughter of God in joy with his people (see 147:11; Zeph. 3:17). But t his is the laughter of contempt.

59:9 Wait can also mean “watch.” t he enemies of David had come to watch for him; but David was determined to “watch” for God. His Strength may also be translated “my Strength” or “o my Strong one.” t he noun my defense means “a high place of refuge” and is related to the verb in v. 1. t he same word is used again in vv. 16, 17 (62:2).

59:10 My God of mercy: t he term mercy is sometimes translated “loyal love” (13:5). t he Lord is the “God of my loyal love.”

59:11 t his verse begins the second round of the petition in the psalm. t he imprecation or curse in t his verse is unusual. instead of asking for the destruction of the wicked, the psalmist asks for them to be scattered, to be made fugitives. t his would be a constant reminder of the consequences of evil.

59:13 t he repetition of t his verbal phrase consume them is similar to the repetition of the phrase deliver me in vv. 1, 2. that God rules in Jacob: t he idea is similar to 58:11.

59:16, 17 But I: t he words of t hese verses capture the positive thrust of t his psalm. David sings with joyful abandon of his relationship with God, despite the presence of wicked persons. t here are two verbs translated I will sing; together they capture the idea that singing in the name of the Lord is a wonderful act of faith (ex. 15:2).

59:17 You, O my Strength is repeated from v. 9. in God, the believer finds strength, defense, and mercy. t his psalm ends in a grand manner with bold faith in the living God.

Psalm 60, a psalm of community lament (Ps. 80), expresses David’s great faith in the eventual victory he would find in the Lord. In this psalm, we hear the voice of God breaking into the poem itself and pronouncing his judgment on David’s enemies (vv. 6–8; see also Ps. 12; 75; 87; 91). Since the tone of the psalm is military in nature, it is possible that this poem was used in military training. Along with training in weapons and tactics, David gave ongoing instruction to his soldiers about how to trust their Lord. The heading and content of this psalm add additional information to the account in 2 Sam. 8:3–8. The campaign of David and his general Joab against Hadadezer, the king of Zobah, did not succeed at first. The psalm describes the feelings of David and his army at the time of their defeat. But it also records their confident expectation that they would eventually succeed, something celebrated in the heading of the psalm and confirmed in 2 Sam. 8. The psalm has four movements: (1) a lament of the people when they experienced defeat (vv. 1–3); (2) an expression of confidence and a prayer for deliverance (vv. 4, 5); (3) the voice of God giving assurance of ultimate victory (vv. 6–8); (4) an expression of confidence in the Lord (vv. 9–12).

60:1–3 David accuses God of having broken them down. This is a poetic description of an otherwise unknown defeat of the armies of Israel in a battle that was part of the campaign against Aram of Zobah and Mesopotamian allies (2 Sam. 8). The defeat was so startling that it caused the people of Israel to feel as though God had made the earth tremble, a metaphor for devastation. Wine of confusion: The defeat sent the people reeling; they could not understand how it could have happened.

60:4, 5 a banner: Despite the recent defeat, the people still had reason to hope in a final victory for Israel over its foes. The term beloved (127:2; is. 5:1; Jer. 11:15) is particularly endearing. God had a reason to act on behalf of his people: he loved them.

60:6–8 At this point in the poem, God speaks (75:2–5, 10; 91:14–16). The Lord affirms that he is in charge, that the land belongs to him, and that he will give victory to his people. In His holiness can also mean “in his holy place.” I will rejoice: it gives God pleasure to grant his people success. Shechem and the Valley of Succoth represent regions west and east of the Jordan River in the central parts of the land. Gilead and Manasseh are also regions east and west of the Jordan; Ephraim and Judah are regions in the north and south. The Lord was asserting his sovereignty over the entire land of Israel. Moab . . . Edom . . . Philistia: these traditional enemies of Israel were also enemies of God. The Lord would not allow them to disturb his people.

- 9 Who will bring me to the strong city?
Who will lead me to Edom?
10 Is it not You, O God, who cast us off?
And You, O God, who did not go out with our armies?
11 Give us help from trouble,
For the help of man is useless.
12 Through God we will do valiantly,
For it is He who shall tread down our enemies.

PSALM 62

A Calm Resolve to Wait for the Salvation of God

To the Chief Musician. To <sup>a</sup>Jeduthun.
A Psalm of David.

- Truly <sup>b</sup>my soul silently waits for God;
From Him comes my salvation.
2 He only is my rock and my salvation;
He is my <sup>1</sup>defense;
I shall not be greatly <sup>e</sup>moved.<sup>2</sup>
3 How long will you attack a man?
You shall be slain, all of you,
<sup>d</sup>Like a leaning wall and a tottering fence.
4 They only consult to cast him down from his high position;
They <sup>e</sup>delight in lies;
They bless with their mouth,
But they curse inwardly. Selah
5 My soul, wait silently for God alone,
For my <sup>3</sup>expectation is from Him.
6 He only is my rock and my salvation;
He is my defense;
I shall not be <sup>4</sup>moved.
7 <sup>f</sup>In God is my salvation and my glory;
The rock of my strength,
And my refuge, is in God.

60:10 Is it not You: t he very o ne the people thought had cast them off (v. 1) would lead them to final victory.

60:11, 12 Ultimately, true help—the hebrew word means “salvation”—comes only from God. we will do valiantly: As the title records, this was what happened. David's general Joab led the battle, and under God's hand israel's enemies were soundly defeated. t his psalm presents a strong encouragement to all believers who are presently experiencing difficulties in their lives: When the help of man proves useless, often God dramatically provides strength and power so that our boast is solely in him.

Psalm 61, a royal psalm attributed to David, has elements of lament (Ps. 13) and trust (Ps. 23). in this psalm, the king of israel points to the great King who is to come. t he title includes the words “o n a stringed instrument” (see the titles of Ps. 4; 6; 54; 55; 67; 76). t he psalm has four parts: (1) a petition to God (vv. 1, 2); (2) an affirmation that God is David's refuge (vv. 3, 4); (3) an affirmation that God provides (vv. 5–7); (4) a vow to praise God (v. 8).

61:1 Hear my cry is classic language of a lament psalm. David calls on the Lord to hear the prayer of the troubled believer (5:2, 3; 17:1; 55:2; 66:19; 86:6; 142:6).

61:2 From the end of the earth: David describes his sense of being far from God's presence in his time of need. his prayer is that he might be brought back to the rock that is higher than he. t he imagery of God as a o ck for the believer was introduced by moses (see Deut. 2:4) and is developed elsewhere in the Psalms (62:2; 71:3; 91:1, 2; 144:1).

61:3 t he idea of God as one's shelter or refuge is seen in a number of passages in the Psalms (14:6; 46:1; 62:7, 8; 71:7; 91:2, 9; 94:22; 142:5). Such verses present the psalmist's strong affirmation of the protection and deliverance to be found in God.

61:4 I will abide implies strong determination. it is used of a worshiper in God's house in 15:1. elsewhere, the psalmist compares himself to (1) an everlasting guest in the tent of the Lord (Ps. 15) and (2) a chick who has complete trust under its mother's wings (63:7; 91:4).

61:5 t he pronoun You is emphasized in this verse as David celebrates the work of God in his life and in the life of his people. the heritage: God had given the nation to David for him to rule responsibly. t he words also refer to the greater reality of the Savior King who would receive the nations as his inheritance to rule forever. who fear Your name: t his is standard language describing biblical piety. t o feared is to hold the name of God in awe and wonder, in worship and obedience (see 147:11; ex. 20:20).

61:6, 7 t he terms many generations and forever refer to David's long rule but more literally prophesy the eternal rule of Jesus, the King of kings. Mercy and truth together mean “loving loyalty” (see John 1:14 for an equivalent expression: “grace and truth”). Psalm 23 presents the believer pursued by God's “goodness and mercy” (23:6); but here the king is guarded by God's loving loyalty.

Men of high degree are a lie;
 If they are weighed on the scales,
 They are altogether lighter than vapor.

 Nor vainly hope in robbery;
 If riches increase,
 Do not set your heart on them.

 That power belongs to God.

 For You render to each one

PSALM 63

Joy in the Fellowship of God

A Psalm of David <sup>a</sup> when he was in the wilderness of Judah.

O God, You are my God;
 Early will I seek You;
 My soul thirsts for You;
 My flesh longs for You
 In a dry and thirsty land
 Where there is no water.

2 So I have looked for You in the sanctuary,
 To see Your power and Your glory.

3 Because Your lovingkindness is better than life,
 My lips shall praise You.

 PSALM 63 title <sup>a</sup> 1 Sam. 22:5 1 <sup>b</sup> Ps. 42:2; [matt. 5:6]

61:8 My vows refers to the vows of praise to God mentioned in v. 5 (see also 22:22–26; 66:13; 76:11).

Psalm 62 is a wisdom psalm that eloquently urges silent confidence in the victory of God over all enemies because salvation is found only in him. Jeduthun in the superscription was the chief of one of the choirs in the temple (1 Chr. 9:16) whose descendants founded a temple choir (1 Chr. 16:41, 42). The superscription “to Jeduthun” is also found in Ps. 39; 77. His psalm consists of seven brief sections: (1) a statement of confidence in God (vv. 1, 2); (2) a direct challenge to the wicked (v. 3); (3) a description of the ways of the wicked (v. 4); (4) a renewed statement of confidence in God (vv. 5–7); (5) a direct challenge to the righteous (v. 8); (6) a further description and warning of the ways of the wicked (vv. 9, 10); (7) a final statement of confidence in God (vv. 11, 12).

62:1, 2 in these two verses, David declares his complete dependence on God. silently waits: David expresses silent resignation before the sovereign will of the living God. My defense is from the word also used in 59:9, 16, 17. not be greatly moved: See the development of David’s confidence in God in the wording of v. 6.

62:3 How long: David addresses his tormentors directly, expecting that they will soon be judged. attack: the word means to threaten or shout at someone.

62:5 wait silently: A different Hebrew word is used here, but the concept of v. 1 is restated. My expectation may also be translated “hope” (71:5).

62:6, 7 Verse 6 is a restatement of v. 2, but strengthened by dropping the word greatly. Verse 7 restates v. 6. My salvation and my glory may be rephrased “my glorious salvation.”

62:8 Trust: David addresses the righteous (contrast v. 3) with his lesson of reliance on God (40:3). What is true for David (v. 7) is extended to all in the believing community.

62:11 once, Twice: it is a convention of wisdom literature to use a number and then raise it by one (Prov. 30:11–33). The point here is that David has heard the message with certainty.

62:12 Mercy can be translated “loyal love,” the covenantal love of the Lord (13:5). to each one: God is the true Judge; he will repay and reward every person (eccl. 12:13, 14).

Psalm 63 is a royal psalm with elements of the psalms of trust (Ps. 23). The brief biographical note in the title “when he was in the wilderness of Judah” possibly refers to an incident during the period when Saul was chasing David (1 Sam. 22–24). The pattern of the psalm is as follows: (1) a search for a renewed sense of God’s presence (vv. 1, 2); (2) a confession of David’s faith in God (vv. 3–5); (3) an expression of confidence in the Lord even during the lonely night watches (vv. 6–8); (4) a prediction of the end of David’s enemies (vv. 9, 10); (5) a renewal of David’s confession of trust in God the great King (v. 11).

63:1, 2 O God, You are my God: The opening words indicate faith in God, but they also suggest a time of trouble (22:1). thirsts . . . longs: The poet is away from the place of God’s worship and feels the distance keenly (42:1, 2). The sanctuary had been at Nob (1 Sam. 21:1), and it was there that David had sought the presence of the Lord. Later it was moved to Jerusalem (76:1, 2).

63:3–5 The psalmist expresses his joy in knowing God and his

- 4 Thus I will bless You while I live;
I will <sup>e</sup>lift up my hands in Your name.
- 5 My soul shall be satisfied as with <sup>1</sup>marrow and <sup>2</sup>fatness,
And my mouth shall praise You with joyful lips.
- 6 When <sup>f</sup>I remember You on my bed,
I meditate on You in the night watches.
- 7 Because You have been my help,
Therefore in the shadow of Your wings I will rejoice.
- 8 My soul follows close behind You;
Your right hand upholds me.

Shall go into the lower parts of the

They shall be <sup>4</sup>a portion for jackals.

But the mouth of those who speak lies shall be stopped.

1 <sup>1</sup> complaint

- 2 Hide me from the secret plots of the

From the rebellion of the workers of iniquity,
- 3 Who sharpen their tongue like a sword,
<sup>a</sup>And bend their bows to shoot their arrows—bitter words,
- 4 That they may shoot in secret at the blameless;
Suddenly they shoot at him and do not fear.
- 5 They encourage themselves in an evil matter;
They talk of laying snares
secretly;

- 6 They devise iniquities:
“We have perfected a shrewd

Both the inward thought and the heart of man are deep.

Suddenly they shall be wounded.

And shall <sup>d</sup>declare the work of

For they shall wisely consider His determination to continue praising God throughout his life. Lovingkindness may also be translated “loyal love” (13:5). Praise is a vocal, public act in the Psalms (heb. 13:15). ble<sup>s</sup>s . . . hand<sup>s</sup>: Praise (the meaning of ble<sup>s</sup>s here) and raising the hands in worship are often associated in the Psalms (134:2). to lift the hands to the Lord expresses dependence on him, coupled with an acknowledgment of his power, wonder, and majesty (77:2). be satisfied . . . with joyful lips: in coming to the Lord in praise, the poet finds the refreshment he has sought (v. 1).

63:6 From his bed, David continues to fix his thoughts on God (77:6). night watches: the israelites counted three watches to the night. evidently David is having difficulty sleeping, and he directs his thoughts to worship. Meditate means “to speak” about the things of God or to fill one’s mind with the knowledge of God (1:2; 77:12).

63:7, 8 in the shadow of Your wings: See 91:4 for this expression of faith in God. Your right hand: the same power of God that delivered israel from egypt (ex. 15:6) would support David—and all other believers in their daily life (74:11).

63:9, 10 David predicts the destruction of his enemies. they will be driven to barren places where only jackals, wild dogs of the desert, roam.

63:11 The king refers to David. When he finally became king, David would find his true pleasure in God. Everyone who swears by Him refers to those who believe in the Lord.

Psalm 64 has elements of lament (Ps. 13) and imprecation (Ps. 137), but it appears to be basically a wisdom psalm. it contrasts the righteous and the wicked, compares their destinies, and is itself a “meditation” (v. 1). the structure of the poem is: (1) an appeal for protection from the wicked (vv. 1, 2); (2) a description of the evil activities of the wicked (vv. 3–6); (3) an expectation of the defeat of the wicked by God (vv. 7–9); (4) a description of the joy of the righteous (v. 10).

64:1 the initial cry of the psalmist expressed with the verbs hear and preserve resembles the psalms of lament (Ps. 13), but the term my meditation suggests that this is a wisdom psalm. this observation is confirmed in the rest of the psalm, which contrasts the destiny of the wicked with that of the righteous, a theme of wisdom psalms. in other passages the term meditation has the idea of “complaint” (55:2; 102:2; 142:2). But in this psalm the word indicates contemplation, for David contemplated the wicked and their end (see also 73:17).

64:5, 6 the arrogance of the wicked in their plots against the righteous is a continuing theme in the Psalms (Ps. 9; 10; 12). Who will see: the wicked do not know, or do not care, that there is one who sees (73:11), and who will repay (75:7).

64:10 the joy of confident trust in God cannot be overstated. By placing our problems into God’s hands, we can rest in his sovereign will for our lives. Concerns about the future can be cast aside, for the Lord controls our future and has good plans for us (see rom.

PSALM 66

Praise to God for His Awesome Works

To the Chief Musician. A Song. A Psalm.

- Make <sup>a</sup>a joyful shout to God, all the earth!
2 Sing out the honor of His name;
Make His praise glorious.

8:28). All the upright in heart is another designation for the righteous or “the blameless” (v. 4). their glory is their exuberant praise to God (63:11).

Psalm 65 is a wisdom psalm and more particularly a creation psalm (as Ps. 19). It celebrates rainfall, sharing the mood of Ps. 104 in this regard. But this is also a prophetic psalm, although it is not always recognized as such. the prophetic element is signaled in the first verse, the vow of praise yet to be paid—that is, all creation is waiting to praise the Lord when he finally appears in glory (see rom. 14:10, 11; r ev. 19:5). the psalm has five movements: (1) a vow of praise yet to be performed (vv. 1–3); (2) a blessing pronounced on the redeemed (v. 4); (3) a celebration of God’s power that extends throughout the earth (vv. 5–8); (4) a celebration of God’s provision of rain (vv. 9, 10); (5) a celebration of God’s coming blessings in the year of his goodness (vv. 11–13).

65:1 Praise is awaiting You: t here is still a vow of praise to be performed (v. 3). in the background of this psalm is an idea not far from that of Paul in rom. 8:22, the groaning of creation for its release from the curse brought on it by humanity’s fall (Gen. 3:17). the point of the psalm is twofold: (1) every good rain and every full harvest is a blessing from God, showing his delight in his creation. (2) A day of God’s goodness is coming in which good rains and harvests will be greater than ever before.

65:2, 3 atonement: David speaks of a coming day when sin will be dealt with fully, when redemption will be completely paid. t his took place in the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ (see eph. 1:7).

65:4 shall be satisfied: in other psalms, David expresses his desire to live in the presence of God (27:4, 5). t he fulfillment of this desire in David’s day came through the sacrificial services of worship in israel.

65:5–8 t he awesome power of God at creation in the beginning (Job 26) will one day be seen anew in the restoration of all things. noise of the seas: God’s power over the “dark powers” of the seas is a regular theme in the royal psalms (Ps. 93).

65:9, 10 You visit the earth: r ainfall is seen here as a gracious visitation of God. t his is in keeping with the provisions of God’s covenant with israel (Deut. 28:12). t hese words have some fulfillment every time the rains bring productivity to the earth.

65:11–13 Your paths: t he picture is of wagon tracks across the heavens, where the “cart” of God’s mercies slashes abundance on the earth below. they also sing: t he “singers” here are the pastures and the valleys. t he coming of God’s kingdom to earth will be a magnificent time of productivity (67:6). t his is the vow that remains to be performed (v. 1).

Psalm 66, a psalm of praise, offers significant contributions to our understanding of the values of biblical worship. in the course of the psalm, the poet offers descriptive praise, praising God for who he is and what he does, as well as declarative praise, praising God for specific answers to prayer. t he structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) a call for all the earth to join in the celebratory worship of God (vv. 1–4); (2) an enumeration of reasons to worship God (vv. 5–7); (3) a call for the peoples to join the psalmist in descriptive praise of God (vv. 8–12); (4) the psalmist’s decision to participate in holy worship (vv. 13–15); (5) declarative praise of God (vv. 16–19); (6) a final blessing of the Lord (v. 20).

66:1, 2 As in 100:1, the call is not only for the people of israel, but for peoples of all the earth to join in the praise of the living God, the most high (Ps. 87; 96; 117). Sing out the honor of His name: t he Lord is pleased with music that praises his glorious name

PSALM 67

An Invocation and a Doxology

To the Chief Musician. On <sup>1</sup> stringed instruments. A Psalm. A Song.

God be merciful to us and bless us,
 And <sup>a</sup> cause His face to shine upon us, Selah

2 That <sup>b</sup> Your way may be known on earth,

(ex. 15:2). t he Lord’s name describes his character, so honoring God’s name is honoring God himself (ex. 3:14, 15).

66:3, 4 How awesome: t he works of God are designed to bring a sense of awe to people (19:1, 2). in this context, submit means “to cringe” before God. t he term translated worship means “to kneel” or “to bow down.” t he opening verses of this psalm present a call and an expectation that one day all the earth will worship God, with a particular focus on the glory of God’s name.

66:8, 9 t o bless God is to identify him as the source of our blessing (see 103:1, 2). you peoples: t he call is to all the nations of the earth (vv. 1, 4, 5). God’s preservation of his people is one of many reasons to bless him.

66:13–15 Your house refers to the temple in Jerusalem where God lived among his people. During periods of distress in his life, the poet made vows that when God brought him out of distress, he would publicly acknowledge God’s deliverance (40:1–3; 61:5, 8; 76:11). each of the sacrifices would be accompanied by the heart attitude of the true worshiper (see John 4:23, 24). t he psalmist speaks very personally of his intent to bring abundant sacrifices in his worship of God.

66:16–19 You who fear God refers to those who respond in awe and wonder to the Lord (v. 4). iniquity: Among the things that can block effective prayer is ongoing sin in a believer’s life (Ps. 32).

But the psalmist here confesses that God has heard. t he psalmist appeals to the “peoples” in vv. 8, 9; he calls out to believers in vv. 16–19.

66:20 t he concluding words of the poem are an affirmation of the psalmist’s blessing of the Lord (v. 8) based on his realization of God’s continuing goodness in his life.

Psalm 67, a psalm of praise, serves as a marvelous invocation and doxology in worship. t he poem calls the nations of the world to praise God, to join israel in honoring the Creator. t here is: (1) a call for God’s blessing for the purpose of world evangelization (vv. 1, 2); (2) a call for the nations to bless the Lord in view of his righteous judgments (vv. 3, 4); (3) a call for the nations to bless the Lord in view of his coming kingdom (vv. 5–7).

67:1, 2 cause His face to shine: in the language of the Aaronic benediction (num. 6:24–26), the psalmist calls for God to smile on his people (Ps. 80). From the beginning, God had intended to bring his blessing to all nations, in fulfillment of the provisions of the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 12:3). t his passage anticipates the thrust of world mission that is found in the nt (matt. 28:18–20; Acts 1:8). t he point in this psalm is clear: may God bless his people israel in such a manner that the message of God’s way would become known throughout the earth.

- 3 Let the peoples praise You, O God;
Let all the peoples praise You.
- 4 Oh, let the nations be glad and sing for joy!
For <sup>d</sup>You shall judge the people
righteously,
And govern the nations on earth.
- Selah*
- 5 Let the peoples praise You, O God;
Let all the peoples praise You.
- 6 <sup>e</sup>Then the earth shall <sup>2</sup>yield her increase;
God, our own God, shall bless us.
- 7 God shall bless us,
And all the ends of the earth shall fear Him.

When You marched through the

- 8 The earth shook;
The heavens also dropped rain at the presence of God;
Sinai itself was moved at the presence of God, the God of Israel.
- 9 <sup>j</sup>You, O God, sent a plentiful rain, divides the <sup>5</sup>spoil.

- 13 <sup>o</sup>Though you lie down among the <sup>6</sup>sheepfolds, <sup>p</sup>You will be like the wings of a dove covered with silver,
And her feathers with yellow gold.”

67:3, 4 Let the peoples praise You: God’s desire is for all people to praise him, for he is their Creator and their Provider (2 Pet. 3:9). t his should also be the desire of God’s people.

67:5–7 yield her increase: As in the prophetic aspect of Ps. 65, the coming of God’s kingdom on earth will be marked by a magnificent increase in production. t he curse on the land (Gen. 3:17–19; r om. 8:22) will be lifted in “the year of God’s goodness” (65:11).

Psalm 68 is based in part on the Song of Deborah in Judg. 5. it speaks with great power of the glory of God. t he first and last verses of the psalm is as follows: (1) a call for God to rise in judgment against the wicked (vv. 1–3); (2) a call for the people of God to praise him for his wonders and mercies (vv. 4–6); (3) a review of the works of God on behalf of his people (vv. 7–14); (4) a celebration of the city of God and his saving works (vv. 15–20); (5) an anticipation of the final victory of God over all his enemies (vv. 21–27); (6) an anticipation of the worship of God by the peoples of the earth (vv. 28–35).

68:1–3 Let God arise . . . flee before Him: t he presence of the wicked on the earth is an assault on God’s holiness and a constant threat to the righteous. on ly God’s mercy compels him to delay his judgment (75:2). But when God awakes, his enemies will be scattered; they will disappear like smoke. let the righteous . . . rejoice exceedingly: t he joy of the righteous will be great when there is an end to all evil (58:10).

68:4 Extol Him who rides on the clouds: A well-known description of Baal was as “the rider of the clouds.” here the title is stripped from the supposed “god” Baal and given to the living God of Scripture. t he fact that the Lord is the r ider of the clouds indicates that he is the o ne who brings rain and controls the powerful forces of a storm (147:8, 9, 15–18). YAH is a shortened form of the divine name Yahweh (ex. 3:14, 15). t here is a significant emphasis on the name of God in this section (122:4; 135:1–3).

68:5 t he Lord is not limited to clouds and storms; he also meets the needs of the helpless. For all people, he is in His holy habitation, dispensing justice.

68:7–10 t he poet describes the work of God on behalf of his people in poetic terms that recall the exodus events and draw on the Song of Deborah (Judg. 5:4). t he language of this section is also an expansion of the description in v. 4; this is the march of God as the true God of the Storm.

68:11 t he term translated word refers to a command rather than a revelation. t he command was that God’s works would be made known among the peoples. Those who proclaimed it translates a feminine participle. t hus the people who made the proclamation were women, most likely the women who gave praise to God under the direction of miriam (ex. 15:20, 21).

68:14 The Almighty is the name Shaddai, a title that refers to the majesty and strength of the Lord (91:1). The scattering of kings refers to the early battles won by Israel during the wilderness period and at the time of the conquest of the land of Canaan.

68:15, 16 Bashan was a very fertile area northeast of the Sea of Galilee, a part of the former territory of Gog. It is possible that the connotation of Bashan as a place of plenty is transferred poetically to Jerusalem in these verses, for it was only in Jerusalem that the Lord had sworn that he would dwell.

68:18 When God delivered his people from Egypt, he brought them out with great treasures from the Egyptians (ex. 12:35, 36). These gifts were used by the people of Israel to build the tabernacle (ex. 35) that the Lord God might dwell there.

68:19, 20 This section is a benediction, a blessing on the Lord, for his daily mercies in the lives of the people of faith. The God of our salvation is a great title for the one who saved Israel from Egypt, who saved Israel from their sin, who continues to save his people in their daily lives, and who will glorify his people in the future.

68:21, 22 The Lord is the Victor over the enemies of his people. None shall escape, whether near—Bashan—or far—in the sea. Like grapes they will be crushed, and justice will finally be served (58:10).

68:24–27 The procession of God could refer to one of three things: (1) carrying the ark of the covenant through the wilderness during the time of the exodus; (2) God leading as the Commander of his armies in Israel; (3) the grand procession of the Savior King as he comes to establish his reign on earth (r ev. 19:14–21). Timbrels, or tambourines, often played by women, were used for both sacred and secular occasions. Associated with dance, they suggested joy (81:2; 149:3; 150:4; see also Judg. 11:34; 1 Sam. 18:6, 7; 2 Sam. 6:5; is. 30:32). The fountain of Israel is a poetic term for the people as they rise to praise God. Little Benjamin: the role of Benjamin, one of the smaller tribes, was significant. Saul was from this tribe, and the city of Jerusalem was located within its borders.

68:29, 30 Kings . . . presents: the term presents means “gifts offered in homage.” Royal guests came to Solomon with gifts (1 Kin. 10:1–10); but the ultimate prophetic fulfillment of this verse was in the kings who came to Jerusalem to bring gifts to the infant Jesus (Matt. 2:1–12). One day all kings will show their obedience and humility before Jesus, the great King (2:10–12; 76:11). Egypt, Assyria, and Canaan may be indicated by the phrases the beasts of the reeds, the herd of bulls, and the calves of the peoples. The point of these verses seems to be general submission to the royal house in Jerusalem.

- 33 To Him <sup>q</sup> who rides on the heaven of heavens, which were of old!
Indeed, He sends out His voice, a <sup>r</sup> mighty voice.
- 34 <sup>s</sup> Ascribe strength to God;
His excellence is over Israel,
And His strength is in the clouds.
- 35 O God, <sup>t</sup> You are more awesome than Your holy places.
The God of Israel is He who gives strength and power to His people.

Blessed be God!

68:33–35 t he psalm ends with a celebration of the presence of God in the midst of his people. t his section looks forward to the reign of Jesus the Savior King (Zeph. 3:14–17). Him who rides on the heaven of heavens is a development of the phrase found in v. 4. t he Lord's voice is the thunder; God is the true God of storm (77:16–20) and Creator of the universe. When all things are considered, there is nothing in the universe that can be compared with God. t his the poet says You are more awesome than Your holy places. Psalm 69, a psalm of lament, is more specifically a protest of innocence. t his highly messianic psalm presents a remarkable description of the suffering of Jesus Christ. Whereas Ps. 22 describes Jesus' physical sufferings, Ps. 69 focuses more on his emotional and spiritual suffering. Yet like Ps. 22, this psalm was written by David approximately a thousand years before the events it describes. Both psalms begin with the sufferings of David but have their full meaning in the sufferings of Jesus. its structure is as follows: (1) a cry for deliverance that expresses the psalmist's weariness (vv. 1–3); (2) a description of the psalmist's enemies (v. 4); (3) a lament that expresses the psalmist's sense of alienation (vv. 5–12); (4) a cry for deliverance from the mire (vv. 13–18); (5) a lament that expresses the psalmist's reproach (vv. 19–21); (6) a petition for God to bring his judgment on the wicked (vv. 22–28); (7) a determination to praise the Lord (vv. 29–36).

69:2, 3 I sink in deep mire: t he opening words of this psalm of anguish use the strong image of a person about to drown—not just in deep waters, but in muck (40:2). t his powerfully descriptive language expresses extreme mental anguish. I am weary: As a drowning man might exhaust his voice entirely, so David is worn out from praying and crying out to the Lord (6:6).

69:4 hate me without a cause: t hese words describe David's experience in a difficult period of his life. it seems that his foes are innumerable; but more devastating to him than their number is the fact that he has not caused their attack. Any attack is difficult; an unprovoked attack is intolerable. Yet these words also are prophetic of the sufferings of Jesus (35:19; 109:3–5; John 15:23–25).

69:9–12 zeal for Your house: Like Phinehas in num. 25, David describes himself as a zealot for the house of the Lord. Jesus' cleansing of the temple was a fulfillment of these words (see John 2:17). When I wept: even the piety of David has become a reason for his enemies to chide him. Those who sit in the gate: t he elders of the cities looked with contempt on David; similarly, many of the elders of Jerusalem held Jesus in disdain.

69:14–16 t he words deliver me out of the mire tie the psalm together; compare the words of vv. 1–3. Hear me: t his renewed plea to God is based on the character of the Lord; his lovingkindness or loyal love, and his tender mercies compelled David to keep looking to the Lord for deliverance.

- 15 Let not the floodwater overflow me,
Nor let the deep swallow me up;
And let not the pit shut its mouth on me.
- 16 Hear me, O LORD, for Your lovingkindness is good;
Turn to me according to the multitude of Your tender

- 17 And do not hide Your face from Your

For I am in trouble;
Hear me speedily.
- 18 Draw near to my soul, and redeem it;

PSALM 70

Prayer for Relief from Adversaries

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.
<sup>a</sup>To bring to remembrance.

Make haste, <sup>b</sup>O God, to deliver me!
Make haste to help me, O LORD!

- 2 <sup>c</sup> Let them be ashamed and confounded
Who seek my life;
Let them be <sup>1</sup>turned back and confused
Who desire my hurt.

69:20, 21 for my thirst: At one point during Jesus' suffering on the cross, he was offered vinegar to soothe his thirst (matt. 27:34; mark 15:23; Luke 23:36; John 19:28–30).

69:24–28 Pour out Your indignation upon them may refer to the Lord's judgment on his foes in this lament over Jerusalem. The words of v. 25 were fulfilled in Judas iscariot. See Acts 1:20, in which the words of this verse are joined to the words of 109:8.

69:29–33 The phrase I am poor refers to a brokenness of spirit and sense of worthlessness caused by the assaults of the wicked. The poor in the psalms become a portrait of the Savior, illustrating the magnitude of Jesus' humility (described by Paul in Phil. 2:5–7).

I will praise: David praised God in exuberant joy when the Lord saved him from the depths of despair. All humble people, especially those who suffer the indignities brought about by the wicked, will join in praise and joy before God their Savior.

Psalm 70, a psalm of lament, is a reprise of 40:13–17. The description of the poor and needy was such a necessary element in the encouragement of people enduring troubles that this section was selected for individual use as a freestanding poem.

70:2 Let them be ashamed and confounded: David prays that those who rejoice in his misery will be proven wrong in their assumption that the Lord is unable to help his people. In this way, the Lord's deliverance of David will result in God's name being glorified—both by the joy of God's people and the shame of his enemies (see also vv. 3, 4).

- 3 <sup>d</sup> Let them be turned back because of their shame,
Who say, <sup>2</sup> “Aha, aha!”
- 4 Let all those who seek You rejoice and be glad in You;
And let those who love Your salvation say continually,
“Let God be magnified!”
- 5 <sup>e</sup> But I am poor and needy;
<sup>f</sup> Make haste to me, O God!
You are my help and my deliverer;
O LORD, do not delay.

PSALM 71

God the Rock of Salvation

- In <sup>a</sup> You, O LORD, I put my trust;
Let me never be put to shame.
- <sup>2</sup> <sup>b</sup> Deliver me in Your righteousness, and cause me to escape;
<sup>c</sup> Incline Your ear to me, and save me.
- <sup>3</sup> <sup>d</sup> Be my <sup>1</sup> strong refuge,
To which I may resort continually;
You have given the <sup>e</sup> commandment to save me,
For You are my rock and my fortress.
- <sup>4</sup> <sup>f</sup> Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked,
Out of the hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.
- <sup>5</sup> For You are <sup>g</sup> my hope, O Lord God;
You are my trust from my youth.

70:4, 5 t he last three words of the psalm do not delay indicate the near-desperation of David. t he cry echoes David's plea in v. 1 for the Lord to “come quickly” to save him. even in panic-stricken despair, David does not forget to praise his Lord. he reminds himself that the Lord is his only source of strength, help, and deliverance. Psalm 71 is a psalm of lament with a major focus on the psalmist's trust in God. t he psalm alternates between expressions of desperate need and resolute trust in the Lord. in this interplay, the psalmist models the way believers should react to suffering. t he poet describes himself as an old man who has trusted in God for a long time (vv. 9, 18). in his great time of need, he asks God to be faithful to his servant. t he structure of the psalm is as follows: (1) a confession of the psalmist's resolute trust in God (vv. 1–3); (2) petitions for God to deliver the psalmist from trouble (vv. 4–6); (3) a determination to praise God even in the midst of trouble (vv. 7, 8); (4) petitions for deliverance (vv. 9–11); (5) a call for judgment on the psalmist's enemies (vv. 12, 13); (6) a commitment to trust and praise God (vv. 14–16); (7) a renewal of the psalmist's petitions based on his experience of God's faithfulness (vv. 17, 18); (8) a renewal of trust in God (vv. 19–21); (9) a determination to praise God (vv. 22–24). 71:1 t he theme of the psalm is stated in this verse. o n the basis of resolute trust (61:4; 91:3), the psalmist asks that he never be put to shame. t rusting in God is never foolish (4:2; 119:31). 71:2, 3 in Your righteousness: t he psalmist is concerned not only with his own plight but with the character of God (vv. 15, 16, 19, 24). t he psalmist's point is that God could display h is righteousness by answering the needs of the psalmist, whose life had been lived in constant trust in God. strong refuge: t he hebrew words mean literally “rock fortress.” t he Lord is the only source of continual protection for the psalmist.

71:4 t he hebrew root of deliver me means “to cause to escape” (17:13; 37:40; 144:2). After asking for deliverance, the poet reasserts his strong faith in God, calling him his hope and his trust, the one who has sustained him from his birth (22:10). he prays in faith, not allowing his circumstances to cause him to doubt the goodness of God.

71:7 a wonder: t he poet declares that the work of God in his life has made him a special sign to the people, similar to the great miracles of God through mooses and Aaron in egypt (ex. 7:3; 11:9). 71:9–11 t he poet uses familiar images in the psalms of lament (Ps. 13) to encourage God to respond to his need. in the time of old age: t he psalmist has trusted in God his entire life (v. 6); it would be sad if he were dismissed by the Lord late in life (v. 18). n ot only was the psalmist's own life and comfort at stake, but so was the reputation of God. if the enemies concluded that God has forsaken him, then the reputation of the Lord would be tarnished in the world. 71:12, 13 do not be far: t hese words evoke the language of 22:1, 19. confounded: t he language of this verse is imprecatory (Ps. 137); the poet calls for justice and vengeance against his enemies, for they are in fact enemies of the living God (v. 24).

71:14 I will hope: t he hebrew text has an emphatic pronoun meaning “as for me,” bringing determination to the poet's words. t he hebrew verb translated hope describes a confident expectation that God will intervene and deliver (147:11).

- 16 I will go in the strength of the Lord
God;
I will make mention of Your righteousness, of Yours only.
- 17 O God, You have taught me from my <sup>n</sup>youth;
And to this day I declare Your wondrous works.
- 18 Now also <sup>o</sup>when I am old and grayheaded,
O God, do not forsake me,
Until I declare Your strength to this generation,
Your power to everyone who is to

- 19 Also <sup>p</sup>Your righteousness, O God, is <sup>4</sup>very high,
You who have done great things;
<sup>q</sup>O God, who is like You?
- 20 <sup>r</sup>You, who have shown me great and severe troubles,
<sup>s</sup>Shall revive me again,

- 21 You shall increase my greatness,
And comfort me on every side.
- 22 Also <sup>t</sup>with the lute I will praise
You—
And Your faithfulness, O my God!
To You I will sing with the harp,
O <sup>u</sup>Holy One of Israel.

PSALM 72

Glory and Universality of the Messiah's Reign

A Psalm <sup>a</sup> of Solomon.

- Give the king Your judgments,
O God,
And Your righteousness to the king's Son.
- 2 <sup>b</sup> He will judge Your people with righteousness,
And Your poor with justice.
- 3 <sup>c</sup> The mountains will bring peace to
the people,
And the little hills, by righteousness.
- 4 <sup>d</sup> He will bring justice to the poor of
the people;
He will save the children of the needy,
And will <sup>1</sup>break in pieces the oppressor.
- 5 <sup>2</sup> They shall fear You <sup>e</sup> As long as the sun and moon endure,
Throughout all generations.

71:17, 18 youth . . . old and grayheaded: t he poet has trusted in God all his life. in his old age, he faces a crisis. he fully expects that God in his righteousness (vv. 2, 15, 16, 19, 24) will respond favorably to his request to deliver him and preserve him from shame (v. 1). For his part, the psalmist will continue to praise the Lord.

71:19, 20 t he poet speaks of the great things that God had done, for which he is worthy of praise. he also speaks of the great and severe troubles that he has experienced at God's hand, and from which he seeks relief. Depths of the earth is a metaphor for the psalmist's despondency (40:2); he feels as though he has already dropped headlong into a pit.

71:22, 23 the poem concludes with a bold vow of praise, in confident expectation that the psalmist's prayer will be answered. t he poet praises God with the lute, but also with his lips. At the same time, his inner being, his soul, is filled with praises to the living God.

71:24 brought to shame: t he psalm comes full circle with the word shame. t he poet begins by asking the Lord to prevent him from becoming shamed (v. 1), and he ends the poem with a declaration that the wicked have been shamed. t he Lord has answered his prayer; he has protected his righteous servant.

Psalm 72, a royal psalm, is one of two psalms (see also Ps. 127) ascribed to Solomon, the son of David. King Solomon might have arranged David's psalms in something like their present order, then appended his own psalm to the group (see v. 20). t his psalm is intensely messianic, speaking in ideal terms of the coming of the great King. o n the basis of the ideals of ancient middle eastern royalty, the psalm calls for a good king to govern israel under God's blessing. Ultimately this King is the Savior Jesus. t he psalm has the following structure: (1) a call for a reign of judgment (vv. 1-4); (2) anticipation of a reign of righteousness (vv. 5-7); (3) a vision of a universal reign (vv. 8-11); (4) a vision of a reign of compassionate justice (vv. 12-14); (5) a prediction of a reign of great blessing (vv. 15-17); (6) praise for the God who will establish this glorious reign (vv. 18-20).

72:5-7 Fear You is an expression of wonder, awe, reverence, worship, and obedience. He shall come down: t he great King is pictured as the gentle rains of God's blessing on the earth. h is reign will lead to true peace, the state of things as they really ought to be.

wondrous works

(heb. pala') (71:17; 107:8; 118:23; 119:27) Strong's #6381

t he core meaning of this word is "to do something extraordinary." in reference to people, the word is used to describe an action or understanding beyond the normal capacity of humans (Deut. 17:8; 30:11; 2 Sam. 13:2; Prov. 30:18) or beyond normal obligations (Lev. 22:21; 27:2; n um. 6:2; 15:3, 8), however, the highest sense of the word is reserved for God alone, especially in the Psalms in which it occurs most frequently and always in reference to God (72:18; 136:4). God is wonderful in counsel; nothing is too marvelous for him (Gen. 18:14; is. 28:29). his wondrous works are cosmic (107:24; Job 37:14), national (ex. 3:20; is. 29:14), and personal (31:21; Job 10:16). n ot everyone understands them (78:32; 106:7), but the Bible exhorts believers to remember these wonderful works of God and publicly praise him for them (96:3; 105:2, 5; 1 Chr. 16:9, 12, 24).

- 6 <sup>f</sup>He shall come down like rain upon the grass before mowing,
Like showers that water the earth.
- 7 In His days the righteous shall flourish,
<sup>g</sup>And abundance of peace,
Until the moon is no more.
- 8 <sup>h</sup>He shall have dominion also from sea to sea,
And from the River to the ends of the earth.
- 9 <sup>i</sup>Those who dwell in the wilderness will bow before Him,
<sup>j</sup>And His enemies will lick the dust.
- 10 <sup>k</sup>The kings of Tarshish and of the isles
Will bring presents;
The kings of Sheba and Seba
Will offer gifts.
- 11 <sup>l</sup>Yes, all kings shall fall down before Him;
All nations shall serve Him.
- 12 For He <sup>m</sup>will deliver the needy when he cries,
The poor also, and him who has no helper.
- 13 He will spare the poor and needy,
And will save the souls of the needy.
- 14 He will redeem their life from oppression and violence;
And <sup>n</sup>precious shall be their blood in His sight.
- 15 And He shall live;
And the gold of <sup>o</sup>Sheba will be given to Him;
Prayer also will be made for Him continually,
And daily He shall be praised.
- 16 There will be an abundance of grain in the earth,
On the top of the mountains;
Its fruit shall wave like Lebanon;
<sup>p</sup>And those of the city shall flourish like grass of the earth.

BIBLE TIMES & CULTURE NOTES

Lebanon

in ancient times the Phoenicians used the city-states of Byblos, Sidon, and Tyre as the base of a great sea-trading empire in what is now Lebanon. Over the years, these city-states were conquered by Egyptians, Assyrians, Persians, and the Greeks under Alexander the Great. The scenic beauty of the country has inspired many symbolic references in the Bible and the rich vegetation of Lebanon became a symbol of fruitfulness and fertility. Originally, the famed cedars of Lebanon covered the region, but bands of marauding conquerors from Mesopotamia, Egypt, Israel, and Tyre destroyed the forests by using the wood for palaces, furniture, ships, coffins, and musical instruments. By the sixth century A.D., the beautiful groves were almost gone. The climate of Lebanon ranges from the almost tropical heat and vegetation of the plain of Dan to heavy snow in the plain of el-Bekaa. mainly it has a Mediterranean climate with cool, wet winters and hot, dry summers.

72:8–10 The promises of God to Abraham included a promise that his descendants would have dominion over the land of Canaan (Gen. 15:18–21). These verses expand the geographical dimensions to include the entire earth. The River refers to the Euphrates—a distant, significant waterway that many Israelites hoped would become the extent of their kingdom. The glorious coming King will have the river as a near border; his territory will extend to the ends of the earth. No one will escape the power of his reign, not even those in the wilderness. Lick the dust: The King's enemies will have their faces to the ground in forced submission to his majesty. Tarshish and Sheba were the most distant places known to the Israelites; they suggest distances beyond Solomon's imagination. As Solomon had received gifts from the queen of Sheba (1 Kin. 10:1–10), so he predicted that the coming King would receive gifts from rulers all over the earth.

72:13, 14 This section emphasizes the work of the King on behalf of the poor and needy. Precious shall be their blood: The blood shed by the needy points to the blood the Savior shed on the cross (see Heb. 12:24). No wonder Jesus finds the shed blood of others to be precious.

72:15–17 The promise of life in the words He shall live is a messianic theme (16:10, 11; 91:16; 118:17, 18), for the coming Savior is the only one who grants true life (John 11:25). Gold of Sheba: This is a reference to v. 10. The name of the great King will be regarded as the greatest name in the universe; Paul speaks this way of Jesus' name in Phil. 2:9–11.

72:18, 19 These magnificent words of benediction mark the conclusion of the psalm, as well as the conclusion of Book II of the Psalms. The repetition of the word blessed, the focus on the name (as in 89:16), and the double Amen all indicate that this psalm was used in the worship of God in his temple.

19 And <sup>v</sup>blessed be His glorious name forever!
<sup>w</sup>And let the whole earth be filled with His glory.
 Amen and Amen.

20 The prayers of David the son of Jesse are ended.

The Tragedy of the Wicked, and the Blessedness of Trust in God

A Psalm of <sup>a</sup>Asaph.

Truly God is good to Israel,
 To such as are pure in heart.
 2 But as for me, my feet had almost stumbled;
 My steps had nearly <sup>b</sup>slipped.
 3 <sup>c</sup>For I was envious of the boastful,

 So, Lord, when You awake,

72:20 The prayers of David: t he superscription of Ps. 72 attributes the psalm to Solomon. it is possible that Solomon wrote this poem in honor of his father David at the end of an early edition of the psalms so far collected. o ther psalms were added later to this original collection.

Psalm 73 is a psalm of trust with some features of the wisdom psalms. t he psalm is unusual in that it tells a story about the psalmist's struggle with envy, doubts, and his faith in God. But through his struggles, the psalmist Asaph learned to trust in God. t he structure of the poem is as follows: (1) the temptation to be envious of the wicked (vv. 1–3); (2) a description of the wicked (vv. 4–14); (3) the realization that the end of the wicked is the balancing factor (vv. 15–20); (4) the psalmist's regret over his uncertainty (vv. 21–24); (5) a renewed resolve to trust in God alone (vv. 25, 26); (6) the destruction of the wicked (v. 27); (7) a renewed trust in God (v. 28).

73:1–3 in the opening verses Asaph describes the crisis of faith he experienced. h e begins with one of the basic elements of biblical theology, that God is good to Israel (100:5; 106:1; 107:1). But then he confesses that he almost stumbled when he became envious of the success and wealth of the wicked.

73:5, 6 Asaph observes that the attitudes and actions of the wicked seem to place no constraints upon them. t hey appear not to have trouble. t heir pride and violence are not hidden but are displayed like jewelry. t hey fulfill their lustful appetites and boast about their wicked accomplishments.

73:12 Asaph describes the apathy about God characteristic of the wicked, who had concluded that God—if there was a God—was disengaged from people's lives. Asaph is bothered by the fact that with this aberrant view of life the wicked are still able to enjoy life, drink their fill, and live at ease. t hus the psalmist feels that his own acts of righteous living are without meaning or purpose.

73:15–17 untrue: Asaph realizes that if he continued on this path, he would be abandoning the faith. h e finds the issue painful to consider until he comes to a new sense of enlightenment in the sanctuary, the temple in Jerusalem. h e rediscovered something he probably knew but had not really considered: t he prosperity of the wicked will not last. t heir wealth will have no value in the next life.

73:19 Asaph remembers that the wicked are just a step away from disaster. In a moment they could find all of their wealth valueless and their pleasure vanished as they face an eternity separated from the presence of their Creator.

- 21 Thus my heart was grieved,
And I was <sup>6</sup>vexed in my mind.
22 <sup>p</sup>I was so foolish and ignorant;
I was like a beast before You.
23 Nevertheless I am continually with
You;
You hold me by my right hand.
24 <sup>q</sup>You will guide me with Your counsel,
And afterward receive me to glory.
25 <sup>r</sup>Whom have I in heaven but You?
And there is none upon earth that I desire besides You.
26 <sup>s</sup>My flesh and my heart fail;
But God is the <sup>7</sup>strength of my heart and my <sup>t</sup>portion forever.
27 For indeed, <sup>u</sup>those who are far from
You shall perish;
You have destroyed all those who
<sup>8</sup>desert You for harlotry.
28 But it is good for me to <sup>v</sup>draw near to God;
I have put my trust in the Lord God,
That I may <sup>w</sup>declare all Your works.

73:21–24 Asaph was grieved because of his own lapse of faith (vv. 1–3). in the manner of a wisdom psalm, he speaks of his own foolishness. like a beast: An animal has no sense of eternity and a divine perspective. t he poet was making an animal-like decision when he began to wonder about the wicked (vv. 1–3). But God had never left him, even when he struggled with doubts. And afterward: What helped the psalmist gain a proper perspective on this life was the afterlife. t he righteous will have the glorious privilege of living with God forever.

73:27, 28 t he contrast between the words shall perish and draw near to God explains the heart of the psalm. t here are those who may enjoy great wealth and notoriety today, but nothing they have or do will last forever. t herefore, Asaph concludes he has put his trust in the Lord God. o nly those who place their trust in God will find eternal life and eternal peace.

Psalm 74 is a lament psalm of the community (as is Ps. 80) and a powerful presentation of hebrew poetry at its best. t he poem describes God's actions in the past and the desire of his people for him to act in the present. in some ways, Ps. 75 may be regarded as the Lord's answer to the difficult questions of Ps. 74. t his is one of 11 psalms attributed to Asaph (Ps. 50; 73–83). t he outline of the poem is: (1) a community lament over a foreign invasion (vv. 1–8); (2) a community complaint that there appears to be no hope (vv. 9–11); (3) a recounting of God's historic victories against evil powers (vv. 12–17); (4) a petition for God to remember his covenant and deliver his people (vv. 18–21); (5) a call for God to act on his own behalf against his enemies (vv. 22, 23).

74:1, 2 O God, why is a classic lament in the Psalms (13:1). t he invasion of a foreign power into Judah and Jerusalem had devastated the people. t he foreign invader is viewed as an expression of the anger of the Lord. t he principal call of the psalm is for the Lord to remember his people and the foolish ridicule of their enemies (vv. 18, 22). in his appeal to God the poet uses a series of endearing terms to describe the people of God: the sheep of Your pasture, Your congregation, the tribe of Your inheritance, and this Mount Zion. t he psalmist also focuses on the loving actions of God for his people in the past: You have purchased, You have redeemed, You have dwelt. in the context of God's past faithfulness to the people he has chosen, the poet calls upon God to deliver his people in their time of need (vv. 20, 22).

74:3–7 Lift up Your feet is a call for God “to get up and walk” to see what is going on. t he worst part of the enemy invasion was the desecration of the temple in Jerusalem. Several terms are used to describe this holy place: the sanctuary, Your meeting place, and the dwelling place of Your name.

74:11 t he poet calls on God to fight against the enemy, to extend his right hand to protect and deliver the people as he had during the exodus (63:8; see also ex. 15:6).

74:12 t he Lord is King by virtue of his creation of the earth (Ps. 93). he is King because of his special relationship with israel (44:4; 99:1–3). And he is the coming King who will reign over all (96:13; 97:1–6; 98:6–9). from of old: t he poet recalls the ancient victories of the Lord over the dark forces in a poetic recasting of the events of creation. Salvation here refers to God's deliverance of

Thanksgiving for God's Righteous Judgment

To the Chief Musician. Set to <sup>a</sup>“Do<sup>1</sup> Not Destroy.” A Psalm of Asaph. A Song.

We give thanks to You, O God,
we give thanks!
For Your wondrous works declare that Your name is near.

- 2 “When I choose the <sup>2</sup>proper time,
I will judge uprightly.
- 3 The earth and all its inhabitants are dissolved;
I set up its pillars firmly. Selah
- 4 “I said to the boastful, ‘Do not deal boastfully,’
And to the wicked, <sup>b</sup>‘Do not <sup>3</sup>lift up the horn.
- 5 Do not lift up your horn on high;
Do not speak with <sup>4</sup>a stiff neck.’” earth from the dark forces represented by the waters and serpents (vv. 13–15).

74:13 the sea . . . the heads of the sea serpents: in Canaanite mythology, the sea and its serpents joined together as enemies of Baal. Supposedly Baal was victorious over these enemies and subsequently became king. The poets of the Bible use the language of Canaanite myth to describe the victories of God in the formation of the earth, in the deliverance of his people from Egypt, and in future battles (77:16–20; 93:1–5; is. 27:1; 51:9, 10). The division of the waters described in Gen. 1:6–8 is viewed as a battle in which God was victorious over both sea and serpents.

74:14 one of the enemies of Baal was the sea monster Lotan. In Hebrew literature this figure became the Leviathan. The name speaks poetically of various evil forces over which God has ultimate control and victory, eventually the Leviathan became a symbol for Satan (is. 27:1) who is “the dragon, that serpent of old” (r ev. 20:2). In this context, the people refers to beasts.

74:15 the fountain: The Lord gave water to the people of Israel in the wilderness (ex. 17:5, 6; num. 20:8–13). mighty rivers: He also enabled his people to cross over the Red Sea (ex. 14) and the River Jordan (Josh. 3).

74:16, 17 in his great works of creation (Gen. 1) God established his rule over day, night, light, and the sun. In addition, he established the seasons and set borders, a reference to the limitations he placed on the waters (Prov. 8:27–29). Asaph’s argument is that since God is in control, why was he allowing chaos in Israel?

74:18–21 three times in this poem the poet calls upon God to remember (vv. 2, 22). In addition to appealing to the honor of God’s name (v. 10), the poet uses endearing terms for God’s people who are in distress: Your turtledove, Your poor, the oppressed, and the poor and needy. These were the people with whom the Lord himself had chosen to make a covenant.

74:22, 23 the phrase plead Your own cause refers to a legal complaint and is often used by the prophets in contexts of impending judgment on Israel (mic. 6:1). For the third time in this poem (vv. 2, 18), God is asked to remember his stake in Israel and his need to defend his own reputation against foolish people.

Psalm 75, a grand psalm of praise (Ps. 100), contains a lively interchange between the people, the psalmist, and the Lord. For other psalms in which the Lord speaks, see Ps. 12; 75; 87; 91. In some ways this psalm may be regarded as God’s answer to the questions presented in Ps. 74. The structure of the psalm is based on its varied speakers: (1) the people’s praise of God for the sense of his presence (v. 1); (2) God’s announcement of his sovereign determination to judge the earth at the proper time (vv. 2–5); (3) the people’s declaration that God is the true Judge (vv. 6–9); (4) God’s declaration of his intention to bring final judgment (v. 10).

75:1 Thanks indicates public acknowledgment of God. Your wondrous works speaks of the actions only God can perform, those that instill a sense of awe on the part of his people. Your name is near: God himself is ready to intervene on the part of his people.

75:2 When I choose the proper time: God will not be rushed—not even by his people. Uprightly indicates the fullness and perfection of God’s justice.

75:3 The earth . . . dissolved: In times of great stress, it may seem that the world is falling apart (60:2). God’s response is I set up its pillars firmly. God has not abandoned his people, nor has he given up his authority.

75:4, 5 on the basis of God’s determination to wait until the “proper time” (v. 2), there are strong warnings to boastful and wicked people who misinterpret God’s delay and think there will be no judgment. The horn is an ancient symbol of strength. The wicked strut around like powerful animals, brandishing symbols of power with no thought of God. But the power of the wicked is feeble compared to the strength of the Almighty (v. 10).

- 6 For exaltation comes neither from the east
Nor from the west nor from the south.
- 7 But <sup>c</sup>God is the Judge:
<sup>d</sup>He puts down one,
And exalts another.
