20 Moab is shamed, for he is broken down.
<sup>b</sup> Wail and cry!
 Tell it in <sup>c</sup> Arnon, that Moab is plundered.

21 “And judgment has come on the plain country:
 On Holon and Jahzah and Mephaath,
 22 On Dibon and Nebo and Beth Diblathaim,

48:6–8 The juniper ekes out its stunted growth in the wilderness, hiding in crevasses of rock. as the apostate people of Judah trusted in the queen of heaven (44:17, 18), Moab trusted in its patron deity Chemosh, a god of fertility and storm. captivity: Taking a deity captive was a well-known Middle Eastern custom. The national statue of the patron deity was seized and it was believed that the captured god could no longer protect its people.
48:11–13 not been emptied from vessel to vessel: Though Moab was subject to Israel in the ninth century B.C., it had never experienced exile and had become complacent in its security. God would empty Moab’s vessels, causing the Moabites to be taken captive. break the bottles: Moab’s cities would be destroyed. Chemosh (v. 7), the great protector of Moab, would become powerless before God, as Bethel fell with Israel (a mos 3:14).

48:14–17 Jeremiah assured Moab that there is but one true King, Whose name is the LORD of hosts, the all-powerful “God of armies.” Bemoan: a note of sarcasm is communicated. The nations around Moab, like Judah, who was attacked by Moab’s mercenaries, were called upon to lament Moab’s destruction.
48:18–20 Dibon was the capital from which King Mesha ruled (see 2 Kin. 3:4–27). The haughty Moab was shamed by the destruction of its mighty fortresses.
48:21–25 Mephaath was one of the Levitical cities (see Josh. 21:37). Bozrah refers not to the capital of Edom, but to Bezer, one of the cities of refuge (see Josh. 20:8). Kerioth is mentioned in a mos 2:2. Horn and arm are symbols of the power and strength that was broken.

- 23 On Kirjathaim and Beth Gamul and Beth Meon,
- 24 On <sup>d</sup>Kerioth and Bozrah,
On all the cities of the land of Moab, Far or near.
- 25 <sup>e</sup>The <sup>7</sup>horn of Moab is cut off,
And his <sup>f</sup>arm is broken,” says the LORD.
- 26 “Make <sup>g</sup>him drunk, Because he exalted himself against
the LORD.
Moab shall wallow in his vomit,
And he shall also be in derision.
- 27 For <sup>h</sup>was not Israel a derision to you?
<sup>i</sup>Was he found among thieves?
For whenever you speak of him,
You shake your head in <sup>j</sup>scorn.
- 28 You who dwell in Moab,
Leave the cities and <sup>k</sup>dwell in the rock,
And be like <sup>l</sup>the dove which makes

And of the haughtiness of his heart.”
- 30 “I know his wrath,” says the LORD,
“But it is not right;
<sup>o</sup>His <sup>8</sup>lies have made nothing right.
- 31 Therefore <sup>p</sup>I will wail for Moab,
And I will cry out for all Moab;
<sup>q</sup>I will mourn for the men of Kir Heres.
- 32 <sup>q</sup>O vine of Sibmah! I will weep for you with the weeping of <sup>r</sup>Jazer.
Your plants have gone over the sea,
They reach to the sea of Jazer.
The plunderer has fallen on your summer fruit and your vintage.
- 33 <sup>s</sup>Joy and gladness are taken From the plentiful field

- 39 “They shall wail:
‘How she is broken down!
How Moab has turned her back with

So Moab shall be a derision

- 40 For thus says the LORD:
- “Behold, <sup>d</sup>one shall fly like an eagle,
And <sup>e</sup>spread his wings over Moab.
- 41 Kerioth is taken,
And the strongholds are surprised;
<sup>f</sup>The mighty men’s hearts in Moab on that day shall be Like the heart of a woman in birth pangs.
- 42 And Moab shall be destroyed <sup>g</sup>as a people,
Because he exalted himself against
the LORD.

48:26–29 Make him drunk: Judgment is portrayed in the form of drunkenness to the point of vomiting, the result of Moab’s mockery of Israel (25:15–29). Pride refers to the self-indulging, self-honoring haughtiness by which one thinks of oneself as greater than others. 48:30–33 The scene in Moab turns to mourning and intense lamentation over the failure of the crops and vineyards. Kir Heres, also called Kir haraseth, (see 2 Kin. 3:25; Is. 16:11), may be a name for the capital city of Moab (Kir of Moab; see Is. 15:1). The joy once heard echoing from the vineyards and winepresses had vanished before the horrifying sound of horses’ hoofbeats and clashing weapons.

48:34 The waters of Nimrim empty into the Jordan opposite Jericho. a lament from Heshbon and Elealeh to Horonaim and Zoar would cover all the Moabite plateau from north to south, from the Dead sea to the desert.

48:35–39 offers sacrifices . . . burns incense: Idolatry would end; the people could no longer worship chemosh and other deities. head . . . beard . . . hands . . . loins: Every kind of lament would be used to mourn for Moab, as the proud Moab became a derision and a dismay like Judah.

48:40–44 The imagery is that of Babylon spreading its ravaging armies over Moab like an eagle spreading its wings (49:22; Deut. 32:11; Ezek. 17:7). exalted himself: Moab’s chief sin was pride, considering itself greater than the God of Israel. Its pride would be turned to fear and terror, and then the nation would be taken captive.

43<sup>h</sup> Fear and the pit and the snare shall be upon you,
 O inhabitant of Moab,” says the LORD.
 44<sup>a</sup> “He who flees from the fear shall fall into the pit,
 And he who gets out of the pit shall be caught in the i snare.
 For upon Moab, upon it j I will bring
 The year of their punishment,” says the LORD.
 45<sup>a</sup> “Those who fled stood under the shadow of Heshbon
 Because of exhaustion.
 But k a fire shall come out of Heshbon,
 A flame from the midst of l Sihon,
 And m shall devour the brow of Moab,
 The crown of the head of the sons of tumult.
 46<sup>n</sup> Woe to you, O Moab!
 The people of Chemosh perish;
 For your sons have been taken captive,
 And your daughters captive.
 47<sup>a</sup> “Yet I will bring back the captives of Moab

 Thus far is the judgment of Moab.

 Has he no heir?
 Why then does l Milcom inherit b Gad,

 Says the Lord God of hosts,
 “From all those who are around you;
 You shall be driven out, everyone headlong,
 And no one will gather those who wander off.
 6 But l afterward I will bring back
 The captives of the people of Ammon,” says the LORD.

Judgment on Edom

7 m Against Edom.
 Thus says the LORD of hosts:
n “Is wisdom no more in Teman?
o Has counsel perished from the prudent?
 Has their wisdom p vanished?
 8 Flee, turn back, dwell in the depths,
 O inhabitants of q Dedan!
 For I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him,
 The time that I will punish him.
 9 r If grape-gatherers came to you,
 Would they not leave some gleaning grapes?
 If thieves by night,
 Would they not destroy until they have enough?

48:47 Bring back means “restore the fortunes of.” Moab would see its people restored to their homeland. Their crops and vineyards would once again be productive. Moab, Judah, and Israel returned home in 538 B.C., during the reign of cyrus.
49:1, 2 Milcom, the patron deity of the ammonites, is pictured as taking possession of the land formerly belonging to the Gadites, a process that began in the days of the judges.
49:3 Heshbon (48:2) was at one time possessed by the ammonites, but later lost to the Moabites. Ai is not the Israelite city of the same name. Rabbah was the capital city of the ammonites. The captivity of the patron deity Milcom was tantamount to his defeat, visible in the exile of leaders and people, together with his statue, from their homeland.

49:4 Valleys . . . flowing valley may be a reference to the Jabbok valley on the northern border of ammon.
49:5 no one will gather those who wander off: Those who fell by the wayside during the flight from ammon would be abandoned.
49:7 Edom was known in the Bible for its wisdom (Obad. 8). Teman was the name of a city or district of Edom in which the capital city Bozrah was located.
49:9-11 grape-gatherers: This imagery derives from 6:9, but there was no real remnant left in Edom. The nation had been totally ravaged and stripped bare, with only women and children left alive to work the land. These workers were invited to trust in God.

10 <sup>s</sup> But I have made Esau bare;
I have uncovered his secret places,
And he shall not be able to hide himself.

His descendants are plundered,
His brethren and his neighbors,
And <sup>t</sup> he is no more.

11 Leave your fatherless children,
I will preserve them alive;
And let your widows trust in Me.”

12 For thus says the LORD: “Behold, <sup>u</sup> those whose judgment was not to drink of the cup have assuredly drunk. And are you the one who will altogether go unpunished? You shall not go unpun-ished, but you shall surely drink of it.
13 For <sup>v</sup> I have sworn by Myself,” says the LORD, “that <sup>w</sup> Bozrah shall become a desolation, a reproach, a <sup>5</sup> waste, and a curse. And all its cities shall be perpetual <sup>6</sup> wastes.”

14 <sup>x</sup> I have heard a message from the LORD,
And an ambassador has been sent to the nations:
“Gather together, come against her,
And rise up to battle!

15 “For indeed, I will make you small among nations,
Despised among men.

16 Your fierceness has deceived you,
The <sup>y</sup> pride of your heart,
O you who dwell in the clefts of the rock,
Who hold the height of the hill!

says the LORD.

Like the heart of a woman in birth

cup

(heb. kos) (25:15; 49:12; Ps. 23:5; Is. 51:22) strong's #3563

The hebrew word translated cup refers to a drinking goblet. In the OT prophetic books, the word is usually associated with imagery of God's wrath, such as the “wine cup of fury” or “the cup of horror” (25:15; Ezek. 23:33). In other places the cup can have a positive significance: it indicates a close relationship with a powerful person (see “Pharaoh's cup” in Gen. 40:11). Moreover in both the OT and NT, the cup can be symbolic of fellowship because of the cup's association with togetherness. The cup is an important image in the NT, especially in the celebration of the Lord's supper (1 cor. 11:25–28).

49:12, 13 drink of the cup: The imagery of the cup of divine wrath is found in 25:15–29. Here it is particularly applied to Edom and more specifically to its capital city, Bozrah.

49:14–16 The imagery in these verses is that of the nations being mustered by God to besiege Edom. Edom would be reduced from a proud people of mighty mountain fortresses to one that was small among the nations.

49:17–19 an astonishment . . . hiss: Like Israel, Judah, Egypt, Moab, and Ammon, Edom would be destroyed and would become an object of derision. Like the lion that emerges from the thickets along the lower Jordan and seizes its prey, God would attack the Edomites through his appointed instrument.

49:20–22 The two things on which Edom most prided itself, its wisdom and its fortresses, would vanish before the judgment of the Lord. As the strongholds collapsed, the earth would quake; its tremors would be felt all the way to the Red Sea. The imagery of the broad wings of the eagle, representing the all-encompassing power of God and his agents of destruction, is also found in 48:40, 41.

The Lower Jordan Valley

The Lower Jordan Valley contains three distinct levels known as the zor, the qattara, and the ghor. The zor is a narrow strip of land one or two miles wide, which the Bible calls the “floodplain of the Jordan” (49:19). Thanks to seasonal floods, the zor is a jungle of dense brush, shrubs, and tamarisk trees. The sons of the prophets were cutting down trees here when Elisha recovered an ax head (2 Kings 6:1–7).

A way from the river is the qattara. This territory is covered by ancient deposits of sediment from the lake that once filled the Jordan Valley. Seasonal streams carve deep crevices. No one grew crops there because the soil was salty. Modern Israeli scientists are reclaiming the soil by washing it with river water.

The ghor is a steep but fertile terrace between the qattara and the mountains. Farmers irrigate and cultivate these fields.

Aerial view of the Lower Jordan Valley. Note the zor, the qattara, and the ghor.

Judgment on Kedar and Hazor

- <sup>28</sup> Against Kedar and against the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon shall strike.
Thus says the LORD:

- “Arise, go up to Kedar,
shall take away.
They shall take for themselves their

All their vessels and their camels;
And they shall cry out to them,

49:23–25 Hamath and Arpad were major towns located west and north of the capital of Damascus.

49:28 The region of Kedar was the most important Arab tribal group in the biblical period. Kedar was in northern Arabia and was known for its sheepherding and merchant caravans (see 2:10; Is. 60:7; Ezek. 27:21). The phrase men of the East is associated with the Rameans, Midianites, a Malekites, and other nomadic desert tribes (see Gen. 29:1; Judg. 7:12).

49:29 The various items listed in this verse are typically those of nomadic peoples. The panic-filled shout, fear is on every side, is common in Jeremiah’s oracles (6:25; 20:10; 46:5; 49:5).

- 30<sup>a</sup> “Flee, get far away! Dwell in the depths, O inhabitants of Hazor!” says the LORD.
“For Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has taken counsel against you, And has conceived a plan against you.
- 31<sup>a</sup> “Arise, go up to <sup>w</sup>the wealthy nation that dwells securely,” says the LORD,
“Which has neither gates nor bars,
- 32 Their camels shall be for booty,
And the multitude of their cattle for plunder.
I will <sup>y</sup>scatter to all winds those <sup>z</sup>in the farthest corners,
And I will bring their calamity from all its sides,” says the LORD.
- 33<sup>a</sup> “Hazor <sup>z</sup>shall be a dwelling for jackals, a desolation forever;
No one shall reside there,
Nor son of man dwell in it.”

Judgment on Elam

<sup>34</sup>The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet against <sup>a</sup>Elam, in the <sup>b</sup>beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying, <sup>35</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts:

- “Behold, I will break <sup>c</sup>the <sup>3</sup>bow of Elam,
The foremost of their might.
- 36 Against Elam I will bring the four winds
From the four quarters of heaven,
And scatter them toward all those winds;
There shall be no nations where the outcasts of Elam will not go.
- 37 For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies
And before those who seek their life.

Judgment on Babylon and Babylonia

50 The word that the LORD spoke <sup>a</sup>against Babylon and against the land of the Chaldeans by Jeremiah the prophet.

- 2 “Declare among the nations,
Proclaim, and <sup>1</sup>set up a standard;
Proclaim—do not conceal it—
Her images are broken in pieces.’
- 3 <sup>e</sup>For out of the north <sup>f</sup>a nation comes up against her,
Which shall make her land desolate,
And no one shall dwell therein.
They shall <sup>3</sup>move, they shall depart,
Both man and beast.
- 4 “In those days and in that time,” says the LORD,
“The children of Israel shall come,
<sup>i</sup> And seek the LORD their God.
- 5 They shall ask the way to Zion,
With their faces toward it, saying,
“Come and let us join ourselves to the LORD

49:30–33 Nebuchadnezzar’s destructive army would attack the tent villages of Kedar and Hazor. The oases would be left to the jackals for habitation (9:11; 10:22). The bedouin peoples would be scattered afar, as if by the hot desert winds.

49:34–36 break the bow: The Elamites were famous for their skilled archers (see Is. 22:6), who became an important part of the Persian army under cyrus. The expression four winds indicates the military might that the Lord musters against his enemies (see Ezek. 37:9; Dan. 8:8).

49:37–39 I will set My throne: This expression depicts the establishment of the kingdom of the God of Israel, the great conquering King in the land of the Elamites (1:15; 43:10). Elam would experience the restorative power of God, as its people were returned and its fortunes restored (48:47; 49:6).

50:1 The Chaldeans, or Babylonians, were vassals of a syria until the revolt of Nabopolassar, who gained control of Babylon in 626 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar, the son of Nabopolassar who succeeded his father to the throne in 605 B.C., was the strongest and longest-reigning chaldean monarch. after Nebuchadnezzar died, the nation declined steadily. In 539 B.C. it was conquered by cyrus, apparently with little effort.

50:2, 3 Bel was a title like Baal, meaning “Lord,” for Merodach, another name for Babylon’s patron deity Marduk. idols . . . images: The oracle begins with a defamation of the gods of Babylon. The term translated images means animal droppings. The hebrew prophets are openly contemptuous of idols and speak of them with ridicule. out of the north: The invading nation is not defined, yet from historical records it is known that cyrus attacked Babylon from the north after defeating the city of sippar.

50:4, 5 Israel and Judah would be restored as they sought the Lord in mournful repentance, looking for help to return home. They would enter into a perpetual covenant with the Lord that they would not forget or reject (see Ezek. 16:60).

In <sup>j</sup>a perpetual covenant
That will not be forgotten.’

- 6 “My people have been <sup>k</sup>lost sheep.
Their shepherds have led them
<sup>l</sup>astray;
They have turned them away on <sup>m</sup>the mountains.
They have gone from mountain to hill;
They have forgotten their resting place.
- 7 All who found them have <sup>n</sup>devoured
them;
And <sup>o</sup>their adversaries said, <sup>p</sup>“We have not offended,
Because they have sinned against the LORD, <sup>q</sup>the habitation of justice,
The LORD, <sup>r</sup>the hope of their fathers.’
- 8 “Move <sup>s</sup>from the midst of Babylon,
Go out of the land of the Chaldeans;
And be like the <sup>t</sup>rams before the flocks.
- 9 <sup>u</sup>For behold, I will raise and cause to come up against Babylon
An assembly of great nations from the north country,

She shall not be inhabited,
And hiss at all her plagues.

50:6, 7 Shepherds refers to the national princes, priests, and prophets who led the people to sin against the Lord, their true source of hope and sustenance (23:1–4).
50:8–10 The train of thought turns to the Jews, who should flee from Babylon like rams of a flock.

50:11–13 Babylon’s plunder would be its punishment for gloating over Judah’s demise and the abuse of God’s heritage. Great Babylon would be reduced to the least of the nations. Defamation, drought, desertion, desolation, and derision were Babylon’s destiny (18:16; 19:8; 49:17).

Nations and Cities Under Judgment in Jeremiah

- 14<sup>a</sup> Put<sup>b</sup> yourselves in array against Babylon all around,
All you who bend the bow;
Shoot at her, spare no arrows,
For she has sinned against the LORD.
- 15 Shout against her all around;
She has<sup>c</sup> given her hand,
Her foundations have fallen,
For<sup>e</sup> it is the vengeance of the LORD.
Take vengeance on her.
As she has done, so do to her.
- 16 Cut off the sower from Babylon,
And him who handles the sickle at harvest time.
For fear of the oppressing sword
<sup>f</sup>Everyone shall turn to his own people,
And everyone shall flee to his own land.
- 17<sup>a</sup> Israel is like<sup>g</sup> scattered sheep;
First<sup>i</sup> the king of Assyria devoured
him;
Now at last this<sup>j</sup> Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has broken his bones.”
- 18 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:
- “Behold, I will punish the king of Babylon and his land,
As I have punished the king of <sup>k</sup>Assyria.
- 19<sup>l</sup> But I will bring back Israel to his home,
And he shall feed on Carmel and

His soul shall be satisfied on Mount

- 20 In those days and in that time,” says
the LORD,
<sup>m</sup>“The iniquity of Israel shall be sought,
but there shall be none;
And the sins of Judah, but they shall not be found;
For I will pardon those<sup>n</sup> whom I

Against the Holy One of Israel.
- 30<sup>a</sup> Therefore her young men shall fall in

And all her men of war shall be cut off in that day,” says the LORD.

50:14–16 against her all around: a assault forces would press hard on every side, as what had been the instrument of God became the object of his wrath.

50:17–20 The Lord had used Babylon to punish Assyria for deporting Israel; he would use another foe from the north to inflict punishment on Babylon. The result would be the restoration of Israel and Judah and the pardoning of their iniquities and sins, the very reason for their demise (5:25; 16:10, 18; 31:34; 33:8).

50:21–28 utterly destroy: The tables would be turned on Babylon, the soon-to-be-broken hammer and future heaps of ruins. The Lord God of hosts had launched his vengeful weapons upon the city through his anointed servant cyrus (see 2 Chr. 36:22, 23; Is. 45:1).

50:35-38 The sword of God would overturn all elements of Babylon’s greatness—its leaders, its weapons, and its wealth. A drought is against her waters: Babylon was built on both sides of the Euphrates river, and the region of southern Mesopotamia was networked with irrigation canals. The Lord would carry out his judgment against Babylon as he had in the days of Elijah.

Contemporary Pagans

Today’s increasingly secular society may seem to have little in common with the world of Jeremiah’s day. Yet the truth is that many people who disavow the traditional idea of God or gods nevertheless have a very similar mind-set to the pagan idol worshippers, or “Gentiles” (10:2), of ancient times.

Jeremiah lived in a world of cultures based on idolatry (10:3-10). his own nation, Judah, was quite given over to idols during the reigns of Manasseh and a mon, probably the period when Jeremiah was a boy (2 Kin. 21). In fact, the prophet observed that Judah had as many gods as it had cities (Jer. 2:28). Likewise, each society surrounding Judah worshiped its pantheon of gods. The Babylonians, for example, were said to be “insane with their idols” (50:38). Looking back on these religions from today’s perspective, our tendency may be to think of an idol merely as an object crafted from wood or metal to whom superstitious, benighted pagans bowed down in hopes of receiving good fortune or avoiding misfortune. But that would be a superficial understanding. an idol is anything that is sacred to a person, in that it defines self-worth, becomes the controlling center of life, and takes priority over all other loyalties.

In light of that definition, what are some of the idols that people worship today? c certainly work and possessions would have to qualify for many people, especially given the addictive way in which they pursue them. What would be an idol for you? What do you hold “sacred” in the sense that it defines who you are, controls your life, and is the last thing that you would ever let go?

Jeremiah recognized the idols of his day for what they were—futile customs that supplanted the true God (10:3, 10). are you pursuing futility at the cost of knowing the living Lord?

43<sup>a</sup> “The king of Babylon has <sup>u</sup>heard the report about them,
And his hands grow feeble;
Anguish has taken hold of him,
Pangs as of a woman in <sup>v</sup>childbirth.

44<sup>a</sup> “Behold, <sup>w</sup> he shall come up like a lion from the <sup>2</sup>floodplain of the Jordan
Against the dwelling place of the strong;
But I will make them suddenly run away from her.
And who is a chosen man that I may appoint over her?
For who is like Me?
Who will arraign Me?
And <sup>x</sup>who is that shepherd
Who will withstand Me?”

45 Therefore hear <sup>y</sup>the counsel of the LORD that He has taken against Babylon,
And His <sup>z</sup>purposes that He has proposed against the land of the Chaldeans:

Surely He will make their dwelling place desolate with them.

46<sup>b</sup> At the noise of the taking of Babylon
The earth trembles,
And the cry is heard among the nations.

The Utter Destruction of Babylon

51 Thus says the LORD:

“Behold, I will raise up against <sup>a</sup>Babylon, Against those who dwell in <sup>1</sup>Leb Kamai,

2 And I will send <sup>c</sup>winnowers to Babylon,
Who shall winnow her and empty her land.

They shall be against her all around.

3 Against her <sup>e</sup>let the archer bend his bow,
And lift himself up against her in his armor.
Do not spare her young men;

6 <sup>i</sup> Flee from the midst of Babylon,
And every one save his life!
Do not be cut off in her iniquity,
For <sup>j</sup>this is the time of the LORD’s vengeance;

That made all the earth drunk.

Therefore the nations <sup>n</sup>are deranged.

8 Babylon has suddenly <sup>o</sup>fallen and been destroyed.

Perhaps she may be healed.

9 We would have healed Babylon,
But she is not healed.
Forsake her, and <sup>r</sup>let us go everyone to his own country;

Come and let us <sup>u</sup>declare in Zion the work of the LORD our God.

The vengeance for His temple.

12 <sup>z</sup> Set up the standard on the walls of Babylon;

Make the guard strong,

Set up the watchmen,

Prepare the ambushes.

For the LORD has both devised and done

What He spoke against the inhabitants of Babylon.

51:1, 2 destroying wind: The imagery of a scorching desert wind is found in 4:11, 12; 18:17. The imagery of winnowing or scattering is found in 13:24.

51:5 Though Israel and Judah had forsaken the lordship of God, he had not forsaken his sinful people.

51:6–10 The imagery of Babylon’s cup of fury from 25:15–29 is reversed. here Babylon’s cup is broken by the Lord. balm: as in the case of Judah (8:22), decadent Babylon was beyond healing and had to be abandoned. The destruction of Babylon was the vindication of the justice of God. Jeremiah’s prediction (25:12–14) would be realized: Israel would be made righteous through God’s work.

51:11–14 vengeance: The Lord would avenge Babylon’s fierce abuse of Israel and other conquered nations. The covetousness of Babylon is typified in the taking of temple treasures from Jerusalem (see 2 Kin. 25:13–17). locusts: The locust plague depicts the swarm of enemy soldiers pouring into the magnificent city.

- 13<sup>a</sup> O you who dwell by many waters, Abundant in treasures,
Your end has come,
The measure of your covetousness.
- 14<sup>b</sup> The LORD of hosts has sworn by Himself:
“Surely I will fill you with men, <sup>c</sup> as with locusts,
And they shall lift <sup>d</sup> up a shout against you.”
- 15<sup>e</sup> He has made the earth by His power;
He has established the world by His wisdom,
And <sup>f</sup> stretched out the heaven by His understanding.
- 16 When He utters His voice—
There is a multitude of waters in the heavens:
<sup>g</sup>“He causes the vapors to ascend from the ends of the earth;
He makes lightnings for the rain;
He brings the wind out of His treasuries.”
- 17<sup>h</sup> Everyone is dull-hearted, without knowledge;
Every metalsmith is put to shame by the carved image;
And there is no breath in them.
- 18 They are futile, a work of errors;
In the time of their punishment they shall perish.
- 19 The Portion of Jacob is not like them,
For He is the Maker of all things;
And Israel is the tribe of His inheritance.
The LORD of hosts is His name.
- 20<sup>j</sup> “You are My battle-ax and weapons of war:
For with you I will break the nation in pieces;
With you I will destroy kingdoms;
- 21 With you I will break in pieces the horse and its rider;
With you I will break in pieces the chariot and its rider;
- 22 With you also I will break in pieces
man and woman;
With you I will break in pieces <sup>k</sup> old and young;
With you I will break in pieces the young man and the maiden;
- 23<sup>l</sup> With you also I will break in pieces
the shepherd and his flock;
With you I will break in pieces the farmer and his yoke of oxen;
And with you I will break in pieces governors and rulers.
- 24<sup>m</sup> “And <sup>n</sup> I will repay Babylon
And all the inhabitants of Chaldea
For all the evil they have done
In Zion in your sight,” says the LORD.
- 25<sup>o</sup> “Behold, I am against you,
Who destroys all the earth,” says the LORD.
“And I will stretch out My hand
against you,
Roll you down from the rocks,
<sup>q</sup> And make you a burnt mountain.
- 26 They shall not take from you a stone for a corner
Nor a stone for a foundation,
<sup>r</sup> “But you shall be desolate forever,”
says the LORD.
- 27<sup>s</sup> Set up a banner in the land,
Blow the trumpet among the nations!
Call <sup>u</sup> the kingdoms together against her:
Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz.
Appoint a general against her;
Cause the horses to come up like the bristling locusts.
- 28 Prepare against her the nations,
With the kings of the Medes,
Its governors and all its rulers,
All the land of his dominion.
- 29 And the land will tremble and sorrow;
For every <sup>v</sup> purpose of the LORD shall be performed against Babylon, <sup>w</sup> To make the land of Babylon a desolation without inhabitant.
- 30 The mighty men of Babylon have ceased fighting,
They have remained in their strongholds;
Their might has failed,
<sup>x</sup> They became like women;
They have burned her dwelling places,

51:20–26 Babylon had been God’s battle-ax for judgment against the nations, and Judah in particular. I will repay: Babylon would experience God’s battle-ax of punishment for the evil it inflicted on Jerusalem. The seemingly invincible mountain of Babylon would be crumbled by the power of God’s outstretched arm.

51:27, 28 Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz were mountain tribes from what is today eastern Turkey and Armenia. The Medes were from the Zagros mountain region in present-day central Iran.

51:29–32 The mighty men of Babylon have ceased fighting: The Nabonidus chronicle, a text describing the fall of Babylon, reports that “Cyrus entered Babylon without a battle.” By the time Cyrus reached Babylon, he had conquered all of Babylonia except for the capital city, cutting off roads and supply routes.

31<sup>w</sup> One runner will run to meet another,
And one messenger to meet another,
To show the king of Babylon that his city is taken on all sides;
32<sup>x</sup> The passages are blocked,
The reeds they have burned with fire,
And the men of war are terrified.

33 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:

“The daughter of Babylon is <sup>y</sup>like a threshing floor
When <sup>z</sup>it is time to thresh her;
Yet a little while <sup>a</sup>And the time of her harvest will come.”

34 “Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon Has <sup>b</sup>devoured me, he has crushed me;
He has made me an <sup>c</sup>empty vessel,
He has swallowed me up like a monster;
He has filled his stomach with my delicacies,
He has spit me out.

35 Let the violence done to me and my flesh be upon Babylon,”
The inhabitant of Zion will say;
“And my blood be upon the inhabitants of Chaldea!”
Jerusalem will say.

36 Therefore thus says the LORD:

“Behold, <sup>d</sup>I will plead your case and take vengeance for you.
<sup>e</sup>I will dry up her sea and make her springs dry.

37<sup>f</sup> Babylon shall become a heap,
A dwelling place for jackals,
Without an inhabitant.

38 They shall roar together like lions,
They shall growl like lions’ whelps.

Oh, how <sup>j</sup>the praise of the whole

How Babylon has become desolate among the nations!

42<sup>k</sup> The sea has come up over Babylon;
She is covered with the multitude of its waves.

43<sup>l</sup> Her cities are a desolation,
A dry land and a wilderness,
A land where <sup>m</sup>no one dwells,
Through which no son of man passes.

44 I will punish <sup>n</sup>Bel<sup>4</sup> in Babylon,
And I will bring out of his mouth
what he has swallowed;
And the nations shall not stream to him anymore.
Yes, <sup>o</sup>the wall of Babylon shall fall.

45 “My<sup>p</sup> people, go out of the midst of her!
And let everyone deliver <sup>5</sup>himself from the fierce anger of the LORD.

46 And lest your heart faint,
And you fear <sup>q</sup>for the rumor that will be heard in the land
(A rumor will come one year,
And after that, in another year
A rumor will come,
And violence in the land,
Ruler against ruler),

47 Therefore behold, the days are coming
That I will bring judgment on the carved images of Babylon;
Her whole land shall be ashamed,
And all her slain shall fall in her midst.

48 Then <sup>r</sup>the heavens and the earth and all that is in them
Shall sing joyously over Babylon;
<sup>s</sup>For the plunderers shall come to her from the north,” says the LORD.

51:36–40 plead your case: The imagery here involves a legal proceeding. Babylon had been arraigned, indicted, and convicted. Here it is sentenced to punishment by the Lord. The lions of Babylon would be slaughtered like lambs.

51:41–44 The primeval sea, conquered by Marduk according to the Babylonian creation myth, would overflow Babylon in the form of enemy nations. Bel is an honorary title for Marduk, the patron deity of Babylon. I will bring out . . . what he has swallowed: Nebuchadnezzar had swallowed up nations like a glutton (v. 34); those very same nations would be returned.

51:45–48 The release of Israel from captivity is foreseen. The people would be called upon to flee the city because of its impending destruction. In Jeremiah, the expression days are coming usually introduces a message of divine intervention into history. carved images: Babylon was known for its thousands of images of its numerous gods and goddesses. <sup>a</sup> as the king claimed to conquer nations in the name of his patron deity, so the gods of the defeated would be punished along with their worshipers. The devastation of decadent Babylon would be no cause for mourning among the nations. Instead, the nations would sing joyfully of Babylon’s fall.

- 49 As Babylon has caused the slain of Israel to fall,
So at Babylon the slain of all the earth shall fall.
- 50 <sup>t</sup>You who have escaped the sword, Get away! Do not stand still!
And let Jerusalem come to your mind.
- 51 <sup>v</sup>We are ashamed because we have heard reproach.
Shame has covered our faces,
For strangers <sup>w</sup>have come into the <sup>6</sup>sanctuaries of the LORD's house.
- 52 "Therefore behold, the days are coming," says the LORD,
"That I will bring judgment on her carved images,
And throughout all her land the wounded shall groan.
- 53 <sup>x</sup>Though Babylon were to <sup>7</sup>mount up to heaven,
And though she were to fortify the height of her strength,
Yet from Me plunderers would come to her," says the LORD.
- 54 <sup>y</sup>The sound of a cry comes from Babylon,
And great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans,
- 55 Because the LORD is plundering Babylon
And silencing her loud voice,
Though her waves roar like great waters,
And the noise of their voice is uttered,
- 56 Because the plunderer comes against her, against Babylon,
And her mighty men are taken.
Every one of their bows is broken;
<sup>z</sup>For the LORD is the God of recompense,
He will surely repay.
- 57 "And I will make drunk Her princes and <sup>a</sup>wise men,
Her governors, her deputies, and her mighty men.
And they shall sleep a perpetual sleep
And not awake," says <sup>b</sup>the King,
Whose name is the LORD of hosts.

<sup>d</sup>The people will labor in vain,
And the nations, because of the fire;
And they shall be weary."

Jeremiah's Command to Seraiah

<sup>59</sup>The word which Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah the son of <sup>e</sup>Neriaah, the son of Mahseiah, when he went with Zedekiah the king of Judah to Babylon in the fourth year of his reign. And Seraiah was the quartermaster. <sup>60</sup>So Jeremiah <sup>f</sup>wrote in a book all the evil that would come upon Babylon, all these words that are written against Babylon. <sup>61</sup>And Jeremiah said to Seraiah, "When you arrive in Babylon and see it, and read all these words, <sup>62</sup>then you shall say, 'O LORD, You have spoken against this place to cut it off, so that <sup>g</sup>none shall remain in it, neither man nor beast, but it shall be desolate forever.' <sup>63</sup>Now it shall be, when you have finished reading this book, <sup>h</sup>that you shall tie a stone to it and throw it out into the Euphrates. <sup>64</sup>Then you shall say, 'Thus Babylon shall sink and not rise from the catastrophe that I will bring upon her. And they shall be weary.'"
Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

The Fall of Jerusalem Reviewed

52 Zedekiah was <sup>a</sup>twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of <sup>b</sup>Libnah. <sup>2</sup>He also did evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done. <sup>3</sup>For because of the anger of the LORD this happened in Jerusalem and Judah, till He finally cast them out from His presence. Then Zedekiah <sup>c</sup>rebelled against the king of Babylon.

<sup>4</sup>Now it came to pass in the <sup>d</sup>ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem and encamped against it; and they built a siege

51:49, 50 slain of Israel: Babylon would be destroyed for killing so many in Israel. The remnant of Israel would be called upon to remember their God and how he delivered them from afar.

51:59–64 Jeremiah instructed Seraiah, a brother of Baruch who was about to be taken captive to Babylon, to read a scroll within the walls of Babylon. The scroll that Jeremiah gave to seraiah contained a list of the various evils that would befall Babylon as a result of God's judgment.

52:1–3 Zedekiah reigned as king of Judah from 598 to 586 B.C., until God finally cast him out of Jerusalem for doing evil in the sight of the LORD (23:1–4).

52:4–6 The siege of Jerusalem began on the tenth day of the tenth month (Tebeth)—probably in December 589 B.C. The siege of Jerusalem lasted over two years. In June–July 586 B.C., as food supplies were exhausted, the walls of Jerusalem were breached (39:2).

wall against it all around. <sup>5</sup>So the city was besieged until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. <sup>6</sup>By the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, the famine had become so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land. <sup>7</sup>Then the city wall was broken through, and all the men of war fled and went out of the city at night by way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden, even though the Chaldeans were near the city all around. And they went by way of the <sup>1</sup>plain.

The Temple and City Plundered and Burned

The second pillar, with pomegranates was the same. <sup>23</sup>There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; <sup>q</sup>all the pomegranates, all around on the network, were one hundred.

The People Taken Captive to Babylonia

52:13-16 The entire city of Jerusalem was burned, from the temple to the royal palace to the houses. The city walls were demolished. Leading citizens and some of the poor were deported under Nebuzaradan's command, leaving only a remnant of peasant farmers to work the fields, vineyards, and orchards.

52:17-23 sacred implements and furniture from the temple of God were taken as booty to Babylon. Most of these items are described in 1 Kin. 7:15-51. The bronze bulls had been removed by a haz and presented to Tiglath-Pileser III (see 2 Kin. 16:10-18), but apparently had been returned or remade.

52:24-27 certain persons were chosen for execution. Seraiah was the grandson of hilkiah, the faithful priest under Josiah. Zephaniah is possibly the person of the same name in 29:25. Doorkeepers were key temple personnel. Leaders of Judah's forces were executed.

52:31–34 Jehoiachin was released from prison soon after Nebuchadnezzar died in 562 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar's son Evil-Merodach became king but reigned only two years (562–560 B.C.). lifted up the head: Jehoiachin was pardoned by the king of Babylon.

Jehoiachin was provided food and given a seat of honor in Babylon. This restoration was symbolic of the future restoration of Israel and Judah to their homeland.

THE BOOK OF

LAMENTATIONS

THE BOOK OF LAMENTATIONS reveals the broken heart of the prophet Jeremiah. In forceful poetry, Jeremiah expresses his grief over the national tragedy that had unfolded before his eyes: Jerusalem, God's city, had fallen to the Babylonians. Jeremiah's sorrow and tears were not for his own personal loss, however, but for the sinfulness of the Israelites. The people of Israel had chosen to reject God. Yet even in this time of suffering there was hope. The Lord would not discipline His people forever; He would eventually restore those who waited on Him.

Author Although no author is named in the book, the prophet Jeremiah has been traditionally identified as the writer of Lamentations. In fact, some copies of the ancient Greek Septuagint translation begin the book with these words: "And it came to pass, after Israel had been carried captive, and Jerusalem became desolate, that Jeremiah sat weeping, and lamented this lamentation over Jerusalem." Crediting Lamentations to Jeremiah is based on the following considerations: (1) Jeremiah was known as a composer of laments (see 2 Chr. 35:25). (2) Jeremiah was the prophet who mourned, "Oh, that my head were waters, and my eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people!" (see Jer. 9:1). (3) In 3:1, the author seems to identify himself with Jeremiah when he says, "I am the man who has seen affliction by the rod of His wrath." (4) There are many linguistic similarities between Lamentations and Jeremiah.

Literary Structure The five chapters of Lamentations are five poems with chapter 3 as the midpoint or climax. Accordingly, the first two chapters build an "ascent," or crescendo, to the climax, the grand confession in 3:23, 24: "Great is Your faithfulness. The LORD is my portion." The last two chapters are a "descent," or decrescendo, from the pinnacle of chapter 3.

Chapters 1 and 5 provide summaries of the siege and fall of Jerusalem while chapters 2 and 4 offer more detailed and explicit descriptions of the devastation. Chapter 3 moves from a mixture of lament and hope in verses 1–24 to colorful praise of the compassionate and faithful Lord in verses 25–39. This is followed by the confession of verses 40–54 and the accompanying prayer of verses 55–66. Then chapter 4 relaxes the emotional intensity of the earlier chapters, dispassionately describing how suffering affected all classes of the populace of Jerusalem. The final chapter is a prayer that begins with “remember, O Lord” (5:1) and ends with “Turn us back to You, O Lord” (5:21). In this way, Jeremiah’s lament moves from mourning to praise and then from praise to a prayer for restoration.

The poetry of the book enhances its purpose and structure. chapters 1 through 4 are composed as acrostics of the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet. Each verse or group of verses begins with a word whose initial letter carries on the sequence of letters in the Hebrew alphabet. This would be similar to an English poem in which the first line begins with a; the second line begins with B, and so on. One purpose of this device was probably to aid in memorization of the passage. The acrostic also suggests that the writer has thought things through and is giving a complete account of the subject.

Jews still pray and weep over their holy city at the “Wailing Wall” in Jerusalem. The “Wailing Wall,” or Western Wall, is a remnant of the ancient wall that surrounded the Jewish temple’s courtyard, dating back to the Second Temple period.

Theological Significance Like the Book of Job, the Book of Lamentations addresses human suffering. Unlike Job, Lamentations focuses on national suffering—specifically, the suffering of Judah. Along the way, the book tackles some of the toughest questions faced by God’s people: how can God’s love and justice be reconciled with our pain? If God is in control of history, how could a nation suffer so much so soon after it had been led by such godly leaders as King Josiah and those involved in that revival? Where was God during his people’s unhappiest hour?

The Book of Lamentations offers some very practical theological reflections on the purposes and results of suffering. Rather than explaining away pain, the book helps us face pain. By avoiding cheery clichés, the Book of Lamentations provides companionship for those who are suffering and plants seeds of hope for rebuilding after the suffering is over.

In fact, the anger of God is a sign that he cares. The Lord’s anger is never capricious or unreasonable. His discipline is a sign that he has not abandoned us. Even in his display of anger, God is still full of mercy and grace. The beacon light in the midst of disintegration is found in 3:22–24. Come what may, God remains faithful. His faithfulness is the greatest comfort to those who suffer; his compassions are new every morning.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

In his mournful lyrics Jeremiah does more than focus on his feelings. His vulnerable grief focuses our attention on the One who is to come. This weeping prophet is a type of Jesus. Six centuries later, the son of God weeps over the same city. “O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the one who kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to her! How often I wanted to gather your children together, as a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, but you were not willing! See! Your house is left to you desolate” (Matt. 23:37, 38).

This tear-stained prophet also provides an accurate description of the one Isaiah called “a Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief” (Is. 53:3). Jeremiah speaks of the Messiah being afflicted (1:12; 3:19), despised, and derided by his enemies (2:15, 16; 3:14, 30).

1:1 How: This exclamatory word is used frequently in laments and funeral songs. It expresses astonishment, sorrow, and dismay (see 2:1; 4:1; Is. 1:21; 14:4; Jer. 9:19; 48:17; Ezek. 26:17). lonely: This is a stranded individual, one who is like a widow. Jerusalem is personified, or portrayed as a person (see Is. 1:21). Beginning in v. 12, Jerusalem “speaks” of her own troubles in the first person. princess . . . slave: This is a terrible reversal of fortune.

1:2 Among all her lovers (v. 19) describes Judah’s sin of turning away from God and toward the gods of Canaan (see Jer. 3:1–6). Also, the sins of Judah often involved the sexual forms of pagan worship that characterized the Canaanite people.

1:3 The southern kingdom Judah is personified here as Jerusalem was in v. 1. captivity: The implications of v. 1 are made clear. The reference here is to the Babylonian captivity suffered by Judah following the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C.

1:4 When the temple was built, Zion was used to describe the hill on which the temple was located. Later the name came to stand for the whole city. mourn: The roads “mourned” because there would no longer be throngs of pilgrims traveling to Jerusalem to worship at the temple. her gates: The image of sad gates is also found in Ps. 24:7–10, which indicates that the gates would not always mourn. priests . . . virgins: These two words indicate people from all elements of the city; everyone in the city experienced bitterness.

1:5 the LORD has afflicted her: God punished Jerusalem because of the people’s transgressions. The suffering described in the Book of Lamentations was fully deserved (v. 1). Her children have gone into captivity: God had warned Israel in Lev. 26:41 that captivity in a foreign land would be the result of continued sinning (see Deut. 32:23–27). The foreign nation was God’s instrument of punishment.

1:6 Daughter of Zion is an endearing term for Jerusalem that speaks of God’s extraordinary love for the city (see Ps. 87:2). All her splendor has departed: Israel’s glory was found in the presence of the Lord (see Ps. 96:8). But that glory had been removed from the Most Holy Place (see Ezek. 9:3; 10:19; 11:22).

1:7 In this verse the name Jerusalem is a comprehensive term that alludes to the “widowed” city of Jerusalem in v. 1; the nation “Judah” in v. 3; and the center of worship on “Mount Zion” in v. 4. The nation, the city, and the temple were ravaged by the invading Babylonian armies in 586 B.C. The emphasis is on Jerusalem’s utter helplessness as her enemies ridiculed her miseries (v. 21). Her pleasant things refers to objects of value in the temple (v. 10), and perhaps objects in the people’s homes as well (v. 11).

1:8 they have seen her nakedness: It was an extreme humiliation for a woman to be stripped of all her clothing in public. Such exposure was reserved for prostitutes (see Ezek. 16:35–39; 23:29), which Judah had become in a spiritual sense (vv. 2, 8, 9).

1:9 Judah is pictured as a “dirty harlot” because of her involvement

weeps

This verb describes the act of wailing, which expresses emotions ranging from grief to happiness. While the word is often associated with lamentation, the “bitter wailing” of ancient people who were mourning their dead (2 Sam. 1:12), it is also used with expressions of joy (Gen. 29:11). The ancients wept when saying farewell (ruth 1:9), over impending doom (Jer. 9:1), to express their joy over the rebuilt temple (Ezra 3:12), and at the burial of an individual (Gen. 50:1). In Lamentations, Jeremiah weeps over the sins of the people, the sins that would eventually result in the destruction of Jerusalem (1:1, 16).

with the sins of canaanite worship. In fact, Judah was so engaged in dishonorable behavior that she had lost her sense of decorum and would not clean her skirts. She did not consider her destiny despite Moses' warning, "Oh, that they were wise, that . . . they would consider their latter end!" (Deut. 32:29).

1:10 since God's people had not preserved the sanctuary of their hearts from pollution, they had no reason to be amazed when their enemies desecrated the earthly sanctuary. as a rule, Gentiles were forbidden to enter the congregation of the Lord (a mmon and Moab are mentioned specifically in Deut. 23:3, 4; the command was extended to all nations in Neh. 13:3; Ezek. 44:7, 9).

1:11 They seek bread: Moses had predicted a famine in Deut. 28:17, 38–42. See, O LORD: The call for God to pay attention is very similar to those found in the Psalms of Lament (see Ps. 142:4).

1:12 Passersby are asked rhetorically to look, listen, and compare Jerusalem's grief to any other grief experienced by mortals. God's fierce anger is put in the context of the day of the Lord (see Joel 2:1–11; Zeph. 1:14–18).

1:13 Jerusalem's suffering is portrayed, using several metaphors: (1) fire from heaven, (2) a hunter's net spread to trap animals, (3) an animal yoke fastened about the head of a person (v. 14), and (4) the crushing of grapes in a winepress (v. 15). turned me back: The purpose of Jerusalem's suffering was to bring about a turning or repentance.

1:14 yoke of my transgressions: The idea here is sinful patterns of life becoming compulsive, burdening people like a yoke on a beast of burden. woven together by His hands . . . He made my strength fail: God imposed a yoke until all of Zion's strength failed. With no power of their own left, weary people are more likely to listen to God. Those whom I am not able to withstand refers to the Babylonians.

1:15 The virgin daughter of Judah: Jerusalem (Judah) was supposed to be the chaste bride of God. Instead she had become a polluted harlot because her people worshiped other gods than the God with whom they covenanted (vv. 2, 8, 9).

1:16 The people of Jerusalem wept because the very fate Jeremiah had prophesied had come to pass. comforter . . . Is far from me: The real comforter of Judah is God. But because of Judah's sin, God would not come to their assistance.

1:17 Spreads out her hands is a reference to prayer (2:19). an unclean thing: The Israelites were supposed to be God's holy people (see Deut. 7:6). however, they had become worse than their pagan neighbors.

1:18 The Lord is righteous: Verses 5 and 17 establish that ultimately it was the Lord who permitted Jerusalem's collapse. Yet God remained just and right in what he did (see Ex. 9:27; Ezra 9:15; Neh. 9:33; Jer. 12:1). virgins . . . young men: Pairs of opposites usually indicate totality in hebrew (see "priests . . . virgins" in v. 4); these particular groupings suggest the "best of the nation" (2:4, 21).

- The strongholds of the daughter of Judah;
 He has brought them down to the ground;
<sup>f</sup>He has profaned the kingdom and its princes.
- 3 He has cut off in fierce anger
 Every <sup>1</sup>horn of Israel;
 From before the enemy.
<sup>h</sup>He has blazed against Jacob like a flaming fire
 Devouring all around.
- 4 <sup>i</sup>Standing like an enemy, He has bent
 His bow;
 With His right hand, like an adversary,
 He has slain <sup>j</sup>all who were pleasing to His eye;
 On the tent of the daughter of Zion,
 He has poured out His fury like fire.
- 5 <sup>k</sup>The Lord was like an enemy.
 He has swallowed up Israel,
 He has swallowed up all her palaces;
<sup>l</sup>He has destroyed her strongholds,
 And has increased mourning and lamentation
 In the daughter of Judah.
- 6 He has done violence <sup>m</sup>to His <sup>2</sup>tabernacle,
 He has destroyed His place of assembly;
 The LORD has caused
 The appointed feasts and Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion.
 In His burning indignation He has

1:19 priests . . . elders: The people who should have been a help were themselves in trouble.

1:20 While the roads leading to Jerusalem “mourned” because there would be no more pilgrims traveling to the city (v. 4), the sword of Judah’s enemies mourned because there were no more Jews to kill.

1:21 All my enemies: Those who previously had been friends of Judah (v. 2) became Judah’s enemies. Bring on the day: several times the “day” of God’s wrath is mentioned in the Book of Lamentations (2:1, 21, 22). The term is used to refer not only to the time of Jerusalem’s fall in the past, but also to a future day when God would rectify all of the wrongs that the nations had committed against Israel and God.

2:1 His anger is a firm expression of God’s displeasure with wickedness and sin. Yet God’s anger never shuts us off from his compassion (see Ps. 77:9). The beauty of Israel was found in its temple (see Is. 64:11) and its ark of the covenant (see 1 Sam. 4:21, 22; Ps. 78:60, 61). In 1 Chr. 28:2 God’s footstool is identified with the ark of the covenant. Occasionally God was pictured as enthroned and seated between the cherubim that were over the ark (see 1 Sam. 4:4; 2 Sam. 6:2; Ps. 80:1; 99:1, 5; 132:7).

2:3 The horn was a symbol of strength and power (see 1 Sam. 2:1; Ps. 75:5; 92:10; 148:14; Jer. 48:25). drawn back His right hand: Usually the right hand of God is understood as the instrument of help for God’s people stretched out against their enemies (see Ex. 15:6; Ps. 20:6). here God’s hand is withdrawn from the enemies, leaving the people of God at their mercy.

2:4 like an enemy: The Lord did not simply relax his protection of Judah (v. 3). he purposely worked against his people with His right hand. All who were pleasing to His eye refers to virgins and young men—the pride of the nation (1:18).

2:5 swallowed up: sheol, or death, is sometimes portrayed as “swallowing up” people (see Prov. 1:12; 27:20; 30:16); here God is described as doing the swallowing (v. 2).

2:6, 7 Tabernacle means “booth” or “hut,” a structure found in a garden. The point seems to be that the glorious temple of God had become similar to the dilapidated house of David (amos 9:11). The temple of God had become a booth of branches similar to those used for the Feast of Booths (sukcouth). altar . . . sanctuary . . . walls . . . house: Each of these terms refers to the holy temple (v. 6).

- 7 The Lord has spurned His altar,
He has <sup>p</sup>abandoned His sanctuary;
He has <sup>3</sup>given up the walls of her palaces
Into the hand of the enemy.
<sup>q</sup>They have made a noise in the house of the LORD
As on the day of a set feast.
- 8 The LORD has <sup>4</sup>purposed to destroy
He has not withdrawn His hand from destroying;
Therefore He has caused the rampart and wall to lament;
They languished together.
- 9 Her gates have sunk into the ground;
He has destroyed and <sup>l</sup>broken her bars.
And her <sup>w</sup>prophets find no <sup>6</sup>vision from the LORD.
- 10 The elders of the daughter of Zion
The virgins of Jerusalem
Bow their heads to the ground.
- 11 <sup>a</sup>My eyes fail with tears,
My <sup>8</sup>heart is troubled;
Because of the destruction of the daughter of my people,
Because <sup>c</sup>the children and the infants

- As they swoon like the wounded
In the streets of the city,
As their life is poured out

- 13 How shall I <sup>d</sup>console <sup>1</sup> you?

O daughter of Jerusalem?
What shall I compare with you, that I may comfort you,
O virgin daughter of Zion?

- 14 Your <sup>e</sup>prophets have seen for you
False and deceptive visions;
They have not <sup>f</sup>uncovered your

To bring back your captives,
But have envisioned for you false
<sup>g</sup>prophecies and delusions.

At the daughter of Jerusalem:
“Is this the city that is called
<sup>j</sup>The perfection of beauty,
The joy of the whole earth?”
- 16 <sup>k</sup>All your enemies have opened their mouth against you;
They hiss and gnash their teeth.
They say, <sup>l</sup>“We have swallowed her up!
Surely this is the <sup>m</sup>day we have waited for;
We have found it, <sup>n</sup>we have seen it!”
- 17 The LORD has done what He <sup>o</sup>purposed;
He has fulfilled His word
Which He commanded in days of old.

2:8 Four weeks after the capture of Jerusalem, Nebuchadnezzar had destroyed the temple, the palace, the homes of the people, and the city wall (see 2 Kin. 25:9, 10; Jer. 52:13, 14).

2:9 The Law is no more: These words do not suggest the end of the Law, but rather the ceasing of the work of the Law in the lives of the people for their blessing (see Deut. 6:1–3). her prophets find no vision: Divinely appointed instruction ceased for both the nation and the individual. This is not to say that the Law or prophecy were no longer available. God spoke to Jeremiah ten days after the prophet requested a word from God (see Jer. 42:4–7); furthermore Ezekiel and Daniel prophesied during the 70 years of the Exile.

2:10 Throwing dust on the head (see Job 16:15; Is. 29:4; Mic. 1:10) was a common sign of mourning in Israel and in other countries of the ancient world. virgins of Jerusalem: Their sadness was increased by the knowledge that this was not a time for marriage and family. Even though their lives had been spared, they had lost their futures.

2:11 My eyes fail with tears: This is the response of the author Jeremiah who suffered with the afflicted (1:2). Bile is literally “liver,” a symbol of deep emotion.

2:12 Grain and wine are used here merely as a synonym for food.

2:13 How shall I console you: Jeremiah had no words to help the grieving women of Jerusalem as they looked helplessly on their dying babies.

2:14 false and deceptive visions: False prophets spewed forth their “utterly valueless” lies.

2:15 Shake their heads was a common expression of derision (see Ps. 22:7; 109:25; Jer. 18:16; see also 1 Kin. 9:8; Job 27:23; Jer. 19:8; 49:17; 50:13; Ezek. 27:36; Zeph. 2:15). Losing face in the ancient Middle East was a terrible evil. In the Psalms (see Ps. 48:2; 50:2), Jerusalem was the joy of the whole earth, the source of spiritual blessings for all the nations of the earth (see Gen. 12:3). Now Jerusalem was profaned (v. 2) and unclean (1:17).

2:17 The LORD has done what He purposed: God had promised Moses that he would judge sin (see Deut. 28:15, 16). The destruction of Jerusalem was a fulfillment of that promise. Jeremiah used the same language to affirm that God had planned to deal with Babylon as well (see Jer. 51:12).

He has thrown down and has not pitied,
And He has caused an enemy to <sup>p</sup>rejoice over you;
He has exalted the <sup>3</sup>horn of your adversaries.

18 Their heart cried out to the Lord,
“O wall of the daughter of Zion,
<sup>q</sup>Let tears run down like a river day and night;
Give yourself no relief;
Give <sup>4</sup>your eyes no rest.

At the beginning of the watches;
<sup>s</sup>Pour out your heart like water before the face of the Lord.
Lift your hands toward Him
For the life of your young children,
Who faint from hunger <sup>t</sup>at the head of every street.”

20<sup>a</sup> See, O LORD, and consider!
To whom have You done this?
<sup>u</sup>Should the women eat their offspring,
The children <sup>5</sup>they have cuddled?
Should the priest and prophet be slain
In the sanctuary of the Lord?

4 <sup>a</sup> Job 16:8 <sup>b</sup> Ps.
51:8; Is. 38:13
5 <sup>1</sup> hardship or weariness

21<sup>a</sup> “Young” and old lie
On the ground in the streets;
My virgins and my young men
Have fallen by the <sup>w</sup>sword;
You have slain them in the day of
Your anger,
You have slaughtered and not pitied.

22<sup>a</sup> You have invited as to a feast day
<sup>x</sup>The terrors that surround me.
In the day of the LORD’s anger
There was no refugee or survivor.
<sup>y</sup>Those whom I have borne and brought up
My enemies have <sup>z</sup>destroyed.”

The Prophet’s Anguish and Hope

3 I am the man who has seen affliction by the rod of His wrath.
2 He has led me and made me walk
In darkness and not in light.
3 Surely He has turned His hand against me
Time and time again throughout the day.
4 He has aged <sup>a</sup>my flesh and my skin,
And <sup>b</sup>broken my bones.
5 He has besieged me
And surrounded me with bitterness and <sup>1</sup>woe.

2:18 The wall of the people’s hearts was more impenetrable than the wall of the city of Jerusalem (2:7, 8).

2:19 Arise: The call is for people to awaken and scream for mercy from the Lord. Lift your hands refers to a posture of prayer (see 1:17; Ps. 134:2).

2:20 Should the women eat their offspring: so desperate were the scenes of starvation in Jerusalem that women actually fought over whose deceased child would be eaten next (4:10). priest and prophet: Many godly people in Jerusalem perished.

2:21 Young and old: The punishment of Jerusalem affected everyone. virgins . . . young men: The punishment of Jerusalem extended even to the “pride of the city” (1:18; 2:4).

2:22 The terrors that surround me: The people mocked Jeremiah with the slogan “terror on every side,” for in the people’s eyes he saw catastrophe everywhere.

3:1 I am the man: Jeremiah’s personal testimony paralleled the experience of the city of Jerusalem as a whole (2:11). The rod of His wrath here refers to the Babylonians as instruments of God’s judgment (see 2 sam. 7:14; Job 9:34; 21:9; Ps. 89:32; Prov. 22:8). In Is. 10:5, a syria is referred to as “the rod of [God’s] anger.”

3:2 The imagery of darkness in this verse represents adversity and God’s judgment (see Job 12:25; Is. 9:2; a mos 5:18).

3:4 He has aged my flesh: This imagery suggests the ebbing and wasting away of Jeremiah’s life and that of the nation.

Light-bearers

Today’s world is full of pain and bitterness. so many groups feel deep disappointment. so many problems seem to defy solutions. a glance at the daily headlines reveals a tide of distrust, discord, and disharmony sweeping the planet. can christians be effective in such an environment? Not unless they recognize the pain and perplexities that abound wherever real people encounter the real struggles of everyday existence.

Jeremiah serves as a model for how to make a sober, realistic appraisal of human need. as he witnessed the devastation left in the aftermath of Jerusalem’s fall, he reflected on the darkness and despair that covered the city (Lam. 3:1–18). Yet having looked that harsh reality in the eye, he then turned an eye toward God. he recognized that God was the only hope that remained for his people—hope in God’s mercy, compassion, faithfulness, and goodness (vv. 22–24).

Like Jeremiah, christians today have a message of hope to offer the world—the hope that is in Jesus christ. We do not have all the answers to today’s needs and problems, but we have the Lord. he is the light of the world, and we are called to bring his light into this dark world (Matt. 5:14–16; John 1:4, 5; 1 John 1:5).

God could have used angels or miracles or numerous other means to announce his message. Instead, he has chosen everyday people to carry his message. Working through ordinary people facing the ordinary issues of day-to-day life, God intends to let the world know that there is hope beyond the problems and frustrations of the here and now.

are you fulfilling this calling in your life?

- 6 <sup>c</sup> He has set me in dark places
Like the dead of long ago.
- 7 <sup>d</sup> He has hedged me in so that I cannot

He has made my chain heavy.
- 8 Even <sup>e</sup> when I cry and shout,
He shuts out my prayer.
- 9 He has blocked my ways with hewn stone;
He has made my paths crooked.
- 10 <sup>f</sup> He has been to me a bear lying in wait,
Like a lion in <sup>2</sup> ambush.
- 11 He has turned aside my ways and <sup>g</sup> torn me in pieces;
He has made me desolate.
- 12 He has bent His bow
And <sup>h</sup> set me up as a target for the arrow.
- 13 He has caused <sup>i</sup> the <sup>3</sup> arrows of His

To pierce my <sup>4</sup> loins.
- 14 I have become the <sup>j</sup> ridicule of all my people—

roaming,
<sup>o</sup> The wormwood and the <sup>7</sup> gall.
- 20 My soul still remembers
And <sup>8</sup> sinks within me.
- 21 This I recall to my mind,
Therefore I have <sup>p</sup> hope.
- 22 <sup>q</sup> Through the LORD’s mercies we are not consumed,
Because His compassions <sup>r</sup> fail not.
- 23 They are new <sup>s</sup> every morning;
Great is Your faithfulness.
- 24 <sup>q</sup> “The LORD is my <sup>t</sup> portion,” says my soul,
“Therefore I <sup>u</sup> hope in Him!”
- 25 The LORD is good to those who <sup>v</sup> wait for Him,
To the soul who seeks Him.
- 26 It is good that one should <sup>w</sup> hope <sup>x</sup> and wait quietly
For the salvation of the LORD.
- 27 <sup>y</sup> It is good for a man to bear
The yoke in his youth.

3:6 like the dead of long ago: so hopeless did the situation seem that he felt like he had died long ago. Dark places may imply the grip of death itself (see Ps. 88:6 where the same Hebrew word is used in parallel to the word pit).

3:7 He has hedged me in: Jeremiah felt as though there was no way out of his predicament.

3:8 He shuts out my prayer: On occasion, God had forbidden Jeremiah to pray for the deliverance of Judah (see Jer. 11:14; 14:11).

3:9 He has blocked my ways with hewn stone: a common practice of the Assyrians was to wall up prisoners in extremely confined places and leave them to die.

3:10, 11 Jeremiah compared God to a bear or lion waiting to ambush (see hos. 13:8; a mos 5:19). God had permitted Judah to be attacked and mangled.

3:12, 13 He has bent His bow: This verse echoes Job 16:12, 13, in which Job compares God to an archer who makes human beings his target (2:4).

3:14 I have become the ridicule of all my people: Jeremiah was made the butt of scoffing and mockery (see Jer. 20:7).

3:15 Wormwood was a bitter herb used to flavor some drinks.

3:16 He has also broken my teeth with gravel: The people had sensed that they were so associated with dust and sackcloth—symbols of mourning—that it was as though they fed on dirt. The dust became gravel which broke the people’s teeth. The people were also covered with ashes, another symbol of mourning (see Jer. 6:26).

3:19, 20 Remember: Jeremiah attempted to change his mood by recalling his past experiences. However, what he remembered only made him feel worse.

3:21 This I recall to my mind: Jeremiah’s remembrance of God’s faithfulness brought about a change in the prophet’s emotions. As long as we contemplate our troubles, the more convinced we will become of our isolation, our hopelessness, our inability to extricate ourselves from the present trouble. But when we focus on the Lord, we are able finally to rise above, rather than to suffer under, our troubles.

3:22 This verse seems to contradict all that had been written up to this point (see 2:1–5). Yet the very fact that there was a prophet left to write these words and a remnant left to read them show that not every person in Jerusalem had been consumed. The fact that there was a remnant at all was due to the mercies and compassions of God. Even in his wrath (2:1–4), God remembers to be merciful.

3:23 new every morning: Every day presents us with a new opportunity to discover and experience more of God’s love. Even in the midst of terrible sorrow, Jeremiah looked for signs of mercy. Great is Your faithfulness: here is the heart of the Book of Lamentations. The comforting, compassionate character of God dominates the wreckage of every other institution and office. God remains “full of grace and truth” in every situation (see Ex. 34:6, 7; John 1:14).

3:24 The LORD is my portion: This expression is based on Num. 18:20, in which Aaron was denied an inheritance in the land but was told instead that the Lord himself was his portion and inheritance. The same idea is also found in Ps. 16:5; 73:26; 119:57; 142:5. I hope in Him: hope is not a wishful thought, but a confident expectation in the Lord. The verb hope suggests the idea of a “waiting attitude” (v. 21).

3:25 those who wait: The idea here is the acceptance of God’s will and his timing (see Ps. 40:1; Is. 40:31). The Hebrew word for hope here translates another verb meaning “to hope” or “to wait,” not the same as the one in v. 24 (see Ps. 40:1; Is. 40:31).

3:26 good: Not only is God good to those who wait and hope on him (v. 25), but it was also good for the people. hope and wait quietly: a quiet confidence in the salvation of the Lord is always in order. Verses 22–26 focus on the renewal of hope in the midst of terrible distress.

3:27 Youth here refers not to age, but the sense of still-unbroken strength, as opposed to diminished vitality.

- 28 <sup>z</sup> Let him sit alone and keep silent, Because God has laid it on him;
- 29 <sup>a</sup> Let him put his mouth in the dust—
There may yet be hope.
- 30 <sup>b</sup> Let him give his cheek to the one who strikes him,
And be full of reproach.
- 31 <sup>c</sup> For the Lord will not cast off forever.
32 Though He causes grief,
Yet He will show compassion
According to the multitude of His mercies.
- 33 For <sup>d</sup> He does not afflict <sup>g</sup> willingly, Nor grieve the children of men.
- 34 To crush under one's feet
All the prisoners of the earth,
35 To turn aside the justice due a man
Before the face of the Most High,
36 Or subvert a man in his cause—
- 37 Who is he <sup>f</sup> who speaks and it comes to pass,
When the Lord has not commanded it?
- 38 Is it not from the mouth of the Most High
That <sup>g</sup> woe and well-being proceed?
- 39 <sup>h</sup> Why should a living man <sup>i</sup> complain,
sins?
- 40 Let us search out and examine our ways,
And turn back to the LORD;
- 41 <sup>j</sup> Let us lift our hearts and hands
To God in heaven.
- 42 <sup>k</sup> We have transgressed and rebelled;
You have not pardoned.
- 43 You have covered Yourself with anger
And pursued us;
You have slain and not pitied.

- 51 My eyes bring suffering to my soul
Because of all the daughters of my city.
- 52 My enemies <sup>s</sup> without cause
Hunted me down like a bird.
- 53 They <sup>2</sup> silenced my life <sup>t</sup> in the pit
And <sup>u</sup> threw <sup>3</sup> stones at me.
- 54 <sup>v</sup> The waters flowed over my head;
<sup>w</sup> I said, "I am cut off!"
- 55 <sup>x</sup> I called on Your name, O LORD,
From the lowest <sup>u</sup> pit.
- 56 <sup>z</sup> You have heard my voice:
"Do not hide Your ear
From my sighing, from my cry for help."
- 57 You <sup>a</sup> drew near on the day I called on You,
And said, <sup>b</sup> "Do not fear!"
- 58 O Lord, You have <sup>c</sup> pleaded the case for my soul;

3:29 Put his mouth in the dust is a figure of speech for conquest. The phrase pictures a captive lying face down with the conqueror's foot on his back. Hope refers to the confident expectation that the Lord will deliver (v. 26).

3:31, 32 The promises that God made to the patriarchs (see Gen. 12:1-3; 15:13-21; 22:15-18) were not cast off, but were still in force. The wickedness of God's people delayed but could not frustrate the complete fulfillment of his promises.

3:34-36 before the face of the Most High: God is offended when a person deprives another human being of his or her rights. God is omniscient and notices everything.

3:40-42 These verses present a plan for repentance and renewal. turn back: repentance in the OT prophets is often expressed by the verb meaning "to turn" (see 5:21; Jer. 3:1). lift our hearts and hands: Lifting hands was a common posture in prayer (2:19).

3:44 so long as sin festered, God's wrath was a cloud (2:1) or veil through which no prayer could penetrate—including the prayers of the people (see Jer. 14:12) and the prayers of Jeremiah (see Jer. 7:16; 11:14; 14:11).

3:47 Desolation and destruction may be rephrased as "utter devastation."

3:49-51 The imagery of weeping continues from v. 48 (see also 1:2; 2:11). Daughters of my city refers to the people of Jerusalem.

3:52-54 silenced my life in the pit: Jeremiah speaks not only of his own experience of being cast into a pit (see Jer. 38:4-6), but also of his pain and grief over the wretched condition of his fellow countrymen. The pit is a metaphor for the grave or extreme danger (see Ps. 28:1; 30:3; 40:2). The waters is another danger symbol (see Ps. 69:2).

3:55-57 The Lord's name is the term by which he delights to reveal his mercies to his people (see Ex. 3:14, 15).

3:58-60 pleaded the case: Jeremiah used the terms of God's formal accusation (see Jer. 2:1-3:5); however, here the words are used for the people rather than against them. You have redeemed my life: here is a hint of the light of the NT gospel in the dark pages of the Book of Lamentations. The only way that God would be able to plead the case of his people was if he himself paid for—or redeemed them from—their sinfulness.

- 59 O LORD, You have seen <sup>4</sup>how I am wronged;
- 60 You have seen all their vengeance,
 All their <sup>f</sup>schemes against me.
- 61 You have heard their reproach,
 O LORD,
 All their schemes against me,
- 62 The lips of my enemies
 And their whispering against me all the day.
- 63 Look at their <sup>g</sup>sitting down and their rising up;
 I am their taunting song.
- 64<sup>h</sup> Repay them, O LORD,
 According to the work of their hands.
- 65 Give them <sup>5</sup>a veiled heart;
 Your curse be upon them!
- 66 In Your anger,
 Pursue and destroy them

The Degradation of Zion

- 6 The punishment of the iniquity of the daughter of my people
 Is greater than the punishment of the <sup>e</sup>sin of Sodom,
 Which was <sup>f</sup>overthrown in a moment,
 With no hand to help her!
- 7 Her <sup>4</sup>Nazirites were <sup>5</sup>brighter than snow
 And whiter than milk;
 They were more ruddy in body than rubies,
 Like sapphire in their <sup>6</sup>appearance.
- 8 Now their appearance is blacker than soot;
 They go unrecognized in the streets;
<sup>g</sup>Their skin clings to their bones,
 It has become as dry as wood.
- 9 Those slain by the sword are better off
 Than those who die of hunger;
 For these <sup>h</sup>pine away,
 Stricken for lack of the fruits of the

- 10 The hands of the <sup>j</sup>compassionate
 Have <sup>7</sup>cooked their <sup>k</sup>own children;
 They became <sup>l</sup>food for them
 In the destruction of the daughter of my people.
- 11 The LORD has fulfilled His fury,
 And it has devoured its foundations.

3:61–63 Jeremiah here turns to the enemies who treated God's people so poorly during their weakened state (1:21).

3:64–66 Repay them, O LORD: The request for divine vindication is an expression of a longing for God's righteousness and the success of his kingdom and his truth.

4:1, 2 The Babylonian army looted the temple and overturned all its huge stones. precious sons: The people of Jerusalem were of more value than the temple. Elsewhere these people are referred to as "My son, My firstborn" (Ex. 4:22) and "a special treasure to Me . . . a kingdom of priests and a holy nation" (Ex. 19:5, 6). The bodies of the brave defenders of Jerusalem were thrown out like broken pieces of clay pots.

4:3 Jackals were the dogs of the desert, disreputable beasts. However, even these animals cared for their young. Ostriches, on the other hand, seem to care very little for their young.

4:4 The tongue of the infant: The theme of thirsting and starving children is revisited (see 2:11–13).

4:5 People who formerly could have eaten any delicacies they wanted groveled in refuse heaps during the terrible days of the Babylonian siege of Jerusalem.

4:7, 8 Nazirites were men and women who specifically committed themselves to God for periods of special devotion (see Num. 6:1–21). Like sapphire . . . soot: The siege of Jerusalem was so terrible that no one was exempt, not even the truly godly people like the Nazirites.

4:9 Dying early in the siege was perhaps better than living through all of its horrors.

4:10 This verse describes the horrible effects of the long siege that were alluded to in 2:20. The women who were forced to eat their own children began as compassionate women. cooked their own children: This unimaginable horror could only have occurred in the most inhumane conditions of human suffering.

- 12 The kings of the earth,
And all inhabitants of the world,
Would not have believed
That the adversary and the enemy
Could <sup>o</sup>enter the gates of Jerusalem—
- 13<sup>p</sup> Because of the sins of her prophets
And the iniquities of her priests,
<sup>q</sup>Who shed in her midst
The blood of the just.
- 14 They wandered blind in the streets;
<sup>r</sup>They have defiled themselves with blood,
<sup>s</sup>So that no one would touch their garments.
- 15 They cried out to them,
“Go away, <sup>t</sup>unclean!
Go away, go away,
Do not touch us!”
When they fled and wandered,
Those among the nations said,
“They shall no longer dwell here.”
- 16 The <sup>s</sup>face of the LORD scattered
them;
He no longer regards them.

A Prayer for Restoration

- 5 Remember, <sup>a</sup>O LORD, what has come upon us;
Look, and behold <sup>b</sup>our reproach!
2 <sup>c</sup>Our inheritance has been turned over to aliens,
And our houses to foreigners.
3 We have become orphans and waifs,
Our mothers are like <sup>d</sup>widows.
- 4 We pay for the water we drink,
And our wood comes at a price.
5 <sup>e</sup>They pursue at our <sup>1</sup>heels;
We labor and have no rest.
6 <sup>f</sup>We have given our hand <sup>g</sup>to the Egyptians
And the <sup>h</sup>Assyrians, to be satisfied with bread.
- 7 <sup>i</sup>Our fathers sinned and are no more,
But we bear their iniquities.
8 Servants rule over us;
There is none to deliver us from their hand.

4:13, 14 The very people who should have been agents of righteousness became agents of sin (see Jer. 8:10; 14:18).

4:15, 16 Wherever the wicked wandered, they were treated as lepers, people who were not welcome in any place. the LORD scattered them: The priests and prophets were separated from the face of the LORD because they had helped cause the people of Judah to stumble.

4:17–19 a nation that could not save us: After the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C., the survivors in Judah turned to Pharaoh Hophra of Egypt to deliver them, thereby breaking covenant with Nebuchadnezzar and the specific word of God (see Jer. 42–44; Ezek. 29:16).

4:20 The heir to the Davidic line was “the breath of life” to the nation. But King Zedekiah was captured while trying to escape, put in chains, blinded after watching his sons massacred, and marched off to Babylon to die.

4:21, 22 It is possible that the phrase daughter of Edom is a sarcastic, judgmental phrase. Edom may have thought so highly of herself (see Obad. 3) that she believed she could assume the place of privilege her father Esau had lost, once Judah was destroyed.

5:2, 3 The Promised Land had been a gift from the Lord to a brahman. This inheritance was a kind of “down payment” on the future reign of God that would include the restoration of his people to that land. God demonstrated that he owned all nations and that Israel was to be his instrument for blessing all the nations on the earth. Yet in their present condition, the people of Israel seemed to be the most helpless of all peoples.

5:21, 22 Unless You have utterly rejected us: What is stated as a possibility actually emphasizes that the occurrence is completely out of the question: The Lord cannot reject his own people forever. The same literary technique is found in Jer. 14:19.

renew

(heb. chadash) (5:21; 2 ch. 24:4; Ps. 103:5) strong's #2318

a s a verb, the term can mean "to renew" (Ps. 51:10) or "to repair" (Is. 61:4). a s an adjective, the word identifies something new in contrast to something old (such as the "old harvest" versus the "new harvest"; see Lev. 26:10), or something different when compared to the status quo (such as "a new spirit"; see Ezek. 11:19; 18:31). The Bible teaches that God alone is the One who makes things new, whether a new song in the heart of the faithful (Ps. 40:3), a new phase in his plan of redemption (Is. 42:9; 43:19), a new name (Is. 62:2), or a new heavens and earth (Is. 65:17).

EZEKIEL

THE PROPHET EZEKIEL had the thankless job of proclaiming God's message on the crowded and hostile streets of Babylon. At the same time that Jeremiah was warning the citizens of Jerusalem of the coming destruction of that holy city, Ezekiel was preaching the same message to the exiles in Babylon. Even though these exiles were hundreds of miles away from the Promised Land and the temple, God would not leave them in the dark. Instead He sent Ezekiel to warn, exhort, and comfort the weary exiles.

Author Ezekiel received and reported revelations from the living God as an exile in Babylon during 593–571 B.C. All that is known of this solitary prophet comes from his written prophecy, and no compelling data exist for the acceptance of any author other than the one named in the book itself: Ezekiel, son of Buzi (a priest), who was taken captive with Jehoiachin and other Hebrews in 597 B.C.

Since he was from a priestly family, Ezekiel was a priest as well as a prophet. Therefore he was well acquainted with the Levitical laws and rituals as well as the temple and its regulations. This becomes evident when he writes of his apocalyptic vision of the future messianic temple. Furthermore, he had a detailed knowledge of the Mosaic covenant, including the ethical, moral, and spiritual requirements of God's revelation and the inevitable results of obedience or disobedience to God's law. Even though his exiled audience was cut off from the temple, the priesthood, and the related ceremonies and feasts, the prophet Ezekiel informed the exiles not only of these details, but also of the importance of obeying God's law and seeking after Him.

The Book of Ezekiel reveals that the prophet was married (see 24:15–18) and had a house (see 3:24; 8:1). Overall, he enjoyed a large measure of freedom in captivity. The Babylonians had not captured the Jews in order to make them slaves in Babylon; instead they wanted to displace the population of Israel, especially its leadership and nobility, and settle their own citizens and other foreigners in the land. As for his personality and abilities, Ezekiel appears to have been articulate, intelligent, and dramatic. He was a person that could withstand great opposition in order to obey the demands God placed on his life.

Chronology Unlike most biblical prophetic books, Ezekiel gives considerable attention to chronology and exact dates throughout his book. No other prophet provides so many dates (13). By utilizing the data from archaeology and the most recent research into the calendar systems of the ancient Middle East, a precise dating of many events in Ezekiel is possible.

The key to dating the opening chronological notice and the other specific dates in Ezekiel is the reference in 1:2 to the "fifth year of King Jehoiachin's captivity." In 2 Kings 24:12, this deportation is equated with the "eighth year of (Nebuchadnezzar's) reign" or 597 B.C. Ezekiel began prophesying in 593 B.C. calling attention to the Babylonian captivity of Judah. He ended in 571 B.C. with a message on God's coming judgment upon Egypt at the hand of the same Babylonian monarch. Ezekiel prophesied during four different periods: 593–588 B.C. (1:1—25:17); 587–585 B.C. (26:1—29:16; 30:20—39:29); 573 B.C. (40:1—48:35); and 571 B.C. (29:17—30:19). In all, Ezekiel prophesied from 593 to 571 B.C., a period of 22 years surrounding the climactic fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C.

Religious and Literary Context During ezekeiel's life and ministry, israel (the northern kingdom) was corrupt politically and spiritually. Their idolatry led to captivity by Assyria in 722 B.C. The leadership of Judah (the southern kingdom) at that time was righteous; but eventually they too, although experiencing brief revivals at times, fell into the idolatry of the neighboring nations. The people refused to heed the prophets' reminders about the curses and blessings promised by God in the Mosaic covenant.

ezekeiel prophesied that there would come catastrophe and captivity for Judah and Jerusalem. Yet he also had a message from God concerning eventual restoration and renewal, based on God's faithfulness to the promises of all the covenants made with his people since the Abrahamic covenant.

in speaking to his fellow exiles in Babylon, ezekeiel experienced and then employed visions (chs. 1–3; 8–11; 37; 40–48). These visions are similar in structure to “dream visions” known from Mesopotamian literature of the seventh and sixth centuries B.C. These texts have two main sections: (1) an introduction to the setting and general situation, including time, place, circumstances, and the person involved; and (2) a description of the vision. in chs. 37; 40–48, ezekeiel uses such a format to introduce apocalyptic visions—revelations that symbolically describe the end times. I living in Babylon, both ezekeiel and his audience were familiar with this type of literature.

elsewhere, ezekeiel employs themes and illustrations from the religious life and literature of the societies whose judgment he predicts. Typically the nations under God's judgment were those that had mistreated israel or had led them into idol worship. The exiles and those israelites still living in Judah knew the religious behavior and beliefs of their neighbors and would not be puzzled by the prophet's language.

in addition to visions and religious themes, ezekeiel uses many literary techniques to communicate God's message to the exiles: both prose and poetry, parables and proverbs, lamentations and dirges, allegories and puns.

Historical Setting ezekeiel ministered in Babylon, at Tel Abib near the chebar river. This is in the southeastern section of modern iraq, northwest of the persian Gulf. The Babylonians settled the Jewish exiles in this region to colonize them.

ezekeiel's ministry was primarily to those Jews deported from Judah by the Babylonians and any israelites that remained in exile from previous deportations by the Assyrians. Still his messages had great instructional and practical significance for the hebrews remaining in israel and for the surrounding pagan nations, whose fate he foretold. Although ezekeiel was transported in visions to Jerusalem (see chs. 8; 11), those revelations were always for the benefit of him and those to whom he was speaking in exile.

ezekeiel's warnings of national calamity include warnings of disease, death, destruction, and deportation. Yet because of God's unconditional promises and through the people's repentance, God's spiritual and material blessings would return to the people. ezekeiel's purpose was to remind his people of their spiritual unfaithfulness (ch. 16) and of God's faithfulness to his own promises. ezekeiel showed the people how judgment was a natural outcome of a holy God's wrath against sin. it was also a loving God's means of disciplining his people: to correct their beliefs, redirect their behavior, and restore intimate fellowship between himself and them. Thus ezekeiel preached to the exiles the imminence of God's judgment and the need for individual and national repentance.

Themes The Book of ezekeiel stresses the ultimate aim of God's charity and chastisement: that “they shall know that i am the LORD.” This refrain is repeated 65 times in the book and emphasizes that the purpose of God's actions is always to bring about the spiritual renewal of all people.

ezekeiel teaches both individual and corporate responsibility for sin before God (chs. 18; 23). While themes of idolatry, social injustice, public and private immorality, imminent judgment, and future blessings of restoration and redemption are not unique to ezekeiel, his prophecies relate these themes to the centrality of the temple and the influence of the sacrificial system in the life of israel. past defilement and disobedience by the priests and people had led to the present dispersion and would lead to further judgment (chs. 4–32). The people's behavior was intrinsically connected to how they approached their God in worship. insincere worship would lead to immoral behavior and judgment; proper worship of the living God would lead to moral behavior and blessings. Yet in the end, ezeziel concludes with the comforting news that a day would come when God's rule and practical righteousness would return with a new temple and city and a renewed land and nation (chs. 33–48).

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

For ezeziel, the one who is coming to be israel's ultimate king will have the lone right to rule over the people God has chosen to be his. A unique people can only be led by a unique individual. And until he appears, the prophet demands that those who would attempt to mount the throne prematurely "remove the turban, and take off the crown" (21:26).

ezeziel is confident that day will come. his confidence is reflected in the additional metaphor that he uses to call attention to that hope. Describing a field far from the palace, he pictures God's Anointed as the true Shepherd who will deliver and feed his flock (34:11–31).

Ezekiel's Vision of God

Now it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I was among the captives by the River Chebar, that the heavens were opened and I saw visions of God. On the fifth day of the month, which was in the fifth year of King Jehoiachin's captivity, the word of the LORD came expressly to Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans by the River Chebar; and the hand of the LORD was upon him there.

Then I looked, and behold, a whirlwind was coming out of the north, a great cloud with raging fire engulfing itself; and brightness was all around it and radiating out of its midst like the color of amber, out of the midst of the fire. Also from within it came the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance: they had the likeness of a man. Each one had four faces, and each one had four wings. Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the soles of calves' feet. They sparkled like the color of burnished bronze. The hands of a man were under their wings on their four sides; and each of the four had faces and wings. Their wings touched one another. The creatures did not turn when they went, but each one went straight forward.

As for the likeness of their faces, each had the face of a man; each of the four had the face of a lion on the right side, each of the four had the face of an ox on the left side, and each of the four had the face of an eagle. Thus were their faces. Their wings stretched upward; two wings of each one touched one another, and two covered their bodies. And each one went straight forward; they went wherever the spirit wanted to go, and they did not turn when they went.

As for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire, like the appearance of torches going back and forth among the living creatures. The fire was bright, and out of the fire went lightning. And the living creatures ran back and forth, in appearance like a flash of lightning.

Now as I looked at the living creatures, behold, a wheel was on the earth beside each living creature with its four faces. The appearance of the wheels and their workings was like the color of beryl, and all four had the same likeness. The appearance of their workings was, as it were, a wheel in the middle of a wheel. When they moved, they went toward any one of four directions; they did not turn aside when they went.

1:1 eze. 1 was preparing to become a priest when the Babylonians attacked Judah in 597 B.C. and carried him and many others into captivity (2 kin. 24:10-14). The thirtieth year most likely refers to eze. 1's age. At that age, a man could become a priest (v. 3) and begin serving in the temple (Num. 4:1-3). In this case, it was the time when God called him to be a prophet. as I: of all the writing prophets, eze. 1 alone refers to himself at first with a pronoun ("I"), not using his name until v. 3 (see is. 1:1; Jer. 1:1; hos. 1:1; Jon. 1:1; zeph. 1:1). River Chebar: A branch of the euphrates flowing southeast from Babylon. heavens were opened: As with all the true prophets of ancient Israel, the visitation of God was at his initiative, calling certain people to special responsibilities (see Jer. 1:1-9). visions of God: The word vision is derived from the common Hebrew verb meaning "to see," rather than from the specific verb used for prophetic vision as in is. 1. The plural of this word also calls attention to eze. 1's visions, which were unparalleled both in nature and quantity.

1:2 This was the fifth day of the fourth month (v. 1). eze. 1's "thirtieth year" was 597 B.C., when king Jehoiachin was deported to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar (2 kin. 24). The year 593 as the fifth year of . . . captivity is arrived at by using the Babylonian calendar, which begins in March.

1:3 eze. 1 uses the introductory phrase the word of the LORD came 50 times in this book. It always introduces a divine message and sometimes a new section. The name Ezekiel comes from the verb meaning "to seize," "to hold fast," coupled with the term meaning "God." Thus eze. 1's name indicates that he was a man whom God had seized. See also 3:8 for another dimension of meaning in this name, "the one whom God has strengthened." the hand of the LORD was upon him: The divine origin of eze. 1's message is emphasized in these first few verses.

1:4 whirlwind . . . great cloud . . . raging fire: compare the descriptions of divine appearance in ex. 19:16-20; ps. 18:7-15; Mic.

1:2-4. See also v. 13 below. The term translated amber may also be understood as something like "glowing metal" (v. 27).

1:5 in ch. 10, these living creatures are related to the cherubim—celestial beings associated with God's holiness and glory and sometimes poetically with storm winds upon which God travels (see ps. 18:10). There are two basic approaches to understanding the four living creatures: as a highly symbolic representation of deity, or as highly symbolic representations of angelic beings who serve in God's presence, probably they are angels, since God himself is not revealed until the end of the section (v. 26). These stunning angelic creatures are dazzling attendants to God's majesty.

1:6 four faces: This image may suggest complete awareness; nothing is "behind" or "beside" these creatures. See vv. 8, 10. four wings: contrast the six wings of the seraphim in is. 6:2; the wings are further described in vv. 9, 11.

1:7 legs . . . feet: The imagery portrays strength and beauty.

1:8 The "humanlike" representation includes hands and presumably arms.

1:9 did not turn: This seems to follow from the four faces (v. 6).

1:10 man . . . lion . . . ox . . . eagle: composite fantastic figures in these classic combinations have been found in Mesopotamian and Egyptian iconography. The idealized strengths of each figure were thus presumed to reside in the living creature so described.

1:11 one pair of wings was stretched upwards, as if in reverence; the other pair was used to cover the body as if in submission. compare the description of the seraphim in is. 6:2.

1:13 fire . . . lightning: These phenomena regularly attend descriptions of the appearances of God to his people (see ex. 19:16-20). See also v. 4.

1:16, 17 beryl: This may be chrysolite, a yellow or gold-colored stone. wheel in the middle of a wheel: The composite wheels were able to go in any direction without pivoting.

<sup>18</sup>As for their rims, they were so high they were awesome; and their rims were <sup>g</sup>full of eyes, all around the four of them. <sup>19</sup><sup>g</sup>When the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them; and when the living creatures were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up. <sup>20</sup>Wherever the spirit wanted to go, they went, because there the spirit went; and the wheels were lifted together with them, <sup>a</sup>for the spirit of the <sup>4</sup>living creatures was in the wheels. <sup>21</sup>When those went, these went; when those stood, these stood; and when those were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up together with them, for the spirit of the <sup>5</sup>living creatures was in the wheels.

1:19–21 The prophet stresses the association of the wheels with the living creatures, as well as the creatures’ ability to travel wherever they wished. The mysterious phrase the spirit . . . in the wheels emphasizes the significance of the wheels. It appears that the wheels represented the flexibility and mobility of the living creatures. This is a pictorial representation of God’s omnipresence.

1:22 firmament: The same word is used in Gen. 1:6. It means an “expanse” or “platform.” <sup>c</sup>compare also the “sea of glass, like crystal” of r ev. 4:6.

1:24 Almighty: This is the divine name Shaddai, most likely based on a word meaning “mountain,” to suggest God’s omnipotence and majesty (see 10:5).

1:25 This voice connects with the “man” of v. 26. In Gen. 1 the voice of God summons light from the darkness (Gen. 1:3). here above the din of angels’ wings there is a voice. In John 1:1 is revealed the apostle’s term for the Savior: the Word.

1:26 While isaiah describes the elevation of the Lord’s throne (see is. 6:1), ezeziel focuses on its beauty. sapphire: This is precious lapis lazuli, a deep blue stone with golden specks. The same stone appears in r ev. 21:19. The enthroned figure with the appearance of a man is the culmination of this vision.

1:27, 28 Fire like burning metal (amber, v. 4) and rainbow-like brightness surrounded the one on the throne (v. 26). the likeness of the glory of the Lord: human likeness here may reflect the personal nature of God’s revelation of himself. Further, it points forward to the plan of a more personal revelation of God coming as the Messiah (see John 1:1–18). The glory indicates the wonder, majesty, and worthiness of the living God. Amid the wheels, the creatures, the colors, and the dazzling light was a figure who appeared like a man (v. 26). compare the vision of Daniel who saw one “like the Son of Man” (Dan. 7:13). I fell on my face: The prophet’s response was to fall down in worship and submission. All believers should recognize God’s great glory and fall down in humble submission before him (phil. 2:10, 11).

2:1 Son of man: ezeziel uses this phrase more than 90 times to refer to himself. It emphasizes his humanity in his God-given role as a spokesman for God. The meaning of the phrase is “human one.” in the o T, only Dan. 7:13 and 8:17 also employ this phrase. in the NT, Son of Man is used frequently by Jesus for himself. With this phrase Jesus was calling himself “the human one,” the long-awaited Messiah who came as God in the flesh (l uke 21:27; John 1:14; 2 John 7). Thus the expression Son of Man is not a contradiction of Jesus’ divinity, as is sometimes alleged. stand on your feet: ezeziel had been bowing before the glorious one (1:28). perhaps his initial thoughts were similar to those of isaiah (is. 6:5). The commandment to stand suggests that he had no reason to be afraid.

2:2 the Spirit: This reference to the indwelling of the holy Spirit in God’s prophet is of great importance. The visions and messages of ezeziel were revelations from the living God.

son of man

(heb. ben ’adam) (2:1; 3:1; 17:2; 24:16) Strong’s #1121; 120

The expression son of man is used nearly one hundred times as a title for ezeziel (2:1). it serves both to emphasize the difference between God the creator and his creatures, and to mark the prophet ezeziel as a representative member of the human race. ezeziel’s life was a living parable or object lesson to the hebrew captives in Babylon (compare 1:3; 3:4–7). in word and deed, ezeziel was a “sign” to the house of israel (12:6). Jesus adopted the title Son of Man because he too is a representative person—the “last Adam” who became a life-giving spirit (see Matt. 8:20; 1 cor. 15:45). The title Son of Man for Jesus also alludes to Daniel’s vision of the heavenly being who is “like the Son of Man” (Dan. 7:13). Thus the title Son of Man for Jesus highlights the mystery of the incarnation, the fact that christ is both divine and human. As the God-man, Jesus became a glorious sign for all of sinful humanity (l uke 2:34).

when He spoke to me, and set me on my feet; and I heard Him who spoke to me. <sup>3</sup>And He said to me: “Son of man, I am sending you to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation that has <sup>c</sup>rebelled against Me; <sup>d</sup>they and their fathers have transgressed against Me to this very day. <sup>4e</sup>For they are <sup>1</sup>impudent and stubborn children. #### BIBLE TIMES & CULTURE NOTES

Adamant Stone

Adamant is a hard stone of superior strength. The exact identity of this substance is unknown, but it is believed to be corundum, the hardest of all minerals next to the diamond. pure corundum is colorless; it is the source of such gems as rubies and sapphires. Because of its hardness, the prophet ezekeiel used adamant stone as a symbol of the stubborn will of the rebellious israelites. God strengthened the prophet, saying, “I like adamant stone, harder than flint, <sup>i</sup> I have made your forehead; do not be afraid of them, nor be dismayed at their looks, though they are a rebellious house” (3:9). other english translations render the hebrew word for adamant as diamond or flint.

<sup>4</sup>Then He said to me: “Son of man, go to the house of Israel and speak with My words to them. <sup>5</sup>For you are not sent to a people of unfamiliar speech and of hard language, but to the house of Israel, <sup>6</sup>not to many people of unfamiliar speech and of hard language, whose words you cannot understand. Surely, <sup>d</sup>had I sent you to them, they would have listened to you. <sup>7</sup>But the house of Israel will not listen to you, <sup>e</sup>because they will not listen to Me; <sup>f</sup>for all the house of Israel are <sup>1</sup>impudent and hard-hearted. <sup>8</sup>Behold, I have made your face strong against their faces, and your forehead strong against their foreheads. <sup>9g</sup>Like adamant stone, harder than flint, I have made your forehead; <sup>h</sup>do not be afraid of them, nor be dismayed at their looks, though they are a rebellious house.”

2:3, 4 ezekeiel was called to speak God’s message to the children of Israel. God describes them as a rebellious nation and more specifically impudent and stubborn—literally “stiff-of-face and hard-of-heart children” (see 3:7). The hebrew term for rebellious indicates a breaking of the covenant relationship. Thus says the Lord God: God told ezekeiel to emphasize the divine origin of his messages by using these words. Like Moses (ex. 3:4), ezekeiel would speak in God’s name only what God commanded him. The term Lord God combines a title indicating God’s sovereignty (Adonai) and his personal name (Yahweh, conventionally translated with God or Lord in small capital letters).

2:5 if the rebellious people refused to listen to ezekeiel’s message, ezekeiel would still prove himself a true prophet of God by continuing to proclaim God’s messages (see also v. 7). r ead 2 kin. 21 for an example of the nature of the rebellion that had led to their captivity. 2:6 briers and thorns . . . scorpions: These images vividly portray the nature of the rebellious opponents of ezekeiel’s warnings. God told ezekeiel not to allow fear to hinder his message, whether or not the message was wanted (v. 7).

2:8, 9 eat: in contrast to rebellious israel, ezekeiel was to set an example by being receptive and listening to God’s message. hand . . . scroll: c compare Jer. 1:9.

2:10 The unusual feature of writing on both sides of a scroll indicates the magnitude of the nation’s transgressions and its need for lengthy lamentations (see zech. 5:3; r ev. 5:1). Although ezekeiel would later bring words of comfort and consolation (see chs. 33–48), his first prophecies from God contained only sorrow and sadness.

3:1–3 eat: The symbolic act of eating the scroll demonstrated that ezekeiel internalized the message in preparation for speaking to the people.

3:5–7 Although no linguistic barrier existed between ezekeiel and the nation, israel would pay less attention to the prophet than foreigners would. israel’s rejection of the prophet’s message was the symptom of a prior and more fundamental revolt against God’s rule (see 1 Sam. 8:7). All israel was characterized as impudent—literally “hard-of-head”—and hard-hearted (see 2:4). Those who have had generous exposure to the truth and reject it can be harder than those who hear it for the first time.

3:8, 9 I have made your face strong: There may have been an intentional pun on ezekeiel’s name, which means “strongly seized by God” (see 1:3) or “God strengthens.” Double meanings in biblical names are common (see c ain; Gen. 4:1). The prophet was adequately equipped by God for his calling.

<sup>10</sup>Moreover He said to me: “Son of man, receive into your heart all My words that I speak to you, and hear with your ears. <sup>11</sup>And go, get to the captives, to the children of your people, and speak to them and tell them, <sup>i</sup>“Thus says the Lord God,” whether they hear, or whether they refuse.”

Ezekiel Is a Watchman

<sup>22</sup><sup>v</sup>Then the hand of the LORD was upon me there, and He said to me, “Arise, go out <sup>w</sup>into the plain, and there I shall talk with you.”

3:10, 11 A necessary prerequisite to God sending ezekeil as his messenger was ezekeil’s reception of all God’s words. God told ezekeil that he was to make it clear that his message and authority came from the Lord, and that he must continue to speak regardless of his audience’s responses and reactions.

3:12, 13 Blessed . . . from His place: This thunderous acclaim in praise of the living God came from his myriad of angelic armies (compare is. 6:3). glory: The word suggests “weight” or “significance,” indicating the wonder, majesty, and worthiness of the living God.

3:14 Bitterness means “distress” and “anguish.” ezekeil’s human perspective caused him to focus on the distasteful calling of delivering a message no one would listen to. The prophet was angry—heat of my spirit—and appalled. But the hand of the LORD was present to help him deal with these feelings and then move him on to live and work among the captives (see v. 15).

3:15 The israelites who had been exiled to Babylon lived in Tel Abib, meaning “hill of flood.” Seven days is the time normally taken for mourning the dead, as well as the time set aside for a priest’s consecration (Gen. 50:10; 1 ev. 8:33). ezekeil sat astonished with these captives for seven days as evidence that he had experienced a unique encounter with God (see Job 2:13). At the end of the seven days ezekeil would be ordained for the priesthood and would be ready to proclaim mourning for israel.

3:17 The watchman stood on the city wall guarding against any external or internal threat. he would sound an alarm upon sighting impending danger (see 2 Sam. 18:24). God made ezekeil a spiritual watchman over his people.

3:18, 19 his blood: Doubtless, this severe warning given to ezekeil was similar to that given to a military watchman in ancient times. if the watchman failed to give the alarm to the city in a time of peril, the blood of the city would be required of him. But if the watchman sounded the alarm and the city did not respond, the watchman could hardly be blamed. delivered your soul: As a faithful watchman, ezekeil would not have placed his own life in jeopardy by failing in his critical duty. A watchman who was “asleep at the switch” would forfeit his life. The word soul often merely means “life” in hebrew. See also v. 21.

3:20, 21 The stumbling block is interpreted by some as a death sentence. if the person continued repeatedly in sin, then death would result. The reference to “life” and “death” in this section is to physical, not eternal, realities. delivered your soul: See v. 19.

3:23 The word glory suggests “weight” or “significance.” The emphasis is on the central significance and awesome wonder of the living God.

3:24 ezekeil wrote more of the indwelling of God’s Spirit than any of the prophets (see 2:2).

3:26 The phrase not be one to rebuke them qualified what was meant by ezekeil’s being mute. The idea may be better stated as “not be a legal mediator.” During his “mute” period, ezekeil would not be allowed to speak as a mediator on behalf of the people before God, their Judge.

3:27 He who hears, let him hear: Jesus used this warning often in his teaching (see Mark 4:23). The phrasing emphasizes individual responsibility and readiness to accept the divine message.

will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, <sup>g</sup>“Thus says the Lord God.’ He who hears, let him hear; and he who refuses, let him refuse; for they are a rebellious house.

The Siege of Jerusalem Portrayed

4 “You also, son of man, take a clay tablet and lay it before you, and portray on it a city, Jerusalem. <sup>2a</sup>Lay siege against it, build a <sup>b</sup>siege wall against it, and heap up a mound against it; set camps against it also, and place battering rams against it all around. <sup>3</sup>Moreover take for yourself an iron plate, and set it as an iron wall between you and the city. Set your face against it, and it shall be <sup>c</sup>sieged, and you shall lay siege against it. <sup>d</sup>This will be a sign to the house of Israel.

<sup>4</sup>“Lie also on your left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel upon it. According to the number of the days that you lie on it, you shall bear their iniquity. <sup>5</sup>For I have laid on you the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, three hundred and ninety days; <sup>e</sup>so you shall bear the iniquity of the house of Israel. <sup>6</sup>And when you have completed them, lie again on your right side; then you shall bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days. 4:1 The clay tablet was unfired mud or clay soft enough to be inscribed with a stylus. The term translated portray means to scratch or mark on the tablet.

4:2 Lay siege: The city of Jerusalem would come under siege, meaning that the Babylonians would surround the city and cut off its outside supplies. The purpose was to starve the inhabitants into submission (see vv. 9–12, 16, 17). By his symbolic drawing, ezekeil may have been commanded to do what other “prophets” of the nations might do. That is, the hired “prophets” of the pagan nations might use such a drawing as a device for invoking the gods to bring about the event graphically described. In ezekeil’s case, the drawing showed the people the horrible truth of what God already had sovereignly ordained.

4:3 The iron plate or pan was a utensil that ezekeil possessed as a priest; it was for baking grain for the cereal offerings (I ev. 2:5; 6:21; 7:9). here its purpose was to represent a wall between ezekeil and the city. The first three verses of the chapter dramatize to the house of Israel the inevitable and inescapable siege that would come against the holy city.

4:4–6 bear their iniquity: The prophet represented israel—the northern kingdom—and Judah—the southern kingdom—and the length of time each was going to be punished for its sin. Since ezekeil set the deportation of Jehoiachin (597 B.C.) as his chronological reference point (see 1:2), the most straightforward interpretation of vv. 4–8 pictures the punishment of exile and Gentile rule inflicted upon the hebrew nation over a 430-year period as extending from 597 to approximately 167 B.C. This was the time Jewish rule returned to Judah, through the Maccabean revolt.

4:7 The arm . . . uncovered, used in connection with God’s command that ezekeil set his face toward the siege (see 4:3), most likely refers to the siege as a set and certain event (see is. 52:10, and the modern idiom of “rolling up one’s sleeves”). As horrible as it was, the siege ultimately showed God’s faithfulness to his covenant established in the days of Moses: that idolatry and disobedience would bring curses, which would include being conquered, captured, and removed from the land (Deut. 28:15–68).

4:8 Restrain you more literally reads “place ropes on you.” ezekeil was bound while lying on either side for the entire 430 days; but the activities described in 4:9–17 show that his lying down and being tied up occurred only during parts of each day.

4:9–11 The recipe of six mixed grains for the bread indicates the limited and unusual food supply while in bondage in a foreign land. The small amounts of these grains vividly picture the short supply of food in a city under siege. Because a city under siege was cut off from outside supplies, the people had to ration their food and water. if it ran out, they would be forced to surrender. In Jerusalem, the people would be allowed daily only a half pound of bread (twenty shekels) and less than a quart of water (one-sixth of a hin).

4:12–15 The bread is called defiled (v. 13) in light of what is said in v. 12. in order to portray the fate of the unfaithful nation, God wanted ezekeil to temporarily eat food made unclean by being cooked over a fire fueled by human waste (Deut. 23:12–14). God at first commanded ezekeil to use human excrement because it would most accurately and forcefully symbolize the horror of the coming siege of the city. But cow dung, a common fuel then as now, was allowed as a substitute in light of ezekeil’s prayerful insistence and practical faithfulness to the ceremonial law (Deut. 12:15–19; 14:3–21).

4:16, 17 The terrible conditions of the siege of Jerusalem would fulfill ezekeil’s symbolic acts (vv. 9–12). Both water and bread would be rationed. Anxiety and  dread (see 12:19) would be rampant. The hebrew term for dread could also be rendered “horror”

<sup>m</sup> drink water by measure and with dread, <sup>17</sup> that they may lack bread and water, and be dismayed with one another, and <sup>n</sup> waste away because of their iniquity.

A Sword Against Jerusalem

5 “And you, son of man, take a sharp sword, take it as a barber’s razor, <sup>a</sup> and pass it over your head and your beard; then take scales to weigh and divide the hair. <sup>2b</sup> You shall burn with fire one-third in the midst of <sup>c</sup> the city, when <sup>d</sup> the days of the siege are finished; then you shall take one-third and strike around it with the sword, and one-third you shall scatter in the wind: I will draw out a sword after <sup>e</sup> them. <sup>3f</sup> You shall also take a small number of them and bind them in the edge of your garment. <sup>4</sup> Then take some of them again and <sup>g</sup> throw them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire. From there a fire will go out into all the house of Israel.

<sup>5</sup> “Thus says the Lord God: ‘This is Jerusalem; I have set her in the midst of the nations and the countries all around her. <sup>6</sup> She has rebelled against My judgments by doing wickedness more than the nations, and against My statutes more than the countries that are all around her; for they have refused My judgments, and they have not walked in My statutes.’ <sup>7</sup> Therefore thus says the Lord God: ‘Because you have <sup>1</sup> multiplied disobedience more than the nations that are all around you, have not walked in My statutes <sup>h</sup> nor kept My judgments, <sup>2</sup> nor even done according to the judgments of the nations that are all around you’— <sup>8</sup> therefore thus says the Lord God: ‘Indeed I, even or “shuddering.” All this would occur because of Judah’s iniquity. The people had broken their covenant with God, and he had no choice but to bring upon them the promised consequences of their disobedience (see l ev. 26:14–29; Deut. 28:47–53; 2 kin. 25:1–3).

5:1 Shaving the head was an act showing shame or disgrace in hebrew culture (see 7:18; 2 Sam. 10:4). it also represented a type of pagan mourning forbidden by the l aw (see 27:31; Deut. 14:1; is. 15:2; 22:12). Shaving the head was a mark of defilement, making a priest like ezeziel ritually unclean, and so unable to perform his duties in the temple (l ev. 21:5). This message was telling the people that they were about to be humiliated and defiled.

5:2 each citizen of Jerusalem would suffer one of the three fates depicted by each of the three mounds of the equally measured shorn hair: (1) Some would be burned along with the city or would die from plague, famine, or other siege conditions (5:12; 2 kin. 25:9); (2) some would be murdered by the sword during the attack (5:12; 2 kin. 25:18–21); and (3) some would be scattered in the wind—referring to the exile (5:12; 2 kin. 25:11–17, 21).

5:3, 4 a fire will go out: A remnant from the group sent into exile would be saved from death and merged into the foreign culture. o ther exiles would be killed.

5:5–7 This is Jerusalem: The words were being said in anguish. The personal God of the hebrews had given them the city as an inheritance. God loved it and established it as the center of the world, because his temple was there. here, however, he describes the extent of its people’s abominations. She has rebelled refers to the people of the favored city who had not only stubbornly refused to keep the l aw, but whose sin was even worse than that of the nations around them—they had failed to follow even the moral laws that were common among the pagans.

5:8 therefore: here is the solemn announcement of the sovereign Judge. I, even I, am against you: The solemn, emphatic pronoun is sad indeed.

5:9–17 The elements in God’s judgment on the people for their sins can be enumerated in this way: (1) a judgment that will be worse in extent than ever before; (2) a terrible famine that will lead to cannibalism; (3) pestilence, meaning plagues and diseases associated with famine; (4) violent death by sword or wild beasts; and (5) the scattering and killing of a remnant. These punishments would come as the result of the people’s idolatry—they had defiled God’s temple with detestable things and abominations (v. 11), evidencing their complete disregard for the l aw (see vv. 6, 7; see 11:18). The Ten commandments prohibited idolatry (see ex. 20:3). Further, these judgments would be accomplished: (1) without pity and with no hope of escape (v. 11), (2) with a full expenditure of God’s wrath (v. 13), and (3) with the result of making God’s people an object lesson of warning among the onlooking neighbor nations (v. 15). in his covenant with his people, God had promised to send these curses if the people chose to rebel against him (Deut. 28:15–68).

the LORD, have spoken. <sup>16</sup>When I <sup>z</sup>send against them the terrible arrows of famine which shall be for destruction, which I will send to destroy you, I will increase the famine upon you and cut off your <sup>a</sup>supply of bread. <sup>17</sup>So I will send against you famine and <sup>b</sup>wild beasts, and they will bereave you. <sup>c</sup>Pestilence and blood shall pass through you, and I will bring the sword against you. I, the LORD, have spoken.<sup>z</sup>

Judgment on Idolatrous Israel

<sup>8</sup>“Yet I will leave a remnant, so that you may have some who escape the sword among the nations, when you are <sup>g</sup>scattered through the countries. <sup>9</sup>Then those of you who escape will <sup>h</sup>remember Me among the nations where they are carried captive, because <sup>i</sup>I was crushed by their adulterous heart which has departed from Me, and <sup>j</sup>by their eyes which play the harlot after their idols; <sup>k</sup>they will loathe themselves for the evils which they committed in all their abominations. <sup>10</sup>And they shall know that I am the LORD; I have not said in vain that I would bring this calamity upon them.”

6:2, 3 The mountains of Israel may signify the land in general (see 36:1–6); however, the hills could be especially condemned because in their wooded areas the people had built altars and shrines to canaanite idols (v. 13). High places were originally elevated locations for the worship of the god Baal and other deities of the canaanite pantheon. The term high place could be used of any location, whether hilltop or valley (see v. 6; Jer. 7:31) where canaanite gods were worshiped (1 kin. 11:4–10). The israelites adopted the use of these and associated worship practices including sexual misconduct, sorcery, spiritism, snake worship, and child sacrifice. Before entering the promised land, the hebrews had been commanded to abolish all the high places where idols were worshiped (Num. 33:52).

6:4–6 The phrases cast down your slain, lay the corpses, and scatter your bones refer to God’s judgment. Dead people lying unburied and bones scattered around signify the ultimate defilement of the land. God would bring this upon them because they had defiled and desecrated themselves by worshiping in the pagan high places (see 2 kin. 23:20; ps. 53:5).

6:7 you shall know that I am the LORD: ordinarily, one would come to know or to experience the reality of the living God through encounters with his mercy. But because of the evil path that the people of Judah had taken, they would experience his reality in a dreadful manner—through his judgment (is. 28:21).

6:8–10 Not only would God prove his justice and faithfulness to his past promises and warnings about the consequences of idolatry (see 5:13), but he would leave a remnant of his people so they would remember the one true God among the nations. God had promised that, despite any future destruction of the nation that might occur because of sin, he would always preserve a portion from annihilation (see Deut. 28:61–64). The chief purpose of even calamitous punishment was the production of a repentant and spiritually restored remnant.

6:11 Alas: This word, also translated “Ah!” (21:15) and “Aha!” (25:3), is meant sarcastically. either God was displaying his delight over the destruction of idolatrous places and practices (vv. 1–7, 13) or he was having ezeziel enact the mocking role of a jealous neighbor nation, such as Ammon (25:1–7).

6:13 Then you shall know that I am the LORD: As in vv. 7, 10, the lord states the purpose of the coming destruction of his city and many of its people. The use of God’s personal name further emphasizes the intent to bring his people back to a personal, intimate relationship with himself.

idols

(heb. gillulim) (6:4; 20:16; 30:13; 2 kin. 23:24) Strong’s #1544

This hebrew noun is related to a verb which means “to roll” (Gen. 29:3; Josh. 10:18). The word refers to “shapeless things” like stones or tree logs of which idols were made (6:9; 20:39; 22:3; 1 kin. 21:26). The prophet ezeziel uses this hebrew term for idols nearly 40 times, always contemptuously, for these false gods had led israel away from the true God (14:5). The word gillulim may be related to a similar hebrew expression meaning “dung pellets.” Later Jewish commentators mocked the gillulim as the “dung idols,” idols as worthless as dung.

Judgment on Israel Is Near

7 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“And you, son of man, thus says the Lord God to the land of Israel:

<sup>3</sup> Now the end has come upon you, And I will send My anger against you; I will judge you <sup>b</sup>according to your ways, And I will repay you for all your abominations.

<sup>4</sup> <sup>c</sup>My eye will not spare you, Nor will I have pity; But I will repay your ways, And your abominations will be in your midst; <sup>d</sup>Then you shall know that I am the LORD!”

7:2, 3 The three uses of the key word end stresses that the fulfillment of the prophecy was at hand. The phrase has come denotes certitude. The four corners of the land suggests that all the people of Judah would be affected, not just those in Jerusalem.

7:5–7 As in vv. 2, 3, key words in these verses include end (used two times), in parallel with doom. There now is an added stress on disaster (used two times); the coming disaster will be unlike any other (5:9). The word doom is a rare term and may be better explained as “mourning.”

7:9 Again at the end of this oracle (see vv. 4, 27), God states his purpose in disciplining Israel: to cultivate in his people a better understanding of himself.

7:10–12 The flowering of the rod and pride indicates that the time to bring judgment was ripe. These words describe one whose time had come, a person marked by arrogance. In this case, it pictures the chosen instrument of God (Num. 17:5) with whom he would discipline Jerusalem and Judah—namely, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon and the characteristic representative of the arrogant and evil Babylonians (see v. 21). Rod of wickedness refers to a stick or club (see ex. 4:20; is. 10:5) used for punishing wickedness.

7:12, 13 Let not the buyer rejoice: The fact of coming judgment was so certain, and its effects would be so lasting and devastating, that transactions of buying and selling would be concluded improperly or not at all.

7:14, 15 No one goes to battle for Judah because the nation and land would be so devastated by death and diseases brought on by warfare and famine (5:8–17).

Abominations in the Temple

8 And it came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I sat in my house with <sup>a</sup> the elders of Judah sitting before me, that <sup>b</sup> the hand of the Lord God fell upon me there. <sup>2c</sup> Then I looked, and there was a likeness, like the appearance of fire—from the appearance of His waist and downward, fire; and from His waist and upward, like the appearance of brightness, <sup>d</sup> like the color of amber. <sup>3</sup> He <sup>e</sup> stretched out the form of a hand, and took me by a lock of my hair; and <sup>f</sup> the Spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven, and <sup>g</sup> brought me in visions of God to Jerusalem, to the door of the north gate of the inner court, <sup>h</sup> where the seat of the image of jealousy was, which <sup>i</sup> provokes <sup>1</sup> to jealousy. <sup>4</sup> And behold, the

7:16–19 Those left alive would hide in the hills and be characterized by four things: (1) mourning—moaning like doves in shame, displaying their humiliation over sin by wearing sackcloth and shaving their heads (see is. 15:2, 3); (2) weakness; (3) horror; and (4) disgust and disillusionment over wealth.

7:20–22 This section describes the judgment that would come on the people for taking the treasures of the temple to make pagan images. Beauty of his ornaments and My secret place both refer to Jerusalem and its temple. The people had sinned horribly when they crafted idols out of the temple treasures and then worshiped what their hands had made (r om. 1:25).

7:23–27 The punishment will fit the crime—God promised to do to them according to . . . what they deserve. Because Judah had been so bloodthirsty, God would send the worst of the Gentiles to possess their houses, defile the temple, and bring violence to the land. This section predicts Nebuchadnezzar's desecration of the Jerusalem temple in 586 B.C. As a last resort, peace at any price would be fervently sought from false prophets, priests, and politicians, but without success. The deadline for decisive action would have passed.

8:1 sixth year: This second exact date given in ezekiel is 592 B.C., when ezekiel was acting out the siege of Jerusalem (see 1:1; 4:1–8).

8:2 The first word translated fire may also be read in hebrew as the word meaning “man.” in the second instance fire is the expected meaning. This description parallels 1:26, 27.

8:3, 4 the north gate of the inner court, called the “altar gate” in v. 5, was near the sacrificial altar (1 ev. 1:11). There ezekiel saw the image . . . which provokes to jealousy. All idolatry was forbidden, and any idol represented a violation of the loyalty that belonged to israel's God. the glory of the God of Israel: See 3:12.

glory of the God of Israel was there, like the vision that I <sup>k</sup>saw in the plain.

<sup>5</sup>Then He said to me, “Son of man, lift your eyes now toward the north.” So I lifted my eyes toward the north, and there, north of the altar gate, was this image of jealousy in the entrance.

<sup>6</sup>Furthermore He said to me, “Son of man, do you see what they are doing, the great <sup>l</sup>abominations that the house of Israel commits here, to make Me go far away from My sanctuary? Now turn again, you will see greater abominations.” <sup>7</sup>So He brought me to the door of the court; and when I looked, there was a hole in the wall. <sup>8</sup>Then He said to me, “Son of man, dig into the wall”; and when I dug into the wall, there was a door.

<sup>9</sup>And He said to me, “Go in, and see the wicked abominations which they are doing there.” <sup>10</sup>So I went in and saw, and there—every <sup>m</sup>sort of <sup>n</sup>creeping thing, abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, <sup>2</sup>portrayed all around on the walls. <sup>11</sup>And there stood before them <sup>o</sup>seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, and in their midst stood Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan. Each man had a censer in his hand, and a thick cloud of incense went up. <sup>12</sup>Then He said to me, “Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the room of his idols? For they say, <sup>p</sup>“The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land.””

<sup>13</sup>And He said to me, “Turn again, and you will see greater abominations that

<sup>15</sup>Then He said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? Turn again, you will see greater abominations than these.” <sup>16</sup>So He brought me into the inner court of the LORD’s house; and there, at the door of the temple of the LORD, <sup>q</sup>between the porch and the altar, <sup>r</sup>were about twenty-five men <sup>s</sup>with their backs toward the temple of the LORD and their faces toward the east, and they were worshipping <sup>t</sup>the sun toward the east.

<sup>17</sup>And He said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? Is it a trivial thing to the house of Judah to commit the abominations which they commit here? For they have <sup>u</sup>filled the land with violence; then they have returned to provoke Me to anger. Indeed they put the branch to their nose. <sup>18</sup><sup>v</sup>Therefore I also will act in fury. My <sup>w</sup>eye will not spare nor will I have pity; and though they <sup>x</sup>cry in My ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them.”

The Wicked Are Slain

9 Then He called out in my hearing with a loud voice, saying, “Let those who have charge over the city draw near, each with a <sup>1</sup> deadly weapon in his hand.” <sup>2</sup>And suddenly six men came from the direction of the upper gate, which faces north, each with his <sup>2</sup>battle-ax in his hand. <sup>4</sup>One man among them was clothed with linen and had a writer’s inkhorn <sup>3</sup>at

8:5, 6 to make Me go: The people thought that just because the temple stood among them, whatever wrong they might do could not bring ultimate disaster. They thought the temple guaranteed their security. They did not realize that their evil had actually caused God to leave his temple, which would then no longer be their protection. See ch. 10.

8:7–9 A view through a hole in the temple wall, this next scene of the vision gives a glimpse of even worse idolatrous acts. The people’s abominations (vv. 6, 9, 10, 13, 15, 17) were not limited to a periphery. They extended deeply into the hierarchy of Israel’s religious leadership.

8:10 all around on the walls: in conformity with surrounding pagan nations (primarily Egypt), God’s people were worshiping images of clean and unclean creatures that represented various gods. polytheistic idolatry was being practiced in Israel.

8:11 The seventy elders represented the nation’s leaders (Num. 11:16–25). The censer each man carried (a vessel for holding burning incense) and the burning incense would not necessarily be evil, but here they were being used to worship idols. Jaazaniah: Nothing more is known about this person.

8:12 The emphasis is on the elders’ pagan beliefs as well as their resultant secret behavior—in the dark, ironically and inconsistently, they thought of God in limited, human terms, much as their neighbors viewed the gods of the nations. They thought he was not omniscient and omnipresent.

8:13, 14 Tammuz was a fertility god. The women were crying out to the idol because they had no children or because the crops were failing. In the sixth month, August–September, Tammuz was thought to

8:15, 16 The location for the sun worship was in the inner court . . . between the porch and the altar. These 25 men must have been Levites if temple regulations were being followed; otherwise, the area was forbidden (see Num. 3:7, 8; 18:1–7; 2 Chr. 4:9; Joel 2:17). Whether priests or not, they were turned in the wrong direction—their backs were to God’s temple and they were worshipping the sun.

8:17, 18 trivial thing: There is similar wording in the Lord’s condemnation of Ahab (see 1 Kin. 16:31). put the branch to their nose: This action is not mentioned elsewhere. In the context it appears to be (1) a ritualistic gesture used in idol worship, or (2) an action indicative of the extensive violence which was occurring in Judah as a result of idolatry.

9:1 He is the God of Israel, who has been speaking since Ezekiel saw the glory of God (see 8:5). those who have charge over: This is the sense given to a Hebrew word that is frequently used of a vengeful visitation (is. 10:3).

9:2 One man among them was probably one in addition to the six, making six men equipped as executioners and one representing the presence and purity of the holy God, who is worthy to mark out some for judgment and to omit others (see vv. 3–7; ex. 12:1–13; r om. 9:14–29; r ev. 7:3; 9:4). his battle-ax: I literally, “the implement of his shattering” (compare Jer. 51:20). The upper gate from which these seven came was equivalent to the north gate of the inner court (see 8:3; 2 Kin. 15:35). The bronze altar was the sacrificial altar.

his side. They went in and stood beside the bronze altar.

<sup>11</sup>Just then, the man clothed with linen, who had the inkhorn at his side, reported back and said, "I have done as You commanded me."

The Glory Departs from the Temple

10 And I looked, and there in the <sup>a</sup>firmament<sup>1</sup> that was above the head of the cherubim, there appeared something like a sapphire stone, having the appearance of the likeness of a throne. <sup>2b</sup>Then He spoke to the man clothed with linen, and said, "Go in among the wheels, under the cherub, fill your hands with <sup>c</sup>coals of fire from among the cherubim, and <sup>d</sup>scatter them over the city." And he went in as I watched.

ezek. 1:24; [r ev. 10:3] / [ps. 29:3]

9:3 it is not clear whether the term cherub here indicates (1) the cherubim on the ark of the covenant in the Most holy place or (2) the cherubim of the throne with wheels in 10:1–5, 18. either way, this pictures the departure of God's glory from the temple, then from Jerusalem, and then from Judah, as seen in chs. 9–11. The threshold refers to the entryway.

9:4 Mark translates the hebrew name for the last letter of the hebrew alphabet, which in ezeziel's time looked like an X. Those so marked are people who sigh and cry over the abominations of idolatry so far mentioned. Those who demonstrated a righteous attitude through true repentance and remorse were marked out from the hardened rebels. These would be the remnant (see v. 8), the ones who continued to follow God's commands (see r ev. 7:2–4; 9:4; 14:1).

9:5, 6 Go after him: The universality of this judgment is shocking to us; but this is in line with divine judgments from the time of the Flood in Genesis to the final judgment described in r evelation.

9:6, 7 My sanctuary: The corrupt spiritual leaders had been practicing idolatry and immorality in the temple itself (8:3–16). Judgment would begin with them because they had led the nation astray (1 pet. 4:17). Defile the temple: This means to carry out the execution and leave dead bodies in the temple environs (see I ev. 21:1; Num. 19:11).

9:8 The prophet was horrified by what he saw. The word Ah was sarcastic in 6:11; here it is a sincere gasp of pain (as in 11:13). The remnant, a group chosen and saved from destruction by a sovereign God, is a recurring theme in the Bible (see 2 kin. 19:31; ezra 9:8; is. 1:9; 10:20–23; Amos 5:15; r om. 9:27–29; 11:1–8).

9:9 Three reasons are given as to why the nation deserved this terrible outpouring of God's wrath—serious and undeniable (1) iniquity, or guilt of sinful offenses (see 4:4–8); (2) bloodshed, or violence (see 8:17); and (3) perversity, or more precisely injustice. The people and especially rich rulers willfully chose to believe that God did not see or care what injustices went on.

9:11 I have done: The report of judgment was brought by one man (vv. 3, 4) appearing as a righteous accountant.

10:1 See ch. 1 for an understanding of the several terms in this verse. The cherubim here are the living creatures of 1:5.

10:2 Coals of fire (see 1:13) are sometimes related to a chastisement for cleansing (is. 6) and at other times to judgment by fiery catastrophe (Gen. 19:24, 25).

10:3–5 The cloud represented God's glory (as in 1:4), which was seen moving from the inner court to the threshold of the temple. From there it filled the temple (house). glory: See 3:12, 23. sound . . . Almighty: See 1:24.

10:6 when He commanded . . . he went in: These words display the man's unquestioning obedience to God (see v. 5; 1:24; 8:2–5).

10:7, 8 A particular cherub handed the coals to the man in linen (v. 2). Though not stated explicitly, it is implied that all the directives of v. 2 were now carried out. The coals were then scattered on Jerusalem.

it and put it into the hands of the man clothed with linen, who took it and went out. <sup>8k</sup>The cherubim appeared to have the form of a man's hand under their wings.

Judgment on Wicked Counselors

11 Then <sup>a</sup>the Spirit lifted me up and brought me to <sup>b</sup>the East Gate of the LORD's house, which faces eastward; and there <sup>c</sup>at the door of the gate were twenty-five men, among whom I saw Jaazaniah the son of Azzur, and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, princes of the people. <sup>2</sup>And He said to me: “Son of man, these are the men who devise iniquity and give wicked <sup>1</sup>counsel in this city, <sup>3</sup>who say, ‘The time is not <sup>d</sup>near to build houses; <sup>e</sup>this city is the <sup>2</sup>caldron, and we are the meat.’ <sup>4</sup>Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, O son of man!”

<sup>5</sup>Then <sup>f</sup>the Spirit of the LORD fell upon me, and said to me, “Speak! ‘Thus says the LORD: “Thus you have said, O house of Israel; for <sup>g</sup>I know the things that come into your mind. <sup>6</sup><sup>h</sup>You have multiplied your slain in this city, and you have filled its streets with the slain.” <sup>7</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord God: <sup>i</sup>“Your slain whom you have laid in its midst, they are the meat, and this city is the caldron; <sup>j</sup>but I shall bring you out of the midst of

10:9–17 ezeziel describes the wheels (vv. 9–14) and then the cherubim (vv. 15–17). See ch. 1 for details in this vision. Only in v. 14 is something different from the description in ch. 1. Whereas one of the four faces in 1:10 is an ox, here it is a cherub. There are ancient sculptures with animal bodies and wings but human faces, sometimes called “cherubs.” The difference of the faces between 1:10 and 10:14 should not be called an error; it is possible that the images that ezeziel saw were changing from time to time.

10:18, 19 God's glory continued moving gradually but progressively away from the temple (vv. 3, 4): from the entrance door of the temple to the wheeled cherubim throne, and then with the throne to the east gate of the temple.

10:20–22 The cherubim sometimes serve as guardians (see Gen. 3:24). They are associated with God's throne and presence (the mercy seat on the ark; ex. 25:18–22; 1 chr. 13:6). They are also associated with God's chariot-like throne (v. 1; 1:20–26; ps. 18:10).

11:1, 2 ezeziel saw twenty-five civic leaders at the temple. Princes of the people denotes public and political officials often serving in judicial, military, or royal posts (see 2 Sam. 8:15–18; 20:23–26). Jaazaniah: Son of Azzur, and not the same Jaazaniah as in 8:11 (son of Shaphan). These men had been giving wicked counsel, and even stooped so low as to devise iniquity against their own people. Because they were trying to combine hebrew and heathen religions, these leaders had deceived themselves and their followers into thinking that they were speaking for the true God. On Pelatiah, meaning “The one Delivered by the Lord,” see v. 13.

11:3 The time is not near to build houses can be rephrased, “is it not now time to build houses?” These officials were proclaiming that the inhabitants of Jerusalem were as secure behind the city's walls as meat was safe in its cooking pot (caldron). There was no impending doom, they said; therefore, new construction projects were encouraged.

11:4 prophesy . . . prophesy: The repetition is for emphasis, a literary technique common in hebrew style. Son of man means “human one.” This phrase appears 90 times in ezeziel and emphasizes ezeziel's humanity in his role as a spokesman for God. In the OT the phrase is used also for Daniel (Dan. 8:17) and for the coming Messiah (Dan. 7:13). In the NT the phrase Son of Man is used frequently by Jesus for himself (see 2:1).

11:6 slain: Jerusalem's official leaders had been accused of wicked activities and giving unrighteous advice (v. 2); here we discover that they had killed fellow countrymen.

11:7–11 The verdict of a death penalty is announced. Contrary to the leaders' false beliefs, the ones they killed were the godly people whose presence might have offered protection in the caldron—that is, Jerusalem. Those who had gained power by the sword, it. <sup>8</sup>You have <sup>k</sup>feared the sword; and I will bring a sword upon you,” says the Lord God. <sup>9</sup>“And I will bring you out of its midst, and deliver you into the hands of strangers, and <sup>l</sup>execute judgments on you. <sup>10m</sup>You shall fall by the sword. I will judge you at <sup>n</sup>the border of Israel. <sup>o</sup>Then you shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>11p</sup>This city shall not be your <sup>3</sup>caldron, nor shall you be the meat in its midst. I will judge you at the border of Israel. <sup>12</sup>And you shall know that I am the LORD; for you have not walked in My statutes nor executed My judgments, but <sup>q</sup>have done according to the customs of the Gentiles which are all around you.””

<sup>13</sup>Now it happened, while I was prophesying, that <sup>r</sup>Pelathiah the son of Benaiah died. Then <sup>s</sup>I fell on my face and cried with a loud voice, and said, “Ah, Lord God! Will You make a complete end of the remnant of Israel?”

God Will Restore Israel

<sup>14</sup>Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>15</sup>“Son of man, your brethren, your relatives, your countrymen, and all the house of Israel in its entirety, are those about whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, ‘Get far away from the LORD; this land has been given to us as a possession.’ <sup>16</sup>Therefore say, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “Although I have cast them far off among the Gentiles, and although I have scattered them among the countries, <sup>t</sup>yet I shall be a little <sup>4</sup>sanctuary for them in the countries where they have gone.”’ <sup>17</sup>Therefore say, ‘Thus says the Lord God: <sup>u</sup>“I will gather you from the peoples, assemble you from the coun-

<sup>24</sup>Then <sup>g</sup>the Spirit took me up and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into <sup>6</sup>Chaldea, to those in captivity. And the vision that I had seen went up from me. <sup>25</sup>So I spoke to those in captivity of all the things the LORD had shown me.

Judah's Captivity Portrayed

12 Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, you dwell in the midst of <sup>a</sup>a rebellious house, which <sup>b</sup>has eyes to see but does not see, and ears to hear but does not hear; <sup>c</sup>for they are a rebellious house.

11:8 <sup>c</sup> ezek. 2:5

knowing the dread of such force, would experience defeat and death the same way. They would be dragged out of the city and slain by strangers, referring to the Babylonians.

11:13 ezekeil's reaction showed that Pelathiah, one of the corrupt city leaders (v. 1), was struck dead by God as undeniable proof that the prophet's message would come true. ezekeil himself was awestruck and asked if this meant that God would not after all preserve a remnant (see 9:8).

11:15 ezekeil's brethren were those in exile with him. The people in Jerusalem (representative of Judah) regarded the exiles as sinners because they had been deported to Babylon.

11:16 God explained to ezekeil that the hebrews taken captive and spread among foreign lands were actually the remnant whom God was protecting. God himself would continue as their sanctuary—a word in hebrew that literally means a “holy place” or a “set-apart place.”

11:17 I will give you the land: God promises that israel will be restored to the promised land. This is in keeping with the unilateral and unconditional nature of the covenant made with Abraham (Gen. 12:1-3; 15:13-21; Deut. 30:1-6), and renewed with David (2 Sam. 7:12-16) and Jeremiah (Jer. 31:31-34).

11:18-20 When the remnant returned to the land, they would abolish idolatry. At that time, God would establish a new covenant with them (Jer. 31:31-34). Then God would pour out his Spirit (see 36:26, 27; Joel 2:28, 29) so that his people would become united in purpose and empowered to maintain their righteousness—walk in My statutes. They would finally and truly become his people (see ex. 6:6-8).

11:21 As with pelathiah, God promised to continue judging idolaters whose affections were for detestable objects—that is, idols. Such recompense was fully deserved because ample warning had been given; the people were personally responsible for their choices. From his giving of the law at Mt. Sinai, the Lord had continually expressed his abhorrence of idolatry (see ex. 20:1-6). praise and worship belonged only to the Lord—their creator and Deliverer.

11:22, 23 God's glory continued to move away from the city to the Mount of olives—the mountain. See 10:3, 4, 18, 19. The hebrew term for glory literally means “weight” or “significance” and refers to the wonder and majesty of the living God.

11:24, 25 the Spirit: ezekeil's visions are not merely dreams; they were inspired by God himself and thus were prophetic. Chaldea: This is an alternate term for Babylon. So I spoke: presumably the telling and retelling of ezekeil's visions (8:2—11:23) led to the more permanent record that makes up his book.

12:2 The exiled community among whom ezekeil was ministering was described twice as a rebellious house. This is further defined by the phrases: eyes to see . . . and ears to hear (is. 6:10). The israelites' hardness of heart was sustained for over a year (see 1:1, 2; 8:1). They would not listen to the prophet's words or his dramatizations of coming judgment (chs. 4-6).

<sup>3</sup>“Therefore, son of man, prepare your belongings for captivity, and go into captivity by day in their sight. You shall go from your place into captivity to another place in their sight. It may be that they will consider, though they are a rebellious house. <sup>4</sup>By day you shall bring out your belongings in their sight, as though going into captivity; and at evening you shall go in their sight, like those who go into captivity. <sup>5</sup>Dig through the wall in their sight, and carry your belongings out through it. <sup>6</sup>In their sight you shall bear them on your shoulders and carry them out at twilight; you shall cover your face, so that you cannot see the ground, <sup>a</sup>for I have made you a sign to the house of Israel.”

<sup>7</sup>So I did as I was commanded. I brought out my belongings by day, as though going into captivity, and at evening I dug through the wall with my hand. I brought them out at twilight, and I bore them on my shoulder in their sight.

<sup>8</sup>And in the morning the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>9</sup>“Son of man, has not the house of Israel, <sup>e</sup>the rebellious house, said to you, <sup>f</sup>“What are you doing?” <sup>10</sup>Say to them, “Thus says the Lord God: “This <sup>g</sup>burden <sup>1</sup>concerns the prince in Jerusalem and all the house of Israel who are among them.”” <sup>11</sup>Say, <sup>h</sup>“I am a sign to you. As I have done, so shall it be done to them; <sup>i</sup>they shall be carried away into captivity.” <sup>12</sup>And <sup>j</sup>the prince who is among them shall bear his belongings on his shoulder at twilight and go out. They shall dig through the wall

Judgment Not Postponed

12:3–7 ezekeiel’s next visual demonstration warned the captives already in Babylon that they should not expect a quick return to Jerusalem. a sign: The term here does not mean a miracle but a visible symbol (see v. 11; 24:24, 27). I did as I was commanded: in contrast to the inattention and disobedience of the people, God’s prophet ezekeiel was always obedient to him (see chs. 2–5).

12:9, 10 ezekeiel’s audience was composed of people who had already experienced exile; but the people were so rebellious and so resistant to the message they continued disdainfully to ask the prophet, What are you doing? The prince in Jerusalem was zedekiah (vv. 12–14), the ruler of Judah (2 kin. 24:17–20). burden:

The message a prophet proclaimed is often called a burden (see is. 13:1; 15:1).

12:11–14 Speaking in 592 B.C., ezekeiel predicted the deportation of Jerusalem’s population to Babylon six years later, and prophesied exactly what would happen to their leader zedekiah. The king would attempt to escape by night, secretly and in disguise (cover his face); but he would be caught and blinded by the Babylonians, then carried off to Babylon where he would die (see 2 kin. 25:1–7; Jer. 52:1–11). ezekeiel was a sign to his audience already in exile as he symbolically and verbally foretold the fate of the Jews still living in Jerusalem. The land of the Chaldeans is Babylonia.

12:15, 16 The LORD translates God’s personal name. it appears in this prophecy to indicate God’s special relationship to the israelites. ezekeiel instructed the exiles that their difficult situation did have a purpose. God would use it to demonstrate that he was a personal, caring Lord. its aim was corrective and instructive: Then they shall know. Furthermore the exile would be a testimony or sign to the Gentiles. The defeat of God’s people would not indicate the Lord’s lack of strength, but the serious consequences of sin against him. Through the difficult experience, his people would learn that their God was both holy and loving. Sin offended him, but he still would reach out to restore the sinner.

12:18, 19 To the people of the land (that is, his fellow exiles), ezekeiel was to demonstrate and declare God’s warning about the devastating conditions that would befall the people in Judah and Jerusalem. 12:20 For the fulfillment of the prophecy that Jerusalem and Judah would be laid waste, see 2 kin. 25:8–21; Jer. 39:8–10; 44:1–6; 52:1–30; 1 am. 1:3, 4.

rebellious

(heb. meriy) (2:5–8; 3:9; 12:2; is. 30:9) Strong’s #4805

This noun is derived from a verbal root that means “to resist authority” or “to be contentious” (Deut. 1:26; Jer. 4:17; Neh. 9:26). it depicts someone opposing an authority figure out of stubborn pride (Deut. 21:18) and commonly describes disobedience (1 kin. 13:21). ezekeiel identified israel as a “rebellious house” a dozen times, meaning they were willfully disobedient, refusing to listen to the word of God (2:5–8). ezekeiel was addressing an audience chafing under God’s authority (3:9). Samuel equated this kind of rebellion with witchcraft (1 Sam. 15:23).

<sup>21</sup> And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>22</sup> “Son of man, what is this proverb that you people have about the land of Israel, which says, ‘The days are prolonged, and every vision fails?’ <sup>23</sup> Tell them therefore, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “I will lay this proverb to rest, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel.”’ But say to them, <sup>24</sup> “The days are at hand, and the <sup>3</sup> fulfillment of every vision. <sup>24</sup> For <sup>v</sup> no more shall there be any <sup>w</sup> false <sup>4</sup> vision or flattering divination within the house of Israel. <sup>25</sup> For I am the LORD. I speak, and <sup>x</sup> the word which I speak will come to pass; it will no more be postponed; for in your days, O rebellious house, I will say the word and <sup>y</sup> perform it,” says the Lord God.’”

Woe to Foolish Prophets

12:22 The proverb or popular saying among the exiles indicates how hardened they were to ezeziel’s prophecies. The days are prolonged, and every vision fails: Although already captive, the people were cynical and apathetic, mistakenly thinking that a delay in judgment meant no judgment, at least in their lifetime (vv. 25, 27, 28; see 2 pet. 3:3, 4).

12:23–25 The days are at hand, and the fulfillment of every vision: An antithetical proverb would replace the old one (v. 22), and false prophets opposing ezeziel would cease to speak. in your days: The exiles would live to see the judgment on Jerusalem fulfilled.

12:26–28 The people still thought that judgment would be delayed; ezeziel was told to assure them a second time that the judgment would not be postponed any more.

13:1–23 in this passage, ezeziel prophesies judgment against false prophets, both male (vv. 1–16) and female (vv. 17–23). in each case he first vividly characterizes their sin (vv. 1–7, 17–19) and then gives God’s verdict of condemnation (vv. 8–16, 20–23).

13:2–4 The false prophets were foolish and like foxes in the deserts. The word translated deserts conveys the idea of open, desolate places. in the immediate context (v. 5), the foxes are pictured roaming amid the rubble of ruined city walls. The prophets were fools because they confused their own thoughts with God’s. They were like foxes among the ruins because they scavenged for themselves while causing, ignoring, and profiting from the human wreckage surrounding them. They were racketeers instead of reformers.

13:5 The day of the LORD refers to times when God triumphs (see 7:19; 30:3). The phrase is particularly used by the prophets to describe those periods in which God is unusually active in the affairs of his people, either for deliverance or for judgment (see Joel 2:1; zeph.

1:7). in that day, God will actively bring about his purposes for the world: he will rescue the righteous and judge evildoers.

13:6, 7 The false prophets, such as Balaam, practiced divination (see Josh. 13:22). This was the pagan art of finding “divine” guidance through such means as astrology, reading sheep livers and other animal organs, and consulting spiritists or witches to communicate with the dead (see 1 Sam. 28:3–19). By prefacing their predictions with the LORD says, these false prophets were deceitfully claiming that God had spoken to them when in fact he had not. God’s prophets never sought visions through the methods of divination (see Deut. 18:10; Mic. 3:6), instead they received their visions and prophecies through the Spirit of the Lord.

13:8 The divine judgment on all false prophecy and knowledge is given in this verse; it is nonsense. The hebrew word for nonsense is translated “in vain” in ex. 20:7.

13:9 Because these false prophets had prophesied messages that contradicted God’s truth (v. 10), they were condemned. The Lord would separate them from God’s people, from membership in the nation of israel, and from life in the land. enter into the land: The false prophets would not participate in the future restoration of the people to the promised land.

13:10–16 These prophets would experience God’s wrath—just as the walls of Jerusalem which were being constructed at that time would be destroyed. Jerusalem would be conquered and captured for the sins of its inhabitants. The preaching of a false peace had prompted people to build for a “certain” future; but only the opposite was certain. The false prophets had deceived the people with false hopes of comfort and prosperity (v. 10). Their deception placed them not only at odds with God’s truth, but also with God himself. Their destruction was certain.

said to you, ‘Where is the mortar with which you plastered it?’”

<sup>13</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord God: “I will cause a stormy wind to break forth in My fury; and there shall be a flooding rain in My anger, and great hailstones in My fury to consume it. <sup>14</sup>So I will break down the wall you have plastered with untempered mortar, and bring it down to the ground, so that its foundation will be uncovered; it will fall, and you shall be consumed in the midst of it. <sup>15</sup>Then you shall know that I am the LORD.”

<sup>15</sup>“Thus will I accomplish My wrath on the wall and on those who have plastered it with untempered mortar; and I will say to you, ‘The wall is no more, nor those who plastered it, <sup>16</sup>that is, the prophets of Israel who prophesy concerning Jerusalem, and who <sup>17</sup>see visions of peace for her when there is no peace,’” says the Lord God.

Idolatry Will Be Punished

14 Now <sup>a</sup>some of the elders of Israel came to me and sat before me. <sup>2</sup>And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>3</sup>“Son of man, these men have set up their idols in their hearts, and put before them <sup>4</sup>b that which causes them to stumble into iniquity. <sup>5</sup>Should I let Myself be inquired of at all by them?”

<sup>4</sup>“Therefore speak to them, and say to them, “Thus says the Lord God: “Every-one of the house of Israel who sets up his

13:17–19 the daughters: The Hebrew women who were false prophetesses were confusing their own ideas with God’s and casting magic death spells through sorcery or witchcraft (l ev. 19:26). The charms and veils were elements used in occult rituals in the ancient Middle East.

13:20–23 These prophetesses were sowing discouragement and doubt among those not involved in demonic divination and were offering encouragement to those already initiated: the righteous . . . the wicked. They would be stopped through the same judgment that was to come on the rest of the false prophets.

14:1–3 God revealed to Ezekiel that this group of the elders of Israel consisted of double-minded men (see 1 kin. 18:21; Matt.

6:24; James 1:5–8). o outwardly, they came to seek a word from God through his true prophet Ezekiel, but in their hearts they harbored loyalties to other gods. let Myself be inquired: God knows all hearts and minds (ps. 139:1–6), and he asks Ezekiel a rhetorical question about whether he ought to give revelatory guidance to such religious hypocrites (see vv. 4, 5).

14:4 answer . . . according to the multitude of his idols: God responded to these hypocrites by allowing them to experience the practical consequences of disbelief and disobedience. Their idolatry consisted not only of the theological error of worshipping other gods, but also the immorality that was a natural result of a heart turned away from the living God. evil is never caused by God (see ps. 5:4),

Idolatry of the Heart

perhaps you tend to think of an idol as a figure made from wood or stone to which primitive people pray and offer sacrifices. But the Lord defined what an idol is when he told Ezekiel that it is something that a person puts before himself in a way that causes him to stumble into iniquity (14:4). idols are not just the carved objects that sit in pagan temples; they are the godless cravings and commitments that rule in our hearts.

The people of Ezekiel’s day set up these “idols of the heart,” even as they continued to practice their religious rituals, having committed themselves to ungodly purposes, they came to the prophets expecting to find out what the Lord had to say. God promised to confound these hypocrites by telling them whatever they wanted to hear. Ultimately their idols would fail and judgment would come (14:4, 5).

This is a sobering condemnation. Apparently it is possible to commit ourselves to things that are utterly opposed to God, and then expect God to bless us in our pursuit of those things! The worst thing that could happen would be for him to bless us, for then we would be ensnared by our own worthless gods rather than liberated to find genuine goodness in the living God.

idols in his heart, and puts before him what causes him to stumble into iniquity, and then comes to the prophet, I the LORD will answer him who comes, according to the multitude of his idols, <sup>5</sup>that I may seize the house of Israel by their heart, because they are all estranged from Me by their idols.”

<sup>9</sup>“And if the prophet is induced to speak anything, I the LORD <sup>h</sup>have induced that prophet, and I will stretch out My hand against him and destroy him from among My people Israel. <sup>10</sup>And they shall bear their iniquity; the punishment of the prophet shall be the same as the punishment of the one who inquired, <sup>11</sup>that the house of Israel may <sup>i</sup>no longer stray from Me, nor be profaned anymore with all their transgressions, <sup>j</sup>but that they may be My people and I may be their God,” says the Lord God.”

Judgment on Persistent Unfaithfulness

<sup>12</sup>The word of the LORD came again to me, saying: <sup>13</sup>“Son of man, when a land sins against Me by persistent unfaithfulness, I will stretch out My hand against it; I will cut off its <sup>k</sup>supply of bread, send famine on it, and cut off man and beast from it. <sup>14</sup><sup>l</sup>Even if these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they would deliver only themselves <sup>m</sup>by their righteousness,” says the Lord God.

<sup>15</sup>“If I cause <sup>n</sup>wild beasts to pass through the land, and they <sup>l</sup>empty it, and make it so desolate that no man may pass through because of the beasts, <sup>16</sup>even though these three men were <sup>2</sup>in it, as I live,” says the Lord God, “they would deliver neither sons nor daughters; only they would be delivered, and the land would be <sup>p</sup>desolate.

<sup>19</sup>“Or if I send <sup>t</sup>a pestilence into that land and “pour out My fury on it in blood, and cut off from it man and beast, <sup>20</sup>even though Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live,” says the Lord God, “they would deliver neither son nor daughter; they would deliver only themselves by their righteousness.”

but he permits the suffering it brings to the world (see Job 1; r om. 6:23). This process punishes the unrepentant, encourages sinners to repent (see v. 5), and purifies the righteous (see James 1:2–4).

14:5 seize the house of Israel by their heart: These words announced God’s restorative purpose (see prov. 3:12; r ev. 3:19) in allowing sin to run its course.

14:7 idolatry was condemned whether practiced by an israelite (one of God’s chosen people) or by strangers (Gentiles) spending time in israel. Anyone from any culture who had come into contact with specific revelation about the hebrew God was held responsible for his or her response to the truth.

14:8 The unrepentant idolater would be separated not only from God but also from God’s people (13:9). This experience would be a strong visual warning—sign—and an international example—proverb—of God’s absolute honoring of his promise to punish disobedience with cursing (I ev. 20:1–7).

14:9–11 The relationship between God’s sovereignty and human responsibility is implicit in these verses. God allows false preaching for his own inscrutable purposes, but the preacher is held accountable for the content of the message. These were israelite false prophets who deliberately ignored the truth and mixed it with falsehood. Their punishment would be the same as the one who inquired (the elders; see vv. 1–3). But they would also have the same redemptive plan (see v. 5).

14:12–20 Jerusalem’s “persistent unfaithfulness” was so offensive to God that the presence of spiritual giants could not stay judgment by famine, wild beasts, military invasion (sword), or disease (pestilence). Noah, Daniel, and Job: compare Jer. 15:1, where the names Moses and Samuel are invoked in a similar manner to these names. In this list, Daniel seems out of place among the other two men of faith, Noah and Job. Daniel was a younger contemporary of ezeqiel in Babylon (see Dan. 1), whose greatest exploits were likely still to come. The hebrew spelling of the name in ezeqiel is dan-El, rather than Daniel, raising the question whether a different person is meant than the biblical Daniel. There are some stories preserved about an ancient hero named Dan-el, but he was a worshiper of Baal, and would not have had the righteousness ezeqiel speaks of.

14:21 These judgments, though stated hypothetically so far, would actually come on Jerusalem (see I ev. 26:22–26).

repent

(heb. shub) (14:6; 18:30; Gen. 8:3; ps. 85:4) Strong’s #7725

The hebrew word translated repent means “to turn back” or “turn around.” The word refers to a reversal or a change of direction, as when the word is used of the receding floodwaters (Gen. 8:3). The prophets commonly used this word to call the israelites to a radical, conscious rejection of their past sin. A psalmist used the word to describe God’s restoration of a believer (see ps. 85:4). When used as a theological term, repentance implies not only sorrow but a complete turnaround: to change one’s mind about sin, receive God’s provision of salvation, and return wholeheartedly to him.

much more it shall be when <sup>w</sup>I send My four <sup>3</sup>severe judgments on Jerusalem—the sword and famine and wild beasts and pestilence—to cut off man and beast from it? <sup>22x</sup>Yet behold, there shall be left in it a remnant who will be <sup>y</sup>brought out, both sons and daughters; surely they will come out to you, and <sup>z</sup>you will see their ways and their doings. Then you will be comforted concerning the disaster that I have brought upon Jerusalem, all that I have brought upon it. <sup>23</sup>And they will comfort you, when you see their ways and their doings; and you shall know that I have done nothing <sup>a</sup>without cause that I have done in it,” says the Lord God.

The Outcast Vine

15 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, how is the wood of the vine better than any other wood, the vine branch which is among the trees of the forest? <sup>3</sup>Is wood taken from it to make any object? Or can men make a peg from it to hang any vessel on? <sup>4</sup>Instead, <sup>a</sup>it is thrown into the fire for fuel; the fire devours both ends of it, and its middle is burned. Is it useful for any work? <sup>5</sup>Indeed, when it was whole, no object could be made from it. How much less will it be useful for any work when the fire has devoured it, and it is burned?”

<sup>6</sup>“Therefore thus says the Lord God: ‘Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so I will give up the inhabitants of Jerusalem; <sup>7</sup>and <sup>b</sup>I will set My face against them. <sup>c</sup>They will go out from one fire, but another fire shall

God's Love for Jerusalem

<sup>6</sup>“And when I passed by you and saw you struggling in your own blood, I said to you in your blood, ‘Live!’ Yes, I said to you in your blood, ‘Live!’ <sup>7</sup><sup>e</sup>I made you <sup>3</sup>thrive like a plant in the field; and you grew, matured, and became very beautiful. Your breasts were formed, your hair grew, but you were naked and bare.

<sup>8</sup>“When I passed by you again and looked upon you, indeed your time was the time of love; <sup>f</sup>so I spread <sup>4</sup>My wing over you and covered your nakedness. Yes, I <sup>g</sup>swore an oath to you and entered into a <sup>h</sup>covenant with you, and <sup>i</sup>you became Mine,” says the Lord God.

14:22, 23 A remnant would be brought out from Jerusalem. When the exiles observe their ways and their doings—that is, their wicked actions, they will be reminded of God’s justice and grace. This is a remarkable use of the term remnant. ordinarily the term is used of the righteous. here it is used as a sample of the wicked people, whose deeds justified the actions of God in sovereign judgment: I have done nothing without cause.

15:1–5 The wood of the vine is depicted as useless. Unlike an olive tree, whose wood is also useful, the vine has only one use, to bear grapes. The regular use of vine imagery in the Bible (see ps. 80:8–19; is. 5:1–7; John 15) demonstrates the importance of grapevine cultivation in israel.

15:6–8 in this instance the vine is symbolic of the israelites still in Jerusalem (see ps. 80:8–19; is. 5:1–7). God had designed the people of israel for a particular purpose, to bring glory to his name by living faithfully to his covenant and by bringing the nations to the knowledge of the Lord. instead, israel had become like the pagan nations around them. israel had persisted in unfaithfulness and had failed to trust in God’s power. Jerusalem, and by implication the entire nation, had not faced exile before but now would be disciplined with another fire. This refers to additional destruction and deportation to be brought by Nebuchadnezzar, whose armies burned Jerusalem in 586 B.C. (see 7:23–27). The Judeans had already endured two deportations to Babylon, in 605 and 597 B.C.

development of the dreary story, designed to teach errant Jerusalem the real nature of her character in the eyes of God. The word abominations describes that which makes one physically ill.

16:3 your father was an Amorite and your mother a Hittite: These shocking words refer to the cultural and moral origins of Jerusalem. Ancient Canaan was inhabited by Semitic and non-Semitic peoples. The Amorites and Hittites are associated in Scripture with the southern hill country, where Jerusalem is (Num. 13:29). The point is that non-Israelites founded this city. Jebusites controlled it when the Israelites entered the land under Joshua (Josh. 15:8, 63). Israel did not fully control the city until David conquered it (2 Sam. 5:6, 7). 16:4, 5 God reminds Jerusalem that he had rescued them from being like an abandoned newborn child, unwashed, unsanitary (not rubbed with salt), and exposed to the elements to die. God alone had given her glory.

16:6 in contrast to Israel’s apathetic disdain—which led to disobedience including idolatry (see Judg. 1, 2)—God had wanted Israel to live, having purposed and planned to impart his life and glory to them.

16:7–9 breasts were formed: The city is compared to a young woman, mature and lovely. Yet the city was naked and bare until God covered it with a relationship of covenantal love. This began when David moved the ark of the covenant there and God established the covenant with David (2 Sam. 6:1–7:17; see ps. 132). Jerusalem became God’s dwelling place (2 Sam. 7:12–17; 1 kin. 5:6).

Silk

ezeiel 16:10, 13 describes silk as a fabric of great value. The hebrew words for this cloth were sheshi and meshi. Some scholars think the term found in prov. 31:22 (sheshi) actually refers to fine linen. We do not know if the egyptians used silk, but the chinese and other asiatics used it in oT times. Silk certainly reached the Bible lands after the conquest of Alexander the Great (ca. 325 B.C.). But it may have come to palestine earlier, since Solomon traded with surrounding countries that might have produced this fabric.

The fineness and vivid color of fabrics increased their value, so silk held an important position in the ancient world. The luxury lovers of NT “Babylon” treasured silk (r ev. 18:12). As late as A.D. 275, unmixed silk goods were sold for their weight in gold.

16:10–14 The adornments listed here are gifts from a groom to his bride. Figuratively they express the beauty and bounty God gave to Jerusalem under Solomon. badger skin: The exact meaning of this hebrew term is unknown, but it refers to a kind of fine leather. one suggestion is “dolphin skin.” The idea is that God clothed Jerusalem in the finest materials available. During the reigns of David and Solomon, Jerusalem achieved significant status as the capital of a nation rich in wisdom and wealth (1 kin. 10:23). But this was only because God bestowed it. perfect: This does not mean perfect in a moral sense, but complete, finished.

16:15 trusted in your own beauty: These words indict God's people for forgetting that their fame and fortune were God's gifts and not their own doing (v. 14). They relied on themselves and their gifts instead of on God. They came to believe that their material health and wealth as a nation absolutely demonstrated God's approval of their spiritual life, even though they were becoming spiritually corrupt. played the harlot: This phrase refers to spiritual prostitution—idolatry, trusting in false gods. The metaphor works in a powerful way, however, because the worship of these gods often involved literal sexual misconduct (v. 16; hos. 4:11–19) and other immoral acts (vv. 20–22).

16:16–21 These verses list the particular acts of idolatry engaged in by the spiritually unfaithful in Jerusalem and Judah. Mesopotamian and canaanite pagan rituals are featured. The people's unfaithfulness to God consisted of: (1) building altars to idols and decorating the high places with their garments (1 kin. 11:7, 8); (2) fashioning male images (phallic or sexually perverse statues) from gold and silver that God had provided; (3) giving what belonged to the true God to these false gods; and (4) practicing human sacrifice to appease these gods (2 kin. 16:1–4).

16:22 The israelites did not remember how much God had done for them since rescuing them from a dirty, destitute, and dying condition (vv. 1–14).

harlotry you did not remember the days of your <sup>u</sup>youth, <sup>v</sup>when you were naked and bare, struggling in your blood.

16:26 egypt is called a fleshly neighbor because that nation wanted alliances with israel, who committed harlotry by eventually reciprocating (1 kin. 10:28; 2 kin. 17:4; 18:21; hos. 7:11).

16:27-29 Jerusalem's kings had sought political alliances with Assyria (2 kin. 15:17-20) and Babylon (2 kin. 20:12-19) instead of relying on their God for security, probably a part of the treaty-making ceremonies was to worship the other nation's gods. For israel to do this would be a violation of the First commandment. in fact, king Ahaz dared to replace the bronze altar of the temple at Jerusalem with a copy of an Assyrian altar (2 kin. 16:5-18). in this way, foreign alliances led the israelites away from God. The Lord judged the city for this: he allowed Sennacherib to give some of Jerusalem's lands to the philistines (see also 2 chr. 21:16, 17).

16:31-34 Jerusalem was denounced as being less like a prostitute and more like an adulterous wife. She was deemed worse than the typical prostitute because instead of receiving payment for services rendered, she sought out strangers (foreign nations) and hired them for the privilege.

16:36 Jerusalem was filthy spiritually because the city had soiled itself by worshipping foreign idols and practicing infanticide (vv. 20, 21; Deut. 12:29-32).

16:37-43 As a result of its sin (compared to harlotry, vv. 25-30), Jerusalem would be punished. God would use her foreign lovers to expose Jerusalem's hypocrisy and bring international shame (uncover your nakedness). According to the law, adultery was punishable by death (I ev. 20:10). The people deserved death because they had committed spiritual adultery and had murdered their own children through child sacrifice. The city would be looted and burned, and its people slain. The tangible material riches gained as a result of God's favor (v. 8) would be lost. All this would culminate in the Babylonian invasion of 586 B.C. led by Nebuchadnezzar. During the ensuing captivity, israel would abandon idolatry and polytheism, as ezekeiel predicted. God's anger over the people's sin would be satisfied. My jealousy: God's covenantal love and loyalty to his people would continue even though they had been unfaithful and forgetful of God's grace in their lives.

More Wicked than Samaria and Sodom

44 “Indeed everyone who quotes proverbs will use this proverb against you: ‘Like mother, like daughter!’ 45 You are your mother’s daughter, 7loathing husband and children; and you are the <sup>v</sup>sister of your sisters, who loathed their husbands and children; <sup>w</sup>your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite.

46 “Your elder sister is Samaria, who dwells with her daughters to the north of you; and <sup>x</sup>your younger sister, who dwells to the south of you, is Sodom and her daughters. 47 You did not walk in their ways nor act according to their abominations; but, as if that were too little, <sup>y</sup>you became more corrupt than they in all your ways.

48 “As I live,” says the Lord God, “neither <sup>z</sup>your sister Sodom nor her daughters have done as you and your daughters have done. 49 Look, this was the iniquity of your sister Sodom: She and her daughter had pride, <sup>a</sup>fullness of food, and abundance of idleness; neither did she strengthen the hand of the poor and needy. 50 And they were haughty and <sup>b</sup>committed abomination before Me; therefore <sup>c</sup>I took them away as <sup>8</sup>I saw fit.

51 “Samaria did not commit <sup>d</sup>half of your sins; but you have multiplied your abominations more than they, and <sup>e</sup>have justified your sisters by all the abominations which you have done. 52 You who judged your sisters, bear your own shame also, because the sins which you commit-

An Everlasting Covenant

60 “Nevertheless I will <sup>n</sup> remember My covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish <sup>o</sup> an everlasting covenant with you. 61 Then <sup>p</sup> you will remember your ways and be ashamed, when you receive your older and your

16:44–47 This allegory describes Jerusalem as the sister of two cities—Samaria and Sodom. All three were presented as the characteristic offspring of the religiously and morally corrupt cultures in canaan (v. 3). Thus the proverb Like mother, like daughter applied to Jerusalem. The condemnation of the mother—that is, the hittites—and the sisters—Samaria and Sodom—for loathing husband and children is difficult to explain. It probably refers to idolatry—God being the hated husband (see hos. 2:16)—and infanticide. Sodom no longer existed at this time—its evil had been so great that God had wiped the city off the face of the earth (Gen. 19:24, 25). Samaria, the capital of the northern kingdom, had already faced destruction and exile (2 kin. 17:5, 6). Jerusalem, the very city of God, had become “more corrupt” than even Sodom and Samaria. Clearly this passage emphasizes the people’s great sinfulness and the certainty of their punishment. sister of your sisters: This is a superlative statement like “king of kings” meaning “the greatest king.” Thus with this phrase, Jerusalem is described as the “sister” most conformed to canaanite corruption.

16:48–52 ezeziel names the sins for which the cities of Sodom and Samaria were renowned. Jerusalem was pronounced even more guilty—the other evil cities did not commit half of Jerusalem’s sins. Spiritual, moral, and social sins are all listed. Jerusalem justified the other cities because when they compared themselves to Jerusalem, they were more righteous than her.

16:53–59 As Jerusalem had arrogantly poked fun at Sodom, so Jerusalem would be despised by Syria and philistia. Although restoration was promised, the people still had to pay for their sins by living in exile. This punishment was consistent with God’s past and persistent promises to repay disobedience with specific curses (see 4:16, 17; 5:8–17). Syria is translated edom in some translations because this alternative exists in the Syriac version and in many hebrew manuscripts. historically Syria (or more literally the ancient nation of Aram) no longer existed. Therefore that nation could not ridicule the exiles in ezeziel’s day. The people had despised the oath by breaking the covenant that God had made with Moses; thus they would receive the punishments for disobedience that were written in that covenant (see ex. 24; 1 ev. 26; Deut. 28; 29). Blessings or curses were dependent on israel’s obedience or disobedience.

16:60–63 Nevertheless: Despite Jerusalem’s disobedience to the Mosaic covenant and the resulting punishment (v. 59), the covenant with Abraham—My covenant—would still be honored: I will remember. Fulfillment of the covenant with Abraham did not depend on the people’s faithfulness; God had made the promise and he would keep it (see Gen. 15; 17:7, 8; 1 ev. 26:40–45; ps. 145:13; phil. 1:6). The everlasting covenant had been made with Abraham before the hebrew nation even existed. This covenant would be remembered and reestablished with the exiled Judeans. At that time, God’s people would be ashamed by the contrast between their faithlessness and God’s faithfulness and the fact that they were being exalted over those who were less sinful—Sodom and Samaria. The people of these other sinful nations would also inherit land, but only by God’s grace, because no such covenant was made with them. Further, God would provide atonement through the New covenant (Jer. 31:31–40), which pointed ultimately to the cross of christ.

younger sisters; for I will give them to you for <sup>a</sup>daughters, <sup>r</sup>but not because of My covenant with you. <sup>62</sup><sup>s</sup> And I will establish My covenant with you. Then you shall know that I am the LORD, <sup>63</sup> that you may <sup>t</sup>remember and be ashamed, <sup>u</sup>and never open your mouth anymore because of your shame, when I provide you an atonement for all you have done,” says the Lord God.”

17:2 The Hebrew words translated riddle and parable can both be used to refer to allegory. The parable primarily refers to a comparison between two things. A riddle was sometimes used as political contests of mental competition between kings, in which the loser would submit to the winner and be killed. Some take the following riddle as a contest posed by God to Zedekiah, Judah’s king.

17:3-10 This allegory is focused around a main point and is followed by an explanation to guide the reader (vv. 11-21). In light of vv. 11-21, the great eagle is the king of Babylon (v. 12); Lebanon symbolizes Canaan, of which Jerusalem (v. 12) is the major city; the highest branch is the king of Jerusalem and Judah (v. 12); the topmost young twig refers to the nobility of Judah (v. 12); the land of trade is Babylon (v. 12); the seed is a member of the royal family (v. 13); the fertile field is the land where this royal offspring would rule (vv. 13, 14); the other great eagle is the king of Egypt (v. 15); and the vine is the remnant and ruler left in Judah. This remnant failed to prosper because they made a treaty with the Egyptian pharaoh. As a result, even the remnant was slain and scattered by Babylon’s army (vv. 15-21).

17:11-21 Since Ezekiel had preached earlier about Jerusalem’s past abominations (ch. 16), the people were likely charging God with unfairness in punishing the present population. Ezekiel points out that present and past sins make God’s actions just and fair. In this section, the LORD explains his grounds for using Babylon to judge Judah. The prophecy predicts that (1) Nebuchadnezzar will capture Jehoiachin and the princes of Jerusalem and take them to Babylon (v. 12); (2) Zedekiah, Jehoiachin’s uncle, will be made ruler of the Judean remnant as a result of a political alliance with Nebuchadnezzar, but this will stifle growth (vv. 13, 14); (3) Zedekiah will rebel against Babylon and God by making a treaty with Egypt (588 B.C.) leading to his unexpected defeat and death (vv. 15, 16; is. 30:1-5); and (4) Zedekiah will not be protected by Egypt but will be punished through Babylon according to the stipulations of the Mosaic covenant: death, destruction, and dispersion (vv. 17-21; 12:13, 14). The historical background of this story is found in 2 Kin. 24; 2 Chr. 36; and Jer. 37; 52.

<sup>16</sup>‘As I live,’ says the Lord God, ‘surely <sup>r</sup>in the place where the king dwells who made him king, whose oath he despised and whose covenant he broke—with him in the midst of Babylon he shall die. <sup>17</sup>‘Nor will Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company do anything in the war, <sup>t</sup>when they heap up a siege mound and build a <sup>3</sup>wall to cut off many persons. <sup>18</sup>Since he despised the oath by breaking the covenant, and in fact <sup>u</sup>gave<sup>d</sup> his hand and still did all these things, he shall not escape.’”

<sup>19</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord God: “As I live, surely My oath which he despised, and My covenant which he broke, I will recompense on his own head. <sup>20</sup>I will <sup>v</sup>spread My net over him, and he shall be taken in My snare. I will bring him to Babylon and <sup>w</sup>try him there for the <sup>5</sup>treason which he committed against Me. <sup>21</sup><sup>x</sup>All his <sup>6</sup>fugitives with all his troops shall fall by the sword, and those who remain shall be <sup>y</sup>scattered to every wind; and you shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken.”

also one of the highest <sup>2</sup>branches of the high cedar and set it out. I will crop off from the topmost of its young twigs <sup>a</sup>a tender one, and will <sup>b</sup>plant it on a high and prominent mountain. <sup>23</sup><sup>c</sup>On the mountain height of Israel I will plant it; and it will bring forth boughs, and bear fruit, and be a majestic cedar. <sup>d</sup>Under it will dwell birds of every sort; in the shadow of its branches they will dwell. <sup>24</sup>And all the trees of the field shall know that I, the LORD, <sup>e</sup>have brought down the high tree and exalted the low tree, dried up the green tree and made the dry tree flourish; <sup>f</sup>I, the LORD, have spoken and have done it.”

A False Proverb Refuted

18 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying, <sup>2</sup>“What do you mean when you use this proverb concerning the land of Israel, saying:

17:22 I will take: The Hebrew is emphatic: “I Myself will take” in contrast to human kings, God declared that he personally would pick out, plant, and make prominent a tender one—that is, a twig or a sprig. cedar branches are symbolic of rulers on the Davidic throne (see 17:3, 4, 12, 13), and elsewhere of a line of David’s descendants prophesied to produce the Messiah (see 2 Sam. 7:16; is. 11:1–5; Jer. 22:24–30; 23:1–6; zech. 6:9–13; Matt. 1:1–17), if not directly messianic in intention, vv. 22–24 at least have strong messianic implications. Thus, with reference to his humanity, we discover a new title for the Savior Jesus. he is the Tender one.

17:23, 24 What was accomplished in the restoration under Zerubbabel was a fulfillment of this promise. But as is often the case in biblical prophecy, the greater fulfillment is still to come in the reign of the Savior king. The establishment of the cedar twig, the Messiah, over Israel will make the nation a fruitful and majestic cedar where diverse people will live in unity and harmony. all the trees of the field: All nations will realize that the LORD is their sovereign God and that he has accomplished what he said he would do.

18:2, 3 The Hebrew word (see eccl. 10:10) rendered set on edge is literally “made dull” but can refer to a sour sensation. The main idea of the proverb is clear: children are affected by their parents’ behavioral choices just as eating sour grapes produces a bitter taste. however, the people were interpreting and applying this proverb incorrectly; therefore, God said they should not use it any longer.

Accountability

Sometimes warnings get twisted into excuses. The people of Ezekiel’s day, suffering from the consequences of a history of rebellion against God, found it easier to blame their ancestors for sin than to take responsibility for their own offenses. We can understand their predicament. Their immediate circumstances held little hope. News had reached Babylon of the fall and destruction of Jerusalem. plans to return to the promised land would be marred by descriptions of devastation. The wreckage of God’s judgment seemed too great to be restored. it was easier to sink into pessimism. The bitter proverb about sour grapes and teeth set on edge (18:2) became a slogan of resentment for the people. instead of examining their own behavior before God, they excused their sin by blaming their parents.

The law of cause and effect may be obvious, but the exact connections sometimes elude us. Sin always has consequences. The second commandment (ex. 20:4–6; Deut. 5:8–10) points out that the sin of idolatry (a sin from which flow many others) causes effects that can last generations. But Ezekiel had to remind the people that experiencing hardship as a consequence of the sins of ancestors was not the same as judgment for one’s own sins. Suffering caused by another’s sins does not excuse willfully sinful behavior.

God made it clear to the Israelites and also to us: We may suffer for someone else’s misdeeds, but we will be judged for our own. “I will judge you, o house of Israel, every one according to his ways” (18:30). What should be our response? “repent, and turn from all your transgressions” (18:30). This will lead to “a new heart and a new spirit” (18:31). perhaps the clearest evidence of our fallen human nature can be heard in our quickness to blame others when we ought to examine ourselves and remember that we are accountable to God. his message to us is persistent: “Therefore turn and live!” (18:32).

18:4 The exiles’ problematic doctrines and attitudes became evident from God’s corrective teaching. Apparently the exiles were filled with despair and had a fatalistic approach to such truisms as the proverb quoted in v. 2 (as also in 16:44) and to related Scriptures (see ex. 20:5; 34:6, 7; Deut. 5:9). Their false belief was that they were being punished for the sins of previous generations. Their sin was that of becoming insensitive and irresponsible, since they thought judgment would come regardless of what they might do. God’s reply reminded them that it had always been otherwise: only the individual person who sins will die. In this verse, the physical, earthly consequences of sinful behavior are being addressed (see 3:16–21; 33:12–20; Deut. 30:15–20).

18:5–9 A righteous man—a father or the first generation—is lawful. He does what is morally right according to the law of Moses. He does not participate in the following sins: (1) idolatrous ceremonial meals, (2) sexual misconduct, (3) mistreatment of the poor, (4) theft, or (5) usury, charging interest on debts owed by fellow Hebrews (Deut. 23:20). His reward is life (ex. 20; l ev. 18:1–5; Deut. 5; 11). during her impurity: in ancient Israel, intimacy during the woman’s menstrual period was prohibited. The OT does not explain the reason for this, but it may be tied to the special role of blood for the atoning of sin (l ev. 15:19–33). The principal point in this passage is that the person was observing the standards laid down by the law.

18:10–13 The unrighteous son of the righteous man of vv. 5–9 (the second generation) breaks and rejects the laws and ethics that defined his father’s lifestyle. His punishment is death (vv. 13, 18; see r om. 6:23) and his blood shall be upon him. Clearly the point of this passage is personal responsibility for sin.

18:14–17 The grandson of the righteous man of vv. 5–9 (third generation) purposely chooses to live by God’s laws, imitating his righteous grandfather and not his sinful father. The grandson, like the grandfather, shall surely live as a result of his own righteousness; but the father dies due to his own disobedience and depravity (see vv. 9, 13, 18).

18:19–32 In this passage, Ezekiel further clarifies his teaching on individual responsibility for sin by answering certain questions that reflect what his audience might be thinking in response to his previous message. God’s response to their questions through and right, and has kept all My statutes and observed them, he shall surely live. <sup>20</sup> The soul who sins shall die. <sup>21</sup> The son shall not bear the guilt of the father, nor the father bear the guilt of the son. <sup>22</sup> The righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself, <sup>23</sup> and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself.

<sup>21</sup> “But <sup>v</sup> if a wicked man turns from all his sins which he has committed, keeps all My statutes, and does what is lawful and right, he shall surely live; he shall not die. <sup>22</sup> None of the transgressions which he has committed shall be remembered against him; because of the righteousness which he has done, he shall <sup>z</sup> live. <sup>23</sup> Do I have any pleasure at all that the wicked should die?” says the Lord God, “and not that he should turn from his ways and live?”

<sup>24</sup> “But <sup>b</sup> when a righteous man turns away from his righteousness and commits iniquity, and does according to all the abominations that the wicked man does, shall he live? <sup>c</sup> All the righteousness which he has done shall not be remembered; because of the unfaithfulness of which he is guilty and the sin which he has committed, because of them he shall die.

Israel Degraded

19 “Moreover <sup>a</sup> take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, <sup>2</sup> and say:

- ‘What is your mother? A lioness: She lay down among the lions; Among the young lions she nourished her cubs.
- <sup>3</sup> She brought up one of her cubs, And <sup>b</sup> he became a young lion; He learned to catch prey, And he devoured men.
- <sup>4</sup> The nations also heard of him; He was trapped in their pit, And they brought him with chains to the land of <sup>c</sup> Egypt.
- <sup>5</sup> ‘When she saw that she waited, that her hope was lost, She took <sup>d</sup> another of her cubs and made him a young lion.
- <sup>6</sup> <sup>e</sup> He roved among the lions, And <sup>f</sup> became a young lion; He learned to catch prey; He devoured men.

ezeziel is in part also composed of questions. Live and die refer to physical death and not eternal death, since this passage relates to the standards and stipulations of the Mosaic covenant (16:6; see also l ev. 18:5; Deut. 30:15–20; 2 pet. 3:9). turn . . . and live: everyone is judged equitably and individually. God never enjoys condemning a person, but is just and righteous in dispensing his judgments.

19:1 The princes were Judah’s kings. ezeziel likely turned his attention to these kings because he had just spoken (in ch. 18) of the relationship between fathers (leaders) and children (followers), and of the sins committed in Judah by powerful people.

19:2–10 Most likely the lioness and the vine in your bloodline (v. 10) both represented the nation of israel since each was a “mother” of kings—the cubs and the branches. The vine and lion images are common symbols for hebrew royalty and nationality (see 15:1–6; 17:1–10; Gen. 49:9; Num. 23:24; ps. 80:8–16; is. 5:1–7; Mic. 5:8). The first cub brought . . . with chains to the land of Egypt was Jehoahaz, who was captured and imprisoned by pharaoh Necho in 609 B.C. (2 kin. 23:31–34; 2 chr. 36:1–4). The second cub that was trapped in their pit was the destructive Jehoiachin, who gave out false hopes of revival and was taken captive by the king of Babylon (Nebuchadnezzar) in 597 B.C. (2 kin. 25:27–30; 2 chr. 36:9, 10).

Lamentation

(heb. qinyah) (19:1, 14; 2 Sam. 1:17; Jer. 9:10) Strong’s #7015

This noun refers to a type of poetic song with a distinctive meter, a dirge which was sung to express grief over someone’s death. It is derived from a hebrew verb that means “to sing a song of lament” (2 Sam. 1:17). Such songs would be sung during funeral rites. The prophets’ use of the word was intended to suggest the coming death of israel and other nations because of the inescapable condemnation they had incurred for their sin (Amos 5:1).

The Rebellions of Israel

20 It came to pass in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, that <sup>a</sup> certain of the elders of Israel came to inquire of the LORD, and sat before me. <sup>2</sup> Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>3</sup> “Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel, and say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “Have you come to inquire of Me? As I live,” says the Lord God, <sup>b</sup> “I will not be inquired of by you.”’” <sup>4</sup> Will you judge them, son of man, will you judge them? Then <sup>c</sup> make known to them the abominations of their fathers.

<sup>5</sup> “Say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “On the day when <sup>d</sup> I chose Israel and raised My hand in an oath to the descendants of the house of Jacob, and made Myself <sup>e</sup> known to them in the land of Egypt, I raised My hand in an oath to them, saying, <sup>f</sup> ‘I am the LORD your God.’” <sup>6</sup> On that day I raised My hand in an oath to them, <sup>g</sup> to bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that I had searched out for them, <sup>h</sup> “flowing with milk and honey,” <sup>i</sup> the glory of all lands. <sup>7</sup> Then I said to them, ‘Each of you, <sup>j</sup> throw away <sup>k</sup> the abominations which are before his eyes, 19:10–14 These verses mention the fruitful monarchical period of the past, but the focus was on the present distress and promised judgment. At this time, Judah had already experienced two invasions by Babylon, called the east wind (see 15:1–8; 19:5–9). ezekeiel and the other exiles were presently living in that desert land. Neither the current king zedekiah (the rod of her branches) nor any other leaders were fit to rule. Judah’s rulers were responsible for the nation’s horrible condition (see Jer. 22:10–13). The immediate source of rebellion and the cause of imminent judgment was zedekiah, who would be deported when Jerusalem was destroyed in 586 B.C. (2 kin. 24; 25). wilderness . . . dry and thirsty land: To anyone who loved the covenantal promises focused on God’s worship in Jerusalem, any alternative to Jerusalem was akin to living in the desert.

abomination

(heb. shiqquts) (20:7, 30; Dan. 12:11; hos. 9:10) Strong’s #8251

The hebrew noun translated abomination is from the verb meaning “to detest” (compare l ev. 7:21; 11:11). Typically it refers to ceremonially unclean foods and animals (8:10; l ev. 11:23; is. 66:17). But it may also describe the detestable practices associated with pagan idol worship, including child sacrifice and ritual prostitution (1 kin. 11:5–7; 2 kin. 23:13; Jer. 7:30; 13:27). h osea rightly observed that those who love abominations become like the unclean practices they love (hos. 9:10). But the l ord had called the israelites to a different and higher purpose: they were to remain pure and holy because their God was holy (l ev. 11:45).

20:1 The chronological note suggests a date of July–August 591 B.C. and the start of a new section and series of messages (see 8:1, which was 11 months earlier). The political context of this prophecy was zedekiah’s foolish and sinful alignment with egypt against Babylon in hopes of deliverance from Nebuchadnezzar’s attacks. The social context was that of exiled elders coming to ezekeiel to obtain a divine explanation of current events. They wanted to know if egypt would save Judah from the Babylonians.

20:2–4 God explains to ezekeiel that the elders of israel (v. 1) had forfeited any right to inquire of him due to the abominations of their fathers. All people are responsible for their own sins, and this does not mean that these hebrews were paying for sins their ancestors had committed. Instead, the present generation of hebrews in exile had clearly shown their failure to learn practical lessons from history, and thus had condemned themselves to repeat many mistakes. These leaders came to God with questions, but the questions were foolish and demonstrated the people’s sinfulness. They showed that they were oblivious to the inconsistencies between what they were asking, their past practices, and God’s revealed promises and principles. In this chapter God gives a remedial review of their past.

20:5 I chose Israel: here is the only use of this elective verb in ezekeiel. It signifies israel’s sovereign selection for God’s eternal and temporal purposes. raised My hand: This image refers to the unconditional vows made by God to Abraham and later renewed with the nation he formed in egypt from Abraham’s descendants (v. 9). That God “raised his hand” reveals his determination to maintain his covenant promise.

20:7 abominations: elsewhere in ezekeiel this term is translated “detestable things.” See vv. 8, 30; 11:18.

and do not defile yourselves with <sup>l</sup>the idols of Egypt. I am the LORD your God.<sup>8</sup> But they rebelled against Me and would not <sup>1</sup>obey Me. They did not all cast away the abominations which were before their eyes, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt. Then I said, ‘I will <sup>m</sup>pour out My fury on them and fulfill My anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.’<sup>9</sup> But I acted for My name’s sake, that it should not be profaned before the Gentiles among whom they were, in whose sight I had made Myself <sup>o</sup>known to them, to bring them out of the land of Egypt.

20:8 the idols of Egypt . . . in the midst of the land of Egypt:

here God spoke of something not explained in the Book of exodus; that is, the israelites had engaged in the idolatry of the egyptians during their sojourn there. Thus, though not mentioned elsewhere, there was the threat of divine retribution against the people before the time of the exodus (which is mentioned in v. 10).

20:9 acted for My name’s sake: God vindicated his grace, power, and trustworthiness before the egyptians by fulfilling his promises to defeat egypt and deliver even his disobedient people (his people who were supposed to worship God). on God acting for the sake of his name and honor, see also is. 48:9–11 (compare 2 Tim. 2:13).

20:10, 11 Following their exodus from slavery in egypt, God began to sanctify the israelites by revealing to them a code of law and entering a covenant relationship with them on a creator-creature basis. if a man does, he shall live: This does not teach that eternal salvation can be earned by good works, but that the quality of the believer’s physical and spiritual life on earth are related to his or her obedience to the living God. God’s statutes and judgments were given to his people as a means of maintaining their walk with the living God, not as the basis for establishing their salvation.

20:12 My Sabbaths: This is an important verse (emphasized again in v. 20) for understanding the Sabbath (see ex. 20:8–11; Deut. 5:12–15). Sabbath means “rest.” That is, the Sabbath was a day to cease all ordinary work or labor, as clearly emphasized in ex. 20:8–11; Deut. 5:12–15. This verse explains the purpose of the Sabbath; it was to serve as a sign or a potent symbol of God’s covenantal relationship with his people israel.

20:20 hallow: This word means “to treat as holy,” “to observe as distinct,” and “to consecrate.” God commands that his Sabbaths be continually maintained by his people as sacred—distinct and separate from all ordinary days.

20:27 During the conquest and settlement of canaan (the period described in Joshua and Judges), israel inherited the promised land. Yet again God’s people were obstinate and guilty of blasphemous disloyalty because they served false gods (Num. 15:30, 31).

20:28, 29 high hills . . . thick trees: These phrases refer to the locations of altars in canaan for idol worship. Many of the exiles had visited such places in the past, and many in Judah were still doing so. high place: The name Bamah is a transliteration of the hebrew word for high place (see 16:15–34).

raised My hand in an oath to give them, and <sup>q</sup>they saw all the high hills and all the thick trees, there they offered their sacrifices and provoked Me with their offerings. There they also sent up their <sup>r</sup>sweet aroma and poured out their drink offerings. <sup>29</sup>Then I said to them, “What is this <sup>5</sup>high place to which you go?” So its name is called <sup>6</sup>Bamah to this day.” <sup>30</sup>Therefore say to the house of Israel, “Thus says the Lord God: “Are you defiling yourselves in the manner of your <sup>s</sup>fathers, and committing harlotry according to their <sup>t</sup>abominations? <sup>31</sup>For when you offer <sup>u</sup>your gifts and make your sons pass through the fire, you defile yourselves with all your idols, even to this day. So shall I be inquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live,” says the Lord God, “I will <sup>v</sup>not be inquired of by you. <sup>32</sup><sup>w</sup>What you have in your mind shall never be, when you say, ‘We will be like the Gentiles, like the families in other countries, serving wood and stone.’

God Will Restore Israel

<sup>33</sup>“As I live,” says the Lord God, “surely with a mighty hand, <sup>x</sup>with an outstretched arm, and with fury poured out, I will rule over you. <sup>34</sup>I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand, with an outstretched arm, and with fury poured out. <sup>35</sup>And I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there <sup>y</sup>I will plead My case with you face to face. <sup>36</sup><sup>z</sup>Just as I pleaded My case with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will plead My case with you,” says the Lord God.

Fire in the Forest

20:30 defiling . . . committing: These particples stressed the continual, ongoing nature of israel’s disobedient disloyalty.

20:32 like the Gentiles: chosen to be a nation separate from sin and secular ways—a special instrument to reveal God’s glory—israel’s consistent tendency was to identify with the neighboring, ungodly nations and to take on their idolatry (see ex. 19:5, 6; Deut. 17:14; 26:16–19; 31:21; 1 Sam. 8:5; ps. 135:4).

20:33–36 The judgment of captivity in Babylon had begun in the deportations of 605 and 597 B.C. and would be continued with Jerusalem’s fall in 586 B.C. however, God also promised to restore Judah and to judge her enemies with fury (see Deut. 4:34). This refers to the persian conquest of Babylon in 539 B.C. and to the three returns of the Jews to their land and the rebuilding of their homeland (538—c. 330 B.C.; see the books of ezra and Nehemiah). Yet israel would again be taken captive and made to wander throughout the nations: wilderness of the peoples. This section refers to the time of roman domination, which began with pompey taking Jerusalem in 63 B.C. mighty hand . . . outstretched arm: The language repeats the phrasings used in the exodus from egypt (see ex. 7:5; 15:6). I will bring you out: I eaving Babylon would be a second exodus, celebrated prophetically by isaiah as well (see is. 40:1).

20:37, 38 pass under the rod: This is the way a shepherd counts and controls his sheep (see 1 ev. 27:32; Jer. 33:13). A rod sometimes speaks of discipline (ps. 89:32), but here it is parallel to the idea of bring you into the bond of the covenant. God’s lordship of his people for personal, purposeful relationship is in view. This future bonding with God will be a time when israel is cleansed of spiritual idolaters (see v. 39; 16:15–34). At that time, the people will finally know that God is the LORD (see 16:63; 36:25–38; Jer. 31:31–34; Dan. 12:10).

20:39 The command Go, serve every one of you his idols is an ironic command; the rest of the verse indicates that God was giving the stubborn people over to what they had decided. God grants each one a destiny consistent with his or her decisions. Then God looks to an unspecified future time when israel will glorify his name, meaning “his reputation” among the nations (vv. 40–44).

20:40–44 The future repentant, renewed, and regathered israel will be characterized by: (1) a return to the land of israel and an acceptable, sacrificial system of worship (see chs. 40–48); (2) a revived, personal knowledge of its sovereign and faithful Lord; (3) a renunciation of former sins; and (4) a recognition that God’s grace governs the nation’s history of sin and salvation. My holy mountain: reference is made to the glorious central location for worship in israel—Mt. zion in Jerusalem (ps. 2:6; 78:68; is. 35:10; 60:14).

20:46, 47 The forest land, the South refers to the land of Judah—the southern kingdom—which had more trees than now. from your face toward the south; <sup>9</sup>preach against the south and prophesy against the forest land, the <sup>1</sup>South, <sup>47</sup>and say to the forest of the South, ‘Hear the word of the LORD! Thus says the Lord God: “Behold, <sup>1</sup>I will kindle a fire in you, and it shall devour <sup>s</sup>every green tree and every dry tree in you; the blazing flame shall not be quenched, and all faces <sup>t</sup>from the south to the north shall be scorched by it. <sup>48</sup>All flesh shall see that I, the LORD, have kindled it; it shall not be quenched.”’”

<sup>49</sup>Then I said, “Ah, Lord God! They say of me, ‘Does he not speak <sup>u</sup>parables?’”

Babylon, the Sword of God

21 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2a</sup>“Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem, <sup>b</sup>preach <sup>1</sup>against the holy places, and prophesy against the land of Israel; <sup>3</sup>and say to the land of Israel, ‘Thus says the LORD: “Behold, I am <sup>c</sup>against you, and I will draw My sword out of its sheath and cut off both <sup>d</sup>righteous and wicked from you. <sup>4</sup>Because I will cut off both righteous and wicked from you, therefore My sword shall go out of its sheath against all flesh <sup>e</sup>from south to north, <sup>5</sup>that all flesh may know that I, the LORD, have drawn My sword out of its sheath; it <sup>f</sup>shall not return anymore.”’” <sup>6g</sup>Sigh therefore, son of man, with <sup>2</sup>a breaking heart, and sigh with bitterness before their eyes. <sup>7</sup>And it shall be when they say to you, ‘Why are you sighing?’ that you shall answer, ‘Because of the news; when it comes, every heart will melt, <sup>h</sup>all hands will be feeble, every spirit will faint, and all knees will be weak as water. the south to the north: This figure of speech expresses totality, meaning “everywhere.”

21:3–5 both righteous and wicked: This pairing shows that God was going to allow the dreadful temporal consequences of sin to affect everyone in the land, both faithful and unfaithful.

21:6 breaking heart: The phrase translates words that literally mean “breaking loins,” suggesting great emotional upheaval.

21:7 when they say: This means “when they ask” (see 12:9).

21:9–11 The Babylonian army led by Nebuchadnezzar—the sword—is pictured as ready and moving swiftly. While vv. 9–17 are written as Hebrew poetry, the lines actually meant to be sung may have been limited to these in vv. 9–11. My son: in this context, the words refer to Judah (see “My people” in v. 12). If the people reacted with mirth, it would show that they mistakenly believed that such judgment would never come on God’s people and must therefore be meant for an enemy nation.

21:12 Cry and wail . . . strike your thigh: Ezekiel was told to add verbal groans and a physical gesture to his musical message.

in that culture, these actions displayed great grief and sorrow (Jer. 31:19).

21:13 Israel failed a test. The sword would strike God’s people, specifically the nation’s rulers (the meaning of the word scepter). These words drew upon the messianic implications of Gen. 49:9, 10 and the promises of the Davidic covenant in 2 Sam. 7. The Jews had misinterpreted these promises to mean that their nation would never fall. Because of their sin, however, the Davidic line of kings would be interrupted. False messianic hopes related to Judah were corrected when Jerusalem was overthrown in 586 B.C. by Nebuchadnezzar (see vv. 25–27).

21:14–17 Ezekiel was commanded to clap (see 6:11). The order the third time let the sword do double damage was a numeric device (see Prov. 6:16) used here to emphasize the extent and effectiveness of the sword’s (or Babylon’s) employment against Judah. I also will beat My fists pictures God clapping along with Ezekiel. God would applaud the fact that even evil events can be made to serve his purposes and plans (see Jer. 27:5).

Wherever your <sup>4</sup>edge is ordered!

17<sup>a</sup> “I also will <sup>r</sup>beat My fists together,
And <sup>s</sup>I will cause My fury to rest;
I, the LORD, have spoken.”

18 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying: 19 “And son of man, appoint for yourself two ways for the sword of the king of Babylon to go; both of them shall go from the same land. Make a sign; put it at the head of the road to the city. 20 Appoint a road for the sword to go to <sup>t</sup>Rabbah of the Ammonites, and to Judah, into fortified Jerusalem. 21 For the king of Babylon stands at the parting of the road, at the fork of the two roads, to use divination: he shakes the arrows, he consults the <sup>5</sup>images, he looks at the liver. 22 In his right hand is the divination for Jerusalem: to set up battering rams, to call for a slaughter, to <sup>u</sup>lift the voice with shouting, <sup>v</sup>to set battering rams against the gates, to heap up a siege mound, and to build a wall. 23 And it will be to them like a false divination in the eyes of those who <sup>w</sup>have sworn oaths with them; but he will bring their iniquity to remembrance, that they may be taken.

24 “Therefore thus says the Lord God: ‘Because you have made your iniquity to be remembered, in that your transgressions are uncovered, so that in all your doings your sins appear—because you have come to remembrance, you shall be taken in hand.

A Sword Against the Ammonites

28 “And you, son of man, prophesy and say, ‘Thus says the Lord God <sup>c</sup>concerning the Ammonites and concerning their reproach,’ and say:

‘A sword, a sword is drawn,
Polished for slaughter,
For consuming, for flashing—

While they divine a lie to you,
To bring you on the necks of the wicked, the slain

<sup>g</sup>I will judge you
In the place where you were created,

31 I will <sup>i</sup>pour out My indignation on you;

21:19, 20 ezeziel was instructed to draw a map to depict the path of the coming conquerors. The king of Babylon is Nebuchadnezzar; the same land is Babylon. Make a sign: ezeziel was to place a signpost at a fork in the road leading to the capital cities of Ammon—Rabbah—and Judah—Jerusalem.

21:21 Three ancient pagan arts for seeking divine guidance would be used by Nebuchadnezzar to determine which city to attack. shakes the arrows: This was a method of casting lots using arrows inscribed with names. They were shaken about in the quiver and then dropped to the ground like throwing dice. consults the images: This refers to the teraphim or household idols (see Gen. 31:19; Judg. 18:14; 1 Sam. 19:13; hos. 3:4). looks at the liver: Sheep livers from sacrificed animals were studied. The shades and shapes of various sections of the organ were the basis for a positive or negative prediction.

21:22 That Nebuchadnezzar’s answer coincided with God’s promises and predictions for Jerusalem did not mean that his divination was acceptable. It merely demonstrated that God is sovereign while individuals remain responsible for all choices, good or bad (Gen. 45:4-8; 50:20; Job 2:10; Dan. 2:20-23; 4:34-37; r om. 8:28).

21:23, 24 The Judeans in their pride and false sense of security in the treaties (sworn oaths) would conclude that the king received a false divination (see vv. 21, 22; 2 kin. 24:20). however, the verdict had been pronounced: Jerusalem would be taken. Nebuchadnezzar would be God’s instrument to punish the people’s rebellion (see 7:3, 4).

21:25 The prince of Israel zedekiah would come to its end by being captured in 586 B.C. (see 7:27; 12:9, 10, 11-14).

21:26, 27 The turban (see ex. 28:4, 37-39) and the crown stand for the priesthood and the kingship. Both would be removed from Judah. overthrown: This word means “wrecked” or “ruined” and is used three times consecutively in the hebrew text to underscore the comprehensive and intensive nature of the destruction. The priestly and kingly offices would not return until the coming of him whose right it is—the Messiah (see Gen. 49:10; heb. 5-7).

21:28 Ammon was east of Judah between the Jabbock to the north and the Arnon to the south. While Jehoiaqim was king (608-598 B.C.; 2 kin. 24:2), the Ammonites joined other nations east of the Jordan in raiding Judean territory, in return for protection from Nebuchadnezzar. Later, during the reign of zedekiah (c. 593 B.C.), Ammon, Moab, edom, and others conspired against Babylon, but with false hopes of help from egypt (Jer. 27:3-11). their reproach: This was the Ammonites’ ridicule of Judah and delight over the destruction of Jerusalem, especially the temple (see 25:3, 6; 36:15; o bad. 10-14; zeph. 2:8). The sword bringing judgment was either Nebuchadnezzar’s army (see vv. 9, 10, 19, 20; 25:4) or the Ammonites who had been led to believe they would be involved in Judah’s defeat (see v. 29).

21:29 ezeziel pronounced that Ammonite prophecies of victory and security from a fate similar to Judah’s were false visions. The slain Judeans would be joined by Ammonite corpses.

21:30 I will judge you: This is God’s prediction for Ammon and the Ammonites. how it would be done is the subject of vv. 31, 32.

21:31, 32 The brutal men are defined as “the men of the east” in 25:4. The fall of Jerusalem meant only that Judah would be judged first. Some Judeans took refuge in Ammon (see Jer. 41:1-3). God

I will <sup>j</sup>blow against you with the fire of My wrath, And deliver you into the hands of brutal men who are skillful to <sup>k</sup>destroy.

<sup>32</sup> You shall be fuel for the fire; Your blood shall be in the midst of the land.

Sins of Jerusalem

22 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Now, son of man, <sup>a</sup>will you judge, will you judge <sup>b</sup>the bloody city? Yes, show her all her abominations! <sup>3</sup>Then say, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “The city sheds <sup>c</sup>blood in her own midst, that her time may come; and she makes idols within herself to defile herself. <sup>4</sup>You have become guilty by the blood which you have <sup>d</sup>shed, and have defiled yourself with the idols which you have made. You have caused your days to draw near, and have come to the end of your years; <sup>e</sup>therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations, and a mockery to all countries. <sup>5</sup>Those near and those far from you will mock you as <sup>l</sup>infamous and full of tumult.

Israel in the Furnace

Israel’s Wicked Leaders

remembered Ammon’s animosity and foretold its future as a place that shall not be remembered. The events of Jer. 41 led to a Babylonian expedition against Ammon in which the capital city rabbah was sacked and many inhabitants deported (see 25:1-7). Ammon was later invaded by Arabs and its autonomy ceased. eventually it was absorbed into the persian empire.

22:1-5 These verses focus on the sins of Jerusalem, principally bloodshed (social sin) as a result of idolatry (spiritual sin). A problem in the vertical relationship with God inevitably leads to some degree of injustice and injury in horizontal, human affairs. You have caused your days to draw near: The city was ripe for judgment. When such hypocrisy is exposed and punishment is executed before the world, God’s people become lasting objects of ridicule.

22:6-12 Jerusalem’s princes had shed the blood of innocent people (see 7:27; 11:1; 12:10; 19:1; 21:13; see also 2 kin. 21:16; 23:36, 37; 24:1-4, 18, 19). These evil leaders had been: (1) taking advantage of parents and the weak (see ex. 20:12; 22:21-24; 23:9; 1 ev. 19:3; Deut. 24:17); (2) rejecting God and his covenant, leading to ungodliness and inhumanity (see ex. 20:8); (3) murdering the innocent by slandering them (see 1 ev. 19:16); (4) preferring idolatrous religion and its immoral rituals (see 22:1-5; Deut. 12:1, 2; 16:21, 22); (5) engaging in sexual immorality with neighbors, family, and relatives (see 1 ev. 18:6-23; 20:10-21); and (6) loving money and using it to get ahead of fellow citizens (see 18:5-9; ex. 23:8; Deut. 23:19, 20; 24:6, 10-12; Matt. 6:24; 1 Tim. 6:5-10).

22:13-16 God reveals his planned actions against Jerusalem and Judah. The expression beat My fists (see 21:14-17) shows great anger. Defile yourself refers to the desecration and destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonians (2 kin. 24:13; 25:9, 13-21).

22:17-22 These verses are primarily about God’s chastisement of his sinful people through the burning of Jerusalem by the Babylonians (2 kin. 25:9). Yet the verses also point to the fiery ordeals and trials that force all of us into a more perfect relationship with our lord (see v. 22; ps. 66:10; Jer. 9:7; Dan. 11:35; 12:10; zech. 13:9; Mal. 3:1-3; James 1:2-4).

22:24 This verse echoes the promises of Deut. 28:12, 24, where the

Iron

This mineral is actually a metal obtained from certain rocks or ores. Iron occurs in a great variety of minerals. Much of the color of other minerals is due to the presence of iron, which has a steel-gray color with a metallic luster.

When the philistines learned the secret of smelting iron (about 1200 B.C.), iron became widely used throughout the ancient world. Iron had definitely been in use during the israelite conquest of the land of canaan (Josh. 6:24; Judg. 1:19; 4:3). The philistines became skilled ironsmiths, eventually controlling most of canaan and later conquering israel, prohibiting their use of iron (1 Sam. 13:19; 22). After the israelites' victory over the philistines, iron became widespread in palestine (ezek. 22:18, 20; 27:12).

iron ore was plentiful in palestine, Syria, cyprus, and Asia Minor. iron gradually replaced copper and bronze for farming implements, weapons, armor, and tools.

Two Harlot Sisters

23 The word of the LORD came again to me, saying:

- <sup>2</sup> “Son of man, there were <sup>a</sup>two women, The daughters of one mother.

abundance or absence of rain in the land is associated with obedience or disobedience to the I aw.

22:26 The priests were not examples of separation from worldly ways (see ex. 19:6; I ev. 11:44; 22:31). Some at least were motivated by monetary gain (see Mic. 3:11).

22:28 plastered them: This probably refers to the prophets themselves. untempered mortar: The hebrew word means “mud-plaster” or “whitewash.” These prophets were involved in “whitewashing” the sins of the nation’s leaders (see Matt. 23:27; I uke 11:39). if the proper antecedent for them is “princes” (v. 27), then the priests were also guilty of approving murder. divining: The false prophets used sheep livers in the hope of finding the will of the gods (see 13:7; 21:21).

22:29 As go the leaders so go the followers (see 12:18, 19). The people of the land were average citizens or commoners.

22:30 sought for: God could not find a spiritual leader to guide the people in godliness. Why not ezekeiel? (See 3:17–21; 33:1–6.) A qualified leader is useless if people refuse to be led.

23:2 The one mother of the two daughters was the hebrew nation—israel. The two daughters are the northern kingdom—israel, or Samaria—and the southern kingdom—Judah. Though they did not split apart until after the death of Solomon, the allegory speaks from that later time and perspective as it presents a pictorial review of israel’s past.

23:3 it was during the formative years of the hebrew nation in egypt (its youth) that the israelites began practicing political and spiritual prostitution by conforming themselves to the ways of the world, worshiping idols, and trusting in an earthly instead of heavenly power (see 16:26; 20:7, 8).

23:4 in hebrew, the names Oholah, meaning “her o wn Tabernacle,” and Oholibah, meaning “My Tabernacle is in her,” seem to refer to God’s sanctuaries in each land or, in a distinct usage, to the tent shrines for canaanite idols as opposed to God’s true temple (see 2 Sam. 6:17). Samaria is the elder (literally the “greater”) because she first made political and idolatrous alliances with foreign nations and was the first to be punished by foreign captivity. They were Mine: The I ord identified both cities as a part of his chosen nation. sons and daughters: This phrase refers to the growth of the nation of israel. They would become a powerful nation, but with pagan allies and a proliferation of idolaters.

As for their names,
Samaria is Oholah, and Jerusalem is Oholibah.

The Older Sister, Samaria

- 5 “Oholah played the harlot even though she was Mine; And she lusted for her lovers, the neighboring <sup>f</sup>Assyrians,
- 6 Who were clothed in purple, Captains and rulers, All of them desirable young men, Horsemen riding on horses.
- 7 Thus she committed her harlotry with them, All of them choice men of Assyria; And with all for whom she lusted, With all their idols, she defiled herself.
- 8 She has never given up her harlotry brought <sup>g</sup>from Egypt, For in her youth they had lain with her, Pressed her virgin bosom, And poured out their immorality upon her.
- 9 “Therefore I have delivered her Into the hand of her lovers, Into the hand of the <sup>h</sup>Assyrians, For whom she lusted.
- 10 They uncovered her nakedness, Took away her sons and daughters, And slew her with the sword; She became a byword among women, For they had executed judgment on her.

The Younger Sister, Jerusalem

11 “Now <sup>i</sup>although her sister Oholibah saw this, <sup>j</sup>she became more corrupt in her lust than she, and in her harlotry more corrupt than her sister’s harlotry.

- 12 “She lusted for the neighboring <sup>k</sup>Assyrians, <sup>l</sup>Captains and rulers, Clothed most gorgeously, Horsemen riding on horses, All of them desirable young men.

- 15 Girded with belts around their waists, Flowing turbans on their heads, All of them looking like captains, In the manner of the Babylonians of Chaldea, The land of their nativity.
- 16 <sup>n</sup> As soon as her eyes saw them, She lusted for them And sent <sup>o</sup>messengers to them in Chaldea.
- 17 “Then the <sup>3</sup>Babylonians came to her, into the bed of love, And they defiled her with their immorality; So she was defiled by them, <sup>p</sup>and alienated herself from them.
- 18 She revealed her harlotry and uncovered her nakedness. Then <sup>q</sup>I <sup>r</sup>alienated Myself from her, As I had alienated Myself from her sister.
- 19 “Yet she multiplied her harlotry In calling to remembrance the days of her youth, <sup>s</sup>When she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.
- 20 For she lusted for her <sup>4</sup>paramours, Whose flesh is like the flesh of donkeys, And whose issue is like the issue of horses.

Judgment on Jerusalem

22 “Therefore, Oholibah, thus says the Lord God:

23:5 played the harlot: This word may be used for any immoral sexual acts. here it refers to the nation placing its faith in and seeking strength and security from alliances with political powers instead of God (2 kin. 15:17–20; 17:1–4; hos. 12:1, 2).

23:9, 10 ezeziel reminds his audience of how God already had judged Samaria through Assyrian conquest and captivity in 722 B.C. (2 kin. 17:5–41). Uncovered her nakedness means to be stripped bare and so put to great shame. Become a byword means people began using the name “Samaria” as a synonym for “immoral nation.”

23:14 Judah increased her harlotry by engaging in political and spiritual intercourse with first the Assyrians (vv. 12, 13; see 2 kin. 16:7–9) and then the Chaldeans (a regional term used for the entire Babylonian empire; see vv. 15, 17, 23). The last two lines tell how Judean envoys to Babylon became enamored of Babylonian rulers and their power through pictures (see Jer. 22:14) on their palace and temple walls. Vermilion is a red color.

23:17, 18 alienated herself: This is an allusion to Judah’s turning in disappointment and disgust from relying on Babylon to relying on egypt (see 2 kin. 23:28–24:1). God’s alienation from Jerusalem is an allusion to the city’s coming defeat by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B.C.

23:20 Judah renewed its alliance with egypt (Jer. 37:5–7) which is strikingly symbolized in this verse as a lustful, illicit lover (see v. 3; 16:26).

23:22–27 God’s verdict was that he would judge Jerusalem through

against you,
From whom you have alienated yourself,
And I will bring them against you from every side:

All of them desirable young men,

All of them riding on horses.
<sup>24</sup> And they shall come against you With chariots, wagons, and war-horses,
With a horde of people.
They shall array against you Buckler, shield, and helmet all around.

‘I will delegate judgment to them,
And they shall judge you according to their judgments.

Therefore you shall bear the penalty

Both Sisters Judged

Babylon, formerly an ally but now an enemy. Pekod, Shoa, Koa, . . . the Assyrians with them: These were tribal vassals of Babylon that would join the assault on Judah. A buckler was a large rectangular shield. removing the nose and ears was an ancient punishment for adultery.

23:28–31 This “lover” was one whom the Judeans came to hate as an enemy. God explains that he would use the Babylonians as an instrument of his wrath: (1) to expose the extreme unfaithfulness of Judah and (2) to punish Judah for its idolatry that had resulted from forbidden political alliances (see ex. 20:1–6; 34:10–17; Deut. 18:9–14). The sister is Samaria (see vv. 4, 33) with whom Jerusalem would share a similar destiny of destruction—her cup.

23:32–34 The cup is often symbolic of God’s judgment (see ps. 75:7, 8; Jer. 25:15–29; Matt. 20:22; r ev. 14:10). break its shards: The phrase vividly portrays how completely Judah would drink the cup of wrath, breaking what was already broken. Tear at your own breasts pictures the resultant agony and anguish.

23:35 This verse summarizes why God was going to punish Jerusalem with such vengeance: you have forgotten Me. The people had intentionally ignored God, pictured by the parallel phrase cast Me behind your back.

for their idols, on the same day they came into My sanctuary to profane it; and indeed <sup>r</sup> thus they have done in the midst of My house.

to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, write down the name of the day, this very day—the king of Babylon started his siege against Jerusalem <sup>a</sup> this very day. <sup>3b</sup> And utter a parable to the rebellious house, and say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God:

And also pour water into it.

Also pile fuel bones under it,

I too will make the pyre great.
<sup>10</sup> Heap on the wood,
Kindle the fire;
Cook the meat well,
Mix in the spices,
And let the <sup>2</sup> cuts be burned up.

<sup>11</sup>“Then set the pot empty on the coals, That it may become hot and its bronze may burn,

23:42 Sabeans: This Hebrew word may also be read as “drunkards.” The nomadic peoples east and south of Israel were considered uncivilized and repugnant by the Hebrews.

23:45 Alarmingly, those God would use to judge Samaria and Jerusalem (Assyria and Babylon respectively) are here called righteous. Obviously this does not describe their standing before God or their way of life. Instead, it underlines their role as instruments of God’s just judgment (see vv. 46, 47; Deut. 22:13–30).

24:1, 2 This is the fourth chronological reference given by Ezekiel (see 1:2, 3; 8:1; 20:1). The date is January 588 B.C., the very day that Nebuchadnezzar—king of Babylon—began his attack on Jerusalem (see 2 Kin. 25:1–3; Jer. 39:1, 2; 52:1–6). Ezekiel was commanded to write down the name of the day. This would be a bitter reminder of God’s trustworthiness to do what he promised through the prophets. Nebuchadnezzar’s siege was God’s judgment on Jerusalem.

24:3–5 The subject of this parable is explained in v. 2. The audience was again the rebellious house (see 2:3–8; 3:5–7; 11:3–12; 12:2, 22–28). Flock was symbolic of God’s chosen people (see ch. 34). Bones were sometimes used as a fuel for fire.

24:6 Bloody city explains why Jerusalem—the pot—must experience the heat of God’s wrath (see v. 9; 22:2–12) through the Babylonian siege that had now begun. The remainder of this verse announces the verdict: exile. Bring it out piece by piece refers to individual inhabitants, the “choice cuts” of meat in vv. 4, 5. no lot has fallen: God does not play favorites; his judgment would fall equally on all inhabitants of the city, for they all had sinned.

24:7, 8 These verses elaborate on the city’s sin of bloodshed (see also v. 6). The people failed to deal with the sin, so God declares that it would remain exposed to his judgment (see Gen. 4:10; 1 ev. 17:13; is. 26:21).

That <sup>i</sup>its filthiness may be melted in it,

That its scum may be consumed.

12 She has <sup>3</sup>grown weary with <sup>4</sup>lies, And her great scum has not gone from her.

Let her scum be in the fire!

13 In your <sup>j</sup>filthiness is lewdness. Because I have cleansed you, and you were not cleansed, You will <sup>k</sup>not be cleansed of your filthiness anymore,

14<sup>m</sup>I, the LORD, have spoken it;

<sup>n</sup>It shall come to pass, and I will do it; I will not hold back,

Nor will I relent;

According to your ways

And according to your deeds

<sup>5</sup>They will judge you,”

Says the Lord God.”

The Prophet's Wife Dies

<sup>18</sup>So I spoke to the people in the morning, and at evening my wife died; and the next morning I did as I was commanded.

Proclamation Against Ammon

25 The word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, <sup>a</sup>set your face <sup>b</sup>against the Ammonites, and proph-

24:13, 14 have cleansed you, and you were not cleansed: This probably refers to the deportations of 605 and 597 B.C., whose cleansing effects were incomplete.

24:16, 17 the desire of your eyes: This refers to ezekeiel's wife (see vv. 18, 21, 25). one stroke: This phrase is used elsewhere of a plague reflecting God's wrath (see ex. 9:14; Num. 14:37; 16:46). you shall neither mourn nor weep: The picture of ezekeiel's wife dying and ezekeiel not being allowed to grieve illustrated God's pain over the death of his wife—Jerusalem—and his inability to mourn because the nation deserved the punishment. ezekeiel was called by God to “be a sign to the exiles” by demonstrating what they should do (see vv. 21–23) in response to the “death” (destruction) of their desire and delight—their nation and its capital city. A long period of mourning was the normal, ritual response to the death of a loved one in the ancient Middle east (see 1 Sam. 4:12; 2 Sam. 1:12, 17; 3:31, 35; 15:30; 19:4; is. 58:5; Jer. 16:7; Mic. 1:8, 10). The expression of those in mourning was not to bind the turban, but to remove it and replace it with dust. cover your lips: This alluded to the practice of covering the lower half of the face with a veil. The bread of sorrow was food given to a mourner after fasting.

24:18 did as I was commanded: ezekeiel had been given a revelatory command that was extremely hard for him personally. he faithfully communicated it to the people. his absolute obedience to the harshest of God's commands contrasted with the disobedience of his fellow countrymen.

24:19 tell us: When obedience to God demanded unusual actions, the people's curiosity about the reasons for such behavior was aroused, creating an opportunity for verbal witness about God's revelation (see 12:9; 21:7 for the two previous times of similar response).

24:21 the delight of your soul: The meaning “affection” is likely intended here. The entire phrase means something like the “object of your affections.” The Judeans had the wrong kind of pride about the temple, instead of the temple being a place of worship and house of God—My sanctuary—the Judeans took pride in the building as a sign of their importance. Therefore, God was going to profane it by allowing the Babylonians to capture the city and destroy the temple (see v. 25; 2 Chr. 36:15–21; 1 am. 1:10, 11). With no city or temple to boast about, the humbled israelites could boast only in God's mercy.

24:22–24 The Judeans should or would respond to the death of the nation as ezekeiel had been told to respond to the death of his wife (vv. 15–18); they would not mourn their loss. The consistent purpose of divine discipline is seen again: you shall know that I am the Lord God (see 6:8–10; 12:15, 16). The trials would prompt the israelites to depend on the Lord and know that he is holy. sign: See 12:3–7; 24:16, 17. When Jerusalem fell, God would prove himself as trustworthy and righteous, and ezekeiel as his true prophet (see v. 27).

24:25–27 When the one who escapes on the day Jerusalem falls (586 B.C.) arrives to give ezekeiel the news (perhaps about three months later), ezekeiel would be relieved of his inability to speak anything except judgment, and would be allowed to preach hope (see vv. 1, 2, 24; 3:25–27; 33:21–39:29; 2 kin. 25:8, 9).

25:2 o n Ammonites, see 21:20, 28. Ammon corresponds roughly to the present-day country of Jordan with its capital Amman.

esy against them. <sup>3</sup>Say to the Ammonites, ‘Hear the word of the Lord God! ### Proclamation Against Moab

25:3 For further background on the Ammonites and Ammon, see 6:11; 21:15; 26:2; 36:2; Neh. 4:7–9; ps. 35:19–21; Jer. 49:1–6; Amos 1:13–15; zeph. 2:8–11.

25:4, 5 Men of the East is another title for the Babylonians (see 21:31). Ancient historical records mention Ammon’s subjugation by Nebuchadnezzar five years after the fall of Jerusalem. Arab invaders came to dominate the territory, and Persian control began about 530 B.C.

25:6, 7 The Ammonites rejoiced at the destruction of Jerusalem and its temple; therefore, they would also be punished. The Ammonites were eventually to perish as a people.

25:8 Moab was south of Ammon, east of the Dead Sea and between the Arnon and Zered rivers. The Moabites descended from the incestuous relationship between Lot and his first daughter (Gen. 19:30–38). Seir (Edom) is mentioned because it was guilty of accusing Israel of being like all the nations (see 35:15; 36:5; Gen. 32:3; 36:8, 9). This accusation reflects Moab and Edom’s malicious misinterpretation of Judah’s misfortune as a proof that God was powerless (see Gen. 12:1–3; ex. 19:5, 6; Num. 22:12; Deut. 7:6–8; Jer. 48:27; zeph. 2:8, 9).

Unforgettable Sermons

God asked the prophet Ezekiel to perform some strange object lessons in order to get the attention of the Israelite exiles. The following chart shows the meanings of these unusual “sermon illustrations.”

Passage	Ezekiel's Activity	Explanation
4:1–3	Writing on a clay tablet	Ezekiel used a clay tablet to sketch out or build a model depicting how Babylon would lay siege to Jerusalem.
4:4–8	Lying on his side	Ezekiel lay on his side to demonstrate that the length of Babylon’s siege would correspond to the number of years Israel had sinned against their God.
4:9–17	Baking bread over dung	Ezekiel baked his bread with a fire fueled by dung, which was offensive to the Jews. Ezekiel was illustrating that their impending captivity would force them to eat polluted food that would mirror the filthiness of their sin.
5:1–4	Shaving his head	Ezekiel shaved his head as a sign of mourning. The burning of a third of his hair symbolized the fires that would destroy Jerusalem; the chopped hair stood for the people who would die by the sword; and the hair scattered in the wind represented those Jews who would be taken away into captivity.
12:1–16	Packing his bags	Ezekiel pantomimed leaving Jerusalem to prepare the watching crowds for the coming exile of the citizens of Jerusalem.
12:17–28	Quivering	Trembling and shuddering while he ate, Ezekiel acted out the awful fear the Jews would face when their enemies swept through the land.
20:45–49	Facing south and preaching to the forest	Ezekiel preached toward the south in order to show that God would send judgment on Judah, the southern kingdom.
21:1–32	Preaching about a sword while sighing	Facing Jerusalem, Ezekiel used, instead of fire, the picture of a sword to prophesy destruction. His deep sighs were intended to demonstrate the heavy hearts the people would have.
24:15–27	Refusing to mourn for his wife	God took Ezekiel’s wife as a sign of the overwhelming sadness the nation would feel when Jerusalem and the temple were destroyed.
37:15–28	Holding two sticks together	Ezekiel pictured the restoration of Israel by writing on one stick the name of Judah and on the other the name of Joseph, and then holding them together.

the glory of the country, Beth Jeshimoth, Baal Meon, and <sup>l</sup>Kirjathaim. <sup>10m</sup>To the men of the East I will give it as a possession, together with the Ammonites, that the Ammonites <sup>n</sup> may not be remembered among the nations. <sup>11</sup>And I will execute judgments upon Moab, and they shall know that I am the LORD.”

Proclamation Against Edom

<sup>12</sup>“Thus says the Lord God: <sup>o</sup>“Because of what Edom did against the house of Judah by taking vengeance, and has greatly offended by avenging itself on them,” <sup>13</sup>therefore thus says the Lord God: “I will also stretch out My hand against Edom, cut off man and beast from it, and

Proclamation Against Philistia

25:12 Edom was located south of Moab, from the zered river south to the Gulf of Aqaba. The edomites descended from esau. o n this vengeance of edom see 35:10; 36:1-7 (compare Gen. 36:6, 7; ps. 137:7; l am. 4:21, 22; Amos 1:11, 12). The transgressions most characteristic of edom were its perpetual animosity and repeated, vindictive acts of violence against israel. The hebrew words rendered greatly offended (“be guilty”) may indicate continuous or repeated rather than intensive behavior.

25:13 The precise locations of Teman and Dedan are not known, but they probably are mentioned to convey the idea of edom from one end to the other (see Joel 3:19).

25:14 Since edom had taken their revenge on the Judeans and showed them hostility when they needed help, God would show edom his vengeance.

25:15 The Philistines were in southwest palestine along the Mediterranean coast. They had a long history (the old hatred) of constant competition for control of Judah (see Judg. 13-16; 1 Sam. 4; 13; 31; 2 Sam. 5:17-21). The hebrew root meaning “to take revenge” is found three times in this verse, indicating the great vengeance of which philistia was guilty.

25:16 Cherethites: This term (probably meaning “cretans”) was used here as a substitute term for some or all of the philistines, who

Proclamation Against Tyre

26 And it came to pass in the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, <sup>a</sup>because Tyre has said against Jerusalem, <sup>b</sup>‘Aha! She is broken who was the gateway of the peoples; now she is turned over to me; I shall be filled; she is laid waste.’

<sup>3</sup>“Therefore thus says the Lord God: ‘Behold, I am against you, O Tyre, and will cause many nations to come up against you, as the sea causes its waves to come up. <sup>4</sup>And they shall destroy the walls of Tyre and break down her towers; I will also scrape her dust from her, and <sup>c</sup>make her like the top of a rock. <sup>5</sup>It shall be a place for spreading nets <sup>d</sup>in the midst of the sea, for I have spoken,’ says the Lord God; ‘it shall become plunder for the nations. <sup>6</sup>Also her daughter villages which are in the fields shall be slain by the sword. <sup>e</sup>Then they shall know that I am the LORD.’

“How you have perished,
O one inhabited by seafaring men,
O renowned city,
Who was <sup>u</sup>strong at sea,
She and her inhabitants,
Who caused their terror to be on all her inhabitants!

Yes, the coastlands by the sea are troubled at your departure.””

<sup>19</sup>“For thus says the Lord God: ‘When I make you a desolate city, like cities that migrated from captor (understood to be crete). Their more remote ancestors were Aegeans. See 1 Sam. 30:14; 2 Sam. 8:18; 15:18; Jer. 47:4; Amos 9:7; zeph. 2:5.

26:1 The date places the prophetic pronouncements against Tyre, the Tyrian monarch, and Sidon somewhere in March or April of 587–586 B.C. (the eleventh year). This was at or just after the fall of Jerusalem (see v. 2).

26:2 Tyre, in competition with Sidon (see 1 kin. 16:31; is. 23:2, 12), was a major seaport and leading city in phoenicia (present-day Lebanon). has said: The past tense could refer to an event that had not yet taken place, using a hebrew idiom which describes a future event as so certain that it can be expressed as having already been accomplished (see is. 9:6, 7; 52:13—53:12). I shall be filled was evidence of Tyre’s greed and materialism, desiring any wealth of Jerusalem that could be found in its ruins after the Babylonian conquest.

26:3 The armies (many nations; see vv. 4, 7–14) that would attack Tyre are appropriately compared to waves of the sea, because the city of Tyre was an island fortress.

26:7–14 The fulfillment of this prophecy of Tyre’s fate began with the long siege of the city by the Babylonian army under Nebuchad- nezzar (c. 580–570 B.C.). Nebuchadnezzar ruled the Neo-Babylonian (chaldean) empire from 605–562 B.C. The second phase came with the persian conquest in about 525 B.C., followed by the final and famous siege of 332 B.C. by the Greeks under Alexander, which completed the predictions of this passage (especially vv. 5, 14; see 47:10). Note the switch from he to they (v. 12; see v. 4) as well as the use of the pronoun “i” by God, which explains his sovereign control over all the nations (see 28:7; 29:8). Alexander literally fulfilled the words break down your walls (see v. 5) when his army built a causeway half a mile long between the shore and the city on its island. he tore down defensive walls to build the causeway.

26:16 The princes of the sea (see 27:35) were the rulers of various settlements in phoenicia that were connected with Tyre. They would surrender and submit to Babylonian rule when they saw what happened to Tyre: be astonished at you. They would mourn in song (see vv. 17, 18) after they took off their robes and embroidered garments (see Jon. 3:6).

26:19 The deep is the same hebrew word as in Gen. 1:2. imagery of the chaotic waters of creation picture the coming catastrophe.

Tin

A soft, bluish-white metal smelted from cassiterite, its principal ore. Tin was used chiefly as an alloy with copper to produce bronze, a much harder material than either copper or tin. The Hebrew word for tin means “a substitute or alloy.”

Phoenicia supplied the ancient Mediterranean world with tin obtained from Spain, its chief colony. Some scholars believe the Phoenicians sailed the Atlantic to Cornwall, England, the principal supplier of tin. Tyre received tin from Tarshish (Ezek. 27:12). Some think Persia and Armenia exported tin also.

Tin was among the spoils the Israelites took from the Midianites (Num. 31:22). The prophet Ezekiel pictured Jerusalem as being smelted as tin cast in a furnace (Ezek. 22:18–20).

Smelted tin that has solidified are not inhabited, when I bring the deep upon you, and great waters cover you, <sup>20</sup>then I will bring you down <sup>w</sup>with those who descend into the Pit, to the people of old, and I will make you dwell in the lowest part of the earth, in places desolate from antiquity, with those who go down to the Pit, so that you may never be inhabited; and I shall establish glory <sup>x</sup>in the land of the living. <sup>21y</sup>I will make you a terror, and you shall be no more; <sup>z</sup>though you are sought for, you will never be found again,’ says the Lord God.”

Lamentation for Tyre

26:20 The Pit is probably a synonym for hell (see is. 14:15; 38:18). never be inhabited: Ancient Tyre would cease to exist.

27:3 perfect: The proud citizens of Tyre saw themselves as the finest example of a merchant “ship” in the ancient world.

27:5 Senir is an Amorite term used for Mt. Hermon or another peak in its range. Fir is rendered elsewhere “pine,” “cypress,” or “juniper.”

27:6 Bashan (see 39:18) was the broad and fertile plateau east of the Sea of Galilee and the upper Jordan.

27:7 Elishah has coasts and is associated here with Egypt; therefore it may be Italy or Sicily.

27:8 Sidon was a Phoenician seaport about 30 miles north of Tyre. The two cities were rivals, but Tyre tended to dominate Sidon (see 28:21, 22; Gen. 10:15, 19; Judg. 18:28; is. 23:2; Matt. 11:21, 22). Like Tyre, the city of Arvad was on an island off the coast of Phoenicia. It was Phoenicia’s northernmost town (see 28:11; Gen. 10:18; 1 Chr. 1:16).

27:9 Gebal was another successful Phoenician port, between Sidon and Arvad (see Josh. 13:5; 1 Kin. 5:18). It was called Byblos by the Greeks and Romans, and Gubla by the Assyrians and Babylonians.

27:10, 11 Lydia and Libya are literally Lud and Put, usually understood to be in western Asia Minor (Lud) and Africa (Put).

Gird themselves with sackcloth,
And weep for you
With bitterness of heart and bitter wailing.

27:12 Tarshish was possibly in Spain.

27:13 Javan is Greece (see Gen. 10:4). Tubal and Meshech are thought to have been in eastern Asia Minor (modern Turkey).

27:14 on the house of Togarmah, see Gen. 10:3. This phrase may refer to the people of Armenia in eastern Asia Minor (see 38:6).

27:15 Dedan may perhaps be understood as “r edan” (r hodes), because the written forms of the hebrew letters for d and rare easily confused. r hodes was a major trading center in the southern Aegean Sea.

27:16 The hebrew term for emeralds may also be translated “turquoise.”

27:17 Minnith was in Ammon (see 21:28) and presumably was famous for its fine wheat. Millet translates a hebrew word that apparently stands for some type of food, but exactly what kind is not known today. Balm was an aromatic resin or other gummy substance that may have had medicinal value (see Jer. 8:22).

27:18 Damascus was and is the capital of Syria (v. 16). Helbon is north of Damascus, a region still recognized for its wine production. The phrase rendered white wool is understood by some to mean “wool from z achar,” a place possibly associated with modern Sachra, also north of Damascus, where goat and sheep are common.

27:19 Dan seems out of place in this context, so some transliterate the hebrew as Wedan. o thers argue that the name Dan is another title for Greece. Cassia (see ex. 30:24; ps. 45:8; Song 4:14) was either a type of cinnamon tree or a plant from which perfume and incense were made. Cane refers to an oil-producing reed found in swamps. 27:21 Kedar was a nomadic tribe in Arabia.

27:22 Sheba and Raamah were located near Arabia (see Gen. 10:6, 7).

27:23 Ancient Haran was a merchant city along the important euphrates trade route (see Gen. 11:27–32), in what is now eastern Turkey. Canneh (see is. 10:9), Eden, and Chilmad were probably in Mesopotamia, most likely south of haran (see 2 kin. 19:12). The verse seems concerned with cities, so Assyria is better translated “Asshur,” a city south of Nineveh; but the term could stand for the citizens of Assyria. on Sheba, see v. 22.

27:26 The east wind was often powerful and potentially destructive (see Gen. 41:6; Job 27:21; ps. 48:7; is. 27:8). Thus it symbolizes the destruction the Babylonian army would bring on Tyre. In 26:7, Babylon would come from the “north.” This was the direction from which the army would invade phoenicia.

27:28 The common-land was the pastureland controlled by a city.

Proclamation Against the King of Tyre

28 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre, ‘Thus says the Lord God:

Lamentation for the King of Tyre

<sup>11</sup> Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>12</sup>“Son of man, <sup>m</sup>take up a lamentation for the king of Tyre, and say to him, ‘Thus says the Lord God:

- <sup>n</sup>“You were the seal of perfection,
Full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.
- 13 You were in <sup>o</sup>Eden, the garden of God;
Every precious stone was your covering:
The sardius, topaz, and diamond,
Beryl, onyx, and jasper,
Sapphire, turquoise, and emerald with gold.
The workmanship of <sup>p</sup>your timbrels and pipes

27:32–36 The final verses of the chapter present a remorseful and revengeful lament to be chanted, perhaps over and over, by Tyre’s trade partners. Tyre’s nearest neighbors (see 26:16–18) would be greatly troubled by Tyre’s defeat, but soon they would turn against Tyre themselves in the vain hope of escaping a similar fate at the hands of the Babylonians.

28:3 you are wiser than Daniel: The Hebrew name Daniel is spelled here the same way as in 14:14: dan-el. It might refer to a different person otherwise unknown in Israel’s ancient history.

28:7 The strangers are the Babylonians (see 7:17–19; 23:23; 30:11; 31:12; 32:12).

28:8 The phrase midst of the seas parallels the word Pit and reinforces its meaning, for it too signifies the place and fact of death.

28:10 the death of the uncircumcised: This term denotes a disgraceful death (see 31:18; 32:19).

28:12 Seal of perfection is more literally “the one sealing a plan” (the same Hebrew word for “plan” or “pattern” appears once more at 43:10). In effect, the king affixed the official seal of his signet ring to the plans that made Tyre one of the leading centers of commerce in that day. wisdom . . . beauty: These descriptions mark out the king of Tyre as an exceptional ruler, displaying the ideals of kingship in the ancient Middle East.

28:13 in Eden, the garden of God: This is possibly an exaggerated comparison: this king invaded a place like Eden in its beauty.

created: The Hebrew verb for created is the same as the one used in Gen. 1:1. Just as in Genesis, the word emphasizes God’s active

Was prepared for you on the day you were created.

- 14<sup>a</sup> You were the anointed <sup>q</sup>cherub who covers;

Proclamation Against Sidon

<sup>z</sup>“Behold, I am against you, O Sidon;
I will be glorified in your midst;
And <sup>a</sup>they shall know that I am the LORD,
When I execute judgments in her and am <sup>b</sup>hallowed in her.
<sup>23</sup> <sup>c</sup>For I will send pestilence upon her,
And blood in her streets;
The wounded shall be judged in her midst
By the sword against her on every side;
Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

<sup>24</sup>“And there shall no longer be a pricking brier or <sup>d</sup>a painful thorn for the house of Israel from among all who are around them, who <sup>e</sup>despise them. Then they shall know that I am the Lord God.””

Israel's Future Blessing

28:14 The holy mountain of God could be “the holy mountain of gods.” According to canaanite beliefs, the “seat of the gods” was in the “mountains,” or the “mountains of the north” (see ps. 48:2). The focus here seems to be on the king of Tyre's attempt to enter into the council of the gods. So instead of the verse referring to the king's presence in Jerusalem, it could refer more logically to a phoenician ritual, the celebration of their patron god Melqart's fiery resurrection. This king wanted to imitate Melqart.

28:15 The term perfect does not mean sinless, but complete or flawless. The king of Tyre had been in complete control and was unchallenged until he was filled with prideful iniquity.

28:16–19 The king's pride led to materialism, violence, and sinfulness in business and religion. abundance of your trading: The expression is most easily and appropriately applied to the human king who was the driving force behind the development of Tyre's commercial empire. The true God—the pronoun I—dethroned the king, derailed his unholy ambitions, and destroyed the source of his pride in order to make his example a deterrent to others. The king's commercial empire collapsed and his machinations to resemble a god were crushed in the sight of local rulers who would gaze in astonishment.

28:20–23 Sidon was Tyre's sister city, but its lesser importance may explain the brevity of treatment here (see 27:8). As commercial “sisters,” the cities had similar characters and concerns, so they shared similar crimes. The LORD displayed justice through deserved judgment so the people would recognize that he is the true and righteous God.

28:24 God would free israel. The brier and thorn refer to the nations around israel who had been enemies and evil influences. When the judgments were executed fully, these nations would no longer be able to harass and oppress israel.

28:25, 26 God promised that israel will someday be gathered from its dispersion among the nations to return and dwell in their own land, the land that God had given to Jacob (the land of canaan; 11:17; 20:41, 42; ch. 33–39; see Gen. 12:7; 26:3; 28:10–13; 35:12; Jer. 30:10). The end of the foreign nations' ability to attack israel will lead to a time of peace, prosperity, and protection.

Proclamation Against Egypt

29 In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, <sup>a</sup>set your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and <sup>b</sup>against all Egypt. <sup>3</sup>Speak, and say, ‘Thus says the Lord God:

Then they shall know that I am the Lord God.””

29:1 tenth year . . . tenth month: This is December 588 or January 587 B.C. This introduction of another date by ezeiel (his sixth) is a chronological break, but not a thematic break, with 26:1–28:26 (see 1:2; 8:1; 20:1; 24:1; 26:1).

29:2 The Pharaoh was hophra (c. 589–570 B.C.; see Jer. 44:30). The prophecy against him was also a prophecy against all egypt (see 30:22; 32:2), like the previous prophecy against Tyre and its king (see 28:1–19). The context suggests that literal, human kings were meant in chs. 28; 29.

29:3 O great monster: The pharaoh is pictured here as a crocodile. My River refers to the Nile. pharaoh’s arrogant pride is described by his words about the Nile r iver, I have made it for myself (compare with the words of the king of Tyre, 28:2). in the egyptian religion the crocodile god Sebek was a protector (see 32:2).

29:4, 5 Whereas v. 3 explains why pharaoh would be punished, these verses explain how the punishment would be accomplished. The imagery pictures a crocodile being caught, carried out of the water onto land, and left as carrion. The fish represent the egyptians, who would be judged along with pharaoh (v. 2). pharaoh’s destiny to be food may have been an intentional insult to the rulers famous for their burials and pyramids.

29:6, 7 God’s purpose for judging egypt was to encourage the nations and individuals to come to know him (see 6:14; 7:27; 12:20; 14:11; 22:16; 23:49; 25:7, 11, 17; 28:24). Staff of reed refers to the people of egypt. This alludes to egypt’s weakness as an ally and the worthlessness of that country’s protection (see is. 36:6). israel was foolish to rely on egypt for protection. They should have turned to God for their security and strength.

29:8 sword: here is another reference to the Babylonian army under Nebuchadnezzar, the predicted human instrument of God’s coming wrath (see 21:1–7, 9–11, 19, 20; 26:7–14).

29:9 The nation was indicted as a result of what he—that is, pharaoh—boasted. o ften national monuments were inscribed in ancient times with the exaggerated and arrogant boasts of kings.

29:10 Migdol to Syene refers to places most likely near the northern and southern boundaries of ancient egypt, indicating the totality of the land (see Judg. 20:1). The desolation would extend to the land south of egypt—ancient Nubia which is modern Sudan.

29:11 The egyptians would experience a scattering to other lands for forty years (see 4:4–8). A Babylonian chronicle suggests that egypt was conquered around 568 B.C. Forty years after this date, the persians instituted a policy of resettlement for many of the peoples who had been dispersed by Babylon.

29:14, 15 The land of Pathros is southern egypt. This kingdom would thereafter be lowly and the lowliest, never again to dominate other nations.

Babylonia Will Plunder Egypt

<sup>21</sup>‘In that day <sup>z</sup>I will cause the <sup>6</sup>horn of the house of Israel to spring forth, and I will <sup>a</sup>open your mouth to speak in their midst. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.’”

Egypt and Her Allies Will Fall

30 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, prophesy and say, ‘Thus says the Lord God:

- <sup>3</sup> For <sup>b</sup>the day is near,
Even the day of the LORD is near;
It will be a day of clouds, the time of the Gentiles.

<sup>10</sup>“Thus says the Lord God:

<sup>i</sup>“I will also make a multitude of Egypt to cease
By the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon.

29:17 came to pass: ezekeiel received this oracle from God (vv. 17–21) and apparently the following message also (30:1–19) in March–April 571 B.C., the latest date in the book (see v. 1).

29:18 labor strenuously: This recalls the difficult siege of Tyre. heads were made bald and shoulders rubbed raw in the protracted siege, which took 13 or more years. yet neither: The fact was that neither Nebuchadnezzar nor his army received much of a reward for their efforts.

29:19, 20 God affirms that he is sovereign over the coming fall of Egypt to Babylon to make up for the wages they had not received from their conquest of Tyre. God specifically named Nebuchadnezzar as his instrument (see Jer. 43:8–13). The Babylonian chronicles imply that Babylon invaded Egypt in approximately 568 B.C.

29:21 In that day: This refers to the day when Egypt would fall to Babylon, and a prophecy about the Messiah should not be read into this text. Cause the horn . . . of Israel to spring forth means that the nation would renew its strength. renewal and encouragement would come to God’s people in exile when they heard about Egypt’s downfall orchestrated by the hand of God, who is holy and sovereign. I will open your mouth was God’s promise to restore ezekeiel’s speech (see 33:22) and therefore to magnify himself and his ways: know that I am the LORD.

30:3 The phrase the day of the LORD here refers to the period of divine wrath on the nation of Egypt. This term suggests God’s personal involvement in his judgment work. in this context (see vv. 4–19) God would use Babylon under Nebuchadnezzar to punish Egypt and her allies (see Gen. 12:3; Jer. 25; 46). the time of the Gentiles: That is, the time of God’s wrath on the nations.

30:5 Ethiopia is the Hebrew Cush, and refers to the area south of Egypt toward modern Ethiopia, see 29:10. Libya and Lydia were in Africa and Asia Minor; see 27:10. Mingled people may be read as “all of Arabia.” Chub is an obscure term that was understood as the “Ibyans” by the Septuagint translators of the Hebrew OT. The allied lands were lands to the south, east, and west of Egypt that would also fall to the Babylonian army.

30:6 Migdol to Syene means the whole land of Egypt, see 29:10.

30:8 Fire is often symbolic of judgment (see 20:47; is. 4:4).

30:9 This day of Egypt—the day that Egypt and her allies would be conquered—was part of a larger period of God’s judgment on the nations outside Israel by means of Babylon; in fact, ezekeiel describes the Babylonians as messengers sent from God himself. No one could prevent the coming day of judgment, for the Almighty had ordained it: for indeed it is coming.

30:10–12 These verses add extra details to the more general predictions about Egypt’s doom in the preceding verses (vv. 3–9). Most terrible of the nations was applied to the Babylonians because their cruelty was legendary (see 2 Kin. 25:7; 2 Chr. 33:11; 36:17; Jer. 39:4–10).

Ships

Merchant ships varied in size. The smaller coastal traders were from 50–60 feet long and 15–20 feet wide. The larger ones that sailed the open water were frequently well over 100 feet long and up to 50 feet wide. These ships were usually made of fir, pine, or cedar boards over a hardwood frame.

Cargo ships usually had little space for passengers. Occasionally they would carry voyagers on the open deck or in the hold with the cargo (Jon. 1:5). Merchant vessels were large enough to carry considerable cargo and sturdy enough to survive the open sea. The judgment on Tyre recorded in Ezek. 27 reflects the wealth that trade provided.

The fishing vessels used on the Sea of Galilee in Jesus' time were large enough to accommodate all the disciples (Matt. 8:23–27), but small enough to be in danger of sinking under the weight of a large catch of fish (Luke 5:7).

Merchant ship mosaics are part of the Square of the Corporations at Ostia Antica, first to third centuries A.D.

Proclamation Against Pharaoh

30:13–19 in this fourth and final message, emphasis seems to be placed on the fall of major cities. Noph was ancient Memphis, a significant city in Egypt. It was capital of the old kingdom in the third century B.C. on Pathros, see 29:14. Zoan, the classical Tanis, was a city in the northeastern delta. No was ancient Thebes, the capital of Upper or southern Egypt. Thebes was destroyed by the Assyrians in 661 B.C. Sin was ancient Pelusium, a fortress town on the northeastern border where the ruling Egyptian dynasty of Ezekiel's day had a residence: the strength of Egypt. Aven (or Heliopolis, “the city of the Sun”) was ancient On, a center for worship of the sun-god Re. Aven was north of Memphis at the southern tip of the delta. Pi Beseth, or Bubastis in Greek form, was once the capital of Lower Egypt (the northern or Nile Delta area). Tehaphnehes was also a fortress town on the northeastern border, the place where the Babylonian army would enter Egypt to bring this dark day. A cloud would arise from burning the city, and its vassal villages—her daughters—would be attacked and set ablaze also.

30:20 first month: March–April 587 B.C. (see 29:1, 18–20). Ezekiel returns to a chronological sequence for the prophecies.

30:21 I have broken the arm of Pharaoh: The prophecy refers to Pharaoh Hophra's unsuccessful attempt to relieve the siege of Jerusalem just a few months earlier (see 29:2, 6, 7). God used Nebuchadnezzar to defeat the Egyptian army. A muscular arm, as a symbol of the king's (and thus the army's) strength, often appeared in a sword. <sup>22</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord God: ‘Surely I am <sup>y</sup>against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will <sup>z</sup>break his arms, both the strong one and the one that was broken; and I will make the sword fall out of his hand. <sup>23</sup>a I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them throughout the countries. <sup>24</sup>I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put My sword in his hand; but I will break Pharaoh’s arms, and he will groan before him with the groanings of a mortally wounded man. <sup>25</sup>Thus I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, but the arms of Pharaoh shall fall down; <sup>b</sup>they shall know that I am the LORD, when I put My sword into the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it out against the land of Egypt. <sup>26</sup>c I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.’”

Egypt Cut Down Like a Great Tree

31 Now it came to pass in the <sup>a</sup>eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his multitude:

- <sup>b</sup> Whom are you like in your greatness?

egyptian art and architecture. even hophra took the title “he Who is Strong-Armed.” That God had broken pharaoh’s arm symbolized his complete defeat.

30:22–26 I will scatter: These verses predict the continued weakness of hophra against Nebuchadnezzar and the coming catastrophe for all egypt when its cities would be defeated and the people deported (beginning c. 568 B.C.).

31:1 third month: May–June, 587 B.C. See 1:2; 8:1; 20:1; 24:1, 2; 26:1; 29:1, 17; 30:20.

31:3 egypt was compared to Assyria in greatness and presumably in its great pride over its achievements. ezeziel uses another allegory (see 15:1–8; 17:1–10): Assyria as a cedar in Lebanon. This image pictures the nations as trees in a forest in Lebanon (a country prized for its cedar trees; see vv. 15–18; 1 kin. 5:7–10; 7:2, 3; ps. 29:5). Assyria at one time was the highest tree, but it had been cut down. its capital city Nineveh fell in 612 B.C., signaling the end of Assyrian domination and the beginning of neo-Babylonian control of the ancient Middle east.

31:4 The waters were the Tigris and euphrates rivers. These mighty rivers brought agricultural fertility and fostered the development of great cities along trade routes (see vv. 8, 9, 15–18; Gen. 2:10–14).

31:5–9 The unparalleled greatness of Assyria is portrayed with vivid poetic images. There is both comparison and contrast with egypt. Before turning to the mostly narrative explanation in vv. 10–18, the prophet indicates that although egypt was great, it was not the greatest nation. if Assyria had fallen to Babylon, no hope would remain for egypt (see 31:18).

31:10–14 Because Assyria gloated over her greatness, God sentenced this cruel nation to harsh treatment and subjection under Babylon, the mighty one of the nations. I will deliver: The past tense, “i delivered,” would be more accurate for this context. The meaning is that Babylon, the terrible nation, had cut Assyria down. The picturesque conclusion to this second message of ch. 31 indicates that all the other nations (birds, beasts, and trees) that observed Assyria’s ruin would share its destiny of death, depths, and the Pit, and would never attain its heights of power.

13 <sup>c</sup>On <sup>m</sup>its ruin will remain all the birds of the heavens,
And all the beasts of the field will come to its branches—

14 “So that no trees by the waters may ever again exalt themselves for their height, nor set their tops among the thick boughs, that no tree which drinks water may ever be high enough to reach up to them.

‘For <sup>n</sup>they have all been delivered to death,

Among the children of men who go down to the Pit.’

15 “Thus says the Lord God: ‘In the day when it <sup>p</sup>went down to <sup>5</sup>hell, I caused mourning. I covered the deep because of it. I restrained its rivers, and the great waters were held back. I caused Lebanon to <sup>6</sup>mourn for it, and all the trees of the field wilted because of it. <sup>16</sup>I made the nations <sup>q</sup>shake at the sound of its fall, when I <sup>r</sup>cast it down to <sup>7</sup>hell together with those who descend into the Pit; and <sup>s</sup>all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, <sup>t</sup>were comforted in the depths of the earth. <sup>17</sup>They also went down to hell with it, with those slain by the sword; and those who were its strong arm <sup>u</sup>dwelt in its shadows among the nations.

<sup>18</sup><sup>v</sup>“To which of the trees in Eden will you then be likened in glory and greatness? Yet you shall be brought down with the trees of Eden to the depths of the earth; <sup>w</sup>you shall lie in the midst of the uncircumcised, with those slain by the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his multitude,’ says the Lord God.”

man, <sup>b</sup>take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say to him:

And they will draw you up in My net.

I will cover the sun with a cloud,
And the moon shall not give her light.

<sup>8</sup> All the <sup>2</sup>bright lights of the heavens I will make dark over you,
And bring darkness upon your land,”
Says the Lord God.

<sup>9</sup>I will also trouble the hearts of many peoples, when I bring your destruction among the nations, into the countries which you have not known. <sup>10</sup>Yes, I will make many peoples astonished at you,

31:15–17 Hell renders the hebrew word sometimes transliterated as Sheol, which often merely speaks of the grave or death (see Gen. 37:35; ps. 6:5; Jon. 2:2). God had dried up or devastated Assyria, and all the nations were caused to mourn for it and shake because of its death and burial, as it was cast into hell, the Pit, and the depths of the earth. Those nations, the trees of Eden, who were guilty of a similar, sinful pride in their achievements would receive the same punishment.

31:18 if Assyria, the greatest nation, had fallen to the Babylonians, surely a nation less great would also fall. This pointed to egypt—Pharaoh and all his multitude (see vv. 2, 3, 5–9).

32:1 twelfth month: February–March 585 B.C. (see 31:1), after the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. (see 2 kin. 25:8), but about 20 years before the Babylonian invasion of egypt (see 29:19, 20). however, the record of the fall of Jerusalem is given in 33:21. This section (32:1—33:20) is placed before 33:21, although it reports events that follow the fall of Jerusalem. ezekiel’s arrangement is thematic. he can first record his lament, and then explain the events that inspired it. even though the egyptians arrogantly thought that they, unlike Judah, would not fall to Babylon’s forces, they would eventually experience the same fate as the citizens of Jerusalem.

32:2 The words lion and monster depict egypt as proud and powerful.

32:3–8 These poetic lines picture egypt and its ruler, hophra, as a crocodile who is going to experience the judgment ordained by God. egypt will be caught, killed, and consigned to darkness—a recognizable element of the day of the Lord (see 30:1–5; Amos 5:18–20; Acts 2:20).

and their kings shall be horribly afraid of you when I brandish My sword before them; and <sup>l</sup>they shall tremble every moment, every man for his own life, in the day of your fall.

<sup>11 m</sup>For thus says the Lord God: “The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon you. <sup>12</sup>By the swords of the mighty warriors, all of them <sup>n</sup>the most terrible of the nations, I will cause your multitude to fall.

And all its multitude shall be destroyed.

no more,
Nor shall the hooves of animals muddy them.

Says the Lord God.

<sup>15</sup>“When I make the land of Egypt

And the country is destitute of all that once filled it,
When I strike all who dwell in it,

32:11-15 This section interrupts the flow of vv. 3-10. The king of Babylon was Nebuchadnezzar. the most terrible of the nations: That is, the Neo-Babylonian empire (see 30:10-12). rivers run like oil: This phrase, not used elsewhere, pictures the time following massive killing when the Nile and its tributaries would experience a “deadly” calm. The waters will be clear because there will be no human or animal life.

32:16 Such a scene of judgment will produce mourning and great grief; but God is to be seen as just and doing what was necessary to stop the people’s arrogance. The daughters of the nations: These were among the “many peoples” in vv. 9, 10 who shall lament and be astonished over Egypt’s destruction.

32:17 This is 15 days later than v. 1, still in 585 B.C.

32:18-21 Depths of the earth, the Pit, and hell refer to the grave or death, not the place of eternal punishment for God’s enemies.

32:22 Assyria was the master of the ancient Middle eastern world until the rise of the neo-Babylonians around 612 B.C., early in Jeremiah’s career and about 20 years before Ezekiel’s first vision.

32:24 Elam was east and southeast of Assyria, in what is now Iran. The people of Elam were descended from one of the sons of Shem (Gen. 10:22; 1 Chr. 1:17).

The Watchman and His Message

33 Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup> “Son of man, speak to <sup>a</sup> the children of your people, and say to them: <sup>b</sup> “When I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take a man from their territory and make him their <sup>c</sup> watchman, <sup>3</sup> when he sees the sword coming upon the land, if he blows the trumpet and warns the people, <sup>4</sup> then whoever hears the sound of the trumpet and does <sup>d</sup> not take warning, if the sword comes and takes him away, <sup>e</sup> his blood shall be on his own head. <sup>5</sup> He heard the sound of the trumpet, but did not take warning; his blood shall be upon himself. But he who takes warning will <sup>f</sup> save his life. <sup>6</sup> But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, and the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes any person from among them, <sup>f</sup> he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood I will require at the watchman’s hand.”

<sup>7g</sup> “So you, son of man: I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel; therefore you shall hear a word from My

watchman

(heb. tsaphah) (3:17; 33:2; 1 Sam. 14:16; hos. 9:8) Strong’s #6822

This noun is derived from the verb meaning “to watch in anticipation.” This verb is used to describe the actions of individuals waiting in ambush as they watch for their prey (ps. 37:32). Watchman was an official military position. They were stationed on the towers of a city and were responsible for spotting approaching armies and sounding the alarm to warn the city (1 Sam. 14:16). The imagery behind the watchman is much like that of the shepherd, though watchman as a symbolic title was limited to the office of a prophet (hos. 9:8). A watchman’s failure was punishable by death. In the case of ezekeil, punishment would come directly from God if he failed to report to the people the messages God gave him (33:8).

32:26 Meshech and Tubal: These peoples were located in ancient Anatolia or Asia Minor, present-day Turkey. These names are mentioned as sons of Japheth (Gen. 10:2; 1 Chr. 1:5).

32:28 ezekeil switches suddenly to the second person singular—*you—as a wake-up call or reminder to pharaoh, the representative of Egypt. Yes is an emphatic use of the conjunction otherwise translated as “and.”

32:30 The princes of the north are lands north of Israel such as Tyre and Sidon in Phoenicia. The Sidonians were from Sidon, a seaport on the coast about 30 miles north of Tyre (see 27:8).

32:31, 32 Pharaoh: Now the message (vv. 17–32) comes full circle. The point is that Egypt and Pharaoh will die like the other nations at the hand of the living God, who judges every nation with justice.

33:2 The children of your people refers to fellow Israelites in exile with ezekeil, now including the people of Judah deported to Babylon after Nebuchadnezzar’s third invasion.

33:7–9 ezekeil’s duty as a watchman is defined. Compare also the responsibility of the elders of the church in the NT to “watch” (see Acts 20:31; Heb. 13:17; 1 Pet. 5:1–4).

mouth and warn them for Me. <sup>8</sup>When I say to the wicked, ‘O wicked man, you shall surely die!’ and you do not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood I will require at your hand. <sup>9</sup>Nevertheless if you warn the wicked to turn from his way, and he does not turn from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; but you have <sup>2</sup>delivered your soul.

<sup>10</sup>“Therefore you, O son of man, say to the house of Israel: ‘Thus you say, “If our transgressions and our sins lie upon us, and we h pine<sup>3</sup> away in them, i how can we then live?”’ <sup>11</sup>Say to them: ‘As I live,’ says the Lord God, j ‘I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked k turn from his way and live. Turn, turn from your evil ways! For l why should you die, O house of Israel?’

The Fairness of God’s Judgment

<sup>12</sup>“Therefore you, O son of man, say to the children of your people: ‘The m righteousness of the righteous man shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression; as for the wickedness of the wicked, n he shall not fall because of it in the day that he turns from his wickedness; nor shall the righteous be able to live because of his righteousness in the day that he sins.’ <sup>13</sup>When I say to the righteous that he shall surely live, o but he trusts in his own righteousness and commits iniquity, none of his righteous works shall be remembered; but because of the iniquity that he has committed, he shall die. <sup>14</sup>Again, p when I say to the wicked, ‘You shall surely die,’ if he turns from his sin and does q what is lawful and r right, <sup>15</sup> if the wicked q restores the pledge, r gives back what he has stolen, and walks in s the statutes of life without committing iniquity, he shall surely live; he shall not die. <sup>16</sup>None of his sins which he has

The Fall of Jerusalem

<sup>22</sup> Now <sup>a</sup> the hand of the LORD had been upon me the evening before the man came who had escaped. And He had <sup>b</sup> opened my mouth; so when he came to me in the morning, my mouth was opened, and I was no longer mute.

The Cause of Judah’s Ruin

33:10 pine away: This phrase means to rot, waste, or dwindle.

33:12–20 in punishing Israel God was being faithful to the covenant stipulations. This covenant had been approved by the Israelites. They had agreed to its commands and accepted the consequences of breaking them, corporately and individually (see 5:8–17; 12:15, 16; 16:60, 61; 18:19–32; 20:5; ex. 19:1–9; Deut. 27). God presents his rationale in these verses for deciding who would be rewarded with life and who would suffer death: he would save those who repent and turn to him, but would condemn those who trust in themselves and do evil. After presenting his rationale, God declares that his judgment is just and fair—certainly more just than the practices of the Israelites.

33:21—48:35 The final, large collection of messages in Ezekiel communicates comfort and consolation to the exiles in Babylon following the shock of the destruction of Jerusalem.

33:21, 22 in January 585 B.C., Ezekiel received the news that Jerusalem had been taken. The city had been under siege by Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonians for two and a half years (2 kin. 25:1–10). These two verses introduce six oracles (33:23—39:29).

Ezekiel received a message from the LORD and reported it to the exiles in Babylon.

33:23 Ezekiel’s introductory formula—identical or similar to this verse—marks the beginning of the messages received from the LORD in this section of the book (33:21—39:29).

33:24 they who inhabit those ruins: This refers to the people who had remained in Jerusalem. They thought they were the remnant—the faithful ones. But they experienced the final siege of the city by king Nebuchadnezzar, for reasons God will give in the following verses.

33:25, 26 Ezekiel confronted his people with specific examples of their past and present refusal to obey God’s revealed will for their lives (see 18:6, 10; 22:11; ex. 20:4, 5, 13, 14; 1 ev. 7:26, 27; 17:10–14; 19:26; Deut. 12:16, 23). Was it not then reasonable that God would punish the present generation by removing them from the land, at least temporarily? The writer of Hebrews, after using the example of Israel’s failure to enter the land (ch. 3), admonished the church in a similar way (see heb. 4:1).

one another's wives. Should you then possess the land?"

<sup>27</sup>“Say thus to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “As I live, surely <sup>m</sup>those who are in the ruins shall fall by the sword, and the one who is in the open field <sup>n</sup>I will give to the beasts to be devoured, and those who are in the strongholds and <sup>o</sup>caves shall die of the pestilence. <sup>28</sup>For I will make the land most desolate, <sup>9</sup>her <sup>q</sup>arrogant strength shall cease, and <sup>r</sup>the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that no one will pass through. <sup>29</sup>Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I have made the land most desolate because of all their abominations which they have committed.”’

Hearing and Not Doing

<sup>30</sup>“As for you, son of man, the children of your people are talking about you beside the walls and in the doors of the houses; and they <sup>s</sup>speak to one another, everyone saying to his brother, ‘Please come and hear what the word is that comes from the LORD.’ <sup>31</sup>So <sup>t</sup>they come to you as people do, they <sup>u</sup>sit before you as My people, and they <sup>v</sup>hear your words, but they do not do them; <sup>w</sup>for with their mouth they show much love, but <sup>x</sup>their hearts pursue their own gain. <sup>32</sup>Indeed you are to them as a very lovely song of one who has a pleasant voice and can play well on an instrument; for they hear your words, but they do <sup>y</sup>not do them. <sup>33</sup>And when this comes to pass—surely it will come—then <sup>a</sup>they will know that a prophet has been among them.”

Irresponsible Shepherds

34 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy and say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God to the shepherds: <sup>a</sup>“Woe to the shepherds of Israel who feed themselves! Should not the shepherds feed the flocks? <sup>3b</sup>You eat the fat and clothe yourselves with the wool; you <sup>c</sup>slaughter the fatlings, but you do not feed the flock. <sup>4d</sup>The weak you have not strengthened, nor have you healed those who were sick, nor bound up the broken, nor brought back what was driven away, nor <sup>e</sup>sought what was lost; but with <sup>f</sup>force and <sup>1</sup>crudely you have ruled them. <sup>5g</sup>So they were <sup>h</sup>scattered because there was no shepherd; <sup>i</sup>and they became food for all the beasts of the field when they were scattered. <sup>6</sup>My sheep <sup>j</sup>wandered through all the mountains, and on every high hill; yes, My flock was scattered over the whole face of the earth, and no one was seeking or searching for them.”

God, the True Shepherd

<sup>11</sup>“For thus says the Lord God: “Indeed I Myself will search for My sheep and seek them out. <sup>12</sup>As a <sup>q</sup>shepherd seeks out his flock on the day he is among his scattered sheep, so will I seek out My sheep and deliver them from all the places where they were scattered on <sup>r</sup>a cloudy and dark day. <sup>13</sup>And <sup>s</sup>I will bring them out from the

33:30-33 This section contrasts the actions and attitudes of the exiles with the life of God's prophet ezekeiel. The exiles had claimed to go to the prophet to receive God's revelation, but their behavior was inconsistent with their stated beliefs. Their true desire was for entertainment, not for divine enlightenment. if the fall of Jerusalem failed to awaken them spiritually, nothing would. Yet it certainly would open their eyes to the divine truth of ezekeiel's preaching. in these verses then, God also comforted and consoled ezekeiel. The musical terms may relate to the lyrical nature, and ezekeiel's singing or chanting, of some of these oracles (see 19:1; 21:9-12).

33:31 hear . . . do not do: See James 1:21-25 for another condemnation of those who hear God's word but do not put it into practice.

34:1-6 The shepherds of Israel is a metaphor for israel's political rulers, but it could include spiritual leaders also (even kings were supposed to be spiritual examples). The shepherds were accused of forsaking the key feature of godly leadership: selfless, sacrificial service (see is. 52:13—53:12; Matt. 23:11; Mark 10:45; 1 uke 22:24-30; Acts 20:17-38; r om. 12:1-5; phil. 2:1-11; 1 Tim. 3:1-7; 1 pet. 2:18-25;

5:1-4). The results of self-serving leadership for israel are seen in vv. 5, 6. there was no shepherd: This means that having leaders who seek to be served, rather than to serve, is tantamount to having no leader at all; therefore, the people of israel were like sheep without a shepherd (Matt. 9:36). They were aimless—wandered—and easily attacked—became food. Scattered alluded to israel's deportations and dispersion among the nations.

34:7-10 did not feed My flock: The crimes of israel's leaders come under review before their punishment is pronounced.

34:11-16 compare the lord's persistent shepherding and guiding of his people with the faithlessness of israel's leaders in v. 6 (see also vv. 25-31; Jer. 23:1-6; John 10:1-30). See also ps. 23, where similar ideas pertain to God's shepherding of the individual rather than corporate israel. The cloudy and dark day was the day Jerusalem fell (see 30:1-5; z eph. 1:15). it may also speak of the future day of deliverance when God will seek out his sheep (see 36:16-36). israel, though guilty and misguided, would eventually be rescued by the divine Good Shepherd and restored to the promised l and (see chs. 33-39).

34:17–19 The rams and goats were the leaders of israel who had failed to lead properly. They had used their positions of power to their own advantage and to the disadvantage of the people.

34:23, 24 The change from the pronoun I to he in this verse indicates that God would continue operating as the chief Shepherd through this chosen future ruler from the Davidic line. he is the Messiah—God’s only Son and his servant.

34:25–31 The exiles were encouraged through this promise of a covenant of peace (see 37:26–28; 38:11–13; 39:25–29; is. 54:10), characterized by these promises: (1) security from foreign aggressor nations, the wild beasts; (2) showers of blessing, meaning productivity and prosperity; and (3) the certainty that the LORD is israel’s God and desires reunion with his people and a lasting relationship built on a new covenant (Jer. 31:31–34; heb. 8:6).

Shepherds

Throughout the Bible, the image of the shepherd is very important. From David, the shepherd boy who became the first king of israel, to Jesus christ, who said of himself, “i am the good shepherd” (John 10:11), the shepherd represents one who loves and cares for his flock just as a leader or ruler cares for those under his charge.

Some characteristics of a good shepherd include feeding the flock, tending the weak and sick, searching for the lost, guiding with love, gathering and protecting the sheep, and giving one’s best to them. on the other hand, a bad shepherd is more concerned about feeding himself, worrying about his own health, guiding with a heavy hand, abandoning or scattering his flock, and keeping the best for himself.

it is easy to see in these comparisons why the Scriptures often exhort leaders to be shepherds to their people. A good leader is concerned that the people’s physical needs are being met and that care is provided for the sick and injured. A true leader looks for those who have fallen away. he leads like a shepherd by providing direction and correction, not with a fist but with a loving hand. A good leader protects those under his care and does not leave them to the wolves—to those who lead them astray. And finally, a good leader gives of himself to those under his charge. he cares about them and their well-being. Because Jesus called himself the Good Shepherd, it is clear that he is the one about whom ezekiel prophesied. he is the one who searches after his followers (34:11), saves them (34:12), guides them (34:13), and supplies their needs (34:14; see John 10). Jesus’ self-sacrificing life provides the perfect blueprint for making a good shepherd and leader.

A good shepherd goes out of her way to search and find the weak and sick.

season; there shall be <sup>k</sup>showers of blessing. <sup>27</sup>Then <sup>l</sup>the trees of the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield her increase. They shall be safe in their land; and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I have <sup>m</sup>broken the bands of their yoke and delivered them from the hand of those who <sup>n</sup>enslaved them. <sup>28</sup>And they shall no longer be a prey for the nations, nor shall beasts of the land devour them; but <sup>o</sup>they shall dwell safely, and no one shall make them afraid. <sup>29</sup>I will raise up for them a <sup>p</sup>garden<sup>d</sup> of renown, and they shall <sup>q</sup>no longer be consumed with hunger in the land, <sup>r</sup>nor bear the shame of the Gentiles anymore. <sup>30</sup>Thus they shall know that <sup>s</sup>I, the LORD their God, am with them, and they, the house of Israel, are <sup>t</sup>My people,” says the Lord God.<sup>7</sup>

Blessing on Israel

35:2 Mount Seir is edom (see v. 15; 25:8; Gen. 36:30; 2 chr. 20:10).
35:3, 4 God reveals the nature and the purpose of his judgment on edom (Seir, see v. 2). These verses are poetry and perhaps were used as a song.

35:5 at the time of their calamity: This refers to how edom took advantage of the people of Judah during and after the Babylonian invasion (see o bad. 11–14).

35:6–9 having stated why edom deserved judgment, ezekeil explained how the nation would be punished. The punishment would include widespread death and unrelieved destruction (see is. 34:6–8; 63:1–6; Jer. 49:7–13; o bad. 18).

35:10 A second reason for God’s revenge on edom is given, in addition to that in v. 5—edom expected to take over Judah and israel after their destruction by the Babylonians. These two nations refers to israel and Judah (see 37:15–28).

36:1–7 The land of israel itself was addressed—the mountains—because the nations desired to own it and, in seeking possession, destroyed it physically and defamed it verbally. israel was termed the ancient heights because of the hill country central to its geography. God is glorified and the exiles comforted by the following: (1) exposing the crimes of the enemies of his nation; (2) exonerating his land from false charges (see vv. 13–15); and (3) executing judgment and justice against the foreign nations. Edom: This nation was singled out because of its long history of animosity toward israel (see 35:5). The rest of the nations were the others who in some way had mistreated israel and thus received a sentence of judgment (see chs. 25–32).

rest of the nations, <sup>e</sup>and you are taken up by the lips of <sup>f</sup>talkers and slandered by the people”— <sup>4</sup>therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord God! Thus says the Lord God to the mountains, the hills, the <sup>2</sup>rivers, the valleys, the desolate wastes, and the cities that have been forsaken, which <sup>g</sup>became plunder and <sup>h</sup>mockery to the rest of the nations all around— <sup>5</sup>therefore thus says the Lord God: <sup>i</sup>“Surely I have spoken in My burning jealousy against the rest of the nations and against all Edom, <sup>j</sup>who gave My land to themselves as a possession, with wholehearted joy and <sup>3</sup>spiteful minds, in order to plunder its open country.”

<sup>6</sup>“Therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains, the hills, the rivers, and the valleys, “Thus says the Lord God: “Behold, I have spoken in My jealousy and My fury, because you have <sup>h</sup>borne the shame of the nations.” <sup>7</sup>Therefore thus says the Lord God: “I have <sup>l</sup>raised My hand in an oath that surely the nations that are around you shall <sup>m</sup>bear their own shame. <sup>8</sup>But you, O mountains of Israel, you shall shoot forth your branches and yield your fruit to My people Israel, for they are about to come. <sup>9</sup>For indeed I am for you, and I will turn to you, and you shall be tilled and sown. <sup>10</sup>I will multiply men upon you, all the house of Israel, all of it; and the cities shall be inhabited and <sup>n</sup>the ruins rebuilt. <sup>11</sup><sup>o</sup>I will multiply upon you man and beast; and they shall increase and <sup>4</sup>bear young; I will make you inhabited as in former times, and do <sup>p</sup>better for you than at your beginnings. <sup>q</sup>Then you shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>12</sup>Yes, I will cause men to walk on you, My peo-

The Renewal of Israel

<sup>22</sup>“Therefore say to the house of Israel, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “I do not do this for your sake, O house of Israel, <sup>c</sup>but for My holy name’s sake, which you

36:8 they are about to come: This was spoken to the land, picturing it as eagerly awaiting the quick return of its rightful and most respectful owners. The first return from exile would come under the persian king cyrus, about 50 years later (538 B.C.).

36:10 This restoration would involve all the house of Israel.

36:12 My people Israel: Despite all their sinfulness, which the book has taken enormous pains to detail and describe, the nation was still referred to as the people of God. They would finally and forever take possession of their land, symbolized by the mountains and the central hills of palestine, which are personified as you in this verse.

36:15 The mountains addressed as you would no longer cause the nation to stumble, for God would make the nation secure from foreign armies. God himself would reestablish the nation and place his prince on its throne (see 34:24).

36:17 like the uncleanness of a woman: The uncleanness of the blood of menstruation (not the woman herself) was compared to the past behavior of israel in canaan (see 18:6; 22:10; 1 ev. 12:2–5; 15:19–30).

36:19 God judged them according to their ways. israel had been hypocritical and unholy; they had not separated themselves or made themselves distinct from the pagan world around them (see v. 18). God had given his people the promised land and as a place where they could show the world the difference it makes to follow the true God (see Deut. 7:1–11). They failed to follow God, so he forced them out of the land. Through either their obedience or their disobedience, God would demonstrate to the watching world his personality, power, and plans.

36:20, 21 The most tragic outcome of israel’s sin (see vv. 18, 19) was that the nation profaned God’s holy name. Defeat and dispersion, especially in the ancient world, were negative reflections on the character (or the name, see 20:9) of a nation’s god. God’s reputation as wholly set apart from other so-called gods in power and purpose was compromised by israel’s refusal to trust in his ways, whether in their own land or in exile. To rescue his holy reputation and his rebellious people, God remained faithful to his promises in the Mosaic covenant.

36:22–24 The preview of the return to the land in the Mosaic covenant is related to the promise of perpetual—but not necessarily uninterrupted—possession of the land of canaan in the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 12:1–3; 13:14–18; 15:12–21; hos. 3:4).

the cities, <sup>s</sup> and the ruins shall be rebuilt. <sup>34</sup> The desolate land shall be tilled instead of lying desolate in the sight of all who pass by. <sup>35</sup> So they will say, “This land that was desolate has become like the garden of ‘Eden; and the wasted, desolate, and ruined cities are now fortified and inhabited.’ <sup>36</sup> Then the nations which are left all around you shall know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt the ruined places and planted what was desolate. “I, the LORD, have spoken it, and I will do it.”

The Dry Bones Live

37 The <sup>a</sup> hand of the LORD came upon me and brought me out <sup>b</sup> in the Spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley; and it was full of bones. <sup>2</sup> Then He caused me to pass by them all around, and behold, there were very many in the open valley; and indeed they were very dry. <sup>3</sup> And He said to me, “Son of man, can these bones live?”

So I answered, “O Lord God, <sup>c</sup> You know.”

<sup>4</sup> Again He said to me, “Prophecy to these bones, and say to them, ‘O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD! <sup>5</sup> Thus says the Lord God to these bones: “Surely I will <sup>d</sup> cause breath to enter into you, and you shall live. <sup>6</sup> I will put sinews on you and bring flesh upon you, cover you with

36:25 Sprinkle clean water on you symbolizes cleansing from sin (see v. 17; 11:18; 37:23; Jer. 33:8). This is God’s forgiveness based on a blood atonement (see ex. 12:22; 1 ev. 14:4–7, 51; Num. 19:14–22; ps. 51:7; zech. 13:1; 1 cor. 6:11; heb. 10:22).

36:26, 27 The ritual of purification from sin would be empty and meaningless apart from true repentance and the regenerating and empowering work of the holy Spirit on the inner spirit of individuals. God would not only restore the people physically to the land, but would restore them spiritually, by giving them a new heart and new spirit to help them follow him and do his will. (See 11:19–20; 18:31; 37:14; 39:29; Jer. 31:31–34; Joel 2:28, 29; Acts 2:17, 18; r om. 7:7–8:11; 2 cor. 3:3–18; heb. 8:6–10:39.)

36:28–30 you shall be My people: See vv. 1–15; 34:29. The purpose of the Mosaic covenant would finally be realized (see Deut. 26:16–19; 29:13; 30:8). The israelites would become a people dedicated to God’s ways.

36:31, 32 These verses restate the reasons for the planned restoration and renewal of God’s people. The restoration from the exile would recover God’s glorious reputation among the nations and erase the guilt of the israelite’s sin. This is all a product of God’s favor on the israelites—even though they had done nothing to merit such mercy.

36:35 The garden of Eden is mentioned here to suggest beauty, fertility, and productivity so great that people would be reminded of the “garden eastward in eden” (Gen. 2:8; contrast 28:13).

36:38 Like a flock . . . flocks of men: Animals offered for sacrifice had to be free from any observable impurity or disfigurement. The returned people of God will be living sacrifices (r om. 12:1, 2), pure and unblemished. I am the Lord: This is the constant refrain of ezekeiel; God would make himself known as the one true God in both his judgment and his restoration of his people.

37:1, 2 The wording recalls the past visionary experiences of ezekeiel (see 1:1, 3; 2:2; 3:12, 14; 8:1, 3, 7) although the word vision is not employed in these verses. bones: Not only do the bones speak of death, indeed of many deaths, but for bones to be left in the open was an indignity and indecency according to Jewish custom. To leave bodies unburied until the bones were exposed was unthinkable.

37:3 You know: The prophet placed his faith completely in the living God. ordinarily, one would say “no” to the question God posed. But ezekeiel did not limit God; he knew the Almighty could make bones live.

37:4 Prophecy to these bones: ezekeiel’s prophecies had often been directed to people as deaf as these old, dry bones.

37:5 The word translated breath is translated in other places as wind or Spirit. The breath sent by God into the lifeless bodies symbolizes the holy Spirit (see v. 14), who brings renewal, regeneration, and rebirth (see vv. 6, 9; John 3:5–8; 6:44; 7:37–39; 16:5–15; r om. 8:9–11).

37:6 you shall live: This passage is not about resurrection from skin and put breath in you; and you shall live. <sup>e</sup>Then you shall know that I am the LORD.”<sup>7</sup>”

<sup>7</sup>So I prophesied as I was commanded; and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and suddenly a rattling; and the bones came together, bone to bone. <sup>8</sup>Indeed, as I looked, the sinews and the flesh came upon them, and the skin covered them over; but there was no breath in them.

<sup>9</sup>Also He said to me, “Prophesy to the breath, prophesy, son of man, and say to the <sup>1</sup>breath, ‘Thus says the Lord God: <sup>f</sup>“Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe on these slain, that they may live.”’” <sup>10</sup>So I prophesied as He commanded me, <sup>g</sup>and <sup>2</sup>breath came into them, and they lived, and stood upon their feet, an exceedingly great army.

<sup>11</sup>Then He said to me, “Son of man, these bones are the <sup>h</sup>whole house of Israel. They indeed say, <sup>i</sup>“Our bones are dry, our hope is lost, and we ourselves are cut off!” <sup>12</sup>Therefore prophesy and say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “Behold, <sup>j</sup>O My people, I will open your graves and cause you to come up from your graves, and <sup>k</sup>bring you into the land of Israel. <sup>13</sup>Then you shall know that I am the LORD, when I have opened your

One Kingdom, One King

<sup>15</sup>Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, <sup>16</sup>“As for you, son of man, <sup>m</sup>take a stick for yourself and write on it: ‘For Judah and for <sup>n</sup>the children of Israel, his companions.’ Then take another stick and write on it, ‘For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and <sup>for</sup> all the house of Israel, his companions.’ <sup>17</sup>Then <sup>o</sup>join them one to another for yourself into one stick, and they will become one in your hand.

physical death, but rebirth from spiritual death brought about by divine power. psalm 87 is another text in the Hebrew Scriptures that speaks of spiritual rebirth. The point of Jesus’ words to Nicodemus in John 3:1–16 was that he should have known and understood the concept of a second birth.

37:7, 8 The dramatic noise and then coming together of the bones with new flesh must have been chilling and thrilling to the prophet. This was a prophetic portrayal of the rebirth of Israel (see r om. 9–11). 37:9 The Hebrew word translated breath is the same as the one translated winds. it can also be translated spirit.

37:10 an exceedingly great army: The dead bones in the valley (vv. 1, 2) must have looked like the aftermath of a horrible military defeat in which there were no survivors even to bury the dead. But now the army stood upon their feet.

37:11–14 The bones symbolize the whole house of Israel. This identification picks up on imagery already used: (1) those identified as dry or spiritually dead (see vv. 2–5); (2) those identified as despondent and dejected, with no apparent hope of being “resurrected” as the people of the living God; and (3) those described as disassembled and dispersed before being rejoined and rebuilt (see vv. 6–10). The major thrust of this passage is the coming spiritual rebirth of God’s chosen people through the agency of his Spirit (see vv. 15–28; 36:22–32). The spiritual rebirth would miraculously revive and restore human beings to what God had intended them to be in the beginning. The same body-breath sequence occurs in the creation of Adam (see Gen. 2:7).

37:16 a stick: This is Ezekiel’s final symbolic drama employing an object (see 4:1, 3, 9; 5:1).

The Visions of Ezekiel

Vision	Reference	Significance
God	1:1–28	Ezekiel is called, commissioned, and empowered with an overwhelming vision of divine glory.
Abominations in the temple	8:1–18	Ezekiel is transported to Jerusalem where he sees pagan idols in the temple and Israelites worshiping these false gods. God reveals his anger to Ezekiel over such sinful behavior.
People slain in Jerusalem	9:1–11	Ezekiel witnesses a violent vision in which Israelites of all ages are judged and killed because of their rebelliousness and idolatry.
The temple and the cherubim	10:1–22	Ezekiel watches God’s glory and the mysterious cherubim depart from the temple because of the sinfulness of the people.
25 wicked rulers	11:1–12	Ezekiel is transported to the east Gate where he sees 25 Israelite leaders plotting evil. He condemns them for their evil ways.
Valley of the dry bones	37:1–14	Ezekiel is transported to a valley where he sees dry, bleached bones come together, recover flesh, and come to life. This vision depicts God’s power and promise to restore and revive a dead people.
The temple	40:1–43:10	Ezekiel sees a detailed vision of a new temple and the return of the Lord. This vision encourages the Israelites that God will return to bless his people.

<sup>21</sup>“Then say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “Surely I will take the children of Israel from among the nations, wherever they have gone, and will gather them from every side and bring them into their own land; <sup>22</sup>and I will make them one nation in the land, on the mountains of Israel; and <sup>23</sup>one king shall be king over them all; they shall no longer be two nations, nor shall they ever be divided into two kingdoms again. <sup>23</sup>They shall not defile themselves anymore with their idols, nor with their detestable things, nor with any of their transgressions; but I will deliver them from all their dwelling places in which they have sinned, and will cleanse them. Then they shall be My people, and I will be their God.

37:22 mountains of Israel: This phrase represents the promised land (see 36:1–7, 12). The one king refers to the future ruler, the promised Messiah, also called Shepherd, Servant, and prince (see vv. 24, 25; 7:27; 34:11–31; John 10).

37:23 The Hebrew word translated dwelling places is backsliding in other ancient manuscripts. In Hebrew, the two words differ in the placement of one letter.

37:24, 25 The title David My servant refers to the Messiah and king who would come from David’s line to save Israel (v. 22; see 2 Sam. 7:8–16).

37:26–28 The Lord had made an everlasting covenant with Abraham, the nation of Israel, and David (see 16:60, 61; see Gen. 9:16; 17:7; Num. 25:12, 13; 2 Sam. 7:13, 16; 23:5; Jer. 32:40). My sanctuary in their midst: The sanctuary or holy place of the living God is his dwelling place among his people (see zeph. 3:15–18). My taberna- cle: This term meaning “dwelling place” is a synonym for sanctuary. Both can be used of God’s dwelling in the midst of his people in the wilderness. Here they point to the future dwelling of the living God in the midst of his people forevermore. We may also compare the use Paul makes of these verses in 2 Cor. 6:16.

38:2 Son of man is a title for Ezekiel emphasizing his humanity, even though his message was from God. The term Gog appears in only one other place in the OT (1 Chr. 5:4), but not in reference to the same person (compare r. ev. 20:8). The term could be a name or a title. Magog (or the “land of Gog”; see Gen. 10:2; 1 Chr. 1:5) is usually understood to be an area near the Black Sea or the Caspian Sea. In Gen. 10:2, Magog is one of the sons of Japheth, whose descendants occupied lands from Spain to Asia Minor, the islands of the Mediterranean to southern Russia. Some connect Magog with the Scythians. Rosh: There have been some expositors in recent years who have argued that the word Rosh means “Russia.” However, this is highly unlikely, for usually the Hebrew word means “head” or “chief.” The phrase could be read “the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal.” Concerning Meshech and Tubal we also have no knowledge. Geographically, these last two are thought to be near Magog. All that is known is that Gog, from Magog, was the leader over two or three regions or countries located near the Caspian or Black Seas.

38:4 God is sovereign over the invasion (see vv. 14–17). hooks into your jaws: Here Gog is portrayed as a huge animal, perhaps a crocodile, that will be controlled by hooks. Horses, and horsemen: When the biblical prophets speak of battles in the distant future, they use descriptions of weaponry and tactics known to them (see “sword” in v. 8; “bow arrows” in 39:3).

38:5, 6 Nations will ally with Gog from all directions: from the east—Persia; south—Ethiopia; west—Libya; and north—Gomer. The people of Gomer were the Cimmerians, a people from what is now southern Russia. Togarmah was near the Black Sea (see Gen. 10:3; 1 Chr. 1:6).

Gog

(heb. gog) (38:2; 39:1) Strong’s #1463

Ezekiel prophesied God’s judgment against “Gog, of the land of Magog” (38:2). The land of Magog is named with Meshech and Tubal, regions near Asia Minor (38:2; Gen. 10:2). But more than as a specific person and territory, Ezekiel uses Gog and Magog as a metaphor for vast armies invading Israel from the north in the end times (38:8). They oppose God and seek to destroy his people Israel, but God promises to deliver them (38:14–23). In the Book of Revelation, Gog and Magog become symbolic names for evil nations deceived by Satan and opposed to God and the kingdom of Christ (r. ev. 20:8).

<sup>8</sup>After many days <sup>m</sup>you will be visited. In the latter years you will come into the land of those brought back from the sword <sup>n</sup>and gathered from many people on <sup>o</sup>the mountains of Israel, which had long been desolate; they were brought out of the nations, and now all of them <sup>p</sup> dwell safely. <sup>9</sup>You will ascend, coming <sup>q</sup>like a storm, covering the <sup>r</sup>land like a cloud, you and all your troops and many peoples with you.”

<sup>10</sup>Thus says the Lord God: “On that day it shall come to pass that thoughts will arise in your mind, and you will make an evil plan: <sup>11</sup>You will say, ‘I will go up against a land of <sup>s</sup>unwalled villages; I will <sup>t</sup>go to a peaceful people, <sup>u</sup>who dwell <sup>4</sup>safely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates’— <sup>12</sup>to take plunder and to take booty, to stretch out your hand against the waste places that are again inhabited, <sup>v</sup>and against a people gathered from the nations, who have acquired livestock and goods, who dwell in the midst of the land. <sup>13</sup><sup>w</sup>Sheba, <sup>x</sup>Dedan, the merchants <sup>y</sup>of Tarshish, and all <sup>z</sup>their young lions will say to you, ‘Have you come to take plunder? Have you gathered your army to take booty, to carry away silver and gold, to take away livestock and goods, to take great plunder?’”

<sup>14</sup>“Therefore, son of man, prophecy and say to Gog, ‘Thus says the Lord God: <sup>a</sup>“On that day when My people Israel <sup>b</sup>dwell safely, will you not know it? <sup>15</sup><sup>c</sup>Then you will come from your place out of the far north, you and many peoples with you, all of them riding on horses, a great company and a mighty army. <sup>16</sup>You will come up against My people Israel like a cloud, to cover the land. It will be in the latter days that I will bring you against My land, so that the nations may <sup>d</sup>know Me, when I am <sup>e</sup>hallowed in you, O Gog, before their eyes.” <sup>17</sup>Thus says the Lord God: “Are you he of whom I have spoken in former days by My servants the prophets of Israel, who prophesied for years in those days that I would bring you against them?”

Judgment on Gog

<sup>18</sup>“And it will come to pass at the same time, when Gog comes against the land of Israel,” says the Lord God, “that My fury will show in My face. <sup>19</sup>For <sup>f</sup>in My jealousy <sup>g</sup>and in the fire of My wrath I have spoken: <sup>h</sup>“Surely in that day there shall be a great <sup>5</sup>earthquake in the land of Israel, <sup>20</sup>so that <sup>i</sup>the fish of the sea, the birds of the heavens, the beasts of the field, all creeping things that creep on the earth, and all men who are on the face of the earth shall shake at My presence. <sup>j</sup>The mountains shall be thrown down, the steep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.’ <sup>21</sup>I will <sup>k</sup>call for <sup>l</sup>a sword against Gog throughout all My mountains,” says the Lord God. <sup>m</sup>“Every man’s sword will be against his brother. <sup>22</sup>And I will <sup>n</sup>bring him to judgment with <sup>o</sup>pestilence and bloodshed; <sup>p</sup>I will rain down on him, on his troops, and on the many peoples who are with him, flooding rain, <sup>q</sup>great hailstones, fire, and brimstone. <sup>23</sup>Thus I will magnify Myself and <sup>r</sup>sanctify Myself, <sup>s</sup>and I will be known in the eyes of many nations. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.””

Gog’s Armies Destroyed

39 “And <sup>a</sup>you, son of man, prophecy against Gog, and say, ‘Thus says the Lord God: “Behold, I am against you, O Gog, <sup>1</sup>the prince of Rosh, Meshech, and Tubal; <sup>2</sup>and I will <sup>b</sup>turn you around and lead you on, <sup>c</sup>bringing you up from 38:8 dwell safely: This phrase (see vv. 11, 14) indicates that the Israel of this passage is secure; the nation is not safe from attack, but it is safe from defeat. The time of the invasion is suggested by two temporal phrases—After many days . . . In the latter years—and the overall context. The second phrase appears only here in the o.T. The first phrase usually denotes an indefinite time period, sometimes extending into the distant future or the end times (see Dan. 8:26). See also v. 16, where “the latter days” is used, a phrase that frequently points to messianic times or to the times when Israel is regathered. From ezekiel’s viewpoint, he was predicting a time in the very distant future—the end times. Unless the passage refers to spiritual warfare, the invasion of Israel and the subsequent time of confident and carefree peace are still future events.

38:10–13 Gog’s evil plan will be to attack an unsuspecting, unprepared, and peaceful people in unwalled villages. I will go up demonstrates that Gog will decide to attack Israel even though God foresees, predicts, and controls Gog’s evil actions. o n Sheba, Dedan . . . Tarshish, see 25:13; 27:12, 15, 22. Young lions represent their rulers; however, a few ancient versions translate the Hebrew as “villages.”

38:14–17 o n far north, see v. 2. riding on horses: in early biblical history, horses were not ridden in battle, but were used to pull chariots (v. 4). may know Me, when I am hallowed in you, O Gog: These words show that God is determined to bring glory to his name in this unusual battle and even in this evil person. The question are you he suggests that previous prophets had foretold Gog’s invasion. The prophecies in mind could be general references to a time when enemies of God and his people would be defeated (see v. 21; Deut. 30:7; is. 26:20, 21; Jer. 30:18–24; hag. 2:20–23; zech. 14:12–15).

38:18–23 These verses speak of God defending his nation against Gog and his army with supernatural and earthshaking methods. Unusually strong language concerning the wrath of God is found in these verses. The piling up of intense phrases indicates more than an “ordinary” future battle. fire . . . brimstone: A rare phrase, reserved only for the greatest catastrophes (see Gen. 19:24 when a similar phrase is used for the destruction of Sodom). This judgment would rival the magnitude of the judgment Sodom experienced. Then they shall know: This terrible battle will reveal God’s might to the entire world and his concern for his people (see 39:6).

the far north, and bring you against the mountains of Israel. <sup>3</sup>Then I will knock the bow out of your left hand, and cause the arrows to fall out of your right hand. <sup>4d</sup>You shall <sup>2</sup>fall upon the mountains of Israel, you and all your troops and the peoples who are with you; <sup>e</sup>I will give you to birds of prey of every sort and to the beasts of the field to be devoured. <sup>5</sup>You shall <sup>3</sup>fall on <sup>4</sup>the open field; for I have spoken,” says the Lord God. <sup>6f</sup>“And I will send fire on Magog and on those who live <sup>5</sup>in security in <sup>g</sup>the coastlands. Then they shall know that I am the LORD. <sup>7h</sup>So I will make My holy name known in the midst of My people Israel, and I will not let them <sup>i</sup>profane My holy name anymore. <sup>j</sup>Then the nations shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. <sup>8k</sup>Surely it is coming, and it shall be done,” says the Lord God. “This is the day <sup>l</sup>of which I have spoken.

<sup>9</sup>“Then those who dwell in the cities of Israel will go out and set on fire and burn the weapons, both the shields and bucklers, the bows and arrows, the <sup>g</sup>javelins and spears; and they will make fires with them for seven years. <sup>10</sup>They will not take wood from the field nor cut down any from the forests, because they will make fires with the weapons; <sup>m</sup>and they will plunder those who plundered them, and pillage those who pillaged them,” says the Lord God.

The Burial of Gog

<sup>11</sup>“It will come to pass in that day that I will give Gog a burial place there in Israel, the valley of those who pass by east of the sea; and it will obstruct travelers, because there they will bury Gog and all his multitude. Therefore they will call it the Valley of <sup>7</sup>Hamon Gog. <sup>12</sup>For seven months the house of Israel will be burying them, <sup>n</sup>in order to cleanse the land. <sup>13</sup>Indeed all the people of the land will be burying, and they will gain <sup>o</sup>renown for it on the day that <sup>p</sup>I am glorified,” says the Lord God. <sup>14</sup>“They will set apart men regularly employed, with the help of <sup>8a</sup>a search party, to pass through the land and bury those bodies remaining on the ground, in order <sup>q</sup>to cleanse it. At the end of seven months they will make a search. <sup>15</sup>The search party will pass through the land; and when anyone sees a man’s bone, he shall <sup>9</sup>set up a marker by it, till the buriers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon Gog. <sup>16</sup>The name of the city will also be <sup>1</sup>Hamonah. Thus they shall <sup>r</sup>cleanse the land.”

A Triumphant Festival

<sup>17</sup>“And as for you, son of man, thus says the Lord God, <sup>s</sup>“Speak to every sort of bird and to every beast of the field:

“Assemble yourselves and come; Gather together from all sides to My <sup>u</sup>sacrificial meal

Which I am sacrificing for you, A great sacrificial meal <sup>v</sup>on the mountains of Israel,

That you may eat flesh and drink blood.

Drink the blood of the princes of the earth,

Of rams and lambs,

Of goats and bulls,

All of them <sup>x</sup>fatlings of Bashan.

<sup>19</sup> You shall eat fat till you are full, And drink blood till you are drunk, At My sacrificial meal

Which I am sacrificing for you.

39:3 I will knock . . . out: This pictures God fighting for his people (see 38:21).

39:4, 5 mountains . . . open field: The rout will be total; there will be no place for the enemies of God to flee for safety.

39:6 Fire from the Lord often refers to lightning bolts (see 1 Kin. 18:38). they shall know: There is a significant emphasis in chs. 38; 39 on God’s purpose in demonstrating the central truth that he is the Lord (see vv. 13, 21, 22, 28; 38:16, 23). God’s battle with Gog will demonstrate his sovereignty and majesty in his universe.

39:8 Surely it is coming . . . This is the day: The language throughout this section seems unusually grave, and the outcome is announced with unusual solemnity and certainty.

39:9, 10 The seven years could be, but does not have to be, equated with the “seven months” of vv. 12, 14. If symbolic, the number would suggest the completeness and finality of the war.

39:11 That day is the time after Gog’s defeat. Burial will be necessary for reasons of sanitation as well as consecration (see I ev. 5:2, 3; 21:1; Num. 6:6). East of the sea is unclear, but because the valley will obstruct travelers, a likely candidate is the area of southern Galilee that leads toward the Dead Sea (called the Valley of Jezreel in Josh. 17:16).

39:12 cleanse the land: The Law of Moses prescribed the sacrifice of a heifer to cleanse the land if a murdered person was found in a region (see Deut. 21:1–9).

39:13 gain renown: This verse implies that the burial of Gog would become a memorial day to glorify God. Consider the parallel in 1 Cor. 15:24–28, which speaks of the inauguration of the new heavens and the new earth after all of Christ’s enemies are defeated.

39:14–16 A complete purification is emphasized (see I ev. 11:45). Hamonah means “horde,” indicating a multitude of corpses.

39:17–20 A poem or song is addressed to the scavenging birds and beasts who come to the multitude of dead bodies (vv. 14–16). Whether figurative or not, the passage powerfully pictures God’s sovereign control over the complete conquest of Israel’s future and most ferocious enemies (see r ev. 19:11–21). The meal would be a divinely prepared sacrifice served at God’s table—the land or mountains of Israel. The main course would be the mighty rulers of the earth. The fatlings of Bashan portray the might of these men. The herds of Bashan—rams and lambs, . . . goats and bulls—were the strongest and most important animals of ancient Israel, fed in the rich pasturelands east of Galilee.

20<sup>y</sup> You shall be filled at My table
With horses and riders,
21 With mighty men
And with all the men of war,” says
the Lord God.

Israel Restored to the Land

21<sup>a</sup> “I will set My glory among the nations; all the nations shall see My judgment which I have executed, and <sup>b</sup>My hand which I have laid on them. 22<sup>c</sup> So the house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God from that day forward. 23<sup>d</sup> The Gentiles shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity; because they were unfaithful to Me, therefore <sup>e</sup>I hid My face from them. I <sup>f</sup>gave them into the hand of their enemies, and they all fell by the sword. 24<sup>g</sup> According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions I have dealt with them, and hidden My face from them.”

25 “Therefore thus says the Lord God: <sup>h</sup>“Now I will bring back the captives of Jacob, and have mercy on the <sup>i</sup>whole house of Israel; and I will be jealous for My holy name— 26<sup>j</sup> after they have borne their shame, and all their unfaithfulness in which they were unfaithful to Me, when they <sup>k</sup>dwelt safely in their own land and no one made them afraid. 27<sup>l</sup> When I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them out of their enemies’ lands, and I <sup>m</sup>am hallowed in them in the sight of many nations, 28<sup>n</sup> then they shall know that I am the LORD their God, who sent them into captivity among the nations, but also brought them back to their land, and left none of them <sup>o</sup>captives any longer. 29<sup>o</sup> And I will not hide

A New City, a New Temple

40 In the twenty-fifth year of our captivity, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after <sup>a</sup>the city was <sup>i</sup>captured, on the very same day <sup>b</sup>the hand of the LORD was upon me; and He took me there. 2<sup>c</sup> In the visions of God He took me into the land of Israel and <sup>d</sup>set me on a very high mountain; on it toward the south was something like the structure of a city. 3 He took me there, and behold, there was a man whose appearance was <sup>e</sup>like the appearance of bronze. <sup>f</sup>He had a line of flax <sup>g</sup>and a measuring rod in his hand, and he stood in the gateway.

4 And the man said to me, <sup>h</sup>“Son of man, look with your eyes and hear with your ears, and <sup>o</sup>fix your mind on everything I show you; for you were brought here so that I might show them to you. <sup>i</sup>Declare to the house of Israel everything you see.” 5 Now there was <sup>j</sup>a wall all around the outside of the <sup>3</sup>temple. In the man’s hand was a measuring rod six <sup>4</sup>cubits long, each being a cubit and a handbreadth; and he measured the width of the wall structure, one rod; and the height, one rod.

The Eastern Gateway of the Temple

6 Then he went to the gateway which faced <sup>k</sup>east; and he went up its stairs and measured the threshold of the gateway, which was one rod wide, and the other

39:21, 22 My glory among the nations: The universal knowledge of the living God of Israel will be based finally on the outcome of the battle described in chs. 38; 39. ezeziel followed the great theme of biblical theology begun in Gen. 12:3 that the ultimate purpose of God in his choice of Abraham and Sarah was to make his blessings known to all the families of the earth. God will demonstrate his glory both among the nations and among his chosen people Israel.

39:25 The Hebrew term rendered captives (see Jer. 30:3) can also mean “fortunes” (see Deut. 30:3).

40:1 This date is about 573 B.C., 12 years since the six messages of hope delivered the year following the fall of Jerusalem (33:21–39:29) and 25 years after the deportation of Jehoiachin (see 1:2; 33:21, 22; chs. 33–39).

40:2 ezeziel was taken in a vision to a very high mountain from which he could see a city to the south. The sight seems somewhat vague, something like the structure of a city. Since the temple is there (v. 5), Jerusalem is suggested; but neither the mountain nor the city is named. Such a high mountain north of Jerusalem does not correlate with the geography of Israel, then or now. Mount Hermon, north of Galilee, is possible if the boundaries of the land are understood as extending that far.

1:27, 28) who was equipped with tools for measuring. ezeziel was commissioned to minister the complete revelation to the house of Israel. A cubit was about 18 inches, or the distance from fingertips to elbow. A handbreadth, the width of the hand across the widest part, was approximately three inches. Both a long cubit (a cubit of about 21 inches) and a short cubit (the standard 18 inches) existed. Based on these measurements, the measuring rod was six long cubits in length, about 126 inches or 10.5 feet, the height and width of the wall around the temple.

40:6–16 The thresholds of the eastern gate measure 10.5 feet wide; each gate-chamber or guard room is 10.5 by 10.5 feet, separated by a space 8.75 feet wide. The stairs apparently lead up to the outer threshold, and the rooms (three on each side) line a walkway to the inner threshold leading to a vestibule (or porch) that is 14 feet wide. The gateposts are 3.5 feet square; and the distance across the gateway of the outer threshold is 17.5 feet. The distance from the beginning of the gate through the outer threshold is 22.75 feet: 10.5 feet of this being the threshold. A space in front of each guardroom is 1.75 feet wide (21 inches or one long cubit). The overall dimensions of the east gate, and of the two identical north and south gates, are 43.75 by 87.5 feet. The gateposts are 105 feet high. These gates have some similarity to those excavated in Israel from the time of Solomon.

threshold was one rod wide. <sup>7</sup>Each gate chamber was one rod long and one rod wide; between the gate chambers was a space of five cubits; and the threshold of the gateway by the vestibule of the inside gate was one rod. <sup>8</sup>He also measured the vestibule of the inside gate, one rod. <sup>9</sup>Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, eight cubits; and the gateposts, two cubits. The vestibule of the gate was on the inside. <sup>10</sup>In the eastern gateway were three gate chambers on one side and three on the other; the three were all the same size; also the gateposts were of the same size on this side and that side.

the length of the gate, thirteen cubits. <sup>12</sup>There was a <sup>5</sup>space in front of the gate chambers, one cubit on this side and one cubit on that side; the gate chambers were six cubits on this side and six cubits on that side. <sup>13</sup>Then he measured the gateway from the roof of one gate chamber to the roof of the other; the width was twenty-five cubits, as door faces door. <sup>14</sup>He measured the gateposts, sixty cubits high, and the court all around the gateway extended to the gatepost. <sup>15</sup>From the front of the entrance gate to the front of the vestibule of the inner gate was fifty cubits. <sup>16</sup>There were <sup>1</sup>beveled window frames in the gate chambers and in their intervening archways on the inside of ezekiel uses a long or "royal" cubit, about 21 inches or 53 centimeters ("cubit and a handbreadth," ezek. 40:5) as opposed to the standard hebrew cubit of about 18 inches or 46 centimeters.

Ezekiel's Temple

Scripture describes a floor plan but provides few height dimensions. This artwork shows an upward projection of the temple over the floor plan. This temple existed only in a vision of ezeziel (ezek. 40:2) and was never actually built as were the temples of Solomon, zerubbabel, and herod, but some premillennial interpreters believe that it will be built in the future.

the gateway all around, and likewise in the vestibules. There were windows all around on the inside. And on each gatepost were <sup>m</sup> palm trees.

The Outer Court

<sup>17</sup>Then he brought me into <sup>n</sup>the outer court; and there were <sup>o</sup>chambers and a pavement made all around the court; <sup>p</sup>thirty chambers faced the pavement. <sup>18</sup>The pavement was by the side of the gateways, corresponding to the length of the gateways; this was the lower pavement. <sup>19</sup>Then he measured the width from the front of the lower gateway to the front of the inner court exterior, one hundred cubits toward the east and the north.

The Northern Gateway

<sup>20</sup>On the outer court was also a gateway facing north, and he measured its length and its width. <sup>21</sup>Its gate chambers, three on this side and three on that side, its gateposts and its archways, had the same measurements as the first gate; its length was fifty cubits and its width twenty-five cubits. <sup>22</sup>Its windows and those of its archways, and also its palm trees, had the same measurements as the gateway facing east; it was ascended by seven steps, and its archway was in front of it. <sup>23</sup>A gate of the inner court was opposite the northern gateway, just as the eastern gateway; and he measured from gateway to gateway, one hundred cubits.

The Southern Gateway

<sup>24</sup>After that he brought me toward the south, and there a gateway was facing south; and he measured its gateposts and archways according to these same measurements. <sup>25</sup>There were windows in it and in its archways all around like those windows; its length was fifty cubits and its width twenty-five cubits. <sup>26</sup>Seven steps led up to it, and its archway was in front of them; and it had palm trees on its gateposts, one on this side and one on that side. <sup>27</sup>There was also a gateway on the inner court, facing south; and he measured from gateway to gateway toward the south, one hundred cubits.

Gateways of the Inner Court

<sup>28</sup>Then he brought me to the inner court through the southern gateway; he measured the southern gateway according to these same measurements. <sup>29</sup>Also its gate chambers, its gateposts, and its archways were according to these same measurements; there were windows in it and in its archways all around; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. <sup>30</sup>There were archways all around, <sup>q</sup>twenty-five cubits long and five cubits wide. <sup>31</sup>Its archways faced the outer court, palm trees were on its gateposts, and going up to it were eight steps.

<sup>32</sup>And he brought me into the inner court facing east; he measured the gateway according to these same measurements. <sup>33</sup>Also its gate chambers, its gateposts, and its archways were according to these same measurements; and there were windows in it and in its archways all around; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. <sup>34</sup>Its archways faced the outer court, and palm trees were on its gateposts on this side and on that side; and going up to it were eight steps.

<sup>35</sup>Then he brought me to the north gateway and measured it according to these same measurements— <sup>36</sup>also its gate chambers, its gateposts, and its archways. It had windows all around; its length was fifty cubits and its width twenty-five cubits. <sup>37</sup>Its gateposts faced the outer court, palm trees were on its gateposts on this side and on that side, and going up to it were eight steps.

Where Sacrifices Were Prepared

<sup>38</sup>There was a chamber and its entrance by the gateposts of the gateway, where they <sup>r</sup>washed the burnt offering. <sup>39</sup>In the vestibule of the gateway were two tables on this side and two tables on that side, on which to slay the burnt offering, <sup>s</sup>the sin offering, and <sup>t</sup>the trespass offering. <sup>40</sup>At the outer side of the vestibule, as one goes up to the entrance of the northern gateway, were two tables; and on the other side of the vestibule of the gateway were two tables. <sup>41</sup>Four tables were on this side and four tables on that side, by the

40:17–19 The lower pavement is equal in length to the gateway: 87.5 feet; and the distance between the outer gateway and the corresponding inner gateway (across the pavement) is 175 feet. chambers: rooms, probably for storage or priests' quarters, line the inside of the northern, southern, and eastern walls. 40:28–37 The archways are 43.75 feet long by 8.75 feet wide (see vv. 8, 9, 14; apparently the porches of the gate systems in the inner court have different dimensions, although these gates are said to be like the others). Also in contrast to the outer gates, these have their porches (vestibules) on the outward side (entrance), where seven steps go up (see vv. 22, 26).

40:38–43 ezekeil observes a room near the entrance of the northern gate of the inner court where animals are slaughtered and washed for sacrificial offerings. These sacrifices point to the ultimate sacrifice: the sacrifice of God's only Son on the cross once for all. christ's sacrifice of his own life paid for our sins and provides salvation to all those who believe on him (see heb. 7:20–28; 9:23–28).

side of the gateway, eight tables on which they slaughtered the sacrifices. <sup>42</sup> There were also four tables of hewn stone for the burnt offering, one cubit and a half long, one cubit and a half wide, and one cubit high; on these they laid the instruments with which they slaughtered the burnt offering and the sacrifice. <sup>43</sup> Inside were hooks, a handbreadth wide, fastened all around; and the flesh of the sacrifices was on the tables.

Chambers for Singers and Priests

Dimensions of the Inner Court and Vestibule

<sup>47</sup> And he measured the court, one hundred cubits long and one hundred cubits wide, foursquare. The altar was in front of the temple. <sup>48</sup> Then he brought me to the <sup>y</sup>vestibule of the temple and measured the doorposts of the vestibule, five cubits on this side and five cubits on that side; and the width of the gateway was three cubits on this side and three cubits on that side. <sup>49</sup> <sup>z</sup>The length of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and the width eleven cubits; and by the steps which led up to it there were <sup>a</sup>pillars by the doorposts, one on this side and another on that side.

Dimensions of the Sanctuary

doorposts, six cubits wide on one side and six cubits wide on the other side—the width of the tabernacle. <sup>2</sup> The width of the entryway was ten cubits, and the side walls of the entrance were five cubits on this side and five cubits on the other side; and he measured its length, forty cubits, and its width, twenty cubits.

<sup>3</sup> Also he went inside and measured the doorposts, two cubits; and the entrance, six cubits high; and the width of the entrance, seven cubits. <sup>4</sup> He measured the length, twenty cubits; and the width, twenty cubits, beyond the sanctuary; and he said to me, “This is the Most Holy Place.”

The Side Chambers on the Wall

40:44-46 o n the inner side (facing the inner court) of the northern and southern inner gateways are rooms for priests whose principal work is singing (see 1 chr. 16:4-6; 2 chr. 29:25-30). Those housed at the northern gate serve at the sacrificial altar. These sons of Zadok would be the only Levites permitted to serve God directly (see 44:15-31). The priests of the southern (inner) gate minister in the temple.

40:47-49 The inner courtyard is 175 feet square. o n altar and temple see chs. 41-43. The width of the entrance—vestibule—to the temple sanctuary can be determined: 20 cubits (35 feet) with a three-cubit (5.25 feet) extension of the five-cubit (8.75 feet) doorposts on each side, leaving an entrance with a width of 14 cubits (24.5 feet).

are described. o verall, the outer room is 70 feet long by 35 feet wide and has an entrance 17.5 feet wide. The inner sanctuary is 35 feet square with an entrance 10.5 feet wide. Doorposts for the outer room are 10.5 feet square and for the inner sanctuary 3.5 feet square. Walls on each side of each entrance protrude from the side walls 8.75 and 12.25 feet. The height of the entrance to the inner room is 10.5 feet.

41:5-11 Next the dimensions are given for the wall surrounding the temple. its width is 10.5 feet. r unning along the inside of the western, northern, and southern walls (but not attached) are three levels of ten rooms (90 total; perhaps these are storerooms), each 7 feet square with an outer wall 8.75 feet thick. They sit on a foundation 10.5 feet high. A space of 35 feet is apparently between these rooms and the priests' chambers north and south of the temple (see 42:1-14). A terrace that is 8.75 feet wide is on all three sides.

The Building at the Western End

<sup>12</sup>The building that faced the separating courtyard at its western end was seventy cubits wide; the wall of the building was five cubits thick all around, and its length ninety cubits.

Dimensions and Design of the Temple Area

<sup>13</sup>So he measured the temple, one <sup>g</sup>hundred cubits long; and the separating courtyard with the building and its walls was one hundred cubits long; <sup>14</sup>also the width of the eastern face of the temple, including the separating courtyard, was one hundred cubits. <sup>15</sup>He measured the length of the building behind it, facing the separating courtyard, with its <sup>h</sup>galleries on the one side and on the other side, one hundred cubits, as well as the inner <sup>5</sup>temple and the porches of the court, <sup>16</sup>their doorposts and <sup>i</sup>the beveled window frames. And the galleries all around their three stories opposite the threshold were paneled with <sup>j</sup>wood from the ground to the windows—the windows

Its corners, its length, and its sides were of wood; and he said to me, “This is <sup>p</sup>the table that is <sup>q</sup>before the LORD.”

41:12 Behind the temple, between its western end and the western wall of the outer court is a building 122.5 feet wide and 157.5 feet long with walls 8.75 feet thick. its purpose is not given.

41:13–26 Like the temple, the western building is 175 feet in total length (its inside length plus the width of the walls on each side plus 8.75 multiplied by 2; see v. 12). The full width of the eastern side of the temple proper is the same, as is that of the inner courtyard and the courtyard separating the temple and the western building. Various decorations are described in vv. 16–20. Some likely have symbolic meanings (see 28:13, 14 regarding cherubs), but no explanations are given here. A wooden altar (v. 22), the only piece of furniture mentioned in this passage, is 5.25 feet high and 2 feet square (see the dimensions of the stone tables of 40:42 and the altar of sacrifice in 43:13–17). The purpose and position of this altar is not known; but it is called the table that is before the LORD, to which some compare the altar of incense in the tabernacle (see ex. 37:25–28).

Measuring the Future

ezekeil could be called one of the most visionary prophets. God showed him spiritual insights that still stir the imagination 25 centuries later. Like other prophets, ezekeil's ministry among his people had two distinct phases: condemnation and consolation.

The first 32 chapters of ezekeil catalog the sure and future judgment of God on his own people and seven other nations. incredibly, although Jerusalem had been defeated and many of her people had been deported, the exiles clung to the vain hope that God would never let his city and temple be destroyed. They missed the point that God's ultimate commitment was to people—not places or buildings. in order to purify and preserve the people, God allowed the devastation of the promised land and the temple itself. Yet God also held responsible those nations that used their temporary domination of israel as an opportunity to mock the living God. ezekeil's early messages focused on the coming of God's judgment and the urgent need for repentance.

The last part of ezekeil represents a sudden change of tone. With the fall of Jerusalem, God's terrible judgment had finally come. The weary and disillusioned exiles had lost all hope. But God filled ezekeil with a new message. Although all immediate evidence pointed to hopelessness and despair, God invited him to return to him and to place their confidence in him. Whatever their temporary setbacks and suffering, God was still in control. his purposes would win out, and his plans were specific. in fact, his plans were so definite they could be measured. ezekeil received a vision of the dimensions of a new temple (recorded in 40:1—48:35) to demonstrate that fact.

Many efforts have been made to understand the details of ezekeil's vision in such a way that the prophecy might be described as fulfilled. however, attempts to do this have failed. Those who eventually returned from exile did not use ezekeil's plans to rebuild Jerusalem. it is also difficult to interpret this prophecy as a symbolic description of the church in our age. The most confident statement we can make about the vision and its accompanying instructions is that it is a prophecy yet to be fulfilled. At the same time, we can apply these chapters to the present as examples of God's planning, precision, and sovereignty. he maintains control of the events of history. When events seem chaotic, God reminds us to rest in his ability to bring order. ezekeil's vision of a new temple when the temple in Jerusalem had just been destroyed reassured the exiles: God would create beauty out of ashes. The people in ezekeil's day needed that vision of hope, and we still need it today.

one door and two panels for the other door.<sup>25</sup> Cherubim and palm trees were carved on the doors of the temple just as they were carved on the walls. A wooden canopy was on the front of the vestibule outside.<sup>26</sup> There were<sup>1</sup> beveled window frames and palm trees on one side and on the other, on the sides of the vestibule—also on the side chambers of the temple and on the canopies.

The Chambers for the Priests

42 Then he<sup>a</sup> brought me out into the outer court, by the way toward the<sup>b</sup> north; and he brought me into<sup>c</sup> the chamber which was opposite the separating courtyard, and which was opposite the building toward the north.<sup>2</sup> Facing the length, which was one hundred cubits (the width was fifty cubits), was the north door.<sup>3</sup> Opposite the inner court of twenty cubits, and opposite the<sup>d</sup> pavement of the outer court, was<sup>e</sup> gallery against gallery in three stories.<sup>4</sup> In front of the chambers, toward the inside, was a walk ten cubits wide, at a distance of one cubit; and their doors faced north.<sup>5</sup> Now the upper chambers were shorter, because the galleries took away space from them more than from the lower and middle stories of the building.<sup>6</sup> For they were in three stories and did not have pillars like the pillars of the courts; therefore the upper level was<sup>1</sup> shortened more than the lower and middle levels from the ground up.<sup>7</sup> And a wall which was outside ran parallel to the chambers, at the front of the chambers, toward the outer court; its length was fifty cubits.<sup>8</sup> The length of the chambers toward the outer court was fifty cubits, whereas that facing the temple was one<sup>f</sup> hundred cubits.<sup>9</sup> At the lower chambers was the entrance on the east side, as one goes into them from the outer court.

<sup>10</sup> Also there were chambers in the thickness of the wall of the court toward the east, opposite the separating courtyard and opposite the building.<sup>11g</sup> There was a walk in front of them also, and their appearance was like the chambers which were toward the north; they were as long and as wide as the others, and all their exits and entrances were according to plan.<sup>12</sup> And corresponding to the doors of the chambers that were facing south, as one enters them, there was a door in front of the walk, the way directly in front of the wall toward the east.

<sup>13</sup> Then he said to me, “The north chambers and the south chambers, which are opposite the separating courtyard, are the holy chambers where the priests who approach the LORD<sup>h</sup> shall eat the most holy offerings. There they shall lay the most holy offerings—<sup>i</sup> the grain offering, the sin offering, and the trespass offering—for the place is holy.<sup>14j</sup> When the priests enter them, they shall not go out of the holy chamber into the outer court; but there they shall leave their garments in which they minister, for they are holy. They shall put on other garments; then they may approach that which is for the people.”

Outer Dimensions of the Temple

The Temple, the LORD's Dwelling Place

43 Afterward he brought me to the gate, the gate<sup>a</sup> that faces toward the east.<sup>2b</sup> And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east. <sup>c</sup>His voice was like the sound of

42:1–14 To the north and south of the courtyard separating the temple and the western building (see 41:12–14) is a building for the priests 175 feet long and 87.5 feet wide, with three stories (see vv. 5, 6) and a door along the length facing the outer courtyard. The entrance has a walk 17.5 by 1.75 feet. Mainly the northern building is described, but apparently the southern building is the same or very similar, parallel to the eastern wall (the width) and its door is a wall 87.5 feet long (vv. 7–9). These are places for certain priests (see “sons of zadok” in 40:46) to eat and change clothes, indicating that the rooms also provide storage facilities for the holy food offerings and priestly garments.

42:15–20 measured it all around: ezeqiel was taken through the eastern gates outside the entire temple and courtyard structure and shown the size of the land area prescribed for the temple complex. Whether rods in v. 16 is correct or whether “cubits” is meant is debated by many scholars. Five-hundred rods square is 5,250 feet per side, nearly a mile, which to some seems too large. The cubit is the most frequent measure used to this point, but the rod has been introduced as the standard for measuring the temple (in 40:5 the rod is equated with six cubits). it makes sense that the larger unit should be employed for the greatest dimensions. The large bordering area around the temple complex might be there in order to set it apart and to stress the temple's holiness (43:12).

43:2 came from . . . the east: in 11:23, God's glory had left the temple and gone east over the Mount of Olives as his presence left many waters; <sup>d</sup> and the earth shone with His glory. <sup>3</sup> It was <sup>e</sup> like the appearance of the vision which I saw—like the vision which I saw when <sup>1</sup> I came <sup>f</sup> to destroy the city. The visions were like the vision which I saw <sup>g</sup> by the River Chebar; and I fell on my face. <sup>4</sup> <sup>h</sup> And the glory of the LORD came into the <sup>2</sup> temple by way of the gate which faces toward the east. <sup>5</sup> <sup>i</sup> The Spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner court; and behold, <sup>j</sup> the glory of the LORD filled the <sup>3</sup> temple.

<sup>10</sup> “Son of man, <sup>r</sup> describe the <sup>5</sup> temple to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities; and let them measure the pattern. <sup>11</sup> And if they are ashamed of all that they have done, make

Dimensions of the Altar

Consecrating the Altar

<sup>18</sup> And He said to me, “Son of man, thus says the Lord God: ‘These are the

the city, here his presence is pictured as returning to the city from the east. See 1:24; 10:4 (compare r ev. 1:15; 14:2; 19:6; 21:11, 23).

43:3 I came is “he came” in a few hebrew manuscripts, referring to God’s judgment on Jerusalem.

43:7 This temple is God’s residence from which he will rule and reign over the children of Israel forever (see 37:26–28). The second half of this verse appears to predict an absolute end of the idolatrous and immoral practices of the house of Israel, which had taken place around the temple (see 2 kin. 23:1–20). their harlotry: This is either an allusion to their spiritual adultery in general or, more specifically and literally, to their participation in the religious prostitution of Baal worship (see 16:15). carcasses: This is taken by some as a metaphor (“lifeless idols,” see 1 ev. 26:30) because of the context, but it could refer to memorial graves of kings buried near the temple mount (see 2 kin. 23:30), perhaps near the royal houses just outside the southern wall (see v. 8; 1 kin. 7:1–12). high places: This phrase came to refer to any place of idolatrous worship, whether on a hilltop or not.

43:10–12 God explains to ezekeil the purpose of revealing the detailed description of the future temple (see 8, 9; 42:15–20; 1 ev. 20:7; ps. 11:4; is. 6:3).

3.5 feet beyond the middle one, 28 feet square (see vv. 14, 16, 17 where—assuming the symmetry of the altar—the middle section extends two cubits beyond the top). The height of the altar is therefore about 11 cubits or 19.25 feet. Assuming an 18 cubit square (see hearth and middle section in vv. 16–17) and one-cubit-high base, the foundation is 31.5 feet square. Steps, previously forbidden for an altar (ex. 20:26), are necessary for this altar because of the great size of the structure. The huge altar is positioned in the center of the inner court in front of the temple entrance.

43:18, 19 These ordinances relate to the cleansing and consecration of the altar. See ex. 29:36–37; 1 ev. 8:14–17 regarding the tabernacle altar and 2 chr. 7:9 for the temple altar.

glory

(heb. kabod) (43:2; ex. 24:16; 1 kin. 8:11) Strong’s #3519

This word is derived from a hebrew verb which is used to describe the weight or worthiness of something. it can refer to something negative: For example, in reference to Sodom, it depicts the severe degree of sin that had reached the point of making that city worthy of complete destruction (Gen. 18:20). But usually the word is used to depict greatness and splendor (Gen. 31:1). The noun form is translated honor in some instances (1 kin. 3:13). God’s glory is described in the oT as taking the form of a cloud (ex. 24:15–18) and filling the temple (1 kin. 8:11). The appropriate response to God’s glory is to reverence him by bowing before him, as ezekeil did (3:23; 43:3).

Those Admitted to the Temple

Laws Governing Priests

43:20–23 Atonement and sin offering suggest purification and cleansing from sin. Because of the sinlessness—without blemish—of the sacrifice, the people for whom the sacrifice is made are declared acceptable before God (v. 27; ex. 29:14, 16, 36, 37; 1 ev. 3:4; 12, 21; 5:9; 8:14–17; heb. 13:10–13).

44:1–3 The outer gate of the sanctuary is the eastern gate of the outer court (see 40:6–16; 43:1) which must remain shut. The eastern gate known today as the "Golden Gate" dates from several centuries after christ. it is walled shut today in accordance with an islamic tradition. the prince: The identity of this prince is unknown. The hebrew term does not always mean a king or a member of royalty (see Gen. 23:6). it is not the Messiah, since 45:22 indicates that this leader must make a sin offering for himself. he may be one of the zadokite priests (see vv. 15, 16).

44:4–9 ezekiel experiences another awe-inspiring vision of God's glory leading him to bow in worship (see 1:28–2:1). God demands that his renewed people follow his regulations exactly. he emphasizes the necessity of holiness and righteousness, especially in light of israel's past abominations related to rules regulating who was to enter the temple sanctuary. Specifically, they had allowed foreigners without evidence of faithfulness to God to serve in the sanctuary (see Josh. 9:23–27; ezra 8:20): these people were uncircumcised in heart and uncircumcised in flesh. This was in disobedience to God's commands (see ex. 19:8; 1 ev. 26:41; Num. 3:10; Deut. 10:16; 30:6; Neh. 13:8; Jer. 4:4; 9:25), but was in conformity with the practices of foreign pagan religions, which God's people had been forbidden to imitate (see ex. 34:12; Deut. 18:9; compare r om. 12:1, 2).

44:10 See 1 ev. 21; 22 for a description of the duties of the Levites. Unfortunately, during the history of israel, Levites had not obeyed the commands Moses had given them and had even encouraged idolatry (compare ch. 8; 14:1–11; Deut. 33:8–11; Judg. 17–19).

44:11–14 God explains to ezekiel why the Levites would be limited to certain types of temple ministry. The Levites (with the exception of the sons of zadok, see v. 15) could not be priests but could be ministers (servants or attendants). They could not serve in the inner court or temple, where the holy things are located; but they could oversee the general operation of the temple complex.

house; <sup>t</sup>they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and <sup>u</sup>they shall stand before them to minister to them. <sup>12</sup>Because they ministered to them before their idols and <sup>v</sup>caused <sup>3</sup>the house of Israel to fall into iniquity, therefore I have <sup>w</sup>raised My hand in an oath against them,” says the Lord God, “that they shall bear their iniquity. <sup>13</sup><sup>x</sup>And they shall not come near Me to minister to Me as priest, nor come near any of My holy things, nor into the Most Holy Place; but they shall <sup>y</sup>bear their shame and their abominations which they have committed. <sup>14</sup>Nevertheless I will make them <sup>z</sup>keep charge of the temple, for all its work, and for all that has to be done in it.

44:15, 16 The Levites, the sons of Zadok were descendants of the priest zadok in the Levitical line who remained faithful when others did not (see 1 Sam. 2:27–36; 2 Sam. 8:17; 15:24–29; 1 kin. 2:26–35; 1 chr. 6:7, 8, 50–53). While salvation is never earned (rom. 3:4; Gal. 2:3; eph. 2:8, 9), God does reward faithfulness and righteousness. here he rewarded h is faithful priests and l evites with the opportunity to minister before him. r esponsibility and recognition have to be deserved, but never demanded (see 1 Sam. 26:23; Matt. 5:12; 25:21–23; r ev. 2:10). Again there is an emphasis on holiness and righteousness. The zadokites were honored for their special obedience. The table is not identified, but could be similar to the wooden altar of 41:22.

44:17–19 These verses speak of holiness as linen garments (see 42:14; ex. 28:42; 29:37; 30:29; 1 ev. 6:11, 27; 16:4; 21:10; hag. 2:12). common things were to be kept distinct from what was consecrated.

44:20–22 These verses speak of holiness in conduct. These regulations continued practices already prescribed in the l aw of Moses (1 ev. 10:6, 9; 21:1–6, 7, 10, 14). Their aim was to help the priests avoid conformity to the immoral and idolatrous religious rituals and conduct among the pagan nations. The priests, then and in the future, have the responsibility of modeling and maintaining the highest standards of morality, self-control, self-denial, discipline, and obedience to God’s will. in israelite culture, shaving the head indicated mourning (see 7:16–19), and growing long hair could mean the taking of a special vow (sometimes connected with complete or controlled abstinence from wine; see Num. 6:3, 4). The point is the priests’ clear separation from the rest of society.

tinguish between what is godly and ungodly. They also served as judges in disputes and debates (see 22:26; 1 ev. 10:10, 11; 11:47; Deut. 17:9; 19:7; 21:5; 33:10).

44:25–27 This section deals with holiness regarding death among the people (1 ev. 21:1–3; Num. 19:11–19; hag. 2:13). contact with a dead body was forbidden; however, a partial exception was made for immediate family members. The act still defiled the person, causing ceremonial uncleanness for a certain time. God’s concern over purity in practice and procedures is seen in that the priest was to submit to a cleansing ritual and then personally present a sin offering. he was to publicly declare and deal with his own uncleanness, although what he had done was not forbidden. The circumstances that allowed touching a dead body did not overturn its consequences according to the l aw. God was preserving the sanctity of his temple and statutes.

44:28–31 These verses explain holiness in the priests’ provisions (see 1 ev. 17:5; 22:8; Num. 18:10–13, 20, 23, 24; Deut. 10:9; 14:21; Mal. 3:8–12). I am their possession: God was to be the priests’ possession in all respects; they were not to inherit land or cities. The dedicated thing (see 1 ev. 27:21, 28; Num. 18:14; Judg. 11:29–40) was something wholly and irrevocably devoted to God as a sacrificial gift. The giver would be blessed in giving (see also Acts 20:35). God’s laws are governed by his love and goodness, and they are given as guides to holy and healthy living (see John 10:10). God is truthful and trustworthy; his codes of conduct are blessings, not burdens (see Matt. 11:28–30). They can be followed with confidence because of his revealed character, even though all the specific reasons for his rules are not spelled out.

The Holy District

It shall be holy throughout its territory all around. <sup>2</sup>Of this there shall be a square plot for the sanctuary, <sup>c</sup>five hundred by five hundred rods, with fifty cubits around it for an open space. <sup>3</sup>So this is the district you shall measure: twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide; <sup>d</sup>in it shall be the sanctuary, the Most Holy Place. <sup>4</sup>It shall be <sup>e</sup>a holy section of the land, belonging to the priests, the ministers of the sanctuary, who come near to minister to the LORD; it shall be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. <sup>5f</sup>An area twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide shall belong to the Levites, the ministers of the <sup>1</sup>temple; they shall have <sup>g</sup>twenty<sup>2</sup> chambers as a possession.

Laws Governing the Prince

45:1-5 A distinct—set apart, holy—section was to be allocated for God. This area would be divided into two equal sections. One would be the portion for the zadokites—priests, the ministers of the sanctuary, in the center of this part of the holy district is the holy square-mile environs for the temple—the sanctuary, the Most Holy Place. The other half of the holy district would be the portion given to the Levites. All this is holy; God owns it. The twenty chambers is read “towns to live in” in the Septuagint.

45:6 The city is not named, but Jerusalem is most likely, its allotted property is 25,000 by 5,000 cubits. This area is located adjacent to and south of (according to 48:18) the zadokite district—the holy section. See 48:15-19, 30-35.

45:7, 8 The identity of the prince is unknown (see 44:3). But his allotted area is on both sides (east and west) of the holy district. He will own this land bordering a tribal territory to the north and south, where the west and east border suggest respectively the Mediterranean Sea and the Dead Sea or Jordan river. The prince and God's princes of messianic period—in contrast to previous leaders of Israel (see 11:1-13; 14:1-11, 20-22; 34:1-10)—will not be greedy for riches and real estate but will give the land that remains to the people (see 48:1-29; contrast the descriptions of the evil behavior of the rulers of Israel in 1 Sam. 8:10-18; 1 Kin. 20:21; Is. 3:13-23; Mic. 3:1-4; 7:3; zeph. 3:3).

45:10, 11 The merchants were exhorted to use accurate measures of the ephah (estimated to be around a bushel) and the bath (from six to nine gallons), both defined as one-tenth of a homer (five to ten bushels or 60 to 90 gallons). Merchants must not cheat anymore when weighing produce (see 1 ev. 19:35, 36; Amos 8:5; Mic. 6:10-12). God called for an end to dishonesty and deceit; a time is coming when all such scheming will end (vv. 16, 17; see 37:15-28).

45:12 Ezekiel also demanded fair weights. The shekel weighed about 11.5 grams or four-tenths of an ounce. In Babylon, 24 gerahs made one shekel while Ezekiel sets the standard at 20; but 60 shekels made one mina, which conforms to the standard prescribed in this verse. In Ezekiel's system this mina is thought to weigh about 1.5 pounds.

45:13-17 These verses describe an offering to be given to the prince (v. 7) who, unlike previous rulers, will be just and truthful (see v. 8). The prince, in turn, will make offerings to God in order to make atonement for the house of Israel (v. 17), symbolizing cleansing from sin (see 40:38-43), instructions regarding the temple sacrifices can be found in ex. 25:2-7; 30:13-15; 35:4-29; 36:2-7; be for grain offerings, burnt offerings, and peace offerings, <sup>o</sup> to make atonement for them,” says the Lord God. <sup>16</sup>“All the people of the land shall give this offering for the prince in Israel. <sup>17</sup>Then it shall be the <sup>p</sup>prince’s part to give burnt offerings, grain offerings, and drink offerings, at the feasts, the New Moons, the Sabbaths, and at all the appointed seasons of the house of Israel. He shall prepare the sin offering, the grain offering, the burnt offering, and the peace offerings to make atonement for the house of Israel.”

Keeping the Feasts

<sup>25</sup>“In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month, at the <sup>y</sup>feast, he shall do likewise for seven days, according to the sin offering, the burnt offering, the grain offering, and the oil.”

The Manner of Worship

46 “Thus says the Lord God: “The gateway of the inner court that faces toward the east shall be shut the six <sup>a</sup>working days; but on the Sabbath it shall be opened, and on the day of the New Moon it shall be opened. <sup>2</sup><sup>b</sup>The prince shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gateway from the outside, and stand by the gatepost. The priests shall prepare his burnt offering and his peace offerings. He shall worship at the threshold of the gate. Then he shall go out, but the gate shall not be shut until evening. <sup>3</sup>Like-wise the people of the land shall worship at the entrance to this gateway before the LORD on the Sabbaths and the New Moons. <sup>4</sup>The burnt offering that <sup>c</sup>the prince offers to the LORD on the <sup>d</sup>Sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish; <sup>5</sup><sup>e</sup>and the grain offering shall be one ephah for a ram, and the grain offering for the lambs, <sup>1</sup>as much as he wants to give, as well as a hin of oil with every ephah. <sup>6</sup>On the day of the New Moon it shall be a young bull without blemish, six lambs, and a ram; they shall be without blemish. <sup>7</sup>He shall prepare a grain offering of an ephah for a bull, an ephah for a ram, <sup>2</sup>as much as he wants to give for the lambs, and a hin of oil with every ephah. <sup>8</sup>When the prince enters, he shall go in by way of the vestibule of the gateway, and go out the same way.

l ev. 1:4; 9:7; 10:17. The law of Moses also included extended instructions on feasts (see l ev. 23:1–44; Num. 28; 29).

45:18–20 This is an annual day of purifying the temple sanctuary, in the light of Jesus’ death on the cross, the actions of the prince symbolize and emphasize that God has made atonement for all through the sacrifice of the Messiah (see vv. 15–17; 18–22). The forgiveness of individual sins is illustrated through daily sin offerings (vv. 23–25). The pronoun you in you shall take and you shall do is singular, while the pronoun in you shall make atonement is plural. The prince represents the people in these actions of worship (see l ev. 16:15–17, 33, 34; 22:19–21; 2 chr. 7:1–7; 29:20–24.) The way the day is specified suggests an act to be performed annually.

45:21–25 in this passage the feasts of Passover and Tabernacles are observed (see ex. 12:1–14; l ev. 23:5–8, 33–43; Num. 28:16–25; 29:12–38). The dates are in relation to the l evitical calendar, the Jewish religious year. The procedures as well as are very similar to those of the Mosaic system. These feasts commemorate God’s faithfulness to his promises.

46:1–8 The prince shall enter: What the rituals signified under the law was fulfilled by the Messiah. At the time of this prince, certain promises were being fulfilled and the covenants consummated in the messianic age (see 40:6–16, 28–37; 43:18–27; 44:1, 2; ex. 20:8–11). hin: This was a liquid measure about one-sixth of a bath, approximately one gallon (see 4:11; ex. 30:24; l ev. 19:36).

46:9 the people of the land: This phrase describes the citizens of the promised land and during this messianic period (see v. 3; 12:18, 19; 22:29; 39:13; 45:16, 22). The prescribed protocol was probably to ensure an orderly procession and service. Such regulations would be needed on the special feast days due to the participation of large numbers of people.

days <sup>i</sup> the grain offering shall be an ephah for a bull, an ephah for a ram, as much as he wants to give for the lambs, and a hin of oil with every ephah.

<sup>12</sup>“Now when the prince makes a voluntary burnt offering or voluntary peace offering to the LORD, the gate that faces toward the east <sup>j</sup> shall then be opened for him; and he shall prepare his burnt offering and his peace offerings as he did on the Sabbath day. Then he shall go out, and after he goes out the gate shall be shut.

shall prepare the lamb, the grain offering, and the oil, as a <sup>l</sup> regular burnt offering every morning.”

The Prince and Inheritance Laws

46:12 The preparation and presentation of this offering is the one exception to 44:1–3 (see vv. 1, 2). The voluntary or freewill offering was given beyond what was required (see l. ev. 22:17–30).

46:13 shall daily make: This is a change from the provisions in the l. aw (see Num. 28:3–8; 2 kin. 16:15).

46:14 perpetual ordinance: This is a change from the provisions in the l. aw (see Num. 28:5). God’s people cannot be reminded too often of God’s provisions for them; nor can they thank him too much or too frequently.

46:16–18 The language of this passage speaks clearly and concretely about descendants, servants, and property, so a spiritual or allegorical meaning for this passage is difficult to defend (see 44:3). Likewise, the prince has sons and servants, so he cannot be the Messiah. inheritance laws and family claims related to property continue as an important feature of life in israel (see l. ev. 25:8–15, 23–34; 27:24; Num. 27:1–11; 33:54; 34:18; Josh. 14–21; Mic. 2:1, 2). Again, the prince’s character is described in sharp contrast to many of israel’s previous leaders (34:1–10).

Holy Places, Holy People

For many people, the word holy brings to mind special places such as cathedrals and temples. it would be easy to limit our concept of holiness to such concrete examples, especially when we see so many such cases in the old Testament. certain monuments, the tabernacle, the temple, and even certain mountains, along with some of the leaders, the priests, and the prophets were designated as “holy,” consecrated, or set apart to the l. ord.

This pattern was continued in ezekeil’s vision of the new temple, access to which was to be highly restricted (44:1–19). likewise, a certain “holy district” was to be established in the restored land (45:1–5).

So holiness was attached to certain places, but we shouldn’t forget that the call to holy living is not confined to one place or another. All of life is to be holy, no matter where one is. ezekeil pinpoints some very practical and even mundane dimensions of holiness:

- Stop the use of violence and oppression (45:9).
- Cease the pattern of evicting people (45:9).
- Restore honest dealing in business, using standards of value that have integrity and can be trusted (45:10–12).
- Donate a percentage of each business transaction to God, whether one is a prince or one of the common people (45:13–17).
- Mark all of life with monthly festivals and celebrations that include everyone (45:18–25).
- Restore the six-day work week, and protect the Sabbath rest, with the prince providing substantially for this observance (46:1–15).
- Follow careful guidelines in the matter of inheritances and boundaries, maintaining fair treatment of aliens and strangers (46:16–18; 47:13–23).
- Provide an area for the common people, for homes and common space (48:15–20).
- Name each of the commercial centers—the exits or gates of the city—after a portion of the citizenry (tribes) (48:30–35).
- Name the city itself “THE LORD IS THERE,” reflecting a very inclusive view of holiness: everything that goes on there pertains to the l. ord (48:35).

All of life is to be holy. one might be more reverent in certain settings and on certain occasions, but one is made neither more nor less holy by entering or exiting a particular place. christ has already invited us into the most holy place there is, so that we will live as his holy people in everything we do (heb. 9:11–15; 10:19–25).

How the Offerings Were Prepared

<sup>19</sup> Now he brought me through the entrance, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy <sup>o</sup> chambers of the priests which face toward the north; and there a place was situated at their extreme western end. <sup>20</sup> And he said to me, “This is the place where the priests shall <sup>p</sup>boil the trespass offering and the sin offering, and where they shall <sup>q</sup>bake the grain offering, so that they do not bring them out into the outer court <sup>r</sup> to sanctify the people.”

<sup>21</sup> Then he brought me out into the outer court and caused me to pass by the four corners of the court; and in fact, in every corner of the court there was another court. <sup>22</sup> In the four corners of the court were enclosed courts, forty cubits long and thirty wide; all four corners were the same size. <sup>23</sup> There was a row of building stones all around in them, all around the four of them; and <sup>4</sup>cooking hearths were made under the rows of stones all around. <sup>24</sup> And he said to me, “These are the <sup>5</sup>kitchens where the ministers of the <sup>6</sup>temple shall <sup>s</sup>boil the sacrifices of the people.”

The Healing Waters and Trees

Again he measured one thousand and brought me through; the water came up to my waist. <sup>5</sup> Again he measured one thousand, and it was a river that I could not cross; for the water was too deep, water in which one must swim, a river that could not be crossed. <sup>6</sup> He said to me, “Son of man, have you seen this?” Then he brought me and returned me to the bank of the river.

<sup>7</sup> When I returned, there, along the bank of the river, were very many <sup>d</sup>trees on one side and the other. <sup>8</sup> Then he said to me: “This water flows toward the eastern region, goes down into the <sup>2</sup>valley, and enters the sea. When it reaches the sea, its waters are healed. <sup>9</sup> And it shall be that every living thing that moves, wherever <sup>3</sup>the rivers go, will live. There will be a very great multitude of fish, because these waters go there; for they will be healed, and everything will live wherever the river goes. <sup>10</sup> It shall be that fishermen will stand by it from En Gedi to En Eglaim; they will be places for spreading their nets. Their fish will be of the same kinds as the fish <sup>e</sup>of the Great Sea, exceedingly many. <sup>11</sup> But its swamps and marshes will not be healed; they will be given over to salt. <sup>12</sup> Along the bank of the river, on this side and that, will grow all kinds of trees used for food; <sup>g</sup>their leaves will not wither, and their fruit will not fail. They will bear fruit every month, because their water flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and their leaves for <sup>h</sup>medicine.”<sup>4</sup>

Borders of the Land

<sup>13</sup> Thus says the Lord God: “These are the <sup>i</sup>borders by which you shall divide the land as an inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel. <sup>j</sup>Joseph shall have two portions. <sup>14</sup> You shall inherit it

46:19, 20 The setting is one of the two buildings for the priests on the western end of the temple complex (see 42:1–14). The place is something like a kitchen.

46:21–24 The setting switches to the outer court (see 40:17–19), where each of the four corners has an enclosed kitchen court. These kitchens are distinguished from those for the priests (see vv. 19, 20); these belong to the Levites: ministers of the temple, see 44:11–14.

47:1 He is the “man” of v. 3 (see 40:3; 46:19).

47:3–5 One thousand cubits is approximately 1,750 feet (see 40:3–5). Four times the man uses the measuring line to mark off this distance across the stream, which progressively gets deeper from ankle depth, to knees, to waist, and finally too deep and wide to cross except by swimming. The water flows eastward from the south side of the temple.

47:7–12 The water becomes a river of healing and the source of abundant life for everything and everyone (see Gen. 2:8–10; zech. 14:8; John 4:13, 14; 10:10; r ev. 22:1, 2). it continues flowing southeast: through the dry, rocky region between Jerusalem and the Dead Sea—that is, the Arabah or eastern region—and south along the Jordan valley and the Jordan rift, as far as to the Dead Sea. When it reaches the sea (the Dead Sea), the salty sea becomes fresh and able to sustain life so that fishermen can fish there: its waters are healed. This is an amazing picture—the Dead Sea is the saltiest body of water (approximately 25 percent saline content) and is presently unable to support life. it is also the lowest point on earth, with its surface 1,300 feet below sea level and the water itself 1,300 feet deep. The living water that God will provide has immeasurable power to renew, restore, and resurrect life. This sea which is dead will team with life all along its shores—from En Gedi to En Eglaim. Great volumes and variety of vegetation, everlasting and perpetually productive, will result from this river which flows from the sanctuary (see v. 1). See John 7:37–39 for Jesus’ use of the image of living waters for the life that he gives to those who believe in him.

47:13 The priestly tribe of Levi had already received a special area (see 45:1–8; 48:8–14). The tribe of Joseph was divided into two tribes to replace Levi and thus maintain twelve tribes.

47:14 equality of inheritance is stressed. raised My hand in an oath: This phrase recalls 20:5; 36:28 (see Gen. 12:7; 15:7, 18–21; 17:8).

The Dead Sea

The lowest body of water in the world is the Dead Sea. Fifty miles in length, it does not measure more than 11 miles at the widest. The water surface of the Dead Sea is about thirteen hundred feet below sea level. Its depth has been estimated at another thirteen hundred feet. Because the sea has no outlet and evaporation is high, the concentration of minerals is as much as 30 percent. The water abounds with salt, bromide, magnesium chloride, potassium chloride, and sulfur.

The Dead Sea region is aptly named. Even fish struggle against being carried into the sea, for its high mineral content brings immediate death. The prophet Ezekiel envisioned the restoration of the Dead Sea valley. In his vision, water poured forth from the temple altar and flowed into the Kidron through the Judean wilderness to the Dead Sea (47:8–12). Revelation 22:1–5 tells of a strikingly similar vision.

The unilateral and unconditional nature of the Abrahamic covenant is suggested; this inheritance is a free gift of God’s grace which God’s people did and could do nothing to deserve.

47:15–17 The northern boundary of the land extends from the Mediterranean Sea—the Great Sea—to a border north of Damascus. The other place names are not certainly known. Damascus is the capital of Aram (modern Syria). Hamath is thought to have been north of Damascus, about half the distance to Carchemish. Zedad: This is believed to have been east of Hamath and Hazar Enan (the eastern point of this border). Hauran appears to be an Israelite region east of the Jordan river and north of Gilead.

47:18 The eastern border runs from the Damascus region southwest through Hauran to and along the Jordan river (see Num. 34:10–12). eastern . . . sea: The Dead Sea.

47:19 The southern border goes from the eastern side of the Dead Sea to Tamar (a town to the southwest) to the waters of Meribah by Kadesh (Num. 20:13, 24; 27:14) along the brook (of Egypt; the Wadi el-Arish) and on to the Mediterranean Sea (see Num. 34:3–5; 1 Kin. 8:65). This line runs from the Dead Sea southwest across the Negev to the Brook of Egypt, a river bed in west Sinai.

47:20 The western border runs along the coastline of the Great Sea (the Mediterranean Sea) north to a point directly west of Hamath (see Num. 34:6; r ev. 21:1).

47:21–23 The treatment of strangers or aliens in the land is considered. Non-Israelites who married and settled within the Jewish communities were to be accepted as native Israelites, qualified to share in the territorial inheritance of whatever tribe they joined (see l ev. 19:34; is. 56:1–8).

48:1-7 From the northern district south to the priestly portions, the tribes in order are Dan, Asher, Naphtali, Manasseh, Ephraim, Reuben, and Judah, each district is bordered north and south by another tribe. The east-west borders for each are the same as in 47:18, 20. The tribes resulting from the offspring of Jacob and his wives’ servants are given lands farthest from the most holy areas (see 45:1-8), while the descendants of Jacob’s wives occupy a central position (see Gen. 35:23-26). The tribe of Judah is most favored, for it produced the Davidic and messianic line (see 37:18-28; Gen. 49:8-10; is. 11). historically, the tribe of Dan had occupied the northern limits of the land (see Judg. 20:1). its idolatry was well known—Jeroboam had placed a golden calf there (2 kin. 10:29).

48:15 The district has the city in its center surrounded by housing, farming, and grazing lands for general use.

48:21, 22 shall belong to the prince: See 45:7, 8. The tribal territories of Judah and Benjamin are immediately north and south of the holy district (see vv. 1-7, 20). Benjamin like Judah is favored (see Gen. 35:24).

five hundred cubits <sup>31</sup><sup>c</sup> (the gates of the city shall be named after the tribes of Israel), the three gates northward: one gate for Reuben, one gate for Judah, and one gate for Levi; <sup>32</sup> on the east side, four thousand five hundred cubits, three gates: one gate for Joseph, one gate for Benjamin, and one gate for Dan; <sup>33</sup> on the south side, measuring four thousand five hundred cubits, three gates: one gate for Simeon, one gate for Issachar, and one gate for Zebulun; <sup>34</sup> on the west side, four thousand five hundred cubits with their three gates: one gate for Gad, one gate for Asher, and one gate for Naphtali. <sup>35</sup> All the way around shall be eighteen thousand cubits; <sup>d</sup> and the name of the city from that day shall be: <sup>e</sup>THE<sup>4</sup> LORD IS THERE.”

48:31 The gates are named after the original twelve tribes (see r ev. 21:12, 13). The gate for Joseph represents the two tribes of Manasseh and Ephraim (v. 32; 47:13). The northern gates are Reuben (the first-born), Judah (the tribe of the messianic line), and Levi (the priestly tribe)—all descendants of Jacob and Leah (Gen. 35:23).

48:32 On the eastern side the gates represent Joseph, Benjamin, and Dan. While the first two were children of Jacob and Rachel, the third was the child of Jacob and Rachel's servant Bilhah (Gen. 35:24, 25).

48:33 South of the city, the three other offspring of Jacob and Leah have gates named for them: Simeon, Issachar, and Zebulun (Gen. 35:23).

48:34 The three western gates are named after Gad and Asher—the sons of Jacob and Leah's maidservant Zilpah—and Naphtali—a son of Jacob and Bilhah (see Gen. 35:25, 26).

48:35 The designated name for this city from that day is THE LORD IS THERE (see is. 60:14; 62:2-4, 12; Jer. 3:17; 33:15, 16). This return of the Lord and the regathering of his people is predicted by Ezekiel in 11:17; 20:33-44; 37:15-28; 39:21-29. The Lord was forced to depart from the city and the temple because of the wickedness of the Israelites (8:6; 10:18). But here, Ezekiel foresees the return of God in all his glory to his people, his temple, and his land.

The Lord Is There—Forever!

Scripture gives us only the barest glimpses of what heaven will be like, but one feature that we know for sure is that God will be there, and we will never be separated from him again. With this bright vision of eternity, Ezekiel's book of prophecy draws to a close (48:30-35).

Just as the apostle John saw the New Jerusalem descending from heaven (r ev. 21), so Ezekiel envisioned the day when the city of God would finally be made perfect and complete in every way. Both prophets saw twelve gates facing the four corners of the earth (ezek. 48:31-34; r ev. 21:12, 13), an indication of accessibility for everyone. Inscribed with the names of the twelve tribes of Israel, the gates suggest inclusion, restoration, and fulfillment of all that God has promised his covenant people. In John's vision, this image is strengthened by the fact that these gates never shut (r ev. 21:25).

The name of this ideal city is “The Lord Is There” (ezek. 48:35). This is a fitting climax, not only to the Book of Ezekiel, but to John's revelation and to the Bible itself. It shows that a reversal will occur during the course of history. Whereas Ezekiel had seen the Lord withdrawing from his temple because of the people's wickedness (ezek. 10:18), John saw him return to a new temple to live among his people forever. Likewise, whereas fellowship with God was cut off through the sin in Eden (Gen. 3:22-24), it is made permanent in the New Jerusalem (r ev. 21:3).

This is a strong hope we can look forward to with great anticipation. Right now, we may sometimes feel distant from God, perhaps alone and confused and wondering whether he even knows who we are. The assurance of Scripture is that someday we will no longer wonder where God is; we will be with him—forever!

THE BOOK OF DANIEL

IN 626 B.C., Nabopolassar became king of Babylon and altered the course of ancient history. He quickly overthrew the domination of long-standing rival Assyria, and by the time of his death in 605 B.C. he had eliminated the Assyrian Empire and swallowed it into what became known as the Neo-Babylonian or Chaldean Empire. This course of events had significant implications for Judah, the surviving remnant of the nation of Israel. Judah had been largely under Assyrian domination from about 670 B.C., but now found itself serving a new master. In the same year as Nabopolassar's death, King Jehoiakim of Judah became a vassal of Nebuchadnezzar, the son of Nabopolassar (see 2 Kin. 24:1). Nebuchadnezzar brought his father's empire to even greater heights, eventually deporting many Jews to Babylon.

Daniel lived in the midst of all these momentous events. What direct impact he had on the community of exiles cannot be known, but he was a force for good as far as the Babylonians were concerned. Daniel was a close confidant of Nebuchadnezzar throughout the Babylonian king's reign (605–562 B.C.). Later Daniel served with equal distinction Cyrus, the enlightened Persian ruler who conquered Babylon. One of the first policies Cyrus implemented after subduing Babylon was to allow the Jews to return to their homeland and rebuild their way of life. It is more than likely that Daniel had some influence on Cyrus's decision. The Book of Daniel is a testimony to how God works out His purposes through His servants even in the courts of pagan rulers (see 2:21; 4:18).

Author Daniel claims to have written the book that bears his name (12:4) and uses the first person singular from 7:2 to the end of the book. The Jewish Talmud agrees with Daniel's testimony. Christ Himself mentions Daniel by name in His predictions concerning the last days (see Matt. 24:15). There is no reason to doubt either that Daniel was a historical person or that he wrote the book that bears his name. A well-educated Jew, chosen for special training in the palace in Babylon, Daniel possessed all the linguistic skills and the historical and cultural knowledge needed to write a book of this depth and complexity.

Date Since Daniel refers to the reign of Cyrus (6:28), a date of 530 B.C. or so is reasonable for the book's composition. Critical scholars, however, deny that this is possible mainly because the book appears to predict events that did not come to pass until the third and second centuries B.C. These predictions are so precise and detailed that some believe them not to have been prophecy at all but a record of the events after they transpired. Thus according to some, Daniel must date from the second century in order to account for at least those passages that predict later times.

If one concedes the possibility that Daniel was inspired to write prophetically of events two or three hundred years in the future, there is no reason to deny Daniel's authorship of the book in the sixth century. The accuracy of its historical information, the form and style of its Hebrew and Aramaic passages, and the unanimous testimony of ancient tradition all confirm the witness of the book itself concerning its authorship and date.

Purpose Daniel wrote his book with two purposes in mind. First, he wanted to assert that the God of Israel was sovereign, even over the powerful nations that surrounded his people. God's chosen nation had been conquered and dispersed by a mighty empire that did not acknowledge God. What would happen now? Would Babylon's yoke remain forever on Israel's shoulders? Would God's people never see their homeland again? Had God forgotten his promises? Daniel's answer was that Babylon would fall to another empire, which in turn would fall to yet another great kingdom. History would continue in this pattern until God judged all Gentile nations and established his everlasting rule. Daniel's message was obviously meant to uplift and encourage the weary hearts of the exiled Jews.

Yet Daniel also looked forward to the day when God would restore and reward Israel. Israel was suffering punishment for its disobedience; but when would the punishment end? Daniel's message was both discouraging and encouraging. He predicted trouble ahead; Israel would suffer under Gentile powers for many years. But the encouraging news was that the time of trials would also pass away. The time was coming when God would gather his children to him again. He would establish his messianic kingdom which would last forever. The God who directs the forces of history has not deserted his people. They must continue to trust him. His promises of preservation and ultimate restoration are sure.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Daniel pictures Jesus as the great Stone who will crush the kingdoms of this world (2:34, 35, 44). With his love of imagery, the prophet also describes the Messiah as the Son of Man who is given dominion by the Ancient of Days (7:13, 14). Jesus is also portrayed as Israel's Deliverer who will be cut off (9:25, 26).

Daniel's dreams and visions fill his book. It is quite likely that his vision in 10:5–9 is an appearance of Christ himself (similar to what the apostle John describes in Revelation 1:12–16). Daniel's precise prediction is unlike any other biblical writer's. He pinpoints the birth of Jesus five hundred years beforehand. Based on what Nehemiah tells us (Neh. 2:1–8), the decree about which Daniel writes in 9:25 took place on March 4, 444 B.C.

Daniel and His Friends Obey God

In the third year of the reign of <sup>a</sup>Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. <sup>2</sup>And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with <sup>b</sup>some of the articles of <sup>1</sup>the house of God, which he carried <sup>c</sup>into the land of Shinar to the house of his god; <sup>d</sup>and he brought the articles into the treasure house of his god.

Judah were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. <sup>7</sup><sup>i</sup>To them the chief of the eunuchs gave names: <sup>j</sup>he gave Daniel the name Belteshazzar; to Hananiah, Shadrach; to Mishael, Meshach; and to Azariah, Abed-Nego.

1:1 Jehoiakim king of Judah reigned from 608 to 598 B.C. The third year was 605 B.C., according to the chronological system used by Daniel in which only whole years were counted. Jeremiah, on the other hand, followed a system in which any part of a year was counted as a full year. Therefore, he designated 605 B.C. as the fourth year of Jehoiakim (see Jer. 25:1; 36:1; 46:2). Jehoiakim was an evil king who sided first with the Egyptians and then with the Babylonians until 602 B.C. when he rebelled. His independence was short-lived, however, and Jehoiakim remained under Babylonian domination until his death. The son of Nabopolassar, the founder of the Neo-Babylonian (Chaldean) empire, was Nebuchadnezzar, who reigned from 605 to 562 B.C. in the summer of 605 B.C. when his father died, Nebuchadnezzar was leading the Babylonian armies. He returned to Babylon to secure the throne, but not before he besieged Jerusalem and seized loot and prisoners, including Daniel.

1:2 the Lord gave: The Book of Daniel emphasizes the sovereignty of God in the affairs of nations. Jerusalem did not fall merely because Nebuchadnezzar was strong, but because God had judged the people of Judah for their disobedience and idolatry. some of the articles: The remainder of the articles were removed later when Jehoiakim surrendered (see 2 kin. 24:13; 2 chr. 36:18). Shinar—that is, Babylon—was located on the Euphrates river, 50 miles south of present-day Baghdad in Iraq. into the treasure house: The articles taken from the house of God appear later, on the night of Belshazzar's feast (ch. 5), eventually they were returned to Zerubbabel who brought them back to Israel (see Ezra 1:7).

1:3 eunuchs: in ancient Middle Eastern monarchies, royal harems were typically superintended by men who had been emasculated and were considered reliable to serve in that capacity. A eunuch was often regarded as a privileged official. He enjoyed the personal friendship of the king, and his advice was frequently sought. Some have speculated that Daniel and his friends were eunuchs or at least that they were set apart to advise the king (v. 9), but there is no specific statement in the book to this effect. The children of Israel refers to the general population of the nation of Israel.

1:4 Possessing knowledge refers to the young men's previous education. the language and literature of the Chaldeans: The language of most of Mesopotamia was Akkadian, which was written in cuneiform script, usually on clay tablets. Over the centuries the Babylonians and Assyrians produced a massive body of literature of all types. Though Aramaic had begun to replace Akkadian by 600 B.C., Babylonian scholars continued to study and even write literature in their classical tongue. For Daniel and his friends to be truly educated required that they be familiar with these literary traditions. The term Chaldeans was commonly applied to the Babylonians in general, and also to the guild of astrologers, diviners, and other practitioners of wisdom to which Daniel was being introduced (1:17; 2:2, 4, 5, 10; 3:8).

1:6 According to the first-century Jewish historian Josephus, all four of these young men were members of Zedekiah's royal family.

1:7 The name Daniel means "God is My Judge." Daniel's Babylonian name Belteshazzar means "I ady protect the king," referring to the goddess Sarpanitu, wife of Marduk. The name Hananiah means "The Lord is Gracious." Hananiah's Babylonian name Shadrach means "I Am Fearful of the God." The name Mishael means "Who is What God is?" Mishael's Babylonian name Meshach means "I Am of Little Account." The name Azariah means "The Lord has Helped Me." Azariah's Babylonian name Abed-Nego means "Servant of (the god) Nebo."

1:8 defile himself: Daniel's refusal to eat the king's delicacies had nothing to do with the consumption of rich food or wine. There were two problems with the king's menu: (1) it no doubt included food forbidden by the law and food not prepared according to Mosaic regulations (see 1 ev. 11). (2) The meat had probably been dedicated to idols, as was customary in Babylon. To partake of the food would have been to recognize the idols as deities.

1:9 This verse implies that the chief of the eunuchs was over Daniel, leading some scholars to conclude that Daniel himself was a eunuch.

1:10 in the Hebrew text, your is plural. Daniel's friends joined him in refusing to eat from the king's menu (vv. 7, 17, 19). Endanger my head suggests that the king might have had the chief of the eunuchs put to death for accommodating Daniel and his friends.

1:12 Vegetables means things grown from seed and includes vegetables and grains. The request for water indicates that Daniel and his friends did not want to drink wine, probably because, like the food, it was dedicated to idols (v. 8).

the appearance of the young men who eat the portion of the king's delicacies; and as you see fit, so deal with your servants." <sup>14</sup>So he consented with them in this matter, and tested them ten days.

<sup>15</sup>And at the end of ten days their features appeared better and fatter in flesh than all the young men who ate the portion of the king's delicacies. <sup>16</sup>Thus <sup>5</sup>the steward took away their portion of delicacies and the wine that they were to drink, and gave them vegetables.

1:15 Better and fatter indicates that Daniel and his friends were healthier than the young men who ate . . . of the king's delicacies.

1:17 God gave them knowledge and skill in all literature: As Moses was educated in the knowledge of egypt, so Daniel and his friends acquired a chaldean education. The wisdom of the chaldeans consisted of sciences current at the time, including the interpretation of omens communicated through astrology; the examination of livers, kidneys, and other animal entrails; and the examination of the organs and flight patterns of birds. Daniel had the additional advantage of understanding visions and dreams.

The Neo-Babylonian Empire 626–539 B.C.

The Babylonians, while continuing the militaristic tradition of Assyria, created an astonishing renaissance of Sumero-Akkadian civilization. Led by Nebuchadnezzar (605–562 B.C.), the Neo-Babylonian empire carried out a building program of canals and monuments that was ambitious in the extreme.

1 early Greek and roman authors rhapsodized about the capital city astride the euphrates. A four-horse chariot could turn atop the high hundred-gated walls. Babylon also boasted one of the world's seven wonders, the famed hanging gardens, as well as a stepped temple-tower 295 feet high and, according to herodotus, several colossal gold statues weighing many tons.

2 Discoveries of inscriptions in clay have shown that the last king of Babylonia, Nabonidus, absented himself at Tema in Arabia while Belshazzar acted as regent in the capital.

Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

2 Now in the second year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign, Nebuchadnezzar had dreams; <sup>a</sup>and his spirit was so troubled that <sup>b</sup>his sleep left him. <sup>2c</sup>Then the king gave the command to call the magicians, the astrologers, the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans to tell the king his dreams. So they came and stood before the king. <sup>3</sup>And the king said to them, "I have had a dream, and my spirit is anxious to <sup>7</sup>know the dream."

<sup>8</sup>The king answered and said, "I know for certain that you would gain time, because you see that my decision is firm: <sup>9</sup>if you do not make known the dream to me, there is only one decree for you! For you have agreed to speak lying and corrupt words before me till the <sup>4</sup>time has changed. Therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that you can <sup>5</sup>give me its interpretation."

<sup>10</sup>The Chaldeans answered the king, and said, "There is not a man on earth who can tell the king's matter; therefore no king, lord, or ruler has ever asked such things of any magician, astrologer, or Chaldean. <sup>11</sup>It is a <sup>6</sup>difficult thing that the king requests, and there is no other who can tell it to the king <sup>9</sup>except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh."

<sup>12</sup>For this reason the king was angry and very furious, and gave the command to destroy all the wise men of Babylon. <sup>13</sup>So the decree went out, and they began killing the wise men; and they sought <sup>h</sup>Daniel and his companions, to kill them.

God Reveals Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

<sup>14</sup>Then with counsel and wisdom Daniel answered Arioch, the captain of the king's guard, who had gone out to kill the wise men of Babylon; <sup>15</sup>he answered and said to Arioch the king's captain, "Why is the decree from the king so <sup>7</sup>urgent?" Then Arioch made the decision known to Daniel.

<sup>16</sup>So Daniel went in and asked the king to give him time, that he might tell the king the interpretation. <sup>17</sup>Then Daniel went to his house, and made the decision known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions, <sup>18</sup><sup>i</sup>that they might seek mercies from the God of heaven concerning this secret, so that Daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. <sup>19</sup>Then the secret was revealed to Daniel <sup>j</sup>in a night vision. So Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

1:18 The end of the days refers to the end of three years (v. 5). The chief of the eunuchs was Ashpenaz (v. 3).

2:1 Daniel served as counselor to the king from the completion of his training under Nebuchadnezzar (about 603 B.C., see v. 5) until the first year of King Cyrus (539 B.C.). Thus Daniel held his position until the very end of the Babylonian empire.

2:1 second year: Nebuchadnezzar's reign commenced in 605 B.C., so this is likely 603 B.C., given Daniel's preference for a "full-year" chronological system (1:1). The king was troubled because he did not know the future of his kingdom (v. 29).

2:2 The word translated magicians refers to those who use the pen—most likely, those learned in the sacred writings of the Babylonians. Astrologers studied the stars. Sorcerers received power from evil spirits. The Chaldeans were probably a class of wise men.

2:4 The Chaldeans spoke to the king in Aramaic: Daniel 2:4—7:28 is written in Aramaic, the common language of the day.

2:5 Cut in pieces refers to the ancient practice of dismembering a body (see 3:29; 1 Sam. 15:33).

2:8, 9 tell me the dream: Nebuchadnezzar reasoned that if the wise men could supernaturally interpret his dream, they should first be able to tell him the content of it.

2:12 Babylon here probably refers to the city, not the whole province.

2:13 they began killing the wise men: Nebuchadnezzar's penalty was excessive and extreme (v. 15).

2:15 Urgent means sharp or severe (v. 13).

2:17, 18 Daniel, despite his education and expertise, still knew that prayer to the omniscient God was the first step in a crisis situation. God of heaven is a favorite title for the Lord in late OT literature (see vv. 37, 44; 2 Chr. 36:23; ezra 1:2; 5:11, 12; 6:9, 10; 7:12, 21, 23; Neh. 1:4, 5; 2:4, 20). The title emphasizes the universality of God's dominion over all nations.

2:19 night vision: Normally visions occurred in the daytime (8:1–14) and dreams occurred at night.

Dreams and Visions in Daniel

Daniel's God-given ability to interpret "visions and dreams" (1:17) served him well in his role as advisor to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, a man noted for his mysterious and troubling dreams. The following brief comparison of a dream of Nebuchadnezzar and a dream and vision of Daniel reveals a common theme in the Book of Daniel—the successive rise and fall of four kingdoms.

Nebuchadnezzar's Dream	Daniel's Dream	Daniel's Vision	Interpretation
An image with a head of fine gold (2:32)	A beast like a lion with eagle's wings (7:4)		Babylon would establish itself as the first world empire (2:38; 7:17).
An image with a chest and arms of silver (2:32)	A beast like a bear with three ribs in its mouth (7:5)	A ram with two horns, one of which was higher than the other (8:3)	Medo-Persia would defeat Babylon and establish itself as the second world empire (2:39; 7:17; 8:20).
An image with a belly and thighs of bronze (2:32)	A beast like a leopard with four wings (7:6)	A male goat with a large horn, later replaced by four horns and a little horn (8:5–9)	Greece would defeat Medo-Persia and establish itself as the third world empire (2:39; 7:17; 8:21).
An image with legs of iron and feet of iron and clay (2:32)	A beast with iron teeth and ten horns (7:7)		Rome would defeat Greece and establish itself as the fourth world empire (2:40–43; 7:17).

- <sup>k</sup>“Blessed be the name of God forever and ever,
 And knowledge to those who have understanding.
<sup>22</sup> <sup>p</sup>He reveals deep and secret things; might,

 And have now made known to me
 what we <sup>s</sup>asked of You,
 For You have made known to us the king's <sup>s</sup>demand.”

Daniel Explains the Dream

<sup>24</sup> Therefore Daniel went to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon. He went and said thus to him: “Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon; take me before the king, and I will tell the king the interpretation.”

Daniel and His Friends Promoted

and value. The strength of the metals, however, increases from head to legs.

2:34 Without hands signifies supernatural activity.

2:35 in biblical imagery, a mountain is often a metaphor for a kingdom (see ps. 48:2; is. 2:2; 11:9; Jer. 51:25; ezek. 20:40; zech. 8:3). The same is true in this case, as the later interpretation makes clear (v. 44).

2:37 God . . . has given you a kingdom: The God of Israel is the God of all nations. Although the rulers of those nations may not have recognized him as Lord, that did not nullify God's ultimate sovereignty nor did it alleviate the rulers' responsibility to him.

2:38 The head is a reference to the Babylonian empire, personified in Nebuchadnezzar.

2:39, 40 The image that Nebuchadnezzar saw (vv. 31–35) represented four kingdoms that would rule over all the earth. The first worldwide empire—the head of gold (v. 32)—was Babylon (v. 38). The second empire—the chest and arms of silver (v. 32)—was Medo-persia (5:28; 8:20; 11:2). The third empire—the belly and thighs of bronze (v. 32)—would be Greece (8:21). The fourth empire—the legs of iron (v. 33)—is the only one not identified within the Book of Daniel. Rome is the most likely choice, for it succeeded Greece.

Strong as iron: The focus shifts from the value of the metals to their comparative strength. The Roman empire was marked by strength, but it was destructive strength.

2:41–45 The kingdom shall be divided may be a reference to the fourth kingdom, the Roman empire (v. 40). Differences about what is meant by the ten toes (v. 42) and the kingdom that filled the earth (represented by the stone in v. 45) has resulted in widely varying interpretations. Some believe that vv. 41–45 point to future events that have not yet been fulfilled. In this scenario, the Roman empire will one day be revived (v. 41), will be ruled over by ten rulers (the toes of v. 42), will feud over internal problems (v. 43), will witness the return of Jesus Christ (v. 44), and will be destroyed by Christ at the Second Coming (v. 45).

2:44 The kingdom which shall never be destroyed is the kingdom of God. There are at least two views as to what form this kingdom will take. Amillennialists suggest it is a spiritual kingdom introduced by Jesus Christ at his first coming. Premillennialists suggest that it is a literal kingdom to be established by Jesus Christ at the Second Coming, at which time he will destroy the kingdoms of this world (see r ev. 19:15).

2:47 your God is the God of gods: one should not conclude from Nebuchadnezzar's confession that he had been converted. Since the Lord had enabled Daniel to interpret the king's dream, Nebuchadnezzar was willing to admit that Daniel's God was supreme, at least in matters of divine knowledge. The king gladly promoted Daniel as a result (v. 48).

The Image of Gold

3 Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold, whose height was <sup>1</sup>sixty cubits and its width six cubits. He set it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon. <sup>2</sup>And King Nebuchadnezzar sent word to gather together the satraps, the administrators, the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the image which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. <sup>3</sup>So the satraps, the administrators, the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces gathered together for the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up; and they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up. <sup>4</sup>Then a herald cried <sup>2</sup>aloud: “To you it is commanded, <sup>a</sup>O peoples, nations, and languages, <sup>5</sup>that at the time you hear the sound of the horn, flute, harp, lyre, and psaltery, in symphony with all kinds of music, you shall fall down and worship the gold image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up; <sup>6</sup>and whoever does not fall down and worship shall <sup>b</sup>be cast immediately into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.”

<sup>7</sup>So at that time, when all the people heard the sound of the horn, flute, harp, and lyre, in symphony with all kinds of music, all the people, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the gold image which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

Daniel's Friends Disobey the King

<sup>8</sup>Therefore at that time certain Chaldeans <sup>c</sup>came forward and accused the Jews. <sup>9</sup>They spoke and said to King Nebuchadnezzar, <sup>d</sup>“O king, live forever! <sup>10</sup>You, O king, have made a decree that everyone who hears the sound of the horn, flute, harp, lyre, and psaltery, in symphony with all kinds of music, shall fall down and worship the gold image; <sup>11</sup>and whoever does not fall down and worship shall be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace. <sup>12</sup><sup>e</sup>There are certain Jews whom you have set over the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego; these men, O king, have <sup>f</sup>not paid due regard to you. They do not serve your gods or worship the gold image which you have set up.”

Saved in Fiery Trial

<sup>19</sup>Then Nebuchadnezzar was full of fury, and the expression on his face changed toward Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. He spoke and commanded that they heat the furnace seven times

3:1 sixty cubits . . . six cubits: A cubit in Israel was approximately 18 inches; in Babylon it was about 20 inches. Therefore Nebuchadnezzar's image was 90 to 100 feet tall. The 10:1 ratio of height to width, however, suggests that the image was standing on a high pedestal so that the proportions of the figure itself would be closer to the normal ratio of about 4:1. Since the state and its king could not be separated from its gods, however, to bow down before the image was to worship it (vv. 5, 12, 14, 18, 28). The plain of Dura was probably about six miles southeast of Babylon.

3:2, 3 The officials of the kingdom are listed in descending order of rank. Satraps were the chief officials of the provinces of the empire. Daniel was one of the administrators (2:48). In later times, Zerubbabel (see Hag. 1:1) and Nehemiah (see Neh. 5:14) were appointed governors.

3:5 harp . . . psaltery . . . symphony: These three words appear to be Greek in origin. Greek words of a cultural or technical nature appeared throughout the ancient Middle East well before 600 B.C.

3:8 Accused means “ate the pieces of, devoured piecemeal.” The term suggests slander and malicious accusations which devour the accused piece by piece.

3:12 No explanation is given for Daniel's absence.

3:16 we have no need to answer you: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego were not being arrogant; they were admitting their guilt.

3:17 God . . . is able: The response of the Jewish young men is a model of confidence in God and submission to his will. Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego recognized God's sovereignty and power.

3:18 But if not: While the faithful men knew that God could deliver them (v. 17), they were also aware that God may have chosen not to do so. Faith in God may not translate into victory in every circumstance (see Heb. 11:32-39). To these men the outcome was irrelevant, for what was at stake was not God's ability or their own lives, but their faith and obedience to serve him regardless of the cost.

more than it was usually heated. <sup>20</sup> And he commanded certain mighty men of valor who were in his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, and cast them into the burning fiery furnace. <sup>21</sup> Then these men were bound in their coats, their trousers, their turbans, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace. <sup>22</sup> Therefore, because the king's command was <sup>3</sup>urgent, and the furnace exceedingly hot, the flame of the fire killed those men who took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. <sup>23</sup> And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, fell down bound into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

<sup>24</sup> Then King Nebuchadnezzar was astonished; and he rose in haste and spoke, saying to his <sup>4</sup>counselors, "Did we not cast three men bound into the midst of the fire?"

They answered and said to the king, "True, O king."

3:20 The mighty men of valor were Nebuchadnezzar's personal bodyguards.

3:21 bound in . . . garments: criminals were normally stripped before execution. The fact that the fine clothes of the Jewish men were not removed implies that the king's command was carried out with great haste (v. 22).

3:22 killed those men: The price of Nebuchadnezzar's rage was the loss of capable men.

3:25 walking: The enormous number of bricks demanded in Babylon required kilns large enough to permit people to walk in them. The fire burned off the men's bonds (v. 21), but did not hurt them.

3:27 the fire had no power: The God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego saved them completely, so that there was not the slightest evidence that they had ever been in danger. The salvation offered by the Lord is so effective and complete that nothing of the lost condition remains.

3:29 no other God: pagan cultures do not deny the existence of other gods, even those of other peoples. Nebuchadnezzar declared

Theophanies

When king Nebuchadnezzar exclaimed that the fourth man walking about in the fiery furnace with Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego was "like the Son of God" (3:25), it may be an overstatement to say that he recognized Jesus. Yet even though he worshiped other gods, Nebuchadnezzar somehow knew that this mysterious fourth figure was divine (3:28).

Although the doctrine of the Triune God was not fully revealed until Jesus' time, we find clues that God was preparing humanity for this truth. in the old Testament, such foreshadowings of God or the preincarnate christ in a visible form are called theophanies, meaning "appearances of God." These theophanies include the Angel who comforted hagar (see Gen. 16:7-13), the visitor who revealed to Abraham and Sarah that they would have a son (see Gen. 18:1-15), the Lord's appearance to Moses in the burning bush (see ex. 3), the pillars of cloud and fire that led the israelites from egypt (see ex. 14:19, 20), and Moses' glimpse of God on Sinai (see ex. 33:11). Some people would also include as a theophany the appearance of Melchizedek, the priest-king of Salem, who gave wine and bread to Abram (see Gen. 14:18-20). The old Testament contains nearly 80 references to the Spirit of God and anticipates the arrival of God's Son, the Messiah, who would deliver his people. Daniel also calls christ the Son of Man (see Dan. 7:13). These theophanies were temporary, however. They were hints of the incarnation of christ, fully human and fully divine, who would live among and redeem his people.

ash heap; <sup>v</sup>because there is no other God who can deliver like this.”

Nebuchadnezzar's Second Dream

4 Nebuchadnezzar the king,

<sup>a</sup>To all peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth:

Peace be multiplied to you.

And how mighty His wonders!
His kingdom is <sup>d</sup>an everlasting kingdom,
And His dominion is from generation to generation.

<sup>5</sup> I saw a dream which made me afraid,
<sup>e</sup>and the thoughts on my bed and the visions of my head <sup>f</sup>troubled me.
<sup>6</sup> Therefore I issued a decree to bring in all the wise men of Babylon before me, that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream.
<sup>7g</sup> Then the magicians, the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers came in, and I told them the dream; but they did not make known to me its interpretation. <sup>8</sup> But at last Daniel came before me <sup>h</sup>(his name is Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god; <sup>i</sup>in him is the Spirit of the Holy God), and I told the dream before him, saying: <sup>9</sup>“Belteshazzar, <sup>j</sup>chief of the magicians, because I know that the Spirit of the Holy God is in you, and no secret troubles you, explain to me the visions of my dream that I have seen, and its interpretation.

4:5 This dream of Nebuchadnezzar occurred 30 years after the dream in ch. 2. Troubled means terrified.

4:7 I told them the dream: in ch. 2, Nebuchadnezzar did not tell his wise men the content of his dream (2:5).

4:8 My god refers to Marduk. Nebuchadnezzar was still a pagan at this point.

4:9 Daniel, also known as Belteshazzar, was chief of the magicians, a position given to him years earlier (2:48).

4:10-17 in ch. 2, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed of a great image, of which he was a part. his second dream involved a tree, which represented him (v. 22).

4:15 let him: At this point it becomes obvious that the tree is a symbol of a person.

4:16 Seven times could refer to years, months, weeks, days, or hours. Most take it to mean years, based on the usage of “times” elsewhere in Daniel (2:8; 3:5, 15; 7:25).

4:17 The point of Nebuchadnezzar’s dream is that the Most High rules supreme in the world.

18 “This dream I, King Nebuchadnezzar, have seen. Now you, Belteshazzar, declare its interpretation, <sup>v</sup>since all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known to me the interpretation; but you are able, <sup>w</sup>for the Spirit of the Holy God is in you.”

Daniel Explains the Second Dream

19 Then Daniel, <sup>x</sup>whose name was Belteshazzar, <sup>y</sup>was astonished for a time, and his thoughts <sup>z</sup>troubled him. So the king spoke, and said, “Belteshazzar, do not let the dream or its interpretation trouble you.”
Belteshazzar answered and said, “My lord, may <sup>z</sup>the dream <sup>3</sup>concern those who hate you, and its interpretation <sup>4</sup>concern your enemies!

20 <sup>a</sup>“The tree that you saw, which grew and became strong, whose height reached to the heavens and which could be seen by all the earth, <sup>21</sup>whose leaves were lovely and its fruit abundant, in which was food for all, under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and in whose branches the birds of the heaven had their home—<sup>22</sup><sup>b</sup>it is you, O king, who have grown and become strong; for your greatness has grown and reaches to the heavens, <sup>c</sup>and your dominion to the end of the earth.

23 <sup>d</sup>“And inasmuch as the king saw a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, <sup>e</sup>Chop down the tree and destroy it, but leave its stump and roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze in the tender grass of the field; let it be wet

Nebuchadnezzar's Humiliation

28 All this came upon King Nebuchadnezzar. <sup>29</sup>At the end of the twelve months he was walking <sup>9</sup>about the royal palace of Babylon. <sup>30</sup>The king <sup>n</sup>spoke, saying, “Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for a royal dwelling by my mighty power and for the honor of my majesty?”

31 <sup>o</sup>While the word was still in the king’s mouth, <sup>n</sup>a voice fell from heaven: “King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is spoken: the kingdom has departed from you! <sup>32</sup>And <sup>q</sup>they shall drive you from men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. 4:18 Spirit of the Holy God: The doctrine of the Triune God—the Father, Son, and holy Spirit—is evident in the o T (see Gen. 1:26; 11:7; is. 48:16), but is not developed (3:25). Nebuchadnezzar was merely saying that Daniel’s ability to interpret dreams was the result of God’s giving Daniel the spirit of interpretation.

4:19 astonished . . . troubled: having come to an understanding of Nebuchadnezzar’s dream, Daniel was so upset by its content that he hesitated to divulge its meaning. may the dream concern those who hate you: Daniel wishes that the awful word of judgment were somehow intended for the king’s enemies and not the king.

4:20 in the o T, a tree is a common symbol for a ruler (see Judg. 9:7–15; ezek. 31:2–14; zech. 11:1, 2). Since few trees were present in Babylon, a tree of the gigantic proportions described here would have been impressive and unique.

4:21 leaves were lovely . . . fruit abundant: Daniel indicates that Nebuchadnezzar was the source of abundant blessing for all. The beasts and birds represent the happy citizens of Nebuchadnezzar’s realm.

4:22 heavens . . . e arth: These terms convey the idea of totality. Using deliberate exaggeration, Daniel says that Nebuchadnezzar’s kingdom extended from heaven to the ends of the earth, and so was universal.

4:23 Watcher means “a waking one,” one who is constantly alert. The parallel holy one suggests that the watcher is either the Lord himself or one of his angels (3:28; 6:22; 8:16; 10:13; 12:1). stump and roots: The tree—Nebuchadnezzar—would be cut down but not uprooted. The stump would produce suckers and the roots would produce new growth that would eventually give rise to a new tree, one as grand as before (v. 26). Seven times means seven years (7:12, 25).

4:29 twelve months: The reference here is to a “grace period” between the prediction of Nebuchadnezzar’s madness and its occurrence. perhaps Nebuchadnezzar was allowed a full year in the hope that he might repent and avert the judgment of God for his arrogant pride.

4:32 until you know: Nebuchadnezzar would become insane, animal-like in his habits and senses. Yet in that condition he would make you eat grass like oxen; and seven <sup>1</sup>times shall pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men, and gives it to whomever He chooses.”

<sup>33</sup> That very hour the word was fulfilled concerning Nebuchadnezzar; he was driven from men and ate grass like oxen; his body was wet with the dew of heaven till his hair had grown like eagles' feathers and his nails like birds' claws.

Nebuchadnezzar Praises God

<sup>34</sup> And <sup>1</sup>at the end of the <sup>2</sup>time I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to heaven, and my understanding returned to me; and I blessed the Most High and praised and honored Him <sup>3</sup>who lives forever:

For His dominion is <sup>1</sup>an everlasting dominion,
And His kingdom is from generation to generation.

And among the inhabitants of the earth.
Or say to Him, <sup>4</sup>“What have You done?”

<sup>36</sup> At the same time my reason returned to me, <sup>1</sup>and for the glory of my kingdom, my honor and splendor returned to me. My counselors and nobles resorted to me, I was <sup>2</sup>restored to my kingdom, and excellent majesty was <sup>3</sup>added to me. <sup>4</sup>Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, <sup>5</sup>praise and extol and honor the King of heaven, <sup>6</sup>all of whose works are truth, and His ways justice. <sup>7</sup>And those who walk in pride He is able to put down.

Belshazzar's Feast

learn more of God than he ever had before. in fact, the purpose of the judgment was that Nebuchadnezzar might know who God is and how he sovereignly creates kingdoms and distributes them to whom he wills. Nebuchadnezzar had to be humbled before he could be exalted again. The chastisement of God is always for a holy and helpful purpose.

4:34 Nebuchadnezzar praises the Most High, recognizing that God lives forever and rules forever. The king unmistakably acknowledges Daniel's God as the omnipotent, eternal Sovereign of the universe.

5:1, 2 Belshazzar is called the king and the son of Nebuchadnezzar (v. 22). other ancient records, however, seem to dispute both facts. These records indicate that Belshazzar was the son of Nabonidus, the last king of Babylon. Two possible explanations can reconcile these differing accounts: (1) Belshazzar served as vice-regent during his father's frequent absences from the capital. Thus he would have been in charge when Nebuchadnezzar's insanity began. Note that Darius the Mede was also called king even though he served cyrus (5:31; 6:6). (2) Belshazzar was the grandson of Nebuchadnezzar; hence, the term father in v. 2 indicates that Nebuchadnezzar was an ancestor of Belshazzar.

5:3, 4 gold vessels . . . from the temple: Belshazzar's use of the sacred vessels at a drunken orgy was a blasphemous act of sacrilege (v. 23). praised the gods: Belshazzar's actions demonstrated deliberate defiance of the true God (v. 23).

5:7 Nabonidus the king was in Arabia. Belshazzar was his vice-regent. The third ruler would have been next in line to the throne.

5:10 The queen was not Belshazzar's wife, but the queen mother. She was either the wife of Nebuchadnezzar or the daughter of Nebuchadnezzar who had married Nabonidus, the current king.

5:11 The Spirit of the Holy God is the same expression used by Nebuchadnezzar (4:8, 9, 18).

your kingdom in whom is the Spirit of the Holy God. And in the days of your <sup>4</sup>father, light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, were found in him; and King Nebuchadnezzar your <sup>4</sup>father—your father the king—made him chief of the magicians, astrologers, Chaldeans, and soothsayers. <sup>12</sup>Inasmuch as an excellent spirit, knowledge, understanding, interpreting dreams, solving riddles, and <sup>5</sup>explaining enigmas were found in this Daniel, <sup>m</sup>whom the king named Belshazzar, now let Daniel be called, and he will give the interpretation.”

The Writing on the Wall Explained

<sup>17</sup>Then Daniel answered, and said before the king, “Let your gifts be for yourself, and give your rewards to another; yet I will read the writing to the king, and make known to him the interpretation. <sup>18</sup>O king, <sup>q</sup>the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar your <sup>1</sup>father a kingdom and majesty, glory and honor. <sup>19</sup>And because of the majesty that He gave him, <sup>r</sup>all peoples, nations, and languages trembled and feared before him. er he wished, he kept alive; whomever he wished, he set up; and whomever he wished, he put down. <sup>20</sup>But when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit was hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him. <sup>21</sup>Then he was <sup>u</sup>driven from the sons of men, his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild donkeys. They fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, <sup>v</sup>till he <sup>2</sup>knew that the Most High God rules in the kingdom of men, and appoints over it whomever He chooses.

5:17 When Daniel refused Belshazzar’s gifts and rewards, he was not being ungrateful or showing disrespect. He was simply saying that he would interpret the writing regardless of reward.

5:25–28 MENE means numbered. The repetition is for emphasis. God had numbered the days of Belshazzar’s kingdom; its time was up. TEKEL means weighed. God had weighed Belshazzar, and the king did not measure up to God’s standard of righteousness. UPHARSIN, the plural of Peres in v. 28, means divided. That very night (v. 30) Babylon would be divided and defeated by the Medes and Persians.

interpretation

(Aram. peshar) (2:4; 4:6, 5:12, 16) Strong’s #6591

This word literally means “to untie” or “to loose.” In other words, Daniel could unravel the mysteries of dreams and visions: he could explain or solve them. Yet he was always quick to give God the credit for his ability (2:28). By the time of Jesus, rabbinic Judaism had interpreted much of the OT allegorically. These “peshar” explanations of the Scriptures might have been what Jesus was addressing when he said, “you have heard that it was said” (Matt. 5:21, 27, 31, 38).

Aramaic

Aramaic words, phrases, and even whole passages frequently appear in the oT (Dan. 2–7; ezra 4–7; Jer. 10:11). Outside of the Bible, the oldest fragments of Aramaic are relatively late—from 820 B.C. and later. Of all known Semitic languages, Aramaic was certainly the most like Hebrew. Among Jewish scholars, Aramaic has been held in higher esteem than Hebrew, simply because the primary works of Jewish tradition (the Talmud and its subsequent materials) were written in a dialect of Aramaic. No doubt the Persian empire used Aramaic as its chief Semitic language, and it became the common language of the Jews after the exile. From that time, they began translating the oT into Aramaic. These Aramaic translations are called the Targums.

Belshazzar's Fall

<sup>30</sup>That very night Belshazzar, king of the Chaldeans, was slain. <sup>31</sup>And Darius the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.

The Plot Against Daniel

6 It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom one hundred and twenty satraps, to be over the whole kingdom; <sup>2</sup>and over these, three governors, of whom Daniel was one, that the satraps might give account to them, so that the king would suffer no loss. <sup>3</sup>Then this Daniel distinguished himself above the governors and satraps, <sup>4</sup>because an excellent spirit was in him; and the king gave thought to setting him over the whole realm. <sup>4b</sup>So the governors and satraps sought to find some charge against Daniel concerning the kingdom; but they could find no charge or fault, because he was faithful; nor was there any error or fault found in him. <sup>5</sup>Then these men said, “We shall <sup>6</sup>So these governors and satraps thronged before the king, and said thus to him: <sup>c</sup>“King Darius, live forever! <sup>7</sup>All the governors of the kingdom, the administrators and satraps, the counselors and advisors, have <sup>d</sup>consulted together to establish a royal statute and to make a firm decree, that whoever petitions any god or man for thirty days, except you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. <sup>8</sup>Now, O king, establish the decree and sign the writing, so that it cannot be changed, according to the <sup>e</sup>law of the Medes and Persians, which <sup>1</sup>does not alter.” <sup>9</sup>Therefore King Darius signed the written decree.

Daniel in the Lions' Den

<sup>10</sup>Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went home. And in his upper room, with his windows open <sup>f</sup>toward Jerusalem, he knelt down

5:30 That very night (October 12, 539 B.C.) Babylon fell to the Persian army commanded by Gubaru.

5:31 Darius the Mede is mentioned by name only in the Book of Daniel (see 6:1, 6, 9; 9:1). He is not the famous Darius I Hystaspes because Darius I was not a Mede and he lived too late (522–486 B.C.) to be a contemporary of Daniel. There are two principal suggestions as to the identity of Darius the Mede: (1) he was Cyrus the king of Persia. However, it is unlikely that Cyrus would be called a “Mede” since he was in fact a Persian. (2) he was Gubaru, a governor appointed by Cyrus. Both Daniel and ancient literary sources indicate that a certain official (“Darius the Mede” in Daniel, “Gubaru” in Persian texts) took over immediately in Babylon until Cyrus appointed his own son Cambyses as coruler around 538 B.C. This figure is most likely identified with Darius. Why he is called Darius is uncertain, though ancient rulers often took other names for themselves.

6:2 Daniel had previously been appointed a governor in Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar (2:48). Here he was governor in the new Medo-Persian reign. Suffer no loss refers to taxes.

6:3 Excellent spirit probably refers to Daniel’s surpassing ability to do his job and perhaps includes a commendable attitude.

6:5 Daniel had been circumspect in obeying the laws of the land, but his enemies knew that when the law of the land conflicted with the law of his God, Daniel would break the former in favor of the latter.

6:8 the law of the Medes and Persians: once a royal decree had been issued, it could not be revoked—even by the king himself. It remained in force until its time of expiration. The practice of creating an unchangeable law may follow from the idea that changing a decree was an admission that it had been faulty.

6:10 Undeterred by the royal proclamation (vv. 6–9), Daniel resumed praying by the windows of his house that opened toward

 In heaven and on earth,
 Who has delivered Daniel from the

Vision of the Four Beasts

<sup>5f</sup> “And suddenly another beast, a second, like a bear. It was raised up on one side, and had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth. And they said thus to it: ‘Arise, devour much flesh!’

<sup>6</sup> “After this I looked, and there was another, like a leopard, which had on its back four wings of a bird. The beast also had <sup>g</sup> four heads, and dominion was given to it.

6:28 Daniel prospered throughout the reign of Darius and in the reign of Cyrus. Gubaru, or Darius, served cyrus for about one year (539–538 B.C.), after which cyrus appointed his son cambyses as vice-regent over Babylon. cyrus himself continued as king until 530 B.C.

7:1 the first year of Belshazzar: chapter 5 records Belshazzar’s death, indicating that the Book of Daniel is not arranged chronologically. The date of Belshazzar’s first year cannot be stated precisely. However, since Nabonidus appears to have spent at least ten years in Arabia and since Belshazzar reigned for Nabonidus in Babylon during that time, a date of 550 B.C. for Belshazzar’s first year cannot be far off. This date coincides with the inauguration of the Medo-persian empire under cyrus, an occasion that may have prompted Daniel’s vision.

7:2 Four winds seems to refer to winds from every direction, covering the whole earth. The Great Sea is probably a reference to the Mediterranean Sea (see Josh. 15:12; 23:4; ezek. 47:10, 19), here used figuratively of the nations of the world (see is. 57:20; r. ev. 17:15).

7:3 the beasts represent kings (v. 17) or kingdoms (vv. 18, 23).

7:4 lion . . . eagle’s wings: it is commonly recognized that these two animals are the king of the beasts and the king of the birds respectively, a fitting description of Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonian empire (see Jer. 49:19, 22). There has been almost universal agreement from the early centuries until today that this beast represents Babylon. it is also agreed that the vision of ch. 7 and that of ch. 2 speak of the same four kingdoms. Plucked off is a reference to Nebuchadnezzar’s humiliation (4:28–33).

7:5 if the lion with eagle’s wings represents Babylon (v. 4), the bear—in line with Nebuchadnezzar’s first dream—represents Babylon’s successor, the Medo-persian empire (2:38, 39). Raised up on one side suggests that the persians were greater and more powerful than the Medes. The three ribs represent the three kingdoms that the Medo-persians devoured—Babylon, Lydia, and Egypt. 7:6 if the second beast of Daniel’s dream represents the Medo-persian empire (v. 5), the leopard represents Greece (2:39). Four symbolizes universality (see “four winds,” v. 2); wings are synonymous with speed. The Greeks under the leadership of Alexander the Great rapidly conquered the known world. Four heads describes “heads” of government. After Alexander’s death, his empire was divided among his generals into four different parts (8:8, 22)—Macedonia, Egypt, Syria, and Thrace.

7:7 The fourth beast did not look like any known animal. Since this beast follows Greece (v. 6), it may represent Rome (2:40).

7:8 The horns here represent rulers, even though the little one begins small, it would become the greatest of all (v. 20).

7:9 Ancient of Days is a reference to God the Father as certified by the submission of “the one like the Son of Man” to him (vv. 13, 14) and his role in judgment (v. 22). Fiery flame symbolizes judgment. Its wheels refers to the chariot in which God rides to battle to exercise his sovereignty and to appear as Judge (see ezek. 1:15–21; 10:1–22).

7:10 A thousand thousands . . . Ten thousand times ten thousand: The reference here is to innumerable servants. The books record the names and deeds of those who will be judged (see r. ev. 20:12).

7:11 The horn here is the same as the one in v. 8. the burning beast was slain, and its body destroyed and given to the burning flame. <sup>12</sup>As for the rest of the beasts, they had their dominion taken away, yet their lives were prolonged for a season and a time.

<sup>13</sup>“I was watching in the night visions, And behold, <sup>u</sup>One like the Son of Man, Coming with the clouds of heaven! He came to the Ancient of Days, And they brought Him near before Him.

<sup>14</sup> Then to Him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, That all <sup>w</sup>peoples, nations, and languages should serve Him. His dominion is <sup>x</sup>an everlasting dominion, Which shall not pass away, And His kingdom the one Which shall not be destroyed.

Daniel's Visions Interpreted

<sup>15</sup>“I, Daniel, was grieved in my spirit <sup>7</sup>within my body, and the visions of my head troubled me. <sup>16</sup>I came near to one of those who stood by, and asked him the truth of all this. So he told me and made known to me the interpretation of these things: <sup>17</sup>“Those great beasts, which are four, are four <sup>8</sup>kings which arise out of the earth. <sup>18</sup>But <sup>y</sup>the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom, and possess the kingdom forever, even forever and ever.”

<sup>21</sup>“I was watching; <sup>z</sup>and the same horn was making war against the saints, and prevailing against them, <sup>22</sup>until the Ancient of Days came, <sup>a</sup>and a judgment was made in favor of the saints of the Most High, and the time came for the saints to possess the kingdom.

 against the Most High,
 Shall <sup>e</sup>persecute <sup>1</sup>the saints of the

 And shall <sup>f</sup>intend to change times

flame: The idea that the fate of the wicked is fiery destruction is apparent in the oT (see Gen. 19:24; is. 66:24; Mal. 4:1, 3), but reaches its fullest expression in the NT teaching about hell (see Matt. 5:22, 29, 30; 10:28; 2 pet. 2:4).

7:12 The rest of the beasts is a reference to the three beasts of vv. 3–6—Babylon, Medo-persia, and Greece. they had their dominion taken away: Though these nations passed away, their “dominion” was inherited by their respective successors. A season and a time is an idiom for an indefinite period.

7:13 Son of Man is Semitic for “human being.” Daniel saw One like the “Son of Man,” indicating that he is not a man in the strict sense, but rather the perfect representation of humanity. Jewish and Christian expositors have identified this individual as the Messiah. Jesus himself used this name to emphasize his humanity as the incarnate Son of God (see Matt. 9:6; 10:23; 11:19; 12:8, 32, 40; Mark 8:31; 9:12; Luke 6:5; 9:22; John 3:13, 14; 5:27). Coming with . . . clouds: John uses the same expression to speak of Jesus coming in judgment (see r ev. 1:7; see also Matt. 24:30).

7:14 Him refers to the Son of Man (v. 13), who will reign over all things as the regent of Almighty God (see 1 cor. 15:27, 28; eph. 1:20–23; phil. 2:9–11; r ev. 17:14; 19:16). in contrast to the vanishing nature of the previous empires, His dominion is . . . everlasting.

7:16 One of those who stood by refers to an angel standing by the throne of God (v. 10).

7:17 These kings represent kingdoms (8:21). Thus each beast represents both a king and a kingdom.

7:18 saints of the Most High: Saints means “holy ones,” a term that can refer either to angels (see Job 15:15; ps. 89:5, 7; zech. 14:5) or to redeemed men and women (see ps. 16:3; 30:4; 31:23; 37:28; prov. 2:8; r om. 1:7; 12:13; r ev. 5:8). The kingdom received and forever possessed by the saints must be the same as the dominion of the Son of Man, which is also everlasting (v. 14). The Son of Man thus rules through his saints, a fact proclaimed frequently in the NT (see r ev. 2:26, 27; 20:4–6).

7:21 Daniel’s vision reveals the hostility waged by the little horn against the saints. The little horn’s militaristic character is seen also in 11:38, 39 and particularly in r ev. 13:1–10. There, in the guise of a beast, this blasphemous enemy of the saints prevails for 42 months. The connection between Daniel’s “little horn” and John’s “beast from the sea” is unmistakable.

7:24, 25 There are three common interpretations as to the ten kings who shall arise from this kingdom: (1) The fourth beast is Greece and the ten horns are ten divisions of the Grecian empire. (2) The fourth beast is Rome and the ten horns are the fragments of the Roman empire. (3) The fourth beast is a revived Roman empire and the ten kings are members of a future realm. Another refers to the little horn of v. 8 (see also vv. 20, 21). This king will subdue three others, blaspheme God (see 11:36; 2 Thess. 2:4; r ev. 13:5, 6), persecute the saints (see v. 21; r ev. 13:7), attempt to change times and law, and dominate the saints for a limited time. time and times and half a time: Time can refer to a year, times to two years, and half a time to one half of a year, for a total of three and one-half years. Some suggest that the expression does not indicate a specific number of years but instead a period of time that God in his mercy would shorten.

Then <sup>g</sup>the saints shall be given into his hand

To consume and destroy it forever.

7:26 The dominion of the little horn will come to a violent end when he submits to the court of God (v. 10).

7:27 the kingdom . . . to the people, the saints: The kingdom of God, governed by his saints, will exercise rule over all the earth.

8:1 After writing in Aramaic from 2:4—7:28, Daniel returns to writing in hebrew.

8:2 Shushan was about 230 miles east of Babylon. Ulai was an artificial canal located a few miles from Shushan.

8:3 The ram represents Medo-persia (v. 20). The two horns symbolize the people of Media and the people of persia.

vision

(heb. chazon) (8:1; is. 1:1; prov. 29:18) Strong's #2377

The hebrew word for a dream or a vision is derived from a common hebrew verb meaning “to see.” Dreams and visions were often recognized by the ancients as revelations from the gods, or from God himself in the case of the hebrews (is. 1:1). Daniel received a visionary message from God that spoke about the future of the kingdoms of persia and Greece. his dream was encoded in symbols which required the interpretive assistance of the angel Gabriel (8:15–27). The author of proverbs insists that revelation from God is essential to the well-being of a society. Without God's law revealed in Scripture, the foundation of a society crumbles (see prov. 29:18).

8:4 cyrus and his successors conquered westward including Babylon, Syria, and Asia Minor, northward including Armenia and the caspian Sea region, and southward including egypt and ethiopia.

8:5 The goat represents Greece (v. 21). The notable horn symbolizes Alexander the Great (v. 21) who launched his attack against persia in 334 B.C. By 332 B.C. he had essentially subdued the persian empire. without touching the ground: Alexander's conquest was so rapid that it seemed as if he flew across the earth.

8:7 The persian forces outnumbered the Greeks. But in two decisive battles, the Medo-persian empire collapsed.

8:8 the large horn was broken: Alexander the Great died at the height of his career, before he was 33 years old. four notable ones: After Alexander's death, four of his generals carved up the Macedonian empire. Antigonos ruled from northern Syria to central Asia; cassander ruled over Macedonia; ptolemy ruled in egypt and southern Syria, including palestine; l ysimachus ruled over Thrace.

8:9 the little horn here is not the same as the little horn of ch. 7. The former horn comes out of the fourth beast, r ome, whereas this one comes out of Greece. The little horn here refers to Antiochus epiphanes, the eighth king of the Syrian dynasty who reigned from 175 to 164 B.C. Thus, this prophecy skips from 301 B.C., the time of the division of Alexander's empire, to 175 B.C., when Antiochus became king. toward the south: Antiochus invaded egypt. The east is parthia and the Glorious Land is palestine.

8:10 The host of heaven and the stars both refer to God's people (see 12:3; Gen. 15:5). Cast down some describes Antiochus's conquest.

8:11 The Prince of the host refers to God himself. The little horn, like l ucifer (see is. 14:12), aspires to be like God. sanctuary . . . cast

 God, and made confession, and said, “O <sup>d</sup> Lord, great and awesome God, who keeps His covenant and mercy with those who love Him, and with those who keep His commandments, <sup>5</sup> e we have sinned and committed iniquity, we have done wickedly and rebelled, even by departing from Your precepts and Your judgments.
<sup>6</sup> Neither have we heeded Your servants has never been done as what has been done to Jerusalem.

8:24 Not by his own power indicates that Antiochus would be energized by Satan, as will the Antichrist (see 2 Thess. 2:9).

8:25 Without human means: Antiochus died without human intervention. According to the apocryphal Book of 2 Maccabees, Antiochus (v. 23) died of a painful disease.

8:26 seal up the vision: Most documents of Daniel’s time were written on scrolls that could be rolled up and sealed to protect their contents. This document pertained to a time many days in the future.

8:27 I . . . fainted and was sick: Daniel suffered a severe emotional reaction to the vision of ch. 8, apparently even greater than the reaction he had experienced after his first vision (7:15, 28).

9:1 The first year of Darius was 539 B.C., the year he was appointed by Cyrus as administrator of Babylon.

9:2 The books refers to Scripture, specifically the Book of Jeremiah, which states that the desolation of Jerusalem would be fulfilled in 70 years (Jer. 25:11, 12; 29:10–14). Daniel’s own captivity occurred in 605 B.C. it was now 538 B.C., some 67 years after the conquest. The period of captivity was almost over. Zechariah refers to the 70-year period as beginning with the destruction of the temple, which took place in 586 B.C. (see zech. 7:5). The temple was rebuilt in 515 B.C. (see ezra 6:15). Therefore, the seventy years has several beginnings and endings.

9:4–14 This is a prayer of repentance for Israel’s past sinfulness, but it is also a prayer of confidence because God was about to overthrow the Babylonians and allow the Jews to return to their homeland to rebuild it. The 70 years of captivity were almost up, and glorious things lay ahead. Daniel confessed that Israel had departed from the Word of God, had disregarded the prophets of God, and had despised the Lord himself.

9:11, 12 the curse and the oath: covenant documents typically contained statements concerning the penalties for covenant violation. In the Law of Moses, such sanctions are found particularly in Leviticus 26:3–45 and Deuteronomy 27 and 28. In both passages the most feared and devastating curse of all—deportation from the land of promise—is emphasized (see 1 ev. 26:33–39; Deut. 28:36–68). Daniel pointed out that the curse had come to pass.

13<sup>m</sup> “As it is written in the Law of Moses, all this disaster has come upon us; <sup>n</sup>yet we have not made our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn from our iniquities and understand Your truth. 14 Therefore the LORD has <sup>o</sup>kept the disaster in mind, and brought it upon us; for <sup>p</sup>the LORD our God is righteous in all the works which He does, though we have not obeyed His voice. 15 And now, O Lord our God, <sup>q</sup>who brought Your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and made Yourself <sup>r</sup>a name, as it is this day—we have sinned, we have done wickedly!

16 “O Lord, <sup>s</sup>according to all Your righteousness, I pray, let Your anger and Your fury be turned away from Your city Jerusalem, <sup>t</sup>Your holy mountain; because for our sins, <sup>u</sup>and for the iniquities of our fathers, <sup>v</sup>Jerusalem and Your peo-

O Lord, forgive! O Lord, listen and act! Do not delay for Your own sake, my God, for Your city and Your people are called by Your name.”

The Seventy-Weeks Prophecy

<sup>20</sup>Now while I was speaking, praying, and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my suppli-

9:15 brought Your people out of the land of Egypt: Daniel reflected on the greatest redemptive event of Israel’s history, the exodus from Egypt, and prayed that God would repeat what he had done long ago.

9:17 Your sanctuary is a reference to Solomon’s temple, which had lain in ruins since 586 B.C.

9:18 Your great mercies: it is important to note that the only basis for Daniel’s appeal was the grace of God.

9:19 Do not delay: These words must be understood in light of Daniel’s reference to the 70 years (v. 2). Daniel knew full well that all of God’s promises had not come to pass, nor had the blessings been conferred on the regathered and restored people (see I ev. 26:40–45; Deut. 4:29–31).

9:20, 21 while I was speaking: The angel was sent at the beginning of Daniel’s prayer (v. 23). The man Gabriel is not a denial of Gabriel’s angelic nature; the title simply serves to identify Gabriel with the vision of 8:15, 16. evening offering: Because the temple was in ruins, regular daily sacrifices were impossible. Nevertheless, Daniel observed the ritual of worship by praying at the hour of the evening sacrifice. Daniel’s prayer was his evening offering.

God Answers Fervent Prayer

Do you ever feel as if your prayers bounce off the ceiling rather than reaching God? If so, consider carefully the prayer of Daniel for the release of his people from captivity (ch. 9). It is a testimony to the fact that God answers prayer—in his time and according to his purposes—as the angel Gabriel announced (9:24, 25).

However, God does not answer any and every prayer as the one praying would like. Why, then, did he respond to Daniel’s? Here are some observations:

1. daniel’s prayer was the result of his study of Scripture. The timing of Daniel’s prayer is highly significant. It came “in the first year of Darius,” around 539 B.C. (9:1). That was the year in which Babylon fell to the Persians, a truly astounding event that must have sent Daniel back to the Scriptures to search for understanding. As he studied the Law, he found the reasons for Judah’s exile (9:11–13; compare I ev. 26; Deut. 27; 28). He also found a promise of restoration—if the people repented of their sins (I ev. 26:40–45).

2. daniel confessed and repented of his people’s sins. By all appearances, Daniel was a man of faith who lived a life of utmost integrity, both before and after being deported to Babylon. Yet despite his own personal innocence, he confessed to numerous sins as a member of God’s wayward people. Four times he told the Lord, “We have sinned” (9:5, 8, 11, 15). This is a powerful example of corporate confession, in which one accepts personal responsibility for the sins of one’s people (see I am. 1:18).

3. daniel fasted and prayed for a period of time. The Bible does not say exactly how long Daniel’s prayer of confession lasted, but it was probably more than a day, as he refers to fasting (9:3). He also demonstrated his remorse for sin in a very tangible way by wearing sackcloth and smearing himself with ashes. Clearly he wanted God to know that he was sorry for the sins of his people. Only after this prolonged period of confession did Daniel ask the Lord for mercy (9:16, 17). He did not even raise the possibility of restoration, despite God’s promise in the Law and his awareness of Jeremiah’s prophecies (9:2). He asked only that the Lord would act on behalf of his own interests (9:18, 19).

James said that “the effective, fervent prayer of a righteous man avails much” (James 5:16). Daniel’s prayer seems to be a case in point. Not long after Daniel prayed, Cyrus issued a decree allowing the Jews to return to Jerusalem and begin rebuilding the temple (2 Chr. 36:22, 23). Was there a connection between Daniel’s prayer, Cyrus’s decree, and Jeremiah’s prophecies? Gabriel indicates that there was (9:23–25).

Prayer is not a gimmick by which we charm or coerce God into giving us what we want. Prayer is a sober-minded acknowledgment of our true situation before the Lord and an admission of our need for his divine help. Are you prepared to pray like Daniel?

cation before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God, <sup>21</sup>yes, while I was speaking in prayer, the man <sup>d</sup>Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, <sup>3</sup>being caused to fly swiftly, reached me about the time of the evening offering. <sup>22</sup>And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, “O Daniel, I have now come forth to give you skill to understand. <sup>23</sup>At the beginning of your supplications the <sup>4</sup>command went out, and I have come to tell you, for you are greatly <sup>e</sup>beloved; therefore <sup>f</sup>consider the matter, and understand the vision:

Vision of the Glorious Man

10 In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a message was revealed to Daniel, whose <sup>a</sup> name was called Belteshazzar. The message was true, <sup>1</sup> but the appointed time was long; and he understood the message, and had understanding of the vision. <sup>2</sup> In those days I, Daniel, was mourning three full weeks. <sup>3</sup> I ate no <sup>2</sup> pleasant food, no meat or wine came into my mouth, nor did I anoint myself at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled. <sup>4</sup> Now on the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was by the side of the great river, that is, the <sup>3</sup> Tigris, <sup>5</sup> I

9:24 Seventy weeks may also be translated seventy sevens. Many scholars agree that the “sevens” are years, as the 70 years of captivity addressed in v. 2 implies. I eviticus 25:8 speaks of “seven sabbaths of years”; I ev. 26:18, 21 implies that israel’s punishment would be multiplied sevenfold. Therefore, an exile of 70 “weeks” would be expected to last for seven times 70 years. Second chronicles 36:21 suggests that the captivity was to last long enough to make up for 70 omissions of the sabbatical year, which occurred every seven years. This would amount to 490 years before God’s people would experience perfect reconciliation with their God. There are many different interpretations of how these years account for the eras of world history before the Second coming of the Messiah. Some interpreters have suggested that the use of the number seven in this verse is symbolic representing completeness—that is, the completion of all of human history.

9:25 The command to restore and build Jerusalem may be a reference to (1) the decree of cyrus in ezra 1, (2) the decree of Darius in ezra 6, (3) the decree of Artaxerxes in ezra 7, or (4) the decree of Artaxerxes in Neh. 2.

9:26 One commonly held interpretation maintains that the sixty-two weeks can be added to the seven weeks of v. 25, resulting in a total of 69 weeks, or 483 years. if these years are added to the date of the decree of Artaxerxes in Neh. 2, 445 B.C., with an adjustment to allow for the use of a 360-day year, the end of the 69 weeks coincides with the date of the crucifixion of Jesus. Various other interpretations of the time periods indicated by the 62 weeks have been presented, including one that asserts that the Messiah in this verse refers to cyrus, who was also called the lord’s anointed (see is. 45:1). Messiah shall be cut off may be a reference to the crucifixion of Jesus christ. The phrase cut off means “to destroy, to kill.” The fact that Jesus christ died not for Himself but for the sins of the world may support the view that the Messiah in this verse refers to Jesus himself. The prince who is to come may be a reference to the Antichrist (v. 27).

9:27 He may be a reference to the Antichrist, who will confirm a covenant with israel. In the middle of the week—that is, three and one-half years later—he will break the covenant. abominations . . . desolate: Antiochus committed an abomination of desolation by setting up an altar to the god zeus in the temple in Jerusalem (11:31). The Antichrist will also commit an abomination of desolation against the living God (see Matt. 24:15). the consummation . . . is poured out on the desolate: The fact that this abomination does not occur until the consummation suggests that this verse is describing the abomination of the Antichrist and not that of Antiochus.

10:1 The third year of cyrus’s rule over Babylon was 536 B.C.

10:2 Daniel was mourning because he wanted to understand the vision (v. 12). Three full weeks refers to Daniel’s observance of the passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread, which took place during the first month of the year (see ex. 12:1–20). The passover was kept on the fourteenth of the month, and the Feast of the Unleavened Bread for the next eight days, with the whole festival ending on the twenty-first day of the month.

10:4 The twenty-fourth day of the first month occurs three days after the Unleavened Bread festival (v. 2).

10:5 A certain man is either an appearance of the preincarnate christ or an angel. The description that follows suggests that this individual is christ (v. 6).

lifted my eyes and looked, and behold, a certain man clothed in <sup>b</sup>linen, whose waist was <sup>c</sup>girded with gold of Uphaz! <sup>6</sup>His body was like beryl, his face like the appearance of lightning, his eyes like torches of fire, his arms and feet like burnished bronze in color, <sup>d</sup>and the sound of his words like the voice of a multitude.

<sup>7</sup>And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision, for the men who were with me did not see the vision; but a great terror fell upon them, so that they fled to hide themselves. <sup>8</sup>Therefore I was left alone when I saw this great vision, and no strength remained in me; for my <sup>4</sup>vigor was turned to <sup>5</sup>frailty in me, and I retained no strength. <sup>9</sup>Yet I heard the sound of his words; and while I heard the sound of his words I was in a deep sleep on my face, with my face to the ground.

Prophecies Concerning Persia and Greece

<sup>10</sup><sup>e</sup>Suddenly, a hand touched me, which made me tremble on my knees and on the palms of my hands. <sup>11</sup>And he said to me, “O Daniel, <sup>f</sup>man greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak to you, and stand upright, for I have now been sent to you.” While he was speaking this word to me, I stood trembling.

<sup>12</sup>Then he said to me, <sup>g</sup>“Do not fear, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your heart to understand, and to humble yourself before your God, <sup>h</sup>your words were heard; and I have come because of your words. <sup>13</sup><sup>i</sup>But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me twenty-one days; and behold, <sup>j</sup>Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, for I had been left alone there with the kings of Persia. <sup>14</sup>Now I have come to make you understand what will happen to your people <sup>k</sup>in the latter days, <sup>l</sup>for the vision refers to many days yet to come.”

So when he spoke to me I was strengthened, and said, “Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me.”

<sup>20</sup>Then he said, “Do you know why I have come to you? And now I must return to fight <sup>s</sup>with the prince of Persia; and when I have gone forth, indeed the prince of Greece will come. <sup>21</sup>But I will tell you what is noted in the Scripture of Truth. (No one upholds me against these, <sup>t</sup>except Michael your prince.

11 “Also <sup>a</sup>in the first year of <sup>b</sup>Darius the Mede, I, even I, stood up to confirm and strengthen him.) <sup>2</sup>And now I

10:6 The description of the man here is very much like ezeqiel’s description of the glory of God (see ezeq. 1:4–28) and John’s description of the triumphant, risen christ (see r ev. 1:9–20).

10:8 Vigor suggests majesty, splendor, or beauty. turned to frailty . . . no strength: humans are weak and frail in the presence of God.

10:11 greatly beloved: God loves everyone (see John 3:16); yet some, because of their special relationship to God, are objects of unusual divine love (see 1 Sam. 13:14; John 13:23; 14:21, 23; Acts 13:22).

10:13 The prince of the kingdom of Persia cannot be a human ruler because the conflict referred to here is in the spiritual, heavenly realm, as the allusion to Michael makes clear. The prince, therefore, must be understood as a satanic figure who was to supervise the affairs of persia, inspiring its religious, social, and political structures to works of evil. The apostle paul refers to principalities, powers, rulers of the darkness of this age, and “spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places” (see eph. 6:12). The “man” here says he was detained for twenty-one days, which equals the time of Daniel’s mourning and fasting (vv. 2, 3). The wicked prince of persia sought to detain the “man” so that Daniel would be prevented from hearing more of God’s revelation (vv. 12, 14). Michael seems to be one of the most powerful angels. he is mentioned three times in the o T, all in Daniel (see also v. 21; 12:1), and twice in the NT (see Jude 9; r ev. 12:7).

10:14 latter days: This expression is used throughout the books of prophecy to refer to the future (see is. 2:2; Jer. 23:20; 49:39; ezeq. 38:16; Mic. 4:1). The messenger here is referring to the revelation of ch. 11.

10:16 One having the likeness of the sons of men may refer to the preincarnate christ (v. 5) or to the angel of vv. 10–15.

10:18 For the third time in this chapter Daniel is supernaturally strengthened by one who touched him (see also vv. 10, 16). The first touch enabled him to arise from the ground, the second to speak, and the third to carry on a conversation.

10:20 Just as persia was under the ultimate dominion of an evil spirit from Satan (vv. 13, 14), so also was Greece. once the prince of Persia was overcome, the messenger would enter into conflict with the prince of Greece. The succession of world powers follows the pattern of Daniel’s second vision (8:20–22).

10:21 your prince: God chose Michael the archangel to be a prince in his kingdom on earth.

11:1 the first year of Darius: This is the same year as that of the revelation of the 70 weeks, 539 B.C. (9:1). At the beginning of the persian administration, the divine messenger stood up to confirm and strengthen Darius. This suggests that though the kingdoms of the world are under demonic control, their human rulers can be delivered from that control and used for a higher purpose by God as he sees fit.

11:2 three more kings will arise in Persia, and the fourth . . . against the realm of Greece: Darius (under cyrus) was followed by cambyses (530–522 B.C.); Gaumata (522 B.C.); Darius i (522–486 B.C.); and Xerxes (486–465 B.C.), who was the richest king of all due to his conquest and severe taxation.

will tell you the truth: Behold, three more kings will arise in Persia, and the fourth shall be far richer than them all; by his strength, through his riches, he shall stir up all against the realm of Greece. <sup>3</sup>Then <sup>c</sup>a mighty king shall arise, who shall rule with great dominion, and <sup>d</sup>do according to his will. <sup>4</sup>And when he has arisen, <sup>e</sup>his kingdom shall be broken up and divided toward the four winds of heaven, but not among his posterity <sup>f</sup>nor according to his dominion with which he ruled; for his kingdom shall be uprooted, even for others besides these.

Warring Kings of North and South

11:3 The scene shifts to Greece (v. 2). The mighty king is Alexander the Great (v. 4).

11:4 The kingdom of Alexander was divided into four parts (8:22), but not among his posterity—that is, his heirs. Others refers to those outside Alexander’s family—his generals ruled the empire he had conquered (see 8:8, 22).

11:5 Having predicted that there would be four divisions of the Greek kingdom (v. 4), the angel here speaks of two of them, the Syrian kingdom just north of Palestine and the Egyptian kingdom to the south. The first king of the South—that is, Egypt—was Ptolemy I Soter (323–285 B.C.). One of his princes refers to Seleucus Nicator (311–280 B.C.).

11:6 At the end of some years refers to the time period around 252 B.C. The daughter refers to Berenice, the daughter of Ptolemy Philadelphus (285–246 B.C.) of Egypt. The king of the North refers to Antiochus II Theos (261–246 B.C.) of Syria.

him who strengthened her in those times. <sup>7</sup>But from a branch of her roots one shall arise in his place, who shall come with an army, enter the fortress of the king of the North, and deal with them and prevail. <sup>8</sup>And he shall also carry their gods captive to Egypt, with their <sup>2</sup>princes and their precious articles of silver and gold; and he shall continue more years than the king of the North.

11:7-9 The branch of her roots refers to the brother of Berenice (v. 6), ptolemy iii euergetes (246-221 B.C.), who conquered the king of the North, Seleucus callinicus (246-226 B.C.) of Syria. ptolemy iii returned to Egypt with great booty and outlived Seleucus by six years. Seleucus attempted an attack on egypt but returned to Syria without accomplishing his purpose.

11:10 The sons of Seleucus callinicus were Seleucus iii ceraunus (227-223 B.C.) and Antiochus iii the Great (223-186 B.C.).

11:11 The king of the South, ptolemy iv philopator (221-204 B.C.), defeated the king of the North, Antiochus iii the Great, at raphia in 217 B.C.

11:13 The king of the North, Antiochus iii, assembled a great army and attacked egypt in 201 B.C.

11:14 Many shall rise up indicates that others like philip V of Macedonia helped Antiochus fight against the king of the South, ptolemy V epiphanes (203-181 B.C.) of egypt. The violent men of your people refers to Jews who tried to help Antiochus bring to pass what had been predicted in the vision of ch. 8, but failed.

11:15 The king of the North, Antiochus, defeated the fortified city of Sidon in 198 B.C.

11:16 The Glorious Land refers to israel. The control of palestine passed from egypt to Syria.

11:17 Antiochus iii's daughter cleopatra was given in marriage to ptolemy V epiphanes of egypt in order to destroy or undermine egypt, but cleopatra sided with her husband over her father.

11:18, 19 Antiochus iii undertook a vigorous campaign into Asia Minor and the Aegean region. A ruler, the roman I ucius cornelius Scipio, defeated Antiochus. having lost all that he had gained, Antiochus returned to his own land, where he was defeated and killed while trying to plunder a temple.

11:20 arise in his place: Seleucus iv philopator (187-176 B.C.), Antiochus's son, took his father's place. The glorious kingdom refers to israel. within a few days: Antiochus ruled for 37 years; Seleucus ruled for only 11 years.

11:21 A vile person refers to Antiochus iv epiphanes (175-164 B.C.), who seized the throne through treachery.

11:22 They shall be swept away is probably a reference to the egyptians. The prince of the covenant refers to onias iii, the high priest in Jerusalem who bore that title.

11:23, 24 He refers to Antiochus iv epiphanes (v. 21). shall disperse: Antiochus took from the rich and gave to the poor.

11:25, 26 The king of the South at this time was ptolemy philometor (181-145 B.C.) of egypt. those who eat . . . his delicacies: The trusted counselors of ptolemy philometor who ate at his table betrayed him.

a great army. And the king of the South shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army; but he shall not stand, for they shall devise plans against him. <sup>26</sup>Yes, those who eat of the portion of his delicacies shall destroy him; his army shall <sup>2</sup>be swept away, and many shall fall down slain. <sup>27</sup>Both these kings' hearts shall be bent on evil, and they shall speak lies at the same table; but it shall not prosper, for the end will still be at the appointed time. <sup>28</sup>While returning to his land with great riches, his heart shall be moved against the holy covenant; so he shall do damage and return to his own land.

The Northern King's Blasphemies

<sup>29</sup>“At the appointed time he shall return and go toward the south; but it shall not be like the former or the latter. <sup>30</sup>For ships from <sup>3</sup>Cyprus shall come against him; therefore he shall be grieved, and return in rage against the holy covenant, and do damage.

“So he shall return and show regard for those who forsake the holy covenant. <sup>31</sup>And <sup>4</sup>forces shall be mustered by him, <sup>5</sup>and they shall defile the sanctuary fortress; then they shall take away the daily sacrifices, and place there the abomination of desolation. <sup>32</sup>Those who do wickedly against the covenant he shall <sup>5</sup>corrupt with flattery; but the people who know their God shall be strong, and carry out great exploits. <sup>33</sup>And those of the people who understand shall instruct many; yet for many days they shall fall by sword and flame, by captivity and plundering. <sup>34</sup>Now when they fall, they

The Northern King's Conquests

11:27 Both . . . bent on evil: Both Antiochus and ptolemy resorted to deceit and betrayal in working out truce arrangements.

11:28 The holy covenant refers to israel. do damage: o n his way back to Syria, Antiochus looted the temple in Jerusalem and killed many people.

11:29 return and go toward the south: After learning that ptolemy VI and ptolemy VII had formed a union against him, Antiochus returned to egypt in 168 B.C.

11:30 Cyprus here refers to r ome. When the r omans forced Antiochus to depart from egypt, he unleashed his frustration on the holy covenant—that is, israel (v. 28). Those who forsake the holy covenant refers to the apostate Jews (v. 32) who cooperated with Antiochus.

11:31 defile the sanctuary: Antiochus polluted the altar by offering a sow upon it. he declared the daily sacrifices and other Mosaic ceremonies illegal and committed an abomination of desolation by erecting an image of zeus in the holy place (9:27; 12:11). Jesus said a similar thing would happen just prior to his return (see Matt. 24:15).

11:32 the people who know their God shall be strong: Matthias, father of five sons, refused to offer sacrifices in a profane manner and killed the king's agents. he and his sons then fled to the mountains and began the famous Maccabean revolt.

11:33 Many devoted Jews were killed in the Maccabean revolt (see heb. 11:37, 38).

11:34 As some Jews were killed in the Maccabean revolt, others provided a little help. Many joined by intrigue—that is, insincerely.

11:35 Some of those of understanding refers to those who understood God's Word and were allowed to go through troubled times so that they could be refined and purified.

11:36 the king: Many ancient and modern interpreters have concluded that at this point a new person, the Antichrist, is introduced. This king is distinguished from the king of the North (v. 40); therefore he cannot be Antiochus epiphanes.

11:37 The king of v. 36 will cast aside the God of his fathers, the worship of his ancestors. The desire of women is usually taken to be either a female goddess or the desire of every Jewish woman to be the mother of the Messiah.

11:38 god of fortresses: The king of v. 36 will not regard any god except the god of power. A god which his fathers did not know is probably a reference to self-worship (see v. 37; 2 Thess. 2:4).

11:40 The backdrop of this verse and the remainder of the chapter is the covenant the king of v. 36 will make with israel. The time of the end refers to the period just before the return of christ (see Matt. 24:14).

11:41–43 The king of v. 36 will enter the Glorious Land of palestine. Edom, Moab, and Ammon, the traditional enemies of israel, will not be invaded. The king will then conquer Egypt, I ibya, and ethiopia.

shall stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of <sup>g</sup>Egypt shall not escape. <sup>43</sup>He shall have power over the treasures of gold and silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt; also the Libyans and Ethiopians shall follow <sup>h</sup>at his heels. <sup>44</sup>But news from the east and the north shall trouble him; therefore he shall go out with great fury to destroy and annihilate many. <sup>45</sup>And he shall plant the tents of his palace between the seas and <sup>i</sup>the glorious holy mountain; <sup>j</sup>yet he shall come to his end, and no one will help him.

of the wicked shall understand, but <sup>u</sup> the wise shall understand.

11:44 The north here could be a reference to palestine, a view which seems to be confirmed by v. 45.

11:45 The seas refers to the Mediterranean Sea and the Dead Sea. The glorious holy mountain refers to Mt. zion, the site of the temple. The end of the king of v. 36 is sealed at christ's second coming (see r ev. 19:11–21).

12:1 At that time refers to the “time of the end” (11:40), the end of the evil king (11:36) at the Second coming of christ (11:45). A time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation refers to the period of tribulation just prior to the coming of christ. Those who shall be delivered are those whose names are written in the book of life, God's record of those who have been justified by faith (see ex. 32:32; ps. 69:28; l uke 10:20; r ev. 20:12).

12:2 Sleep is a euphemism for death, as the context in the dust of the earth illustrates. Awake is a reference to resurrection. Though this passage appears to refer to a general resurrection, other passages suggest that there is more than one (see John 5:25). It is not unusual for prophecy in the oT to present events separated by a considerable span of time as if they occurred in immediate relationship to each other (see is. 61:1, 2). Daniel is simply saying that after the tribulation, many—both righteous and wicked—will be raised. This resurrection of many of the righteous seems to be a reference to the resurrection of israel (see “your people” in v. 1).

12:3 The wise not only understand salvation themselves (see 2 Tim. 3:15), they also turn many others to the way of righteousness.

12:4 Knowledge shall increase is a reference to knowledge that pertains to these prophecies.

12:5, 6 As Daniel stood beside the Tigris river, he saw three persons, one on each side of the river and one above the river. The two others refers to two angels, different from the ones Daniel had already seen. The man clothed in linen may be the preincarnate christ (10:6). How long refers to the duration of the trials. Daniel was not asking when the events would begin.

12:7 A time, times, and half a time, which adds up to three and one-half years (7:25), may refer to the period immediately preceding the Second coming of christ (7:27). Others have suggested that this expression does not refer to a specific number of years but instead a period of time that the Lord would shorten because of his mercy.

12:8 Daniel did not understand his own revelation (see v. 4).

12:10 Many will be purified, made white, and refined (11:35). Suffering will refine the righteous, but the wicked will continue in their evil.

sealed

(heb. chatham) (12:9; is. 29:11; Jer. 32:10) Strong's #2856

This word means “to affix a seal.” To authenticate a document and assure its integrity, a king or official would close it with an application of clay or wax, stamped with an impression of his seal. The document then carried his authority and could not be altered without breaking the seal. Letters (1 Kin. 21:8), land deeds (Jer. 32:10), covenants (Neh. 10:1), and royal decrees (esth. 3:12) were all authenticated with seals. Daniel's prophetic announcements were symbolically sealed (12:9), indicating that they were authoritative and could not be altered, until the day of their fulfillment. In revelation, a seal of the scroll of judgment is broken, indicating that the time of its fulfillment has come (r ev. 5:1–10).

<sup>11</sup>“And from the time that the daily sacrifice is taken away, and the abomination of desolation is set up, there shall be one thousand two hundred and ninety days. <sup>12</sup>Blessed is he who waits, and comes to the one thousand three hundred and thirty-five days.

wait

(heb. chakah) (12:12; 2 kin. 7:9; Job 32:4; ps. 33:20; 106:13; is. 8:17; 30:18) Strong's #2442

in Scripture, the word “wait” normally suggests the anxious, yet confident, expectation by God’s people that the Lord will intervene on their behalf. Such waiting may be for answers to prayer (ps. 25:5), for the coming of the Holy Spirit (Acts 1:4), for salvation (Gen. 49:18), or especially for the coming of the Messiah to bring salvation to His people and to establish His kingdom on earth (ps. 37:34; Luke 12:36; Rom. 8:23; 1 Thess. 1:10). Waiting, therefore, is the working out of hope.

12:11 one thousand two hundred and ninety days: Various interpretations have been suggested for this number of days. One significant interpretation is that these days refer to the middle of a seven-year period of tribulation prior to the coming of Christ. At that time, the Antichrist will abolish the abominable and idolatrous sacrifices that he had established (9:27).

12:13 you shall rest, and will arise: Daniel would die and be resurrected.

Jerusalem During the Time of the Prophets

c. 750–586 B.C.

Refugees arrived in Jerusalem about the time of the fall of the northern kingdom (722 B.C.). Settlement spread to the western hill, and a new wall was added for protection. King Hezekiah's engineers carved an underground aqueduct out of solid rock to bring an ample water supply inside the city walls, enabling Jerusalem to survive the siege of Sennacherib in 701.

THE BOOK OF HOSEA

LIKE OTHERS BEFORE and after him, Hosea discovered that being a prophet had its occupational hazards. The Lord sometimes required His prophets to perform difficult and even humiliating object lessons to complement their messages. At the beginning of Hosea's prophetic ministry, the Lord told him to get married and announced that Hosea's chosen bride would be unfaithful to her marriage vows. Her adultery would vividly illustrate Israel's unfaithfulness to her covenant Lord.

Hosea chose Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, as his wife and they had three children, each of whom received a symbolic name from the Lord. The firstborn son's name Jezreel was a reminder of the atrocities that had occurred at Jezreel. God would soon judge Israel for these sins, appropriately through a military defeat at this same city. Their daughter Lo-Ruhamah's name, meaning "Not Loved," announced that the Lord would temporarily withdraw His love from Israel. The third child's name Lo-Ammi, meaning "Not My People," anticipated the severe disruption of the Lord's covenantal relationship with His people.

Because of Gomer's adulteries, the marriage disintegrated, and she eventually became the slave or concubine of another man. However, the Lord instructed Hosea to buy back his wife. Hosea's act of mercy toward his wife was a striking picture of the Lord's great love for Israel.

Author and Date Hosea the son of Beeri prophesied during the eighth century B.C. His ministry began while Uzziah (Azariah) was king of Judah (792–740 B.C.) and Jeroboam II was king of Israel (792–753 B.C.). Hosea's prophetic career spanned the reigns of the Judean kings Jotham (752–736 B.C.) and Ahaz (736–720 B.C.) and ended during Hezekiah's rule (729–699 B.C.). Hosea also witnessed the reigns of the last six kings of Israel, although he did not name these kings in his prophecies.

Historical Setting Hosea began prophesying during a time of general prosperity. Jeroboam had extended Israel's borders through several military operations (see 2 Kin. 14:24–28). In the south, Uzziah had strengthened Judah's armed forces and defeated the nation's enemies (see 2 Chr. 26:1–15). But despite the outward success of the two nations, signs of trouble were on the horizon. As the Book of Hosea makes clear, idolatry—especially worship of the Canaanite god Baal—was widespread in the northern kingdom. The assassination of Zechariah, Jeroboam's son and successor, in 753 B.C. ended Jehu's dynasty and introduced a new era of political turmoil. Making matters worse, the mighty Assyrian Empire, after several decades of declining power, was once more flexing its muscles and looking westward. During the second half of the eighth century B.C., Assyria reduced Israel to a vassal state (required by treaty to pay regular tribute to Assyria), then a puppet state (ruled by a king chosen by Assyria), and finally a province (ruled by an Assyrian governor). Judah also declined spiritually and was torn by political dissension. King Ahaz rejected Isaiah's offer of divine protection and instead embarked on a pro-Assyrian policy that facilitated the Assyrian takeover of the palestinian states, reduced Judah to vassal status, and drained the nation's economic wealth.

Literary Structure The Book of hosea fluctuates between judgment and salvation. each of the book's five major sections begins on a sour note but concludes with a positive affirmation of God's commitment to his people and the expectation that he will restore them.

As a prophet and a poet, hosea uses an arsenal of rhetorical and poetic techniques to communicate his message in a memorable and persuasive manner. he uses a variety of metaphors as he depicts a broad range of themes, including God's anger, judgment, devotion, and love, as well as israel's waywardness and stubbornness. hosea employs images that were familiar to his contemporaries, drawing extensively from agriculture and nature. hosea paints some of the most moving, terrifying, and exhilarating word pictures in all of the Bible.

Purpose and Major Themes hosea's purpose was to denounce sin, to warn of impending judgment, and to assure the faithful that God's love would win out in the end. israel, the northern kingdom, is the primary focus of hosea's prophecy. hosea accused the nation of being unfaithful to its vows, just as his own adulterous wife had been unfaithful to her vows. By participating in the pagan fertility rites of Baalism, the people violated their covenant with the Lord. The Lord did not tolerate this rebellion and was prepared to bring judgment against israel. The judgments threatened in the covenant (see Deut. 28:15–68). God's purpose, however, was not entirely punitive; he intended these severe judgments to bring the nation to its senses. hosea proclaimed that the Lord would eventually restore his marriage with his people and again pour his blessings upon them.

israel's covenant relationship with God is at the heart of hosea's message. God delivered his people from slavery in egypt, established them as a nation, and took great delight in them. he looked for a favorable response to his love and obedience to the commandments he had given to regulate the people's worship and daily activities. however, the people were ungrateful, turning to other gods, violating the religious and social standards of God's covenant, and forming alliances with surrounding nations.

When God establishes a binding relationship, he demands absolute loyalty. Through hosea, God announced that he would use severe judgment to free his people from their spiritual stupor and get their attention. This judgment would take the forms of drought, invasion, and exile.

Though the severity of God's judgment might give the impression that israel had been abandoned forever, God intended to restore his people. When they repented of their sins, he would return them to their land, reunite the north and south under an ideal Davidic king, and restore his rich blessings.

The Book of hosea gives us a clear and balanced picture of God. he loves his people and desires an intimate and vibrant relationship with them. he is jealous of their affections and tolerates no rivals. When they sin, he will discipline them as severely as is necessary. While God's jealousy may seem inappropriate and his discipline may seem harsh, this divine reaction to his people's sin is actually evidence of his love and commitment. he will allow nothing to ruin the relationship he has established and will do everything to preserve it. in the end, his devotion and mercy will win out, and his people will come to their senses, giving him the love he fervently desires.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

After reading hosea, it's only natural to think of Jesus, the sinless Son of God, coming to a sin-prone planet. he demonstrated his love and commitment and yet was rejected and betrayed. Matthew applied hosea 11:1 to the infant Jesus exiled in egypt with his parents: "When israel was a child, i loved him, and out of egypt i called My son" (compare Matt. 2:15). But by far the most compelling portrait of Jesus is hosea's marriage to Gomer, a woman who would be unfaithful to him. The picture is of our God who loves us even as we stray away from him and into sin. As hosea bought back his wife despite her adultery, so God, through his Son Jesus, identified with our plight and lovingly paid the cost of our freedom with his blood.

The Family of Hosea

<sup>2</sup>When the LORD began to speak by Hosea, the LORD said to Hosea:

<sup>f</sup>“Go, take yourself a wife of harlotry
And children of harlotry,
For <sup>g</sup>the land has committed great <sup>h</sup>harlotry
By departing from the LORD.”

<sup>3</sup>So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son. <sup>4</sup>Then the LORD said to him:

“Call his name Jezreel,
For in a little while <sup>h</sup>I will avenge the bloodshed of Jezreel on the house of Jehu, <sup>i</sup>And bring an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel.
<sup>5</sup> <sup>j</sup>It shall come to pass in that day That I will break the bow of Israel in the Valley of Jezreel.”

<sup>6</sup>And she conceived again and bore a daughter. Then God said to him:

“Call her name <sup>2</sup>Lo-Ruhamah, <sup>h</sup>For I will no longer have mercy on
the house of Israel,
<sup>3</sup>But I will utterly take them away.
Judah,
Will save them by the LORD their God,
And <sup>m</sup>will not save them by bow,
Nor by sword or battle,
By horses or horsemen.”

God’s Unfaithful People

<sup>4</sup>bring charges;

For <sup>a</sup>she is not My wife, nor am I her Husband!

Let her put away her <sup>b</sup>harlotries from her sight,
And her adulteries from between her breasts;

<sup>3</sup> Lest <sup>c</sup>I strip her naked And expose her, as in the day she was <sup>d</sup>born,

1:2, 3 wife of harlotry: Gomer may have been a common prostitute at the time Hosea married her, or perhaps she had participated in a ritual sexual act as part of the Baal cult. However, it is more likely that the descriptive phrase anticipates what Gomer would become following her marriage to Hosea. children of harlotry: if Gomer was a prostitute when she married Hosea, this could refer to children that Gomer already had and that Hosea adopted at the time of marriage. A more likely possibility is that the title anticipates children born to a mother whose reputation and escapades would make their lineage suspect. Gomer’s marital infidelity is a picture of Israel’s idolatry and unfaithfulness to its covenant with God.

1:4 bloodshed of Jezreel: in 841 B.C. Jehu, with God’s approval, destroyed the evil dynasty of Omri by slaughtering Jezebel, the sons of Ahab, and the prophets and priests of Baal (see 2 Kin. 9; 10).

1:5 to break the enemy’s bow means to destroy his military strength (see 1 Sam. 2:4; ps. 46:9; Jer. 49:35).

1:6 Lo-Ruhamah means “Not I loved,” foreshadowing the Lord’s rejection of Israel.

1:7 Will save them: This prophecy looks ahead to the Lord’s deliverance of Jerusalem in 701 B.C., when he would miraculously destroy the Assyrian armies outside the city’s walls (see 2 Kin. 19:32-36).

1:9 Lo-Ammi means “Not My people,” threatening the termination of the Lord’s covenant relationship with his people (see 1 Ev. 26:12).

1:10 The Lord would not reject his people forever. God would fulfill his promise to Abraham and make the Israelites as numerous as the sand of the sea (see Gen. 22:17; 32:12).

1:11 One head refers to the messianic king to come (3:5). Jezreel means “God plants,” picturing God as sowing seed that would germinate and grow abundantly (2:23).

2:1 brethren . . . sisters: God would mercifully restore his covenant relationship with his people, reversing the judgment symbolized by the names Lo-Ruhamah and Lo-Ammi.

2:2 Bring charges: The Lord formally accused Israel of unfaithfulness to the covenant. Your mother refers to the sinful nation of Hosea’s time, symbolized by Gomer (1:2, 3). she is not My wife: This may be a formal announcement of divorce or a realistic confession that the relationship between God and Israel had lost its vitality.

2:3 The Lord warned that he might publicly humiliate his unfaithful

God's Mercy on His People

- 14<sup>o</sup> “Therefore, behold, I will allure her,
Will bring her into the wilderness,
And speak <sup>7</sup>comfort to her.
- 15 I will give her her vineyards from there,
And <sup>n</sup>the Valley of Achor as a door of hope;
She shall sing there,

- 16<sup>o</sup> “And it shall be, in that day,”
Says the LORD,
“That you will call Me <sup>8</sup>‘My Husband,’
And no longer call Me <sup>9</sup>‘My Master.’” wife by stripping her naked (see ezek. 16:35–43). dry land: This simile pictures the loss of fertility, an appropriate punishment for a nation that had sought fertility by worshiping another god.

2:4, 5 Her children refers to the israelites who lived in the land. Though the mother (the land) and the children (the inhabitants of the land) are distinct in hosea's metaphor, both actually refer to the sinful nation. The Lord warned that he might disown the children because they were a reminder of their mother's unfaithfulness.

2:6, 7 chase: This word draws attention to the strong passion the people of israel felt for Baal. These verses anticipate the exile, when israel would be separated from the idols of Baal.

2:8, 9 Since israel refused to acknowledge the Lord as her source of agricultural prosperity, the Lord would take back his blessings and no longer provide for the nation's basic needs.

2:10 uncover her lewdness: The Lord would publicly expose israel's unfaithfulness through judgment. in the sight of her lovers: The Baal idols would be unable to help israel, proving their unworthiness to be worshiped.

2:11 New Moons were monthly celebrations (see Num. 10:10; 1 Sam. 20:5, 18, 24). Sabbath celebrations were weekly.

2:12 The people of israel believed that the Baal idols gave them agricultural prosperity in exchange for their worship. forest . . . beasts of the field: The Lord would break down the nation's defenses and turn them into overgrown thickets inhabited by wild animals.

2:13 The word earrings may refer to rings worn in the ear (see Gen. 35:4; ex. 32:2, 3) or nose (see Gen. 24:47; is. 3:21; ezek. 16:12).

2:14 having separated israel from her lovers, the Lord would seek to win her back by making romantic overtures and wooing her with tender words of love. wilderness: The coming exile from the land is compared to the wilderness wanderings of Moses' time.

2:15 Valley of Achor, meaning “Valley of Trouble,” was a reminder of the sin of Achan and God's discipline of the nation of israel for his sin (Josh. 7:24–26). This place would be transformed into a door of hope when the returning exiles passed through it on their return to the land.

2:16, 17 israel would call the Lord her Husband, not her Master, because the latter title might have reminded the people of their former devotion to Baal. The word Baal can mean “Master.”

- 17 For <sup>q</sup>I will take from her mouth the names of the Baals, And they shall be remembered by their name no more.
- 18 In that day I will make a <sup>r</sup>covenant for them
With the beasts of the field,
With the birds of the air,
And with the creeping things of the ground.
Bow and sword of battle <sup>s</sup>I will shatter from the earth,
To make them <sup>t</sup>lie down safely.
- 19<sup>a</sup> “I will betroth you to Me forever; Yes, I will betroth you to Me In righteousness and justice, In lovingkindness and mercy;

God's Charge Against Israel

4 Hear the word of the LORD, You children of Israel,
For the LORD brings a <sup>a</sup>charge <sup>1</sup> against the inhabitants of the land:

- “There is no truth or mercy
Or <sup>b</sup>knowledge of God in the land.
- 2 By swearing and lying,
Killing and stealing and committing adultery,
They break all restraint,
With bloodshed <sup>2</sup>upon bloodshed.
- 3 Therefore <sup>c</sup>the land will mourn;
And <sup>d</sup>everyone who dwells there will waste away
With the beasts of the field
And the birds of the air;
Even the fish of the sea will be taken away.
- 4 “Now let no man contend, or rebuke another;
For your people are like those <sup>e</sup>who contend with the priest.
- 5 Therefore you shall stumble <sup>f</sup>in the day;

2:19, 20 betroth: Betrothal was a binding commitment, the last step before the wedding and consummation. forever: The Lord emphasized that the new marriage between himself and Israel would be permanent. Lovingkindness means “devotion, commitment.” you shall know: Israel would respond positively to the Lord’s love and acknowledge that he is her husband and benefactor (contrast vv. 8, 13; see Jer. 31:34).

2:21-23 The heavens would provide rain for the earth; the earth would produce its fruit in turn. Israel is called Jezreel, meaning “God plants,” because the Lord would replant Israel in the land.

3:1, 2 To illustrate his intention to redeem Israel, the Lord instructed Hosea to reclaim Gomer, his unfaithful wife. I bought her: Gomer had become the property of another man. Hosea’s purchase of Gomer symbolized God’s great devotion, which moves him to seek reconciliation even if it means subjecting himself to humiliation (see phil. 2:8).

3:3, 4 Gomer’s isolation symbolized Israel’s exile, when she lost her political independence and could no longer worship as she chose

(2:6, 7). sacred pillar: These were stone pillars used by the Canaanites in their worship of Baal and other gods (see 2 kin. 3:2; 10:26, 27; 17:10). An ephod was a priestly garment (see ex. 28); teraphim were idols (see 2 kin. 23:24). Both were apparently used for divination.

3:5 seek: This word highlights the change that would occur in Israel’s attitude (2:7). David: This is likely a reference to David’s Son, the Messiah (see is. 11:1-10; Jer. 23:5; 33:15). Other prophets also refer to the Messiah as David (see Jer. 30:9; ezek. 34:23, 24; 37:24, 25).

4:1 charge: The Hebrew word refers to a formal complaint charging Israel with breaking the covenant. Mercy means “loyalty” or “devotion.” knowledge: This word does not refer to intellectual awareness, but to recognition of God’s authority as Israel’s covenant Lord.

4:2 This accusation mentions five of the Ten commandments. Swearing refers to the misuse of the Lord’s name in oaths and curses (see ex. 20:7).

4:5, 6 The failure of Israel’s religious leaders, including most of the prophets, would bring about their downfall. lack of knowledge: The priests had failed to teach God’s law to the people (see

Hosea's Heartbreak and God's Grief

The tragic marriage of Hosea and Gomer painted a vivid portrait for the Israelites of how God viewed His relationship with them.

Hosea and Gomer	God and Israel
• Hosea marries Gomer (1:3).	• God is betrothed to Israel (2:19).
• Hosea is a faithful husband (3:3).	• God is a faithful "Husband" (1:7).
• Hosea's love is unrequited (3:1).	• God's love is unrequited (3:1).
• The relationship disintegrates (3:1).	• The relationship disintegrates (2:2).
• Gomer pursues other men (3:1).	• Israel pursues other gods (4:1).
• Gomer is indifferent to the feelings of Hosea (3:1).	• Israel is indifferent to God's feelings (11:1).
• Hosea has a daughter whose name Lo-Ruhamah means "Not Loved" (1:6).	• God will not have pity on His wayward children in Israel (5:6).
• Hosea has a son whose name Lo-Ammi means "Not My People" (1:9).	• God declares that the Israelites are not His people (1:9).
• Hosea redeems and restores the adulterous Gomer (3:2).	• God redeems and restores the unfaithful nation, Israel (14:4–8).

stumble

(heb. kashal) (4:5; 5:5; 1 Sam. 2:4; is. 3:8) Strong's #3782

I literally this verb means "to totter," "to trip and fall," or "to stumble." The prophets frequently used this word to describe the spiritual life of the hebrews. For example, hosea likens both false prophets and their followers to those who stumble in the dark: they are stumbling over the sin of idolatry and falling to their ruin (4:5; 5:5; is. 3:8). isaiah warns that those who rely on their own strength will stumble and fall (is. 40:30), but those who are led by the l ord will not stumble (is. 63:13). in fact, the l ord will provide strength to those who have stumbled in the past and now call upon him (1 Sam. 2:4).

Mal. 2:7). As a result, the priests would be the special object of God's judgment. he would terminate the priestly line.

4:7, 8 their glory: Great honor was attached to the priesthood. however, israel's sinful priests would forfeit their prestige. eat up the sin of My people: The priests greedily accepted the meat from the people's hypocritical and empty sacrifices (6:6; 8:11–13).

4:10 The israelites worshiped Baal in order to have good crops and many children, but they still would not have enough to eat, nor would they multiply in number. Harlotry here refers to religious prostitution associated with Baal worship, not to immorality in general.

4:11–14 Wine was apparently used in Baal worship, along with divination, sacrifices, and ritual sexual acts. Their staff refers to wooden idols that Baal worshipers consulted for guidance. daughters . . . brides: Many of israel's young women had participated in the sexual rites of Baal worship, but the men were just as guilty.

4:15 hosea warned the people of Judah not to follow in the sinful footsteps of the northern kingdom Israel. Gilgal was an important religious center in the north, known in Hosea’s time for its hypocritical religious practices (see 9:15; 12:11; Amos 4:4). Beth Aven, which means “house of iniquity,” is a sarcastic reference to the important religious center Bethel, which means “house of God” (see Amos 5:5).

4:17–19 Ephraim, one of the largest tribes of Israel, is used here to represent the entire northern kingdom. Let him alone: These words have a tone of frustration and resignation, suggesting that Israel was hopelessly rebellious. The wind of divine judgment would sweep the Israelites away and leave them embarrassed by their idolatry.

5:1 Mizpah here is probably a reference to Mizpah of Gilead, located in Israelite territory east of the Jordan. Tabor: Mount Tabor was in the northern kingdom, southwest of the Sea of Galilee. snare . . . net: The leaders of Israel, especially the priests, had promoted pagan worship at Mizpah and Tabor and in this way led the people to destruction.

5:2 The revolters probably refers to the leaders and priests who had rebelled against God’s authority by rejecting his commandments. Slaughter may refer literally to acts of violence or to pagan sacrifices.

5:3 not hidden: God’s people could not hide their harlotry, for it had defiled them. According to the Law of Moses, adultery made a person spiritually unclean or defiled (see 1 ev. 18:20, 24; Num. 5:20, 27, 28).

5:4 spirit of harlotry: The people had an uncontrollable desire to worship other gods.

5:5 Israel’s arrogant attitude was self-incriminating and self-destructive. Judah, the southern kingdom, had followed Israel’s moral example and would experience the same consequences.

5:6, 7 Though Israel had rebelled against God, many Israelites still tried to maintain a semblance of outward devotion to him. They had dealt treacherously with God by worshipping other gods and participating in pagan fertility rites. Their heritage, or “portion,” refers to the people’s landed property and fields, which God would allow wild animals and invading armies to overrun and devour (2:12; 11:6).

5:8, 9 Blow the ram’s horn: This act signaled an emergency and mustered the fighting men to defend the land. The towns mentioned here were north of Jerusalem, within or near the borders of Benjamin. The implication is that the enemy army had already swept through the north and was ready to invade Judah. what is sure: The Lord affirmed that the announced judgment was an unalterable decree.

5:10 Stones were used to mark the boundaries of property. A thief could steal a part of someone’s land by moving the landmark.

commit harlotry

(heb. zanah) (1:2; 5:3; Jer. 3:3; ezek. 16:35) Strong’s #2181

The verb zanah refers to having illicit sexual relations, especially involving prostitution. Two forms of prostitution were practiced in the ancient world: common prostitution and ritual, or “sacred,” prostitution, which involved pagan fertility rites. Both forms were strictly forbidden in God’s law (1 ev. 19:29; Deut. 23:17). The OT frequently uses prostitution as an image of the sin of idolatry. Israel was pledged to serve one God (ex. 20:3), so idolatry was like marital unfaithfulness against the Lord. Jeremiah and Ezekiel develop this image in graphic detail (see Jer. 3; ezek. 16; 23), and Hosea actually married a prostitute as a living symbol of God’s patience with Israel’s infidelities (see ch. 1).

The Morning Dew

palestine's rainfall is directly related to the latitude and elevation of the land. The mountainous regions in northern Galilee receive the most rain (24 to 36 inches), while the southern plains get very little (4 to 8 inches). An estimated 60 to 70 percent of the precipitation is lost through evaporation because of the land's high temperatures and low humidity. Only 10 to 25 percent is absorbed for agricultural purposes. So the dew that falls approximately 250 nights of the year is very essential. Some vegetation depends entirely on the dew's moisture. It is an exhilarating experience to wake up in the Negev desert on a summer morning and see a thick fog! Yet the dew evaporates quickly, and it became proverbial to compare israel's faithlessness to "a morning cloud . . . the early dew [that] goes away" (6:4).

A Call to Repentance

6 Come, <sup>a</sup> and let us return to the LORD;

For <sup>b</sup>He has torn, but <sup>c</sup>He will heal us;

He has stricken, but He will <sup>d</sup>bind us up.

Impenitence of Israel and Judah

- 4 "O Ephraim, what shall I do to you? O Judah, what shall I do to you?

For your faithfulness is like a morning cloud, And like the early dew it goes away.

- 5 Therefore I have hewn them by the prophets, I have slain them by <sup>i</sup>the words of My mouth; And <sup>2</sup>your judgments are like light that goes forth.

 5 <sup>i</sup> [Jer. 23:29] <sup>2</sup> or the judgments on you

The law warned that altering a boundary in this way would bring a special judgment from God (see Deut. 19:14; 27:17; prov. 22:28).

5:12 As a moth slowly destroys clothing, so the Lord would destroy Israel (see Job 13:28; is. 50:9; 51:8). Rottenness elsewhere refers to bone or tooth decay (see prov. 12:4; 14:30; h ab. 3:16).

5:13 Both Israel and Judah sought protection through alliances with Assyria, but the cruel Assyrians were more interested in exploiting God's people politically and economically. King Jareb probably refers to Tiglath-pileser III, with whom both Israel and Judah formed alliances (see 2 kin. 15:19, 20; 16:7-9).

5:14, 15 Attacking like a ferocious, invincible lion, God would scatter his people as judgment for their treachery. But the purpose of the Lord's discipline was to drive the people to earnestly seek him. The Hebrew verb for earnestly seek suggests eager longing and desire (see Job 24:5; ps. 63:1).

6:1 After being torn by the divine lion (5:14), the people would come to their senses and seek to renew their allegiance to the Lord.

6:2 two days . . . the third day: The reference here is to a short time period. When God's people truly repent, God is eager to restore his relationship with them. The people's hope for revival was consistent with God's ancient promises through Moses (see Deut. 30:1-3).

6:3 God's restored presence and blessings would be like the rain that waters and renews the earth. latter and former rain: The latter rains of Israel came in the spring and caused the plants to grow. The former rains came in the autumn and softened the ground for plowing and sowing.

6:4 Any apparent faithfulness that Hosea's generation displayed was short-lived and disappeared as quickly as fog or dew before sunlight.

6:5 words of My mouth: The prophets announced God's destructive judgments, which then fell on his unrepentant people. your judgments are like light that goes forth: This comparison suggests that God's judgment, like bright sunlight, was obvious to all; or that like a bolt of lightning or a blinding flash of light, it came swiftly.

Nor seek Him for all this.

Futile Reliance on the Nations

- 11 “Ephraim <sup>l</sup>also is like a silly dove, without <sup>5</sup>sense—
<sup>m</sup>They call to Egypt,
They go to <sup>n</sup>Assyria.
- 12 Wherever they go, I will <sup>o</sup>spread My net on them;
I will bring them down like birds of the air;
I will chastise them

6:6 Mercy means “loyalty” or “devotion” (4:1). Knowledge of God does not refer to mere head knowledge, but to a genuine recognition of God’s authority that produces obedience to his commandments.

6:8, 9 even r amoth in Gilead and Shechem, which were cities of refuge where manslayers could find asylum, had been contaminated by bloodshed.

6:10 horrible thing: A related hebrew word is used in Jer. 29:17 of rotten figs.

6:11 The comparison of God’s judgment to a harvest indicates that the judgment was inevitable and implies that it would be thorough in its destruction.

7:1, 2 hardened sinners typically do not consider that God will hold them accountable for their deeds (see ps. 73:11).

7:3 While kings should promote justice and be appalled by wickedness (see ps. 101), israel’s rulers approved of the people’s sin.

7:4–7 The background for these verses is the political turmoil of the northern kingdom. During a 20-year period (752–732 B.C.), four israelite kings were assassinated (see 2 kin. 15). The dangerous, uncontrollable perpetrators of these crimes are described here. These conspirators were like a large baker’s oven that has been heating up for several hours while the bread dough rises. By morning, the flaming fire within can be quite destructive.

7:8 instead of depending on the l ord for political stability, israel formed alliances with surrounding nations. The destructive outcome of this policy is compared to a cake that has been placed over a fire and left untuned.

7:9, 10 gray hairs: israel did not recognize that its power was declining and its freedom was slipping away, like an aging man who is gradually overtaken by the signs of old age.

7:11, 12 israel was caught between the two superpowers, Egypt and Assyria. israel tried to maintain its independence by playing one power against the other, but this vacillating policy was without sense. israel was like a silly dove, flitting about from place to place. The l ord would trap them and chastise them for their spiritual unsteadiness.

- 13<sup>a</sup> “Woe to them, for they have fled from Me!
Destruction to them,
Because they have transgressed against Me!
Though <sup>9</sup>I redeemed them,
Yet they have spoken lies against Me.
- 14<sup>r</sup> “They did not cry out to Me with their heart
When they wailed upon their beds.
- “They <sup>6</sup>assemble together for grain and new <sup>s</sup>wine,
Yet they devise evil against Me;
<sup>1</sup>They are like a treacherous bow.
Their princes shall fall by the sword
For the <sup>u</sup>cursings of their tongue.
This shall be their derision <sup>v</sup>in the land of Egypt.

Like <sup>k</sup>a wild donkey alone by itself;
Ephraim <sup>l</sup>has hired lovers.
- 10 Yes, though they have hired among the nations,
Now <sup>m</sup>I will gather them;
And they shall <sup>4</sup>sorrow a little,
Because of the <sup>5</sup>burden of <sup>n</sup>the king of princes.
- 11 “Because Ephraim has made many altars for sin,
They have become for him altars for sinning.

7:13 I like a bird that flies away when frightened (see Jer. 4:25), israel fled from the Lord and his standards, despite his willingness to help the people.

7:14 God sent a drought that took away israel's grain and new wine. Yet instead of turning to him in repentance, the idolatrous israelites demonstrated their devotion to Baal. According to canaanite religious beliefs, prolonged drought was a signal that the storm god Baal had been temporarily defeated by the god of death and was imprisoned in the underworld. Baal's worshippers would mourn his death in hopes that their tears might facilitate his resurrection and the restoration of crops.

7:15 Strengthened their arms probably refers to God's past military help, especially during the reign of Jeroboam ii earlier in the eighth century B.C. (see 2 kin. 14:24, 25).

7:16 A treacherous bow is a bow that is damaged or flawed in its workmanship and does not shoot effectively. Such a bow would be unreliable and therefore worthless to a warrior or hunter. Though the Lord had been faithful to israel, israel had not been loyal to him (see ps. 78:57). derision in the land of Egypt: Note the irony in the fact that one of the nations to whom israel had looked for help (v. 11) would make fun of israel when judgment fell.

8:1–3 Just as an eagle swiftly swoops down and snatches its prey, so Assyria would invade israel and take its people into captivity. The house of the Lord refers to the entire land of israel. we know You: Though israel claimed to acknowledge the Lord's authority, it had violated his covenant and rejected the qualities the Lord regarded as good, such as justice, loyalty, and humility (see Amos 5:14, 15; Mic. 6:8).

8:4 They set up kings: This phrase alludes to the political turmoil surrounding the throne of the northern kingdom during the eighth century B.C., when four kings were assassinated during a 20-year period (7:4–7).

8:5 if the capital city Samaria stands for the northern kingdom in general, the reference here may be to the calf idols made by Jeroboam i (see 1 kin. 12:28–30).

8:6 A workman made it: hosea reasoned that anything that is made with human hands cannot possibly qualify as a god.

8:7 in its original context, this well-known proverb emphasizes the futility of israel's alliances with false gods and foreign nations. Morally speaking, israel had planted wind, symbolizing its moral bankruptcy, and would reap a whirlwind, symbolizing the coming judgment.

8:8 swallowed up: This image vividly depicts the effects of israel's foreign alliances, which drained the nation economically.

8:9, 10 Like a wild donkey: This comparison draws attention to israel's free-spirited attitude and desire to live unrestrained by God's standards. King of princes refers to the conquering Assyrian king.

8:11–13 altars for sin: The Lord regarded israel's religious rituals as sinful because they were not supported by an obedient lifestyle. In fact, israel treated God's law as if it were something strange or alien to them. return to Egypt: egypt symbolizes exile and slavery. The people would actually be taken to Assyria (9:3; 11:5).

- 12 I have written for him <sup>o</sup>the great things of My law,
But they were considered a strange thing.
- 13 For the sacrifices of My offerings
<sup>q</sup>But the LORD does not accept them.
They shall return to Egypt.
- 14<sup>a</sup>For <sup>s</sup>Israel has forgotten <sup>t</sup>his Maker,
And has built <sup>6</sup>temples;
Judah also has multiplied <sup>u</sup>fortified cities;
But <sup>v</sup>I will send fire upon his cities,
And it shall devour his <sup>7</sup>palaces.”

Judgment of Israel's Sin

- 9 Do <sup>a</sup>not rejoice, O Israel, with joy like <sup>other</sup> peoples,
For you have played the harlot against your God.
You have made love for <sup>b</sup>hire on every threshing floor.
- 2 The threshing floor and the winepress
Shall not feed them,
And the new wine shall fail in her.
- 3 They shall not dwell in <sup>c</sup>the LORD's land,
And <sup>e</sup>shall eat unclean things in Assyria.
- 4 They shall not offer wine offerings to the LORD,
Nor <sup>f</sup>shall their <sup>g</sup>sacrifices be pleasing to Him.
It shall be like bread of mourners to them;
All who eat it shall be defiled.

I saw your fathers
As the <sup>p</sup> firstfruits on the fig tree in its first season.
But they went to <sup>q</sup> Baal Peor,
And <sup>2</sup> separated themselves to that shame;

8:14 True security comes from the creator, but God's people trusted instead in their own efforts, symbolized by their temples and fortified cities.

9:1, 2 Because of their association with the harvest, threshing floors were the site of agricultural festivals in which Israel offered up sacrifices to Baal. The Lord would take away the joy of the harvest by destroying the crops and leaving the threshing floors and wine vats empty.

9:3 the Lord's land: Israel had forgotten that their land belonged to the Lord. He alone decided who would or would not live in it (see l ev. 25:23).

9:4, 5 Because they had touched a dead body, mourners were ceremonially unclean and contaminated everything that came in contact with them (see Num. 19:14, 15, 22). Living in a foreign land, Israel would be ceremonially defiled and unable to worship the Lord with sacrifices and offerings.

9:6 Memphis: This Egyptian city, known for its great cemeteries, tombs, and pyramids, symbolized the unclean land of exile (Assyria) to which God's people would be taken captive. Nettles . . . Thorns: The land of Israel would be abandoned, leaving the people's possessions and homes to be overrun by weeds and briars.

9:7 Sinful Israel disdained God's true prophets, regarding them as raving maniacs. The Hebrew word translated insane is used in 1 Sam. 21:15 of David when he pretended to be a madman before the Philistine king. Enmity refers to strong resentment that can give rise to violent behavior.

9:8 A watchman would look for approaching armies and then warn the people so that they could secure the city and prepare for battle (see ezek. 33:6). The prophets were like watchmen because they were sent by God to warn the people of judgment and urge them to repent (see ezek. 3:17).

9:9 As in the days of Gibeah: The reference here is to the rape and murder of a young woman by men of Gibeah, an event that started a civil war (see Judg. 19). Those who witnessed this violent deed remarked that it was the worst crime committed in Israel's history until that time (see Judg. 19:30). However, the sins of Hosea's generation rivaled the infamous Gibeah murder.

9:10 At the beginning of Israel's history, God found great delight in His people. Grapes in the wilderness would be a pleasant surprise; the firstfruits on the fig tree were an irresistible delicacy (see is. 28:4; Jer. 24:2; Mic. 7:1). However, Israel had quickly fallen into sin. At Baal Peor the Israelites had participated in fertility rites with Moabite women, bringing God's judgment down upon the nation (see Num. 25).

- <sup>r</sup>They became an abomination like the thing they loved.
- 11 As for Ephraim, their glory shall fly away like a bird—
No birth, no pregnancy, and no conception!
- 12 Though they bring up their children, Yet I will bereave them to the last man.
Yes, <sup>s</sup>woe to them when I depart from them!
- 13 Just <sup>t</sup>as I saw Ephraim like Tyre, planted in a pleasant place, So Ephraim will bring out his children to the murderer.”
- 14 Give them, O LORD—
What will You give?
Give them <sup>u</sup>a miscarrying womb
And dry breasts!
- 15<sup>4</sup> All their wickedness is in <sup>v</sup>Gilgal, For there I hated them.
Because of the <sup>e</sup>evil of their deeds I will drive them from My house; I will love them no more.
- <sup>w</sup>All their princes are rebellious.
- 16 Ephraim is <sup>3</sup>stricken,
Their root is dried up;
They shall bear no fruit.
Yes, were they to bear children, I would kill the darlings of their womb.”
- 17 My God will <sup>h</sup>cast them away, Because they did not obey Him; And they shall be <sup>z</sup>wanderers among the nations.

- 4 They have spoken words,
Swearing falsely in making a

Thus judgment springs up <sup>d</sup>like

The thorn and thistle shall grow on

And to the hills, “Fall on us!”

9:11 Their glory refers to ephraim’s (israel’s) population, especially its children. like a bird: ephraim’s population would dwindle as its women became barren. The punishment would be appropriate because this generation of israelites, like an earlier generation at Baal peor, promoted fertility by worshiping Baal.

9:12, 13 Any children who were born in israel would be killed in the coming invasion. Tyre was an important economic center located at an advantageous spot on the Mediterranean coast.

9:14 miscarrying womb: Some women of israel would be barren (v. 11); others would bear children, only to lose them to the invader’s sword (vv. 12, 13). Still others would conceive, but miscarry.

9:15 Gilgal had become a center of idolatry (12:11; see Josh. 5). hated: Marriage and divorce provide the background for the language used here. The Lord would reject (hate) his unfaithful wife (see Deut. 22:13; 24:3), drive her from his house (the land), and remove his protective care (love) from her. There may also be an allusion here to Genesis 3:24 and 4:14, which tell how God drove away Adam and then Cain.

9:17 Wanderers may allude to the fate of Cain (see Gen. 4:12), who like israel (v. 9) was guilty of murder.

10:1 Israel empties his vine refers to God’s blessings upon the nation, which contrast with the nation’s ingratitude and idolatry.

10:2 divided: This verb refers to israel’s deceitful and hypocritical ways.

10:3 now they say: This verse anticipates the people’s response when God’s judgment came to destroy israel’s political stability and independence (vv. 7, 15).

10:4 like hemlock in the furrows of the field: This analogy refers to poisonous weeds sprouting up in a field and choking out the crops. In the same way God’s judgment would replace his blessings.

10:5, 6 The Assyrians often carried off the idols of their defeated foes. His own counsel probably refers to israel’s foreign alliances, which would prove disappointing.

10:7 The comparison in this verse depicts israel’s king being swept away like a piece of wood in a stream.

10:8 thorn and thistle: This phrase may allude to Gen. 3:18, the only other passage in the oT where this wording occurs.

- 9 “O Israel, you have sinned from the days of <sup>k</sup>Gibeah; There they stood. The <sup>l</sup>battle in Gibeah against the children of <sup>5</sup>iniquity Did not <sup>6</sup>overtake them.

God's Continuing Love for Israel

- 11 “When Israel was a <sup>1</sup>child, I loved him,
 And out of Egypt <sup>a</sup>I called My <sup>b</sup>son.
 So they <sup>c</sup>went <sup>3</sup>from them;
 They sacrificed to the Baals,
 And burned incense to carved images.
- 3 “<sup>d</sup> I taught Ephraim to walk,
 Taking them by <sup>4</sup>their arms;
 But they did not know that <sup>e</sup>I healed them.
- 4 I drew them with <sup>5</sup>gentle cords,
 With bands of love,
 And <sup>f</sup>I was to them as those who take the yoke from their <sup>6</sup>neck.
<sup>g</sup>I stooped and fed them.
- 5 “He shall not return to the land of Egypt;
 But the Assyrian shall be his king,
 Because they refused to repent.
- 6 And the sword shall slash in his cities,
 Devour his districts,

10:9 israel had persisted in sin since the day when a young woman was raped and murdered by the men of Gibeah (9:9).

10:10 The imagery in this verse depicts the Lord binding his people, like oxen, to a yoke. The figurative yoke is comprised of their two transgressions, probably referring to the ancient crime at Gibeah (v. 9) and the collective sin of hosea's generation. The yoke imagery suggests that the people could not escape the consequences of their deeds.

10:11 loves to thresh: israel preferred to be unrestrained, like an unmuzzled heifer at the threshing floor that can simply lean down and eat the grain. pull a plow: israel's rebellious spirit necessitated harsh treatment, compared here to a farmer binding his calf to the yoke and forcing it to do hard labor. Threshing in this context refers to israel's service to the Lord; plowing refers to the discipline that israel had to acquire through judgment and exile.

10:12 hosea calls the people to repentance, reminding them that a decision could not be postponed, and that God's blessings could still be restored. in israel's case, the people had to reestablish social justice—righteousness—and loyalty—mercy—in the land.

Break up your fallow ground: plowing and planting are necessary preliminary steps for growing a crop, which eventually sprouts when the rain falls in season. in the same way, repentance would set the stage for restored blessing, which God would eventually rain down on his people.

10:13 The process of repentance and restored blessing outlined in v. 12 contrasts sharply with reality. israel had planted the seeds of sin and reaped the inevitable consequences. Fruit of lies likely refers to the people's lack of loyalty to God (v. 4).

10:14 The identity of the conqueror Shalman and the location of

Beth Arbel are uncertain. At any rate, the battle referred to seems to have been well known to hosea's audience because of its extreme violence.

10:15 israel's defeat would be so swift that the nation's king would be cut off before the battle had scarcely begun.

11:1 The Lord regarded israel as his son and treated the nation with special care, delivering the people from bondage in Egypt (see Matt. 2:15).

11:2 they called them: The plural subject probably refers to God's prophets (see 12:10; Jer. 7:25, 26).

11:3 I like a father teaching his child to walk, the Lord patiently gave the people of israel direction and cared for them tenderly when they experienced pain or injury.

11:4 The image of v. 3 changes as God is compared to a farmer and israel to a beast of burden. The Lord had placed restraints—cords and bands—on israel, but his regulations, rather than being overly strict or harsh, reflected his concern for the people's well-being. God did not drive them mercilessly but provided for their needs, like a farmer who periodically removes the yoke from an animal's neck so that it can eat.

11:5 Repent is the same hebrew word translated return earlier in the verse. israel could not remain stationary. it had to return either to the Lord or to bondage. israel's refusal to return to the Lord would result in a return to slavery.

11:6 Devour is the same hebrew word translated fed in v. 4. The people of israel had rejected the gentle Master who fed them and provided for their needs. As a result, they would be devoured by the swords of the invading Assyrians.

- And consume them,

How can I make you like <sup>j</sup>Admah?
How can I set you like Zeboiim?
My heart <sup>9</sup>churns within Me;
My sympathy is stirred.
- 9 I will not execute the fierceness of My anger;
I will not again destroy Ephraim.
<sup>k</sup>For I am God, and not man,
The Holy One in your midst;
And I will not <sup>l</sup>come with terror.
- 10 “They shall walk after the LORD.
<sup>l</sup>He will roar like a lion.
When He roars,
Then His sons shall come trembling from the west;
- 11 They shall come trembling like a bird
from Egypt,
<sup>m</sup>Like a dove from the land of Assyria.
<sup>n</sup>And I will let them dwell in their houses,”
Says the LORD.

Ever since the land of Egypt;
<sup>l</sup> I will again make you dwell in tents,
As in the days of the appointed feast.

11:8, 9 As the Lord contemplated the judgment of Israel, his sympathy moved him to have compassion and stop short of totally annihilating the people. Admah and Zeboiim, sister cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, were destroyed by God's judgment (see Gen. 10:19; 14:2, 8; Deut. 29:23). For I am God, and not man: When human beings get angry, they are often incapable of tempering their anger with compassion, but God's emotions operate in perfect balance. 11:10, 11 in the coming judgment, God would tear Israel like a lion (5:14); in the future, God's lionlike roar would summon his people to return from exile. in the past, the people of Israel had flown back and forth between the nations like a dove (7:11); in the future, the people would speed back to their homeland like a bird. 11:12 Ephraim has encircled Me: The northern kingdom had surrounded God as if he were under siege.

12:1 The prophet focuses in the verse on the nation's social injustice and foreign alliances. Israel's wicked behavior would lead nowhere. Oil may have been used in a ritual ratifying a treaty or given as a sign of loyalty.

12:2 according to his ways: God judges people and nations according to their deeds.

12:3, 4 Hosea draws a lesson from the life of Jacob, the father of the nation. Jacob's greedy, self-reliant, and deceitful character was evident from birth when he grabbed the heel of his brother Esau

(see Gen. 25:26). The climactic event in Jacob's spiritual growth was his wrestling match with God the night before he was reunited with his brother. Jacob acknowledged his dependence on God, begged for divine favor, and received a blessing (see Gen. 32:24–30). the Angel: Making no mention of an angel, the Genesis account refers to Jacob's foe as “a Man” (Gen. 32:24 reflects Jacob's initial perspective), but then indicates that Jacob wrestled with God himself (see Gen. 32:28, 30). Since vv. 4, 5 seem to place God and the Angel in parallel, some understand the Angel of the Lord to be in view here. This Angel is sometimes equated with God in the OT (see Gen. 16:9–13; Judg. 6:11–14; 13:20–22).

12:5, 6 Just as Jacob had come to his senses and recognized his dependence on God, so Israel was to repent (return), reestablish justice in society, and depend (wait) on the Lord.

12:7 The word Canaanite also means “merchant.” Here the word may allude to Israel's dishonest economic activities. Deceitful scales: in violation of the OT law (see Lev. 19:36), dishonest merchants sometimes rigged their scales so that they could give buyers less than what the buyers thought they were purchasing (see Prov. 11:1; 16:11; 20:23; Amos 8:5; Mic. 6:11).

12:9–11 The Lord had given Israel direction by the prophets, but the people had rejected the message. To teach Israel dependence, God would drive them from their homes and send them into exile.

10<sup>m</sup> I have also spoken by the prophets,
And have multiplied visions;
I have given <sup>s</sup> symbols <sup>6</sup> through the witness of the prophets.”

And like smoke from a chimney.
4 “Yet <sup>b</sup> I am the LORD your God
Ever since the land of Egypt,

This would be comparable to dwelling in tents, as the people did during the appointed feast of Tabernacles that commemorated the wilderness wandering (see 1 ev. 23:33–43). The towns that epitomized Israel’s sin, such as Gilead (6:8) and Gilgal (4:15; 9:15), would be destroyed. The altars of Gilgal would be turned into heaps of stone.

12:12–14 God had always protected his people, he protected Jacob when he had to flee for his life to a foreign land. he used Moses to bring Israel out of Egypt and preserve the people on their way to the promised land. Israel’s ingratitude, made evident by its sin, angered the Lord and made judgment inevitable.

13:1 The tribe of Ephraim had gained a prominent position in the northern kingdom and could strike fear into the hearts of the other tribes. Trembling probably refers to the effect that Ephraim’s speech had on the other tribes.

13:2 Kiss the calves refers to the idolatrous practice of kissing images as a sign of homage (see 1 kin. 19:18).

13:3 God’s judgment would sweep Ephraim away quickly, just as the sun dispels fog and dries up the dew, or as the wind blows away chaff and smoke.

13:4, 5 The Lord reminded Israel of who he is, what he had accomplished for his people, and what he expected from them. Because

Back to Baal

By Hosea’s time Baalism had captured the minds and hearts of many Israelites. Baal was the most important deity in the Canaanite pantheon. Baal’s followers believed that his blessing guaranteed the continuation of human life and the preservation of social order. As a fertility deity, Baal was the provider of children, a prized possession in the culture of the ancient Middle East. As the god of the storm, Baal brought the rains and made the crops grow. Baal’s devotees trusted that with the elements of the storm at his disposal, he could defeat the enemies of his people. As the king of the divine realm under the ultimate authority of the high god El, Baal overcame the powerful and terrifying deities Yamm, the god of the chaotic sea, and Mot, the god of death and the underworld.

Recognizing the threat that Baalism posed for his people, the Lord actively opposed this false religious system from the very beginning of Israel’s history. He affirmed that he is the only living God (see ex. 15:11; Deut. 33:26; 1 Sam. 2:2) and Israel’s rightful king (see ex. 15:18; 20:2–6). The Lord revealed his sovereignty over the elements of the storm (see ex. 9:23, 24; 19:16, 18; Deut. 33:26; 1 Sam. 7:10; 12:17, 18; 1 kin. 17:1; 18:1, 45), demonstrated his authority over the chaotic sea (see ex. 15:8, 10) and the realm of death (see ex. 15:12; 1 Sam. 2:6; 1 kin. 17:17–23), and proved that he alone could provide children to the infertile (see 1 Sam. 2:5). This attack on Baalism climaxed at Mount Carmel, where the Lord hurled a fiery lightning bolt down from heaven (see 1 kin. 18:38, 39) to demonstrate beyond the shadow of a doubt that he is the living God. In contrast, Baal’s prophets with their frenzied mourning rites could not provoke any response (see 1 kin. 18:26–29). When Jehu later purged the kingdom of Baalism (see 2 kin. 10:18–28), the Lord’s victory seemed complete. However, less than a century later, Baalism had resurfaced as the religion of the people, forcing the Lord to confront Israel through Hosea the prophet.

How are we to explain Baalism’s success? The Lord demanded obedience to strict moral and ethical standards as a basis for blessing. In stark contrast, Baalism appealed to the sensual nature. Baal’s favor was gained through sympathetic magic in the form of ritual prostitution. Through these rites, young men and women supposedly could gain Baal’s favor and ensure their ability to produce and bear children (see 4:12–14). Because of Baalism’s attractions to the base side of human nature, it persisted in Israel. It promised an easy and even enjoyable road to prosperity, while God’s way, the way of true life, demanded selflessness.

Israel Restored at Last

- 14 O Israel, <sup>a</sup>return to the LORD your God,
For you have stumbled because of your iniquity;
2 Take words with you,
And return to the LORD.
Say to Him,
“Take away all iniquity;
Receive <sup>us</sup> graciously,
For we will offer the <sup>b</sup>sacrifices <sup>1</sup> of our lips.
3 Assyria shall <sup>c</sup>not save us,
<sup>d</sup>We will not ride on horses,
Nor will we say anymore to the work of our hands, ‘You are our gods.’
<sup>e</sup>For in You the fatherless finds mercy.”
- 4 “I will heal their <sup>f</sup>backsliding,
I will <sup>g</sup>love them freely,
For My anger has turned away from him.

he alone was israel's God and savior, the Lord expected the people's undivided loyalty. know . . . knew: The repetition of the verb “to know” correlates God's demands with his grace. Because he knew (cared for) israel in the wilderness, he had every right to expect them to know (be loyal to) him.

13:6–9 God provided for israel's needs and richly blessed the people, like a shepherd leading his flock to lush pasture lands. In return, israel forgot the Lord. The Lord's relationship with israel would change drastically from caring Shepherd to ravaging predator. ironically and tragically, israel's rebellion had turned its helper into a Destroyer.

13:10, 11 These verses recall how israel demanded from Samuel a king like those of the nations around them (see 1 Sam. 8). Though offended by the people's request, which implied their rejection of divine authority (see 1 Sam. 8:7), the Lord granted their wish. israel's king could not protect the people from divine judgment; in fact, he himself would be swept away.

13:12 bound up . . . stored up: God had kept a careful record of israel's sins, to be revealed as evidence of guilt in the day of judgment.

13:13 This metaphor of childbirth illustrates israel's spiritual insensitivity. When the crucial time of judgment arrived, israel would respond unwisely, resulting in death. The nation's failure to repent is compared to a baby that is not positioned properly during labor and jeopardizes the life of both mother and child.

13:15, 16 israel was like a fruitful, well-watered plant, but God's judgment would come like a scorching east wind and bring drought. He shall plunder: The reality behind the imagery of the wind is the Assyrian army, which would plunder israel's riches and mercilessly kill the people, including helpless infants and pregnant women.

14:1–3 The final section of hosea's prophecy begins with a call to repentance that includes a model prayer. The people of israel were to pray for God's gracious forgiveness and renew their allegiance to him by renouncing foreign alliances, their own military strength, and artificial gods.

14:4–8 The Lord anticipates a time when he would restore repentant israel. The Lord's renewed blessing is compared to dew. revived israel is compared to a beautiful lily, a deep-rooted and

He shall <sup>2</sup>grow like the lily,

The Lord himself would be like a green cypress tree that provides protective shade. I have . . . observed: This affirmation of God’s watchful care stands in stark contrast to his judgment, which was compared to a leopard stalking its prey (13:7).

14:9 The book concludes with advice for those who read Hosea’s prophecy. God’s ways, his demands and principles, are completely true. The wise person will choose to obey them, but the foolish person will ignore them and consequently stumble into judgment.

THE BOOK OF JOEL

NATURAL DISASTERS—from rising flood waters to violent earthquakes—provoke fear and dread. With all their ingenuity, people still cannot control these powerful and destructive forces. They can only watch in awe. Joel begins his book with a description of such a natural disaster—a plague of ravenous locusts. In the prophet’s hands, the destructiveness of this plague becomes a vivid warning of the power of God’s coming judgment and a clear appeal to run to the Lord for mercy.

Author The author of the book is Joel, the son of Pethuel (1:1) Very little is known about the author’s life or circumstances. His name means “The Lord Is God,” suggesting that he was reared in a home where God was honored. The references to Zion, Judah, and Jerusalem (2:15, 23, 32; 3:1) indicate that the prophet lived and prophesied in Judah and Jerusalem. His frequent references to the work of priests in the temple (1:9, 13, 14; 2:17) lead some to conclude that he was a priest. But Joel also displays considerable interest in agriculture in all of its forms. As a prophet of the Lord he could have been knowledgeable about the temple in Jerusalem without having been a priest.

Date Scholars have offered various dates for the writing of the Book of Joel, from early preexilic times to as late as 350 B.C. Some believe that internal evidence in the Book of Joel indicates that the book was written during the reign of Joash king of Judah (835–796 B.C.), and in the time of the high priest Jehoiada. This view is based on the following considerations: (1) The location of the book between Hosea and Amos in the Hebrew canon suggests a preexilic date of writing. (2) The allusion to the neighboring nations as Judah’s foes rather than Assyria, Babylon, or Persia points to an early date for the book. (3) The book does not mention any reigning king, which may suggest a time when the responsibility for ruling rested upon the priests and elders—as was the case during the early reign of young King Joash (see 2 Kin. 11:4—12:21).

Others believe that the Book of Joel is so close in tone and idea to the Book of Zephaniah that it is likely that the two prophets were contemporaries. The primary evidence for this is the fact that both books prominently feature the concept of the impending “day of the LORD” (compare 2:1, 2 with Zeph. 1:14–16). Since Zephaniah’s book dates from around 627 B.C., a number of scholars assign a date of about 600 B.C. for the Book of Joel.

Historical Setting If we assume that the book was written early in the reign of Joash, then we can refer to 2 Kings 11:1—12:21 for background on this period of Judean history. Joash inherited the throne of Judah as a boy. He had survived Athaliah’s murder of all potential claimants to the throne only through the heroic efforts of his aunt Jehosheba, who hid him in the temple. Joash was crowned king at the age of seven by Jehoiada the high priest, who had enlisted the captains of the royal guard to dispose of the wicked Athaliah. Jehoiada advised the young king during the early years of his reign. It is possible that during these years the nation of Judah was devastated by a great swarm of locusts. This catastrophe would have given the prophet Joel an occasion to call the people to repentance in view of an even greater judgment to come—the day of the Lord.

However, it is not unreasonable to place Joel’s ministry during the 25 years before the Babylonians destroyed Jerusalem in 586 B.C. If Joel was a contemporary of Zephaniah, then his message of impending national disaster, using the natural calamity of a recent invasion of locusts, would have been a powerful announcement of the horrible events that soon were to come on Jerusalem.

Purpose Joel's prophecy had two purposes. First, Joel wrote to call the nation to repentance (2:12) on the basis of its experience of the recent locust plague. The recent disaster was but a token of a more devastating judgment to come. Yet that judgment could be averted by sincere and humble repentance (2:13, 14). In this, Joel shares a common message with other prophets. In the light of impending judgment, there is always a message of hope for those who will return in faith to God. Second, the prophecy was intended to comfort the godly with promises of future salvation and blessing (2:28–32; 3:18–21). Should the national disaster occur, Joel offered hope to the true believers that all was not over. God would keep his promise; the Savior would one day reign.

Joel tells of an invasion of locusts (Joel 1:4) and calls the people to repentance. Swarms of locusts were a significant agricultural threat in the ancient Near East, and remain so today.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Before Jesus ascended into heaven after his resurrection, he promised the disciples that he would send the holy Spirit upon them (see John 16:7–15; Acts 1:8). When this was fulfilled on the Day of Pentecost, Peter said, "This is what was spoken by the prophet Joel: 'And it shall come to pass in the last days, says God, that I will pour out of My spirit on all flesh'" (Acts 2:16, 17). Peter attributed the fulfillment of Jesus' promise directly to the prophecy in Joel 2:28–32.

The Land Laid Waste

- <sup>2</sup> Hear this, you elders,
And give ear, all you inhabitants of the land!
<sup>b</sup> Has anything like this happened in your days,
Or even in the days of your fathers?
<sup>3</sup> <sup>c</sup> Tell your children about it,
Let your children tell their children,
And their children another generation.
- <sup>4</sup> <sup>d</sup> What the chewing <sup>1</sup> locust left, the <sup>e</sup> swarming locust has eaten;
What the swarming locust left, the crawling locust has eaten;
And what the crawling locust left, the consuming locust has eaten.
- <sup>5</sup> Awake, you <sup>f</sup> drunkards, and weep;
And wail, all you drinkers of wine,
Because of the new wine,
<sup>g</sup> For it has been cut off from your mouth.
- <sup>6</sup> For <sup>h</sup> a nation has come up against My land,
Strong, and without number;
<sup>i</sup> His teeth are the teeth of a lion,
And he has the fangs of a <sup>2</sup> fierce lion.
- <sup>7</sup> He has <sup>j</sup> laid waste My vine,
And <sup>3</sup> ruined My fig tree;
He has stripped it bare and thrown it away;
Its branches are made white.
- <sup>8</sup> <sup>k</sup> Lament like a virgin girded with sackcloth
For <sup>l</sup> the husband of her youth.
- <sup>9</sup> <sup>m</sup> The grain offering and the drink offering
Have been cut off from the house of the LORD;

1:1 The word of the LORD . . . came attests to the divine origin of the prophet's message. The presentation of the message was the work of the prophet. Joel means "The Lord is God."

1:2 Has anything like this happened: The calamity of recent days was unprecedented in the memory of the people.

1:4 Many interpreters have viewed this locust swarm as foreign armies that attacked Judah in successive waves—Assyria, Babylon, Greece, and Rome. Yet literal locust plagues were one of the judgments promised if the people disobeyed God and broke their covenant with him (see Deut. 28:38, 39, 42). Further, Joel's description of the damage done by the locusts compares with eyewitness reports. The impression given is one of overwhelming devastation.

1:5 Awake, you drunkards: The vineyards had been destroyed, and the wine had been lost.

1:6 Nation may refer to a literal or figurative swarm of locusts. They came in such numbers that they were like a vast army.

1:7 Branches of trees stripped of bark by the rasping teeth of the locusts were left splintered and ghostly white.

1:8 The image here is of a young bride widowed on her wedding day. Sackcloth was worn by those in mourning in ancient Israel.

1:9 The drink offering refers to the wine offerings that accompanied the priests' morning and evening sacrifices (see ex. 29:38–41). The devastation of the locusts meant that no sacrifice could be offered.

1:10 The land is personified as mourning because the three principle crops it produced—grain, grapes, and olives—had been destroyed (see Deut. 7:13; ps. 104:15).

1:11, 12 The people had anticipated the joy of harvest, but due to the disaster of the locust plague, their joy has withered away.

1:13–20 Joel reminds the nation's leaders that being restored to blessing requires repentance (see Deut. 30:1–5; 2 chr. 7:14). God will not withhold his favor and blessing from those who are truly repentant.

1:15 The day of the LORD refers to a time of judgment and deliverance. Joel views the locust plague as a contemporary day of judgment that was serving as a token or forewarning of an even greater, future "day of the LORD."

1:16 Is not the food cut off . . . Joy and gladness: With the sudden loss of food, there was also a loss of joy at harvest (see is. 9:3).

1:17 The seed shrivels indicates further devastation in the land and an inability to replant the following year.

1:18, 19 Not only did the people of Judah suffer from the drought, so did the animals, cattle, and flocks. Joel depicts the animals poetically as joining in the lament, groaning in their hunger and distress (see r om. 8:22). I cry out: The prophet adds his own voice to the bellowing of beasts, the wailing of drunkards, and the mourning of priests. he was part of the suffering community, not an outsider looking on from a distance.

2:1 The trumpet, or ram's horn, was used in ancient times to signal danger or warn of a military attack (see Jer. 6:17; Amos 3:6). God demonstrated his grace by warning his people beforehand and providing opportunity for repentance before he brought his judgment upon them. Zion refers to Jerusalem (see ps. 133:3). coming . . . at hand: The Bible presents the day of the Lord as an imminent reality. it is not something that we are gradually moving toward; rather, it is ever ready to burst in on us. At any moment, the day that is "near" may become present.

2:2 Darkness is used as a figure for misery, distress, and judgment (see is. 8:22; 60:2; Jer. 13:16).

2:3–5 The invasion that Joel prophetically envisioned was like a raging fire that transformed all that was beautiful into desolation. Joel compared the speed and strength of the invaders to galloping horses.

The Day of the LORD

one of the central themes of the Book of Joel is "the day of the LORD" (1:15; 2:1, 11, 31; 3:14). This language describes a period of time in which God "comes down" in a dramatic way to bring wrath and judgment on the wicked and salvation to the righteous. God is Lord of time. There is no period that is not "the day of the LORD" in a general sense. But at times God enters the space-time arena to assert in bold, dramatic ways that he is in control.

The day of the Lord is a major theme of Old Testament prophecy. Thirteen of the sixteen prophets address this subject. The concept of the day of the Lord probably originated with the conquest of Canaan—a conquest which was in fact the Lord's war (see Deut. 1:30; 3:22; Josh. 5:13–15; 6:2); that is, a day of judgment for the wicked Canaanites (see I ev. 18:25; Deut. 9:4, 5).

The day of the Lord is not an isolated phenomenon or a single event in human history. periods in Israel's early history and latter history, the coming of Jesus, and his second advent are all called "the day of the LORD" in Scripture. The predictions of a coming day of the Lord can be fulfilled in a number of different events. The invasion of locusts in the historic events of the life of Joel was the day of the Lord (ch. 2). But the day of wrath and deliverance that soon fell on Judah in the Babylonian invasion was also the day of the Lord.

While most references speak of future events, five biblical texts describe the day of the Lord in terms of past judgments (see is. 22:1–14; Jer. 46:2–12; I am. 1:1—2:22; Ezek. 13:1–9). These texts reflect circumstances of military defeat, tragedy, and judgment. Such events may have stimulated the development of the prophetic concept of a future "day" or time of judgment for the disobedient of Israel and all of the nations (see 1:15; is. 13:6, 9; zeph. 1:14–18).

however, the day of the Lord is not just a day of wrath and judgment on the disobedient. in some contexts, it also includes deliverance and restoration for the righteous. The day of the Lord speaks not only of future judgment, but of future hope, prosperity, and blessing (see is. 4:2–6; hos. 2:18–23; Amos 9:11–15; Mic. 4:6–8). Joel reveals that this day is to be heralded by heavenly phenomena (2:30, 31) which will bring sudden darkness and gloom on the earth (2:2). it will be a day of divine destruction (1:15) on the nations that have persecuted Israel (3:12–14) and on the rebellious and disobedient of Israel (Amos 5:18–20). Yet it will also be a time of deliverance and unprecedented blessing for God's people (2:32; 3:16, 18–21; 1 Thess. 5:2–5).

 Surely nothing shall escape them.
<sup>4</sup> <sup>i</sup>Their appearance is like the appearance of horses;
 And like <sup>2</sup>swift steeds, so they run.
<sup>5</sup> <sup>j</sup>With a noise like chariots
 Over mountaintops they leap,
 Like the noise of a flaming fire that devours the stubble,
 Like a strong people set in battle array.

 They climb the wall like men of war;
 Every one marches in formation,
 And they do not break <sup>l</sup>ranks.
<sup>8</sup> They do not push one another;
 Every one marches in his own <sup>4</sup>column.
 Though they lunge between the weapons,
 They are not <sup>5</sup>cut down.
<sup>9</sup> They run to and fro in the city,
 They run on the wall;
 They climb into the houses,
 They <sup>m</sup>enter at the windows <sup>n</sup>like a thief.

<sup>10</sup> <sup>o</sup>The earth quakes before them,
 The heavens tremble;
<sup>p</sup>The sun and moon grow dark,
 And the stars diminish their brightness.
<sup>11</sup> <sup>q</sup>The LORD gives voice before His army,
 For His camp is very great;

A Call to Repentance

<sup>12</sup>“Now, therefore,” says the LORD,
<sup>u</sup>“Turn to Me with all your heart,
 With fasting, with weeping, and with mourning.”
<sup>13</sup> So <sup>v</sup>rend your heart, and not <sup>w</sup>your garments;
 Return to the LORD your God,
 For He is <sup>x</sup>gracious and merciful,
 Slow to anger, and of great kindness;
 And He relents from doing harm.
<sup>14</sup> <sup>y</sup>Who knows if He will turn and relent,
 And leave <sup>z</sup>a blessing behind Him—
<sup>a</sup>A grain offering and a drink offering For the LORD your God?

<sup>c</sup>Consecrate a fast,
 Call a sacred assembly;
<sup>16</sup> Gather the people,
<sup>d</sup>Sanctify the congregation,
 Assemble the elders,
 Gather the children and nursing babes;
<sup>e</sup>Let the bridegroom go out from his chamber,
 And the bride from her dressing room.
<sup>17</sup> Let the priests, who minister to the LORD,
 Weep <sup>f</sup>between the porch and the altar;
 Let them say, <sup>g</sup>“Spare Your people,
 O LORD,
 And do not give Your heritage to reproach,
 That the nations should <sup>7</sup>rule over them.

2:6–9 writhe in pain: The invading armies were locustlike in number and in their ability to penetrate any defense; but like men of war, they bring fear and death with them. The imagery of locusts (ch. 1) is used in this section to describe the overwhelming power of a military invasion.

2:10, 11 r references to the sun, moon, and stars growing dim allude to a future outpouring of divine wrath (see is. 13:10; Matt. 24:29; r ev. 6:12, 13). Who can endure: Nothing will be able to withstand the wrath of God (see Matt. 24:21, 22).

2:12 Turn to Me: As in zephaniah (see zeph. 2:1–3), an opportunity for repentance, remorse, and renewal was offered to the people.

2:13 rend your heart: God is not satisfied with outward acts of repentance. Tearing one’s garments was a customary way of expressing grief or remorse (see Josh. 7:6; 1 Sam. 4:12). However, like all outward acts, the tearing of a garment could be done without true sorrow or repentance. God required more than mere external words or actions; he wanted a change of heart and sorrow over sin. The attributes of God that provided the basis of Joel’s appeal were first revealed to Moses in ex. 34:6. Slow to anger: God is reluctant to punish. Judgment is God’s “unusual” or “foreign” task, for he wants all to come to repentance (see is. 28:21).

2:14 Who knows: These words suggest that even at the last moment, the Lord would withhold his wrath and display his grace if the people would truly repent. As a result, agriculture would be restored and productivity would return. There would be food and drink, for the people and for offerings to the Lord.

2:15 Blow the trumpet in Zion: The repetition of these words from 2:1 ties the chapter together and renews the urgent appeal for a proper response to God.

2:16 The urgency of the situation is apparent because all ages and classes of the population were summoned. According to Jewish tradition codified in the Mishnah, a bridegroom and bride could be excused from reciting daily prayers on their wedding day. But Joel excused no one from prayer at this time of spiritual emergency.

2:17 Spare Your people: If the leaders and the people would gather together with prayers of true repentance and genuine renewal, the horrible events that God was threatening might be averted.

Why should they say among the peoples: This rhetorical question was designed to move God to intervene. Failure to come to Judah’s aid might encourage the nations to make a mockery of Judah’s God.

<sup>h</sup> Why should they say among the peoples,
‘Where is their God?’”

The Land Refreshed

(Acts 2:17)

- 18 Then the LORD will <sup>i</sup>be zealous for His land,
And pity His people.
- 19 The LORD will answer and say to His people, “Behold, I will send you <sup>j</sup>grain and new wine and oil,
And you will be satisfied by them;
I will no longer make you a reproach among the nations.
- 20<sup>a</sup> But <sup>k</sup>I will remove far from you <sup>l</sup>the northern army,
And will drive him away into a barren and desolate land,
With his face toward the eastern sea
And his back <sup>m</sup>toward the western sea;
His stench will come up,
And his foul odor will rise,
Because he has done <sup>s</sup>monstrous things.”
- 21 Fear not, O land;
Be glad and rejoice,
For the LORD has done <sup>g</sup>marvelous things!
- 22 Do not be afraid, you beasts of the field;
For <sup>n</sup>the open pastures are springing up,
And the tree bears its fruit;
The fig tree and the vine yield their strength.

That <sup>w</sup>I will pour out My Spirit on all flesh;

2:18, 19 zealous for His land: The deep love of God for the land of Israel is coupled with his abiding love (pity) for the people. On every occasion in which God brought judgment on the land, there was the hope that one day his zeal for the land would lead to a renewal of blessing. Genuine repentance is the prerequisite for God’s blessing. In response to repentance, God would bring restoration and blessing.

2:20 The north was regarded as the direction from which misfortune generally came upon Israel. The eastern sea refers to the Dead Sea. The western sea refers to the Mediterranean Sea.

2:21 Fear not: There is coming a day (see ps. 65) when God’s restoration of the earth will be complete.

2:22 open pastures . . . tree bears its fruit: The renewal of agriculture would be a sign that God had renewed prosperity and peace to his land.

2:23, 24 The former rain softened the soil for planting winter wheat. The latter rain fell in the spring, causing the grain to swell and ensuring a good harvest. If the rains failed, the crops would not grow.

2:25, 26 The same God who brings judgment is pleased to restore blessing to those who repent. This does not mean that sin leaves no scar, but that God can restore people to usefulness in spite of past disobedience.

2:27 I am in the midst of Israel: Ultimately, this is the promise of God’s presence in the midst of his people in the coming reign of King Jesus (see zeph. 3:14–20). However, God promises to be present at all times with the individual who is at peace with him.

2:28–32 After describing the physical blessings that would come upon his generation if they would repent, Joel describes the spiritual spirit

(heb. ruach) (2:28; Gen. 6:3; 1 kin. 22:23; ps. 32:2; 146:4) Strong’s #7307

The noun spirit is related to a verb meaning “to breathe” or “to blow.” It can signify breath (Job 9:18; 19:17), wind (Gen. 8:1; ex. 10:13; eccl. 1:14; is. 26:18), the breath of life (whether animal or human, see Gen. 6:17; 7:15), disposition or mood (Gen. 41:8; ezek. 21:7), an evil or distressing spirit (1 Sam. 16:14–16), or the Spirit of God (Gen. 1:2; ps. 51:11). The spirit of life is the gift of God to all creatures (Job 12:10; 33:4; eccl. 12:7). The endowment of God’s holy Spirit is a special gift to believers, which brings spiritual life (ps. 51:10, 11; 143:10), power (Judg. 6:34), wisdom and understanding (is. 11:2), and divine revelation which leads to a better understanding of God’s Word and his perfect ways (2:28; is. 61:1, 2).

Your old men shall dream dreams,
Your young men shall see visions.
29 And also on My <sup>z</sup> menservants and on My maidservants
I will pour out My Spirit in those days.
30<sup>a</sup> And <sup>a</sup>I will show wonders in the heavens and in the earth:
Blood and fire and pillars of smoke.
31 <sup>b</sup>The sun shall be turned into darkness,
And the moon into blood, <sup>c</sup>Before the coming of the great and awesome day of the LORD.
32 And it shall come to pass
That <sup>d</sup>whoever calls on the name of
the LORD
Shall be <sup>3</sup>saved.
For <sup>e</sup>in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem there shall be <sup>4</sup>deliverance,
As the LORD has said,
Among <sup>f</sup>the remnant whom the LORD calls.

blessings that God would bestow upon his people in the future. There are three main viewpoints regarding how Joel’s prophecy was later used by Peter in Acts 2:17–21: (1) Some interpreters see a complete fulfillment of Joel’s prophecy in the experience of the first believers on the Day of Pentecost. The outpouring of the Spirit ushered in the kingdom age. The wonders in the skies were fulfilled at the crucifixion, when darkness covered the land. (2) Some interpreters believe that Peter was simply using Joel’s prophecy as an illustration of what was happening. In effect, Peter was saying, “This is that same holy Spirit which was spoken of by Joel.” According to this view, the prophecy will be fulfilled in the future when the remnant of Israel believes. (3) Some suggest that Joel’s prophecy was partially fulfilled on the Day of Pentecost. The gift of the holy Spirit was given, but the signs mentioned in vv. 30–32 will be fulfilled later in connection with the return of Christ in great glory.
2:28, 29 Afterward indicates the prophetic future; this word is a signal that the text was pointing to the messianic age. Pour out is derived from the imagery of Israel’s heavy winter rains; it speaks here of abundant provision. All flesh anticipates the inclusion of both Jews and Gentiles in one body in Christ (see Eph. 2:11–3:6). The ministries of the Spirit mentioned here were experienced in the early church (see Acts 11:28; 21:9; 2 Cor. 12:1–4; r ev. 1:1–3). Your sons and your daughters: The outpouring of the Spirit and the ministries done through his power will be accomplished without regard to gender, age, or class.

2:30, 31 The heavenly wonders described here will take place before the great and awesome day of the LORD, an apparent reference to the end times. Blood and fire correspond with r ev. 8:7, 8. Smoke corresponds with r ev. 9:18. Darkness corresponds with r ev. 8:12. Moon into blood corresponds with r ev. 6:12.
2:32 Anyone who calls on the name of the LORD—that is, repents and believes—will be saved from the judgment that will fall on the wicked and unbelieving.
3:1 In those days indicates a time in the prophetic future (2:28). The judgment will take place after the Lord has restored his people to the land (see Matt. 25:31–46).
3:2 Valley of Jehoshaphat: The name Jehoshaphat means “The Lord Judges.” The location of this valley is not known. Perhaps this was merely a symbolic name for the location of the great battle in the end times.
3:4 Tyre and Sidon were Phoenician cities on the Mediterranean Sea, north of Galilee. Philistia was on the Mediterranean coast south of Joppa.
3:8 Sabeans were people of Semitic origin who lived in the southwest Arabian peninsula.
3:9, 10 The military weapons of the Gentile nations would not be sufficient to protect them against God’s judgment. Therefore, they are exhorted to beat their plowshares into swords and their pruning hooks into spears. For predictions of the reverse, see Is. 2:4; Mic. 4:3.

- Wake up the mighty men,
Let all the men of war draw near,
Let them come up.
- <sup>10</sup> <sup>j</sup> Beat your plowshares into swords
And your <sup>7</sup> pruning hooks into

- <sup>11</sup> Assemble and come, all you nations,
And gather together all around.

- <sup>12</sup> “ Let the nations be wakened, and

3:11 Joel saw two armies assembling for battle. The one is made up of the nations; the other is made up of the mighty ones of the Lord (see Mark 8:38; r ev. 19:14).

3:12, 13 The use of harvesting imagery in the Book of Joel is complex. It begins in terms of the great scarcity resulting from the locust plague (ch. 1). Then there is a promised renewal of agriculture with the return of God's blessing to his repentant people (2:18–27). Here, the riches of renewed agriculture serve as a mocking backdrop for a world in conflict. In 3:18–21, there is a final renewal of agriculture because of the blessing of the resident king.

3:14 The valley of decision may be a symbolic name for the Valley of Jehoshaphat (3:2), or it may refer to the option before the people to continue toward certain judgment or to turn to God in repentance (vv. 12, 13).

3:15, 16 These verses parallel 2:30–32 and describe the same heavenly phenomena (see Matt. 24:29). In the midst of calamity, God was offering a shelter for His people (see zeph. 2:1–3).

3:17 Joel anticipates a day when strangers would no longer pass through Jerusalem to plunder and destroy. Instead, they would worship the Lord (see zech. 8:20–23).

3:18 In that day indicates the prophetic future (2:28; 3:1). Joel uses poetic imagery to describe the productivity of the land in the messianic age. The Valley of Acacias was the location of the last encampment before the Israelites entered Canaan (see Num. 25:1; Josh. 3:1).

3:19, 20 Egypt and Edom are mentioned as representatives of the Gentile nations that God will judge before the establishment of the Messiah's kingdom. Note the stark contrast with the eternal destinies of Judah and Jerusalem.

3:21 the Lord dwells in Zion: The Lord's presence in Jerusalem is the key to the blessing of the whole land.

THE BOOK OF AMOS

THE BOOK OF AMOS is perhaps the most familiar of the minor prophets, not in detail, but in its theme of justice and in some of its striking metaphors. The figure of Amos, a Judean sheepbreeder with a strong message for Israel delivered in the shadow of Jeroboam's pagan temple at Bethel, both attracts us and commands our respect. In this book we can read, just as the ancient Israelites heard, a masterful literary creation given by God through a man of the people. But more importantly, we read and hear the Word of God, still ringing down the centuries with clarity and force.

Author and Date The Book of Amos is named after the prophet who delivered its oracles. Amos was from Tekoa, a town at the edge of the Judean wilderness, about five miles southeast of Bethlehem. Because of marginal and uncertain yearly rainfall, this area was suited more for raising sheep and goats than for cultivating crops. Amos specifically calls himself a sheepbreeder (1:1; 7:14, 15). The Hebrew term used indicates that Amos was not a hired shepherd, but the owner of one or more flocks of sheep.

Amos also describes himself as a "tender of sycamore fruit" (7:14). The sycamore fig tree bears thousands of figs very much like the common fig, but smaller and not as good. Before this fruit could ripen properly, a small hole had to be pierced in the bottom of its skin. This piercing was done by hand and was a tedious and time-consuming task. Why was Amos obliged to tend the sycamore? Western Judah, the oasis of Jericho, and lower Galilee were the regions where sycamore figs grew most abundantly. The shepherds needed to bring their flocks to one of these regions in late summer, after the desert pastures had dried up. Since this was the time for piercing the sycamore fruit, landowners would exchange grazing rights for labor. A shepherd could watch his flock while sitting on the broad limbs of the sycamore, piercing its fruit. Thus Amos was not a wealthy man. Wealthy sheepbreeders hired shepherds to tend their flocks. Amos followed his flock himself (7:15), and when that meant piercing sycamore fruit, he pierced sycamore fruit.

Amos prophesied during the reigns of Uzziah king of Judah and Jeroboam king of Israel. Uzziah was king of Judah from 792 to 740 B.C., though from about 752 on, he was stricken with leprosy and shared power with his son Jotham. Jeroboam II was king of Israel from 792 to 753 B.C. Uzziah and Jeroboam formed an alliance for much of their reigns and together ruled for a brief time an area nearly as large as the empire of David and Solomon.

When it was written, Amos's prophecy was dated to a time "two years before the earthquake" (1:1). It is impossible to tell what earthquake is meant, since there are no other historical references to it. However, this dating, along with Amos's dialogue with Amaziah, the priest of Jeroboam's temple at Bethel (7:10–17), reveals that the period of Amos's prophetic activity was very short, unlike many of the other prophets. Amos went to Bethel from Tekoa, delivered his prophetic oracles, and returned home. He probably stayed in Bethel only a few days. Amos's spoken oracles should be dated around 755–754 B.C. Within two or three years after the prophet's appearance at Bethel, Jeroboam II died, and Israel's rapid decline began. Within 30 years, Israel was conquered by the Assyrians.

Theme and Purpose The main theme of the Book of Amos is God's passionate concern for justice. Justice is not an abstract issue with God. Instead, justice is relational; it promotes good relations between people and between groups of people. Injustice breaks down good relationships and breeds anger, hostility, and violence. God created the human race to enjoy good relations with him and with each other; therefore, injustice that breeds alienation in all of its varieties breaks God's heart.

The renewed prosperity of Israel based on the successes of Jeroboam II brought new wealth to the upper classes. They used that wealth to enlarge their landholdings and to build great houses for themselves. They violated the rights of the poor and the landed peasants, throwing many off their ancestral lands. Through God's provisions in the Mosaic covenant, the landed peasant class had been the foundation of Israel's society. But under Jeroboam's rule, this class virtually disappeared. As the rich became richer, the poor became poorer and more numerous; many were sold into slavery. Israel's social structure became thoroughly unstable.

The immediate purpose of Amos's prophetic ministry was to call the leaders of ancient Israel to repent and reform. Amos warned them that if they did not heed his call, their injustice against the poor and the weak would destroy the nation. God would not allow them to continue in their unrighteous, unjust course. Repentance or retribution were the only alternatives. It is no accident that what we often remember from Amos is his stirring call, "Let justice run down like water, and righteousness like a mighty stream" (5:24).

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Though most of Amos's prophecy is about God's authority to judge an apathetic and ungrateful nation, he ends his book with the promise that God will restore his people and "raise up the tabernacle of David" (9:11). This obviously refers to more than just the kingdom of David and the temple his son Solomon built. It speaks of the fulfillment of the Davidic dynasty, which finds its focus in the Son of David—Jesus.

1:1—2:16 The Lord sent Amos, a Judean, to Bethel to prophesy of coming judgment on Israel. But in Bethel, Amos faced a hostile audience. Israel's first king, Jeroboam I, had made the town a center of pagan worship. Because the temple in Jerusalem was in Judah and not in the nation of Israel, Jeroboam had encouraged the Israelites to worship at Bethel instead of Jerusalem. Thus the Israelites who gathered at Bethel would regard Amos, a Judean, with suspicion. Yet Amos bravely condemned the sins of Israel's neighbors—the Syrians, Philistines, Phoenicians, Edomites, Ammonites, and Moabites. Then he went on to point out the iniquity of Judah and Israel: They had rejected the God who had covenanted with them. They too stood before God condemned by their own evil ways.

1:1 Tekoa was about ten miles south of Jerusalem, in a region well-suited for raising sheep and goats. The earthquake, mentioned again in zech. 14:5, cannot be dated precisely.

1:2 The temple was on Mt. Zion, the oldest part of Jerusalem. When the Lord roared from there, the nation dried up at the heat of the fiery blast. The fact that the top of Carmel, a mountain on the coast of Israel in the north, withers indicates a great disaster. Mount Carmel was a garden spot, normally lush and flourishing year-round.

1:3 Thus says the Lord: There was no mistaking by whose authority these messages were spoken: this was the word of God himself.

For three . . . and for four: This stylistic device indicated the exhaustion of God's patience—the Syrians had continued to sin. This device is repeated as Amos speaks God's words against nation after sinful nation. The transgressions of the neighbors of Israel and Judah were against the general revelation, or "law of nature," that all people recognize and acknowledge. Since the neighboring nations had not received God's special revelation, as Israel had at Mt. Sinai, Amos's oracles did not call them to account by that standard, but by the standard they had received. Damascus was the capital of Syria (also called Aram), a powerful kingdom that had been a frequent adversary of Israel throughout its history. Israelites listening to Amos would have been glad to hear of God's punishment of Damascus. Gilead was the region on the east side of the Jordan from the Yarmuk river to the Dead Sea. It had belonged to Israel since they had taken over the land, but Aram often had fought Israel for possession of northern Gilead, gaining control there in Israel's times of military weakness. Threshed . . . with implements of iron indicates extreme cruelty and inhumanity in warfare.

1:4 I will send a fire . . . Which shall devour the palaces: Fire in an ancient city was a real threat. Cities were crowded with houses close together on very narrow streets; there was too little water to effectively fight raging fires. Hazael and Ben-Hadad were kings of Syria who had been particularly harsh in their treatment of Israel.

1:5 The gate bar was the large timber that barred the city gate from the inside. If it was broken, the city would lose its security and could be captured easily. Aven . . . Beth Eden: Amos may have intended a play on words here. Aven means "Sin" in Hebrew; Damascus was a verdant oasis city on the edge of the desert that could be compared to Eden. However, Amos may also have been referring to the Beth Eden region on the north bank of the Euphrates river. Kir is where the Assyrian king Tiglath-pileser III exiled the Syrians of Damascus in 732 B.C. Amos later referred to Kir as the place from which the Syrians had originally come (9:7).

“For three transgressions of <sup>m</sup>Gaza,
and for four,

I will not turn away its punishment,
Because they took captive the whole captivity

To deliver them up to Edom.

<sup>7</sup> <sup>n</sup>But I will send a fire upon the wall of Gaza,

Which shall devour its palaces.

<sup>8</sup> I will cut off the inhabitant <sup>o</sup>from Ashdod,

And the one who holds the scepter
from Ashkelon;

I will <sup>p</sup>turn My hand against Ekron,
And <sup>q</sup>the remnant of the Philistines shall perish,”

Says the Lord God.

<sup>9</sup>Thus says the LORD:

“For three transgressions of <sup>r</sup>Tyre,
and for four,

I will not turn away its punishment,
Because they delivered up the whole captivity to Edom,

And did not remember the covenant of brotherhood.

And cast off all pity;

Says the LORD.

Judgment on Judah

<sup>4</sup>Thus says the LORD:

“For three transgressions of <sup>e</sup>Judah,
and for four,

1:6 Gaza was one of the five principal cities of the philistines, the traditional enemies of israel who lived on the southwest coast of canaan. they took captive . . . to deliver: The principal method of acquiring foreign slaves in the ancient Middle east was capturing them in war.

1:8 Ashdod and Ashkelon, coastal cities located north of Gaza, were two of the five major philistine cities. Ekron, also one of the five major philistine cities, was situated inland.

1:9 Tyre, the principal phoenician city, was on the northwest coast of canaan. The phoenicians were master seafarers. Tyre and israel had forged an alliance that was profitable for both. however, Tyre ignored the long-standing covenant of brotherhood, and sought commercial gain by selling israelite slaves to Edom.

1:11 The nation of Edom, located southeast of the Dead Sea, controlled important caravan trade routes, and thus was deeply involved in commerce. his brother: The edomites traced their ancestry to esau, the brother of Jacob. But several times in the history of their stormy relationship, edom took advantage of israel's (or Judah's) misfortune to help others attack them.

1:12 Teman and Bozrah were principal edomite cities.

1:13 The nation of Ammon, located east of Gilead on the edge of the desert, was descended from one of the sons of I ot, Abraham's nephew (see Gen. 19:36–38). Thus Ammon was related to israel, although not as closely as edom. ripped open . . . enlarge their territory: The Ammonites killed pregnant women in order to prevent the increase of the israelite population in Gilead, which they were trying to wrest from israel's control.

1:14 Rabbah was the capital of Ammon.

2:1 I like Ammon (1:13), Moab (located southeast of israel) was descended from one of the sons of I ot. burned the bones: This act was believed to desecrate the remains of a deceased person, a heinous act in ancient times and a great dishonor to the person's memory.

2:2 Kerioth was a major town of Moab. it was the site of a temple of chemosh, Moab's national god.

2:4 Judah was israel's neighbor to the south. israel and Judah shared a common heritage, a common language, a common faith, and a common covenant with the Lord. the law of the Lord . . .

His commandments: The basis of Judah and israel's judgment was different from that of the nations Amos had just called to account

I will not turn away its punishment,
 f Because they have despised the law
 of the LORD,
 And have not kept His commandments.
 g Their lies lead them astray,
 Lies h which their fathers followed.
 5 i But I will send a fire upon Judah,
 And it shall devour the palaces of before them (1:3—2:3). Judah and Israel had received God’s special revelation at Sinai; they were in a special covenant relationship with Him and were held to a higher standard of accountability.

2:6 I will not turn away its punishment: here the focus shifted to Amos’s audience. This was Israel, God’s people who had violated their covenant relationship with Him. God was calling them to account for violations of the covenant. sell the righteous for silver: in His law, God had instructed the Israelites to work off their debts through indentured service—administered humanely and for a strictly limited time (see 1 ev. 25:39–43; Deut. 15:12). By Amos’s day, those in power in Israel were taking advantage of the courts to sell debtors as slaves, termed the righteous here because they were the innocent victims of the corruption of the courts. For a pair of sandals means for little or nothing.

2:7 pant after the dust: Amos used deliberate exaggeration to portray the greed of those oppressing the poor. Not satisfied with gaining their victims’ farms and selling the people into slavery for money, the greedy rich would not let the poor go until they had shaken the very dust from their heads. The humble, those without power or influence, should have been able to depend on the justice due them. Instead, justice was denied them. As a result, their life was turned to poverty, oppression, and insecurity. Go in to means to have sexual intercourse with. the same girl: Several possibilities have been suggested: (1) Both father and son visited the same temple prostitute in their worship of pagan gods. (2) A man bought a slave girl, made her his concubine, then gave his son sexual rights to her. (3) A man married a woman, his father seduced her, and they became lovers. All of these practices were unlawful.

2:8 Clothes taken in pledge, as security for a loan, were to be returned in the evening, for clothes were the bedding of the poor (see ex. 22:26, 27). The powerful in Israel were spreading the clothes out as beds for themselves beside the altars, in a show of empty, merciless piety.

2:9 Yet it was I: This emphatic statement underscores the fact that God had been Israel’s champion, and the nation’s success had not been its own doing. The Amorite refers to the previous inhabitants of the land of Canaan. Cedars were proverbial for their height, oaks for their strength. His fruit above and his roots beneath means “totally, completely.”

2:11, 12 Prophets were especially privileged; God spoke to them and gave them messages for the people. Nazirites dedicated themselves to God with a vow that entailed specific responsibilities and prohibitions, either for life or for a specified period (see Num. 6:1–21). Total abstinence from wine was one of the prominent features of the Nazirite vow.

2:13 Weighed down by you is a powerful metaphor of the burden of Israel’s sin on the Lord. This is the same God Isaiah describes as measuring the waters of the earth in the hollow of his hand, measuring the heavens with the span of his hand, and weighing the mountains in his balance (see is. 40:12).

2:14–16 No resources of personal strength, no skill with weapons of war, not even the help of the mighty war horse would suffice for the military men of might to save themselves in that day, when God would bring His judgment upon them. If the strong could not save themselves, what would become of the rest of the people?

Authority of the Prophet's Message

3 Hear this word that the LORD has spoken against you, O children of Israel, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying:

- 2 “You<sup>a</sup> only have I known of all the families of the earth;
<sup>b</sup>Therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities.”
- 3 Can two walk together, unless they are agreed?
- 4 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he has no prey?
 Will a young lion <sup>1</sup>cry out of his den, if he has caught nothing?
- 5 Will a bird fall into a snare on the earth, where there is no <sup>2</sup>trap for it?
 Will a snare spring up from the earth, if it has caught nothing at all?
- 6 If a <sup>3</sup>trumpet is blown in a city, will not the people be afraid?

 Says the LORD,
 ‘Who store up violence and <sup>6</sup>robbery in their palaces.’”

11 Therefore thus says the Lord God:

- “An adversary shall be all around the land;
 He shall sap your strength from you,
 And your palaces shall be plundered.”

12 Thus says the LORD:

- “As a shepherd <sup>7</sup>takes from the mouth of a lion
 Two legs or a piece of an ear,
 So shall the children of Israel be taken out
 Who dwell in Samaria—
 In the corner of a bed and <sup>8</sup>on the edge of a couch!

Says the Lord God, the God of hosts,

- 14“ That in the day I punish Israel for their transgressions,
 I will also visit destruction on the altars of <sup>9</sup>Bethel;
 And the horns of the altar shall be cut off

And fall to the ground.

- 15 I will <sup>9</sup>destroy <sup>h</sup>the winter house along with <sup>i</sup>the summer house;
 The <sup>j</sup>houses of ivory shall perish,
 And the great houses shall have an end,”

Says the LORD.

3:1 The whole family which I brought up emphasizes the personal, intimate relationship that God had with Israel.

3:2 You only have I known, in this context, means “You only have I chosen.” God’s relationship with Israel was not only intimate, it was exclusive. God had been faithful to Israel; yet Israel had not been faithful to God. For this reason, the nation would be judged.

3:3–6 This series of rhetorical questions illustrates the seriousness, certainty, and righteousness of God’s impending action against Israel. Each question is framed so as to require a resounding “no” as its answer.

3:7 This parenthetical statement interrupts, yet underscores, Amos’s point that God is sovereign and does what he wills: therefore, Israel’s judgment was certain.

3:8 Two more rhetorical questions complete the group of nine (vv. 3–6). It would do Israel no good to forbid prophecy (2:12; 7:13, 16); the true prophet must prophesy, just as certainly as God’s judgment must come to pass.

3:9, 10 Ashdod, one of the five principal cities of the Philistines, was on the Mediterranean coast southwest of Israel. For God to call Philistia and Egypt to witness his judgment of Israel implies that these pagan nations were relatively more righteous than Israel. They had not received God’s revelation at Sinai; yet Israel, having received it, had violated it grossly and repeatedly.

3:11 This verse pictures a formal sentencing of Israel in the presence of the witnesses whom God had called (v. 9). Sapping Israel’s strength was exactly what Assyria did in the years following Amos’s prophecies, finally putting an end to the nation in 722 B.C.

3:12 The hired shepherd was responsible to the owner for the safety of the sheep. He had to make good any loss, unless he could prove it was unavoidable. A lion taking a sheep was an unavoidable loss, but the shepherd had to prove that the lion had taken it. A couple of small bones or a piece of an ear was sufficient; the owner would recognize the lion’s work. As complete as the destruction of a sheep by a lion would be the destruction of Israel that God would bring.

3:14 the altars of Bethel: Jeroboam I had erected sanctuaries in Bethel and Dan to prevent Israelites from traveling to Jerusalem to worship and possibly returning their political allegiance to the house of David. Those sanctuaries of false worship had tempted many Israelites to be unfaithful to God. Horns represent strength. If the horns of the altar were cut off, it would symbolize the altar’s weakness and signal its destruction.

3:15 The four houses mentioned here were all symbols of oppression. Many small inheritances had been stolen to form the large estates of the wealthy and powerful, where they built their opulent houses.

- 4 Hear this word, you <sup>a</sup> cows of Bashan, who are on the mountain of Samaria,
 Who oppress the <sup>b</sup> poor,
 Who crush the needy,

- 2 <sup>d</sup> The Lord God has sworn by His holiness:
 “Behold, the days shall come upon you
 When He will take you away <sup>e</sup> with fishhooks,
 And your posterity with fishhooks.
- 3 <sup>f</sup> You will go out through broken walls,
 Each one straight ahead of her,
 And you will <sup>2</sup> be cast into Harmon,”
 Says the LORD.
- 4 “Come <sup>g</sup> to Bethel and transgress,

 As God overthrew <sup>q</sup> Sodom and Gomorrah,
 And you were like a firebrand plucked from the burning;
 Yet you have not returned to Me,”
 Says the LORD.
- 12 “Therefore thus will I do to you, O Israel;
 Because I will do this to you,

4:1 Bashan, the region east and northeast of the Sea of Galilee, was (and is) a prime grassland area renowned for its cattle. Cows of Bashan refer to the sleek, fat, well-fed women of Samaria.
4:3 Broken walls were a symbol of the thoroughness of the destruction of the city and the homes that the people held so dear. in an undamaged city, the usual way in and out was the one main gate. But Samaria would be so ruined that the deportees would be driven straight through the breaches in the walls of their houses and their city.
4:4, 5 This passage is a bitterly sarcastic call to israel to worship. Bethel, a city on the central ridge road just inside israel’s border with Judah, was the site of the most important shrine in southern israel. Gilgal refers to a site in the Jordan valley where israel had encamped before and after the taking of Jericho (see Josh. 5:10; 9:6). Thus, Gilgal had historical connections with israel’s early faith and early life in the land. For this you love: ignoring God’s desires, the israelites did what they wanted. They loved the feasting that went with the festivals of sacrifice, but not God’s calls for justice.
4:6–11 This passage describes a series of five calamities that God had already sent upon the israelites in an effort to drive them to repentance. A striking feature of this narrative is God’s emphatic claim that the israelites had brought these disasters on themselves. each stanza ends with the tragic refrain, “Yet you have not returned to Me.”

4:6 The first calamity was famine. Cleanness of teeth . . . and lack of bread indicated the exhaustion of all food supplies.
4:7, 8 The second calamity was drought. I lack of rain with still three months to the harvest meant the total ruin of the grain crops.
4:9 The third calamity was crop disease and locusts.
4:10 The fourth calamity was plague and warfare. After the manner of Egypt suggests that God was reminding israel of the ten plagues that preceded their exodus from egypt; these included epidemic diseases and other disasters. The stench of your camps resulted from lack of sanitation, from disease, from the putrefaction of wounds, and sometimes from corpses of men and of animals that could not be buried quickly enough.
4:11 The fifth calamity was the destruction of israelite cities. The overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah was the scale by which many subsequent disasters were measured. it meant total destruction, meted out in judgment by the hand of God himself (see Gen. 19:24, 25). A firebrand plucked from the burning refers to a stick snatched from a fire with one end already ablaze. here it was a vivid metaphor for God’s last-minute rescue of most of israel from the fate he brought upon some of its cities and territories.
4:12 Because israel had not returned to God through these five calamities, it would have to meet God himself. To be confronted—inescapably—by the God it had scorned and rejected would be a fate more terrible than israel could imagine.

4:13 Amos grounded God’s right to exercise judgment upon israel on his character as creator and Sustainer of all the earth, a more fundamental basis than his deliverance of the israelites from egypt. God is sovereign over all the earth; on that basis he called israel, and can call any nation, to account. forms mountains: The hebrew word forms is derived from the word often rendered “potter.” As easily as a potter forms vessels of clay, so God forms mountains. Wind also means “spirit.” The ambiguity in this word may be deliberate. God creates both the wind and the human spirit; therefore, he is sovereign over both.

5:2 The term virgin of Israel depicts the nation as a young maiden, cut off from her life before it had really begun. On her land is a reminder that the land had been God’s gift to israel. By their faithlessness, the people had turned God’s gift into the place of their death and burial.

5:3 The lamentation continues with a different image of israel’s destruction: the troops israel would send out to defend its territory. r rather than saving israel, its armies would themselves be decimated. 5:5 Beersheba, about 50 miles southwest of Bethel, was the site of a temple in Amos’s day.

5:6 The house of Joseph here refers to the whole nation.

5:7 Wormwood, a plant of the aster family with a very bitter taste, is used several times in the Bible as a metaphor for sorrow and bitterness.

5:8 Pleiades refers to a cluster of stars within the constellation Taurus, one of the 12 signs of the zodiac. One of israel’s idolatries was astral worship. Far from being deities, Amos asserted, the constellations also were God’s creations. Orion refers to a prominent constellation in the southern sky in the shape of a hunter, containing two stars of the first magnitude. He turns the shadow . . . dark as night: God designed and sustains the daily cycle of light and darkness through his own servant which is not a deity, the sun. He calls . . . the earth: God, not Baal, Tammuz, or any other fertility deity, designed and sustains the atmospheric water cycle by which the earth receives its necessary rainfall. The LORD is His name underscores the uniqueness of israel’s God. he is not just a national God; he is the only God.

5:9 The God who created and sustains the processes of all the universe surely can bring his judgment to bear, even upon the strong of the earth and their fortresses.

5:10 The gate was the location of the town court, where justice was to be upheld in all legal proceedings, whether civil or criminal.

5:11 Taxes were collected in kind from those with few resources of silver and gold. To take grain taxes from the poor was to put #### seek

(heb. darash) (5:4; ezra 6:21; 7:10; ps. 119:10; is. 34:16; 55:6) Strong’s #1875

This hebrew verb can be correctly translated “to inquire of,” “to ask,” and “to seek.” The term conveys the idea of “going to see” in the sense of personally verifying something said, or “searching for,” in the sense of pressing for an answer to a question. Amos encourages his audience to seek life in the living God, not in the dead idols of Bethel and Gilgal (5:4). The psalmist found help in times of trouble by seeking the Lord (ps. 34:4; 77:2). On several occasions, the israelites were encouraged to seek God by preparing their hearts for God through humble repentance (see 1 chr. 16:11; 2 chr. 30:19).

Yet you shall not dwell in them;
 You have planted <sup>4</sup>pleasant them at risk of starvation if the harvest had not been bountiful. Yet the rich and powerful had sufficient resources to build luxurious houses of hewn stone for themselves. God promised that the rich would not enjoy their luxury stolen from the lifeblood of the poor and powerless.

5:12 manifold . . . sins: israel's leaders did not sin incidentally or furtively; they sinned brazenly and habitually, as though God had never revealed himself and his standards of justice and mercy.

5:14 Seek good: The prophet interrupted himself, as it were, to plead with israel to return to God and avoid the judgment he otherwise would bring upon them. As you have spoken: Worshiping in the Lord's name, the israelites invoked the Lord's presence with them in their spoken prayers and blessings. if they began to live as God had taught them in the law, he would indeed be with them.

5:16, 17 God's purposed action was that he would pass through the nation. A visit from God is a dreaded and mournful event for anyone not ready to meet him. In all vineyards: A vineyard was typically a place of rejoicing and gladness.

5:18 The popular theology of Amos's day apparently looked forward to the day of the LORD as the time of israel's restoration to military, political, and economic greatness, perhaps to the greatness of the reigns of David and Solomon. Amos declared such hopes futile, even pitiable. What the people looked forward to as a day of light and triumph would rise upon them instead as a day of darkness and ruin.

5:19 The images of a bear and a serpent evoke the terror that follows when a person escapes a terrible danger and is exhausted and relieved only to find a worse danger so close at hand that it is inescapable.

5:21-23 God had promised that if the israelites honored him with their lives, he would savor, accept, and regard israel's sacrifices and hear their words. By stating he would no longer accept israel's sacrifices or listen to them, God was rejecting israel's worship as hypocritical, dishonest, and meaningless. Feast days and sacred assemblies refer, in general, to all of israel's worship of God. burnt offerings . . . grain offerings . . . peace offerings: For more details on the sacrificial system, see l ev. 1-3.

5:24 After dismissing israel's empty worship as noisy and tumultuous, God called for the honest tumult of the rolling waters of justice and the perennial stream of righteousness, the only foundation for true praise and worship of the Lord.

5:25 This verse is a rhetorical question with "yes" as the expected answer; israel had worshiped God in the wilderness.

5:26 israel had not worshiped the Lord exclusively, even in the earliest wilderness days. Sikkuth and Chiun are pagan deities; apparently israel had made images of foreign gods. The true believer in the Lord understood, without question, that any gods made by human hands were not gods at all.

Pagan Gods of Bible Times

One of Amos's primary responsibilities as a prophet of God was to announce the "day of the Lord," the time of God's judgment of wicked Israel. Idolatry, perhaps more than any other sin, was the reason for this impending punishment. The history of Israel is littered with apostasy, as the children of God pursued the false idols of their Canaanite neighbors. In 5:26, the prophet specifically identifies Chiun as the object of the people's worship. The following chart lists some of the pagan gods mentioned in the Old and New Testaments.

Pagan God	Description	Reference
Old Testament
Ashtoreths	Baal's wife or female counterpart.	Judg. 2:13
Bel	A god identified with Merodach (Marduk), chief Babylonian god.	Is. 46:1
Chemosh	God of the Moabites and Ammonites.	Jer. 48:7, 13
Chiun	A star-god, identified with Saturn.	Amos 5:26
Dagon	Chief Philistine god.	1 Sam. 5:2-7
Merodach	Chief Babylonian god, connected with war. Also known as Marduk.	Jer. 50:2
Molech	Ammonite god connected with child sacrifice.	Lev. 18:21
Nebo	Babylonian god of wisdom and arts.	Is. 46:1
Rimmon	Syrian god of rain.	2 Kin. 5:18
Tammuz	Babylonian fertility god.	Ezek. 8:14
New Testament
Twin Brothers	Castor and Pollux, twin sons of Zeus, the chief Greek god.	Acts 28:11
Zeus	Chief Greek god.	Acts 14:12, 13
Hermes	The Greek god of commerce and speed.	Acts 14:12, 13

5:27 Since Israel insisted on worshipping other gods, including astral deities, God would send them into exile to lands where these deities seemed to rule supreme. Israel was exiled beyond Damascus, Syria's capital, to regions of Assyria and beyond.

6:1 Zion refers to Jerusalem, the capital of Judah (the southern kingdom). Samaria was the capital of Israel (the northern kingdom). At the time of Amos's prophecy, Israel and Judah together had enjoyed about a generation of military might and economic prosperity. It became natural for officials in Jerusalem and Samaria to regard themselves as notable persons.

6:2 It was the boast of Israel's elite that no other nation was greater than they were. Their boast came back upon their own heads, for just as Calneh, Hamath, and Gath were subjected to Assyrian rule, so Israel would also be subjugated by the Assyrians. Calneh, a city in northern Syria, was the capital of a small kingdom. Hamath, an important city in central Syria, was located north of Damascus. Gath, one of the five principal Philistine cities, was southwest of Israel.

6:3 You who put far off the day of doom refers to those who insisted that Israel was too strong for destruction to fall upon the nation any time soon.

6:4-6 This passage describes the extravagant living indulged in by the rich, and paid for with the wealth stolen from the poor. lambs ... calves: Meat was a luxury for most families of the ancient Middle East, consumed only on special occasions. Meat on a daily basis was the privilege only of the rich and powerful. The upper classes of Israel were so engrossed in their own privileges and luxuries that they cared nothing for the affliction of their fellow Israelites, though it was their transgressions that had caused it.

6:7 God's judgment would be both fitting and ironic. Those who had fancied themselves the leaders of the nation would lead their nation into exile.

6:8 If God takes an oath, he takes it by Himself, for there is none greater than he. In his oracles against the seven nations (chs. 1; 2), Amos had prophesied the destruction of their palaces. Now it was Israel's turn. Luxurious palace strongholds represented both the pride of Jacob in their own strength and the oppression of the

<sup>9</sup>Then it shall come to pass, that if ten men remain in one house, they shall die. <sup>10</sup>And when <sup>1</sup>a relative of the dead, with one who will burn the bodies, picks up the <sup>2</sup>bodies to take them out of the house, he will say to one inside the house, “Are there any more with you?”

Vision of the Locusts

<sup>7</sup> Thus the Lord God showed me: Behold, He formed locust swarms at the <sup>1</sup>beginning of the late crop; indeed it was the late crop after the king’s mowings. <sup>2</sup>And so it was, when they had finished eating the grass of the land, that I said:

“O Lord God, forgive, I pray!

 For he is small!”

<sup>3</sup> So <sup>b</sup> the LORD relented concerning this.
 “It shall not be,” said the LORD.

Vision of the Fire

<sup>4</sup> Thus the Lord God showed me: Behold, the Lord God called <sup>3</sup> for conflict by fire, and it consumed the great deep and devoured the <sup>4</sup> territory. <sup>5</sup> Then I said:

“O Lord God, cease, I pray!

<sup>c</sup> Oh, that Jacob may stand,
 For he is small!”

<sup>6</sup> So the LORD relented concerning this.
 “This also shall not be,” said the Lord God.

Vision of the Plumb Line

<sup>7</sup> Thus He showed me: Behold, the Lord stood on a wall made with a plumb line, with a plumb line in His hand. <sup>8</sup> And the LORD said to me, “Amos, what do you see?”

And I said, “A plumb line.”

Then the Lord said:

powerless, whose stolen wealth had financed the construction of these palaces. I will deliver up the city: God personally would see to the destruction of Samaria and its proud inhabitants.

6:10 This verse depicts the aftermath of God’s judgment, when relatives came around to carry out the bodies. One inside the house may refer to the last survivor, sick but not yet dead himself. In this context, such a person might have been expected to invoke the name of God for help after answering, “None.” Before he could do so, however, the questioner would silence him, fearful of getting God’s further attention by using his name. People who had not believed that God would come in judgment would now be afraid of what further disaster he might bring upon them.

6:12 By citing two obviously impossible actions in areas of life with which all Israelites would have been familiar, Amos hoped to get the people to see the moral impossibility of Israel’s perversion of justice. As absurd and impossible in God’s sight as horses running up vertical cliffs or oxen plowing the sea was Israel’s—or any nation’s—perversion of justice and righteousness. Gall is a bitter, poisonous herb.

6:13, 14 Israel’s pride in its military strength would be its downfall. Lo Debar was a city east of the Jordan that Israel regained from Syria when Assyria crippled the strength of Damascus. Karnaim, a city east of the Jordan near the farthest limits of Israelite possession, was also regained when Assyria weakened Syria. God’s punishment of Israel would fit its sin of pride. As the Israelites reckoned that they had extended their borders by their own military strength, God would allow them to be harassed and defeated from border to border. The Valley of the Arabah refers to the desert valley that was the southern limit of Israelite control. From north to south, from border to border, God would allow Israel to be defeated in battle; they would realize that their own strength was puny indeed.

7:1 locust swarms: Locusts are a kind of grasshopper. Joel 1:4—2:11 describes the devastation locusts bring to agriculture, stripping every green leaf and twig, and even killing trees. The late crop refers to the last growth of crops and pastures, evidently including hay, before the summer dry season. The king’s mowings implies that the king took the first harvest of hay as a tax. Thus a swarm of locusts devouring the late crop would leave the people with nothing for themselves, inflicting a crippling economic blow.

7:2, 3 Oh, that Jacob may stand: If God carried out the threatened punishment, Jacob (the nation of Israel) might be destroyed. One function of the prophet was to serve as intercessor for the people before God. Amos prayed that the vision decreed in heaven might be halted before it was accomplished on earth. The basis of Amos’s petition lay in the true assessment of Israel’s position. They were not large and strong, as they thought; rather they were small and weak. In response to Amos’s intercession, and out of his own love for Israel, God stayed his decree.

7:4–6 To call for conflict means to put on trial or to bring a lawsuit against Israel. To try by fire means that fire would have been both the instrument by which Israel’s guilt would be judged and the instrument by which their punishment would be carried out. The great deep refers to the primordial waters that remained beneath the firmament after God fashioned it (see Gen. 1:6–8). These include the oceans and seas, and the subterranean waters that are the sources of springs and wells. For the deep to be dried up by fire means that the land would be devastated beyond hope. The territory refers either to the portion of the earth God had assigned to Israel or to Israel as God’s portion among the nations of the earth.

7:7–9 A plumb line is a string with a weight tied to one end, used to establish a vertical line so that a wall can be built straight. what

In the midst of My people Israel;
<sup>e</sup>I will not pass by them anymore.

Amaziah's Complaint

sent to <sup>j</sup>Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, “Amos has conspired against you in the midst of the house of Israel. The land is not able to <sup>7</sup>bear all his words. <sup>11</sup>For thus Amos has said:

‘Jeroboam shall die by the sword,
And Israel shall surely be led away

<sup>12</sup>Then Amaziah said to Amos:

“Go, you seer!
Flee to the land of Judah.
There eat bread,
And there prophesy.

And it is the royal <sup>9</sup>residence.”

<sup>14</sup>Then Amos answered, and said to Amaziah:

Vision of the Summer Fruit

8 Thus the Lord God showed me: Behold, a basket of summer fruit. <sup>2</sup> And He said, “Amos, what do you see?”
So I said, “A basket of summer fruit.”
Then the LORD said to me:

<sup>a</sup> “The end has come upon My people
Israel;

do you see: God asked Amos what he saw, then explained the vision's meaning. Unlike the first two visions, God did not give Amos opportunity to intercede, nor did he relent. These judgments would be executed. The plumb line of God's revelation in the law had been set in the midst of . . . Israel for many generations. Now God would stretch a plumb line to demonstrate how “crooked” the people's observance of his commands had been. The high places refer to temples, groves, and other shrines dedicated mostly to pagan deities. Isaac, the father of Jacob, represented all Israel in Amos's day. Jeroboam may refer to Jeroboam i, the first king of Israel, who instituted idolatry in the northern kingdom (see 1 kin. 12:25–33), or to Jeroboam ii, the monarch during the time of these prophecies. If it is Jeroboam i, then the house of Jeroboam is a metaphor for the nation. If it is Jeroboam ii, then the prophecy specifically concerns the royal household. In v. 10, the prophecy is taken by Amaziah to refer to the current king. Jeroboam ii himself did not die by the sword, but his son Zechariah was assassinated after reigning only six months (see 2 kin. 15:8–10).

7:10, 11 Amaziah, the priest in charge of the temple at Bethel, informed the king about the prophet who was making threats against the king's house. Amaziah was reacting to Amos's third vision which ended with God's promise to bring the sword against the house of Jeroboam. Amaziah regarded Amos's words as a political threat and reported them not as a prophecy from God, but as Amos's call to revolt.

7:12, 13 After sending his report to Jeroboam, Amaziah turned his attention to Amos himself. Since Amaziah was an official of the king, his command to Amos to return to Judah would have amounted to making Amos officially unwelcome in Israel. Amaziah was not concerned at all that Amos had proclaimed a message from God, only that the king's interests should be protected from this seditious prophet.

7:14–17 Amos's answer to Amaziah came in two parts. First he denied being a prophet by profession. Nor was I a son of a prophet indicates not only that Amos's father was not a prophet, but also that Amos had not been trained in prophecy. the LORD took me: Amos made it clear that he had neither desired nor sought his prophetic task. The second part of Amos's answer was directed against Amaziah personally. Your wife shall be a harlot: The only way the spouse of an important official like Amaziah would be reduced to prostitution would be if all her family and all her resources were taken away and she were left to fend entirely for herself. The rest of Amos's oracle predicted that such a situation would happen to Amaziah's family. Your land shall be divided indicated that it would be assigned or sold to new owners. As a high official of the king, Amaziah certainly possessed large land holdings; he would retain none. Defiled land refers to the land of pagans.

8:1–3 summer fruit: The fruits that came at the end of the harvest in late summer included grapes, pomegranates, and figs. The end has come: Amos could not have discerned the meaning of this vision until God's pronouncement. Israel's wickedness was about to result in a harvest of judgment. Most good harvests are times of rejoicing. But in this one, the songs of the temple—the songs of thanksgiving—would be turned to wailing because the harvest would be death.

3 And <sup>c</sup>the songs of the temple
 Shall be wailing in that day,”
 Says the Lord God—
 “Many dead bodies everywhere, <sup>d</sup>They shall be thrown out in silence.”

4 Hear this, you who <sup>1</sup>swallow up the needy,
 And make the poor of the land fail,
<sup>5</sup>Saying:
 “When will the New Moon be past,
 That we may sell grain?

 That we may <sup>2</sup>trade wheat?

 shekel large,
 Falsifying the scales by <sup>g</sup>deceit,
 6 That we may buy the poor for <sup>h</sup>silver,
 And the needy for a pair of sandals—
 Even sell the bad wheat?”

7 The LORD has sworn by <sup>i</sup>the pride of Jacob:
 “Surely <sup>j</sup>I will never forget any of their works.

 And everyone mourn who dwells

The Destruction of Israel

9 I saw the Lord standing by the altar, and He said:

“Strike the <sup>1</sup>doorposts, that the thresholds may shake,

8:4 Fail means essentially “to have no means of survival.”

8:5 The New Moon, the first day of the month on the hebrew calendar, was a day of special sacrifices, a feast day, and a Sabbath day (see Num. 28:11–15; 1 Sam. 20:5). <sup>r</sup> rather than observing the New Moon and the weekly Sabbath with worship, thanksgiving, and rest, these people were impatient to resume their cheating and oppression of the poor. in biblical times, the ephah was the most common measure of dry volume. To make the ephah small, therefore, was to cheat the customer of value received for price paid. The shekel was a unit of money. To make the shekel large was to cheat the customer by taking too large a price (weight) of silver for value received.

8:6 israel’s system of indentured service for members of the covenant community was to be humane and limited in time (see ex. 21:2, 3; l ev. 25:39–55). The rich and powerful of Amos’s day were making slaves of israel’s poor, the people they had dispossessed of their lands. the bad wheat: The chaff and other refuse of the threshing floor, perhaps even moldy or mildewed wheat, were mixed in with the good wheat to stretch it further and make a greater profit.

8:7 The form of the hebrew oath marks its seriousness: God will not forget. Their works refers to the economic injustices Amos spoke against in vv. 4–6, as well as other sins, including unfaithfulness to God.

8:8 The River and the River of Egypt refer to the Nile river. Heave and subside: The Nile rises and falls several feet in its annual flood. Amos may have intended to portray a severe earthquake in which the land’s rise and fall would be as dramatic as the rise and fall of the Nile. Though the Nile’s flood usually was quite gentle in egypt, an earthquake that reminded one of it would be violent indeed.

8:9, 10 God’s judgment would be a great reversal—of light to darkness, and joy to mourning. That day probably refers to the “day of the LORD” (5:18). Sackcloth, a coarse cloth of goat or camel hair, was uncomfortable to wear. Thus it was worn next to the skin as a sign of mourning or great distress. Shaving the head to create temporary baldness was another mourning sign.

8:11 in 4:6, Amos reminds israel that God had sent famine upon them, yet they had not returned to him. Now the famine would be, not of food, but of hearing the words of the LORD.

8:12, 13 From sea to sea means from the Dead Sea to the Mediterranean. to and fro: Those in israel searching for the word of God would have to circle all of israel’s territory, but in vain. The fair virgins and strong young men are those who are most vigorous and apt to survive.

8:14 Dan in the far north and Beersheba in the far south were the limits of significant israelite settlement. in Amos’s day, Beersheba was in the kingdom of Judah. israel could swear oaths by the Lord, claiming they loyally worshiped him from the extreme north to the extreme south of his land, but that would not relieve the famine of God’s word.

9:1 The people would have expected a vision of God by the altar to mean that he intended good for them, blessing them with his presence. instead God would start at the altar, commanding that the destruction of the sinful nation begin there. them all . . . the last of them: The reference here is to faithless Israel.

9:2 hell . . . heaven: in this imagery, Israel’s fugitives from God’s judgment could escape neither up nor down; God would find them no matter where in the universe they fled.

9:3 if the universe could not hide the fugitives, neither could the earth. The top of Carmel represented the highest point on the earth. Whether as high as that, or as low as the bottom of the sea, the earth would provide no escape.

9:4 even captivity in enemy lands would not provide a refuge from God’s further judgment upon Israel. I will set My eyes on them usually is a formula that expresses God’s blessing on Israel; here it alludes to the fulfillment of the curses for breaking the Mosaic covenant.

9:7 Ethiopia refers to the region near the southern horizon of Israel’s geographical knowledge, south of Egypt. God’s rhetorical question told Israel that they were not the only recipients of God’s attention and care. God loves all peoples, even the Philistines and Syrians. Caphtor refers to Crete, a large island in the Mediterranean Sea.

9:8 The sinful kingdom is Israel. I will not utterly destroy: This was a glimmer of hope in a long passage of judgment and doom. God’s judgment would be thorough, but a remnant would survive.

9:9 Sifting grain in a sieve was the final operation in cleaning grain before gathering it into storage. In winnowing, all the chaff was blown away; only pebbles and small clumps of mud remained with the grain. The sieve was constructed with holes that were sized so the grain fell through when it was shaken, but pebbles and other debris were retained in the sieve. Thus the smallest grain refers to the smallest pebble; it would not fall to the ground with the clean grain.

9:11, 12 The tabernacle of David: Amos pictures the royal house of David metaphorically as a “booth” fallen in disrepair. Judah was a fallen, ruined shelter, incapable of protecting its people from any significant storm. As in the days of old reflects the nostalgia for Israel’s people for the glory days of the kingdoms of David and Solomon, when they lived in strength, prosperity, and security. Gentiles refers to the peoples around Israel and Judah. Called by My name is a designation of sovereignty and ownership. Says the LORD who does this thing: God would take this task upon himself.

9:13 Israelite farmers plowed at the beginning of the rainy season, from mid-October. They harvested the grain crop—first barley,

And the treader of grapes him who sows seed;

<sup>x</sup>The mountains shall drip with sweet wine,

And all the hills shall flow with it.

then wheat—from late March to early June. For the plowman to overtake the reaper would mean such an abundant harvest that it would last all summer and would not be gathered until the plowing had started again. Grapes were harvested from midsummer to early fall. The grain crop was sown after the plowing in late fall. For the treader of grapes to overtake him who sows seed would mean the grape harvest would be so abundant that it would be extended for several weeks. The harvest of grapes would be so great that it would seem as though the mountains and hills themselves were flowing with rivers of sweet wine.

9:14 The promised restoration will be a total reversal of the punishment that God was bringing upon Israel.

9:15 As Israel planted vineyards, fields, and gardens, so God would plant the people in their land, never again to be pulled up in exile. Says the LORD your God are the final words of Amos's prophecy. God would do what he threatened through Amos—if Israel did not return to him. God would also do what he promised through Amos in the last few verses of this book. God does not abandon his promises or his covenant, nor does he leave his people without hope. God's punishment is certain, but his restoration is just as certain. That word of hope for God's people of old is valid also for God's people of today.

OBADIAH

THE BOOK OF OBADIAH is one of only two minor prophets that is addressed entirely to a nation other than Israel or Judah. It deals with the ancient feud between Israel and the nation of Edom, between the descendants of Jacob and those of his brother Esau. Through the prophet Obadiah, the Lord expressed His indignation at the nation of Edom. When they should have been helping their relatives, they were gloating over the Israelites' problems and raiding their homes. A day was coming—the day of the Lord—when all these wrongs would be righted. The Lord would bring justice to the world.

Author and Date The name Obadiah means “Servant of the Lord.” It is not known whether this was the prophet’s personal name or whether he used it as a title, preferring to remain anonymous. Nothing is known of Obadiah’s personal life or standing in Judean society.

Some scholars date the book very early, in the mid-ninth century B.C., following raids by the Philistines and Arabian tribes during the period of King Jehoram of Judah (see 2 Chr. 21:16, 17). This would make the Book of Obadiah the earliest of the prophetic books. However, most scholars date the book immediately following the Babylonian destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C.

Historical Setting In 586 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar’s army crushed Judah and destroyed Jerusalem and Solomon’s temple, ending Judah’s existence as an independent nation. Edom, as a closely related nation, should have helped Judah’s refugees. But instead of offering sympathy and help, Edom handed Judeans over to the conquering Babylonians. The Edomites even murdered some of the refugees. Such treachery to a related nation could not be overlooked. God gave Obadiah a stern message for Edom, a warning of God’s judgment on them for their callous treatment of the fleeing Judeans.

The Edomites’ pride and presumed self-sufficiency became their downfall. Their fortress capital of Sela, which they considered impregnable, became their tomb. Their Arab neighbors turned on them, taking over their land and their livelihood. The Edomites were pushed into what had been southern Judah. In the second century B.C., the resurgent Jewish kingdom under the Maccabees conquered the Edomites and forcibly converted them to Judaism. At that time they were called Idumeans.

Purpose While Obadiah’s short prophetic oracle was addressed to Edom, it is doubtful that Edomite leaders ever heard or read it. One purpose of the oracle was to comfort and encourage the surviving Judeans with the message that God had not abandoned them. Judah would be restored to its own land after the judgment of the Exile had been accomplished, and their enemies would be punished.

In the grand scheme of the biblical message of God’s redemption of fallen humanity, the Book of Obadiah may seem to be of little importance. But its portion of that message is tremendously vital. God is sovereign over all nations, whether they acknowledge His sovereignty or not. God desires that we show mercy and favor to our neighbors in their time of distress. Treachery against a relative is never justified and will be judged by the God of justice.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Obadiah's name means "Servant of the Lord," and like Jesus, the supreme Servant of God, this prophet has his work cut out for him. Like Jesus, Obadiah has the difficult task of representing Yahweh to those who don't want to hear what he has to say.

Obadiah is the Lord's mouthpiece as he stands up for Israel and sounds off against Edom. In his prophecy, this little-known prophet anticipates the one who will come to judge the nations (vv. 15, 16). He also makes reference to the Savior of Israel. "But on Mount Zion there shall be deliverance, and there shall be holiness" (v. 17).

1 Vision, a word common in the prophets (see is. 1:1; Nah. 1:1) indicates that the prophet “saw” the revelation. Obadiah means “The Servant of the Lord.” Thus says the Lord God: This phrasing is a strong affirmation that the prophetic oracle did not originate in the prophet’s own thinking; God was and is the initiator. A national oracle is directed against Edom, a country east of the Dead Sea and south of Moab. The nations is the standard biblical term for the larger national entities of western Asia and northeast Africa. See Jer. 49:7–22 for a passage with many similarities to the Book of obadiah. ezekiel also contains prophecies against edom that are similar to the message of obadiah (see ezek. 25:12–14; 35:1–15).

2 I will make you small: God would bring about a reversal of edom’s inflated self-importance.

pride

(heb. zadon) (v. 3; prov. 11:2; 13:10; Jer. 49:16) Strong’s #2087

The hebrew noun is related to a verb that means “to boil up.” in the o T, the noun has the meaning of “acting proudly or presumptuously” (Deut. 18:22; 1 Sam. 17:28). The defining characteristic of the nation of edom was pride (v. 3; Jer. 49:16). interestingly, Jeremiah uses the word pride symbolically as a synonym for Babylon (Jer. 50:31, 32). pride incites insolence and rebellion toward God, and it brings shame (prov. 11:2) and destruction (ezek. 7:10–12). The “pride of your heart” of which Jeremiah speaks is “presumptuous godlessness,” the arrogance of those who think that they can thrive without their creator (see prov. 11:2; 13:10; Jer. 49:16).

3 habitation is high: Some of the mountain peaks of edom reach over six thousand feet; Jerusalem is about 2,300 feet above sea level. Who will bring me down: edom’s presumed physical safety led the edomites to become haughty; this would be their downfall.

4 as high as the eagle . . . among the stars: edom’s physical location became a metaphor for the proud and haughty spirit that the nation had displayed at the time of Judah’s distress. Trusting in its high places and mountainous strongholds, edom reckoned that no one could bring it to account for its actions.

5, 6 If thieves had come: The implication is that edom would be stripped of everything. The nation would have been better off if thieves and robbers had come. searched out: rather than being robbed randomly, the nation would be systematically pillaged (see Jer. 49:7–10).

7 In your confederacy referred to the nations who were allied with edom in a covenant relationship, at peace and eating bread with them.

8 edom had a reputation for having many wise men among its citizens (see Jer. 49:7).

9 The name Temam comes from a son of eliphaz, who was the first-born son of esau (see Gen. 36:9–11). The word is often used as a synonym for edom (see Jer. 49:7; Amos 1:12), and is thought to have been one of its principal cities. one of Job’s friends, also named eliphaz, came from Teman (Job 2:11).

10 your brother Jacob: esau and Jacob were brothers, the sons of isaac and r ebekah (see Gen. 25:24–26). edom was descended from esau; Judah was descended from Jacob.

11 In the day refers to the time of Judah’s distress. strangers . . . foreigners: These words, used to describe Judah’s principal enemies, contrast with the words of v. 10, “your brother.” it was one thing for the Babylonians to attack Judah; for a nation like edom to join the Babylonians against their own brothers was unthinkable.

In the day that strangers carried

When foreigners entered his gates

12 Judah's defeat and destruction should have brought sorrow to its neighbors. Instead, Judah's brother nation had laughed aloud. More than that, Edom had helped to complete Judah's destruction, taking spoil, capturing those who were trying to escape the Babylonian onslaught, and turning them over to Nebuchadnezzar's soldiers.

Nor should you have spoken proudly: A literal translation would be, "You should not have made big your mouth."

13 The day of their calamity, repeated three times in this verse, refers to the day of God's judgment upon Judah, carried out by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.

14 stood at the crossroads: The phrasing suggests deliberate actions on Edom's part. day of distress: This phrase, repeated from v. 12, is a synonym of "day of their calamity" in v. 13. delivered up those . . . who remained: The Edomites had captured those who were attempting to escape the Babylonian army and then had turned them over to their pursuers.

15 The day of the LORD is a technical term used by the prophets to indicate the day of God's judgment (see Amos 5:18–20). Here the term likely refers to the time when God would judge all the nations, including Edom, that had participated in Judah's destruction.

As you have done: The nature of God's judgment always reflects the nature of the sin being judged.

16 as you drank: The reference here is to the "cup of God's wrath" that was passed from Samaria to Judah, and finally to the nations—including Edom (see Jer. 25:27, 32, 33). The Lord still viewed Jerusalem as his holy mountain because he intended to reestablish his presence there (see Zech. 1:16).

17 Mount Zion and "My holy mountain" (v. 16) refer to the same place: Jerusalem.

18 The references to the house of Jacob and the house of Joseph signify a unified Israel. God intends to rejoin the kingdoms of Israel and Judah as one people again. For the LORD has spoken: These words add a dramatic certainty to the announcement of judgment (see Jer. 49:13).

19 The South refers to the Negev, the dry region around Beersheba, in the territory of Simeon and southern Judah. The Negev bordered on Edom to the east. According to this verse, southern Judah was going to possess the land of the Edomites. The Lowland, or Shephelah, is the lower hills in Judah between the central hill country to the east and the coastal plain to the west. Judah and Philistia fought fiercely over this region in the early part of Israel's history. But Judah would eventually prevail over the lands contested with Philistia (see Zeph. 2:4–7). Ephraim, Samaria, and Gilead were parts of Israel during the period of the judges and most of the monarchy. Ephraim and Samaria were the heartland of the northern kingdom of Israel during the time of the divided monarchy. But at the time of Obadiah's prophecy, all three regions had passed under foreign domination and had experienced a significant influx of foreign population. In the day of the Lord of which Obadiah prophesied, these regions again would come into the possession of the Israelites. The land of Israel would be restored to its rightful inhabitants.

20 Zarephath was a Phoenician city 14 miles north of Tyre (see 1 Kin. 17:8–24). Sepharad was a city to which some Judeans were exiled. The restoration of Judah from exile which these verses predict was a sign to Judah and all nations that the God of Israel was not just a local God. He had not been defeated by the Babylonian god Marduk. The fact that he could allow his people to be carried into captivity in a foreign land and then bring them back to

21 Saviors means “deliverers” or “those who will bring about salvation” (see Neh. 9:27). The Judeans who had been taken into captivity would come back as deliverers, and they would reign over the people of edom. the kingdom shall be the Lord's: These were obadiah's last words against all human arrogance, pride, and rebellion. edom had thought itself indestructible; but the lord humbled that nation and restored the fallen Judah. Many people are tempted to consider themselves beyond the reach of God. But God will bring them low, just as he will lift those who humble themselves before him. And one great day, he will establish his just rule over all.

THE BOOK OF JONAH

THIS HIGH-PROFILE BOOK has been described as a parable, an allegory, and a satire. The famous story of the “great fish” (often erroneously thought of as a whale) has led many to dismiss the book as merely a biblical “fish story.”

It is a mistake (based in part on the difficulty some readers have in coming to terms with the miraculous character of the story line) to assume that the events and actions of the book are not historical in nature. While the story line is unusual, it is presented as normal history. Further, Jesus used the story of Jonah as an analogy of His own impending death and resurrection (see Matt. 12:39–41). Jesus’ analogy depends on the recognition of two historical realities: (1) the historical experience of Jonah in the belly of the great fish, and (2) the historical experience of the repentance of the people of Nineveh based on the preaching of Jonah (see also Luke 11:29–32). Indeed, the phrase “the sign of the prophet Jonah” must have been a recurring phrase in the teaching of Christ, as it is found on more than one occasion in Matthew’s account of Christ’s ministry (see Matt. 16:4). Thus any view of the Book of Jonah that does not assume it describes historical events is obliged to explain away the clear words of Jesus to the contrary.

Author and Date The book does not specifically state who wrote it. But the tradition that it was written by Jonah as his own report of his foolish behavior and his final statement of coming to terms with the divine will is a likely possibility.

The prophet Jonah lived in the eighth century B.C., but we know very little about him apart from this book. He is mentioned in only one other passage in the Old Testament apart from the book that bears his name. Second Kings 14:25 announces the fulfillment of a prophecy of the living God that came through “Jonah the son of Amittai, the prophet who was from Gath Hepher.” This passage locates Jonah’s ministry in the northern kingdom of Israel during the reign of King Jeroboam II (792–753 B.C.). The text suggests that through Jonah’s ministry the Lord encouraged Israel and gave the nation a period of prosperity under Jeroboam. Yet we also know that during this period of political, geographical, and economic expansion, Israel forgot its past troubles, did not return to the Lord, and did not worry about Assyria’s growing power. Clearly, the historical passage presents Jonah in a positive manner. The Book of Jonah, however, presents the prophet in a negative light as it highlights his disobedience to the Lord, leading the reader to reject Jonah’s attitudes and actions.

The prophet Jonah was from Gath Hepher, a town in the territory of Zebulun (see Josh. 19:10, 13; 2 Kin. 14:25), several miles northeast of Nazareth. Nothing is known of his father Amittai. The name Jonah means “Dove.” We associate the dove with peace and purity; however, this positive meaning is not the only possible association. A “dove” could also be a symbol of silliness (see Hos. 7:11), a description that sadly applies to this tragicomical prophet.

Historical Setting By the time of the ministry of Jonah, Assyria was preoccupied with the mountain tribes of Urartu, and did not continue its westward campaigns until Tiglath-pileser III came to power in 745 B.C. Israel rejoiced at this preoccupation of Assyria, and they aggressively pursued a policy of defense by strengthening their fortified cities, building up the army, and developing international relations.

Principal Message The Book of Jonah challenges God’s people not to exalt themselves over others. The Lord, the great king, is free to bless, to be gracious, and to be patient with all the nations of the earth. More than that, he may show compassion even on the wicked. Indeed, his mercy extends even to animals (4:11).

Jonah’s view of God was too restrictive. He believed that God was the creator of everything, but that he was compassionate only toward the elect of Israel. Jonah believed that since God had chosen Israel from among the wicked nations, he had to show mercy to Israel, even if the people were rebellious. Jonah had failed to appreciate that the Lord may be equally forbearing with other nations as he was with Israel.

The Book of Jonah affirms God’s freedom, sovereignty, and power. God is sovereign because he is the creator of everything (1:9). His power extends over all creation (the storm, the fish, the vine, the worm). God is free and he can never be bound by human misconceptions.

The self-righteous make the grave mistake of rejoicing only in their own deliverance (2:9) and in God’s answers to prayer (4:6). They miss out by narrowing God’s grace and mercy to themselves. Like Jonah, they cannot share in God’s delight in saving the sailors and the city of Nineveh, including infants and even animals (4:11). They confess that God is creator and king of the whole cosmos, but restrict his involvement to judgment, justice, and retribution. In this manner they do not see his acts of compassion, righteousness, and forbearance. The Lord’s final proclamation to Jonah (4:10, 11) sums up the prophetic message of the book: God is free to bestow his mercy on anyone and anywhere he wills. His concern and mercy extend to all creation.

Jonah’s story contains a strong warning to all godly people. The elect may miss the blessing of seeing God’s grace extended outside their own sphere because of their imposition of limits on God. While Jonah was praying anxiously for his personal deliverance, the sailors had already been experiencing the love of God for three days. Likewise, the people of Nineveh who repented of their sin rejoiced that the impending judgment had not come. Jonah, however, was miserable. As we laugh at him, we may need to wince at ourselves. Jonah’s silly sin is finally no laughing matter. We are condemned along with him if we share in his provincial folly.

Literary Form As already noted, the literary form of the Book of Jonah differs from that of other prophetic books. It has no prophecies. Instead, the book is largely narrative. Chapter 2 is a song of deliverance, a lovely, vibrant lyric prayer like many in the Book of Psalms.

It is best to understand the book as a prophetic parable. The events in the book are historical, but its place among the prophets leads us to interpret it as a prophetic writing. As a prophetic book, it is unique in that the message of the book centers on the negative interaction between the Lord and his prophet. As a parable, the book draws attention to the grace of God and to the folly of Jonah. The prophet's folly encourages the godly reader to avoid Jonah's negative example and to be a messenger of God's mercy and judgment to the nations.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Like Jesus, Jonah proclaims the need to repent. The book also illustrates that God is merciful and withholds his punishment when people respond to him. Jesus taught the same.

Could that be why Jonah is the only prophet Jesus identified as a symbol of himself? Jesus said, "An evil and adulterous generation seeks after a sign, and no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah" (Matt. 12:39). And then we see how much Jonah's story is a type of Jesus' life, death, and resurrection. "For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth . . . and indeed a greater than Jonah is here" (Matt. 12:40, 41).

1:1 the word of the LORD came: This phrase affirms the divine source of the message to Jonah (see also 1 kin. 17:8; Jer. 1:4; hos. 1:1; Joel 1:1; Mic. 1:1; zeph. 1:1; hag. 1:3). The name Jonah means “dove.”

1:2 Nineveh, located on the Tigris river (see Gen. 10:11, 12), was the capital of ancient Assyria (see 2 kin. 19:36) for about a century (zeph. 2:13–15; see also the Book of Nahum). Nineveh was over five hundred miles from Gath hepher, Jonah’s home near Nazareth in Israel. Their wickedness refers to Nineveh’s pride, greed, brutality, and adultery (see 3:8; Nah. 2:11, 12; 3:1–4). has come up before Me: This figurative language pictures evil swelling up to confront the Lord (see Gen. 18:21; compare 1 am. 1:22).

1:3 flee to Tarshish: The location of this port city is uncertain, but it could be Tartessus on the southeast coast of Spain. The city represents the most distant place known to the Israelites. Joppa, a non-Israelite port town, was west of Jerusalem and about 50 miles southwest of Jonah’s hometown of Gath hepher.

1:4, 5 But the LORD sent out a great wind: Throughout the Book of Jonah, the Lord shows himself sovereign over every aspect of creation. In this case, the storm at sea was so ferocious that even the experienced mariners were afraid. The Phoenicians were the primary mariners of the ancient Middle East, so this was probably a Phoenician ship. Jonah was so sure he had averted God’s will that he was fast asleep in the ship’s hold.

1:6 your God: The ship’s captain, a pagan, urged Jonah to pray to whatever god he might believe in. Of course, Jonah’s “god” was the true God, who had caused the storm in the first place (v. 4).

1:7 cast lots: The sailors turned to practices common among them in an attempt to find the will of the gods. the lot fell on Jonah: Jonah was singled out as the guilty party (see Josh. 7:12–18; 1 Sam. 14:40–42).

1:8 The sailors fired a series of questions at Jonah, seeking to discern the reason for the storm. In regard to Jonah’s occupation, the sailors may have wanted to know the prophet’s reason for being on board the ship.

1:9 I am a Hebrew: With these words, Jonah identified himself with the people of the Lord’s covenant (see Gen. 14:13). I fear the LORD: Fear here indicates an ongoing activity of awe before the Lord, of piety in his presence, of obedience to his word, and of sav-

Jonah: A Reluctant Missionary

Sometimes the prophets of the Lord tried to challenge his wisdom in calling them for divine service (see Moses in ex. 4; Jeremiah in Jer. 1). However, Jonah is the only case in the record of Scripture where a true prophet of the Lord (see 2 kin. 14:25) tried hard to thwart the will of God by fleeing from the task that God had given him (1:3). In contrast to Elijah’s obedience to the Lord (see 1 kin. 17:8–10), Jonah tried to go as far as he could in the opposite direction from where God had commanded him. Jonah hoped that Nineveh would get just what it deserved. He was afraid that if he announced judgment the people of Nineveh might respond in a manner that would prompt God to change his mind (4:2). So, in an attempt to restrain God from being merciful to his national enemies, Jonah ran away.

There is something humorous in this account. How could a prophet of God hide from the creator of the universe? The location of Tarshish may have been the southeast coast of Spain. In any case it represents the farthest place known to the people of ancient Israel. It is similar to going “to the ends of the earth.”

Yet there is also something frightening here: Were a prophet of God directly to disobey the Sovereign God, he might place not only himself, but others connected with him, in dire jeopardy. Sadly, Jonah was not on a mission of mercy, even if he had achieved his goal. He was, in a way, an antimissionary; one who resisted God’s call to go to the nations. The repetition of the words “from the presence of the Lord” emphasizes Jonah’s attempt to remove himself as far as possible from his service to the Lord. When we remember that the people of Israel were not a maritime people, but rather had a great fear of the sea (see ps. 93), we are all the more amazed at Jonah’s risky action. Jonah’s natural aversion to the ocean was overcome by his greater distaste for the thought that Nineveh might escape God’s threatened doom.

Thankfully, God did not allow Jonah to succeed, so there is something reassuring here as well. God accomplished his work despite the resistance of his reluctant worker.

Jonah Thrown into the Sea

<sup>10</sup>Then the men were exceedingly afraid, and said to him, “Why have you done this?” For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them. <sup>11</sup>Then they said to him, “What shall we do to you that the sea may be calm for us?”—for the sea was growing more tempestuous.

<sup>12</sup>And he said to them, <sup>o</sup>“Pick me up and <sup>4</sup>throw me into the sea; then the sea will become calm for you. For I know that this great tempest is because of me.”

<sup>13</sup>Nevertheless the men rowed hard to return to land, <sup>p</sup>but they could not, for the sea continued to grow more tempestuous against them. <sup>14</sup>Therefore they cried out to the LORD and said, “We pray, O LORD, please do not let us perish for this man’s life, and <sup>q</sup>do not charge us with innocent blood; for You, O LORD, <sup>r</sup>have done as it pleased You.” <sup>15</sup>So they picked up Jonah and threw him into the sea, <sup>s</sup>and the sea ceased from its raging. <sup>16</sup>Then the men <sup>t</sup>feared the LORD exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice to the LORD and took vows.

Jonah’s Prayer and Deliverance

<sup>17</sup>Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah. And <sup>u</sup>Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

2 Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the fish’s belly. <sup>2</sup> And he said:

“<sup>a</sup> I cried out to the LORD because of my affliction, <sup>b</sup> And He answered me.

“Out of the belly of Sheol I cried,

 Yet I will look again <sup>f</sup>toward Your holy temple.’

ing faith (see Gen. 22:12; ex. 20:20; prov. 1:7). Yet Jonah’s actions contradicted his words. God of heaven: The Lord is not merely a local deity worshiped by an obscure people; he is the Supreme ruler over all people and all creation (see 2 chr. 36:23; ezra 1:2; Neh. 1:4, 5; compare also Gen. 24:3, 7; Deut. 10:14). Jonah may have intended to distinguish God from Baal, the canaanite “god of the sky” whom so many israelites worshiped (see 1 kin. 18:20–29; 2 kin. 21:3; 2 chr. 17:3). who made the sea and the dry land: in the midst of the storm, Jonah proclaimed that his God is Lord over the sea (see ex. 15:1–8; ps. 89:9; 93:3, 4; 95:5).

1:10 exceedingly afraid: This is the same term for fear that Jonah used in his statement of piety (v. 9). But here the word means to be in terror; it refers to overwhelming dread (v. 16). God, the creator of the universe, was after Jonah. And because God was after Jonah, he was after the sailors as well. They had every right to be afraid (see Gen. 12:18; Judg. 15:11).

1:12 throw me into the sea: Jonah knew that the only way for the storm to abate was for the sailors to toss him overboard. Jonah was ready to die (see 4:3, 8; 1 kin. 19:4; Job 3:1; 7:16). his words, because of me, are an admission of guilt and show a sense of resignation.

1:14 they cried out to the LORD: ironically, the pagan sailors prayed to the Lord on behalf of the Lord’s rebellious prophet. Jonah needed God’s grace as much as Nineveh did. as it pleased You: The narrator skillfully uses the sailors’ words to express one of the book’s themes: the Lord is free to act as he wills.

1:15 The sailors did as Jonah had said (v. 12), but only when they saw there was no other option (vv. 13, 14). With a sense of permission from the God of heaven and creator of the seas (v. 9), the sailors threw Jonah into the sea.

1:16 Then the men feared the LORD exceedingly: in the hebrew text, the words of this part of v. 16 are precisely the same as in v. 10, with one exception: the object of the sailors’ fear. in v. 10 these words described the sailors’ overwhelming dread of the raging sea; in this verse they feared the LORD, indicating piety and believing faith. The sailors had the same reverential awe of God that Jonah had claimed to have (v. 9). in spite of Jonah’s failure, the sailors became converts (see ps. 103:11, 13, 17). offered a sacrifice: The text does not say where this happened, but it may have been after the ship reached land. The important point is that their sacrifice was made to the God of israel.

1:17 the LORD had prepared a great fish: God sent the fish—not a whale, as is commonly thought—to rescue Jonah from drowning, not to punish him (ch. 2). Three days and three nights may refer to one full day and portions of two more (see 3:3; Gen. 30:36; ex. 3:18; 1 Sam. 30:12; esth. 4:16; 1 uke 2:46; 24:21). Jesus christ said his death and resurrection were foreshadowed by Jonah’s experience (see Matt. 12:39, 40; 16:4; 1 uke 11:29; 1 cor. 15:4).

2:1 Jonah prayed to the LORD his God: in his psalm (vv. 2–9), Jonah acknowledges God’s help and thanks him for it. The phrase the LORD his God shows that Jonah, even though he was disobedient, was a true believer in God.

2:2 I cried . . . I cried: These terms come from two different verbs. The first is a more general term meaning “to call aloud,” with a wide range of usage in the Bible. The second is a term that means a “cry for help,” particularly as a scream to God (see ps. 5:2; 18:6, 41; 22:24; 28:1; 30:2; 31:22; 88:13; 119:146). Jonah was terrified. Out of the belly of Sheol: When the sailors threw Jonah into the sea, he seemed to be “as good as dead.” Thus for Jonah, the sea became like Sheol, the place of death (see Gen. 37:35; ps. 16:10; 88:4, 5; prov. 9:18; is. 28:15).

2:3 Jonah’s use of the pronouns You and Your in this verse are not accusations, but acknowledgments of the Lord’s sovereign control of his life (see ps. 88:6–18).

2:4 I will look again toward Your holy temple: The man who had run from God’s presence (1:3) was alone, yet he clung to the prepared

(heb. manah) (1:17; 4:6–8; ps. 147:4) Strong’s #4487

This hebrew verb basically means “to count” or “to assign.” The psalmist uses this verb to praise God for knowing the number of stars and naming each one (see ps. 147:4). in the Book of Jonah, it signifies “to appoint” or “to ordain,” and describes God’s intervention in natural events to bring about his will. By preparing the fish, the plant, and the worm, God made sure that Jonah’s mission was not left to chance. God exercised sovereignty not only over the plant and animal world, but also over Jonah’s life, using animals as small as a worm to teach Jonah about his great mercy (4:6–8).

Nineveh

No one knows the precise age of Nineveh, but the city is mentioned in Babylonian records that extend back to the twenty-first century B.C. Nineveh was also mentioned in the records of Hammurabi, who lived between 1792 and 1750 B.C. From 1100 B.C., Nineveh was a royal residence. During the reign of Sargon II (722–705 B.C.), it served as the capital of Assyria. Sennacherib (705–681 B.C.) made it the chief city of his empire. It had massive walls and an aqueduct that brought water from the mountains 35 miles away.

Nineveh was destroyed in August 612 B.C. It fell after a two-month siege carried out by an alliance among Medes, Babylonians, and Scythians. The attackers destroyed Nineveh by releasing the Khosr River into the city, where it dissolved the buildings' sun-dried brick. This was a remarkable fulfillment of Nahum's prophecy (Nah. 2:6).

Jonah Preaches at Nineveh

3 Now the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and preach to it the message that I tell you.” <sup>3</sup>So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an exceedingly great hope that God would not abandon him. The temple, the sanctuary in Jerusalem (see v. 7; Deut. 12:5–7; ps. 48; 79:1; 132; heb. 9:24), was the symbol of God's presence.

2:5 The deep: This is the same term used in Gen. 1:2 to describe the mysterious and terrifying sea. In the Bible, the sea is described as a part of God's creation (see Gen. 1:10) that brings him joy (see ps. 104:24–26), but it also appears as a symbol for hostile forces (see ps. 74:12–15; is. 27:1) which the Lord nevertheless holds in his firm control (see ps. 93).

2:6 Jonah pictures himself so deep in the sea that it is as if he had found the moorings of the mountains. pit: This term, along with Sheol (v. 2), is used to describe the realm of the dead (see Job 33:24; ps. 30:9; 49:9).

2:7 I remembered: Jonah reaffirms his faith in the Lord and renews his commitment to him (see ps. 22:27; 63:6; 106:7).

2:8 worthless idols: This phrase (also found in ps. 31:6) condemns every alternative to God. Idols here means “vapor,” that which passes away quickly. These vaporous gods (see ps. 86:8–10; Jer. 10:15; 51:18) were without value. Mercy (loyal love), the term that so often describes God's faithfulness to his covenant and to his people (see ps. 13:5; 59:10, 17; 89:1–3) is used as a name for the Lord (4:2).

2:9 I will sacrifice to You with the voice of thanksgiving: This vow of praise is common in the psalms (see ps. 13:6; 142:7). I will pay what I have vowed: Jonah declares that he will keep his promise, a pledge both to sacrifice and to acknowledge God's help (see Job 22:27; ps. 22:25; 50:14; 66:13; 116:14, 17; see also r om. 6:13, 19; 12:1; 1 pet. 2:5). Salvation: it is the Lord who delivers his people. God acts on behalf of his creation and the redeemed community to insure a relationship with them (see ex. 15:2, 17, 18; ps. 88:1; 89:26; 140:7; is. 12:2). chapters 1 and 2 both end with vows of sacrifice and thanksgiving.

2:10 the Lord spoke to the fish: The focus in the story of Jonah is on the Lord's sovereign control over creation to bring about his purpose.

3:1, 2 Jonah's new commission was essentially the same as the one he had received in 1:1, 2.

3:3 in contrast to 1:3, Jonah obeyed the command of the Lord the second time and made the journey to Nineveh. a three-day journey in extent: The city wall of Nineveh had a circumference of about eight miles, indicating that Nineveh was an exceedingly large city for the times. But the reference to “three days” likely refers to the larger administrative district of Nineveh, made up of several cities, with a circumference of about 55 miles.

city, <sup>1</sup>a three-day journey in extent. <sup>4</sup>And Jonah began to enter the city on the first day's walk. Then <sup>a</sup>he cried out and said, "Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown!"

The People of Nineveh Believe

<sup>5</sup>So the <sup>b</sup>people of Nineveh believed God, proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest to the least of them. <sup>6</sup>Then word came to the king of Nineveh; and he arose from his throne and laid aside his robe, covered himself with sackcloth <sup>c</sup>and sat in ashes. <sup>7</sup><sup>d</sup>And he caused it to be proclaimed and published throughout Nineveh by the decree of the king and his <sup>2</sup>nobles, saying,

3:4 Jonah proclaimed that there were only forty days before the destruction of Nineveh. Both the announcement and the specified delay show God's mercy. it was this mercy that bothered Jonah (4:1-3).

3:5 believed God: The term used for God here is the general term for deity. in contrast, the sailors in ch. 1 proclaimed faith in the Lord, using the personal, covenant name for God (1:16). The fact that the writer does not use the personal name for God here may suggest that the Ninevites had a short-lived or imperfect understanding of God's message. history bears this out: We have no historical record of a lasting period of belief in Nineveh. eventually the city was destroyed, in 612 B.C.

3:5, 6 fast ... sackcloth ... ashes: These are expressions of mourning and lamentation (see 2 kin. 19:1; 2 chr. 20:3; is. 58:5-9; Jer. 36:6-9; Joel 1:13, 14; 2:12-18).

3:7 proclaimed and published: The king's edict reached all of Nineveh.

3:9 God will turn and relent: The reversal of the threat to destroy Nineveh depended solely on the grace and mercy of the Lord. At times, the announced judgment of God is not his real intent (see 4:2; Jer. 18:7, 8; Amos 7:3). Such announcements usually include offers of mercy and forgiveness (see z eph. 2:1-3).

3:10 God relented: The Ninevites' repentance moved the Lord to extend grace and mercy to them.

4:1 Jonah ... became angry: in contrast to God, Jonah had no compassion on the people of Nineveh. displeased: Jonah's irritation belied the good news that the city would be spared. Jonah himself had just been spared God's fair judgment, but he was unable to appreciate the parallel.

4:2 I know: Jonah himself had experienced the excellencies of pared a worm, and it so damaged the plant that it withered. <sup>8</sup> And it happened, when the sun arose, that God prepared a vehement east wind; and the sun beat on Jonah’s head, so that he grew faint. Then he wished death for himself, and said, <sup>e</sup> “It is better for me to die than to live.”

<sup>9</sup> Then God said to Jonah, “Is it right for you to be angry about the plant?”

And he said, “It is right for me to be angry, even to death!”

<sup>10</sup> But the LORD said, “You have had pity on the plant for which you have not labored, nor made it grow, which <sup>3</sup> came up in a night and perished in a night. <sup>11</sup> And should I not pity Nineveh, <sup>f</sup> that great city, in which are more than one hundred and twenty thousand persons <sup>g</sup> who cannot discern between their right hand and their left—and much livestock?”

God. Gracious and merciful may be rephrased as “marvelously gracious.” Lovingkindness can also mean “loyal love.” This is the same word that Jonah had used in his praise of God in 2:8. One who relents from doing harm: in this recital of God’s blessed character, Jonah built on the revelation of the Lord to Moses (see ex. 34:6, 7).

4:3, 4 please take my life: contrast Jonah and Elijah: Jonah’s death wish came from disgust at the people’s repentance; Elijah’s came from a yearning for the people’s repentance (see 1 kin. 19:4). Only a few days before Jonah had screamed for God to keep him alive.

4:5 till he might see what would become of the city: in his continuing stubbornness and lack of compassion, Jonah held out hope that God would judge Nineveh. This was God’s chief complaint against him (see ps. 58).

4:6 the Lord God prepared: The same verb was used in 1:17 to describe the Lord’s preparation of the great fish. The term is also used in v. 7 regarding the worm and in v. 8 regarding the east wind. The repeated use of prepared is a subtle reference to the sovereignty of God. a plant: The nature of this plant is unknown. Some have speculated that it was a castor-oil tree or a bottle-gourd vine. It may have been a species that grew especially fast. to deliver him: The Lord had rescued Jonah from drowning (1:17); now he wished to relieve his prophet from the misery of the sun. The reach of God’s mercy to the undeserving is a theme that continued to elude Jonah even as he experienced it.

4:7 God prepared a worm: The Book of Jonah depicts the Lord as both sovereign and free to act in creation. God placed the worm in the plant to serve as his agent in Jonah’s life.

4:8 vehement east wind: The scorching sirocco wind that blows in from the desert draws moisture from plants, causing them to wither (see is. 40:7, 8).

4:9 The word translated is it right comes from the verb meaning “to be good,” “to do well,” or “to be pleasing.” Here, as in Gen. 4:4, the expression has to do with ethical behavior (see also I ev. 5:4; ps. 36:3; is. 1:17; Jer. 4:22; 13:23). Jonah’s anger (v. 1) did not arise from a desire for justice but from his own selfishness. He continued to justify his rebellious attitude. And again, God was merciful.

4:10 Pity describes an expression of deeply felt compassion (see ps. 72:13; Ezek. 20:17; Joel 2:13, 14). However, Jonah pitied himself more than the plant.

4:11 pity: The same word used to describe Jonah’s feeling toward the plant in v. 10 is used of God’s feeling toward the people of Nineveh. People are of more value than animals, and animals of more value than plants, but the Lord has a concern that extends to all of his creation. The Lord’s pity comes from his character (v. 2; compare Joel 2:13, 14). livestock: if Jonah could take pity on a plant, which is even less important than an animal, it only made sense that God would take pity on human beings, who are made in God’s image. The Book of Jonah ends on this note of contrast between Jonah’s ungracious heart and the kind heart of the Lord.

slow to anger

(heb. arek; aph) (4:2; Num. 14:18; prov. 14:29) Strong’s #750; 639

The idiom for anger in the OT translated literally is “the nose burns” or “the nose becomes hot” (see Gen. 30:2; ex. 4:14). The Hebrew idiom for “patient” or “slow to anger” is literally “long of nose” (ps. 86:15; 103:8). The nose is symbolic of anger because an angry person breathes heavily or noisily. The Hebrew idiom for slow to anger is frequently applied to God to describe his great mercy and kindness (ps. 145:8; Joel 2:13).

THE BOOK OF MICAH

OLD TESTAMENT PROPHETS are often thought of as providing not much more than “doom and gloom” predictions, but the Book of Micah presents an impassioned and artistic interplay between oracles of impending judgment and promises of future blessing on Israel and Judah. The peoples of both nations had broken covenant with their Lord. Through His messenger Micah, the Lord confronted His people, but He also promised to bring future blessing through the One who would be coming. This One would be the true Shepherd of God’s flock.

Author and Date Little is known about the prophet Micah beyond his name, his place of origin, and the personal tone of his book. Micah was born in the rural village of Moresheth Gath in the lowlands of Judah, near the region of Philistia, setting him apart from his more illustrious contemporary Isaiah, who was from Jerusalem.

The Book of Micah has numerous points of similarity with the much longer Book of Isaiah. In fact, virtually the same passage is found in both books (compare 4:1–3 with Is. 2:2–4). Some attribute this unusual phenomenon to one prophet borrowing from the other, but it is difficult to argue for the priority of either Micah or Isaiah from the texts. More likely both prophets made use of the same source, perhaps a psalm of confidence.

It is often asserted that the Book of Micah was written by his disciples and followers many years after his ministry. However, the tone of Micah’s prophecies against Jerusalem indicates that they had not yet come to pass. It appears that Micah prophesied that the Assyrians would destroy Jerusalem in the same way they had already destroyed the city of Samaria (compare 1:6 with 3:12). While the Assyrians under Sennacherib did lay siege against Jerusalem in the campaign of 701 B.C., they did not finally destroy the city. Jerusalem was not destroyed until over a century later by the Babylonians (586 B.C.). It is almost inconceivable that disciples of Micah would collect, record, and promote his prophecies long after the fact if those prophecies had not come to pass as anticipated. It is far more likely that the prophecies of Micah were compiled by the prophet as an anthology of his own lengthy preaching career.

Historical Setting The career of Micah extended over the last third of the eighth century B.C., during the reigns of Jotham (752–736 B.C.), Ahaz (736–720 B.C.), and Hezekiah (729–699 B.C.). The Book of Micah centers on the threat of the Assyrian invasions that occurred throughout this period, beginning around 730 B.C. against Israel and culminating in 701 B.C. against Judah. Much of Micah’s preaching warned Judah about an impending national disaster. Yet the religious leaders of Jerusalem were falsely confident that no evil would come to them because of the inviolable presence of the holy temple in their midst. Micah sternly confronted their arrogance and their mistaken notions of God: not even the temple on Mount Zion would be spared the onslaught of God’s wrath (3:12).

The lengthy delay in Micah’s prophecies against Jerusalem may be attributed to several causes. First, God may have decided to spare the city, even though it was He who had condemned it (see Jer. 26:16–19; compare God’s judgment on Nineveh in the Book of Jonah). The significant delay in the judgment against Jerusalem may be attributed to the mercy of the Lord, much as the delay of the judgment of God against Nineveh is attributed to his mercy by the prophet Jonah (see Jon. 4:1–3). Second, although the judgment of Jerusalem was postponed, it was finally realized in the destruction of the city by the Babylonians in 586 B.C.

1432 MICAH INTRODUCTION

Themes The interplay of texts of wrath and mercy in the Book of Micah mirrors the character of God, for even in his wrath he remembers mercy. In the darkest days of impending judgment on the nations of Israel and Judah, there was always the possibility of a remnant being spared. Although the Lord was determined to maintain his holiness, he was equally intent on fulfilling his loving promises to Abraham (see Gen. 12; 15; 22). The Lord would balance his judgment with mercy. Consequently Micah also balances his oracles of judgment with oracles of promise.

In doing so, Micah points back to the covenant and also forward to the coming one. The book begins with the language of a court. Micah calls the peoples of earth to come to hear the Lord's case against Israel, for the nation had broken the covenant (3:1; 6:1–3). The language recalls the language of the covenant or contract the Lord established with his people. The Lord was judging his people according to the terms of the covenant. But in the middle of the oracles of judgment, Micah reveals the Lord's wonderful promises of a glorious future. There would be a time when the coming king would gather his people together (2:12, 13), when he would establish peace (4:3), and when he would bring justice to the earth (4:2, 3). Remarkably, Micah prophesies that this coming Messiah would be born in Bethlehem (5:2). The fulfillment of this prophecy in Jesus' birth in Bethlehem gives us confidence that the prophecies of Jesus' glorious future will also be fulfilled (see Matt. 2:1).

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Unlike the Book of Jonah, which took the burial and resurrection of Jesus for Israel to make sense out of what had occurred, Micah's reference to the Messiah was quite explicit. From the time he verbalized God's rebuke at the way the Jews were treating the poor until the time a poor carpenter and his fiancée arrived in Bethlehem, devout Jews knew that King David's birthplace was where the Messiah would also be born.

Micah wrote the following about the town of Bethlehem seven hundred years before Jesus was born: "Though you are little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of you shall come forth to Me the one to be ruler in Israel, whose goings forth are from of old, from everlasting" (5:2). And of that ruler, he prophesied, "he will teach us his ways, and we shall walk in his paths. . . . Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore" (4:2, 3).

The Church of the Nativity, built on the traditional location of the birth of Christ. Micah prophesied that the Messiah would come from Bethlehem (Mic. 5:2).

1:1 Micah means “Who is like the Lord?” The question presents a major biblical theme, the idea that God is incomparable (see 7:18; Deut. 4:32-40; ps. 113:4-6). Micah’s ministry centered on the Assyrian threat to Samaria, the capital of Israel that was destroyed in 722 B.C., and Jerusalem, the capital of Judah.

1:2 all you peoples: All the earth was to know that God was witnessing against his people. This announcement of judgment is based on the people’s breach of covenant. The faithlessness of the people provoked the Lord God to enter into a judicial dispute with them.

1:3 the Lord is coming: This is the language of epiphany, the dramatic coming of God to earth, here in a solemn procession of judgment. In other texts the language of epiphany is used to describe God’s dramatic acts of deliverance (see ps. 18:7-19). The expression high places is ironic. Jerusalem and Samaria were the “high places,” or elevated capitals, of Judah and Israel; but “high places” were also sites of idolatrous worship.

1:5 Jacob is used to refer to the northern kingdom Israel, whose transgression was centered in its capital, Samaria. Judah’s sins were centered in its capital, Jerusalem. In this verse, the intent of the term high places (v. 3) is made plain. Jerusalem, which was once “beautiful in elevation” (see ps. 48:2), was nothing more than another platform of pagan worship, like the “high places” of the Canaanites.

1:6 a heap of ruins: God’s judicial decision was to destroy Samaria so thoroughly that it would be a place fit only for vineyards among the rubble.

1:7 idolatry is often described in the Hebrew Bible as spiritual adultery (see Jer. 3:1; hos. 4:15). Israel is pictured as a wife who is unfaithful to her husband (see Jer. 2:20). This is not just a metaphor, however; the worship system of Canaan was sexual in nature. The word idols here has the sense of “disgusting images,” probably referring to the explicit sexual nature of these idols. But there is comic justice at the end of the verse. The pagan symbols of Israel’s worship would be reused by the nation’s conquerors (Assyria) in their own debased temples.

1:8 I will wail . . . I will go stripped: Micah’s immediate response to God’s message was an overwhelming sense of dread (7:1). naked: Micah’s words describe mourning rites in which outer garments were laid aside in deep humility. The mourning person thought no longer about himself but only about the calamity that had overcome his senses.

1:9 her wounds: At first the reference is to the wounds of Israel, the northern kingdom. But the disease spread to Judah. My people: The pronoun My refers to both the prophet and his Lord. The distress of the prophet is a mirror of the distress of God.

1:10 in Gath: The reference here is to the lament of David in his mourning over the death of Saul and Jonathan (see 2 Sam. 1:20). Just as it was unseemly then to have the bad news of God’s people profaned in a foreign city, so it would be in the present circumstance. The Hebrew word translated tell in this verse sounds like the Hebrew place name Gath. Beth Aphrah means “house of dust”; appropriately, the inhabitants would roll themselves in the dust, an act of extreme mourning.

1:11 The name Shaphir means “Beautiful.” ironically, its inhabitants would be shamed by their nakedness. Zaanan: This name speaks of “sheep” who “go out on their own.” however, this would no longer be the case for the citizens of Zaanan, who would no longer go out because of their fear.

12 For the inhabitant of <sup>4</sup>Maroth <sup>5</sup>pined for good,
 But <sup>m</sup>disaster came down from the LORD
 To the gate of Jerusalem.
 13 O inhabitant of <sup>n</sup>Lachish,
 Harness the chariot to the swift steeds
 (She was the beginning of sin to the daughter of Zion),
 For the transgressions of Israel were <sup>o</sup>found in you.
 14 Therefore you shall <sup>p</sup>give presents to <sup>6</sup>Moresbeth Gath;
 The houses of <sup>q</sup>Achzib <sup>7</sup>shall be a lie to the kings of Israel.
 15 I will yet bring an heir to you,
 O inhabitant of <sup>r</sup>Mareshah;<sup>8</sup>
 The glory of Israel shall come to <sup>s</sup>Adullam.<sup>9</sup> 16 Make yourself <sup>t</sup>bald and cut off your hair,
 Because of your <sup>u</sup>precious children;
 Enlarge your baldness like an eagle,
 For they shall go from you into <sup>v</sup>captivity.

Woe to Evildoers

2 Woe to those who devise iniquity,
 And <sup>1</sup>work out evil on their beds!
 At <sup>a</sup>morning light they practice it,
 Because it is in the power of their hand.
 2 They <sup>b</sup>covet fields and take them by violence,
 Also houses, and seize them.
 So they oppress a man and his house,
 A man and his inheritance.
 3 Therefore thus says the LORD:

 5 Therefore you will have no <sup>4</sup>one to determine boundaries by lot
 In the assembly of the LORD.

Lying Prophets

6 “Do not prattle,” you say to those who <sup>5</sup>prophesy.
 So they shall not prophesy <sup>6</sup>to you;
 7 They shall not return insult for insult.
 7 You who are named the house of Jacob:
 “Is the Spirit of the LORD restricted?
 Are these His doings?
 Do not My words do good
 To him who walks uprightly?”
 8 “Lately My people have risen up as an enemy—
 You pull off the robe with the garment
 From those who trust you, as they pass by,
 Like men returned from war.
 9 The women of My people you cast out
 From their pleasant houses;
 From their children
 You have taken away My glory forever.

1:12 Maroth means “Bitterness.” The name Jerusalem suggests “peace.” Thus the inhabitants of the town of bitterness would be sickened with dread, and the inhabitants of the town of peace would experience God’s judgment.

1:13 Lachish: This famous guard city to Jerusalem was judged as being among the first places in Judah to adopt the sins of Baal worship. daughter of Zion: Jerusalem is the daughter of the Lord.

1:14 Moresbeth Gath, which means “The possession of Gath,” was Micah’s hometown (v. 1). The presents were farewell gifts; the city was soon to be lost.

1:15 The words heir and the glory of Israel might lead one to assume that this is a messianic verse, a promise of hope in the midst of despair. Yet the context is judgment (v. 16). The point here may be that the situation would be so bad that the proper heir and glory of the nation—the members of the royal family—would have to flee in terror to remote hiding places. Mareshah is an alternative spelling for Moresbeth Gath of v. 14.

1:16 in a culture in which a man’s hair was highly valued, to cut off one’s hair was the ultimate sign of mourning.

2:1, 2 devise iniquity . . . covet: The ethical teaching of the prophets regularly included oracles of judgment against greed, theft, and oppression, actions of the powerful in attacking the weak. To covet is not just to have a passing thought; it is a determination to seize what is not one’s own.

2:3 devising disaster: While the wicked devised iniquity (v. 1), God made some plans of his own. your necks: The idea here is that the disaster of God would be inescapable.

2:4 A proverb was a taunt song. To a turncoat: God would take the property rights from those who had seized them illegally and give them to people who were even more reprobate than they were.

2:5, 6 no one to determine boundaries: Land-grabbers would no longer have a legitimate claim among God’s people. God would dispossess them even as they had dispossessed others. Do not prattle: These words may have been a strong warning to Micah not to be like the lying prophets who counseled that all was well in the land.

2:7 The words of God were different from the words of the lying prophets (v. 6). The words of God bring good to the righteous even as they bring judgment against the wicked.

Micah: A Picture of the Gospel

The essential message of the Bible remains the same no matter whether we are reading about the patriarch Abraham or the apostle Paul, Deborah the judge or Mary the mother of Jesus. Like a spotlight, the Scripture reveals the stain of sin in our lives. But it does not leave us exposed; it offers a way to become clean. Even Micah, a prophet who spent most of his time warning the Israelites of coming judgment, spoke of God's salvation.

God's Standard	The People's Sin	God's Salvation
"He has shown you, O man, what is good; and what does the LORD require of you but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God?" (6:8)	Idolatry (1:7; 5:13, 14); evil plans (2:1); coveting, violence, oppression (2:2); hating good and loving evil (3:2); greedy priests and prophets (3:11); deceit (6:11, 12); unfaithfulness (7:2); family friction (7:6)	"Who is a God like You, pardoning iniquity and passing over the transgression of the remnant of His heritage? He does not retain His anger forever, because He delights in mercy. He will again have compassion on us, and will subdue our iniquities. You will cast all our sins into the depths of the sea." (7:18, 19)
"Therefore you shall be perfect, just as your Father in heaven is perfect." (Matt. 5:48)	"For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." (Rom. 3:23)	"In [Christ] we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace." (Eph. 1:7)

Wicked Rulers and Prophets

- 3 And I said:
"Hear now, O heads of Jacob,
And you <sup>a</sup> rulers of the house of Israel:
<sup>b</sup> Is it not for you to know justice?
2 You who hate good and love evil;
Who strip the skin from <sup>c</sup> My people,
And the flesh from their bones;
3 Who also <sup>d</sup> eat the flesh of My people,
Flay their skin from them,
Break their bones,
And chop them in pieces
Like meat for the pot,
<sup>d</sup> Like flesh in the caldron."
4 Then <sup>e</sup> they will cry to the LORD,
But He will not hear them;
He will even hide His face from them
at that time,
Because they have been evil in their deeds.
5 Thus says the LORD <sup>f</sup> concerning the prophets
Who make my people stray;
Who chant <sup>g</sup> "Peace"
<sup>3</sup> While they <sup>g</sup> chew with their teeth,
But who prepare war against him

2:10, 11 The lying prophets (v. 6) spoke of rest when utter destruction was decreed by the Lord. They spoke of wine and drink at a time of disaster. It is also possible that the words of v. 11 speak of false prophets who were willing to prophesy "good words" in exchange for wine and beer.

2:12, 13 assemble . . . gather . . . put them together: The verbs are emphatic, demonstrating the certainty of God's determination to bring to pass his good pleasure on his people (see Deut. 30:1-6). breaks open . . . break out: These phrases speak of regathering Israel from wherever the people may have been scattered.

3:1 Is it not for you to know justice: The idea here is that one might not expect justice from pagan leaders in a faraway place. But the rulers of the people of God were expected to emphasize justice. Justice is one of the key concepts of the Law (see Deut. 10:18; 32:4; 33:21). Perverting justice was strongly prohibited by God (see Deut.

16:19; 24:17). Yet this was precisely what the leaders of Judah were doing. They had used their authority to destroy justice rather than to establish it among the people.

3:2, 3 Micah used an image of barbaric cannibalism to describe the horrendous actions of the leaders against the people. It was as if the leaders were eating the flesh from the people's bones.

3:4 He will not hear them: The wickedness of the people was so great that last-minute repentance would not suffice (see Jer. 11:11).

3:5-7 This oracle of judgment was presented against the false prophets who proclaimed peace, causing the people to be unprepared for trouble. These prophets would have neither true prophetic insight (vision), nor help from the forbidden arts of divination. Finally they would have nothing to say, for there would be no answer from God.

6 “Therefore<sup>i</sup> you shall have night without<sup>4</sup> vision,
And you shall have darkness without divination;
The sun shall go down on the prophets,
And the day shall be dark for<sup>j</sup> them.
7 So the seers shall be ashamed,
And the diviners abashed;
Indeed they shall all cover their lips;
<sup>k</sup>For there is no answer from God.”
8 But truly I am full of power by the Spirit of the LORD,
And of justice and might,
<sup>l</sup>To declare to Jacob his transgression
And to Israel his sin.
9 Now hear this,
You heads of the house of Jacob
And rulers of the house of Israel,
Who abhor justice
And <sup>5</sup>pervert all equity,
10<sup>m</sup> Who build up Zion with <sup>n</sup>bloodshed
And Jerusalem with iniquity:
11 <sup>o</sup>Her heads judge for a bribe,
<sup>p</sup>Her priests teach for pay,
And her prophets divine for <sup>6</sup>money.
<sup>q</sup>Yet they lean on the LORD, and say,
“Is not the LORD among us?
No harm can come upon us.”
12 Therefore because of you
Zion shall be <sup>r</sup>plowed like a field, <sup>s</sup>Jerusalem shall become heaps of ruins,
And <sup>t</sup>the mountain of the <sup>7</sup>temple
Like the bare hills of the forest.

Zion's Future Triumph

6 “In that day,” says the LORD,
<sup>f</sup>“I will assemble the lame,
<sup>9</sup>I will gather the outcast
And those whom I have afflicted;

The LORD's Reign in Zion

4 Now <sup>a</sup>it shall come to pass in the latter days
That the mountain of the LORD's house

3:8 full of power: Unlike the silenced false prophets (vv. 5-7), Micah was divinely empowered (see 1 cor. 2:13; 2 pet. 1:21). Justice and might may be rephrased as “powerful justice,” a contrast to the ineffective leaders of Israel (v. 1).

3:11 bribe . . . pay . . . money: The wicked leaders and prophets of Israel “worked” only when they could gain something from it. Needless to say, if justice had to be paid for, it would not be justice. Is not the LORD among us: Many people of Jerusalem believed that they would not be affected by God's judgment because God himself dwelled in the holy temple in Jerusalem. They reasoned that despite their evils, as long as God was in his temple, they were safe—even from divine judgment. What the people refused to believe was that God might leave his temple because of the sinfulness of the people. The Book of Ezekiel describes a vision of the glory of God leaving the temple as a prelude to his judgment on the city (see eze. 10).

3:12 This verse was quoted by Jeremiah (see Jer. 26:18). While the false prophets and the wicked rulers believed that they were un-touchable and that Mt. Zion was inviolable, the prophet Micah announced that Zion (Jerusalem) would be plowed like a field, indicating complete devastation of the city.

4:1 The phrase in the latter days is an indication of a prophecy of end times. The mountain of the LORD's house describes the temple in Jerusalem. The text projects a future change in the topography of Jerusalem. Originally the temple site in Jerusalem was located on one of several hills that make up the general area. In the latter days the temple site will be elevated above the hills (see zech. 8:1-3; 14:1-11).

4:2 Many nations: When non-Israelites came to true faith, it would be in the God of Jacob. He will teach: As God spoke to Moses on Mt. Sinai (see ex. 19; 20) so he will speak to all from Jerusalem. we shall walk: Unlike the people of Micah's generation who were strangers to justice (3:1), the peoples of the coming kingdom will be obedient to God.

4:3 judge . . . rebuke: These are actions of the Savior king who will rule with a rod of iron (see ps. 2; 110). swords . . . spears: All weapons of destruction will be recycled into tools of production. There will finally be an end to conflict. War will not even be a subject for study anymore.

4:4 The vine and fig tree are symbols of peace and prosperity (see zech. 3:10). no one shall make them afraid: Fear, like war (v. 3), will become a thing of the past.

4:6, 7 In that day: This wording connects this section with the end times referred to in v. 1. lame . . . outcast: Those who were abused by the wicked leaders of Israel would be exalted by the Lord. afflicted: Those whom God had driven from the land would be the people of his new kingdom. This is a remarkable surprise—a surprise of

- 7 I will make the lame <sup>h</sup>a remnant,
And the outcast a strong nation;
So the LORD <sup>i</sup>will reign over them in Mount Zion
From now on, even forever.
- 8 And you, O tower of the flock,
The stronghold of the daughter of

You shall dwell in the field,
And to <sup>m</sup>Babylon you shall go.
There you shall be delivered;
There the <sup>n</sup>LORD will <sup>o</sup>redeem you
From the hand of your enemies.
- 11 <sup>o</sup>Now also many nations have gathered against you,
Who say, “Let her be defiled,
And let our eye <sup>p</sup>look upon Zion.”
- 12 But they do not know <sup>q</sup>the thoughts
of the LORD,
Nor do they understand His counsel;
For He will gather them <sup>r</sup>like sheaves to the threshing floor.
- 13 “Arise <sup>s</sup>and <sup>t</sup>thresh, O daughter of

Judgment on Israel's Enemies

When the Assyrian comes into our land,

grace. remnant: The majority of people in israel did not live their lives in faith and dedication to the Lord. however, true faith never really died out in israel, even in the worst of times.

4:8 Tower of the flock is a description of Jerusalem in the ideal sense. A tower was a vantage point for protecting a flock of sheep. Likewise, Jerusalem is the stronghold or defense point for the flock of God (2:12).

4:9, 10 Micah addressed the city of Zion (Jerusalem) as though it were a woman in labor. The troubles of the present moment would lead finally to the birth of a deliverer. To Babylon you shall go refers to the exile.

4:13 Arise and thresh: The nations would be gathered by the Lord like sheaves on the threshing floor (v. 12). This is a way of speaking of the final victory over all of israel's foes.

5:1 gather yourself in troops: The reference here seems to be to the assaults of the enemies of Judah on the people of God before their final defeat. strike . . . on the cheek: one day the enemies of the Savior would strike him (see Mark 15:19); but on a still-future day, he will strike all of his enemies (see r ev. 19).

5:2 Bethlehem means “house of Bread” (see r uth 1:1). Ephrathah locates the village in a known region in Judah (see Gen. 35:16). This prophecy figures significantly in the NT story of the visit of the wise men to the christ child (see Matt. 2:1-12). Governments would be overturned to make it necessary for Mary while still pregnant to make the journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem. The specific detail of this oracle about Bethlehem is similar to the Lord's prophetic announcements of the name of Josiah to Jeroboam i (see 1 kin. 13:2), and of cyrus to isaiah (see is. 44:28-45:7). goings forth: The birth of this Savior king would be unlike the birth of any other, because he was preexistent. he is from everlasting.

5:3 The future of israel is pictured here in terms of the birth, life, and ministry of the Savior king. The two advents of the Savior are seen as one event by Micah. Whereas v. 2 speaks of the birth of the Savior in his first coming, vv. 3-5 speak of the time of the rule of Jesus in the Second coming. She who is in labor probably refers to zion (4:10). The metaphor refers to the deliverance in the end time of those who will be able to delight in the coming of God's kingdom (4:9-5:1). the remnant: This minority will never be forgotten by the Lord.

5:5, 6 And this One shall be peace: isaiah 9:6 refers to this one as the prince of peace. When the Assyrian comes: The principal threat against israel and Judah at the time of Micah was Assyria. Micah used the nation as a symbol of all of israel's enemies and of God's final victory over each of them. Seven shepherds and eight princely men: These are in contrast to the wicked rulers that Micah condemned in ch. 3.

- And when he treads in our palaces,
Then we will raise against him
Seven shepherds and eight princely men.
- 6 They shall <sup>3</sup>waste with the sword the land of Assyria,
And the land of <sup>m</sup>Nimrod at its entrances;
Thus He shall <sup>n</sup>deliver us from the Assyrian,
When he comes into our land
And when he treads within our borders.
- 7 Then <sup>o</sup>the remnant of Jacob Shall be in the midst of many peoples,
<sup>p</sup>Like dew from the LORD,
Like showers on the grass,
That <sup>4</sup>tarry for no man
Nor <sup>5</sup>wait for the sons of men.

5:7–9 This section concerns God's blessing on the remnant of Jacob. The wickedness of the people would bring about God's judgment, but he would not cast them off completely. In the midst of many peoples describes the spread of the Jewish people throughout the earth in the time of God's judgment. Twin images are used to describe the effect of the Jewish people on the nations in which they lived. Verse 7 describes the Jewish people as dew and showers—that is, blessings from God on their neighbors. Verse 8 describes the Jewish people as a lion—that is, a powerful force that eventually would triumph.

5:10 I will cut off: it was God's intention to destroy the evils in israel's society. Horses and chariots represent the pride of israel's military power. israel's tendency was to rely on its own military power rather than on the lord.

5:12 Sorcery and soothsaying had been strongly condemned by God (see Deut. 18:10).

5:13, 14 The second commandment had forbidden the use of carved images in israel (see ex. 20:4). Sacred pillars refers to phallic poles used in canaanite sexual worship rites. Wooden images refers to the Asherah groves. Both of these items had been condemned strongly in the law (see Deut. 16:21, 22).

The King's Hometown

Almost two years after Jesus was born, a dusty and majestic caravan made its way into Jerusalem. The members of the caravan stopped for directions. Their simple question shook the city: "Where is he who has been born king of the Jews?" (Matt. 2:2). A strange star had announced the birth.

King Herod knew the wise men had no interest in him. But he also realized that if their quest was legitimate, his own reign was about to be eclipsed by the arrival of another king, the long-awaited Messiah. He was not going to give up his throne without a fight.

Among the prophecies of the Old Testament, God had clearly revealed the birthplace of the Messiah. The Jewish religious leaders that Herod gathered to answer the strangers' question pointed immediately to Micah 5:2 for the location of the Savior's hometown, Bethlehem. They knew. Micah had left written directions hundreds of years before. But they were not ready to believe. Curiously, no one volunteered to go with the wise men to look for the Messiah.

God offered a clear invitation to his people through Micah: Watch Bethlehem! The people remembered the invitation, but failed to take it seriously. Given an opportunity to discover truth, the people of Jerusalem let someone else take the risk of disappointment. Herod even killed the children of Bethlehem in a vain attempt to eliminate his rival.

Other prophecies of Micah surround the passage pinpointing Bethlehem as the Messiah's hometown. Some of the prophecies were fulfilled by the return of the Israelites from Babylon (4:10). Others have yet to be fulfilled (4:1–5). But Bethlehem remains a symbol of God's working out of his purposes in history.

Micah's invitation still rings true. But our response must be different from that of the people of Jerusalem. The people in Jesus' time were waiting for something to happen, but they missed it because of unbelief. We can look back at Jesus' death and miss it just as seriously through our own unbelief. A crucial chapter in God's story of salvation begins in Bethlehem. God gave more than a hint of that salvation in Micah.

God Pleads with Israel

6 Hear now what the LORD says:

“Arise, plead your case before the mountains,
And let the hills hear your voice.

<sup>2</sup> a Hear, O you mountains, <sup>b</sup> the LORD’s complaint,
And you strong foundations of the earth;
For <sup>c</sup> the LORD has a complaint against His people,
And He will <sup>d</sup> contend with Israel.

Punishment of Israel's Injustice

<sup>9</sup> The LORD’s voice cries to the city—
Wisdom shall see Your name:

6:1, 2 God (the Judge) calls for the people (the defendants) to plead their case. The mountains and hills were among the witnesses to the covenant that God made with his people (see Deut. 4:26; 32:1; is. 1:2). He will contend: if the people were silent before the mountains, the Lord himself would speak against their sin.

6:3 what have I done: The Lord was entirely innocent of misbehavior against his people (see Jer. 2:5).

6:4, 5 The Lord summarized his great mercies to Israel, including his saving works in bringing the people from Egypt in the exodus and his deliverance of Israel from the evils that Balak and Balaam had planned (see Num. 22–24).

6:6, 7 Come before means “to make an approach in true worship” (see ps. 15). burnt offerings . . . calves a year old: These were among the divinely prescribed sacrifices of true biblical worship (see Lev. 1:3; 9:3). The words of v. 7 go far beyond any demand of the law, and even go against the law in the suggestion that God may not be satisfied except by an offering of one’s own child. Micah uses hyperbole (deliberate exaggeration) to emphasize the necessity of a right attitude in the true worship of God. be pleased: The idea of bringing pleasure to God through sacrifice is found elsewhere in the Bible. God is pleased with those who do as he commands (see Gen. 4:1–8).

6:8 This verse speaks of the underlying attitudes that must accompany all true worship. what does the Lord require of you: The idea here is that God seeks certain characteristics of true worship from his people. do justly . . . love mercy . . . walk humbly: These phrases summarize biblical piety in true worship. The majority of the people of Israel had violated each of these standards repeatedly. The rulers did not know justice (3:1), had no interest in mercy (3:2, 3), and demonstrated no humility (3:11). with your God: it is the Lord who ultimately gives a person strength, courage, and ability to exercise the virtues of godly living.

6:9 The rod is a messianic image. it is possible that this verse is based on ps. 2 (see ps. 2:9, 11, 12).

- “Hear the rod!
Who has appointed it?

Sorrow for Israel's Sins

- 7 Woe is me!
For I am like those who gather summer fruits,
Like those who <sup>a</sup>glean vintage grapes;
There is no cluster to eat
Of the first-ripe fruit which <sup>b</sup>my soul desires.
2 The <sup>c</sup>faithful <sup>1</sup>man has perished from the earth,
And there is no one upright among
men.
They all lie in wait for blood;
<sup>d</sup>Every man hunts his brother with a net.
3 That they may successfully do evil with both hands—
The prince asks for gifts,
The judge seeks a <sup>e</sup>bribe,
And the great man utters his evil desire;
So they scheme together.
4 The best of them is <sup>f</sup>like a brier;
The most upright is sharper than a thorn hedge;
The day of your watchman and your punishment comes;
Now shall be their perplexity.
5 <sup>g</sup>Do not trust in a friend;
Do not put your confidence in a companion;
Guard the doors of your mouth
From her who lies in your <sup>h</sup>bosom.
6 For <sup>i</sup>son dishonors father,
Daughter rises against her mother,
Daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;
A man’s enemies are the men of his own household.

6:10–12 The people of Judah were abusing others with false measures, with violence, and with lies. Such practices were far removed from the description of true worship in v. 8. This is the divine vindication of the Lord’s determination to bring judgment on Jerusalem, despite the fact that his holy temple was there (3:11, 12). The worship that was being offered, although it followed the form of the law, did not come from true biblical attitudes and practices of piety.

6:16 The spiritual history of the northern kingdom reached its lowest point under the rules of Omri and Ahab. Whereas Jeroboam I had combined the worship of God with the nature and sexual worship rites of Baal (see 1 kin. 12:25–33), Ahab and his wife Jezebel (in a marriage arranged by Omri) brought about the state worship of Baal and Asherah (see 1 kin. 16:21–34). For these reasons, and despite the presence of the temple, God was about to bring utter shame on his people.

7:1, 2 Micah was moved by the oracles of judgment that God delivered through him (1:8). no cluster: For Micah, the harvest was over. There was nothing around him but undesirable fruit. The faithful man has perished: The norms of society had broken down; everyone was out to destroy someone else.

7:3, 4 with both hands: The people were pursuing evil with gusto. The leaders of the state were leading the way in evil (3:11). The day of your watchman refers to a time when people needed to be alert for the approach of an enemy army. In this context, judgment was imminent.

complaint

(heb. rib) (6:2; Judg. 12:2; prov. 17:14; 18:6; Jer. 11:20) Strong’s #7379

This word can mean “dispute” or “quarrel” in the sense of a feud (Judg. 12:2), “controversy” or “strife” (prov. 17:14; 18:6) prompted by a rebellious spirit (Num. 20:13; prov. 17:14; 18:6), or even a “legal case” or “lawsuit” (Job 31:13, 35; Jer. 11:20). The prophets frequently used this word as a technical, legal term in contexts pertaining to the Lord’s covenant relationship with Israel (Jer. 25:31; hos. 4:1; 12:2). In this chapter, Micah was informing Judah that God had registered a formal, legal complaint against his people. He was ordering them to stand trial for violating covenant stipulations forbidding idolatry and requiring social justice (6:2–16).

7 Therefore I will look to the LORD;
I will <sup>j</sup>wait for the God of my salvation;
My God will hear me.

Israel's Confession and Comfort

8 <sup>k</sup>Do not rejoice over me, my enemy;

God Will Forgive Israel

14 Shepherd Your people with Your staff,
The flock of Your heritage,
Who dwell <sup>7</sup>solitarily in a <sup>t</sup>woodland,
In the midst of Carmel;
Let them feed in Bashan and Gilead,
As in days of old.
15 “As <sup>u</sup> in the days when you came out of the land of Egypt,
I will show <sup>s</sup>them <sup>v</sup>wonders.”
16 The nations <sup>w</sup>shall see and be ashamed of all their might;
<sup>x</sup>They shall put their hand over their mouth;
Their ears shall be deaf.
17 They shall lick the <sup>y</sup>dust like a serpent;
<sup>z</sup>They shall crawl from their holes like
<sup>a</sup>They shall be afraid of the LORD our God,
And shall fear because of You.
18 <sup>b</sup>Who is a God like You,
<sup>c</sup>Pardoning iniquity
And passing over the transgression of <sup>d</sup>the remnant of His heritage?
<sup>e</sup>He does not retain His anger forever,
Because He delights in <sup>f</sup>mercy.<sup>1</sup>
19 He will again have compassion on us,
And will subdue our iniquities.
You will cast all <sup>2</sup>our sins
Into the depths of the sea.
20 <sup>9</sup>You will give truth to Jacob
And <sup>3</sup>mercy to Abraham, <sup>h</sup>Which You have sworn to our fathers
From days of old.

7:7 Therefore I will look: These words are a pun on the words of v. 4. While there would need to be a watchman for the coming of an enemy army, Micah was going to be a watchman for the advent of the LORD.

7:8, 9 The speaker in these verses is the nation Israel after it comes to repentance. I have sinned is the confession of the people in saving faith. He pleads my case: here the LORD is speaking on behalf of the people (compare ch. 6). As God had delivered Israel in the past because of His righteousness, so he would deliver a repentant Israel in the future.

7:10 The people of Israel knew that they would suffer indignities at the hands of their enemies in the period of divine judgment. However, God's judgment of his people was designed to bring about their repentance.

7:11, 12 In the day: These words call attention to a future day, the time of the end. You here is Zion (Jerusalem). This is a prophecy of the return of the remnant (2:12, 13; 4:1-4, 6-8; 5:3, 7, 8). The River is the Euphrates. The idea of these verses is a universal regathering of God's people in his land (see Deut. 30:1-6).

7:14, 15 Micah prayed that God the Shepherd would care for his flock. Micah requested that the greatest wonders of the relationship between God and his people at the time of the exodus would be realized anew.

7:16, 17 The response of the wicked nations to the renewed mercies of God on his people would be terror. The nations would be humiliated because they had taunted Israel in the day of its trouble (vv. 8-10).

7:18 Who is a God like You: These words speak of the incomparability of God. There is nothing in all of creation to compare with God (see is. 40:25). Pardoning iniquity: These words come from the revelation of God to Moses in ex. 34:6-9.

7:20 This last verse is reminiscent of God's promise to Abraham in Gen. 12; 15; 22 and his promises to Jacob in Gen. 32. The LORD had sworn to fulfill his promises to the patriarchs. He would not—he could not—leave his promise unfulfilled (see ps. 89:33).

compassion

(heb. racham) (7:19; ex. 33:19; prov. 28:13) Strong's #7355

The Hebrew word translated here as compassion means “to love from the womb” and is frequently translated mercy (is. 14:1). The noun form of this verb means “womb,” and consequently this verb depicts the tender love of a mother for her own helpless child (1 kin. 3:26). “From the womb” speaks of the depth of emotion associated with this expression of love. God loves his people with a deep compassion and love that is almost beyond description. God used a form of this Hebrew word to reveal his character and name to Moses: “And the LORD passed before him and proclaimed, ‘The LORD, the LORD God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abounding in goodness and truth!’” (see ex. 34:6).

THE BOOK OF NAHUM

THIS IS THE SECOND of two books of the minor prophets that centers on Nineveh, the capital city of Assyria. In the Book of Jonah, written in the eighth century B.C., we behold a man of God who was called to preach to Nineveh. He was one of the few prophets who despaired when his listeners heeded his warning. The people of Nineveh repented, and God demonstrated His great compassion by not judging the city. In the Book of Nahum, written in the seventh century B.C., we find another prophet called by God to preach to Nineveh. Evil again reigned in the capital. Tragically, the people of Nineveh this time ignored Nahum's warning.

Author and Date Nahum, the author of this book, is not known apart from the three chapters of this prophecy. Even the location of the place of his birth, Elkosh (1:1), is in doubt. However, since Nahum wrote considerably after the destruction of Israel in 722 B.C., we may assume that Elkosh was in Judah.

The fall of Thebes in 663 B.C. (3:8) determines the limit for the earliest date of the book. The fall of Nineveh, which the book predicts, took place in 612 B.C., not long before the final destruction of the Assyrian Empire in 609 B.C. This means the Book of Nahum was composed sometime before 612 B.C. perhaps under the reform of Josiah in 622 B.C.

Historical Context The people of the northern kingdom of Israel had been sinning grievously against God and ignoring the warnings of punishment given through God's prophets. Finally God used the nation of Assyria, with its capital city in Nineveh, to destroy the nation and carry the people into captivity. A century after the fall of Samaria in 722 B.C., the Book of Nahum was written to express a major truth of the prophets. Even when God uses a nation for His own purposes of judgment, this does not excuse that nation from its own guilt before the Lord. It was Nineveh's turn to feel the wrath of God. The last great emperor of Assyria was Ashurbanipal (669–627 B.C.). After his death, the nation did not last much longer, for the Lord was against it (2:13; 3:3).

Theology How does the mood of the Book of Nahum accord with the sentiment of the Sermon on the Mount? Although the Lord Jesus certainly spoke of loving one's enemies (see Matt. 5:43–48), He strongly warned of the inevitability of judgment (see Matt. 5:21, 29, 30; 7:13, 23). He said that "all who take the sword will perish by the sword" (see Matt. 26:52). If ever the words of Jesus concerning the sure destruction of those who live by violence had a direct application, it was to Nineveh. In the conquest of the ancient world, the Assyrians were merciless and cruel. Their atrocities included everything from burning children to death to chopping off hands. In many ways, the Book of Nahum is a theology of the maxim of the sword. Nineveh had an international reputation for bloodthirsty acts of repression, destruction, and wantonness. God could not be good if He failed to call such an evil nation to account. The theology of the Book of Nahum is a theology of the goodness of God in bringing about the final destruction of those who oppose His will and abuse His people.

Nineveh was not only a city in the ancient world that received the promised judgment of God, it is also a prototype for the coming judgment of God on all workers of wickedness. Those who know that the Lord is good may rejoice in the fact that He avenges aggressive acts against His people (1:7, 8).

The seriousness of coming judgment is never a call for complacency among God's people. implicit in any announcement of doom is a call for holy living on the part of God's people and an urgent call for them to bring the message of salvation to those who, apart from salvation, will experience the wrath of God. Judgment is God's "unusual act" (see is. 28:21), but it ultimately arises out of the goodness and justice of God.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Nahum himself is a type of christ. his name means "comfort," yet this one called a comforter does not offer soft love. Nahum, like Jesus, expects responsible action on the part of those who are loved by God. Such action is a way to prove that they acknowledge his love.

Because Nahum's name means "comfort," it is legitimate to say he pictures the holy Spirit's subsequent ministry of instruction and comfort that Jesus promised his followers. Jesus promised that the holy Spirit "will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all things that i said to you" (John 14:26). But sadly, similar to the rejection Jesus faced at the hand of the scribes and pharisees, the Ninevites do not act on what Nahum teaches them.

1:1 Most of the biblical prophets directed their judgment oracles against the sinning peoples of Israel and Judah. Nahum, however, brought the word of God's judgment against Nineveh. The term burden was sometimes used by the prophets (see hab. 1:1; Mal. 1:1) to describe the “heaviness” of their message of judgment.

1:2 avenges . . . furious: The repetition of words and the use of parallel terms are typical devices in Hebrew poetry for intensifying and sharpening the poet's message.

1:3 Slow to anger indicates the patience of the Lord (see ex. 34:6, 7). However, God's patience is not a reason to disbelieve his final judgment (see ps. 10). whirlwind . . . storm . . . clouds: The peoples of the ancient Middle East worshiped nature gods, particularly deities associated with storms, clouds, and rainfall. In Canaan, this fixation on storms was centered in the worship of Baal and his consorts Anat and Asherah. The Scriptures testify that there are no gods but the Lord; it is he who rules and is above all creation.

1:4 sea . . . rivers: The Lord's control extends to all bodies of water and to places of lush vegetation—including Bashan, Carmel, and Lebanon.

1:5, 6 quake . . . melt . . . heaves: The people of God had experienced such demonstrations of God's presence at the foot of Mt. Sinai when the Lord descended with his law (see ex. 19). Indignation . . . anger . . . fury: Grouping these three terms causes the force of the words to be felt more deeply. In other words, God's anger burned intensely against the sinful people of Nineveh.

1:7 The Lord is good: For the righteous, this is the best news of all. Because we know that the Lord is good, we can endure the tribulations of life.

1:8 flood . . . end . . . darkness: The judgment of the Lord will be inescapable. The word flood is both a poetic term for overwhelming devastation and a specific reference to the actual manner of Nineveh's fall. It is believed that the invaders of Nineveh entered the city through its flooded waterways (2:6).

1:9, 10 What do you conspire against the Lord: Who is wise enough, experienced enough, and strong enough to fight the power of God? No one, of course. At their very best, the enemies of God will be comic figures. Their best plans will be merely a tangle of thorns; their finest moves will be only the sloppy walk of drunkards.

1:11 Wicked is one of the harshest terms in biblical language, nearly a curse word. The term speaks of someone who is utterly worthless.

1:12, 13 Thus says the Lord: here is an oracle of deliverance from God to his people. The present sense of safety and power that the enemy felt would not last; the past judgments of God on his nation would not continue. The Lord promised to break off the yoke that the enemy had placed on his people (see is. 9:4).

jealous

(heb. qanno') (1:2; Josh. 24:19) Strong's #7072

This Hebrew term is related to a root word that can mean “to be eager, zealous for” (1 kin. 19:10, 14), or even “to be furious” (zech. 8:2). One of God's names is Jealous (ex. 34:14). When the expression “the Lord your God is a jealous God” is used in the OT, it is usually associated with an injunction against idol worship (ex. 20:5; Deut. 4:24; 5:9; 6:15). God's jealousy for his people is a claim for exclusive allegiance rooted in his holiness (Josh. 24:19) and his role as their creator and redeemer (ps. 95:6, 7; 96:2-5). We tend to associate jealousy with a self-serving emotion that usually results from feelings of inadequacy. God's jealousy, in contrast, proceeds from his holiness. Because he alone is the holy one (see is. 6:3; 40:25), he will tolerate no rival (ex. 20:5).

- When he passes through,
Though I have afflicted you,
I will afflict you no more;
13 For now I will break off his yoke from you,
And burst your bonds apart.”
- 14 The LORD has given a command concerning you:
6“Your name shall be perpetuated no longer.
Out of the house of your gods
I will cut off the carved image and the molded image.
I will dig your <sup>a</sup>grave,
For you are <sup>r</sup>vile.”<sup>7</sup>
- 15 Behold, on the mountains

1:14 here God spoke to his people's enemy—the nation of Assyria typified by its capital city Nineveh (v. 1). in destroying the nation's name, God would remove its power. Further, the Lord swore to destroy their false religious system, with its pagan temples, idols, and disgusting practices. You are vile: The only thing to be done with Nineveh was to dig a grave and bury it. This prophecy came true literally—the city was destroyed so completely that its very existence was questioned until its discovery by archaeologists in the nineteenth century (3:13–15).

1:15 Behold . . . The feet: The image is that of a herald of peace (see is. 52:7). O Judah: With the promise of future deliverance from oppression, the prophet called for the people to live in righteousness and expectation. There is nothing better for the people of God in any age than to live in obedience to him and in anticipation of his coming deliverance.

2:1 Man the fort: These were sarcastic words to the people of Nineveh and its leaders, as if they would be able to protect themselves against the wrath of the Lord.

2:2 The Lord will restore: The wrath of God against the enemies of his people means that one day the enemies will be destroyed and the people of God will be restored. Excellence means “majesty,” “beauty,” or “wonder” (see is. 4:2). The ruin of Israel would not last forever.

2:3–13 This passage presents a description of the siege of Nineveh. The fall of Nineveh predicted by Nahum took place only a few years after this prophecy—in 612 B.C., followed by the final destruction of the Assyrian empire in 609 B.C.

2:3 red . . . scarlet . . . flaming torches: These images speak of blood, violence, and warfare. Isaiah refers to the custom the Assyrians had of rolling their outer garments in blood before a battle (see is. 9:5) to strike terror in the hearts of their opponents. Here the tables would be turned. While others would have shields, chariots, and spears, the people of Nineveh would be bathed in blood—their own blood.

2:4 The chariots rage: The Assyrians used chariots as formidable war machines. The proficiency of the chariot drivers underlies the imagery of this verse. But as in the case of the shields and spears of v. 3, the chariots of Nineveh would not prevail no matter how fast they drove.

2:5 stumble: The people within the city would be so stunned to be under attack that they would appear helpless in their actions. Nobles may be used with sarcasm here; these people do not seem very impressive.

2:6 gates of the rivers: The destruction of Nineveh is believed to have taken place when the besiegers entered the city through its flooded waterways. The attack came at flood time, when rivers undermined the walls and defenses of the city. Archaeologists have found evidence of flood debris that may be associated with the destruction of the city. Thus the words of Nahum were fulfilled exactly. 2:7, 8 She shall be led away: The nation that had made so much of taking captives would be made a captive by others. Halt! Halt!: No one would listen to their shouts of panic.

2:9, 10 spoil: Assyria had despoiled many nations, including Samaria and the cities of Israel. There seemed to be no end to the loot that could be found within its walls. Nonetheless, even Nineveh was exhausted of its treasures. At long last, it was empty.

There is no end of treasure,
Or wealth of every desirable prize.
10 She is empty, desolate, and waste!
The heart melts, and the knees shake;
Much pain is in every side,

<sup>7</sup>Killed for his lionesses,
<sup>c</sup>Filled his caves with prey,

13 “Behold, <sup>d</sup>I am against you,” says the LORD of hosts, “I will burn <sup>g</sup>your chariots in smoke, and the sword shall devour your young lions; I will cut off your prey from the earth, and the voice of your enemy.

2:11, 12 Nineveh was the city of lions (v. 13). Yet despite all the horrors that the lion of Nineveh had brought to other nations, it would no longer need to be feared by anyone.

2:13 Although the Babylonians conquered the city, they were only God's instruments. Nineveh's greatest foe was the LORD of hosts himself.

3:1-19 chapter three of Nahum is a woe oracle explaining the reasons for the siege and destruction of Nineveh.

3:1 the bloody city: Nineveh was known throughout the Middle East as a city that excelled in violence and bloodshed.

3:2, 3 Horses and chariots were instruments of war. Verse 3 describes the horrors of the nation's war machine, which resulted in countless corpses.

3:4 Harlotries refers to paganism. Any worship of gods other than the God of Scripture is an act of spiritual prostitution. Nineveh was so adept at pagan practices that the city earned the descriptive title, the mistress of sorceries.

3:5 I am against you: This repetition of this phrase from 2:13 is more chilling each time it is heard. Who could survive the Lord's opposition? lift your skirts: The Lord would publicly humiliate Nineveh.

3:6, 7 The Lord described the fate of Nineveh as comparable to a person on whom unspeakable filth was cast. When Nineveh lay in ruins, no one would bemoan her. The nations would be glad that the city was gone.

3:8 No Amon . . . the River: The destruction of the city of Thebes near the Nile river in 663 B.C. was going to be a template for the destruction of Nineveh. No Amon is the Hebrew name for Thebes, derived from the Egyptian name meaning “city of [the god] Amon.” The argument seems to suggest that before its destruction, no one would have even dreamed of the fall of Thebes. But the destruction had happened—not long before the writing of the Book of Nahum. The city of Thebes was rebuilt only to be destroyed later during the Roman period (29 B.C.). Nineveh, however, would never be rebuilt.

3:9, 10 The city of No Amon had many powerful allies, but they were not sufficient to protect her in her hour of need. Who would ally with Nineveh to fight off the Lord's attack?

3:11 drunk . . . hidden . . . seek refuge: Nineveh would be like a helpless drunk hoping for refuge but finding nowhere to turn for it.

3:12 Nahum satirically describes the strongholds of Nineveh as being so easily defeated that they would be like fruit trees that drop their figs into waiting mouths.

3:14, 15 Nahum taunted Nineveh by telling the people to prepare for their siege. The actual siege of Nineveh continued over two years.

THE BOOK OF HABAKKUK

“O LORD, how long shall I cry, and You will not hear?” (1:2). Habakkuk was unique among the prophets in that he asked questions of God. Most prophets were filled with messages: “Hear the word of the Lord.” Even if everyone doubted the Lord’s word, the prophet would still believe. And if the prophet did have any misgivings, he kept them to himself.

But again, Habakkuk was different. To raise these questions was—for our sake—part of his message. His questions were, “Why does evil in Judah go unpunished?” “How can a just God use a wicked nation like Babylon to punish His chosen people?” Habakkuk wanted to know, just as we do, what God was doing and why. There seemed to be too much evil among the “righteous” and too much freewheeling power among the wicked.

God did not strike Habakkuk down for these questions. He answered. The Lord Himself will establish His kingdom. He will hold all people and nations accountable. The present may be filled with wickedness and chaos, but the future belongs to the righteous—the truly righteous. God will bring in His kingdom, give rest and salvation to His children, and judge His people’s adversaries.

Author and Date We know very little about the prophet Habakkuk. The reference to music (see 3:1, 19; 1 Chr. 25:1–8) may mean that he was a Levite associated with the temple singers. The designation the prophet is an official title, showing that others recognized him as a prophet of the Lord. His name Habakkuk appears twice in the book (1:1; 3:1). Some scholars have associated the name with the Hebrew word for embraced. Thus his name may mean “Embraced by God.”

Habakkuk prophesied during the fall of Nineveh in 612 B.C. and the rise of Babylon as the Neo-Babylonian Empire. By 605 B.C., Assyria and Egypt had been defeated by Babylon at Carchemish. Judah’s days were numbered, and Babylon’s power was rapidly expanding. In addition, the death of King Josiah in 609 B.C. brought an end to an era of religious reform in Judah. It seemed that the wicked were prevailing both inside and outside Judah. Habakkuk cried out against the violence, lawlessness, and injustice he saw all around him.

Structure The Book of Habakkuk contains two prophetic laments (1:2–4, 12–17) in which Habakkuk questions God’s righteousness. The Lord responds by explaining His plans to judge (1:5–11; 2:1–4). This is followed by five woes that taunt those who have committed evil with their certain doom (2:6–20), as if to say, “Don’t worry, Habakkuk—God is righteous; He will judge.” The book ends with the prophet’s prayer of praise and his acknowledgment of God’s sovereignty over all outcomes.

Theology Nations are given to greed, power, idolatry, and to immorality. People treat one another in an inhumane fashion. Often it seems as if power and success come to those who break God’s laws and reject His legitimate claims on creation. Yet according to Habakkuk, the Lord remains sovereign; He sits in His holy temple

Assyrian officials recording the loot taken from a conquered city. Habakkuk warns the Babylonian armies, which have plundered goods from the people of Judah, that the tables will soon turn (Hab. 2:6–8).

Z. Radovan/www.BibleLandPictures.com watching the earth. he will eventually judge each person for his or her life (2:20). While people may be seduced into wickedness by the allure of power and success (2:6–20), a glorious future awaits those who submit to God (2:4). habakkuk's prophetic vision (2:2) and prayer (3:1) provide a proper perspective for viewing the injustices of this world. The Almighty is in control. he will establish his righteous kingdom in the end. in that day, all wrongs will be made right: The wicked will be judged for their sinfulness, and the righteous will be saved. Believers look forward to this day with great joy (3:18, 19).

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

But habakkuk's name is also appropriate because he calls attention to the salvation by which God embraces those who "live by faith." The word "salvation" appears three times in reference to his prediction of the Anointed one. "You went forth for the salvation of Your people, for salvation with Your Anointed. . . i will joy in the God of my salvation" (3:13, 18).

interestingly enough, that hebrew word for "salvation" is the root word from which the name "Jesus" comes (Matt. 1:21). Whether the prophet sees the full extent to which Jesus will accomplish the world's salvation is uncertain. But he definitely sees an artist's rendering of the reign of christ. he writes, "The earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the l or D, as the waters cover the sea" (2:14).

The Prophet's Question

- <sup>2</sup> O LORD, how long shall I cry, <sup>a</sup> And You will not hear?
 Even cry out to You, <sup>b</sup>“Violence!”
 And You will <sup>c</sup>not save.
- <sup>3</sup> Why do You show me iniquity,
 And cause me to see <sup>2</sup>trouble?
 For plundering and violence are
 before me;
 There is strife, and contention arises.
- <sup>4</sup> Therefore the law is powerless,
 And justice never goes forth.
 For the <sup>d</sup>wicked surround the righteous;
 Therefore perverse judgment
 proceeds.

The LORD's Reply

- <sup>5</sup> “Look <sup>e</sup> among the nations and watch—
 Be utterly astounded!
 For I will work a work in your days
 Which you would not believe, though it were told you.
- <sup>6</sup> For indeed I am <sup>f</sup>raising up the Chaldeans,
 A bitter and hasty <sup>g</sup>nation
 Which marches through the breadth of the earth,
 To possess dwelling places that are

The Prophet's Second Question

- <sup>12</sup> Are You not <sup>k</sup>from everlasting, O LORD my God, my Holy One?
 We shall not die.
 O LORD, <sup>1</sup>You have appointed them
 for judgment;
 O Rock, You have marked them for <sup>m</sup>correction.
- <sup>13</sup> You are of purer eyes than to behold evil,
 And cannot look on wickedness.
 Why do You look on those who deal
 treacherously,

1:1 A burden refers to a prophetic oracle, usually addressed to a foreign nation (see is. 13:1).

1:2 habakkuk spoke to God using his covenant name LORD (see ex. 3:14, 15). how long: This question is phrased as a formal complaint (see ps. 13:1, 2).

1:3 iniquity . . . trouble: The deterioration of society had become a cause of frustration and disappointment for the godly. plundering and violence: Abuse of power, acts of injustice, and oppressive deeds were common in Judah. strife . . . contention: The people of Judah argued with each other and were involved in destructive litigation.

1:4 the law is powerless: The revelation of God given at Mt. Sinai had little impact on the hearts of people whose lives were focused on material success. These people had little interest in living by God's definition of what is fair and humane. wicked: God's chosen people committed and tolerated heinous acts through corruption of the courts. righteous: There were always people who were faithful to the Lord, a righteous remnant. here the godly were restricted in what they could say and do because of the evil that surrounded them. perverse judgment: The powerful people of israel corrupted justice.

1:5 Look among the nations: The international scene during habakkuk's lifetime was full of turmoil, with Assyria on the decline and Babylonia on the rise. work a work: The hebrew words suggest that something ominous and impressive was about to occur.

1:6 I am raising up: God controls the nations for his own purposes (see Dan. 2:21), sometimes indirectly and at other times directly. Chaldeans is another word for Babylonians. bitter: The Babylonians were harsh and oppressive in their rule. hasty: Under Nebuchadnezzar, Babylon quickly had become the dominant power of the day.

1:7 terrible and dreadful: Far from being humane, the Babylonians prided themselves on their arrogant use of raw power. Their judgment and their dignity proceed from themselves: The Babylonian system of law and order had no regard for other legal systems.

1:8 The Babylonians' use of horses and chariots made them fearsome in the ancient world. fierce . . . wolves: The Babylonians were powerful and tyrannical. eagle: The palestinian eagle is a bird of prey, a vulture. These images from the animal kingdom present a vivid picture of the ferocious nature of this world power.

1:9 habakkuk had observed violence in Judah (v. 2), but Babylon relished violence. gather captives like sand: The Babylonians resettled numerous conquered peoples with little regard for them as individuals.

1:10 scoff . . . scorned: The Babylonians did not respect authorities and powers other than their own. deride every stronghold: The Babylonians mocked human systems of fortification, bursting through any defense they encountered.

1:12 Are You not . . . my Holy One: habakkuk's point seems to be that God's holiness should have prohibited him from using a “dirty” instrument like Babylon to accomplish his purposes in judging and reproving his own people.

1:13 purer eyes: habakkuk wondered how God could look on as the wicked Babylonians perverted justice. A person more righteous than he: This was the ethical dilemma that faced habakkuk: The Judeans were less corrupt and idolatrous than the Babylonians, who were being used to judge them for their sins.

And hold Your tongue when the wicked devours

A person more righteous than he?

14 Why do You make men like fish of the sea,

Like creeping things that have no ruler over them?

15 They take up all of them with a hook, They catch them in their net, And gather them in their dragnet. Therefore they rejoice and are glad.

16 Therefore <sup>n</sup>they sacrifice to their net, And burn incense to their dragnet; Because by them their share is <sup>6</sup>sumptuous

And their food plentiful.

17 Shall they therefore empty their net, And continue to slay nations without pity?

2 I will <sup>a</sup>stand my watch And set myself on the rampart, And watch to see what He will say to me, And what I will answer when I am corrected.

The Just Live by Faith

<sup>2</sup>Then the LORD answered me and said:

<sup>b</sup>“Write the vision And make it plain on tablets, That he may run who reads it.

3 For <sup>c</sup>the vision is yet for an appointed time; But at the end it will speak, and it will <sup>d</sup>not lie.

Woe to the Wicked

5 “Indeed, because he transgresses by wine, He is a proud man, And he does not stay at home. Because he <sup>h</sup>enlarges his desire as <sup>1</sup>hell, And he is like death, and cannot be satisfied, He gathers to himself all nations And heaps up for himself all peoples.

6 “Will not all these <sup>i</sup>take up a proverb against him, And a taunting riddle against him, and say,

“Woe to him who increases What is not his—how long? And to him who loads himself with <sup>2</sup>many pledges?”

7 Will not <sup>3</sup>your creditors rise up suddenly? Will they not awaken who oppress you?

And you will become their booty.

8 <sup>j</sup>Because you have plundered many nations, All the remnant of the people shall plunder you, Because of men’s <sup>4</sup>blood

1:14 habakkuk’s charges against the Lord became even more daring. The prophet charged the Lord with reducing humans to the level of fish or insects and with causing chaos among the nations.

1:16 they sacrifice to their net: This phrase speaks of the contemptuous pride of the Babylonians in their devices of destruction.

1:17 habakkuk wanted to know how God could allow the brazen activity of the Babylonians to continue unabated. The prophet reasoned that God surely had a desire to punish the Babylonians for their pride.

2:1 my watch . . . on the rampart: habakkuk stationed himself as a watchman to look at the nations, as God had commanded him (1:5). The prophet also waited expectantly for God’s response to his three charges in 1:12–17. what He will say to me: habakkuk’s faith is seen in his anticipation of a response from God. when I am corrected: This phrase indicates the prophet’s submission to God.

2:2 The command to write the revelation is unusual. Generally prophets spoke the word of the Lord first. The term vision here is related to the verb translated “saw” in 1:1. The noun speaks of a prophetic revelation (see is. 1:1). he may run who reads it: Messengers would proclaim the divine oracle.

2:3 An appointed time speaks of a determined time in God’s eyes. Though it carries, wait for it: God knows his plan and the outworking of all things in accordance with his purposes. The godly are responsible to study and proclaim his revelation while awaiting its fulfillment. it will surely come: The assurance of fulfillment lies in God himself. It will not tarry: The fulfillment of the vision would not take any longer than God had planned.

2:4 The proud refers to the Babylonians, who exalted themselves and boasted of their conquests and power. His soul is not upright in him: The Babylonians had no regard for God, his commandments, or his people. the just shall live by his faith: True righteousness before God is linked to genuine faith in God. A proud person relies on self, power, position, and accomplishment; a righteous person relies on the Lord.

2:5 proud man: This arrogant and boastful person is a personification of Babylon (v. 4). The term hell is used here as a personification of death which, like a greedy person, is never satisfied (see prov. 30:15, 16). all nations . . . all peoples: These peoples of the earth should have been gathered together before the Lord in holy worship (see ps. 117:1); instead, they became morsels for the rapacious appetite of Babylon.

2:6 A woe oracle is an oracle of judgment consisting of two parts: a declaration of the wrong and a notice of impending judgment. The judgment usually applies the principle of the law of retaliation: a wrong would come back to haunt the wrongdoer. increases . . . what is not his: The law prohibited lending for the purpose of charging interest (see Deut. 23:19). pledges: The practice of pledging something as a guarantee for repayment was permitted under the law, but with limitations to ensure the humane treatment of people (see ex. 22:26, 27; Deut. 24:10–13).

2:7 The hebrew term for creditors has the idea of “those who bite,” suggesting sudden, hurtful attacks (see Mic. 3:5).

And the violence of the land and the city,
And of all who dwell in it.

- 9 “Woe to him who covets evil gain for his house,
That he may <sup>k</sup>set his nest on high,
That he may be delivered from the <sup>5</sup>power of disaster!
- 10 You give shameful counsel to your house,
Cutting off many peoples,
And sin against your soul.
- 11 For the stone will cry out from the wall,
And the beam from the timbers will answer it.
- 12 “Woe to him who builds a town with bloodshed,
Who establishes a city by iniquity!
- 13 Behold, is it not of the LORD of hosts

And nations weary themselves in vain?

You also—drink!
And <sup>9</sup>be exposed as uncircumcised!
The cup of the LORD’s right hand will be turned against you,

- 17 For the violence done to Lebanon will cover you,
And the plunder of beasts which made them afraid,
Because of men’s blood
And the violence of the land and the city,
And of all who dwell in it.
- 18 “What profit is the image, that its maker should carve it,
The molded image, a teacher of lies,
That the maker of its mold should trust in it,

- 19 Woe to him who says to wood,

Behold, it is overlaid with gold and silver,
Yet in it there is no breath at all.
- 20 “But <sup>m</sup> the LORD is in His holy temple.
Let all the earth keep silence before Him.”

2:9 evil gain: Gaining property through extortion and the abuse of power was strictly prohibited in the law of Moses (see Deut. 16:19). his nest: As a bird builds a nest far away from people and wild animals, so the rich work hard at avoiding threats to their fortune.

2:11 the stone will cry out . . . the timbers will answer it: The whole structure of Israel’s society called out for justice; every part reverberated with the need for righting wrongs.

2:12 Micah also spoke against the leaders of Judah, who were developing the city and kingdom at the expense of humane treatment of others, and of justice (see Mic. 3:10).

2:13 LORD of hosts speaks of God as the commander of the armies of the heavens (see Hag. 1:5).

2:14 God’s future kingdom on earth will feature a reign of righteousness (see is. 2:1–4; Mic. 4:1–5). All humanity on the renewed earth will know the Lord and live in accordance with his will. The structures of human systems, adequate as they are for the present, will fall under God’s judgment because they encourage a spirit of independence from him. knowledge: What Satan fraudulently promised in Gen. 3:5, God will deliver. The glory of the LORD speaks of the full manifestation of his person, significance, presence, and wonder. The true knowledge of God in the time of his kingdom on earth will be like the waters—all-embracing, inescapable, and fully enveloping.

2:16 Only God’s kingdom is glorious. The glory of human kingdoms, such as Babylon, will be transformed into disgrace. be exposed: in their nakedness the Babylonians would expose themselves as being uncircumcised, not part of God’s people nor recipients of his mercy. The cup of the LORD’s right hand represents the wrath of God (see is. 51:17, 22; r ev. 14:10; 16:19).

2:18 teacher of lies . . . trust in it: idolatry begins with deception, encourages deception, and calls for a commitment to deception (see is. 44:20).

2:20 the LORD is in His holy temple: These words are not set in a context of worship of God by his people. The Lord is sovereign and holy. He looks at the nations and holds them accountable. keep silence before Him: The call to silence is not an invitation to worship, but a command to reflect on the terrible state of all who fall into the hands of the angry God (see zeph. 1:7).

(he b. pesel) (2:18; I ev. 26:1; Deut. 5:8; 2 kin. 21:7; is. 42:17) Strong’s #6459

This term is related to a verbal root meaning “to hew out stone” or “to cut or carve wood” (see ex. 34:4). A pesel is an image or idol in the likeness of a human being or animal made from stone, wood, or metal. God prohibited the Hebrews from making such idols at Mt. Sinai (ex. 20:4). God intended the lack of images among the Hebrews to be one distinguishing feature of their true religion. Tragically, Israel followed the example of their pagan neighbors and worshiped carved images (Judg. 18:30; 2 Chr. 33:7). The psalmist describes such images as worthless and those who worship them as shameful (ps. 97:7). Both Isaiah (is. 40:19, 20; 44:9–20) and Habakkuk (2:18, 19) mock those who would put their trust in images made with mere human hands. They have no capacity to see, hear, speak, or do anything for their devotees.

3:2 I have heard: habakkuk knew the stories of God's mighty acts as celebrated in song and in the feasts and festivals of israel. These mighty acts included the exodus from egypt, the miracles by the red sea, and the conquest of the land. Speech here signifies the message of God's great acts, rather than the communication process. afraid: As he meditated on God's work in human affairs, habakkuk was overcome with an awe-inspiring sense of the greatness of the lord. revive . . . make it known: habakkuk prayed for God's renewed involvement in israel. In the midst of the years: This was a way of calling for a quick response.

3:3 Teman is a poetic reference to God's appearance at Sinai (see Deut. 33:2). Selah is probably a musical term, but its exact meaning is unknown. it may indicate a sudden shouting of "Amen," a moment of silence, or a musical chord.

3:4 habakkuk compared the appearance of God at Sinai (v. 3) to a thunderstorm, with its darkness and flashing lights (see ps. 18:9-14). His power was hidden: While God reveals evidence of his power, its totality and greatness remain hidden.

3:5 pestilence . . . fever: These plagues are personified as messengers of judgment (see Deut. 28:21, 22).

3:6 everlasting mountains . . . perpetual hills: The prophets often portrayed nature quaking, mountains shaking, and creation in turmoil at the coming of God (see is. 24:1-3; Jer. 4:24-26; Mic. 1:3, 4; Nah. 1:5).

3:7 Cushan . . . Midian: These tribes are representative of the quaking nations.

3:8 rivers . . . sea: The lord had divided the red sea and the Jordan river for his people to cross (see ex. 14:26-15:5; Josh. 3:14-17). chariots of salvation: The appearance of the lord was for the purpose of bringing deliverance to his people.

3:11 The sun and moon stood still: This is an allusion to the battle of Gibeon (see Josh. 10:12, 13). habakkuk portrayed God as a Warrior armed with a bow, arrows, and a spear (see ex. 15:3; ps. 18:14; 77:17).

3:13 The lord's acts of vengeance against the nations would comfort his people, because those acts would lead to israel's salvation (see 2 Thess. 1:7). The people of God as a nation were anointed (see ex. 19:6; ps. 114:2). The house of the wicked is an allusion to israel's redemption from egypt.

3:16 habakkuk was overcome with a sense of awe at God, as well as a sense of his own weakness. rest in the day of trouble: The prophet encouraged the godly not to be anxious in adversity.

THE BOOK OF

ZEPHANIAH

WE HAVE A WORD for people who predict terrible times ahead: doomsayer. It's an unflattering word, meant to poke fun at the bearers of bad news. We don't really want to believe their predictions of doom, so we caricature them. Maybe they will feel ashamed and go away. Sometimes it helps a little when the prophet of doom offers a solution. The unspoken question "Is there any hope?" is on everyone's mind.

Zephaniah's message had both halves of the bad-news-good-news equation. His first words were bad news indeed: The day of the Lord was coming and that meant terrible judgment. The Israelites had acted like their pagan neighbors—they had scorned God's law, worshiped false gods, and sinned without remorse long enough. Now it was time to repent: They had to turn back to their God or face the consequences.

It was the "turn back to God" part of Zephaniah's message that offered a ray of hope. And to those who listened and responded to his call, the good news wiped out every line of bad. God would restore those who sought Him.

History tells us that it worked. The Book of Zephaniah tells about events that took place in the city of Jerusalem in the late seventh century B.C., when Josiah was king. The northern kingdom Israel had been destroyed nearly a century earlier by the Assyrians. The southern kingdom Judah had suffered under the extraordinarily wicked rules of Manasseh (697–642 B.C.) and Amon (642–640 B.C.). The evils of their reigns had made doom appear certain. But the godly King Josiah led an important revival that affected all Judah. Scripture reports that this revival, though short-lived, delayed God's judgment, the invasion by Babylon (2 Chr. 34:27, 28).

Zephaniah's message announced the day of the Lord—a coming day of doom—in the darkest of terms, but it also promised the blessing of future glory in a picture as bright as the doom was dark.

Author and Date The prophet Zephaniah traced his ancestry back four generations to Hezekiah, most likely Judah's famous king. After the long and evil reign of Manasseh (697–642 B.C.) and his son Amon (642–640 B.C.), Josiah began his rule of Judah. Zephaniah began ministering as prophet in Jerusalem in the same year as the great prophet Jeremiah (627 B.C.). They and Hulda the prophetess (see 2 Chr. 34:14–28) witnessed the religious reform that Josiah started, a reform that unfortunately did not last. After Josiah's death, the people returned to their errant ways; less than 50 years later (around 586 B.C.), God used Babylon to discipline them.

Themes Many books of prophecy in the Bible speak of “the day of the Lord” (especially the Book of Joel). This day is a time of judgment that includes both God’s people (Israel and Judah) and the surrounding nations. The prophet Zephaniah scolded Judah’s leaders for countless acts of wickedness (3:1–7). His prophecies against the nations included Philistia (2:4–7), Moab and Ammon (2:8–11), Ethiopia (2:12), and Assyria (2:13–15). These nations were judged because of pride and arrogance against God’s people and because of their continuing idolatry.

But the last section of Zephaniah’s prophecy contains words of hope (3:8–20): promises of protection for the remnant and promises for the future of those who know him truly. In a future day, peoples of all nations will come to worship the Lord (2:11; 3:9). His own people will be renewed in righteousness (3:11–13). And the king of kings himself will rule in their midst (3:15; see Rev. 21:1–6). That day of the Lord’s return will be a day of song and gladness. Even God will burst out in joyful singing (3:16, 17). The raging anger of the Lord (1:1, 2) will be replaced by His happy singing, for salvation will finally have come to His people.

Ashkelon tell. A tell is a hill formed by the accumulated debris of many ancient settlements one above the other. Ashkelon is one of the towns that Zephaniah predicted would be destroyed (Zeph. 2:4).

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Jesus seized on Zephaniah’s picture of the day of the Lord. On one occasion he referred to Zephaniah 1:3, when he spoke of His second coming and gathering “out of His kingdom all things that offend, and those who practice lawlessness” (Matt. 13:41). On another occasion, Jesus no doubt envisioned Zephaniah’s description of “a day of wrath, a day of trouble and distress, a day of devastation and desolation, a day of darkness and gloominess, a day of clouds and thick darkness, a day of trumpet and alarm” (Zeph. 1:15, 16).

Although Zephaniah doesn’t specifically name the Messiah as the subject of these scenarios, it is assumed. Who else could, as the prophet foretells, gather His people and reign in victory?

1:1 The word of the LORD which came: The messages of the o T prophets did not arise from the prophets’ own will, but from God himself (see 2 pet. 1:20, 21). Zephaniah means “hidden in the Lord,” a name that relates to the principal message the prophet presented (2:3). The names of the prophets were often significantly associated with the message that God gave them to present to the people. Hezekiah most likely refers to the notable king of Judah (see 2 kin. 18–20). Thus zephaniah the prophet was related to king Josiah.

1:2, 3 utterly consume: The message of zephaniah begins with a pronouncement of universal judgment (see Gen. 6–8). These words not only introduce the particular judgment that would be pronounced upon Judah (v. 4), but they also speak of the final judgment that will usher in the kingdom of God on earth (see r ev. 19). Stumbling blocks here refers to idolatry, or substitutes for God in the life and affections of a person. Because there is nothing in the universe that really may be compared to the creator (see is. 40:25), God abhors all forms of idolatry. Says the LORD: This phrase added gravity to the prophetic oracle and assured the hearer of the source of the message.

1:4–6 The message of God’s impending judgment on the nation of Judah and its capital city Jerusalem must have been startling to those who believed that God would never destroy the site of his holy temple (v. 12). every trace of Baal: Baal worship and its evils had led to the destruction of Israel and its capital Samaria in 722 B.C. Likewise, Baal worship and its associations would lead to the destruction of Judah and its capital Jerusalem in 586 B.C. Milcom is a reference to an Ammonite deity whose worship included acts of infant sacrifice (see 2 kin. 23:10; Jer. 32:35). turned back: The people had experienced God and then turned away from him.

1:7 Be silent: This prophetic call for silence was for solemn preparation for the horror of divine wrath (see hab. 2:20; zech. 2:13). The day of the LORD describes a period of unusual activity on the part of God in the affairs of his people. sacrifice: The people of God were expected to prepare sacrifices for the Lord as acts of contrition and celebration. But rebels, scofflaws, idolaters, and apostates would themselves become God’s sacrifice. His guests may be the birds of the heavens—vultures and buzzards who feed on carrion (see r ev. 19:21).

1:8, 9 Foreign apparel here suggests two things: (1) acts of greed and extortion against the populace, amassing funds for exotic clothing; (2) participation in foreign religious rites associated with exotic clothing. Leap over the threshold may refer to a pagan practice like the one mentioned in 1 Sam. 5:5. The priests of Dagon would not step on the doorway of the temple to Dagon because the hands and the head of Dagon had fallen there.

1:10, 11 On that day is a common way of referring to the coming time of judgment (or blessing) on the day of the Lord. Maktesh: zephaniah shows his familiarity with the various quarters of Jerusalem as he mentions certain gates, sections, and districts of the city. Maktesh refers to a market district. every area of the city would be affected by God’s judgment.

1:12, 13 The LORD will not do good, nor will He do evil: The complacency of the wicked people led them to believe that God is similarly complacent. Foolishly these people believed that the Lord would be inactive, neither blessing nor cursing, neither benefiting nor punishing his people.

- ‘The LORD will not do good,
Nor will He do evil.’
- 13 Therefore their goods shall become booty,
And their houses a desolation;
They shall build houses, but not inhabit them;
They shall plant vineyards, but <sup>a</sup>not drink their wine.”
- 14 <sup>r</sup>The great day of the LORD is near;
It is near and hastens quickly.
The noise of the day of the LORD is bitter;
There the mighty men shall cry out.
- 15 <sup>s</sup>That day is a day of wrath,
A day of trouble and distress,
A day of devastation and desolation,
A day of darkness and gloominess,
A day of clouds and thick darkness,
- 16 A day of <sup>t</sup>trumpet and alarm
Against the fortified cities
And against the high towers.
- 17 “I will bring distress upon men,
And they shall <sup>u</sup>walk like blind men,
Because they have sinned against the LORD;
Their blood shall be poured out like dust,
And their flesh like refuse.”
- 18 <sup>v</sup>Neither their silver nor their gold
Shall be able to deliver them
In the day of the LORD’s wrath;
But the whole land shall be devoured
By the fire of His jealousy,
For He will make speedy riddance
Of all those who dwell in the land.

A Call to Repentance

- 2 Gather <sup>a</sup> yourselves together, yes, gather together,
O <sup>1</sup> undesirable nation,
2 Before the decree is issued,
Or the day passes like chaff,
Before the LORD’s fierce anger comes upon you,
Before the day of the LORD’s anger comes upon you!
3 <sup>b</sup> Seek the LORD, <sup>c</sup> all you meek of the earth,
Who have upheld His justice.
Seek righteousness, seek humility.
<sup>d</sup> It may be that you will be hidden
In the day of the LORD’s anger.

Judgment on Nations

- 4 For <sup>e</sup> Gaza shall be forsaken,
And Ashkelon desolate;
They shall drive out Ashdod <sup>f</sup> at noonday,
And Ekron shall be uprooted.
5 Woe to the inhabitants of <sup>g</sup> the seacoast,
The nation of the Cherethites!
The word of the LORD is against you,
O <sup>h</sup> Canaan, land of the Philistines:
“I will destroy you;
So there shall be no inhabitant.”
- 6 The seacoast shall be pastures,
With <sup>2</sup> shelters for shepherds <sup>i</sup> and folds for flocks.
7 The coast shall be for <sup>j</sup> the remnant of the house of Judah;
They shall feed their flocks there;
In the houses of Ashkelon they shall lie down at evening.

1:14–16 The language of this passage is quite similar to Joel 2:1–11, on which it may be based in part. Near describes the imminence of the coming judgment. The references to clouds and darkness resemble canaanite poetry in which clouds and thunder are associated with the false god Baal. The poets of the Bible used this language to describe the true God, who would send forth his judgments like lightning bolts from a dark mass of clouds (see ps. 97:2–6). The references to fortified cities and high towers speak of the extent of God’s judgment. There would be no adequate defense against the Lord’s searing judgments.

1:17, 18 like blind men: God’s judgment would be so sudden and so overwhelming that the survivors would be in a state of shock, stumbling around in the dark.

2:1–3 The people doomed for judgment in the day of the Lord (1:14–18) were commanded to gather together, perhaps in repentance. Seek the Lord: This is the language of true repentance, renewal, and regeneration. you will be hidden: zephaniah used a play on words with the meaning of his own name, “hidden in the Lord,” even in the midst of the most calamitous of judgment scenes, the mercy and grace of the Lord is still available to a repentant people.

2:4, 5 The focus of the book moves from the description of God’s judgment on Judah and Jerusalem to a description of divine judgment on the surrounding nations. The judgment begins with the nation to the west, philistia, and its major cities and seafaring industries. The five main cities of the philistines were Gaza, Ashkelon, Ashdod, Ekron, and Gath. All but Gath are mentioned here. Cherethites is another name for the philistines. Canaan is the ancient name for the land of the people of israel, derived from its prior inhabitants. A later name of the land was palestine, a term derived from philistine.

2:6, 7 The seacoast shall be pastures: The coastal cities of philistia and the coastal plain that the philistines dominated for so long would one day become the possession of the hebrews. The same God who brought destruction upon the people of Judah (1:14–18) would restore their fortunes.

meek

(heb. ‘anav) (2:3; ps. 22:26; is. 11:4) Strong’s #6035

This hebrew word may be translated humble (ps. 34:2) or meek (ps. 37:11; see also Matt. 5:5) and is derived from a verb meaning “to be afflicted” or “to be bowed down” (ps. 116:10). Forms of this word occur twice in 2:3: first translated as meek and then as humility. The word frequently refers to the poor or oppressed (see prov. 14:21; Amos 2:7). But it also signifies strength of character in enduring suffering without resentment. Such character is rooted in a strong faith in God and his goodness and a steadfast submission to the will of God.

For the LORD their God will <sup>k</sup>intervene<sup>3</sup> for them,
 And <sup>l</sup>return their captives.

8 “<sup>m</sup> I have heard the reproach of Moab,
 And <sup>n</sup> the insults of the people of

 With which they have reproached
 My people,
 And <sup>o</sup> made arrogant threats against their borders.

9 Therefore, as I live,”
 Says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel,
 “Surely <sup>p</sup> Moab shall be like Sodom,
 And <sup>q</sup> the people of Ammon like Gomorrah—
<sup>r</sup>Overrun<sup>4</sup> with weeds and saltpits,
 And a <sup>s</sup> perpetual desolation.
 The residue of My people shall plunder them,
 And the remnant of My people shall

10 This they shall have <sup>s</sup> for their pride,

2:8, 9 The peoples of Moab and Ammon to the east of Judah were hostile to the Hebrews from the earliest times. Moab shall be like Sodom: here is God's promise of retribution (see Gen. 19:12–29).

2:10, 11 The LORD will be awesome to them: There may be a double meaning in these words. For the righteous people of Judah and Jerusalem, there would be a response of awe and wonder before God, who had responded to the prayer of his servant. But for the wicked there would be quite another response, one of terror and dread. People shall worship Him: Not only would there be a righteous remnant in Judah, there would also be people coming to God from the nations of the earth.

2:13–15 Assyria was to the east. But the ancient armies could not march across the desert. Therefore they went around the desert and entered the land of the Hebrews from the north. The pelican and the bittern were birds found in remote areas (see is. 34:11). Their presence in the ruins of Nineveh attest to the severity of the destruction announced on these people. the rejoicing city: The rejoicing here is ironic, seen as an act of the city's complacency. Soon the judgment of God would descend suddenly, and the region would be useful only for herding animals.

3:1–4 The addressee of the prophetic word here is Jerusalem, the city of David. Jerusalem had become a center of oppression, rebellion, and apostasy. It would soon be marked by destruction. The expression of grief is reflective of God's own heart. The princes, judges, prophets, and priests, whom God had especially designated to work for righteousness, were more wicked than the “regular” citizens of Jerusalem. These leaders were destroying and defrauding the weak, the needy, and the helpless.

3:5–7 Because he is absolutely righteous, God had no place in the midst of such an evil people. cut off nations: God's punishment of Judah's neighbors should have brought the people to their senses.

7 <sup>f</sup> I said, ‘Surely you will fear Me,

3:8 the fire of My jealousy: God’s response to the wickedness of Jerusalem was to declare his judgment. He would use other nations to punish the city for its rebellion.

3:9–13 The focus of the text moves to a time of national regeneration and restoration. Pure language refers to language used in the pure worship of God. One day human language will become a unifying element in the true worship of God. My worshippers: God’s people would come from all nations to worship him.

Beyond the Rivers of Ethiopia

Christians of African descent may be interested in Zephaniah’s prophecy that the Lord would restore his “dispersed ones” from “beyond the rivers of Ethiopia” (3:10). This was a remarkable promise, given the map of the world in Zephaniah’s day.

As far as we know, Ethiopia represented the southwestern limits of Judah’s knowledge of the world. The interior of Africa, “beyond the rivers of Ethiopia,” was literally “off the map” for the ancient Israelites. It was uncharted territory for them.

To what, then, was Zephaniah referring? The context shows that he was anticipating the day when the Lord would bring people from the ends of the earth to form a holy people who would worship and serve him with true hearts (3:9, 12, 13). Among them would be people from “beyond the rivers of Ethiopia.”

The prophet called this new people “the daughter of My dispersed ones” (3:10) and “the remnant of Israel” (3:13). Thus Zephaniah’s vision seems to tie in with Jeremiah’s predictions of a scattering of the Jews throughout the world, followed by an eventual restoration (Jer. 30:10, 11, 18–22; 31:1–40).

Beginning in the sixth century, many Jewish colonies were established along the Nile and the Mediterranean coast of Africa. In fact, some have suggested that Zephaniah’s prophecy pertains to the Jewish community in northern Abyssinia. However, the prophecy may look beyond a strictly Jewish restoration. It seems to correspond with a prediction by David that Ethiopians would someday “stretch out [their] hands to God” (ps. 68:31).

As far as we know, Zephaniah himself had no idea of the vast tribes of people living “beyond the rivers of Ethiopia.” But every time one of their descendants turns to faith in Christ, Africa adds one more member to the “peoples [of] a pure language” who are called to serve the Lord “with one accord” (Zeph. 3:9).

A sixteenth-century map showing Jerusalem at its center. Zephaniah knew even less about the world, and “beyond the rivers of Ethiopia” was literally “off the map.”

 Says the LORD.

3:14–17 The people of God would be called to sing because their deliverance had come. Daughter of Zion is an affectionate title for the city of Jerusalem. In that day: The people are first commanded to abstain from fear, to keep from hanging their arms in a posture of resignation. Instead, they were to take encouragement and strength from the new reality that their God lived among them.

3:18–20 those who sorrow: God is going to make all things right. Those who are enemies of God's truth will be gathered and removed; those who are disenfranchised, God will restore. I will give you fame and praise: ordinarily Scripture speaks of the praise that should be brought to God. here we find the praise that God will bring to his people. As in the beginning of his dealings with Abraham and Sarah (see Gen. 12:1–3), where God promised blessing, honor, and a renowned name, so here God promises fame and praise to each individual in his family. Says the LORD: This is a solemn vow of God to do what he has promised. zephaniah begins and ends with the strong assertion that the Lord is speaking. The implication is clear: “I listen and live!”

THE BOOK OF HAGGAI

HAGGAI was a prophet to the Jews who had returned from the Exile in Babylon. His first task was to force them to see where their hearts and priorities really lay. He urged them to do what they should have done from the start: to rebuild the temple with a willing heart. To these admonitions he added the promise of God to be with them. With this promise, the people could return to their first enthusiasm and carry out God's purposes for them. Then their worship would be joyful and sincere.

Author and Date Little is known of the prophet Haggai except what is in the book that bears his name. Ezra mentions him briefly in association with the prophet Zechariah (see Ezra 5:1; 6:14) and the rebuilding of the temple. The name Haggai means "Festival," an appropriate meaning given the prophet's work in restoring temple worship. But what is most remarkable about Haggai's ministry is its brevity; his messages were given in the span of only four months in 520 B.C.

Historical Setting When some of the Israelites returned from the Babylonian captivity beginning in 538 B.C., they determined to restore the worship of God to its rightful place at the center of their lives. They planned to build a new temple in Jerusalem (see Ezra 1). Sadly, however, their resolve seems to have vanished shortly after their arrival in Jerusalem. They built an altar on the original temple site and later laid the foundations for the new temple. But when enemies who lived in the vicinity applied pressure, the Persian king ordered the work on the temple to cease. A later emperor of Persia, Darius I, lifted the restrictions that had been placed on the rebuilding of the temple and told them to proceed. But even when the barriers were lifted, the people lapsed into spiritual lethargy. They were not the idolaters that their ancestors had been, but they had lost their early passion for the worship of the living God. They explained their behavior by advancing the time-honored excuse of procrastination: It just doesn't seem to be the right time (see 1:2).

When Haggai confronted the people, he addressed the problems of his day: the infertility of the land and the hard economic times (1:6). But he did not blame these problems on poor fiscal planning. Instead, he exhorted the people to focus on their spiritual condition. They were focusing on insignificant matters like the decoration of their homes, while every day they ignored God's temple lying in ruins. The temple was more than a building. It was the site of the people's meeting with the living God, the symbol of the abiding presence of the Creator of the universe. If the people ignored the physical ruin of the temple, they were ignoring the spiritual wreckage in their souls as well.

Zerubbabel the governor and Joshua the high priest, along with the people of God, responded quickly to the message of Haggai (1:12). Three weeks after Haggai gave his first message, they began their work on the temple (520 B.C.). Anticipating a positive response, Haggai came with another message. This was a simple one, but it had profound implications: Haggai assured them that the Lord was with them (1:13). This was the same message that Moses had brought to the Israelites in Egypt (Ex. 3:8). Indeed this would be the name of the coming Messiah—Immanuel, God with us (Is. 7:14). When the people chose to make God the center of their lives, the Lord could Himself remain in their midst even without a physical building.

Theology To emphasize some key points about the people's attitude towards God, haggai posed a couple of questions. One of these was about the laws concerning what was clean and unclean (2:10–14). These laws had several purposes: (1) they protected people from diseases; (2) they taught certain spiritual lessons; (3) they created in the people an instinctive sense of right and wrong. In other words, they underscored the message that the Lord, and not any person, determines what is good or evil. haggai asked the priests if cleanness or holiness might be transmitted through touch. The priests answered that it could not. Then the prophet asked if uncleanness could be transmitted through touch. The answer was yes. haggai applied this principle to the nation. An indifferent attitude toward the construction of the temple had polluted everything the people touched. Their attitude made the work of their hands unacceptable to the Lord. Even though the temple work had begun, the people's hearts left them unclean in the eyes of the Lord. Even so, God in his great grace would still bless his people.

In a question-and-answer format (2:15–19), haggai also encouraged the people to think about their circumstances before they started to build the temple. None of their past work had resulted in success: "is the seed still in the barn?" (2:19). But from that day God would bless his people, because they had reordered their priorities. They had put the worship of the Lord before their own welfare (1:4, 14). Out of the bounty that the Lord would provide, the israelites would be able to bring the proper sacrifices of true worship into the new temple.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

When haggai writes "The glory of this latter temple shall be greater than the former" (2:9), he is certainly referring to the reconstructed temple herod would enlarge. When Jesus set foot inside, the presence of the incarnate God filled that "latter temple" with the glory of which haggai spoke.

Beyond this prophet's words, we also see the Messiah represented in one of haggai's peers whom we meet in the book. Zerubbabel is the governor of Judah after the exiles return. Based on what the Lord has told him to say, haggai declares that Zerubbabel will become the signet ring of the Most High. In other words, he will be the proof of God's authority. Although Jesus will be the eventual Signet, Zerubbabel becomes the center of the Messianic line for a time. Like a king's ring, he seals both the preexilic and postexilic branch of David's lineage together.

Signet rings were used in the ancient Near East to sign one's name. The impression of the ring would be pressed into wax or clay to sign legal documents. In Haggai 2:23, the Lord tells Zerubbabel, "I will make you like a signet ring, for I have chosen you."

The Command to Build God's House

<sup>3</sup>Then the word of the LORD <sup>f</sup>came by Haggai the prophet, saying, <sup>4</sup>“Is it <sup>g</sup>time for you yourselves to dwell in your paneled houses, and this <sup>1</sup>temple to lie in ruins?” <sup>5</sup>Now therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts: <sup>h</sup>“Consider your ways!

You eat, but do not have enough;
You drink, but you are not filled with drink;
You clothe yourselves, but no one is warm;
And <sup>j</sup>he who earns wages,
Earns wages to put into a bag with holes.”

The People's Obedience

<sup>12</sup>qThen Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him; and the people feared the presence of the LORD. <sup>13</sup>Then Haggai, the LORD’s messenger, spoke the LORD’s message to the people, saying, <sup>r</sup>“I am with you, says the LORD.” <sup>14</sup>So <sup>s</sup>the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, <sup>t</sup>governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; <sup>u</sup>and they came and worked on the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, <sup>15</sup>on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month, in the second year of King Darius.

The Coming Glory of God's House

<sup>2</sup>In the seventh month, on the twenty-first of the month, the word of the LORD came <sup>1</sup>by Haggai the prophet,

1:1 second year . . . sixth month . . . first day: The date for this first message of God through haggai is August 29, 520 B.C. The prophecies of haggai are among the most precisely dated in the o T. Zerubbabel was the governor of Jerusalem at the time of haggai’s ministry and the governor of the first group of returning exiles from Babylon (see Ezra 3:2; Neh. 7:7).

1:2 The time has not come: The people had decided that rebuilding the Lord’s dwelling among his people was not important.

1:4 The principal building material in Jerusalem was stone. Those who wanted to make their houses elaborate installed wood panels. The people of haggai’s time were making their homes elegant, rivaling royal residences and the holy temple itself. But they still did not feel that the “time was right” to begin working on the renewed temple. While this verse is not a blanket condemnation of elegant living among God’s people, it certainly calls for a reevaluation of priorities.

1:5 Consider your ways: The people were asked to mull over their habits and activities and to ask whether their attitude was sensible before the Lord.

1:6 God asked the people to take stock of their lives. Though they ate and drank, they never seemed satisfied. Though they put on clothes, they never felt warm. Wage earners constantly felt as though their pockets had holes in them through which their money was lost.

1:8 The people were instructed to go to great lengths to get wood for paneling the temple of the Lord (v. 4). that I may take pleasure in it: God’s joy in the temple is related to his pleasure in the people who would worship him there. be glorified: clearly God does not need to receive more glory (see ps. 24:7–10); however, he gladly receives the adoration of his people.

1:9 runs to his own house: Because of their preoccupation with personal comfort, the people were ignoring the central spiritual concerns of their lives. Their faulty principle of life was being shaken by the Lord. The Savior Jesus later proclaimed the true and abiding principle for the life of faith: “But seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added to you” (see Matt. 6:33).

1:10 The blessing and cursing formula of the Lord’s covenant with his people comes into play here (see Deut. 28). Dew is a poetic way of speaking of rainfall.

1:12 The remnant of the people were literally those who had made the trek back to Judah from their place of captivity in Babylon; it also refers to those within a larger population who are faithful to the Lord.

1:13 I am with you: God’s promise to Moses was, “I will certainly be with you” (see ex. 3:12). God’s promise to the people of Judah was that the name of the coming one would be immanuel, meaning “God is with us” (see Is. 7:14); here God repeated the same message of comfort and encouragement.

1:14 This verse bears witness to the work of God’s Spirit on the human spirit of his leaders and his people to accomplish his tasks. It is reminiscent of God’s work in stirring up the people to build the original tabernacle (see ex. 35:29; 36:2). remnant: Always within Israel a remnant existed. Paul stated there was such a remnant in Elijah’s time (see r om. 11:2–4; compare 1 kin. 19:18).

2:1 twenty-first of the month: By our calendar this would be October 17, 520 B.C. in the ancient Jewish calendar this day was the last day of the Feast of Tabernacles or Succoth (see 1 Ev. 23:33–44).

Then the priests answered and said, “No.”

<sup>13</sup>And Haggai said, “If one who is m unclean because of a dead body touches any of these, will it be unclean?”

So the priests answered and said, “It shall be unclean.”

<sup>14</sup>Then Haggai answered and said, <sup>n</sup>“‘So is this people, and so is this nation before Me,’ says the LORD, ‘and so is every work of their hands; and what they offer there is unclean.

Promised Blessing

<sup>15</sup>‘And now, carefully <sup>o</sup>consider from this day forward: from before stone was laid upon stone in the temple of the LORD— <sup>16</sup>since those days, <sup>p</sup>when one came to a heap of twenty ephahs, there were but ten; when one came to the wine vat to draw out fifty baths from the press, there were but twenty. <sup>17q</sup>I struck you with blight and mildew and hail <sup>r</sup>in all the labors of your hands; <sup>s</sup>yet you did not turn to Me,’ says the LORD. <sup>18</sup>‘Consider now from this day forward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, from <sup>t</sup>the day that the foundation of the LORD’s temple was laid—consider it: <sup>19u</sup>Is the seed still in the barn? As yet

During this holiday the people of Israel lived in booths, or temporary shelters, commemorating their departure from Egypt when they lived in temporary shelters in the wilderness.

2:2 Speak now: Haggai was called again to address the leaders Zerubbabel and Joshua (1:1) and the true people of God (1:12).

2:3 The temple of Solomon was one of the wonders of the ancient world (see 1 Kin. 6). The older temple would have loomed large and magnificent, far outstripping the present structure. So even though the building was completed, there may have been the sense among some of the people that it was as nothing.

2:4 I am with you: The Lord’s words to the people (1:13) were the same as his great words to Moses (see ex. 3:12). The words of this verse draw a comparison between the events of this period and the events of the first exodus. God brought the people back from Babylon as he had brought them back from Egypt. The message to the first set of leaders, Moses and Aaron, and to the second, Zerubbabel and Joshua, was the same: God would be present with them. Finally, the mission in the promised land was the same, to build a place for the true worship of God.

2:5 According to the word: The same covenant that related the people to God in their departure from Egypt bound them still. The events surrounding the decline of the nation and the people’s captivity in Babylon had not rescinded the covenant relationship that insured God’s presence with his people (see ex. 29:42–46).

2:6 I will shake: This is another way of speaking of the day of the Lord. The purpose of the day of the Lord is to prepare the earth for the glorious reign of Jesus Christ on earth (see Matt. 24:29; r ev. 6:12–17).

2:7 Desire of All Nations: Some interpret these words as a messianic title that speaks of the joy of the redeemed of the nations at the time of the rule of King Jesus. Others observe that the Hebrew word meaning desire is used principally for objects (as in 2 Chr. 32:27; Hos. 13:15; Nah. 2:9) rather than persons. However, the word is used occasionally for persons (see 1 Sam. 9:20).

2:8 silver . . . gold: God owns the cattle on a thousand hills, the gold in all coffers, and the wealth of all nations.

2:9 Peace includes good health, well-being, and an abundant life. The term speaks of everything being as it ought to be.

2:10 The twenty-fourth day of the ninth month corresponds to December 18, 520 B.C. on our calendar.

2:11 The responsibilities of the priests included leading public worship and instructing the people in the nature and meaning of God’s law.

2:12 will it become holy: Since the role of the priest was to interpret God’s law, it was reasonable that questions on holiness should be addressed to them. Haggai asked whether holiness could be transferred by contact. The answer was no.

2:13, 14 It shall be unclean: The priests were asked if a religiously unclean person, someone who had touched a corpse, could contaminate someone else by touch. The answer was yes (see Num. 19:11–13). The people had worked hard to rebuild the temple, only to be told that their worship would be unacceptable in the new temple. The existence of the temple itself guaranteed nothing. The hearts of the people had to be in harmony with the sacrifices being made.

2:16, 17 you did not turn to Me: Despite God’s acts of withholding his blessing, the people still had not turned fully back to him.

2:18, 19 from this day: God determined to bring his blessing on his people, but he demanded that they recognize him as the source of their great productivity.

Zerubbabel Chosen as a Signet

<sup>23</sup> ‘In that day,’ says the LORD of hosts, ‘I will take you, Zerubbabel My servant, the son of Shealtiel,’ says the LORD, <sup>a</sup> ‘and will make you like a signet ring; for <sup>b</sup> I have chosen you,’ says the LORD of hosts.”

2:22 I will overthrow: haggai focused on the power of God to do as he wills among the nations (see Dan. 2:21). These words speak both in a general way of the sovereignty of God over the nations throughout history, as well as more specifically of God’s final judgment on the wicked nations at the time he institutes the rule of his Son as king of kings (see ps. 2; 110; r ev. 19).

2:23 A signet ring was an item of great value in the ancient world. The owner used it much like we use our personal signature on checks or other important documents. God used this imagery to indicate that Zerubbabel was in his hand, that he was highly valued, and that he represented God’s authority in his leadership of the people. even though the people had been told they were still unclean in God’s eyes (see 2:10–14), their leader zerubbabel was encouraged to guide them through those spiritually trying times.

signet ring

(heb. chotham) (2:23; Gen. 38:18; 1 kin. 21:8; Jer. 22:24) Strong’s #2368

The hebrew noun signet ring is derived from a verbal root meaning “to affix a seal,” “to seal up,” or “to fasten by sealing.” The signet in o T times was an engraved stone set in a gold or silver finger ring, bracelet, or armband (see Song 8:6). When pressed upon wax or soft clay, the ring left the impression of the personal insignia of the bearer (see ex. 28:11, 21, 36; 39:6, 14, 30). The signet ring was like an identification card or badge in the ancient world (Gen. 38:18). it symbolized status or position and the binding nature of the authority attached to items sealed by the ring (1 kin. 21:8; Job 38:14). haggai’s comparison of zerubbabel to a signet ring (2:23) has messianic implications, since zerubbabel would overturn the curse of Jeremiah on king Jehoiachin’s dynasty and restore royal authority to the line of king David (Jer. 22:24–30).

THE BOOK OF

ZECHARIAH

ENCOURAGEMENT and hope are the underlying themes of the prophecies of Zechariah. The prophet Zechariah was one of the three prophets, along with Haggai and Malachi, who ministered to the exiles returning to Jerusalem. These exiles faced the ruins of what had once been a splendid city and a glorious temple. There was much to be sad about, but Zechariah encouraged the exiles with visions of judgment on Israel's enemies and of the complete restoration of the city of Jerusalem. Yet the most thrilling vision of all was the prediction of a coming King—the Messiah who would bring eternal salvation and the promised eternal kingdom.

Author and Date The name Zechariah means “Yahweh Remembers.” This powerful phrase communicates a message of hope: The God of Israel will mercifully remember His people. The prophet is identified as “the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo.” Iddo was among the heads of the priestly families that returned from Babylon to Judah. Zechariah, then, was a member of the tribe of Levi and probably served as both a priest and a prophet. He entered his prophetic ministry two months after his contemporary Haggai had concluded his first oracle.

Those who question the unity and single authorship of Zechariah usually argue that chapters 9–14 date from the Hellenistic period (331–167 B.C.) or the Maccabean period (167–73 B.C.). The reference to “Greece” in 9:13 has often been cited as evidence for a late date, after Alexander's conquests (c. 330 B.C.). However, Greek influence was strong in the ancient Middle East as early as the seventh century B.C. Greece is mentioned by the eighth-century prophet Isaiah (see Is. 66:19, where Greece is referred to as Javan) and the sixth-century prophet Ezekiel (see Ezek. 27:13, 19 for Javan). Those who hold to the unity of the book generally date its completion between 500 and 470 B.C. Zechariah began his prophetic ministry in the second year of the Persian king Darius (522–486 B.C.) and his last dated prophecy was delivered two years later, in 518 B.C.

Historical Setting Zechariah lived and prophesied during the period following the Babylonian captivity (597–538 B.C.). Jeremiah had predicted that the Israelites would return to the Promised Land after 70 years of discipline in exile. God began fulfilling this promise when He raised up Cyrus king of Persia, whose military exploits brought about the capture of Babylon in 539 B.C. Following his victory, Cyrus decreed that all exiled peoples could return to their homelands. The people of Judah were among those who benefited from this reversal of Babylonian policy. The first group of Jews returned under the leadership of Sheshbazzar (Ezra 1:8) in 537 B.C. The altar for the temple was erected in the fall of that year, but construction of the temple itself did not begin until the spring of 536 B.C.

Opposition to the temple rebuilding by enemies of the Jews living in and around Judah resulted in the abandonment of the work until 520 B.C. During these 16 years of neglect the people of Judah lost their vision and sense of spiritual purpose. Their procrastination resulted in divine chastening (Hag. 1:11; 2:17). Although the crops failed and the people languished, they did not repent until God raised up two prophets to turn the people back to Himself. In 520 B.C., Haggai called for the Israelites to recognize their spiritual priorities and rebuild the temple. Zechariah began his prophetic ministry just two months after Haggai (compare 1:1 with Hag. 1:1).

The ministries of haggai and zechariah did not cease when work began in earnest on the temple. The prophets continued to encourage the people. haggai's messages were delivered in 520 B.C.; zechariah's last dated prophecy was given in 518 B.C. (7:1). With the people committed to restoring the worship of the Lord and the temple, God poured out his blessing on a repentant and spiritually revitalized people. The temple was completed in 515 B.C. and rededicated with great rejoicing.

Purpose and Themes zechariah's prophecies had two purposes. First, they challenged the returning exiles to turn to the Lord, to be cleansed from their sins and to experience again the Lord's blessing (see 1:3). Second, zechariah's words comforted and encouraged the people regarding the rebuilding of the temple and God's future work among his people (1:16, 17; 2:12; 3:2; 4:9; 6:14, 15).

in the first several chapters, zechariah encourages the people by focusing on God's choice of Jerusalem (1:17; 2:12; 3:2). The Lord had not set aside his ancient covenant people. Through zechariah, God not only reaffirmed Jerusalem's divine election, but promised to come among his returning people and live in their midst (see 2:10, 11; 8:3, 23). it was through his personal presence among his people that God would accomplish a miraculous work. in the second half of the book, zechariah details God's future dealings with his chosen people, revealing the overthrow of israel's enemies, the future glories of zion, and the universal reign of the Messiah. This is the overarching theme of the book: The complete restoration of God's people would occur in the redeeming and delivering work of the coming Messiah.

Theology zechariah teaches a great deal concerning the First and Second comings of Jesus the Messiah. he refers to the Messiah as the "Br ANCh" (3:8), God's "Servant" (3:8), and God's "Shepherd" (13:7). There is also an allusion to the Messiah's ministry as a priest-king in 6:13 (see heb. 6:20—7:1). Furthermore, he prophesied the Messiah's entrance into Jerusalem on a colt (9:9; see Matt. 21:4, 5; John 12:14—16), his betrayal for 30 pieces of silver (11:12, 13; see Matt. 27:9, 10), the piercing of his hands and feet (12:10; see John 19:37), and the cleansing from sin provided by his death (13:1; see John 1:29; Titus 3:5). in fact, chapters 9—14 of zechariah are the most quoted section of the prophets in the narratives of the Gospels.

concerning the Messiah's Second coming, zechariah prophesied such future events as the conversion of israel (12:10—13:1, 9; see r om. 11:26), the destruction of israel's enemies (14:3, 12—15; see r ev. 19:11—16), and the reign of christ in a new Jerusalem (14:9, 16; see r ev. 20:4—6).

Along with his emphasis on the Messiah, zechariah appropriately gives an important message about God's plan for salvation. The importance of repentance and returning to the Lord of hosts is emphasized in the introduction (1:3—6). And then in 3:1—5, zechariah provides a striking illustration of the removal of sin and the imputation of righteousness. The removal of the high priest's filthy garments and the provision of clean festal Christ's entry into Jerusalem. Zechariah 9:9 prophesies that the messianic King would ride into Jerusalem on a donkey (see Matt. 21:5; John 12:15).

1470 ZECHARIAH INTRODUCTION

robes illustrates the work of christ. Through his atoning death, christ strips us of our filthy sins and clothes us with his own righteousness. in this way we can approach our holy God.

True religion, according to zechariah, is not found merely in external acts of religious piety, but is based upon a personal relationship with God (7:5–7). Such a relationship with God should change one's attitude to one's neighbors. Like the prophets before him, zechariah condemned the oppression of the widow, the orphan, the stranger, and the poor (7:10). As a preacher of righteousness, he called God's people back to the virtues of justice, kindness, compassion, and truth (7:9; 8:16).

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

zechariah includes clear passages that point to God's Anointed one. Jesus is portrayed in his first and second comings as both Servant/king and Man/God respectively. he appears as the Angel of the Lord (3:1, 2), the Branch (3:8; 6:12), and the king-priest (6:13).

predictions about Jesus are found in several places—9:9, 10 anticipates the Savior's Triumphal entry into Jerusalem on that first palm Sunday; 11:11–13 describe Jesus betrayed for 30 shekels of silver; 12:10 predicts the Messiah's piercing (12:10) and 13:7 his abandonment. chapter 14 prophesies Jesus as the coming Judge and righteous king.

A Call to Repentance

In the eighth month <sup>a</sup> of the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came <sup>b</sup> to Zechariah the son of Berechiah, the son of <sup>c</sup>Iddo the prophet, saying, <sup>2</sup>“The LORD has been very angry with your fathers. <sup>3</sup>Therefore say to them, “Thus says the LORD of hosts: “Return <sup>d</sup> to Me,” says the LORD of hosts, “and I will return to you,” says the LORD of hosts. <sup>4</sup>“Do not be like your fathers, <sup>e</sup> to whom the former prophets preached, saying, “Thus says the LORD of hosts: <sup>f</sup>“Turn now from your evil ways and your evil deeds.”” But they did not hear nor heed Me,” says the LORD.

- <sup>5</sup> “Your fathers, where are they?
And the prophets, do they live forever?
<sup>6</sup> Yet surely <sup>g</sup>My words and My statutes,
Which I commanded My servants
the prophets,
Did they not overtake your fathers?

“So they returned and said:

to do to us,
According to our ways and according to our deeds,
So He has dealt with us.’ ””

<sup>10</sup>And the man who stood among the myrtle trees answered and said, <sup>l</sup>“These are the ones whom the LORD has sent to walk to and fro throughout the earth.”

<sup>11</sup>So they answered the Angel of the LORD, who stood among the myrtle trees, and said, “We have walked to and fro throughout the earth, and behold, all the earth is <sup>1</sup> resting quietly.”

The LORD Will Comfort Zion

<sup>12</sup>Then the Angel of the LORD answered and said, “O LORD of hosts, <sup>n</sup>how long will You not have mercy on Jerusalem and on the cities of Judah, against which You were angry <sup>o</sup> these seventy years?”

<sup>13</sup>And the LORD answered the angel who talked to me, with <sup>p</sup>good and comforting words. <sup>14</sup>So the angel who spoke with me said to me, <sup>2</sup>“Proclaim, saying, “Thus says the LORD of hosts:

1:1 The eighth month corresponds to October–November on our calendar. Darius ruled Persia from 522 to 486 B.C. Thus his second year was 520 B.C. The name Zechariah means “Yahweh remembers,” emphasizing God’s faithfulness to his covenant promises and to his people.

1:2 The fathers refers to the ancestors of the present generation who had disobeyed God and come under his judgment (see 2 Chr. 36:15, 16).

1:3 The words return to Me remind us of the depth of God’s unconditional love. says the LORD of hosts: The personal name translated “LORD” speaks of God’s gracious nature as he relates to his people (see ex. 3:15); the hosts are the angelic armies that await his every command.

1:4 The former prophets refers to men like Habakkuk, Zephaniah, and Jeremiah, who had lived during the last years of the Judean monarchy and had warned of coming judgment.

1:5, 6 Their fathers had been killed or exiled and even the prophets had perished. The previous generation had been overtaken by God’s judgment (see Deut. 28:15–68).

1:7–6:15 This section contains a sequence of eight night visions concerning Israel’s future, followed by the symbolic crowning of the high priest Joshua. Here Zechariah pursues the same end as Haggai, rebuilding the temple as the center of worship and world rule, and as a place of pilgrimage for the nations (8:20–23; Hag. 2:7–9). The eight night visions follow a general pattern. Zechariah describes what he sees, then asks the question, “What does this mean?” Finally he is given an explanation by an accompanying angel.

1:7 The eleventh month (Shebat) is the Babylonian name) corresponds to January–February, 519 B.C. the word of the LORD: here the phrase refers to a prophetic vision.

1:8 Myrtle is an evergreen tree that was once very common in the vicinity of Jerusalem (Neh. 8:15).

1:12, 13 The prophet overhears a conversation between the Angel of the LORD and God. This may be a conversation between the pre-incarnate Jesus and the first person of the Trinity, God the Father (see ps. 110). It is certainly an allusion to Jesus’ role as intercessor. As the author of Hebrews states, Jesus lives to make intercession for us (Heb. 7:25) at the right hand of the Father. The seventy years refers to the period of exile during which the temple lay in ruins (586–515 B.C.; see Jer. 25:7–14).

1:14 the angel who spoke with me: This is the interpreting angel in the dramatic vision, not the Angel of the Lord (v. 11). I am zealous: The passion of the Lord can be seen in his defense of his special relationship with Israel and Jerusalem.

1:15 I am exceedingly angry: Here the anger of God was against the nations that he had used to punish his unrepentant people.

1:16 God promised to show compassion on his people and to rebuild the Jerusalem temple (My house). A surveyor’s line was

My <sup>1</sup>house “shall be built in it,” says the LORD of hosts,
 “And <sup>v</sup>a surveyor’s line shall be stretched out over Jerusalem.””

“My cities shall again <sup>5</sup>spread out through prosperity;
<sup>w</sup>The LORD will again comfort Zion,
 And <sup>x</sup>will again choose Jerusalem.””

Vision of the Horns

<sup>18</sup>Then I raised my eyes and looked, and there were four <sup>y</sup>horns. <sup>19</sup>And I said to the angel who talked with me, “What are these?”

So he answered me, <sup>z</sup>“These are the <sup>6</sup>horns that have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.”

<sup>20</sup>Then the LORD showed me four craftsmen. <sup>21</sup>And I said, “What are these coming to do?”

So he said, “These are the <sup>a</sup>horns that scattered Judah, so that no one could lift up his head; but <sup>7</sup>the craftsmen are coming to terrify them, to cast out the horns of the nations that <sup>b</sup>lifted up their horn against the land of Judah to scatter it.”

Vision of the Measuring Line

2 Then I raised my eyes and looked, and behold, <sup>a</sup>a man with a measuring line in his hand. <sup>2</sup>So I said, “Where are you going?”

And he said to me, <sup>b</sup>“To measure Jerusalem, to see what is its width and what is its length.”

Future Joy of Zion and Many Nations

<sup>10</sup>“Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion! For behold, I am coming and I <sup>m</sup>will dwell in your midst,” says the LORD. <sup>11</sup>“Many nations shall be joined to the LORD <sup>o</sup>in that day, and they shall become <sup>p</sup>My people. And I will dwell in your midst. Then <sup>q</sup>you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent Me to you. <sup>12</sup>And the LORD will <sup>r</sup>take possession of Judah as His inheritance in the Holy Land, and will again choose Jerusalem. <sup>13</sup>“Be silent, all flesh, before the LORD, for He is aroused <sup>t</sup>from His holy habitation!”

used to make measurements in preparation for new construction. The stretching of the line was a promise that the work would begin and that the completion of the task would follow.

1:17 again choose Jerusalem: Jerusalem’s election is a prominent emphasis in zechariah (2:12; 3:2). The word Zion describes Jerusalem in an affectionate way (see zeph. 3:14).

1:18 Animal horns were often used by poets and prophets as symbols of powerful nations and their kings (see Dan. 7:7, 8, 24). The horns that persecuted Israel and Judah included Assyria, Babylon, Medo-persia, and later Greece.

1:20, 21 four craftsmen: The craftsmen or “smiths” destroyed the horns (v. 19). Historically, Babylon destroyed Assyria, Medo-persia conquered Babylon, Greece conquered Medo-persia, and Rome overcame Greece. These are dominant themes in the prophecies of Daniel (see Dan. 2; 7).

2:4, 5 This young man refers to zechariah. Here the words may indicate that zechariah was young when he began his prophetic ministry (see Jer. 1:6). towns without walls: Jerusalem will have no need for defensive fortifications because God’s presence will guarantee its safety and security. These words refer ultimately to the future Jerusalem under the rule of its glorious king (see zeph. 3:15–19). I will be the glory: These words drive us to the vision of the New Jerusalem (r ev. 21:1–3, 10, 11, 22, 23).

2:6 Although Babylon was east of Israel, travelers typically followed the Euphrates river and approached Israel from the north.

2:7 The name Zion may have first applied to the Jebusite stronghold captured by David (2 Sam. 5:7). It was later used for the temple mount (ps. 78:68, 69) and became a synonym for Jerusalem (is. 40:9; Mic. 3:12). Daughter of Babylon signified the people living in the city of Babylon.

2:8, 9 The word touches refers to a touch that produces harm. The apple of His eye refers to the pupil—this is an endearing expression, suggesting how enormously important the Hebrew people are to God because of his covenant with them. Just as we protect our eyes from even the smallest particles of dust, so God protects and cares for his people. Then you will know: The fulfillment of this prophecy would authenticate zechariah’s commission as God’s spokesman (see Deut. 18:21, 22).

2:10 daughter of Zion: As elsewhere, we may think of this phrase as a particularly affectionate manner of addressing Jerusalem and its people as the daughter of the Lord (see zeph. 3:14).

2:11 Many nations refer to Gentiles who will enter into a relationship with God and become his people (Gen. 12:3; Joel 2:28; Amos 9:12; r ev. 21:24). The words My people are used elsewhere in the context of the renewal of God’s covenant with his believing people (Jer. 31:33; 32:38; hos. 2:23; see also ex. 3:7; Deut. 4:20; 14:2; 26:19).

2:12 Surprisingly, the familiar phrase the Holy Land occurs in the OT only here. The land is holy because of the presence of God among his believing people.

2:13 God had aroused himself from his heavenly sanctuary and

Vision of the High Priest

<sup>4</sup>Then He answered and spoke to those who stood before Him, saying, “Take away the filthy garments from him.” And to him He said, “See, I have removed your iniquity from you, <sup>g</sup>and I will clothe you with rich robes.”

So they put a clean turban on his head, and they put the clothes on him. And the Angel of the LORD stood by.

The Coming Branch

<sup>6</sup>Then the Angel of the LORD admonished Joshua, saying, <sup>7</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts:

And if you will <sup>i</sup>keep My command,

Vision of the Lampstand and Olive Trees

4 Now <sup>a</sup>the angel who talked with me came back and wakened me, <sup>b</sup>as a man who is wakened out of his sleep. <sup>2</sup>And he said to me, “What do you see?” So I said, “I am looking, and there is <sup>c</sup>a was about to intervene on behalf of his people. hence be silent was not an anticipation of worship, but calls for terror at the judgment that was about to be unleashed from God’s glory (see zeph. 1:7).

3:1 zechariah saw a heavenly courtroom where Joshua, representing the people of Judah, was standing before the Angel of the LORD and was being accused by Satan. This is not the Joshua who succeeded Moses, but the high priest who returned to Jerusalem with the exiles (ezra 3:2). Satan: The hebrew is literally “the Satan,” meaning “the Accuser.” The picture is not unlike that of Job 1, where Satan stands before the Lord making accusations against people who follow God.

3:2 The LORD rebuke you, Satan: These words presuppose an earlier conversation in which Satan made accusations against the people and their priest. We are reminded that Satan is not sovereign; he is subject to the Sovereign Lord who will handle him. The brand plucked from the fire refers to Judah, delivered from the fire of Babylonian captivity. Joshua, their priest, represented the nation, a people of God’s favor.

3:3 The high priest represented the people before God (see ex. 28:29) and under no circumstances was to become defiled or unclean (ex. 28:2; l ev. 21:10–15). Joshua’s filthy garments were literally “befouled with excrement.”

3:4, 5 The cleansing of Joshua was not complete with the removal of his sin-soiled garments. God replaced the dirty clothes, dressing Joshua in clean garments that represented the gift of God’s righteousness. As sin is removed by the work of christ, so his righteousness is placed in the believer’s account (see rom. 5:18, 19; 2 cor. 5:21). We are clothed in the garments of christ’s righteousness. The fact that Joshua had no part in his cleansing indicates that this work was totally by God’s grace.

3:7 Joshua was recommissioned as the nation’s high priest. For his faithfulness he was promised the privilege of exercising authority over God’s temple—My house—and its courts.

3:8 The coming Messiah is depicted as God’s Servant (is. 53:11). he is also referred to as the BRANCH. isaiah used this word and a similar one to describe the Messiah who will grow out of the root of the family of Jesse as a tender sprout shoots up from the ground (see 6:12; is. 4:2; 11:1; 53:2). Joshua and his companions were a sign because the reinstatement of the priesthood made public God’s continuing intention to fulfill his promises to his people.

3:9 stone: I like the priest Aaron, who possessed a jeweled ephod (see ex. 25:7; 35:9), so the new priest possessed a lustrous stone, a symbol of the authority of his office. The eyes may be symbolic of wisdom and of the endowment of the holy Spirit (see 4:10; is. 11:2).

3:10 Sitting under the vine and under the fig tree is an image of peace and tranquility characteristic of the messianic kingdom (Mic. 4:4).

4:1 wakened me: it appears that these night visions came in the course of a single night.

4:2, 3 The lampstand of solid gold would remind the people of the lampstand in the tabernacle and the temple.

angel

(heb. mal'ak) (4:1; 2 Sam. 2:5; 24:16; ps. 34:7; is. 37:9) Strong’s #4397

This noun may refer to angelic beings (4:1, 5; Gen. 19:1; ps. 91:11), human messengers (Gen. 32:3; Deut. 2:26), or ambassadors (is. 30:4; ezek. 17:15). A special use is the manifestation of the Godhead known as the Angel of God in the o T (2:6; see Gen. 21:17; ex. 14:19). in the o T, prophets (hag. 1:13) and priests (Mal. 2:7) function as messengers from God. in zechariah, angels bring revelations from God about the future and interpret the meaning of dreams and visions (1:14; 6:4, 5). Jesus identified the messenger who prepared the way for the day of the Lord, forecast in Mal. 3:1, as John the Baptist (Matt. 11:10, 11).

<sup>6</sup>So I asked, “What is it?” And he said, “It is a <sup>l</sup>basket that is going forth.”

He also said, “This is their resem-

4:6 The rebuilding of the temple, which had at last begun in earnest (eza 5:1, 2; hag. 1:14), would be accomplished not by human strength or resources, but by the power of God’s Spirit.

4:7 The great mountain was a figurative reference to the great obstacles the people faced in rebuilding the temple (eza 5:3–17). The setting of the capstone would mark the completion of the project. The words Grace, grace to it may be understood as a prayer for God’s favor, or as a cry of admiration over the grace and beauty of the newly built temple.

4:9 His hands: The promise concerning Zerubbabel is significant; the task that he began he would also complete.

4:10 the day of small things: There is nothing wrong with a small work. Little can indeed be much if God is in it. These seven, a number used symbolically to represent the idea of completeness, are identified as the eyes of the Lord (see “eyes” in 3:9). The fact that these eyes will rejoice at the plumb line in Zerubbabel’s hand suggests the delight of God over the rebuilding of the temple.

4:11–14 The two olive branches are identified as two anointed ones, representatives of the religious and political offices in Israel, or of priest and king. Many identify the two branches with the high priest Joshua and the governor Zerubbabel.

5:2 A scroll was made of rolled parchment or leather and was the ancient equivalent of a book (see Jer. 36:1–8). A cubit was about 18 inches. The scroll, approximately the size of a billboard, measured about 15 by 30 feet.

5:3 The writing on the scroll was a message of judgment. The curse refers to the judgments spoken of in the Mosaic covenant (Deut. 30:7). The message on the scroll warned that the curses described in the covenant as a result of the people’s disobedience would be executed upon the whole land.

5:4 And consume it: God’s great love does not preclude the exercise of his judgment on those who violate his will. The judgment upon the disobedient would be certain and severe.

5:6 The word translated basket is literally ephah, a unit of dry measure of about half a bushel. The word translated resemblance was understood as iniquity in some ancient versions.

blance throughout the earth: <sup>7</sup>Here is a lead disc lifted up, and this is a woman sitting inside the basket"; <sup>8</sup>then he said, "This is Wickedness!" And he thrust her down into the basket, and threw the lead <sup>2</sup>cover over its mouth. <sup>9</sup>Then I raised my eyes and looked, and there were two women, coming with the wind in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of a <sup>1</sup>stork, and they lifted up the basket between earth and heaven.

<sup>10</sup>So I said to the <sup>g</sup>angel who talked with me, "Where are they carrying the basket?"

<sup>11</sup>And he said to me, "To <sup>h</sup>build a house for it in <sup>i</sup>the land of <sup>3</sup>Shinar; when it is ready, the basket will be set there on its base."

Vision of the Four Chariots

6 Then I turned and raised my eyes and looked, and behold, four chariots were coming from between two mountains, and the mountains were mountains of bronze. <sup>2</sup>With the first chariot were <sup>a</sup>red horses, with the second chariot <sup>b</sup>black horses, <sup>3</sup>with the third chariot white horses, and with the fourth chariot dappled horses—strong steeds. <sup>4</sup>Then I answered <sup>c</sup>and said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these, my lord?"

So they walked to and fro throughout the earth. <sup>8</sup>And He called to me, and spoke to me, saying, "See, those who go toward the north country have given rest to My <sup>h</sup>Spirit in the north country."

The Command to Crown Joshua

<sup>9</sup>Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: <sup>10</sup>"Receive the gift from the captives—from Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah, who have come from Babylon—and go the same day and enter the house of Josiah the son of Zephaniah. <sup>11</sup>Take the silver and gold, make <sup>i</sup>an <sup>2</sup>elaborate crown, and set it on the head of <sup>j</sup>Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest. <sup>12</sup>Then speak to him, saying, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, saying:

"Behold, <sup>h</sup>the Man whose name is the <sup>1</sup>BRANCH!

From His place He shall <sup>3</sup>branch out,

<sup>m</sup>And He shall build the temple of the LORD;

He <sup>n</sup>shall bear the glory, And shall sit and rule on His throne; So <sup>o</sup>He shall be a priest on His throne,

And the counsel of peace shall be between <sup>4</sup>them both."

5:7, 8 The woman sitting inside the basket is Wickedness, a personification of sin.

5:9 Next zechariah saw two women, God's agents, disposing of the wicked woman in the basket. the wings of a stork: The stork is a migratory bird frequently seen traveling north along the Jordan valley in the spring of the year.

5:11 Shinar was an ancient name for the district in which the cities of Babylon (Babel), erch, Accad, and calneh were located (Gen. 10:10; 11:2). The fact that a house was built for the woman suggests that the removal of wickedness (v. 8) from israel was permanent.

6:1 chariots: in ancient times two-wheeled and four-wheeled horse-drawn carts served as vehicles for transportation and for warfare. The war chariots usually had a crew of two or three men including a driver, an archer, and a defender who used a shield to protect the others.

6:5 These chariots and their teams represented four spirits of heaven, probably angels.

6:6, 7 The horses were eager to take the four spirits on their mission to bring divine judgment on the peoples of the earth.

6:8 The activity of the chariot teams would give rest to God's Spirit because his agents would be executing his judgment on the nations that threatened israel. cyrus's overthrow of Babylon in 539 b.c. may well have been a part of this judgment (is. 13:1–22; 45:1–6).

6:10, 11 The captives refer to the new arrivals from Babylon, who brought gifts of silver and gold to help the restored community of israelites. The elaborate crown was possibly a composite crown made up of several circlets. The crown was to be placed on the head of Joshua the high priest.

6:12 The Messiah himself will build the temple of the Lord. Since the restoration temple (the second temple) was already being built and would be completed by zerubbabel (see 4:9), the temple referred to here may be the future temple of the messianic kingdom (see is. 2:2–4; ezek. 40–42; Mic. 4:1–5; hag. 2:7–9). The temple of zerubbabel was a prophetic symbol of the temple that is still to come.

6:13 he will sit and rule and be a priest. in the Messiah the two offices of king and priest will be united (John 1:49; heb. 3:1).

BRANCH

(heb. tsemach) (3:8; 6:12; is. 4:2; Jer. 23:5) Strong's #6780

The hebrew term translated as BRANCH here means "shoot" or "twig." This is one title for the coming Messiah, the "Branch" who would "shoot" up from the royal stock of David, a dynasty that had been interrupted with the Babylonian exile (is. 11:1). Many of the prophets promised that a king from David's line would reign in righteousness (Jer. 23:5, 6) and as a priest would reestablish true worship of the Lord (6:12, 13). in his ministry, Jesus christ fulfilled these predictions by taking on both a royal (see John 12:13–15; 1 Tim. 6:13–16) and a priestly role (see heb. 4:14).

Obedience Better than Fasting

7 Now in the fourth year of King Darius it came to pass that the word of the LORD came to Zechariah, on the fourth day of the ninth month, Chislew, <sup>2</sup>when <sup>1</sup>the people sent <sup>2</sup>Sherezzer, with Regem-Melech and his men, to <sup>3</sup>the house of God, <sup>4</sup>to pray before the LORD, <sup>3</sup>and to <sup>a</sup>ask the priests who were in the house of the LORD of hosts, and the prophets, saying, “Should I weep in <sup>b</sup>the fifth month and <sup>5</sup>fast as I have done for so many years?”

Disobedience Resulted in Captivity

<sup>8</sup>Then the word of the LORD came to Zechariah, saying, <sup>9</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts:

- <sup>j</sup> Execute true justice,
 Show <sup>7</sup>mercy and compassion
 Everyone to his brother.
<sup>10</sup> <sup>k</sup> Do not oppress the widow or the fatherless,
 The alien or the poor.
<sup>l</sup> Let none of you plan evil in his heart
 Against his brother.’

<sup>11</sup>“But they refused to heed, <sup>m</sup>shrugged <sup>8</sup>their shoulders, and <sup>n</sup>stopped <sup>9</sup>their ears so that they could not hear. <sup>12</sup>Yes, they made their <sup>o</sup>hearts like flint, <sup>p</sup>refusing to hear the law and the words which the LORD of hosts had sent by His Spirit through the former prophets. <sup>q</sup>Thus great wrath came from the LORD of hosts. <sup>13</sup>Therefore it happened, that just as He proclaimed and they would not hear, so <sup>r</sup>they called out and I would not listen,” says the LORD of hosts. <sup>14</sup>“But <sup>s</sup>I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations which they had not known. Thus the land became desolate after them, so that no one passed through or returned; for they made the pleasant land desolate.”

Jerusalem, Holy City of the Future

8 Again the word of the LORD of hosts came, saying, <sup>2</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts:

Deut. 4:27; 28:64; Neh. 1:8

6:15 Those from afar include Gentile peoples (see 8:22; see hag. 2:7-9; eph. 2:13).

7:1 The fourth year of Darius was 518 B.C. The ninth month or Chislew (the Babylonian name) corresponds to November-December.

7:2 The words translated house of God may also mean “Bethel,” a town 12 miles north of Jerusalem. Over two hundred Jews from Bethel returned from Babylon in 538 B.C. (ezra 2:28; Neh. 7:32), and the city was reoccupied during the restoration period (Neh. 11:31); it seems most likely that the people of Bethel sent a delegation to ask a question of the priests in Jerusalem.

7:3 The house of the LORD of hosts refers to the temple in Jerusalem. The fast in the fifth month (July-August) commemorated the destruction of the temple in 586 B.C. (2 kin. 25:8). The delegation from Bethel wanted to know if it was necessary to continue this annual fast as it had been observed during the Babylonian captivity.

7:5, 6 did you really fast for Me—for Me: The rhetorical question was designed to confront the people and priests with the selfish motives of their self-righteous fasting. Biblical fasting is meant to be time taken from the normal routines of preparing and eating food to express humility and dependence on God during a time of prayer. There was only one required fast in the Law of Moses, the fast on the Day of Atonement (see 1 ev. 16:29). The fast during the seventh month lamented the slaying of Gedaliah (2 kin. 25:25). The seventy years (see 1:12; Jer. 25:11; 29:10) refer to the period of time while the people were in exile and the temple lay in ruins. for yourselves: Their fasting and their feasting were both motivated by self-interest rather than a desire to honor God.

7:7 The former prophets were those who ministered before the exile (1:4; see 2 chr. 36:15, 16). The South is the Negev, the dry region of Judah around Beersheba. The Lowland is the transitional region between the hill country of Judah and the coastal plain.

7:9, 10 zechariah’s four admonitions highlight the practical social concerns that many of the prophets emphasized (is. 1:11-17; hos. 6:6; Mic. 6:6-8). Execute true justice: Judicial decisions must be made without partiality or bias. Show mercy and compassion: loving commitment and concern should guide our relationships with others. Do not oppress: No advantage is to be taken of the helpless and less fortunate. Let none of you plan evil: evil scheming against others is prohibited. Sacrifices and worship are of little interest to God if they are not accompanied by practical piety.

7:11-14 zechariah describes the response of the disobedient Judeans living in the land before the Babylonian exile. The consequence was God’s judgment—they were scattered.

8:1-3 The Lord again states that he is zealous for Jerusalem (1:14; see Nah. 1:2). This theme in zechariah emphasizes the Lord’s great passion for his people. He longed to bless them with his presence and in turn desired their worship. Zion is the poetic equivalent of Jerusalem (see 2:7). The label City of Truth will be valid only when the Messiah brings his righteous reign to that city. Then the land will be holy (see 2:12).

<sup>a</sup>“I am <sup>1</sup>zealous for Zion with great <sup>2</sup>zeal;
With great <sup>3</sup>fervor I am zealous for her.”

<sup>b</sup>“I will return to Zion,
And <sup>c</sup>dwell in the midst of Jerusalem.
Jerusalem <sup>d</sup>shall be called the City of Truth,
<sup>e</sup>The Mountain of the LORD of hosts,

<sup>g</sup>“Old men and old women shall again sit
In the streets of Jerusalem,
Each one with his staff in his hand
Because of <sup>4</sup>great age.
<sup>5</sup> The streets of the city
Shall be <sup>h</sup>full of boys and girls
Playing in its streets.”

<sup>6</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts:

“If it is <sup>5</sup>marvelous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, <sup>i</sup>Will it also be marvelous in My eyes?
Says the LORD of hosts.

<sup>7</sup>“Thus says the LORD of hosts:

“Behold, <sup>j</sup>I will save My people from the land of the <sup>6</sup>east
And from the land of the <sup>7</sup>west;
<sup>8</sup> I will <sup>k</sup>bring them back,
And they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem.
<sup>l</sup>They shall be My people
And I will be their God,
<sup>m</sup>In truth and righteousness.”

<sup>n</sup>“Let your hands be strong,
You who have been hearing in these days

These words by the mouth of <sup>o</sup> the prophets,
Who spoke in <sup>p</sup> the day the foundation was laid

For the house of the LORD of hosts,
That the temple might be built.

<sup>10</sup> For before these days
There were no <sup>q</sup>wages for man nor any hire for beast;
There was no peace from the enemy for whoever went out or came in;
For I set all men, everyone, against his neighbor.

<sup>11</sup> <sup>r</sup> But now I will not treat the remnant of this people as in the former days,<sup>7</sup> says the LORD of hosts.

O house of Judah and house of Israel,
So I will save you, and <sup>w</sup> you shall be a blessing.
Do not fear,
Let your hands be strong.”

<sup>14</sup> “For thus says the LORD of hosts:

<sup>x</sup> “Just as I determined to <sup>9</sup>punish you

Says the LORD of hosts,

<sup>y</sup> “And I would not relent,
<sup>15</sup> So again in these days

I am determined to do good
To Jerusalem and to the house of Judah.

Do not fear.

8:4, 5 zechariah predicts that in the future messianic era, Jerusalem will be inhabited and secure. The longevity of the citizens and the presence of children at play in its streets suggests the city’s future prosperity and divine blessing.

8:6 The rhetorical question implies that nothing is too marvelous or difficult for God.

8:7, 8 The terms east and west represent all parts of the earth. The expressions My people and their God (see 2:11) occur in the descriptions of God’s covenant relationship with his people (ex. 19:5; 29:45; l ev. 26:12; hos. 2:23). With these words, zechariah anticipates a renewal of God’s covenant with his people (see Jer. 31:31–34).

8:9 The foundation of the second temple was laid in 536 B.C. (see ezra 3:8–13).

8:10 no wages . . . no peace: zechariah recounts the desperate situation in Judea before the work on the temple resumed in 520 B.C. (see hag. 1:1, 6, 10, 11; 2:16, 17).

8:11–13 in the past, the people had been subject to God’s discipline. in view of their recent obedience with regard to rebuilding the temple, they could now anticipate his blessing. Let your hands be strong: in view of God’s gracious purposes and future plans for his people, they were called to be diligent in their present efforts to serve him with sincere hearts (see 1 c or. 15:58).

8:16, 17 zechariah set forth the ethical obligations of a life of faith. he upheld the positive values of truth and justice and condemned evil plans and false oaths. The words speak each man the truth are quoted by paul in eph. 4:25.

Give judgment in your gates for truth, justice, and peace;

17 <sup>b</sup> Let none of you think evil in <sup>1</sup> your heart against your neighbor; And do not love a false oath. For all these are things that I hate,<sup>c</sup> Says the LORD.”

18 Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying, 19 “Thus says the LORD of hosts:

<sup>c</sup> The fast of the fourth month,

For the house of Judah.

<sup>h</sup> Therefore love truth and peace.”

20 “Thus says the LORD of hosts:

“Peoples shall yet come, Inhabitants of many cities;

21 The inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying,

<sup>i</sup> “Let us continue to go and pray before the LORD,

And seek the LORD of hosts.

I myself will go also.”

22 Yes, <sup>j</sup> many peoples and strong nations Shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, And to pray before the LORD.”

23 “Thus says the LORD of hosts: ‘In those days ten men <sup>k</sup> from every language of the nations shall <sup>l</sup> grasp the <sup>2</sup> sleeve of a Jewish man, saying, “Let us go with you, for we have heard <sup>m</sup> that God is with you.”’”

3 For Tyre built herself a tower, Heaped up silver like the dust, And gold like the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, <sup>g</sup> the Lord will cast her out; He will destroy <sup>h</sup> her power in the sea, And she will be devoured by fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it and fear; Gaza also shall be very sorrowful; And <sup>i</sup> Ekron, for He dried up her expectation.

The king shall perish from Gaza, And Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 “A <sup>2</sup> mixed race shall settle <sup>j</sup> in Ashdod, And I will cut off the pride of the <sup>k</sup> Philistines.

7 I will take away the blood from his mouth, And the abominations from between his teeth.

But he who remains, even he shall be for our God, And shall be like a leader in Judah,

And Ekron like a Jebusite.

8 <sup>l</sup> I will camp around My house Because of the army, Because of him who passes by and him who returns.

No more shall an oppressor pass through them, For now I have seen with My eyes.

8:18, 19 As a result of God’s blessing on his obedient people, the former fasts will become feasts. The fast of the fourth month commemorated the breach of Jerusalem’s walls (Jer. 39:2). The fast of the fifth commemorated the temple destruction (2 kin. 25:8). The fast of the seventh commemorated the slaying of Gedaliah (2 kin. 25:25), and the fast of the tenth commemorated the beginning of Nebuchadnezzar’s siege of Jerusalem (2 kin. 25:1, 2).

8:20–23 here zechariah announces a great turning of the nations to God. During the messianic era, a multitude of people from many cities will go to Jerusalem to seek the LORD. These Gentiles will be included among the people of God by faith (eph. 2:13–19).

9:1 The word burden suggests that a weighty judgment must be declared. Hadrach was north of hamath on the orontes river, southwest of Aleppo. Damascus, 60 miles northeast of the Sea of Galilee, was the capital of Aram (ancient Syria).

9:2 Hamath is mentioned in several places as the northern limit of the promised land (Num. 13:21; Josh. 13:5). Tyre and Sidon are port cities located north of israel on the phoenician coast.

9:3, 4 The complete overthrow of Tyre by Alexander the Great in 332 B.C. illustrates how even such a powerful city can come under God’s judgment.

9:5, 6 Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron, and Ashdod were philistine cities located on israel’s coastal plain south of Joppa (1 Sam. 6:17). The city of Gath completed the “five principal cities” of the philistines.

9:7 The removal of blood from his mouth and abominations refer to the cessation of unlawful and idolatrous practices (1 ev. 17:14; is. 65:4; 66:17). Ekron like a Jebusite: The Jebusites were the old inhabitants of Jebus, the stronghold that became Jerusalem (2 Sam. 5:6, 7).

9:8 God will return as a victorious Warrior to the temple—My house—where he will set up a guard against any who would dare tramp through Judah’s territory.

14 Then the LORD will be seen over

9:9 This prophecy was fulfilled on the day of the Triumphal entry, when Jesus rode into Jerusalem on the colt of a donkey (Matt. 21:2–7; John 12:12–15). The donkey was the mount of princes (Judg. 5:10; 10:4; 12:14) and kings (2 Sam. 16:1, 2).

9:10 Instruments of warfare—the chariot and the battle bow—will be destroyed and universal peace will be established. Ephraim refers to the northern tribes of Israel. The River refers to the Euphrates, the northeast boundary of the promised land (Gen. 15:18).

9:11, 12 The release of prisoners announced here would serve as a great encouragement for the Jewish people still in exile, even though the prisoners were living in a well-watered place in Persia (see Ezekiel 1:1), they were in a place akin to a waterless pit in terms of their opportunity for spiritual nourishment. They were exhorted to return to the stronghold Jerusalem.

9:13 Zechariah used a bold metaphor likening Judah and Ephraim to a bow and arrow prepared by the Lord to be used against Greece, literally Javan (see Is. 66:19).

9:14 whirlwinds: This description, patterned after God’s appear-

The Coming King

Luke tells us that after Jesus ascended to heaven, the disciples returned to Jerusalem (Luke 24:52). They also went back to the Scriptures. The Old Testament suddenly blossomed with good news everywhere they looked they found evidence that pointed toward the specifics of Jesus’ life and ministry. When they wondered why they had missed the connections before, they must have also remembered Jesus’ promise, “When he, the Spirit of truth, has come, he will guide you into all truth” (John 16:13).

When the Gospel writers recorded the details of Jesus’ life, they often used references from the Old Testament to illustrate how clearly Jesus fulfilled the character of the promised Savior and the prophecies regarding his ministry. They particularly enjoyed quoting Old Testament passages that clearly predicted the suffering and rejection aspects of the Messiah’s role. For them, it was the central theme that set Jesus apart from the popular ideas of a conquering and powerful political messiah.

Zechariah 9:9, 10 presents a prophecy whose fulfillment was clearly set in motion (although not completed) by Jesus’ arrival in Jerusalem on a colt, the well-known Triumphal entry. Both Matthew and John mention this passage. John even notes that the disciples saw no immediate connection between Jesus riding on the colt and his identity as the Messiah prophesied in Zechariah. After Jesus was glorified, “then they remembered that these things were written about him” (John 12:16).

These verses in Zechariah include an important transition. The arrival of the saving King is followed immediately by a description of the effects of his long-term reign. This is an example of “prophetic compression.” Viewed from the broader context of prophecy, Zechariah was mentioning together two stages in God’s plan which are actually separated in time. The coming King would arrive twice. Jesus came first as a humble King of peace and salvation, accomplished in Jesus’ earthly ministry and his death on the cross. Second, Jesus will come as a victorious ruler over all the world who will “speak peace to the nations.” We should rejoice over Jesus’ first coming and anticipate the complete fulfillment of Zechariah’s prophecy at Christ’s glorious return.

Zechariah 9:9, 10 presents a prophecy whose fulfillment was clearly set in motion by Jesus’ arrival in Jerusalem on a colt.

ance at Sinai (ex. 19), reveals God's sovereignty and power to protect his own.

9:15 zechariah describes the victory banquet of God's people in celebration of his victory over the nations and securing of Jerusalem. The people will be filled with drink like sacrificial basins were filled with blood, and they will be filled with meat like the corners of a sacrificial altar (see ps. 110).

9:17 The abundance of grain and new wine suggests the prosperity and blessing of this future day (see 3:10; 8:4, 5; see also Amos 9:13).
10:1 The latter rain (Deut. 11:14) refers to the rain that comes in late spring and is essential for an abundant grain harvest.

10:2 Idols refers to household gods (see Gen. 31:19). Diviners, like Balaam, interpreted omens as a means of foretelling the future (Josh. 13:22; 1 Sam. 6:2). no shepherd: The metaphor of shepherd was often used in the ancient Middle east to represent a king or ruler (see ezek. 34:6-8, 23, 24). here the emphasis was on the lack of spiritual leadership.

10:3 While israel lacked national leadership, there were plenty of tyrants seeking to rule God's people. These goatherds will be judged. By way of contrast, God will strengthen the house of Judah as an instrument to overthrow these oppressors.

10:4, 5 The poetic metaphors in these verses reflect the strength, stability, and victory that God will impart to his people (vv. 3, 6).

Cornerstone is an image of steadfast strength or stability, coupled with beauty and honor (is. 28:16; see also ps. 118:22). tent peg: A peg firmly in place suggests permanence and endurance (is. 22:23). battle bow: This image pictures the strength necessary for military conquest (2 kin. 13:17).

10:6 The house of Judah indicates israel's southern territory. The house of Joseph is israel's northern territory, dominated by ephraim (v. 7) and Manasseh, tribes named after Joseph's sons (Gen. 41:51, 52). The promise I will bring them back is a promise of restoration. The dispersed remnant of israel would return to the promised land (see Matt. 24:31).

10:7 What was promised to Judah in v. 5 is here promised to Ephraim, as if with wine: Wine is used here as a symbol of abundant joy (ps. 104:15; see Amos 9:13; John 2:1-11).

10:8 As a shepherd signals his sheep, so the Lord will whistle for his people to return to the land. For I will redeem them: God will deliver them from sin (3:4, 9) and from the bondage of captivity (Matt. 24:31).

10:9 Being sown among the peoples was God's punishment of the exiles for their disobedience (Deut. 28:63, 64). The words they shall remember Me anticipate their turning to the Lord in repentance.

They shall live, together with their children,
 And they shall return.
 10 <sup>x</sup> I will also bring them back from the land of Egypt,
 And gather them from Assyria.
 I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon, <sup>y</sup> Until no more room is found for them.
 11 <sup>z</sup> He shall pass through the sea with affliction,
 And strike the waves of the sea:
 All the depths of <sup>a</sup> the River shall dry up.
 Then <sup>b</sup> the pride of Assyria shall be brought down,
 And <sup>c</sup> the scepter of Egypt shall depart.
 12 <sup>d</sup> So I will strengthen them in the LORD,
 And <sup>e</sup> they shall walk up and down in His name,”
 Says the LORD.

Prophecy of the Shepherds

<sup>13</sup> And the LORD said to me, “Throw it

Shall live implies more than mere survival. God promises spiritual life and blessing to the repentant.

10:10 Assyria is the region of northern Mesopotamia. Egypt and Assyria had been lands where Israel was captive. Gilead is the territory east of the Jordan and southeast of the Sea of Galilee. Lebanon is the region north of Galilee. The future restoration will be so complete that the land will be filled with people.

10:11 God would remove any impediment to Israel’s return. Zechariah used imagery from the exodus—the sea, the River—to illustrate the kinds of obstacles God would overcome (see ex. 14:21–31; Josh. 3:14–17).

10:12 I will strengthen them: The regathering will be accomplished by God’s power as he gives strength to his people. they shall walk . . . in His name: in the last days, Israel will return to the land as a believing nation (v. 8; 12:10—13:1; rom. 11:26).

11:1 Lebanon was known for its beautiful and fragrant cedars, trees used by Solomon in building his palace and the temple.

11:2, 3 The cypress, or juniper, will wail for the cedars of Lebanon. The shepherds will wail because the grazing lands will be ruined. The lions will roar because of the destruction of the pride of the Jordan, the jungle thicket that was their shelter.

11:4 Zechariah was commanded to feed or pasture the flock of God’s people Israel, knowing it was destined for slaughter.

11:6 The petty tyrants and oppressors (v. 5) will fall victim to foreign kings who attack the land.

11:7 In obedience to God’s command (v. 4), Zechariah pastured the flock doomed for slaughter. As shepherds carried implements to guide and protect the sheep (ps. 23:4), so Zechariah had two staffs.

Their names Beauty and Bonds suggest that he wanted the flock to enjoy God’s favor and to experience national unity. According to a Canaanite legend, the god Baal was given the two clubs named Driver and Chaser to battle the dark deities of the sea. It is appropriate that God’s messenger Zechariah is given shepherd’s staffs to guide the people, instead of clubs for fighting.

11:8 three shepherds: Some have suggested that the three shepherds represent classes of rulers in Israel: kings, priests, and prophets. Others suggest that they refer to the last three kings of Judah or to certain high priests of the Maccabean era.

11:9 Let what is dying die: The judgment which God has decreed should be accepted, not resisted. eat each other’s flesh: cannibalism was one of the horrors of famine that resulted from siege warfare (Deut. 28:54–57; I am. 4:10).

11:10 The breaking of the staff Beauty symbolizes the end of God’s protection of his people. break the covenant: God’s unconditional promise to Abraham (Gen. 12:1–3) or to David (2 Sam. 7:12–16) would never be broken. Like Ezekiel’s covenant of peace (ezek. 34:25), the covenant here may refer to an agreement with the Gentile nation on Israel’s behalf.

11:12 Zechariah, taking the role of the messianic shepherd, requested his wages for service rendered. His wage was calculated as thirty pieces of silver, the price of a slave (ex. 21:32). This was the price paid to Judas for betraying Jesus (see Matt. 27:6–10).

11:13 The command throw it to the potter is further illuminated by Zechariah’s action. He threw them into the house of the LORD for the potter. Potters may have been connected with the temple because of the continual need for sacred vessels (I ev. 6:28).

to the <sup>m</sup>potter”—that princely price they set on me. So I took the thirty <sup>pieces</sup> of silver and threw them into the house of the LORD for the potter. <sup>14</sup>Then I cut in two my other staff, <sup>1</sup>Bonds, that I might break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

<sup>15</sup>And the LORD said to me, <sup>n</sup>“Next, take for yourself the implements of a foolish shepherd. <sup>16</sup>For indeed I will raise up a shepherd in the land <sup>who</sup> will not care for those who are cut off, nor seek the young, nor heal those that are broken, nor feed those that still stand. But he will eat the flesh of the fat and tear their hooves in <sup>o</sup>pieces.

<sup>17</sup>“Woe <sup>p</sup>to the worthless shepherd,
Who leaves the flock!
A sword shall be against his arm
And against his right eye;
His arm shall completely wither,
And his right eye shall be totally blinded.”

The Coming Deliverance of Judah

that day,” says the LORD, <sup>f</sup>“I will strike every horse with confusion, and its rider with madness; I will open My eyes on the house of Judah, and will strike every horse of the peoples with blindness. <sup>5</sup>And the governors of Judah shall say in their heart, ‘The inhabitants of Jerusalem are my strength in the LORD of hosts, their God.’ <sup>6</sup>In that day I will make the governors of Judah <sup>g</sup>like a firepan in the woodpile, and like a fiery torch in the sheaves; they shall devour all the surrounding peoples on the right hand and on the left, but Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place—Jerusalem.

<sup>7</sup>“The LORD will save the tents of Judah first, so that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall not become greater than that of Judah. <sup>8</sup>In that day the LORD will defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; the one who is feeble among them in that day shall be like David, and the house of David shall be like God, like the Angel of the LORD before them. <sup>9</sup>It shall be in that day that I will seek to <sup>h</sup>destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

Mourning for the Pierced One

<sup>10</sup><sup>i</sup>“And I will pour on the house of David and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem the Spirit of grace and supplication; then they will <sup>j</sup>look on Me whom they pierced. Yes, they will mourn for Him <sup>k</sup>as one mourns for his only son, and grieve for Him as one grieves for a firstborn. <sup>11</sup>In that day there shall be a great <sup>l</sup>mourning in Jerusalem, <sup>m</sup>like the mourning at Hadad Rimmon in the

11:14 The rejection of the messianic shepherd, represented by zechariah, meant that the national unity the israelites hoped for would not be achieved at this time. But one day the two nations Judah and Israel will be united (ezek. 37:16–28).

11:15, 16 To take the implements of a foolish shepherd means to behave like one. Eat the flesh and tear their hooves expresses the savagery of a foolish shepherd.

11:17 The worthless shepherd will be judged. his arm, which should have been used to protect the sheep, will wither. His right eye, which should have watched over the sheep, will be blinded.

12:1 As in 9:1, the burden is a weighty judgment that the prophet must discharge. Three phrases are used here in describing the greatness of God as creator of the heavens, the earth, and the spirit of man.

12:2 Jerusalem is depicted as a cup of wine or strong drink which causes drunkenness. The cup is a common metaphor for God’s wrath (see is. 51:17; Jer. 25:15; ezek. 23:33; r ev. 14:10; 16:19). Siege warfare involved encircling a city to prevent the inhabitants from fleeing and to cut off all supplies of food and water.

12:3 Jerusalem is compared to a heavy stone that brings injury to anyone who tries to remove it from its place.

12:5 The governors or leaders of Judah would affirm God’s power to deliver through his people. The people’s strength would be in the LORD (see phil. 4:13).

12:6 Judah is likened to (1) a firepan used to carry hot coals for the purpose of starting a fire, and (2) a fiery torch that could quickly ignite a field of cut grain.

12:7 Tents of Judah alludes to Jews living outside Jerusalem in the rural districts of the land. The house of David means David’s descendants.

12:8 With bold analogy, zechariah likens David’s descendants to God. The Angel of the LORD is clearly a divine being (ex. 23:20; Num. 22:22; Judg. 2:1; 13:15–22).

12:9 All the nations that have attacked Jerusalem (v. 2) will be judged and destroyed (Matt. 25:31–46).

12:10 pour: This metaphor is derived from the deluge of winter rains and speaks of abundant provision (Job 36:28; is. 44:3; 1 am. 2:19). Spirit of grace refers to the gracious working of the holy Spirit that leads to conviction and repentance (John 16:8–11). supplication: The Spirit will stimulate an attitude of repentance and prayer for God’s mercy. There are many significant ministries of the holy Spirit in the period of the hebrew kingdom. Me whom they pierced: Jewish commentators often regard this as a corporate reference to the Jews killed in the defense of Jerusalem (12:1–9). The Jewish Talmud views the text as referring to the Messiah who will be pierced in battle. The messianic view is favored by the fact that Jesus was pierced with a spear after his death on the cross (John 19:34).

12:11 Hadad Rimmon may have been the site of some tragedy whose grief was still vividly remembered. or the place may have been associated with religious rites involving mourning.

plain of <sup>3</sup>Megiddo. <sup>12n</sup> And the land shall mourn, every family by itself: the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of <sup>o</sup>Nathan by itself, and their wives by themselves; <sup>13</sup> the family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of Shimei by itself, and their wives by themselves; <sup>14</sup> all the families that remain, every family by itself, and their wives by themselves.

Idolatry Cut Off

13 “In that <sup>a</sup>day <sup>b</sup>a fountain shall be opened for the house of David and for the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and for <sup>c</sup>uncleanness.

<sup>2</sup> “It shall be in that day,” says the LORD of hosts, “that I will <sup>d</sup>cut off the names of the idols from the land, and they shall no longer be remembered. I will also cause <sup>e</sup>the prophets and the unclean spirit to depart from the land. <sup>3</sup> It shall come to pass that if anyone still prophesies, then his father and mother who begot him will say to him, ‘You shall <sup>f</sup>not live, because you have spoken lies in the name of the LORD.’ And his father and mother who begot him <sup>g</sup>shall thrust him through when he prophesies.

<sup>4</sup> “And it shall be in that day that <sup>h</sup>every prophet will be ashamed of his vision when he prophesies; they will not wear <sup>i</sup>a robe of coarse hair to deceive. <sup>5j</sup> But he will say, ‘I am no prophet, I am a farmer; for a man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.’ <sup>6</sup> And one will say to him, Against the Man <sup>l</sup>who is My Companion,”

Says the LORD of hosts.

<sup>m</sup> “Strike the Shepherd, And the sheep will be scattered; Then I will turn My hand against <sup>n</sup>the little ones.

8 And it shall come to pass in all the land,”

Says the LORD,

“That <sup>o</sup>two-thirds in it shall be cut off and die,

<sup>p</sup>But one-third shall be left in it:

9 I will bring the one-third <sup>q</sup>through the fire,

Will <sup>r</sup>refine them as silver is refined, And test them as gold is tested.

<sup>s</sup>They will call on My name, And I will answer them.

‘I will say, ‘This is My people’;

And each one will say, ‘The LORD is my God.’”

The Day of the LORD

14 Behold, <sup>a</sup>the day of the LORD is coming, And your <sup>1</sup>spoils will be divided in your midst.

12:12–14 All of Israel will mourn for the Messiah, including members of the royal family and the priests, the house of David and the house of Levi, wives by themselves: These words are quoted in the Talmud as an argument for separating men and women in worship. But the verse seems to indicate that each mourner will face his or her sorrow alone, without the comfort of companionship. Shimei was I evi’s grandson (Num. 3:18, 21).

13:1 The fountain is an image of abundant, overflowing provision. cleansing from the impurity of sin was made available by Christ at the cross. At the time of Christ’s second coming, the repentant and believing remnant of Israel will appropriate that provision and enter into the benefits of the New covenant (Jer. 31:31–34; ezek. 36:25–28). Paul anticipated this great day in r om. 11:26.

13:2 cut off the names of the idols: in ancient times, a person’s name reflected his or her reputation. Zechariah anticipated the complete removal of the reputation and acknowledgment of false gods.

13:3 According to the Law of Moses (Deut. 13:5; 18:20), a false prophet must be put to death. The startling thing here is that the false prophet’s parents must confront the offender and carry out the penalty.

13:4 False prophets will deny that they are prophets for fear of punishment and will refuse to wear a robe of coarse hair, the traditional prophet’s clothing (2 kin. 1:8; Matt. 3:4).

13:5 instead of laying claim to prophetic office, they will say they have been farmers from their youth. This seems to be a parody of Amos 7:14.

13:6 it is likely that the wounds betrayed the profession of an ecstatic prophet who slashed himself on the back or breast. The words between your arms refer to the body, either the back or the chest. Self-inflicted wounds were thought to gain the attention and blessing of the gods (see 1 kin. 18:28). Under questioning, the man declares that the wounds were received from friends so that he will not be found out as a false prophet and be put to death (v. 3).

13:7 The sword, an instrument of death, is likened to a warrior being roused for action. The Lord commands the sword to strike the Messiah, My Shepherd. This clearly indicates that the death of Jesus was no accident, but was divinely determined. My Companion: This term is used elsewhere of one who is a near neighbor or close companion (I ev. 6:2; 18:20; 19:15). It suggests a relationship of equality. The little ones may be first-century disciples, unbelieving Jews of all ages, or a faithful remnant of the future. Since Jewish people have suffered throughout history (the crusades, the Spanish inquisition, the Nazi holocaust), this passage may be taken as a general prophecy of persecution and suffering for the shepherdless people of Israel.

13:8 Zechariah revealed the devastating result of God’s dealing with his errant flock. The scattered flock will face a great judgment in which only one-third will survive.

13:9 The remnant that survives will be purged, purified, and re-established in a covenant relationship with God. refined: The smelting pot uses intense heat to separate the dross from pure metal. tested: once refined, precious metal must be analyzed to determine its value. The expressions this is My people and the LORD is my God recall the covenant (I ev. 26:12) and speak here of a covenant renewal to a spiritually revitalized Israel (ezek. 36:28; hos. 2:23; r om. 11:26, 27).

14:1 Some have suggested that this spoils refers to what is seized from Israel’s enemies, apparently anticipating the victory mentioned

- 2 For <sup>b</sup>I will gather all the nations to battle against Jerusalem;
The city shall be taken,
The houses <sup>2</sup>rifled,
And the women ravished.
Half of the city shall go into captivity,
But the remnant of the people shall not be cut off from the city.
- 3 Then the LORD will go forth
And fight against those nations,
As He fights in the day of battle.

Which faces Jerusalem on the east.

- 11 The people shall dwell in it;
And <sup>o</sup>no longer shall there be utter destruction,
<sup>p</sup>But Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited.
- <sup>12</sup>And this shall be the plague with which the LORD will strike all the people who fought against Jerusalem:

in v. 14. The immediate context, however, indicates that the spoil was taken from Jerusalem by her enemies (v. 2).

14:2 The remnant of the people who survive the attack are evidently the one-third that will be brought through the refiner’s fire (13:8, 9).

14:3 The LORD will turn Jerusalem’s defeat into a victory. God the Warrior (ex. 15:3) will intervene on Israel’s behalf against the attacking nations.

14:4 Zechariah provides further details about how Jerusalem’s deliverance will come about. The Mount of Olives, located east of Jerusalem and the Kidron Valley, is a north-south hill about 2,700 feet in elevation. The Messiah will return to the Mount of Olives, the very mountain from which he will have ascended after his time on earth (Acts 1:10, 11). On the day of Messiah’s return, the mount will be split by a deep east-west valley.

14:5 The splitting of the Mount of Olives will provide a way of escape for the besieged and defeated people in Jerusalem. The site of Azal has not been identified but must be somewhere in the desert east of Jerusalem. The flight of the surviving remnant from Jerusalem is likened to what took place following the earthquake in the days of Uzziah. The saints are literally the “holy ones,” angels who will accompany Jesus at his return (Mark 8:38; 2 Thess. 1:7).

14:6, 7 Cosmic upheaval is associated with the Second coming. The glory of the Messiah’s kingdom is preceded by dark days of judgment. there will be no light: The imagery of darkness as a portent of judgment is common in the prophets (is. 5:30; 8:22; 13:9, 10; ezek. 32:7, 8; Amos 5:18, 20; zeph. 1:14, 15).

14:8 The term living waters describes running water from a spring or river, in contrast to the stale and stagnant water of a cistern (Jer. 2:13). The water will flow from Jerusalem toward the eastern sea (the Dead Sea) and the western sea (the Mediterranean), in contrast with the seasonal streams that flow only during the rainy season, these streams will irrigate the land both summer and winter.

14:9 Zechariah anticipates the glorious day when the LORD will reestablish his reign on this earth, where it was first challenged by Satan (see r ev. 20:1-3; also ps. 93:1; 97:1; 99:1). This will be the answer to the prayers of all those who pray Jesus’ words, “Your kingdom come” (Matt. 6:10). The words the LORD is one speak of his unity and his uniqueness (see Deut. 6:4).

14:10 Geba was 6 miles northeast of Jerusalem. Rimmon was about 35 miles southwest of Jerusalem. Benjamin’s Gate was most likely the gate in the north wall of the city. The First Gate has not yet been identified. The Corner Gate probably marked the northwest limit of Jerusalem. The Tower of Hananel was probably a defensive fortification on the north wall.

14:11 people shall dwell in it: This is a contrast to the time of Nehemiah when the population of Jerusalem was sparse (Neh. 7:4; 11:1). In the Lord’s coming kingdom, the city will be inhabited and its citizens secure.

14:12 plague: This word was used to describe the judgments of God upon the Egyptians (ex. 7:17-12:30).

Their flesh shall <sup>8</sup>dissolve while they stand on their feet,
Their eyes shall dissolve in their sockets,
And their tongues shall dissolve in their mouths.

- <sup>13</sup> It shall come to pass in that day
That <sup>9</sup>a great panic from the LORD will be among them.
Everyone will seize the hand of his neighbor,
And raise <sup>r</sup>his hand against his neighbor's hand;
- <sup>14</sup> Judah also will fight at Jerusalem.
<sup>s</sup>And the wealth of all the surrounding nations
Shall be gathered together:
Gold, silver, and apparel in great abundance.
- <sup>15</sup> <sup>t</sup>Such also shall be the plague
On the horse and the mule,
On the camel and the donkey,
And on all the cattle that will be in those camps.
So shall this plague be.

The Nations Worship the King

14:14 As the attackers are destroyed, the people of Judah will join the citizens of Jerusalem in recovering the spoil taken by the enemy (v. 1) and capturing additional booty (see hag. 2:7, 8).

14:16 repentant and believing people among those nations that had attacked Jerusalem (vv. 1, 2) will worship the King (Jesus the Messiah) and celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles, a fall harvest festival that commemorated the wilderness experience of Israel (1 ev. 23:33-43). This feast of thanksgiving is the only one of the many feasts that will still be appropriate in the new kingdom—the others will have been fulfilled, but thanksgiving will be a continual theme in Messiah's kingdom.

14:17-19 The nations that are unwilling to come to Jerusalem to worship king Messiah and celebrate the feast will be subject to divine judgment. Egypt is used as an example, since it was a traditional enemy of Israel.

14:20, 21 in Messiah's kingdom, the people of Judah and Jerusalem will fulfill their destiny as a holy, priestly nation (ex. 19:6). The words HOLINESS TO THE LORD will be inscribed on the gold headband worn by the high priest (ex. 28:36). holiness will so permeate Messiah's kingdom that even the lowly cooking pots will be holy. The name Canaanite here refers to the merchants who frequented Jerusalem and the temple courts with their wares (see Neh. 13:19-22; Matt. 21:12; John 2:14). None will profiteer in the worship of God in the coming age. God's search for true worshipers will be realized in a company of devoted, holy people.

THE BOOK OF

MALACHI

THIS FINAL BOOK of the Old Testament is about the error of forgetting the love of God. When people forget God's love, it affects their attitudes, home, and worship. With God's love and loyalty in doubt, sacred commitments no longer remain sacred. God sent Malachi to rouse the people from their spiritual stupor and to exhort them to return to the living God. But the Book of Malachi reveals a people who question the reality of their sin and the faithfulness of God, a people hardened through and through. Thus the book ends on a poignant note, a confrontation between a disappointed God and a disappointed people. In a sense, the Book of Malachi shows that the Old Testament comes to a chasm, with the bickering voices of the people on one side and the stern warnings of God on the other. Only the Lord Himself could provide a way out of this impasse. Malachi looks forward to this deliverance, for he speaks of the one who would prepare the way for the Messiah. The promised Messiah was the only One who could bridge that widening chasm between the people and their God.

Author Nothing is known of the prophet Malachi apart from this book. We are not even sure that Malachi was the name of the prophet. The word means "My Messenger," and it is possible that the first verse should be translated, "The burden of the word of the LORD to Israel by My Messenger." In any case, Malachi's name identifying him as a messenger of God highlights one of the major themes of the book. Malachi prophesies that God would send a "messenger," a prophecy of John the Baptist, and "the Messenger of the covenant," a prophecy of Jesus (3:1).

In 2:7 the role of a priest is described as "messenger of the LORD of hosts." Based on that description, a priest-prophet in the temple might have used the designation "My Messenger" for himself. Because of the writer's apparent concern with the priesthood, it may be argued that the author of the book was a priest to whom God also gave a prophetic message.

Date Wide agreement exists that the Book of Malachi was written during the last half of the fifth century B.C. Some even pinpoint the date between 420 and 415 B.C. This would place the Book of Malachi about one hundred years after the ministries of Haggai and Zechariah. There are numerous ties in the book to the concerns of Nehemiah, who was governor in Judah around 440 B.C. These include marriages with foreign women (Neh. 13:23–27), not paying tithes (Neh. 13:10–14), neglecting the Sabbath (Neh. 13:15–22), a corrupt priesthood (Neh. 13:7–9), and injustice (Neh. 5:1–13).

Historical Setting After the great turmoil of the wars of the Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Medes and Persians, a period of comparative peace came to Israel's part of the ancient world. The books of the preexilic prophets were formed in the flaming crucible of international wars and catastrophes. But under Persian rule the people were allowed to return to the land in peace. The constant threat of international conflict did not loom over their heads. The Persians collected taxes, but otherwise they were content to leave the Jews alone. Yet economic shortages were still common during this period.

Themes The history of the Jewish people is a story of a recurring pattern of captivity, exodus, and restoration into which Malachi also falls. There are two captivities in the Old Testament story, and two accounts of an exodus of the Jewish people from captivity. The first captivity and the great exodus is Israel's experience with Egypt at the beginning of Israel's history; the second is Israel's experience with Babylon.

In the account of the first exodus, Moses and Aaron occupy themselves to a significant degree with the issue of the proper worship of the living God, which was centered in the tabernacle. A significant portion of the Book of Exodus, the whole of Leviticus, and parts of Numbers and Deuteronomy provide guidance for worship at the tabernacle. The point of the exodus was the creation of the people of God as a worshipping community (see Ex. 5:1).

Similarly, two of the books of the second exodus, the return of God's people from Babylon, concern themselves with the proper worship of God. These two books, Haggai and Malachi, focus on worship centered on the rebuilt temple. Haggai exhorted the people to rebuild the temple in Jerusalem in 520 B.C. Thus this book parallels the Book of Exodus in which God gave instructions for the construction of the tabernacle. Similarly, Malachi parallels the Book of Leviticus in that both are concerned with how the people and the priests should act in the temple. Yet there are significant differences. Leviticus emphasizes what the people should do, what offerings they should bring, and what calendar they should keep in their worship of God. Malachi's emphasis is on the attitude of those who bring their worship to God. In Leviticus one reads about how to worship God; in Malachi the focus is on the heart of those who worship.

The priests of Malachi's time were indifferent to the rules of worship (1:6–14), and the people themselves had become apathetic about their offerings to God (3:6–12). Where did this neglectful attitude come from? In a critical introductory verse, God said to the people, "I have loved you." The response of the people was, "in what way have You loved us?" (1:2). The people's suspicion about the motives of God toward them resulted in their halfhearted response to him. Their apathy toward God was also reflected in their relations with other people—especially their spouses. It had become common at this time for men to divorce their wives. Such men ignored the fact that the Lord was a witness to their marriages, and as a result God ignored their offerings. The prophecy of Malachi is God's response to this "loveless" condition.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Malachi's name means "My Messenger." His life's calling from God was to clarify the message the priests had bumbled. But he also predicts the coming of another messenger whose ministry will precede the Messiah and clear the way for his coming: "Behold, I send My messenger, and he will prepare the way before Me" (3:1). In his mind, this messenger would be someone like Elijah—one who would call parents to repent and turn the hearts of the children to their fathers (4:5, 6). From our perspective we know that he was referring to Jesus' cousin John (who resembled Elijah).

Still, Malachi is not only referring to the first appearance of Jesus. He also gives us a glimpse of Jesus' encore performance as the returning and reigning king. "But who can endure the day of his coming? And who can stand when he appears? For he is like a refiner's fire and like launderers' soap" (3:2). We see specific references to Jesus as the Sun of righteousness rising "with healing in his wings" (4:2).

Malachi’s ministry

In Malachi 3, God challenges the people, promising them that if they bring the whole tithe into the storehouse, He will prevent their vines from dropping their fruit.

The <sup>1</sup>burden of the word of the LORD to Israel <sup>2</sup>by Malachi.

Israel Beloved of God

- <sup>2</sup> “I<sup>a</sup> have loved you,” says the LORD.
 “Yet you say, ‘In what way have You loved us?’
 Was not Esau Jacob’s brother?”
 Says the LORD.
 “Yet <sup>b</sup>Jacob I have loved;
<sup>3</sup> But Esau I have hated,
 And <sup>c</sup>laid waste his mountains and his heritage
 For the jackals of the wilderness.”
<sup>4</sup> Even though Edom has said,
 “We have been impoverished,
 But we will return and build the desolate places,”

Thus says the LORD of hosts:

- “They may build, but I will <sup>d</sup>throw down;
 They shall be called the Territory of Wickedness,
 And the people against whom the LORD will have indignation
 forever.
<sup>5</sup> Your eyes shall see,
 And you shall say,
<sup>e</sup>“The LORD is magnified beyond the border of Israel.”

Polluted Offerings

- <sup>6</sup> “A son <sup>f</sup>honors his father,
 And a servant <sup>g</sup>his master.
<sup>h</sup>If then I am the Father,
 Where is My honor?”

1:1 As in the case of Nahum (see Nah. 1:1), the prophetic message of Malachi was like a burden from which he needed deliverance (see also is. 13:1; Jer. 23:33–38; hab. 1:1). to Israel: in the postexilic period, the use of the word israel for the people of Judah expresses the hope that the LORD was in the process of reasserting the fullness of his original promises to his people. The name Malachi means “My Messenger.”

1:2 I have loved you: God is like a loving parent who speaks with fatherly affection. However, his chosen people were like rebellious children who challenged his words of love for them.

1:3 But Esau I have hated: The contrast between the words love and hate here and in v. 2 seems much too strong. But on many occasions in the OT, the verb hate has the basic meaning “not to choose.” God’s love for Jacob was expressed in his electing grace in extending his covenant to Jacob and to his descendants (see Gen. 25:21–26; is. 44:1–5). In his sovereign purpose, God set his love on the one and not the other. The term hate may carry the idea of indifference as well.

1:4, 5 Edom has said . . . we will return: Edom was a nation descended from Esau, and they shared Esau’s unbelief and self-confidence. Destruction made Israel reexamine her relationship to God. But destruction for Edom resulted only in continued pride and self-effort. LORD of hosts: This expression describes God as the supreme commander of the universe. The hosts are his heavenly armies.

1:6 A son honors his father: here the LORD uses truisms: A father and a master can expect honor from those beneath them, but God was not receiving the honor due him. I am the Father: The image of God as Father is common in the NT but less frequent in the OT (see is. 63:16; 64:8). who despise My name: in ancient Israel, a name was a symbol of a person’s character, works, and reputation. Therefore, this charge was most serious. But the people dare to ask: In what way have we despised Your name?

1:7 God’s answer to the question posed in v. 6 was in terms of defiled food. The word defiled describes bread that was not prepared properly. The bread (see ex. 25:23–30) and the table on which it was displayed were holy symbols, but the priests were treating them like ordinary things.

1:8 the blind . . . lame and sick: The demands of holy worship of God had been made clear in the Law. Only the very best should be presented as an offering to the LORD (see l ev. 1:3); no one was to come with an offering that was blemished or unclean (see l ev. 7:19–21).

1:10 shut the doors: in a choice between service without gratitude and no service at all, God chose the second. pleasure: The word describes the desire of God to smile, even to laugh with joy at true worship from a godly people (see ps. 40:6–8; 147:10, 11).

1:11 great among the Gentiles: God would one day receive praise from all the nations. Even the despised Gentiles would offer praise, while God’s own people were profaning his holy name (see ps. 87; 117).

My name shall be great <sup>a</sup> among the Gentiles;

<sup>r</sup> In every place <sup>s</sup> incense shall be offered to My name,

And a pure offering;

<sup>t</sup> For My name shall be great among the nations,”

Says the LORD of hosts.

12<sup>u</sup> But you profane it,

In that you say,

<sup>v</sup> “The table of the <sup>5</sup> LORD is defiled;

And its fruit, its food, is contemptible.”

13 You also say,

“Oh, what a <sup>w</sup> weariness!”

And you sneer at it,”

Says the LORD of hosts.

“And you bring the stolen, the lame, and the sick;

Thus you bring an offering!

<sup>x</sup> “Should I accept this from your hand?”

Says the LORD.

<sup>2</sup> <sup>b</sup> If you will not hear,

And if you will not take it to heart,
 To give glory to My name,”

Says the LORD of hosts,

 Because you do not take it to heart.

 The refuse of your solemn feasts;

And one will <sup>e</sup> take you away <sup>f</sup> with it.

4 Then you shall know that I have sent this commandment to you,

That My covenant with Levi may continue,”

Says the LORD of hosts.

5 “My <sup>f</sup> covenant was with him, one of life and peace,

And I gave them to him <sup>g</sup> that he might fear Me;

1:12 you profane it: The people were treating God with contempt by their careless attitudes concerning their offerings.

1:13 The demands of God were neither understood nor appreciated; they seemed to be mere busywork. stolen . . . lame . . . sick: The gifts of the priests were not presentable; some were stolen goods, and others were animals that were useless. To sacrifice something of no value was not a sacrifice at all.

1:14 Can anyone really deceive the Lord? The deception is only in the eyes of the deceiver. I am a great King: The reputation of the Lord among his people was to have been the means whereby all the nations would be drawn to worship him as well.

2:1 The address to the priests shows that the section begun in 1:8 continues in this chapter.

2:2 If you will not . . . give glory: The behavior of the priests was defiling the name of God. I will send a curse: At the passage of the people into the promised land, the Levites spread before the people the blessings of obedience and the curses on disobedience (Deut. 27; 28). But the priests were not obeying the law that they were supposed to uphold. They would therefore receive the curses.

2:3 Refuse was the dung in the sacrificed animal that should have been removed when the animal was prepared for sacrifice to the Lord.

2:4 My covenant with Levi: The Levites had been given the privilege of serving the tabernacle (Deut. 33:8–11).

2:5 The covenant of God was with phinehas, a descendant of the tribe of Levi (Num. 25:1–14). life and peace: The basic meaning of

Blemished Sacrifices

Why should the condition of a sacrifice matter to God? He created all things, defective animals as well as the healthy ones. Why would he not accept gifts that were flawed? And why did God care about this enough to have his messenger Malachi speak so strongly?

The imperfect sacrifices of the priests and people demonstrated the content of their hearts. The people were not sincere. To sacrifice a perfect, healthy animal looked to them like a waste, and they considered the work of preparing their gifts properly to be a foolish use of time and energy. Malachi confronted this attitude with the law of God, which clearly demanded unblemished sacrifices and sincere hearts (see l ev. 1:3; 3:1; Deut. 17:1). Malachi also confronted the people with God’s judgment of their actions. God was perfectly aware of what they were doing and the condition of their hearts. No sacrifices at all would have been better than second-rate and insincere ones. The people were not giving “sacrifices”; they were merely doing what was convenient, just enough to appear to obey God. Then they would turn around and pat themselves on the back for being righteous.

But even though God’s people had broken their covenant with him, God remained true to his promises (see is. 53). He did not shrink from sending his only Son to a cruel death on the cross. Jesus was the true, unblemished sacrifice to which the old Testament sacrifices pointed (heb. 7:26–28). He was perfect—free from all sin. And through Jesus’ sacrificial death the Lord provided salvation for all of our sins. In doing this, the Lord demonstrated his sincere love for us because he sacrificed the very best to save us (see John 3:16).

- So he feared Me
And was reverent before My name.
- 6 <sup>h</sup>The<sup>2</sup> law of truth was in his mouth,
And <sup>3</sup>injustice was not found on his lips.
He walked with Me in peace and equity,
And <sup>i</sup>turned many away from iniquity.
- 7 “For<sup>j</sup> the lips of a priest should keep
knowledge,
And people should seek the law from his mouth;
<sup>k</sup>For he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.
- 8 But you have departed from the way;
You <sup>l</sup>have caused many to stumble at the law.
<sup>m</sup>You have corrupted the covenant of Levi,”
Says the LORD of hosts.
- 9 “Therefore <sup>n</sup>I also have made you contemptible and base
Before all the people,
Because you have not kept My ways
But have shown <sup>o</sup>partiality in the law.”

And your wife by covenant.
- 15 But <sup>v</sup>did He not make them one,
Having a remnant of the Spirit?
And why one?
He seeks <sup>w</sup>godly offspring.

the word peace is fullness, completeness, things as they really ought to be. that he might fear Me: The context here means holding God in reverential awe, responding properly to his wonder, and worshiping him in spirit and in truth (see 3:5, 16; 4:2).

2:6 the law of truth: The priests of the oT period had a twofold responsibility—they were to represent the people in holy worship before the living God, and they were to teach and apply God's law to the people. in peace and equity: This refers to complete moral virtue in all things before the Lord.

2:7 in the oT, a prophet was commonly called a “messenger of the Lord.” But this is apparently the only time in the oT that priests are specifically called the messengers of the Lord (see also 3:1).

2:8 departed . . . caused many to stumble: The judgment on the departed religious leader would be more strict because of the ripple effect of that one person's sin. the covenant of Levi: God made this covenant with the tribe of Levi and specifically with phinehas (see v. 4). oT passages also presuppose a covenant (Neh. 13:29; Jer. 33:20, 21).

2:9 The priests had the truth but had not kept it or practiced it. When they acted as judges, they showed partiality, making their sin even worse (see Deut. 17:9–11; 19:17).

2:10 one God created us: The use of the term create calls to mind the great creation text in Gen. 1:26–28. deal treacherously: Because God is the creator of all humanity (Gen. 1:27), he requires that humans deal equitably with one another.

2:11 The term abomination is a strong word indicating a stomach revulsion; the people had done something so awful as to make one ill. institution which He loves: The term institution is supplied by the translation; a more literal translation might be, “God's holy thing, that he loves.” The text presents the ideas of affection and revulsion which we usually think of in the verbs to love and to hate. Marriage is something God loves; divorce is something he hates (v. 16). The Lord's people had polluted something in which God takes great pleasure. daughter of a foreign god: The question of intermarriage in ancient Israel was not racial nor ethnic but spiritual: lack of faithfulness to God himself.

2:12 cut off: The phrase may refer to banishment or even death. being awake and aware: The phrase is difficult but may refer to a deliberate offense against the Lord (see 1 ev. 10:1–3).

2:13 the second thing: The prophets at times spoke of the compounding sins of the people (see Jer. 2:13). Tears here seem to be judged as hypocritical acts of insincere repentance (see is. 1:10–15).

He does not regard the offering: When right things are done for the wrong reasons or with the wrong attitudes, God does not accept them (see ps. 40:6–8). goodwill: The Hebrew suggests God's pleasure and enjoyment. God's pleasure is in sacrifices offered with attitudes of humility, faithfulness, and joy.

2:14 For what reason: The feigned surprise of the people fooled no one, certainly not the Lord. witness: There are some whose witness may be challenged, but the Lord is not among them (see also 3:5). wife of your youth: These men had not only married pagan wives, but they had divorced their first wives to make room for their new ones. Companion describes a permanent partnership.

by covenant: The union of a marriage is formal, public, legal, and sacred, a binding contract.

2:15 make them one: here the prophet recalls the words from Gen. 2:24, “one flesh.” a remnant of the Spirit: This somewhat difficult phrase most likely indicates the work of God's holy Spirit in the life of the married couple. God has joined them, and by his Spirit he has worked on their behalf to strengthen them. godly offspring: God

Therefore take heed to your spirit,

The Coming Messenger

3 “Behold, <sup>a</sup>I send My messenger,
And he will <sup>b</sup>prepare the way
before Me.

And the Lord, whom you seek,
Will suddenly come to His temple,
<sup>c</sup>Even the Messenger of the covenant,

Says the LORD of hosts.

2 “But who can endure <sup>e</sup>the day of His coming?
And <sup>f</sup>who can stand when He appears?
For <sup>g</sup>He is like a refiner's fire
And like launderers' soap.

seeks godly children even as he seeks for true worshipers (see John 4:23, 24). take heed to your spirit: We must control our attitudes so that they will be in line with those of God's Spirit.

2:16 treacherously: To the Lord, attitudes of indifference to marriage vows and duties are the actions of a traitor.

2:17 God is wearied by people who do not submit to him but who argue their points against his revelation. When justice comes, they will be sorry they asked (see 3:5).

3:1 prepare the way: This verse resembles the prophecy of Mic. 5:2 concerning the birthplace of the Messiah. Matthew and Mark identify the messenger of this verse as John the Baptist (see 4:5; Matt. 11:10; Mark 1:2, 3). The Lord refers here to Jesus Christ (as is the case in ps. 110:1). There are three persons in view in this verse: The Father (the Lord) speaks of sending a messenger (John the Baptist) who will prepare the way for the coming of the Lord (Jesus). judicially . . . His temple: Both the righteous and the wicked will be surprised when the Messiah arrives. Messenger of the covenant: This is a messianic title, referring to the one who will initiate the New covenant (see Jer. 31:33, 34; Matt. 26:28; Heb. 12:24). He is coming: As in ps. 96:13, this dramatic wording indicates something that was just about to occur. However, it would be four hundred years before these words would be fulfilled.

3:2 in this verse Malachi turns to the second coming of the Messiah. This second advent will be one of judgment and purification (Joel 2:11; Amos 5:18; Luke 21:36; r ev. 19:11-21). refiner's fire . . . launderers' soap: These two images are vivid illustrations of the purifying process. The Savior King himself will sift all people to prepare for his reign.

Malachi: A Portrait of Spiritual Indifference

When the prophet Malachi began preaching to the Israelites, he found that the people had cold hearts. They were indifferent and apathetic. When he confronted them with their sin, they asked a series of questions that reveal volumes about their spiritual condition.

Question	Significance	Application
“In what way have You loved us?” (1:2)	This question reveals an alarming lack of trust in God. The Israelites were implying that God had been unfaithful to His covenant. “If You really love us, why are we still under foreign oppressors, waiting for the promised kingdom?”	Do we demand proof of God's love for us?
“In what way have we despised Your name?” (1:6); “In what way have we defiled You?” (1:7)	This question shows the halfheartedness and the rationalizations of the nation's religious leaders. They were saying, in effect: “We've been making the required sacrifices. What more do you want?” But as Malachi pointed out, the sacrifices offered to God were unfit animals (1:8-10).	Do we offer God our best in worship, or do we just go through the motions?
“In what way shall we return?” (3:7)	This question reveals an appalling blindness to sin and an arrogant attempt to floss over wrongdoing. “We don't know what You want us to do, because we don't see what we have done wrong.”	When faced with our sin, do we make excuses?
“In what way have we robbed You?” (3:8)	This question underscores the people's greed. They did not view their possessions as God's possessions to be used for His glory.	Do we gladly give to God?
“What have we spoken against You?” (3:13)	This question displays the Israelites' callousness. They had said it was “useless to serve God” (3:14). But they continued to think that their external observance of religious ceremonies would satisfy God's demands on their lives.	Do we wholeheartedly serve God?

3:3 purify the sons of Levi: Since the priests had come under such strong censure in this book (1:6–2:9), and since the prophet himself was likely a priest, these words would have had a special significance for him.

3:4 The hebrew word translated pleasant refers to things that are sweet and pleasing. God derives joy from the end result of his work.

3:5 judgment: The same word may be translated justice (see 2:17). The people had wondered where the God of justice was; now they will know. Sorcerers were people who made potions. fear Me: holding God in reverence and awe also means obeying him (see 2:5; 3:16; 4:2).

3:6 I do not change: We might expect these opening words to ensure the nation’s doom; instead, they give assurance of God’s continuing mercy.

3:7 The history of israel is not a record of ever-increasing obedience. instead, it is a long, sad story of recurring departure from God. Return: This is the key term in the hebrew prophets for repentance, renewal, and restoration (see is. 55:11; Jer. 4:1; zech. 1:3).

3:8 The tithes were the gifts to the Lord that the law required. There were three: two that were annual and one that came every three years. The tithe supported the priests and Levites, and also widows, orphans, and foreigners (Deut. 14:28, 29).

3:9–11 The people were cursed with poor production from their land and animals. A key verse from the law of Moses reads that the curse will come “because you did not serve the LORD your God with joy and gladness of heart, for the abundance of everything” (Deut. 28:47). The forces that caused loss of production are pictured collectively as the devourer.

3:12 One of the ways in which all nations would be drawn to the worship of the Lord was by seeing how the people of israel fared with the Lord as their God. a delightful land: The adjective indicates enjoyment, life that is genuinely pleasurable (see 1:10; see also the related verb in 3:1). Faithfulness to God would lead to fruitfulness in the land.

try

(heb. bachan) (3:10; Gen. 42:15, 16; ps. 26:2; Jer. 9:7) Strong’s #974

This hebrew verb means “to try,” or “to put to the test” (Job 23:10; ps. 139:23; zech. 13:9). The word can mean “to test” in the sense of separating or discriminating one thing from another (Job 34:3). When this word is used to depict God’s “testing” of people, it means the proving of individuals in such a way that their faith becomes more established (see ps. 66:10–12; Jer. 17:10; 20:12). Malachi’s challenge to the israelites to try God is a rare instance in which people are encouraged to test the faithfulness of the Lord (3:10). This word for try can be contrasted with another hebrew verb for testing, nasah. That latter word is frequently used in a negative sense, to describe the way israel was testing God with their unbelief (ex. 17:7; ps. 78:18; 95:9). The law of Moses warned the israelites not to tempt God (Deut. 6:16; ps. 95:9); it was a mark of spiritual adultery (Matt. 12:38, 39). According to James, God tests people in order to grant them the crown of life—but he tempts no one (James 1:12–14).

The People Complain Harshly

13<sup>a</sup> “Your<sup>z</sup> words have been<sup>3</sup> harsh against Me,”
Says the LORD,
“Yet you say,
‘What have we spoken against You?’”
14<sup>a</sup> You have said,
‘It is useless to serve God;
What profit is it that we have kept
His ordinance,
And that we have walked as mourners
Before the LORD of hosts?’
15 So now<sup>b</sup> we call the proud blessed,
For those who do wickedness are<sup>4</sup>
raised up;
They even<sup>c</sup> tempt God and go free.’”

A Book of Remembrance

So<sup>f</sup> a book of remembrance was

The Great Day of God

4 “For behold,<sup>a</sup> the day is coming,
Burning like an oven,
And all<sup>b</sup> the proud, yes, all who do wickedly will be<sup>c</sup> stubble.
And the day which is coming shall

Says the LORD of hosts,
“That will<sup>d</sup> leave them neither root

Says the LORD of hosts.
4 “Remember the<sup>h</sup> Law of Moses, My

3:13 in this verse God addresses not just their words but the thoughts that prompted them.

3:14 What profit: The people secretly entertained doubts about the value of following the Lord. In fact, they had not really kept His ordinance anyway. The proper attitude is encouraged in 4:4.

3:15 the proud: This word refers to godless, rebellious people (see 4:1; compare ps. 119:21; prov. 21:24; Jer. 43:2).

3:16 There were other voices, those of people who did place themselves under the Law, those who feared the LORD. God did not ignore those who were faithful to him. a book of remembrance: God never forgets his promises. God teaches us to remember and value the good that people do (phil. 4:8); he does the same as he commands us. Those who meditate fear the Lord, think highly of him, and ponder his significance as it relates to their lives.

3:17 The excitement of these words is that we can sense the pride God has in his children. The Hebrew word translated jewels could be rendered “special treasure.” It is a wonderfully endearing term that is used in the OT only of the people of Israel as they are valued by the living God (see ex. 19:5; Deut. 7:6; ps. 135:4).

3:18 one who serves God: Serving God means putting him first, obeying his commands, and finding one’s chief joy in life as the advancement of the glory of his name.

4:1 Scripture consistently describes a coming day when God will arrive as a Judge and will deal with the wicked (see v. 5; compare is. 13:6–10; Joel 1:15; 2:1–11; zeph. 1:2–2:3; zech. 14). the proud: What some people thought about the “blessedness of the proud” is exposed as a grave error (3:15).

4:2 you who fear My name: This is the righteous remnant who held God in wonder and awe, responded to him in obedience, and lived for him with constant faith. With healing in His wings: The prophet compares the Savior to a bird whose comforting wings bring healing to the chicks that gather underneath (see ps. 91:1–4).

4:3 trample the wicked: The victory of the righteous over the wicked is a promise of the living God that transcends the two testaments (see ps. 110:4–6; compare r ev. 19:11–21). On the day that I do this: The identity of the Victor is already known.

4:4 Remember: This word means more than simply “to recall.” The command is to act on the teaching that had come from the living God. the Law of Moses: The Law had its origin in the Lord, and Moses was the divinely appointed transmitter of God’s will and word to the people (see John 1:17).

day

(heb. yom) (4:5; Gen. 7:11; prov. 25:13; Amos 5:8, 18) Strong’s #3117

The Hebrew noun yom has a variety of uses in the OT. It can refer to the daylight hours in contrast to the night (Amos 5:8), or to a 24-hour day, such as a certain day of the month (Gen. 7:11). It may also refer to a time period, such as the “time” of harvest (prov. 25:13), or even to a year (2 Sam. 13:23). The word is used in the significant phrase “the day of the Lord” (see is. 2:12; ezek. 13:5; Joel 1:15; zeph. 1:14). For the prophets, the day of the Lord was the future day when God would decisively triumph over all his foes. That day will be a day of great rejoicing and blessing for God’s faithful servants (is. 2), whereas for God’s enemies it will be a day of “darkness” (Amos 5:18).

With <sup>i</sup>the statutes and judgments.
 5 Behold, I will send you <sup>j</sup>Elijah the prophet <sup>k</sup>Before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD.
 6 And he will turn

4 <sup>i</sup>Deut. 4:10
 5 <sup>j</sup>[Matt. 11:14;
 17:10-13 ☆; Mark
 9:11-13; Luke 1:17];
 John 1:21 <sup>k</sup>Joel 2:31
 6 <sup>l</sup>zech. 14:12
<sup>m</sup>zech. 5:3

The hearts of the fathers to the children,
 And the hearts of the children to their fathers,
 Lest I come and <sup>l</sup>strike the earth with <sup>m</sup>a curse.”

4:5 Elijah the prophet: The story of the prophet elijah is found in 1 kin. 17–2 kin. 2. The NT identifies John the Baptist as this elijah (see Matt. 11:14; 17:10; Mark 9:11–13; Luke 1:17). There are three ways in which this prophecy might be fulfilled: (1) John the Baptist, whom Malachi had already prophesied (see 3:1), was the first to fulfill the promise of the elijah figure. John, like elijah, was a minister of the Lord calling people to repent and prepare for the coming of the Messiah (see Matt. 11:14). (2) elijah appeared in person along with Moses at the Transfiguration, a stunning vindication of the messianic role of Jesus (see Matt. 16:28—17:8). (3) An elijah-like figure will appear at the end times; he will call fire down from heaven just as elijah did (see 1 kin. 18:36–40; Rev. 11:1–7).

4:6 Malachi ends with both a promise and a warning. fathers to the children . . . children to their fathers: As in every act of God announcing judgment, there is also an offer of his mercy (see Jon. 4:2). a curse: The term is one of the harshest in Scripture. The Hebrew word suggests complete annihilation. This is the term translated doomed in the account of the destruction of Jericho (see Josh. 6:17).

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MATTHEW

SUCCESSION TO A THRONE is often a time of conflict and uncertainty. David's son Absalom tried to usurp the throne (2 Sam. 15:1—18:18). Solomon's choice of successor lost more than half the kingdom to a traitor (1 Kin. 12:20). Menahem assassinated his predecessor in Israel (2 Kin. 15:14). Royalty is a dangerous business.

This is no less true when the heir is the King of kings. If ever there was a high-stakes succession, this was it. A Man claims to be Israel's own Messiah; of course all Israel sits up and takes notice. Of course He must prove His credentials: Who wants an impostor? The Book of Matthew presents Jesus' credentials. It presents Jesus as the King, but King of a totally different kingdom—the kingdom of heaven.

Author and Date This Gospel does not name its author, but it does contain clues. The author knew the geography of Palestine well (2:1; 8:5; 20:29; 26:6). He was familiar with Jewish history, customs, ideas, and classes of people (1:18, 19; 2:1; 14:1; 26:3; 27:2). He was well acquainted with the Old Testament (1:2–16, 22, 23; 2:6; 4:14–16; 12:17–21; 13:35; 21:4; 27:9). And the terminology of the book suggests that the author was a Palestinian Jew (2:20; 4:5; 5:35; 10:6; 15:24; 17:24–27; 18:17; 27:53).

Other details point specifically to Jesus' disciple Matthew as the writer of this Gospel. As a tax collector, Matthew would have been literate and familiar with keeping records of money. Appropriately, this Gospel contains more references to money than any of the others. Furthermore, Matthew's hometown was Capernaum, a village that is given special attention in this Gospel. When Capernaum is mentioned, some special description is usually attached to it (4:13; 11:23).

Matthew wrote the Gospel before the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. He describes Jerusalem in the book as the "holy city" and as though it was still standing (4:5; 27:53), and he speaks of the customs of the Jews as continuing until "this day" (27:8; 28:15). Furthermore, Jesus' prophecy (recorded in 24:2) of Jerusalem's destruction includes no indication that it had already occurred when Matthew wrote Jesus' words. In light of all of this, it is reasonable to conclude that the book was written sometime between A.D. 50 and 60.

Emphases The Gospel of Matthew has many Jewish overtones. For example, the term "kingdom of heaven" appears 33 times and the term "kingdom of God" four times. No other Gospel lays such stress on the kingdom; the restoration of the glories of David's kingdom was a burning hope for many Jews at the time. Matthew clearly identifies Jesus with that hope by using the Jewish royal title "Son of David" nine times in his Gospel. Furthermore he calls Jerusalem "the holy city" (4:5; 27:53) and the "city of the great King" (5:35), both uniquely Jewish ways of referring to it. First-century Jews emphasized righteousness, and Matthew uses the words "righteous" and "righteousness" more often than the Gospels of Mark, Luke, and John combined.

Matthew also discusses the law, ceremonial cleanness, the Sabbath, the temple, David, the Messiah, the fulfillment of Old Testament prophecies, and Moses—all from a Jewish point of view. He has 53 Old Testament citations and more than 70 allusions to the Hebrew Scriptures. Thirteen times, the book emphasizes that Jesus' actions were a direct fulfillment of Old Testament prophecies. The genealogy of chapter 1 is recognizably Jewish, tracing the lineage of Jesus back through David to Abraham, the father of the Jewish people. Furthermore, the Gospel mentions Jewish rulers (see 2:1, 22; 14:1) and customs such as ceremonial washing (see 15:2) without explanation, indicating that Matthew expected his predominantly Jewish audience to be familiar with such practices.

Purposes Matthew's Gospel serves several purposes beyond presenting a mere biography of Jesus. One purpose is to prove to Jewish readers that Jesus is their Messiah and promised King. The genealogy in chapter 1 points to Christ as the one who inherited God's promises to David of an eternal dynasty. Jesus' use of a familiar messianic psalm in Matthew 22:41–44 would have clearly implied to any Jew that he was the heir of the Davidic throne. Even though many Jews of Jesus' time were blind to Jesus' identity, Gentiles (such as the wise men) identified him as Israel's promised King when he was a baby. Finally, the charge that hung above Jesus' head on the cross clearly highlights his royalty: THIS IS JESUS, THE KING OF THE JEWS (27:37). But most important, the Book of Matthew proves Jesus' legitimate authority by highlighting his wise teaching and righteous life (7:28, 29).

Another purpose of the book is to outline the characteristics of the kingdom of God, both for Israel and the church. Orthodox Jews would typically scoff at any assertion that Jesus is their Messiah, let alone their King. They would retort, "If Jesus is King, where is the promised restoration of the kingdom of Israel?" Many Jews of Jesus' day rejected him as Messiah, even though both Jesus and John the Baptist continually preached that the kingdom was "at hand" (3:2; 4:17; 10:7). His rejection of Jesus by the Jews is a dominant theme of Matthew (11:12–24; 12:28–45; 21:33–22:14). Because of this rejection, God postponed the fulfillment of his promises to Israel and subsequently extended his blessings to both Jew and Gentile in the church.

Matthew is the only Gospel writer who speaks directly of the church (16:18; 18:17). He points to the Gentile composition of this church by including several stories of the Gentiles' faith in Jesus: the wise men, the centurion, and the Canaanite woman. He records Jesus' prediction that the gospel will be preached to all nations (24:14), and the commission to the disciples to "make disciples of all the nations" (28:19). Jesus' teaching pointed to the blessings of the kingdom being extended to Gentiles. But one day, Israel will be restored to its place of blessing (see rom. 11:25–27; 15:8, 9).

A final purpose of Matthew is to instruct the church. An obvious clue to this is in the Great Commission: "teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you" (28:20). The discipling process involves instruction in the words of Christ, and the Gospel of Matthew revolves around five of Jesus' discourses (5:1–7:28;

10:5—11:1; 13:3—53; 18:2—19:1; 24:4—26:1). instead of emphasizing a narrative of Jesus' life as Mark does, Matthew uses the narrative elements in his Gospel as a setting for Jesus' sermons.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Matthew, as a Jew, unashamedly shapes his account about Jesus' life so it is understood by a Jewish audience. His goal is to convince his peers that the King of kings has come. With this in mind, he uses terms and names that Jews will resonate with. By quoting more passages from the old testament than any other new testament writer, he attempts to validate that Jesus is indeed the promised Messiah. no less than 12 times Matthew presents Jesus as israel's Messianic King (1:23; 2:2, 6; 3:17; 4:15—17; 21:5, 9; 22:44, 45; 26:64; 27:11, 27—37).

Also unique to Matthew is the expression, "that it might be fulfilled" which was spoken by various prophets. By footnoting familiar passages the Jews accepted as God's inspired Word, Matthew builds his case for christ with the precision of a former tax collector. examine for yourself how he substantiates the prophecies that pointed to Jesus' miraculous and obscure birth, his birthplace, his exile to egypt and return to israel, and his rejection and suffering. no wonder Matthew begins his book with an impressive genealogy of Jesus' link to King David.

Birth of Christ

1:1 Genealogy means “origin.” Genealogies were very important to first-century Jews. a genealogy (1) proved that a person was indeed an israelite, (2) identified the tribe to which he or she belonged, and (3) qualified certain Jews for religious duties such as Levitical and priestly service (see ezra 2:61, 62). christ’s genealogy is crucial to historic christianity. Matthew traced the lineage of christ Jesus back to abraham, isaac, and Jacob to show that he was a Jew, but also back through David to inform the readers that Jesus is qualified to rule on the throne of David (see 2 Sam. 7:12), an event still in the future (19:28).

1:3-6 t he mention of women in a Jewish genealogy is unusual. But in addition to Mary, four women are listed in this catalog of names. t he extraordinary emphasis is underscored by the kind of women Matthew mentions: Tamar, who was involved in a scandal with Judah (Gen. 38); Rahab, the canaanite harlot of Jericho (Josh. 2); Ruth, who was not an israelite, but a Moabite (r uth 1:4); and Bathsheba, the wife of Uriah, a woman involved in a sin of horrendous proportions (2 Sam. 11:1—12:23), and who may have been a hitite. at the beginning of his Gospel, Matthew shows how God’s grace forgives the darkest of sins and reaches beyond the nation of israel to the world. he also points out that God can lift the lowest and place them in royal lineage.

1:16 Joseph the husband of Mary was a direct descendant of David. Matthew, however, was careful not to identify Jesus as the physical son of Joseph. t he Greek pronoun translated of whom is feminine and refers to Mary. Christ and the word messiah both mean “aointed one”; the first term is from Greek; the second is from hebrew. in the ot., anointing signified two things: God’s choice and his empowerment for a task. israelites were traditionally anointed to three different offices: prophet, priest, or king. although the Lord Jesus was God’s aointed for all three, Matthew places the most stress on Jesus’ royalty.

1:17 Abraham . . . Christ: t he genealogy is broken down into three groups of names with fourteen generations in each list. t he name

David in hebrew has a numerical value of 14. Because the heading of the list is “Son of David” (v. 1), Matthew may have been drawing attention to the Davidic emphasis in these names. in the first group, the Davidic throne is established; in the second group, the throne is cast down and deported to Babylon; in the third group, the throne is confirmed in the coming of the Messiah. Further, a basic covenant is set forth in each of these three periods: the abrahamic covenant in the first (vv. 2–5); the Davidic covenant in the second (vv. 6–11), and the new covenant in the third (vv. 12–16).

1:18 betrothed: universally, the basic element of marriage is a contract (see Mal. 2:14). in Jewish culture, this covenant was made about a year before the consummation of the marriage. it was during the one-year period of betrothal that Mary was found to be pregnant. t he fact that Mary was a virgin at this time is clearly implied by the phrase before they came together, and by the righteous character of Joseph and his desire to divorce Mary when her pregnancy became known (v. 19). t he virgin birth, which can be deduced from Matthew’s account, is stated clearly in Luke 1:34, 35.

1:19 in agreement with the popular Jewish understanding of Deut. 24:1 (5:27–32; 19:3–9; see also Jer. 3:1, 8), Joseph wanted to divorce Mary on the grounds of infidelity. a divorce would be necessary because they had already made a marriage covenant, even though they had not yet known each other physically. Joseph could have made the divorce a public matter, or he could have gone through a private ceremony before two witnesses. Being a gracious and just man, Joseph decided to keep it private.

1:20 conceived . . . of the Holy Spirit: Verses 1–17 establish Jesus as a legal son of Joseph; vv. 18–25 deny that Joseph was Jesus’ physical father. t he first was necessary to establish Jesus’ lineage to David and his royal right to be King. t he second was necessary to establish his qualifications to be the Savior of all people: Jesus was God’s Son and not merely Joseph’s. Matthew elaborated on Jesus’ kingship while Luke detailed his miraculous conception by the holy Spirit (Luke 1:26–56).

wife, <sup>a</sup> for that which is <sup>7</sup> conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit. <sup>21b</sup> And she will bring forth a Son, and you shall call His name <sup>8</sup> Jesus, <sup>c</sup> for He will save His people from their sins.”

<sup>22</sup> So all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying: <sup>23d</sup> “Behold, <sup>9</sup> the virgin shall be with child, and bear a Son, and they shall call His name Immanuel,” which is translated, “God with us.”

<sup>24</sup> Then Joseph, being aroused from sleep, did as the angel of the Lord commanded him and took to him his wife, <sup>25</sup> and <sup>1</sup> did not know her till she had brought forth <sup>e</sup> her <sup>2</sup> firstborn Son. And he called His name Jesus.

BIBLE TIMES & CULTURE NOTES

The Wise Men

The Greek word for wise men in this account (magoi) is rendered as “astrologers” where it occurs in the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the ot (Dan. 1:20; 2:2) and as “sorcerer” in its other occurrences in the nt (acts 13:6, 8). The Greek historian herodotus, writing in the fifth century B.C., identified the magi as a caste of Medes who had a priestly function in the Persian empire. In the Book of Daniel the “astrologers” (magoi) are grouped with magicians, sorcerers, and chaldeans as advisers to the court of Babylon with responsibility for interpreting dreams.

The role of the star in Matthew 2 suggests a connection with astrology. These astrologers, pursuing their observations of the stars in the heavens, encountered a sign of God, who broke through their misguided system to make the great event known.

chief priests and <sup>f</sup> scribes of the people together, <sup>g</sup> he inquired of them where the Christ was to be born.

<sup>5</sup> So they said to him, “In Bethlehem of Judea, for thus it is written by the prophet:

1:23 Behold . . . Immanuel: This is a quotation from is. 7:14. In this verse, the prophet isaiah consoles King haz of Judah, a coalition of two kings, King ezin of ram and King Pekah of israel, was opposing a haz. isaiah tells a haz not to fear, for the plans of his enemies would not succeed. As a sign to a haz, a son would be born of a woman, and before that boy reached the age where he could tell right from wrong, the two kings would no longer be a threat to a haz. Some interpretations view isaiah’s prophecy as directly prophetic of Jesus’ birth and nothing else. According to this view, only the miraculous birth of Jesus can be considered a sign. Since the hebrew noun translated virgin in is. 7:14 can also mean “young woman,” some have suggested that isaiah was prophesying about a son born during the lifetime of a haz—perhaps isaiah’s son Maher-Shalal-hash-Baz (is. 8:3). Others have interpreted isaiah’s prophecy as a prediction that a virgin, a contemporary of isaiah, would marry and have a child. The sign to a haz was the sudden dissolution of ezin and Pekah in the face of assyria. even though uncertainty surrounds how this prophecy was fulfilled during isaiah’s lifetime, Matthew makes it clear that isaiah’s words find their ultimate fulfillment in the virgin birth of Jesus, a sign to people of all ages that God was with them.

1:25 Joseph did not know Mary physically until she gave birth to Jesus. The clear implication of this verse is that Mary was a virgin only until the birth of Jesus. The brothers and sisters of Jesus were probably younger siblings born to Joseph and Mary after Jesus’ birth (13:55, 56). Joseph could not have had children by a previous marriage, as some suppose, for then Jesus would not have been heir to the Davidic throne as the oldest son of Joseph.

2:1 The events of ch. 2 probably took place some months after Jesus’ birth. Several reasons may be offered to support this conclusion: (1) Joseph and Mary were living in a house (v. 11); (2) Jesus is referred to as a child, not an infant (v. 11); (3) herod murdered all the male children two years old and under (v. 16); and (4) it would have been strange for Joseph and Mary to offer the sacrifice of the poor, a pair of turtledoves or pigeons (see Lev. 12:8; Luke 2:24), if the wise men had just given them gold, frankincense, and myrrh. Thus the wise men must have arrived after the ritual sacrifice described in Luke 2:22–24, 39. Herod the king is herod the Great, who reigned over Palestine from 37 B.C. until his death in 4 B.C. a crafty ruler and lavish builder, herod had a reign marked by cruelty and bloodshed. The word translated wise men can refer either to fraudulent sorcerers (see a cts 8:9, 11; 13:6, 8) or, as here, to a more honorable class of astrologers.

2:2 born King of the Jews: These words would have struck both terror and fury into the heart of herod. His star in the East may refer to a star supernaturally introduced into the heavens, discernible only to students of the sky. The star reappeared to guide the wise men to where christ was (v. 9). The fact that it was called “his star” indicates that the wise men identified the star with the arrival of the King of the Jews.

2:4 chief priests: This is first mention of the Jewish council—“all the chief priests and scribes of the people”—reveals that the Jewish leaders were alerted early to the coming of the Messiah. Their quick recital of Mic. 5:2 showed their prophetic astuteness concerning the messianic prophecies (v. 6).

2:5 Matthew clearly records how the Jewish religious authorities, who became christ’s enemies later, unintentionally affirmed that

Jesus

(Gk. Iêsous) (1:21; Luke 1:31; a cts 2:36; 4:18; 13:23; 17:3) Strong’s #2424

The Greek name Iêsous is the equivalent of the hebrew name Yeshua, meaning “The Lord Shall Save.” Although a common name among the Jews (see Luke 3:29; col. 4:11), the name expresses Jesus’ work on earth—to save and to deliver. This is affirmed by the explanation the angel gives Joseph after telling him to name the virgin-born child Jesus: “for he will save his people from their sins” (1:21). After Jesus was crucified for the sins of his people and raised from the dead, the early apostles proclaimed Jesus as the one and only Savior (a cts 5:31; 13:23).

The Prophecies of Jesus' Birth

Jesus fulfilled hundreds of Old Testament prophecies. Many of these prophecies involved the circumstances surrounding His birth. Below is a list of several such prophecies. Note the irrefutable similarities between the Old Testament predictions and their New Testament fulfillment.

Jesus had fulfilled a messianic prophecy in his birth. God sometimes uses the words of his opponents to speak the truth (see John 11:49–52).

2:10 t he wise men undoubtedly would have been discouraged by their failure to find the King in Jerusalem, by the lack of knowledge concerning the birth of the Messiah among the leaders, by the disinterest among israel, and by the weariness from the long journey. t he reappearance of the star must have brought great joy and encouragement to them.

2:12 warned in a dream: Five dreams of divine guidance emphasize God's orchestration of these perilous events (1:20; 2:12, 13, 19, 22).

2:15 fulfilled: t his is the second fulfillment of prophecy recorded in ch. 2. t he first, in v. 6, is a direct fulfillment of Micah's prophecy about the birthplace of Jesus; this is a typological fulfillment. t he prophecy quoted here, from hos. 11:1, refers to the nation of israel as God's son coming out of egypt in the exodus. Jesus is the genuine Son of God, and, as israel's Messiah, is the true israel (see John 15:1); therefore, h e gives fuller meaning to the prophecy of h os. 11:1.

angry; and he sent forth and put to death all the male children who were in Bethlehem and in all its districts, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had determined from the wise men. <sup>17</sup>Then was fulfilled what was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet, saying:

Lamentation, weeping, and great mourning,
Rachel weeping for her children,
Refusing to be comforted,

<sup>22</sup>But when he heard that Archelaus was reigning over Judea instead of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there. And being warned by God in a <sup>q</sup>dream, he turned aside <sup>r</sup>into the region of Galilee. <sup>23</sup>And he came and dwelt in a city called <sup>s</sup>Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled <sup>t</sup>which was spoken by the prophets, “He shall be called a Nazarene.”

The Person of John the Baptist

Mark 1:2-6; Luke 3:3-6

<sup>d</sup>“The voice of one crying in the wilderness:

Make His paths straight.*”

<sup>4</sup>Now <sup>f</sup>John himself was clothed in camel’s hair, with a leather belt around his waist; and his food was <sup>g</sup>locusts and <sup>h</sup>wild honey. <sup>5</sup><sup>i</sup>Then Jerusalem, all Judea, and all the region around the Jordan went out to him <sup>6</sup><sup>j</sup>and were baptized by him in the Jordan, confessing their sins.

The Preaching of John the Baptist

Mark 1:7-9; Luke 3:7-9, 16, 17

<sup>7</sup>But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, <sup>k</sup>“Brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from <sup>l</sup>the wrath to come? <sup>8</sup>Therefore bear fruits worthy of repentance, <sup>9</sup>and do not think to say to yourselves, <sup>m</sup>“We have Abraham as our father.’ For I say to you that God is able to raise up children to Abraham from these stones. <sup>10</sup>And even now the ax is laid to the root of the trees. <sup>n</sup>Therefore every

2:18 <sup>t</sup>his prophecy comes from Jer. 31:15, in which <sup>r</sup>achel, who had been entombed near Bethlehem some 13 centuries before the Babylonian captivity, is seen weeping for her children as they were led away to Babylon in 586 B.C. in the slaughter of the male infants at the time of <sup>c</sup>hrist’s birth, <sup>r</sup>achel once again is pictured as mourning the violent loss of her sons.

2:22 When <sup>h</sup>erod died, his kingdom was parceled out to his three sons: Archelaus, who ruled over Judea where Bethlehem was; a <sup>n</sup>-tipas, who became tetrarch of Galilee, Perea, Samaria, and Idumea; and Philip, who was tetrarch of iturea and trachonitis (see Luke 3:1). Like his father, <sup>r</sup>chelaus was violent and cruel. <sup>t</sup>he <sup>r</sup>omans tolerated his savagery for ten years and finally deposed him in A.D. 6. after a Jewish delegation took their protest to <sup>r</sup>ome. Joseph, aware of <sup>h</sup>erod <sup>r</sup>chelaus’s reputation and guided by God in a dream, <sup>turned</sup> north to Galilee.

2:23 Nazareth was the location of the <sup>r</sup>oman garrison in northern Galilee. <sup>t</sup>hose who lived there were suspected of compromise with the enemy.

3:1 as <sup>c</sup>hrist’s forerunner, John the Baptist preceded the Lord Jesus in birth, ministry, and death. Luke describes John’s birth (see Luke 1), but Matthew jumps directly into the account of John’s proclamation of the coming of the kingdom of heaven. John is called “the Baptist” because he baptized people. unlike the common practice of proselytes and Jews administering ceremonial cleansings to themselves, John baptized those who came to him professing repentance and identifying with his message.

3:2 <sup>t</sup>he Greek verb translated repent indicates a change of attitude and outlook which well may result in sorrow for sins. But the basic idea is a reversal of thinking which changes one’s life (see v. 8). The kingdom of heaven is most likely synonymous with “the kingdom of God.” Both terms seem to be used consistently throughout the <sup>n</sup>t to refer to God’s heavenly kingdom coming to earth in the person of Jesus <sup>c</sup>hrist. <sup>t</sup>his kingdom begins with the incarnation of <sup>c</sup>hrist, continues with the inception of the church, and will be fully manifested when <sup>c</sup>hrist returns. <sup>t</sup>he kingdom was at hand because it was being offered to israel in the person of the Messiah. John’s preaching assumed that judgment would precede the coming of the kingdom, a fact that was taught by the <sup>ot</sup> prophets (see is. 4:4, 5; 5:15, 16; 42:1; Jer. 33:14–16; ezeq. 20:33–38; Dan. 7:26, 27; Joel 1:14, 15; 3:12–17; Zeph. 1:2–18; 3:8–13; Zech. 13:2, 9; Mal. 3:1–5; 4:1–6). at this point, John assumed that the nation of israel would repent and the kingdom would come.

3:3 <sup>a</sup>s roads were repaired, smoothed, straightened, and leveled before a king came, so John was preparing a spiritual road for the Messiah before his arrival. <sup>t</sup>he quotation is from is. 40:3, where the prophet announces the need to prepare a highway for the return of the Jewish exiles from captivity to their homeland, israel.

3:7 The Pharisees and Sadducees were two prominent groups in Judaism during the time of <sup>c</sup>hrist. Both groups claimed to be true followers of Judaism, but their beliefs were considerably different. <sup>t</sup>he Pharisees were primarily associated with the laymen of israel. in doctrine, they held not only to the Law of Moses and Scriptures, but also to a whole body of oral tradition. <sup>t</sup>heir activities were centered in the synagogue. <sup>o</sup>n the other hand, the Sadducees were associated with the priestly caste, for whom worship was centered in the temple. extremely conservative, they based their beliefs essentially on the Pentateuch—the books of Genesis through Deuteronomy (see a cts 23:6–10).

3:10 the ax is laid to the root of the trees: John likened his ministry to God’s ax, clearing his orchard of dead wood—especially that which did not bear the fruit of repentance.

tree which does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. <sup>11</sup> I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance, but He who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. <sup>12</sup> He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit <sup>1</sup> and fire. <sup>12</sup> His winnowing fan is in His hand, and He will thoroughly clean out His threshing floor, and gather His wheat into the barn; but He will <sup>1</sup> burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.”

Baptism of Jesus

Mark 1:9-11; Luke 3:21-23

<sup>14</sup> And John tried to prevent Him, saying, “I need to be baptized by You, and are You coming to me?”

<sup>15</sup> But Jesus answered and said to him, “Permit it to be so now, for thus it is fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness.” Then he allowed Him.

<sup>16</sup> When He had been baptized, Jesus came up immediately from the water; and behold, the heavens were opened to Him, and <sup>2</sup> He saw <sup>v</sup> the Spirit of God descending like a dove and alighting upon Him. <sup>17</sup> And suddenly a voice came from heaven, saying, <sup>x</sup> “This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.”

3:11 He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit: John identified people with himself and his message of repentance by water baptism; the one coming after him was so much greater that he would unite people to himself by means of the holy Spirit. John knew that the kingdom to come would be characterized by a great display of the holy Spirit in the lives of God’s people (see is. 32:15; 44:3; ezek. 11:19; 36:26; 39:29; Joel 2:28; Zech. 12:10). it would be the work of the Messiah to accomplish this, to baptize his people in the Spirit. But those who rejected him the Messiah would baptize with fire, which is probably a figure for God’s judgment (vv. 10, 12). in his first advent, christ baptized in the Spirit. When he comes again, he will baptize with fire.

3:15 to fulfill all righteousness: this phrase does not suggest that Jesus came for baptism because he had sinned; the Lord Jesus was without sin (see 2 cor. 5:21; heb. 4:15; 7:26). Jesus’ baptism probably served several purposes: (1) Jesus joined with the believing remnant of israel who had been baptized by John; (2) he confirmed the ministry of John; and (3) he fulfilled the Father’s will.

3:16 the Spirit of God descending: this was God’s official recognition of Jesus as the Messiah.

3:17 This is My beloved Son, a reference to Ps. 2:7, implies that others heard the voice of the Father. in whom I am well pleased recalls the prophecy of is. 42:1. Matthew 3:16, 17 demonstrates the simultaneous existence of all three Persons of the Godhead. this passage also points to the Son’s voluntary humiliation, the Father’s delight in him, and the Spirit’s desire to glorify christ.

was tempting Jesus to do a miracle outside of the Father's will. t his explains why Jesus quotes Deut. 8:3. Bread alone does not sustain life; ultimately God is the one who sustains all life. t hus it is our responsibility to trust God and remain in h is will.

4:6 throw Yourself down: in quoting the protective promise of Ps. 91:11, 12 to Jesus, Satan omitted the words “to keep you in all your ways.” Satan tempted Jesus to gain public attention through spectacle rather than through his righteous life and message.

<sup>7</sup>Jesus said to him, “It is written again, g ‘You shall not <sup>1</sup>tempt the LORD your God.’”

Third Temptation

Mark 1:13; Luke 4:5-8, 13

<sup>17</sup> <sup>o</sup> From that time Jesus began to preach and to say, <sup>p</sup> “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven <sup>3</sup> is at hand.”

Jesus Calls His First Disciples

Mark 1:16-20

<sup>18</sup> <sup>q</sup> And Jesus, walking by the Sea of Galilee, saw two brothers, Simon <sup>r</sup> called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea; for they were fishermen. <sup>19</sup> Then He said to them, “Follow Me, and <sup>s</sup> I will make you fishers of men.” <sup>20</sup> <sup>t</sup> They immediately left their nets and followed Him.

Jesus Ministers in Galilee

Mark 1:39; Luke 4:44

<sup>23</sup> And Jesus went about all Galilee, <sup>v</sup> teaching in their synagogues, preaching <sup>w</sup> the gospel of the kingdom, <sup>x</sup> and healing all kinds of sickness and all kinds of disease among the people. <sup>24</sup> Then <sup>4</sup> His fame went throughout all Syria; and they

4:7 Deuteronomy 6:16 emphasizes that one should not test God. The Lord asked the Israelites to put him to the test in only one area: tithing. By giving to him they could test whether he would fulfill his promises to bless them (Mal. 3:10).

4:10 Christ rebuked the devil for asking for worship, a temptation to do exactly the opposite of what every Israelite was called upon to do (see Deut. 6:13, 15). Specifically in reference to Jesus, Satan was #### tempted

(Gk. peirazō) (4:1; Luke 4:2; Mark 1:13; heb. 4:15) Strong's #3985

The word means “to try” or “to make proof of,” and when ascribed to God in his dealings with people, it means no more than this (see Gen. 22:1). But for the most part in Scripture, the word is used in a negative sense, and means to entice, solicit, or provoke to sin. Hence the name given to the wicked one in this passage is “the tempter” (4:3). Accordingly “to be tempted” here is to be understood both ways. The Spirit conducted Jesus into the wilderness to try his faith; but the agent in this trial was the wicked one, whose object was to seduce Jesus away from his allegiance to God. This was temptation in the bad sense of the term. Yet Jesus did not give in to temptation; he passed the test (see 2 cor. 5:21; heb. 7:26).

offering a crown without the cross. Jesus’ experience serves as a pattern in spiritual warfare today: Jesus resisted Satan (see eph. 6:11, 13, 14; James 4:7; 1 Pet. 5:9), then he defeated Satan with consistent, meaningful use of the Scriptures (see eph. 6:17).

4:11 angels came and ministered: having rejected Satan’s offer of bread, assistance from angels, and earthly kingdoms, Jesus was immediately visited by angels who helped him.

4:13 Matthew omits the incident reported in Luke 4:16–30 of Jesus’ rejection in his hometown. Matthew simply indicates that Capernaum, located at the northern end of the Sea of Galilee, became Jesus’ home and base of operation.

4:15, 16 The passage quoted here, is. 9:1, 2, foretells the reign of the Messiah in the coming kingdom. The ministry of Jesus in Galilee was a preview of what was yet to come. Galilee was a fertile, populous area with two major trade routes. The way of the sea was one of those routes.

4:17 The phrase from that time Jesus began occurs twice in the Book of Matthew (see 16:21). Each reference marks a crucial direction in the book. This one looks to the beginning of his earthly ministry, while 16:21 anticipates his crucifixion and resurrection. Jesus’ exhortation was identical to that of John the Baptist (3:2).

4:18–20 I will make you fishers of men: His allusion to Jer. 16:16 was used to call Peter and Andrew to discipleship and a life of ministry.

4:23 Teaching . . . preaching . . . healing summarizes Jesus’ earthly ministry. His teaching is illustrated by his discourses; his preaching is illustrated by the announcement in v. 17; his healing is illustrated by his many miracles.

Herod's Temple

20 B.C.–A.D. 70

Begun in 20 B.C., Herod's new structure towered 15 stories high, following the floor dimensions of the former temples in the Holy Place and the Most Holy Place. The high sanctuary shown here was built on the site of the former temples of Solomon and Zerubbabel.

The outer courts surrounding the temple mount were not completed until A.D. 64. The entire structure was demolished by the Romans in A.D. 70.

Dimensions of rooms, steps, doorways, cornices, and exterior measurements are mentioned in history (Josephus and the Mishnah) but are subject to interpretation.

5:1 The multitudes were found at the beginning and end of Jesus’ Sermon on the Mount (the term is translated the people in 7:28). Yet this verse implies that Jesus left the multitude, evidently he went away from the crowds so that he could instruct the disciples, as he taught the disciples, the crowds came to where he was. when He was seated: it was normal for a teacher or rabbi to sit while he taught, with his audience gathered around. the mountain, probably a high hill on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee, would have served as a natural amphitheater. disciples: Jesus had many disciples in addition to the crowds who followed him and listened to his teaching. From the many disciples, he selected 12 to receive special instruction and power.

5:2 He . . . taught them: this Sermon on the Mount recorded by Matthew (chs. 5–7) is slightly different from the sermon preached to the multitude in Luke 6. The essence of this sermon was probably preached many times during Jesus’ early ministry. The Sermon on the Mount was not given as the way of salvation for the lost, but as the way of life for true children of the kingdom. It was instruction for those who had responded to Jesus’ invitation to “repent” (4:17). These disciples were probably confused as to the true nature of righteousness and God’s kingdom. In this address, Jesus clarified both the heart of the law and the nature of true religion in God’s kingdom (see Mic. 6:8). In a sense, Jesus turned the law, which was mainly negative, inside out to show its positive core (v. 17).

5:3–12 The Beatitudes are comprised of three elements: a pronouncement of blessing, a quality of life, and a reason why the events surrounding Jesus’ baptism reveal the intense religious excitement and social ferment of the early days of John the Baptist’s ministry. Herod had been cruel and rapacious; Roman military occupation was harsh. Some agitation centered around the change of governors from Gratus to Pilate in A.D. 26. Most of the people hoped for a religious solution to their intolerable political situation, and when they heard of a new prophet, they flocked out into the desert to hear him. The religious sect (essenes) from Qumran professed similar doctrines of repentance and baptism. Jesus was baptized at Bethany on the other side of the Jordan (see John 1:28). John also baptized at “a enon near Salim” (John 3:23).

Jesus’ Baptism and Temptation

For Jesus’ temptation, see notes on Matt. 4:1–11; Luke 4:1–13.

Many interpreters place John’s baptismal ministry at a point on the middle reaches of the Jordan river, where trade routes converge at a natural ford not far from the modern site of tel Shalem.

Jesus Fulfills the Law

17 <sup>v</sup> “Do not think that I came to destroy the Law or the Prophets. I did not come to destroy but to fulfill. 18 For assuredly, I say to you, <sup>w</sup> till heaven and earth pass away, one <sup>2</sup> jot or one <sup>3</sup> tittle will by no means pass from the law till all is fulfilled. 19 <sup>x</sup> Whoever therefore breaks one of the least of these commandments, and teaches men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever does and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. 20 For I say to you, that unless your righteousness exceeds <sup>y</sup> the righteous- ness of the scribes and Pharisees, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven.

Murder

21 “You have heard that it was said to those <sup>4</sup> of old, <sup>z</sup> “You shall not murder, and 20 <sup>y</sup> [r om. 10:3] 21 <sup>z</sup> ex. 20:13; Deut. 5:17 <sup>4</sup> in ancient times recipient should be considered blessed. t he first element is found in the word Blessed (see Ps. 1:1), which introduces each beatitude.

t he second element does not describe different groups of people, but a composite picture of the kind of person who will inherit christ’s kingdom. t he third element looks ahead to some aspect of the coming kingdom.

5:3 Blessed are the poor in spirit: t he idea of God blessing the humble and resisting the proud can also be found in Prov. 3:34;
James 4:6.

5:5 Earth can also be translated land (see Ps. 37:3, 9, 11, 29; Prov. 2:21).

5:13 Pure salt maintains its flavor. in israel, some salt was mixed with other ingredients. When it was exposed to the elements, the salt would be “leached out.” Such leached-out salt was used for coating pathways.

5:16 Let your light so shine: t he believer does not have inherent light; rather we have reflective light. a s we behold the glory of the Lord, we reflect it. t herefore, we need to make sure that nothing comes between us and the Lord’s light (see 2 cor. 3:18; Phil. 2:14–16).

5:17, 18 Do not think that I came to destroy: Jesus rejected the Pharisees’ charge that he was nullifying the law. t he law was both temporary (see Gal. 3:19; eph. 2:15; heb. 7:12) and eternal (see 5:18;

r om. 3:31; 8:4). t he word fulfill means “to fill out, expand, or complete.” it does not mean to bring to an end. Jesus fulfills the law in several ways: (1) he obeyed it perfectly and taught its correct meaning (vv. 19, 20); (2) he will one day fulfill all of the ot types and prophecies; and (3) he provides a way of salvation that meets all the requirements of the law (r om. 3:21, 31). one jot or one tittle will by no means pass: t his statement of Jesus provides us with one of the strongest affirmations in the Bible of the inerrancy of Scripture.
it is absolutely trustworthy.

5:20 The righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees was essentially external adherence to rules. God demands more than this. Jesus’ words must have shaken h is disciples, since the meticulously righteous deeds of the scribes and Pharisees were regarded as being far above those of the average person. h owever the only righteousness that satisfies God’s standard is faith in Jesus christ (see r om. 3:21, 22).

5:21 You have heard refers to the teaching of various rabbis rather than to that of Moses. Jesus was questioning the interpretation of the Jewish scholars, not the ot itself.

t his Greek word is derived from the root mak, which means “large” or “lengthy,” and means “fortunate” or “happy.” t he Greek word was used in Greek literature, in the Septuagint
(the Greek translation of the ot ), and in the n t to describe the kind of happiness that comes from receiving divine favor. t he word can be rendered happy. in the n t it is usuguished a letter from a similar one. Matthew uses the Greek word that literally means “horn,” or one hook of a letter, to refer to this stroke. t he rabbis had defended the importance of retaining even the slightest stroke and the smallest letter—yodh in hebrew and iota in Greek—in the Law of Moses. Jesus made it clear that he heartily concurred with the rabbis’ respect for the Law. not even the smallest dot over an “i” would disappear until the Law was fulfilled.

Love

Luke 6:27, 32

<sup>43</sup>“You have heard that it was said, <sup>y</sup>“You shall love your neighbor <sup>z</sup>and hate

1 Tim. 6:18 <sup>43</sup> <sup>y</sup> Lev. 19:18 <sup>z</sup> Deut. 23:3-6; Ps. 41:10

5:22 t he scribes and Pharisees said that a person who referred to another as Raca, meaning “empty head,” was in danger of being sued for libel before the council (or the Sanhedrin). o n the other hand, Jesus said that whoever calls another a fool will have to answer to God. t hat is not to say that calling someone a fool will condemn a believer to eternal punishment in hell. r ather Jesus was saying that to utter such words is to place oneself in a worse condition at the time of judgment (see 1 cor. 3:12–15).

5:25 i t is wise not to have enemies. o ne should make peace as soon as possible because enemies are capable of doing great damage.

5:28 t o lust for her: a man who gazes at a woman with the purpose of wanting her sexually has mentally committed adultery.

5:29, 30 t he hyperbole (exaggerated saying) about tearing out one’s eye is similar to the phrase in Prov. 23:2, “Put a knife to your throat if you are a man given to appetite.” in striking overstatement, Jesus advises removing every temptation to evil, no matter what the cost. t he warning of hell (v. 22) indicates that those whose lifestyle is characterized by uncontrolled immorality are not heirs of the kingdom (see 1 cor. 6:9, 10).

5:31, 32 Sexual immorality is a general term that includes premarital sex, extramarital infidelity, homosexuality, and bestiality (19:3–12).

5:33, 34 Do not swear at all: t his does not forbid solemn, official oaths (see Gen. 22:16; Ps. 110:4; 2 cor. 1:23), but only oaths made in common speech. Such oath-taking suggests that a person’s normal words cannot be trusted. God’s law says, “Do not lie under oath” (see Lev. 19:12; n um. 30:2); Jesus was telling his followers not to lie under any circumstances. t he phrase to the Lord could be used as a cover-up for falsehood. a ny oath with God’s name in it was legally binding; however, an oath without God’s name was not legally binding. t his explains the emphasis of vv. 34–37.

5:38 t his important o f law (see ex. 21:24, 25; Lev. 24:20; Deut. 19:21), known as the lex talionis (the law of retaliation), covered what type of punishment should be meted out to transgressors. i t limited the retribution that an offender would have to endure.

5:39–42 t he Lord seems to be speaking in hyperbolic terms to teach the lesson of non-retaliation. Generally h e commands us to have a generous and compassionate attitude toward the needy. h e makes this application in four areas: physical attacks (v. 39), legal suits (v. 40), government demands (v. 41), and financial requests (v. 42).

5:41 Compels is a technical term that refers to the law of impressment. t he r oman government could press anyone into its service to carry a load as far as one mile. Matthew records a r oman officer doing this to Simon of cyrene in 27:32.

5:43 Hate your enemy is not found in Moses’ writings. t his was a principle drawn by the scribes and Pharisees from Lev. 19:18.

your enemy.<sup>7</sup> <sup>44</sup> But I say to you, <sup>a</sup> love your enemies, bless those who curse you, <sup>b</sup> do good to those who hate you, and pray <sup>c</sup> for those who spitefully use you and persecute you, <sup>45</sup> that you may be sons of your Father in heaven; for <sup>d</sup> He makes His sun rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the just and on the unjust. <sup>46</sup> For if you love those who love you, what reward have you? Do not even the tax collectors do the same? <sup>47</sup> And if you greet your <sup>7</sup>brethren only, what do you do more than others? Do not even the <sup>8</sup>tax collectors do so? <sup>48</sup> Therefore you shall be perfect, just <sup>9</sup>as your Father in heaven is perfect.

Charitable Deeds

6 “Take heed that you do not do your charitable deeds before men, to be seen by them. Otherwise you have no reward from your Father in heaven. <sup>2</sup> Therefore, <sup>a</sup> when you do a charitable deed, do not sound a trumpet before you as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory from men. Assuredly, I say to you, they have their reward. <sup>3</sup> But when you do a charitable deed, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, <sup>4</sup> that your charitable deed may be in secret; and your Father who sees in secret <sup>b</sup> will Himself reward you <sup>1</sup> openly.

Prayer

Luke 11:2-4

<sup>5</sup> “And when you pray, you shall not be like the <sup>2</sup>hypocrites. For they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the corners of the streets, that they may be seen by men. Assuredly, I say to you, they have their reward. <sup>6</sup> But you, when you pray, <sup>c</sup> go into your room, and when

Luke 18:12 <sup>5</sup> pretenders <sup>17</sup> <sup>s</sup> r uth 3:3; 2 Sam. 12:20; Dan. 10:3

5:45 to be a “son of” was to be like someone or something. That you may be sons of your Father in heaven means “that you may be like the heavenly Father who displays his love without discrimination.”

5:48 t his verse, which comes from Deut. 18:13, refers to completeness. in the context of 5:43–48, it seems to mean that Jesus’ followers are to be as perfect as God in the ways that they love. God does not lower the standard to accommodate our sinfulness. he gives us the power to keep his righteous standard.

6:2 they have their reward: t he verb translated have was used in receipts and is similar to “paid in full.” t he only reward the hypocrites will ever receive is glory from men (vv. 5, 16). c ontrast that with the heavenly rewards of c hrist given to his followers (see 2 cor. 5:10; r ev. 22:12).

6:5–8 t hose who pray with improper motives have their reward—like those who do charitable deeds with improper motives (v. 2).

6:7 From the motives for praying (vv. 1–6), Jesus turned to methods of praying. Why one prays determines how one prays. n othing is wrong with repeating prayers (26:39, 42, 44), here Jesus was referring to the empty recitation of words.

6:9 In this manner does not mean to pray using only these words, but to pray in this way. People often reduce this prayer to empty recitation—exactly what the Lord said not to do (v. 7). t he prayer is composed of six requests. t he first three ask for the kingdom to come (vv. 9, 10) and the last three are for God to meet the needs of his people until the kingdom arrives (vv. 11–13). Hallowed be Your name is not an ascription of praise to the Father. t he verb is an imperative and means “May Your name be hallowed.” t his recalls ezekeiel’s prophecy in ezeek. 36:25–32, where the prophet says israel has profaned God’s name among the nations. o ne day God will gather his people from the nations, cleanse them, and by this means vindicate the holiness of his great name. t he hallowing of the Father’s name means the arrival of God’s kingdom.

6:11 Daily bread is a reminder of God’s daily supply of manna to israel in the wilderness.

6:13 t he doxology at the end of the prayer is from 1 ch. 29:11. Some ancient manuscripts of the Scriptures omit this doxology.

Wealth

Luke 11:34-36; 12:22-34

<sup>19</sup>“Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy and where thieves break in and steal; <sup>20</sup>but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal. <sup>21</sup>For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

<sup>22</sup>“The lamp of the body is the eye. If therefore your eye is <sup>7</sup>good, your whole body will be full of light. <sup>23</sup>But if your eye is <sup>8</sup>bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. <sup>31</sup>“Therefore do not worry, saying, ‘What shall we eat?’ or ‘What shall we drink?’ or ‘What shall we wear?’ <sup>32</sup>For after all these things the Gentiles seek. For your heavenly Father knows that you need all these things. <sup>33</sup>But <sup>a</sup>seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added to you. <sup>34</sup>Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about its own things. Sufficient for the day is its own trouble.

Judging

“Ask, and It Will Be Given”

Luke 11:9-13

<sup>7</sup><sup>e</sup>“Ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. <sup>8</sup>For <sup>f</sup>everyone who asks receives, and he who seeks finds, and to him who knocks it will be opened. <sup>9</sup><sup>g</sup>Or what man is there among you who, if his son asks for bread, will give him a stone? <sup>10</sup>Or if he asks for a fish, will he give him a serpent? <sup>11</sup>If you then, <sup>h</sup>being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your

6:19, 20 Do not lay up . . . but lay up may be rephrased as “Do not give priority to this, but give priority to that.” t his passage does not mean that it is sinful to have such assets as insurance, retirement plans, and savings accounts. a fter all, parents are to save for their children (see Prov. 13:22; 2 cor. 12:14).

6:24 Mammon refers to wealth, money, or property. n o one can serve two masters because a time will come when they make opposing demands. Jesus advises us to invest in our future with him by giving of ourselves; mammon encourages us to collect material objects for our present enjoyment.

6:27 Stature here probably means “length of life,” or age. Cubit then means a “length” of time, not a distance.

6:32 Gentiles refers to non-Jews or to the heathen—those who do not know God (see 3 John 7). t he Jewish people, because of God’s revelation to them, were supposed to think differently than the Gentiles.

6:33 t o seek . . . the kingdom of God and His righteousness means to desire God’s righteous rule on this earth (vv. 9, 10).

7:1 t his restriction does not mean that a disciple never judges. a fter all, some kind of judgment is required in order to obey the command in v. 6. t he point of this verse is that a c hristian should not have a spirit of carping criticism and fault-finding.

7:2 every judgment that a person makes becomes a basis for his or her own judgment (see James 3:1, 2).

7:6 Dogs and swine refer to people who are enemies of the gospel, as opposed to those who are merely unbelievers. Such enemies are to be left alone (see 15:14; 2 cor. 6:14–18), o ne example of such a person was herod antipas, who heard John gladly (see Mark 6:20), but then beheaded him (see 14:1–12; Mark 6:14–28; Luke 9:7–9). Later when c hrist stood before herod, he said nothing (see Luke 23:8, 9). in the context of this verse, herod had become a “dog” or a “pig.”

Father who is in heaven give good things to those who ask Him!

Golden Rule

Luke 6:31

<sup>12</sup>Therefore, <sup>i</sup>whatever you want men to do to you, do also to them, for <sup>j</sup>this is the Law and the Prophets.

Two Ways of Life

<sup>13</sup><sup>k</sup>“Enter by the narrow gate; for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction, and there are many who go in by it. <sup>14</sup><sup>3</sup>Because narrow is the gate and <sup>4</sup>difficult is the way which leads to life, and there are few who find it.

False and True Teaching

Luke 6:43-45

<sup>15</sup><sup>l</sup>“Beware of false prophets, <sup>m</sup>who come to you in sheep’s clothing, but inwardly they are ravenous wolves. <sup>16</sup><sup>n</sup> You will know them by their fruits. <sup>o</sup>Do men gather grapes from thornbushes or figs from thistles? <sup>17</sup>Even so, <sup>p</sup>every good tree bears good fruit, but a bad tree bears bad fruit. <sup>18</sup>A good tree cannot bear bad fruit, nor can a bad tree bear good fruit. <sup>19</sup><sup>q</sup>Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. <sup>20</sup>Therefore by their fruits you will know them.

True Way into the Kingdom

Luke 6:46

<sup>21</sup>“Not everyone who says to Me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who <sup>s</sup>does the will of My Father in heaven. <sup>22</sup>Many will say to Me in that day, ‘Lord, Lord, have we <sup>t</sup>not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?’ <sup>23</sup>And “then I will declare to them, ‘I never knew you; <sup>v</sup>depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!’

Parable of the Two Builders

Luke 6:47-49

<sup>24</sup>“Therefore <sup>w</sup> whoever hears these sayings of Mine, and does them, I will liken him to a wise man who built his house on the rock: <sup>25</sup>and the rain descended, the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house; and it did not fall, for it was founded on the rock.

<sup>26</sup>“But everyone who hears these sayings of Mine, and does not do them, will be like a foolish man who built his house on the sand: <sup>27</sup>and the rain descended, the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house; and it fell. And great was its fall.”

Response to the Sermon

The Leper Is Cleansed

Mark 1:40-44; Luke 5:12-14

8 When He had come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed Him. <sup>2</sup><sup>a</sup> And behold, a leper came and <sup>b</sup>worshiped Him, saying, “Lord, if You are willing, You can make me clean.”

<sup>3</sup> Then Jesus put out His hand and touched him, saying, “I am willing; be cleansed.” Immediately his leprosy <sup>c</sup>was cleansed.

<sup>4</sup> And Jesus said to him, <sup>d</sup>“See that you

7:12 t he phrase the Law and the Prophets echoes 5:17. t his so-called “Golden rule” is the practical application of Lev. 19:18: “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

7:15–20 Beware of false prophets: Deuteronomy 13:1–11; 18:20–22 provide information on discerning and responding to false prophets. t he way to tell false teachers from teachers of truth is by their fruits. Fruits here refers to more than their deeds; it includes their doctrine (see 16:12; 1 John 4:1–3). a person speaking in the name of God is to be tested by the doctrines of Scripture. t he same principle still holds true today. Speakers and teachers should be tested against the truths in God’s Word (see Jude 3; r ev. 22:18, 19).

7:21–23 Because so many people teach the wrong way, there is a tendency to ask how so many people could be wrong. Such doubts are especially strong when false teachers prophesy, cast out demons, and perform wonders in Jesus’ name. h owever, it is important to remember that the Word of God is superior to any miracle.

7:24–27 t he key difference in the two houses is not their external appearance. Pharisees and scribes may seem to be as righteous as the heirs of the kingdom. t he key in the story is the foundations. t he house on the rock pictures a life founded on a proper relationship to christ (16:18; 1 cor. 10:4; 1 Pet. 2:4–8). it will stand the test of christ’s judgment, but the house on the sand will fail the test (see 1 cor. 3:12–15).

7:29 not as the scribes: Scribes would often cite authorities in order to lend credence to their statements. Jesus’ words were self-authenticating. note his phrase “i say to you” in 5:20, 22, 26, 28, 32.

8:2, 3 Before this miracle, the only record of an israelite being healed of leprosy was the case of Miriam in n um. 12:10–15. t he phrase if You are willing is important because it indicates genuine faith. it does not necessarily mean that if one simply believes, God will do something, but that he can do it (see Dan. 3:17, 18). n ormally, touching a leper would result in ceremonial defilement (see Lev. 14:45, 46; n um. 5:2, 3; Deut. 24:8). in this case, Jesus touched the leper, and the leper became clean.

8:4 See that you tell no one: Perhaps Jesus gave this command so that the healed person would first obey the Law before he became preoccupied with telling others about his healing. Jesus’ command to show yourself to the priest involved no small undertaking for the cleansed leper. he would need to make the journey from near the Sea of Galilee to Jerusalem, and there offer the sacrifice required by Moses (see Lev. 14:4–32). t he purpose of christ’s command was tell no one; but go your way, show yourself to the priest, and offer the gift that <sup>e</sup>Moses <sup>f</sup>commanded, as a testimony to them.”

The Centurion's Servant Is Healed

Luke 7:1-10

<sup>7</sup>And Jesus said to him, “I will come and heal him.”

<sup>8</sup>The centurion answered and said, “Lord, <sup>i</sup>I am not worthy that You should come under my roof. But only <sup>j</sup>speak a word, and my servant will be healed. <sup>9</sup>For I also am a man under authority, having soldiers under me. And I say to this one, ‘Go,’ and he goes; and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes; and to my servant, ‘Do this,’ and he does it.”

<sup>10</sup>When Jesus heard it, He marveled, and said to those who followed, “Assuredly, I say to you, I have not found such great faith, not even in Israel! <sup>11</sup>And I say to you that <sup>k</sup>many will come from east and west, and sit down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven. <sup>12</sup>But <sup>l</sup>the sons of the kingdom <sup>m</sup>will be cast out into outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.” <sup>13</sup>Then Jesus said to the centurion, “Go your way; and as you have believed, <sup>so</sup> let it be done for you.” And his servant was healed that same hour.

<sup>16p</sup>When evening had come, they brought to Him many who were demon-possessed. And He cast out the spirits with a word, and healed all who were sick, <sup>17</sup>that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying:

“He Himself took our infirmities And bore our sicknesses.”

Demands of Discipleship

Luke 9:57-62

<sup>18</sup>And when Jesus saw great multitudes about Him, He gave a command to depart to the other side. <sup>19r</sup>Then a certain scribe came and said to Him, “Teacher, I will follow You wherever You go.”

<sup>20</sup>And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head.”

<sup>21s</sup>Then another of His disciples said to Him, “Lord, <sup>t</sup>let me first go and bury my father.”

<sup>22</sup>But Jesus said to him, “Follow Me, and let the dead bury their own dead.”

The Sea Is Stilled

Mark 4:35-41; Luke 8:22-25

<sup>23</sup>Now when He got into a boat, His disciples followed Him. <sup>24u</sup>And suddenly a great tempest arose on the sea, so that the boat was covered with the waves. But He was asleep. <sup>25</sup>Then His disciples came to Him and awoke Him, saying, “Lord, save us! We are perishing!”

not only to obey the Law of Moses, but also to be a testimony to the religious authorities in Jerusalem that the Messiah had arrived. Jesus also commanded the man to keep quiet because he did not want the Jewish people to act too hastily on preconceived, erroneous ideas of the Messiah and his kingdom (see John 6:14, 15).

8:5-9 in the nt, centurions (officers in charge of one hundred soldiers) are consistently looked upon in a favorable light. t these soldiers were the equivalent of a present-day sergeant. t he centurion's response to Jesus indicated his clear understanding of authority. 8:10 He marveled: o nly one other time does Scripture say Jesus marveled: when his own townspeople rejected him (Mark 6:6). I have not found . . . not even in Israel: t his commendation of the faith of the Gentile centurion was a strong rebuke of the Jewish people. t he israelites thought that they would have priority in the coming kingdom (see is. 45:14; Zech. 8:23; r om. 9:3-5; eph. 2:11, 12). Jesus made it clear that just being a physical descendant of a braham did not guarantee entrance into his kingdom.

8:11 Sit down literally means “recline,” as at a banquet table. t he coming kingdom is commonly portrayed in terms of a feast, particularly a wedding feast (see 22:1-14; is. 25:6; r ev. 19:7-10).

8:12 Sons of the kingdom refers to the Jews who had the covenants and the promises, and who should have been heirs of the kingdom. t he idea that Gentiles would take their place in the coming kingdom was unthinkable to the Jews. Outer darkness, meaning “the darkness outside,” speaks of the experience of those who do not endure and so will not reign in the kingdom (see 22:13; r om. 8:17; 2 t im. 2:12, 13; 2 John 8; r ev. 3:11).

8:17 t his verse quotes is. 53:4. took our infirmities . . . bore our sicknesses: Jesus healed because he had compassion on the people (see 9:36; 14:14; 20:34; Mark 1:41; 5:19; Luke 7:13). o ur physical infirmities are ultimately the result of the Fall with its impact on our lives through the curse. Jesus took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses by suffering and dying for our sins on the cross.

8:20 Son of Man: Jesus used this messianic title (drawn from Dan. 7:13, 14) over 80 times to refer to himself.

8:21, 22 t his passage most likely describes a follower whose father was still alive, because by Levitical law the man would not be out in public if his father had just died. h is father was aged, so the man wanted to go to his home, wait for his father to die, and then follow christ. Jesus' answer means that we must never make excuses for refusing to follow him. t here is no better time than the present.

sea, and there was a great calm. <sup>27</sup>So the men marveled, saying, <sup>28</sup>“Who can this be, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?”

Demons Are Cast into Swine

Mark 5:1-17; Luke 8:26-37

<sup>28</sup>When He had come to the other side, to the country of the <sup>3</sup>Gergesenes, there met Him two demon-possessed men, coming out of the tombs, exceedingly fierce, so that no one could pass that way. <sup>29</sup>And suddenly they cried out, saying, “What have we to do with You, Jesus, You Son of God? Have You come here to torment us before the time?”

<sup>30</sup>Now a good way off from them there was a herd of many swine feeding. <sup>31</sup>So the demons begged Him, saying, “If You cast us out, <sup>4</sup>permit us to go away into the herd of swine.”

<sup>32</sup>And He said to them, “Go.” So when they had come out, they went into the herd of swine. And suddenly the whole herd of swine ran violently down the steep place into the sea, and perished in the water.

<sup>33</sup>Then those who kept them fled; and they went away into the city and told everything, including what had happened to the demon-possessed men. <sup>34</sup>And behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus. And when they saw Him, <sup>x</sup>they begged Him to depart from their region.

The Paralytic Is Forgiven

Mark 2:1-12; Luke 5:17-26

<sup>9</sup>So He got into a boat, crossed over, <sup>a</sup>and came to His own city. <sup>2b</sup>Then behold, they brought to Him a paralytic lying on a bed. <sup>c</sup>When Jesus saw their faith, He said to the paralytic, “Son, be of good cheer; your sins are forgiven you.”

<sup>3</sup>And at once some of the scribes said within themselves, “This Man blasphemes!”

8:28 The country of the Gergesenes may refer to (1) the village of Khersa, near the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee; (2) Gerasa, about 30 miles southeast of the Sea of Galilee; or (3) Gadara, about six miles away. <sup>t</sup>his was Gentile territory.

8:29 We learn several things about demons in this passage: (1) they recognize the deity of Christ; (2) they are limited in their knowledge; (3) they know they will ultimately be judged by Christ (see 25:41; James 2:19; 2 Pet. 2:4; Jude 6; r ev. 12:7–12); (4) they cannot act without the permission of a higher authority—Christ.

9:2 Their faith refers to the faith of the paralytic as well as that of the men who were carrying him.

BIBLE TIMES & CULTURE NOTES

Tax Collectors

in Jesus’ day, the Roman government collected several different taxes from the people of Palestine. tolls for transporting goods by land or sea were collected by private tax collectors, who paid a fee to the Roman government for the right to assess these levies. the tax collectors made their profits by charging a higher toll than the law required. the licensed collectors often hired minor officials called publicans to do the actual work of collecting the tolls. the publicans extracted their own wages by charging a fraction more than their employer required. the disciple Matthew was a publican who collected tolls on the road between Damascus and a cco; his booth was located just outside the city of Capernaum. Matthew also collected taxes from fishermen who worked along the Sea of Galilee and boatmen who brought their goods from cities on the other side of the lake.

<sup>8</sup>Now when the multitudes saw it, they <sup>e</sup>marveled <sup>1</sup> and glorified God, who had given such power to men.

Matthew Is Called

Mark 2:14; Luke 5:27, 28

<sup>9f</sup>As Jesus passed on from there, He saw a man named Matthew sitting at the tax office. And He said to him, “Follow Me.” So he arose and followed Him.

physical healing could not be denied. it was far easier to say Your sins are forgiven you because there would be no visible proof that the sins were forgiven. the healing of the paralytic, however, was proof that forgiveness of sins had occurred as well. neither physical nor spiritual healing pose any difficulty for God’s Son.

9:9 Matthew is called Levi in Mark 2:14; Luke 5:27. The tax office was a toll booth set up alongside a highway to levy taxes on merchandise transported on that road. Matthew probably worked for herod antipas, tetrarch of Galilee. tax collectors were considered traitors by the Jews. they were despised because they generally collected more than necessary and pocketed the difference, vastly enriching themselves.

The Disciples Eat with Sinners

Mark 2:15-17; Luke 5:29-32

<sup>10</sup> Now it happened, as Jesus sat at the table in the house, that behold, many tax collectors and sinners came and sat down with Him and His disciples. <sup>11</sup> And when the Pharisees saw it, they said to His disciples, “Why does your Teacher eat with <sup>h</sup> tax collectors and <sup>i</sup> sinners?”

<sup>12</sup> When Jesus heard that, He said to them, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. <sup>13</sup> But go and learn what this means: <sup>j</sup> I desire mercy and not sacrifice. For I did not come to call the righteous, <sup>k</sup> but sinners, <sup>2</sup> to repentance.”

The Disciples Do Not Fast

Mark 2:18-22; Luke 5:33-39

<sup>14</sup> Then the disciples of John came to Him, saying, <sup>l</sup> “Why do we and the Pharisees fast <sup>3</sup> often, but Your disciples do not fast?”

<sup>15</sup> And Jesus said to them, “Can <sup>m</sup> the <sup>4</sup> friends of the bridegroom mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? But the days will come when the bridegroom will be taken away from them, and <sup>n</sup> then they will fast. <sup>16</sup> No one puts a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment; for <sup>5</sup> the patch pulls away from the garment, and the tear is made worse. <sup>17</sup> Nor do they put new wine into old wineskins, or else the wineskins <sup>6</sup> break, the wine is spilled, and the wineskins are ruined. But they put new wine into new wineskins, and both are preserved.”

<sup>18</sup> While He spoke these things to them, behold, a ruler came and worshiped Him, saying, “My daughter has just died, but come and lay Your hand on her and she will live.” <sup>19</sup> So Jesus arose and followed him, and so did His <sup>n</sup> disciples.

<sup>20</sup> And suddenly, a woman who had a flow of blood for twelve years came from behind and <sup>r</sup> touched the hem of His garment. <sup>21</sup> For she said to herself, “If only I may touch His garment, I shall be made well.” <sup>22</sup> But Jesus turned around, and when He saw her He said, “Be of good cheer, daughter; <sup>s</sup> your faith has made you well.” And the woman was made well from that hour.

<sup>23</sup> When Jesus came into the ruler’s house, and saw <sup>t</sup> the flute players and the noisy crowd wailing, <sup>24</sup> He said to them, <sup>v</sup> “Make room, for the girl is not dead, but sleeping.” And they ridiculed Him. <sup>25</sup> But when the crowd was put outside, He went in and <sup>w</sup> took her by the hand, and the girl arose. <sup>26</sup> And the <sup>x</sup> report of this went out into all that land.

Sight Is Restored

<sup>27</sup> When Jesus departed from there, <sup>y</sup> two blind men followed Him, crying out and saying, <sup>z</sup> “Son of David, have mercy on us!”

<sup>28</sup> And when He had come into the house, the blind men came to Him. And Jesus said to them, “Do you believe that I am able to do this?”

They said to Him, “Yes, Lord.”

<sup>29</sup> Then He touched their eyes, saying, “According to your faith let it be to you.” <sup>30</sup> And their eyes were opened. And Jesus sternly warned them, saying, <sup>a</sup> “See that no one knows it.” <sup>31</sup> <sup>b</sup> But when they had departed, they <sup>7</sup> spread the news about Him in all that <sup>8</sup> country.

Speech Is Restored

<sup>32</sup> <sup>c</sup> As they went out, behold, they brought to Him a man, mute and demon-possessed. <sup>33</sup> And when the demon was cast out, the mute spoke. And the multitudes marveled, saying, “It was never seen like this in Israel!”

The Need for Delegation of Power

<sup>35</sup> Then Jesus went about all the cities and villages, <sup>e</sup> teaching in their synagogues, preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease <sup>9</sup> among the people. <sup>36</sup> <sup>f</sup> But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion for them, because they were <sup>1</sup> weary and scattered,

9:13 Jesus quoted hos. 6:6 (and again in 12:7) to make the point that God is more interested in a person’s loyal love than in the observance of external rituals. Jesus refers ironically to the Pharisees as the righteous, t they were not righteous; that was only how they perceived themselves because of their pious and scrupulous law-keeping (see Phil. 3:6). But Jesus explained, quoting from the familiar words of an ot prophet, that God had already judged sacrifices without mercy as worthless.

9:15 Jesus used the picture of marriage to illustrate God’s relationship with israel (see is. 54:1–8; Jer. 3:1–20; hos. 2:1–3:5), in referring to himself as a bridegroom, Jesus was describing himself as the Messiah. Will be taken away from them anticipates the violent death the Lord would experience.

9:30 See that no one knows it: Jesus wanted to discourage the masses from coming to him for physical healing alone, because his primary purpose was spiritual healing. Physical healing simply served to authenticate his claim to be the promised Messiah.

9:34 t he Pharisees could not deny the reality of the miracles, so they attributed them to the ruler of the demons. t he same rationalization is found in 12:24.

like sheep having no shepherd. <sup>37</sup>Then He said to His disciples, <sup>h</sup>“The harvest truly is plentiful, but the laborers are few. <sup>38</sup>Therefore pray the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into His harvest.”

The Twelve Apostles Are Sent

Mark 6:7; Luke 9:1

10 And <sup>a</sup>when He had called His twelve disciples to Him, He gave them power over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all kinds of sickness and all kinds of disease. <sup>2</sup>Now the names of the twelve apostles are these: first, Simon, <sup>b</sup>who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; <sup>3</sup>Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; James the son of Alphaeus, and <sup>1</sup>Lebbaeus, whose surname was Thaddaeus; <sup>4c</sup>Simon the <sup>2</sup>Cananite, and Judas <sup>d</sup>Iscariot, who also betrayed Him.

The Twelve Apostles Are Instructed

Mark 6:8-13; Luke 9:2-6, 12:2-10

9:37, 38 The harvest will mark the beginning of the kingdom age. For the lost it will mean doom; for the saved it will mean blessing.

10:2 The twelve are called “disciples” in v. 1; here they are called apostles. The word apostle emphasizes delegated authority (see 1 t hess. 2:6); the term disciple emphasizes learning and following. Because the disciples had been given authority, they were now called apostles.

10:2-4 The disciples are named in pairs and probably were sent out that way (see Mark 6:7).

10:5, 6 While he was on earth, Jesus focused his ministry on the Jews. After his resurrection, he commanded his disciples to take the Good news to all the world. Paul used the same strategy. In every city he visited, he preached first to Jews and then to the Gentiles (see rom. 1:16).

10:9, 10 The disciples’ mission was short-term. In essence, they were to do a national religious survey to determine the people’s response to Jesus as Messiah. For the twelve to cover an area that is at most 75 miles by 125 miles would not take very long. Thus they did not need extensive provisions.

10:11 Because the testimony of the apostles was at stake, they were to seek out homes with good reputations. Furthermore, they were not to be constantly trying to find a more desirable residence.

10:12, 13 To greet a household was to pronounce a blessing on it, “Peace to you.” These messengers were to assume the best of their hosts when they arrived; however, if the home proved to be unworthy (the occupants rejected the message of the apostles), the apostles were to remove the pronouncement of blessing.

10:15 This verse, together with 11:22, 24, implies that there will be degrees of judgment and torment for the lost.

10:16 Snakes are commonly thought of as wise, perhaps because they are silent and dangerous, or because of the way they move (see also Gen. 3:1). In the midst of wolves meant that the apostles would be exposed to hatred and violence from men. Harmless literally means “unmixed,” which may also indicate purity and innocence.

10:18 God would use Jewish rejection and persecution of the messengers to bring the gospel message to Gentiles. This occurred with Paul in acts 21:26-36; 24:1-21; 25:13-26; 26:31.

<sup>32</sup><sup>r</sup> “Therefore whoever confesses Me before men, <sup>s</sup> him I will also confess before My Father who is in heaven. <sup>33</sup><sup>t</sup> But whoever denies Me before men, him I will also deny before My Father who is in heaven.

10:28 Fear Him refers not to Satan, but to God. Destroy does not indicate annihilation, but ruination. t he same verb is used in 9:17 of wineskins being ruined.

10:32, 33 every act of our lives will be evaluated at the judgment seat of christ (see 2 cor. 5:10). to refuse to speak up for christ because of intimidation or persecution will result in the believer’s loss of reward and consequent loss of glory in the kingdom (see r om. 8:17; 2 tim. 2:12).

10:34–36 to the disappointment of many christians throughout the ages, it has often been those closest to them who have rejected them and their message, even to the point of betrayal. t he Lord himself experienced these feelings with the betrayal of Judas and the denial of Peter.

10:37 not worthy of Me: t hose who will be glorified with christ in his kingdom reign are those who have suffered for him (see r om. 8:17; 2 tim. 2:12). t hose who refuse that kind of discipleship will experience great loss (see 1 cor. 3:15; 2 cor. 5:10; r ev. 3:11, 12).

10:38 taking up a cross here stands for commitment to the extent of being willing to die for something.

10:42 These little ones refers to the disciples. reward: Jesus does not want his disciples to lose the joys of the next life by focusing on the pleasures of this world.

11:2 John probably expected the Messiah immediately to judge israel and establish h is kingdom (3:2–12). christ’s failure to do what John anticipated may have planted seeds of doubt in John’s mind about whether Jesus was the Messiah.

Beelzebub

(Gk. Beelzeboul) (10:25; 12:24–27; Mark 3:22; Luke 11:15–19) Strong’s #954

Most of the Greek manuscripts read Beelzeboul, which is probably the right form of this word. t he other reading probably came from the ot word Baal-Zebub—an idol, the god of ekron (see 2 Kin. 1:2). a ll idolatry was regarded as devil worship (Lev. 17:7; Deut. 32:17; Ps. 106:37; 1 cor. 10:20), so there seems to have been something peculiarly satanic about the worship of this hateful god, which caused his name to be a synonym of Satan. t hough we nowhere read that Jesus was actually called Beelzebub, he was charged with being in league with Satan under that hateful name (12:24, 26), and more than once was charged with being possessed by “an unclean spirit” or “demon” (Mark 3:30; John 7:20; 8:48).

Christ

(Gk. Christos) (11:2; 16:16; John 1:41; acts 2:36; 2 cor. 1:21) Strong’s #5547

Many speak of Jesus christ, but do not realize that the title christ is in essence a confession of faith. t he word literally means “the a nointed o ne.” in the o t, forms of its hebrew equivalent messiah were applied to prophets (1 Kin. 19:16), priests (Lev. 4:5, 16), and kings (1 Sam. 24:6, 10), in the sense that all of them were anointed with oil, the symbol that God had set them aside for their respective offices. But the preeminent a nointed o ne would be the promised Messiah, for he would be anointed by God’s Spirit to be the ultimate Prophet, Priest, and King (is. 61:1; John 3:34). With his dramatic confession, “You are the christ, the Son of the living God” (16:16), Peter plainly identified Jesus as the promised Messiah.

of his disciples <sup>3</sup>and said to Him, “Are You <sup>d</sup>the Coming One, or do we look for another?”

<sup>4</sup>Jesus answered and said to them, “Go and tell John the things which you hear and see: <sup>5e</sup>The blind see and the lame walk; the lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear; the dead are raised up and <sup>f</sup>the poor have the gospel preached to them. <sup>6</sup>And blessed is he who is not <sup>g</sup>offended because of Me.”

<sup>7h</sup>As they departed, Jesus began to say to the multitudes concerning John: “What did you go out into the wilderness to see? <sup>i</sup>A reed shaken by the wind? <sup>8</sup>But what did you go out to see? A man clothed in soft garments? Indeed, those who wear soft clothing are in kings’ houses. <sup>9</sup>But what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I say to you, <sup>j</sup>and more than a prophet. <sup>10</sup>For this is he of whom it is written:

*<sup>k</sup>Behold, I send My messenger before Your face,
Who will prepare Your way before
You.*

<sup>11</sup>“Assuredly, I say to you, among those born of women there has not risen one greater than John the Baptist; but he who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. <sup>12l</sup>And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffers violence, and the violent take it by force. <sup>13m</sup>For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John. <sup>14</sup>And if you are willing to receive it, he is <sup>n</sup>Elijah who is to come. <sup>15o</sup>He who has ears to hear, let him hear!

11:3 The Coming One is a title for the Messiah (see Ps. 118:26; Mark 11:9; Luke 13:35; 19:38; heb. 10:37).

11:7-15 in the light of John’s question, some may have questioned his commitment to the Messiah. t his may have prompted Jesus’ supportive statements about John.

11:9, 10 John was more than a prophet in that he alone was the forerunner who announced the coming and presence of the Messiah. in doing so, he fulfilled Mal. 3:1.

11:11 Born of women means that John had a human mother. a very similar expression is used of the Lord Jesus in Gal. 4:4. t he least in the kingdom refers to those who will be living in the coming kingdom. a s great as John was during Jesus’ day, his position as forerunner was inferior to that of the least person in the kingdom of heaven, because that person will have seen and understood the finished work of christ on the cross and through his resurrection—events that John would not live to see. Little wonder that Jesus gave such strong exhortations in 10:32-42 not to miss out on his future reign.

11:12 The violent take it by force in this context probably means that violent people forcibly oppose the kingdom with their hostility (23:13). a s christ’s kingdom advances, so do the attacks against it.

11:13 The prophets and the law refers to the ot , which anticipated the coming of the Messiah. Because John the Baptist was the forerunner of christ, the ot anticipated John’s ministry as well.

11:16-19 Because of their hardness of heart, israel failed to accept either the ministry of John the Baptist or that of the Lord Jesus christ.

11:21 Woe: Jesus pronounced a direct judgment on israel. Chorazin was a village about two and a half miles north of capernaum; Bethsaida was about three miles east. Both of these cities were in Galilee and both had witnessed Jesus’ ministry firsthand. t hey would be judged for seeing the Messiah and then rejecting h im.

11:23 Capernaum, on the north shore of the Sea of Galilee, was the base of operations for christ’s ministry. in 9:1, capernaum is called “his own city.”

Controversy over Sabbath-Labor

Mark 2:23-28; Luke 6:1-5

12 At that time <sup>a</sup>Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath. And His disciples were hungry, and began to <sup>b</sup>pluck heads of grain and to eat. <sup>2</sup>And when the Pharisees saw it, they said to Him, “Look, Your disciples are doing what is not lawful to do on the Sabbath!”

<sup>3</sup>But He said to them, “Have you not read <sup>c</sup>what David did when he was hungry, he and those who were with him: <sup>4</sup>how he entered the house of God and ate <sup>d</sup>the showbread which was not lawful for him to eat, nor for those who were with him, <sup>e</sup>but only for the priests? <sup>5</sup>Or have you not read in the <sup>f</sup>law that on the Sabbath the priests in the temple <sup>1</sup>profane the Sabbath, and are blameless? <sup>6</sup>Yet I say to you that in this place there is <sup>g</sup>One greater than the temple. <sup>7</sup>But if you had known what this means, <sup>h</sup>‘I desire mercy and not sacrifice,’ you would not have condemned the guiltless. <sup>8</sup>For the Son of Man is Lord <sup>2</sup>even of the Sabbath.”

Therefore it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath.” <sup>13</sup>Then He said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” And he stretched it out, and it was restored as whole as the other.

Pharisees Plan to Destroy Christ

Mark 3:6-12; Luke 6:11

<sup>14</sup>Then <sup>k</sup>the Pharisees went out and plotted against Him, how they might destroy Him.

My Beloved <sup>v</sup> in whom My soul is well pleased!

I will put My Spirit upon Him,
And He will declare justice to the Gentiles.

<sup>19</sup> He will not quarrel nor cry out,
Nor will anyone hear His voice in the streets.

<sup>20</sup> A bruised reed He will not break,
And smoking flax He will not quench,

Till He sends forth justice to victory;

<sup>21</sup> And in His name Gentiles will trust.”

Pharisees Blaspheme the Holy Spirit

Mark 3:22-27; Luke 11:17-23

<sup>22a</sup>Then one was brought to Him who was demon-possessed, blind and mute;

11:28 You who labor and are heavy laden describes the Jews as suffering under a load of religious responsibilities laid on them by priests, rabbis, scribes, and Pharisees (see 23:4; acts 15:10). Rest is relief from this burden.

12:2 t he way Jesus observed the Sabbath was a primary point of contention between himself and the religious authorities. t he Pharisees and scribes recognized that the Sabbath was the sign of the Mosaic covenant. t herefore, to desecrate the Sabbath was to flaunt disobedience to the entire Law of Moses (see n um. 15:30–36). While reaping was forbidden on the Sabbath (ex. 34:21), the disciples were picking grain to eat, not for profit. t hey were not breaking God’s law. t he Pharisees had established 39 categories of actions to be forbidden on the Sabbath, and according to them, the disciples were “harvesting” and therefore breaking the Sabbath. t he Pharisees were trying to make Jesus into a lawbreaker and accuse him of wrongdoing.

12:5 profane the Sabbath: o n the Sabbath the priests carried out their work of ministry, showing that their official service had priority over the normal Sabbath observance.

12:7 For a similar use of hos. 6:6, see 9:13.

12:14 Because of Jesus’ view of the Sabbath, the Pharisees concluded that he was trying to overthrow the entire Mosaic system, and therefore had to be destroyed. t heir antagonism toward Jesus was growing.

12:15 withdrew: From this point on, the Lord’s ministry was characterized by opposition, withdrawal from that opposition, and continued ministry to his followers.

12:18–21 t his quotation of is. 42:1–4 shows that the Messiah’s quiet withdrawal was in keeping with the prophet’s portrayal of him. t he most significant aspect of this prophecy is that Jesus’ reserve in the face of Jewish opposition would lead to blessings on the Gentiles.

and He healed him, so that the <sup>4</sup>blind and mute man both spoke and saw. <sup>23</sup>And all the multitudes were amazed and said, “Could this be the <sup>7</sup>Son of David?”

<sup>24</sup>s Now when the Pharisees heard it they said, “This fellow does not cast out demons except by <sup>5</sup>Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons.”

<sup>25</sup>But Jesus <sup>t</sup>knew their thoughts, and said to them: “Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation, and every city or house divided against itself will not stand. <sup>26</sup>If Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then will his kingdom stand? <sup>27</sup>And if I cast out demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your sons cast them out? Therefore they shall be your judges. <sup>28</sup>But if I cast out demons by the Spirit of God, <sup>u</sup>surely the kingdom of God has come upon you. <sup>29</sup>v Or how can one enter a strong man’s house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man? And then he will plunder his house. <sup>30</sup>He who is not with Me is against Me, and he who does not gather with Me scatters abroad.

Pharisees Commit the Unpardonable Sin

Pharisees Demand a Sign

Luke 11:24-26, 29-32

<sup>38</sup><sup>d</sup> Then some of the scribes and Pharisees answered, saying, “Teacher, we want to see a sign from You.”

<sup>39</sup>But He answered and said to them, “An evil and <sup>e</sup>adulterous generation seeks after a sign, and no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. <sup>40</sup>f For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. <sup>41</sup>g The men of Nineveh will rise up in the judgment with this generation and <sup>h</sup>condemn it, <sup>i</sup>because they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and indeed a greater than Jonah is here. <sup>42</sup>j The queen of the South will rise up in the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and indeed a greater than Solomon is here.

<sup>43</sup>k “When an unclean spirit goes out of a man, <sup>l</sup>he goes through dry places, seeking rest, and finds none. <sup>44</sup>Then he says, ‘I will return to my house from which I came.’ And when he comes, he finds it empty, swept, and put in order. <sup>45</sup>Then he goes and takes with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter and dwell there; <sup>m</sup>and the last state of that man is worse than the first. So shall it also be with this wicked generation.”

12:23 Could this be the Son of David may also be translated “t his one can’t be the Son of David, can he?” t the question expected a negative answer.

12:25–28 Jesus’ defense was in three parts. First, a kingdom, city, or even a family cannot continue to exist if it is divided against itself. Second, when the followers of the Pharisees exorcised demons, the Pharisees claimed it was accomplished by the power of God. t third, the casting out of demons by the Messiah indicated the nearness of the kingdom.

12:29 t this verse shows how Jesus the King was confronting the kingdom of Satan. in his exorcisms, Jesus was binding Satan bit by bit; when he comes suddenly to establish his kingdom, he will bind Satan quickly and completely (see r ev. 20:1–10).

12:31, 32 t he sin which will not be forgiven is the stubborn refusal to heed the holy Spirit’s conviction and accept the forgiveness that christ offers. Particularly in reference to the leaders of israel, Jesus had offered them all the proof that could be expected—the ministry of John, the testimony of the Father, the prophecies of the ot, his own testimony, and the substantiation of the holy Spirit. Because the leaders rejected all proofs regarding Jesus as Messiah, nothing else would be given.

12:39 t he demand for signs is evidence of unbelief rather than faith. The sign of the prophet Jonah is explained in v. 40 as the r resurrection.

12:40 Three days and three nights does not necessarily indicate three full days. in ancient israel, a part of a day was considered a whole day (see esth. 4:16; 5:1); so a period of 26 hours could be called “three days.”

12:41, 42 The men of Nineveh and the queen of the South represent Gentiles who came to faith because of the words of God’s prophets and kings, lesser people than Jesus christ, God’s only Son. 12:43–45 t his difficult analogy most likely describes the moral reformation that took place in israel as a result of the ministries of John the Baptist and Jesus. t he reformation, however, was not genuine (3:7–10); therefore, israel’s unbelief and hardness of heart were worse than before.

Jesus and the True Brethren

Mark 3:31-35

46 While He was still talking to the multitudes, <sup>a</sup> behold, His mother and <sup>b</sup>brothers stood outside, seeking to speak with Him. 47 Then one said to Him, “Look, <sup>c</sup>Your mother and Your brothers are standing outside, seeking to speak with You.”

48 But He answered and said to the one who told Him, “Who is My mother and who are My brothers?” 49 And He stretched out His hand toward His disciples and said, “Here are My mother and My <sup>d</sup>brothers! 50 For <sup>e</sup>whoever does the will of My Father in heaven is My brother and sister and mother.”

Parable of the Soils

Mark 4:1-20; Luke 8:4-15

13 On the same day Jesus went out of the house <sup>a</sup> and sat by the sea. 2<sup>b</sup> And great multitudes were gathered together to Him, so that <sup>c</sup>He got into a boat and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 Then He spoke many things to them in parables, saying: <sup>d</sup>“Behold, a sower went out to sow. 4 And as he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds came and devoured them. 5 Some fell on stony places, where they did not have much earth; and they immediately sprang up because they had no depth of earth. 6 But when the sun was up they were scorched, and because they had no root they withered away. 7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up and choked them. 8 But others fell on good ground and yielded a crop: some <sup>e</sup>a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. 9<sup>f</sup> He who has ears to hear, let him hear!”

10 And the disciples came and said to Him, “Why do You speak to them in parables?”

11 He answered and said to them, “Because <sup>g</sup>it has been given to you to know the <sup>1</sup> mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given. 12<sup>h</sup> For whoever has, to him more will be given, and he will have abundance; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him. 13 Therefore I speak to them in parables, because seeing they do not see, and hearing they do not hear, nor do they understand. 14 And in them the prophecy of Isaiah is fulfilled, which says:

*<sup>i</sup>“Hearing you will hear and shall not understand,
 And seeing you will see and not perceive;
 15 For the hearts of this people have grown dull.
 Their ears <sup>k</sup> are hard of hearing,
 And their eyes they have <sup>l</sup> closed,
 Lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears,
 Lest they should understand with their hearts and turn,
 So that I <sup>2</sup> should <sup>m</sup> heal them.”*

16 But <sup>n</sup> blessed are your eyes for they see, and your ears for they hear; 17 for assuredly, I say to you <sup>o</sup> that many prophets and righteous men desired to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.

18<sup>p</sup> “Therefore hear the parable of the sower: 19 When anyone hears the word <sup>q</sup> of the kingdom, and does not understand it, then the wicked one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is he who received seed by the wayside. 20 But he who received the seed on stony places, this is he who hears the word and immediately <sup>r</sup> receives it with joy; 21 yet he has no root in himself, but endures only for a while. 13:3 He spoke many things to them in parables: t his teaching method, often used by the rabbis, utilized common scenes from everyday life to teach new truths about the kingdom.

13:4 Some seed fell by the wayside speaks of soil hardened by much human and animal traffic, that failed to allow penetration of the seed, leaving it fair game for the birds.

13:5 Stony places refers to shallow soil resting on a shelf of rock. t he thin layer of dust or dirt accelerated the seed’s growth under the hot sun, but the plant could only live a short time because of the shallow soil.

13:7 Among thorns suggests good soil occupied with wild growth.

13:8 Good ground refers to prepared or tilled soil that allows prosperous growth.

13:11-15 It has been given to you: t he purpose of this parable was both to reveal (v. 11) and to conceal the truth (v. 13). t his hiding of the truth was a judgment for unbelief, as happened during isahiah’s ministry (see is. 6:9, 10).

13:11 The mysteries of the kingdom of heaven refers to new truths about the promised kingdom.

13:12 whoever has, to him more will be given: Just as the failure to respond to truth brings blindness, so a positive response is rewarded with further understanding (see Luke 8:16-18). t his principle is applied to the leaders of israel in fulfillment of many <sup>o</sup> prophecies—especially is. 6:9, 10. t he leaders’ rejection of the message of Jesus further blinded them to the spiritual nature of christ’s kingdom. Parables then became Jesus’ effective tools for both revealing truth to the faithful and concealing it from those who would reject it. a s emphasized by Mark 4:11, 12, Jesus’ parables revealed the truths of his kingdom as well as the unbelief of many.

thorns is he who hears the word, and the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and he becomes unfruitful. <sup>23</sup> But he who received seed on the good ground is he who hears the word and understands it, who indeed bears <sup>w</sup> fruit and produces: some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.”

Parable of the Wheat and Tares

<sup>24</sup> Another parable He put forth to them, saying: “The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field; <sup>25</sup> but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat and went his way. <sup>26</sup> But when the grain had sprouted and produced a crop, then the tares also appeared. <sup>27</sup> So the servants of the owner came and said to him, ‘Sir, did you not sow good seed in your field? How then does it have tares?’ <sup>28</sup> He said to them, ‘An enemy has done this.’ The servants said to him, ‘Do you want us then to go and gather them up?’ <sup>29</sup> But he said, ‘No, lest while you gather up the tares you also uproot the wheat with them. <sup>30</sup> Let both grow together until the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, “First gather together the tares and bind them in bundles to burn them, but <sup>x</sup>gather the wheat into my barn.”’”

Parable of the Mustard Seed

Mark 4:30-32; Luke 13:18, 19

<sup>31</sup> Another parable He put forth to them, saying: <sup>y</sup> “The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field, <sup>32</sup> which indeed is the least of all the seeds; but when it is grown it is greater than the herbs and

Parable of the Leaven

Luke 13:20, 21

<sup>33a</sup> Another parable He spoke to them: “The kingdom of heaven is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three <sup>3</sup> measures of meal till <sup>b</sup> it was all leavened.”

<sup>34c</sup> All these things Jesus spoke to the multitude in parables; and without a parable He did not speak to them, <sup>35</sup> that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying:

<sup>e</sup> I will utter things kept secret from the foundation of the world.”

Parable of the Tares Explained

<sup>36</sup> Then Jesus sent the multitude away and went into the house. And His disciples came to Him, saying, “Explain to us the parable of the tares of the field.”

13:24 The kingdom of heaven is like: t his phrase introduces new truth regarding God’s coming kingdom. t he introductory formula does not mean that the kingdom is to be exactly identified with a man, or a mustard seed (v. 31), or leaven (v. 33). it simply means that some truth regarding the kingdom is found in the story. a parable was primarily intended to teach one point, not to be picked apart to find meaning in all of its details.

13:25 his enemy came and sowed tares: tares closely resemble wheat, but are poisonous to human beings. t hey are indistinguishable from wheat until the final fruit appears. Farmers would weed out tares just before the wheat harvest. until christ returns, both genuine believers and counterfeits will be allowed to remain together.

13:31, 32 The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed: t he parable of the wheat and tares (vv. 24–30) reveals that the kingdom of heaven will be preceded by an age in which good and evil coexist. t he parable of the mustard seed affirms that during that time period, the number of people who will inherit the kingdom will be very small at first. But though it begins like the smallest of seeds, the nucleus will enjoy growth completely out of proportion to its initial size. The birds of the air do not represent evil as they do in the parable of the soils (vv. 4, 19). in the ot , a tree large enough to support nesting birds was considered prosperous and healthy

(see Ps. 104:12; ezek. 17:23; 31:6; Dan. 4:12, 21). t he kingdom, though having only a small number of people at the beginning of the age, will ultimately be large and prosperous.

13:33 The kingdom of heaven is like leaven: a lthough leaven sometimes symbolizes evil, here the kingdom of heaven is being compared to the dynamic character of yeast. When yeast is kneaded into the dough, it expands by itself. r ather than being powered by outward armies or organizations, the kingdom of God will grow by an internal dynamic, the holy Spirit, overcoming all opposition. a s the parable of the mustard seed (vv. 31, 32) addresses the extent of the kingdom’s growth, this parable concerns the power and process of its growth.

13:35 t he quotation of a saph in Ps. 78:2 serves as a prophecy of Jesus’ use of parables.

13:36 Jesus sent the multitude away: t he parables of vv. 1–35 were addressed to the multitude. t he phrase went into the house indicates that the parables of vv. 44–52 were for the disciples only. During this “private instruction,” Jesus explained his previous stories and added four more.

13:38 Sons of the kingdom refers to heirs of the kingdom.

13:39 The end of the age speaks of the time when the Son of Man will come to set up his righteous kingdom.

The World of the Fishermen

Fishing on the Sea of Galilee was big business. t his body of water, eight miles wide and 13 miles long, lay beside a fertile plain renowned for its agriculture. in Jesus' day, nine cities crowded its shorelines, each with no less than fifteen thousand citizens, possibly making the region's total population greater than Jerusalem's. t he names of the towns reflect the importance of fishing to the life and economy of the area. For example, Bethsaida—from which at least four fishermen left their nets to follow Jesus (Matt. 4:18–22; John 1:44)—means “fish town”; most of the town was employed in the fishing industry.

Shoals just offshore were a fisherman's paradise. in Jesus' day, hundreds of fishing boats trawled the lake. Galileans ate little meat besides fish. it came highly salted because there was no other way to preserve the “catch of the day.”

Parable of the Pearl of Great Price

<sup>45</sup>“Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant seeking beautiful pearls, <sup>46</sup>who, when he had found <sup>p</sup>one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had and bought it.

The angels will come forth, <sup>r</sup>separate the wicked from among the just, <sup>50</sup>and cast them into the furnace of fire. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth.”

Parable of the Householder

<sup>51</sup><sup>4</sup>Jesus said to them, “Have you understood all these things?”

They said to Him, “Yes, <sup>5</sup>Lord.”

<sup>53</sup>Now it came to pass, when Jesus had finished these parables, that He departed from there.

13:44 the kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field: t he parables of vv. 44–52 concern kingdom values and responsibilities. t hey are especially directed at believers. t he first two are recorded by Matthew alone and appear to belong together. Stripped of their grand dreams of an immediate, powerful kingdom of David and facing the prospect of much opposition on all sides, the disciples were forced to count the cost. in the first story a man stumbles on a treasure trove, which he makes every effort to obtain. t he central truth being taught is the immense value of the kingdom, which far outweighs any sacrifice or inconvenience one might encounter on earth.

13:45, 46 the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant seeking beautiful pearls: t his second parable on kingdom values was evidently given to further underscore Jesus' optimism for the despondent disciples. his double encouragement indicates their great need at that time. t his parable has a slightly different emphasis. t hough the first individual found his treasure by accident, the second found his by diligent search. no matter how a person is led to christ's kingdom, its values and delights will be beyond estimation.

13:47–50 the kingdom of heaven is like a dragnet: t he last two parables speak of kingdom responsibilities for disciples. First, Jesus describes a large seine net, which would encircle a large area and drag the bottom of a lake. Such a net gathers fish of every kind, without discrimination. Similarly, the responsibility of disciples would be to catch as many “fish”—of every kind—as possible. t he work of judging or ferreting out the false catch, however, is a job that disciples are neither called nor equipped to do. t hat work is assigned to angels at christ's return.

13:51, 52 Things new and old refers to truths about the kingdom that were found in the ot and those that were freshly revealed in these parables. t his parable calls for action on the part of the disciples in view of what they had learned. t hey were to be responsible stewards and dispensers of these kingdom treasures.

Rejection at Nazareth

Mark 6:1-6

<sup>54</sup> When He had come to His own country, He taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished and said, “Where did this Man get this wisdom and these mighty works? <sup>55</sup> Is this not the carpenter’s son? Is not His mother called Mary? And <sup>v</sup> His brothers <sup>w</sup> James, <sup>8</sup> Joses, Simon, and Judas? <sup>56</sup> And His sisters, are they not all with us? Where then did this Man get all these things?” <sup>57</sup> So they <sup>x</sup> were offended at Him.

But Jesus said to them, <sup>y</sup> “A prophet is not without honor except in his own country and in his own house.” <sup>58</sup> Now <sup>z</sup> He did not do many mighty works there because of their unbelief.

<sup>8</sup> So she, having been prompted by her mother, said, “Give me John the Baptist’s head here on a platter.”

<sup>9</sup> And the king was sorry; nevertheless, because of the oaths and because of those

Jesus Feeds 5,000

Mark 6:31-44; Luke 9:11-17; John 6:1-13

<sup>13</sup> <sup>e</sup> When Jesus heard it, He departed from there by boat to a deserted place by Himself. But when the multitudes heard it, they followed Him on foot from the cities. <sup>14</sup> And when Jesus went out He saw a great multitude; and He <sup>f</sup> was moved with compassion for them, and healed their sick. <sup>15</sup> <sup>g</sup> When it was evening, His disciples came to Him, saying, “This is a deserted place, and the hour is already late. Send the multitudes away, that they may go into the villages and buy themselves food.”

<sup>16</sup> But Jesus said to them, “They do not need to go away. You give them something to eat.”

<sup>17</sup> And they said to Him, “We have here only five loaves and two fish.”

<sup>18</sup> He said, “Bring them here to Me.” <sup>19</sup> Then He commanded the multitudes to sit down on the grass. And He took the five loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, <sup>h</sup> He blessed and broke and gave the loaves to the disciples; and the disciples gave to the multitudes. <sup>20</sup> So they all ate and were filled, and they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments that remained. <sup>21</sup> Now those who had eaten were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

Jesus Walks on Water

Mark 6:45-52; John 6:15-21

<sup>22</sup> Immediately Jesus <sup>1</sup> made His disciples get into the boat and go before Him to the other side, while He sent the multitudes away. <sup>23</sup> <sup>i</sup> And when He had sent the multitudes away, He went up on

13:55 carpenter’s son: carpenter basically means skilled worker. Joseph may have been a stonemason or some other type of craftsman.

13:57, 58 A prophet is not without honor except in his own country: in this second mission of Jesus to nazareth, his hometown, he found that the people’s unbelief had not abated (see Luke 4:16–30). Because of their familiarity with Jesus, the people failed to recognize him for who he is; their eyes were blinded by unbelief.

14:1, 2 John the Baptist had already been beheaded (how that happened is recorded in the following verses). according to herod, the miracles of christ were so wonderful that they could only be explained as the work of a resurrected prophet, perhaps John the Baptist.

14:3, 4 herod had gone to rome where he met herodias, the wife of his half brother philip. after seducing herodias, herod divorced his own wife and married her. John had rebuked the king for his moral transgression.

14:20 Jesus’ miraculous feeding of the crowd indicates a number of things: (1) he fulfills the expectations of those looking forward to a new Moses, based on Deut. 18:15 (see John 1:21; a cts 3:22; 7:37); (2) he can supply the daily bread requested in 6:11; and (3) he is the Messiah who will provide the messianic banquet (see 22:1–14; 26:29; Ps. 132:15; is. 25:6). t this miracle is so significant that it is the only pre-crucifixion sign recorded in all four Gospels.

<sup>25</sup> Now in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went to them, walking on the sea.

<sup>26</sup> And when the disciples saw Him <sup>k</sup> walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, “It is a ghost!” And they cried out for fear.

<sup>28</sup> And Peter answered Him and said, “Lord, if it is You, command me to come to You on the water.”

<sup>29</sup> So He said, “Come.” And when Peter had come down out of the boat, he walked on the water to go to Jesus. <sup>30</sup> But when he saw <sup>5</sup> that the wind was boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink he cried out, saying, “Lord, save me!”

<sup>31</sup> And immediately Jesus stretched out His hand and caught him, and said to him, “O you of <sup>m</sup> little faith, why did you doubt?” <sup>32</sup> And when they got into the boat, the wind ceased.

<sup>33</sup> Then those who were in the boat <sup>6</sup> came and worshiped Him, saying, “Truly <sup>n</sup> You are the Son of God.”

Jesus Heals Many

Jesus, saying, <sup>2b</sup> “Why do Your disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands when they eat bread.”

<sup>3</sup> He answered and said to them, “Why do you also transgress the commandment of God because of your tradition? <sup>4</sup> For God commanded, saying, <sup>c</sup> ‘Honor your father and your mother’; and, <sup>d</sup> ‘He who curses father or mother, let him be put to death.’ <sup>5</sup> But you say, ‘Whoever says to his father or mother, <sup>e</sup> ‘Whatever profit you might have received from me is a gift to God’— <sup>6</sup> then he need not honor his father <sup>l</sup> or mother.’ Thus you have made the <sup>2</sup> commandment of God of no effect by your tradition. <sup>7f</sup> Hypocrites! Well did Isaiah prophesy about you, saying:

<sup>10i</sup> When He had called the multitude to Himself, He said to them, “Hear and understand: <sup>11j</sup> Not what goes into the mouth defiles a man; but what comes out of the mouth, this defiles a man.”

<sup>12</sup> Then His disciples came and said to Him, “Do You know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this saying?”

<sup>13</sup> But He answered and said, <sup>k</sup> “Every plant which My heavenly Father has not planted will be uprooted. <sup>14</sup> Let them alone. <sup>l</sup> They are blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind leads the blind, both will fall into a ditch.”

r om. 2:19 15 <sup>m</sup> Mark 7:17

14:25 The fourth watch would be between 3:00 and 6:00 A.M.

14:27 It is I may also be translated “I am.” Some interpret this as a claim to deity (see ex. 3:14).

14:28–31 Only the Gospel of Matthew records the miracle of Peter walking on the water. This was a valuable lesson for the disciples to learn: they could do the impossible with the power of Christ.

15:1 The fact that the scribes and Pharisees had traveled from Jerusalem to Galilee to see Jesus indicates that Jesus’ reputation was becoming widespread.

15:2 The tradition of the elders was not the Law of Moses, it was the oral tradition based on interpretations of the law. They washed their hands ceremonially to remove defilement, not for hygienic purposes (see Mark 7:2–4).

15:3 In typical rabbinical style, Jesus answered the accusations of the scribes and Pharisees with a question. Whereas they challenged Jesus for his disciples’ violation of the teachings of former rabbis, Jesus challenged them for violating the commandment of God.

the scribes and Pharisees were placing their own views above the revelation of God, and yet claimed to be following him.

15:4–6 Jesus was referring to a practice whereby people would dedicate their possessions to God so that they could use their finances for themselves and not for others. For example, if parents needed money, the children could excuse themselves from helping because their resources were already “dedicated” to God. This ruse kept people from honoring their parents by taking care of them in their old age.

15:10, 11 In vv. 3–9, Jesus rebuked the scribes and Pharisees for being so obsessed with traditions that they failed to observe basic commandments. Here he chided them for being so concerned with external ceremonial washings and dietary regulations that they failed to deal with character. Both of these charges were an outgrowth of the accusations of the scribes and Pharisees recorded in v. 2.

Mark 7:24-30

<sup>21</sup><sup>r</sup>Then Jesus went out from there and departed to the region of Tyre and Sidon. <sup>22</sup>And behold, a woman of Canaan came from that region and cried out to Him, saying, “Have mercy on me, O Lord, <sup>s</sup>Son of David! My daughter is severely demon-possessed.”

And His disciples came and urged Him, saying, “Send her away, for she cries out after us.”

<sup>24</sup>But He answered and said, “I was not sent except to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.”

<sup>25</sup>Then she came and worshiped Him, saying, “Lord, help me!”

<sup>26</sup>But He answered and said, “It is not good to take the children’s bread and throw it to the little “dogs.”

<sup>27</sup>And she said, “Yes, Lord, yet even the little dogs eat the crumbs which fall from their masters’ table.”

<sup>28</sup>Then Jesus answered and said to her, “O woman, <sup>v</sup>great is your faith! Let it be to you as you desire.” And her daughter was healed from that very hour.

And they said, “Seven, and a few little fish.”

<sup>35</sup>So He commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground. <sup>36</sup>And <sup>d</sup>He took the seven loaves and the fish and <sup>e</sup>gave thanks, broke them and gave them to His disciples; and the disciples gave to the multitude. <sup>37</sup>So they all ate and were filled, and they took up seven large baskets full of the fragments that were left.

David put it this way: “Your word i have hidden in my heart, that i might not sin against You” (Ps. 119:11). t the other side is seen in Ps 101:3: “i will set nothing wicked before my eyes.” Paul pictured the believer as “bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of christ” (see 2 cor. 10:5). 15:22 t the woman was a Gentile who would have had no natural claims on a Jewish Messiah. 15:24 t his verse demonstrates christ’s commitment to Israel, whom he called lost sheep. Further, the word for large baskets in v. 37 is different from the word for “baskets” in 14:20. 16:1 sign from heaven: Perhaps the scribes and Pharisees were thinking of signs such as the fire from heaven that answered elijah’s prayer (see 1 Kin. 18:36-38), the plagues on egypt (see ex. 7-12), or the sun standing still (see Josh. 10:12-14).

Revelation of the Person of the King

Mark 8:27-30; Luke 9:18-21

<sup>13</sup>When Jesus came into the region of Caesarea Philippi, He asked His disciples, saying,<sup>g</sup> “Who do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?”

<sup>15</sup>He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?”

<sup>16</sup>Simon Peter answered and said,<sup>k</sup> “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.”

John 20:23

16:4 And He left them: Previously Jesus had withdrawn in the face of opposition (12:15; 14:13; 15:21); here he left the Pharisees and Sadducees, meaning that he abandoned or forsook them. Jesus deserted these religious leaders as reprobates.

16:5 The other side refers to the other side of the Sea of Galilee, where the Gentiles lived.

16:11, 12 in Scripture, leaven is often used as a symbol of evil. t he doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees was hypocrisy, legalism, political opportunism, and spiritual hardness. Jesus’ warning here was a result of the Pharisees’ request for a sign in vv. 1–4.

16:13 Caesarea Philippi was located north of the Sea of Galilee, at the base of the southwest slope of Mt. hermon. t he place had long been associated with idol worship. t he site for pagan worship centered on a massive stone facade, which Jesus referred to in his play on words concerning “rock” in v. 18. Who do men say that I . . . am: in the face of the surrounding idols, c hrist led his disciples into a proclamation of his deity by first soliciting from them what other people said. in the end, however, what mattered was the apostles’ own beliefs concerning Jesus.

16:16 t he Spirit of grace revealed to Peter the true identity of the Lord Jesus. Son of the living God refers to Jesus’ deity. Several factors point to this conclusion: (1) he was born of a virgin (1:18–20); (2) he was called immanuel, meaning “God with us” (1:23); (3) the title in Greek is emphatic: “the Son of the God, the living one”; and (4) later passages describe c hrist as God (see John 20:27–29).

16:17 has not revealed: People do not come to faith in Jesus c hrist by scrutiny or searching, but by the Father’s revelation of the Son to them (see John 6:65).

16:18 t he words I will build My church indicate that the church had not yet been started. o bviously the disciples did not at this point understand the doctrine of the n t church with its equality of Jew and Gentile (see eph. 2:11–3:7). t hey simply understood it to be the Lord’s followers. the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it: Jesus may have been saying simply that death would not vanquish the church. o ne day, by the power of c hrist’s resurrection, the church and all the redeemed will be resurrected. o thers suggest that the phrase means that the forces of evil will not be able to conquer the people of God.

16:19 You in this passage is singular. The keys of the kingdom may refer to Peter’s opening the kingdom to various groups of people (Jews in acts 2; 3; Samaritans in acts 8:14–17; Gentiles in acts 10). t he keys would open doors to lost people. however, this term may have further significance. t he keys seem to be explained by the binding and loosing discussed in the last part of the verse. in rabbinical literature, binding and loosing refers to what was a s Peter and rock are one word in the language spoken by Jesus (aramaic), the wordplay in this verse can be duplicated only in languages that also have one word for both. in Greek, the word for Peter is petros (meaning “stone”); the word for rock is petra. Some commentators have indicated that, though the two words are nearly synonymous, Jesus intended a distinction—Peter is but a fragment of the whole, while c hrist himself is the entire rock. t hus it could be said that the church would be built on c hrist, the r ock. Be that as it may, at least it can be said that the context allows that the rock upon which the church is built is Peter’s confession that Jesus is the Son of God.

<sup>20</sup> Then He commanded His disciples that they should tell no one that He was Jesus the Christ.

Revelation of Jesus’ Death

Mark 8:31-33; Luke 9:22

<sup>21</sup> From that time Jesus began <sup>s</sup> to show to His disciples that He must go to Jerusalem, and suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised the third day.

<sup>22</sup> Then Peter took Him aside and began to rebuke Him, saying, <sup>9</sup> “Far be it from You, Lord; this shall not happen to You!”

<sup>23</sup> But He turned and said to Peter, “Get behind Me, Satan! You are <sup>1</sup> an offense to Me, for you are not mindful of the things of God, but the things of men.”

Revelation of Jesus’ Reward

Mark 8:34-37; Luke 9:23-25

<sup>24</sup> Then Jesus said to His disciples, “If anyone desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me. <sup>25</sup> For <sup>x</sup> whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will find it. <sup>26</sup> For what <sup>y</sup> profit is it to a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul? The Transfiguration

Mark 9:2-13; Luke 9:28-36; 2 Pet. 1:17, 18

17 Now <sup>a</sup> after six days Jesus took Peter, James, and John his brother, led them up on a high mountain by themselves; <sup>2</sup> and He was transfigured before them. His face shone like the sun, and His clothes became as white as the light. <sup>3</sup> And behold, Moses and Elijah appeared to them, talking with Him. <sup>4</sup> Then Peter answered and said to Jesus, “Lord, it is good for us to be here; if You wish, <sup>1</sup> let us make here three tabernacles: one for You, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.”

<sup>9</sup> Now as they came down from the mountain, Jesus commanded them, saying, “Tell the vision to no one until the Son of Man is risen from the dead.”

permitted or not permitted. So this passage may refer to judgments that Peter would make about what would be permitted or forbidden in the church, the body of believers.

16:20 Because the public did not understand the concept of the suffering Messiah, they were not to be told that He was Jesus the Christ. Furthermore, the nation had already turned away from Christ. They had crossed the point of no return (12:31, 32).

16:21 The phrase from that time marks a new direction in Jesus’ ministry. The expression occurs twice in the Book of Matthew, here and in 4:17. In 4:17, it introduces the beginning of Jesus’ ministry in announcing the nearness of the kingdom. Here it introduces the cross and the ultimate rejection of the Messiah. Elders and chief priests and scribes refer to the makeup of the Jewish council, also called the Sanhedrin. Together with the mention of Jerusalem, this indicates that Jesus’ rejection would be an official one. Be killed is the first of three predictions in Matthew concerning Christ’s death (see 17:22, 23; 20:18, 19).

16:22 rebuke Him: Peter had confessed Jesus’ deity earlier (v. 16). Now he was attempting to correct Jesus.

16:23 to call Peter Satan was a very serious thing. But Peter was standing in the way of the plan of God, and so he was speaking for Satan.

16:28 coming in His kingdom: This verse anticipates the transfiguration in ch. 17. Several reasons point to this conclusion: (1) It is Peter’s interpretation in 2 Pet. 1:16–18; (2) the three synoptic Gospels (John omits the account of the transfiguration) all place the transfiguration immediately after this prediction; and (3) some—not all—of the apostles saw the transfiguration (19:27–30). In the transfiguration, Peter, James, and John saw a preview of the kingdom.

17:1 The high mountain was probably a spur of Mt. Hermon, which rises to about 9,400 feet above sea level.

17:3 Moses and Elijah represented the Old Testament, personifying the Law and the Prophets. Their presence indicated that the Old Testament Scriptures had been looking forward to the Messiah and his kingdom.

17:5 This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased were the identical words spoken at Jesus’ baptism in 3:17 (see Ps. 2:7; Is. 42:1). Hear Him seems to refer to Deut. 18:15.

17:9 Tell the vision to no one: The command for silence was due to the fact that the masses of Israel had an incorrect concept of the Messiah (8:4; 12:16). They expected a conquering king, not a suffering servant.

17:10 The three disciples evidently did not comprehend the reference to Christ’s death in v. 9. The problem they raised concerned the transfiguration. They had just seen Elijah on the mountain. If the scribes were correct that Elijah must come before the kingdom would arrive, why should the disciples not inform everyone that Elijah had appeared on the mountain?

<sup>h</sup>“Why then do the scribes say that Elijah must come first?”

<sup>11</sup>Jesus answered and said to them, “Indeed, Elijah is coming <sup>2</sup>first and will <sup>i</sup>restore all things. <sup>12</sup>But I say to you that Elijah has come already, and they <sup>k</sup>did not know him but did to him whatever they wished. Likewise <sup>l</sup>the Son of Man is also about to suffer at their hands.” <sup>13</sup><sup>m</sup>Then the disciples understood that He spoke to them of John the Baptist.

Instruction About Faith

Mark 9:14-29; Luke 9:37-42

<sup>14</sup><sup>n</sup>And when they had come to the multitude, a man came to Him, kneeling down to Him and saying, <sup>15</sup>“Lord, have mercy on my son, for he is <sup>3</sup>an epileptic and suffers severely; for he often falls into the fire and often into the water. <sup>16</sup>So I brought him to Your disciples, but they could not cure him.”

<sup>17</sup>Then Jesus answered and said, “O <sup>4</sup>faithless and <sup>o</sup>perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? How long shall I bear with you? Bring him here to Me.” <sup>18</sup>And Jesus <sup>p</sup>rebuked the demon, and it came out of him; and the child was cured from that very hour.

<sup>19</sup>Then the disciples came to Jesus privately and said, “Why could we not cast it out?”

<sup>20</sup>So Jesus said to them, “Because of your <sup>5</sup>unbelief; for assuredly, I say to you, <sup>q</sup>if you have faith as a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, ‘Move from here to there,’ and it will move; and nothing will be impossible for you. <sup>21</sup><sup>6</sup>However, this kind does not go out except by prayer and fasting.”

Instruction About Jesus' Death

Mark 9:30-32; Luke 9:43-45

<sup>22</sup><sup>r</sup>Now while they were <sup>7</sup>staying in Galilee, Jesus said to them, “The Son of Man is about to be betrayed into the hands of men, <sup>23</sup>and they will kill Him, and the third day He will be raised up.” And they were exceedingly <sup>s</sup>sorrowful.

Instruction About Taxes

<sup>24</sup><sup>t</sup>When they had come to <sup>8</sup>Capernaum, those who received the <sup>9</sup>temple tax came to Peter and said, “Does your Teacher not pay the temple tax?”

<sup>25</sup>He said, “Yes.”

And when he had come into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, “What do you think, Simon? From whom do the kings of the earth take customs or taxes, from their sons or from <sup>u</sup>strangers?”

Jesus said to him, “Then the sons are free. <sup>27</sup>Nevertheless, lest we offend them, go to the sea, cast in a hook, and take the fish that comes up first. And when you have opened its mouth, you will find a <sup>1</sup>piece of money; take that and give it to them for Me and you.”

Instruction About Humility

Mark 9:33-37; Luke 9:46-48

18 At <sup>a</sup>that time the disciples came to Jesus, saying, “Who then is greatest in the kingdom of heaven?”

<sup>2</sup>Then Jesus called a little <sup>b</sup>child to Him, set him in the midst of them, <sup>3</sup>and said, “Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>c</sup>unless you are converted and become as little children, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven. <sup>4</sup><sup>d</sup>Therefore who-

17:11 t he Lord informed his three apostles that the scribes were right in their interpretation of Mal. 3:1; 4:5, 6. t he fact that Christ used the phrase will restore all things indicates that the prophecy still has a future fulfillment.

17:12, 13 Jesus indicates that the prophecies concerning Elijah had their fulfillment in John the Baptist. Yet because the restoration is not complete, some conclude that the role of Elijah will be taken up by one of the two witnesses of r ev. 11:3-6.

17:15 in this case, the epilepsy was caused by a demon (v. 18).

17:20 t he disciples could not exorcise the demon because they failed in faith. t he power was there, but they had failed to appropriate it.

17:22, 23 Jesus and the disciples began what would be Jesus' final journey to Jerusalem. o nce again Jesus predicted his death and resurrection (see also 16:21; 20:18, 19). o nce again the disciples failed to understand the r esurrection; they seemed to have heard only h is words about his coming death, because they became exceedingly sorrowful.

17:24 The temple tax was a tax given annually by every adult Jewish male over 20 years of age for maintaining the temple. t his tax was based on ex. 30:13, and amounted to two day's wages for a common laborer. evidently Jesus had not yet paid the tax, and the temple tax collector was following up on it.

17:25 Peter, desiring to maintain the best reputation and also assuming the best of his Master, replied to the tax collector (v. 24) that Jesus had paid the temple tax. Anticipated implies that Peter was about to speak, evidently about the matter of Christ paying the temple tax, when Jesus spoke first. Their sons may refer to citizens of a country as opposed to conquered peoples or strangers. h owever, citizens often pay customs and taxes. More likely the contrast is between the imperial family and the common people.

17:26 in this verse, Jesus demonstrates that, as God's Son, he was free from the obligation to pay the temple tax. in fact, the temple belonged to him (see Mal. 3:1). t he fact that h e used the plural sons implies that Peter and the other disciples were also free from that obligation.

18:1 Matthew 18 contains the fourth of five discourses in Matthew's Gospel (compare 5:1-7:27; 10:1-42; 13:1-53; 24:1-25:46). t he theme of this discourse is humility. Jesus outlines five reasons that humility is essential: (1) for entrance into the kingdom (vv. 2, 3); (2) for greatness in the kingdom (v. 4); (3) to prevent offenses (vv. 5-11); (4) to carry on proper discipline in the church (vv. 5-20); and (5) for forgiving one another (vv. 21-35). Greatest in the kingdom implies rank, a concept implied by Jesus himself in 5:19.

18:3, 4 Converted means to turn around (see Luke 22:32).

ever humbles himself as this little child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.<sup>5c</sup> Whoever receives one little child like this in My name receives Me.

Punishment of Offenders

Mark 9:42-48

<sup>6f</sup>“Whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in Me to sin, it would be better for him if a millstone were hung around his neck, and he were drowned in the depth of the sea. <sup>7</sup>Woe to the world because of <sup>1</sup>offenses! For <sup>g</sup>offenses must come, but <sup>h</sup>woe to that man by whom the offense comes!

<sup>8i</sup>“If your hand or foot causes you to sin, cut it off and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life lame or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet, to be cast into the everlasting fire. <sup>9</sup>And if your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes, to be cast into <sup>2</sup>hell fire.

<sup>10</sup>“Take heed that you do not despise one of these little ones, for I say to you that in heaven <sup>j</sup>their angels always <sup>k</sup>see the face of My Father who is in heaven. <sup>11l</sup>For <sup>3</sup>the Son of Man has come to save that which was lost.

it, assuredly, I say to you, he rejoices more over that sheep than over the ninety-nine that did not go astray. <sup>14</sup>Even so it is not the <sup>n</sup>will of your Father who is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish.

The Offended Brother

<sup>15</sup>“Moreover <sup>o</sup>if your brother sins against you, go and tell him his fault between you and him alone. If he hears you, <sup>p</sup>you have gained your brother. <sup>16</sup>But if he will not hear, take with you one or two more, that <sup>q</sup>‘by the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.’ <sup>17</sup>And if he refuses to hear them, tell it to the church. But if he refuses even to hear the church, let him be to you like a <sup>r</sup>heathen and a tax collector.

<sup>18</sup>“Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>s</sup>whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven.

<sup>19t</sup>“Again <sup>4</sup>I say to you that if two of you agree on earth concerning anything that they ask, <sup>u</sup>it will be done for them by My Father in heaven. <sup>20</sup>For where two or three are gathered <sup>v</sup>together in My name, I am there in the midst of them.”

Instruction About Forgiveness

<sup>21</sup>Then Peter came to Him and said, “Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? <sup>w</sup>Up to seven times?”

<sup>22</sup>Jesus said to him, “I do not say to you, <sup>x</sup>up to seven times, but up to seventy times seven. <sup>23</sup>Therefore the kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who

18:6 Causes . . . to sin literally means to put a snare, trap, or stumbling block in someone’s way. a millstone was a heavy grinding stone so large that it had to be turned by a donkey.

18:8, 9 t his same basic statement is found in reverse order in 5:29, 30. o ne of the keys to understanding this assertion is to recognize the present tense of causes you to sin. a lthough the warning was addressed to the disciples, it describes a person who has a lifestyle of sinning and needs drastic measures in order to change it (see 1 John 3:7–10).

18:10 One of these little ones describes either a little child or a believer. Verses 12–14 seem to indicate a believer. here Jesus implies that angels watch over and serve his followers on earth (see heb. 1:14).

18:14 These little ones probably refers back to those who believe (v. 6). t he Father watches over each of his little ones.

18:15–17 Jesus teaches his disciples about the process of restoring an erring believer. First, there should be a loving personal confrontation. t he second step outlined in v. 16 is not as clear. t he principle of witnesses is taken from Deut. 19:15, but what is it the witnesses attest? evidently they witness that the offended brother is acting in good faith and the right spirit in attempting to work out a reconciliation. t hey also would be witnesses to any agreement. if this does not bring peace, the offended brother is to report it to the assembly. t he church then is to do everything possible to convince the believer who has sinned to be reconciled or to right the wrong. if the erring one will not respond, that person is to be disciplined by being cut off from the fellowship. Such a loss would be extremely painful to the offender (1 cor. 5:11; 2 t hess. 3:6, 14, 15).

18:18 bind: Binding refers to things that are not permitted; loosing refers to things that are permitted (16:19). a s in 16:19, the tenses imply that what is loosed or bound on earth will have been determined already in heaven. in other words, this is a promise of divine direction for each local church.

18:19, 20 t his passage specifically refers to church discipline. it is a promise for guidance for the two or three who confront, and a promise for the church to claim wisdom and restoration for the erring brother.

18:21 Peter’s question was a logical outgrowth of the teachings of vv. 15–20. a ctually Peter was being very generous in his willingness to forgive up to seven times. t he traditional limit was three times, possibly because of the refrain in a mos 1:3, 6, 9, 11, 13; 2:1, 4, 6.

18:22 Seventy times seven may also mean “seventy-seven times.” t he point is not to keep count at all, but to always be willing to forgive.

18:23–31 Ten thousand talents was an enormous sum. a denarius was one day’s wage for a laborer (20:2). a talent was worth about six thousand denarii. t en thousand talents would be sixty million day’s wages, a sum that would be impossible to repay. t hus Jesus graphically portrayed this man’s hopeless predicament.

wanted to settle accounts with his servants. <sup>24</sup> And when he had begun to settle accounts, one was brought to him who owed him ten thousand talents. <sup>25</sup> But as he was not able to pay, his master commanded <sup>26</sup> that he be sold, with his wife and children and all that he had, and that payment be made. <sup>26</sup> The servant therefore fell down before him, saying, ‘Master, have patience with me, and I will pay you all.’ <sup>27</sup> Then the master of that servant was moved with compassion, released him, and forgave him the debt.

<sup>28</sup> “But that servant went out and found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii; and he laid hands on him and took him by the throat, saying, ‘Pay me what you owe!’ <sup>29</sup> So his fellow servant fell down <sup>5</sup> at his feet and begged him, saying, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you <sup>6</sup> all.’ <sup>30</sup> And he would not, but went and threw him into prison till he should pay the debt. <sup>31</sup> So when his fellow servants saw what had been done, they were very grieved, and came and told their master all that had been done. <sup>32</sup> Then his master, after he had called him, said to him, ‘You wicked servant! I forgave you <sup>z</sup> all that debt because you begged me. <sup>33</sup> Should you not also have had compassion on your fellow servant, just as I had pity on you?’ <sup>34</sup> And his master was angry, and delivered him to the torturers until he should pay all that was due to him.

Instruction About Divorce

Mark 10:1-12

19 Now it came to pass, <sup>a</sup> when Jesus had finished these sayings, that He departed from Galilee and came to the region of Judea beyond the Jordan. <sup>2b</sup> And great multitudes followed Him, and He healed them there.

<sup>3</sup> The Pharisees also came to Him, testing Him, and saying to Him, “Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife for just any reason?”

<sup>7</sup> They said to Him, <sup>f</sup> “Why then did Moses command to give a certificate of divorce, and to put her away?”

<sup>8</sup> He said to them, “Moses, because of the <sup>g</sup> hardness of your hearts, permitted you to divorce your <sup>h</sup> wives, but from the beginning it was not so. <sup>9i</sup> And I say to you, whoever divorces his wife, except for <sup>2</sup> sexual immorality, and marries another, commits adultery; and whoever marries her who is divorced commits adultery.”

<sup>10</sup> His disciples said to Him, <sup>j</sup> “If such is the case of the man with his wife, it is better not to marry.”

<sup>11</sup> But He said to them, <sup>k</sup> “All cannot accept this saying, but only those to whom it has been given: <sup>12</sup> For there are

18:32, 33 t his parable reiterates the principle that we should forgive others because God forgives us (see the Lord’s Prayer in 6:12).

18:35 t his verse is a warning about the penalty for not forgiving others (see 1 cor. 11:30–32; heb. 12:5–11). all of a christian’s sins are forgiven and forgotten forever (see Ps. 103:12; Jer. 31:34; heb. 8:12). But this parable illustrates the christian duty to forgive others (see 6:12, 14, 15; 2 cor. 2:10; eph. 4:32). if our forgiveness should be in direct proportion to the incredible amount that we have been forgiven (v. 22), then we must always be willing to forgive.

19:3 t he Pharisees’ question about divorce was dangerous. John the Baptist’s answer had resulted in imprisonment and ultimately execution (14:3–11). t he use of the word testing indicates the malicious intent of the query. t he rabbis had been arguing about when it was permissible according to the Law to divorce. Specifically, they wanted to know the meaning of the expression “uncleanness” in Deut. 24:1, which evidently referred to some kind of indecency. one rabbinical school held that the only grounds for divorce was immorality. a nother school believed that anything that displeased the husband was sufficient to obtain a divorce. t hese Pharisees wanted Jesus to take one side on this controversy, thus giving them evidence to use against him.

19:4–6 Jesus avoided the controversy over divorce (v. 3) by giving three reasons for why married people should remain married: (1) God made one male and one female. if God had intended more than one wife for a adam, he would have created more. t he same would be true of husbands for eve. He who made them is literally

“the one who created” or “the creator.” t he implication is that the creator is Lord and is the one who determines what is the ideal in marriage. (2) God ordained marriage as the strongest bond in all human relationships. a man leaves his parents and is joined to his wife. t he language is very strong here. Leave means “to abandon”; joined to means “to be glued to.” t he most permanent relationship in society is not between parent and child, but between husband and wife. (3) t he two become one flesh. t he basic element in marriage is a contract or covenant (see Mal. 2:14); part of that covenant is physical intimacy.

19:8 Jesus pointed out that Moses never commanded divorce, he only permitted it. God’s original ideal was that married couples would not divorce.

19:9 Defining the term wife is vital to understanding the principle of this verse. Some believe that the divorce decree was valid only during the engagement period, as with Mary and Joseph in ch. 1. t here the wife is the woman to whom a man is engaged. however, Deut. 24:1 indicates that the couple is living together, suggesting an actual marriage. Immorality may refer to any kind of sexual immorality—premarital sex, extramarital sex, prostitution, homosexuality, and even bestiality. Whoever marries her who is divorced probably refers to a man who marries a woman who has been divorced because of her immorality.

19:11 Jesus indicates that remaining unmarried is only for a few people.

19:12 Some people do not marry because they were born with no

<sup>3</sup>eunuchs who were born thus from their mother's womb, and <sup>l</sup>there are eunuchs who were made eunuchs by men, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He who is able to accept it, let him accept it."

<sup>13</sup><sup>m</sup> Then little children were brought to Him that He might put His hands on them and pray, but the disciples rebuked them. <sup>14</sup> But Jesus said, "Let the little children come to Me, and do not forbid them; for <sup>n</sup> of such is the kingdom of heaven."<sup>15</sup> And He laid His hands on them and departed from there.

Rich Young Ruler

Mark 10:17-27; Luke 18:18-27

<sup>16</sup><sup>o</sup> Now behold, one came and said to Him, <sup>p</sup> "Good <sup>4</sup> Teacher, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?"

<sup>18</sup> He said to Him, "Which ones?"

Jesus said, <sup>s</sup> "You shall not murder," "You shall not commit adultery," "You shall not steal," "You shall not bear false witness," <sup>19</sup><sup>t</sup> "Honor your father and your mother," and, <sup>u</sup> "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

<sup>20</sup> The young man said to Him, "All these things I have <sup>v</sup> kept <sup>7</sup> from my youth. What do I still lack?"

<sup>21</sup> Jesus said to him, "If you want to be perfect, <sup>w</sup> go, sell what you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."

<sup>22</sup> But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

<sup>23</sup> Then Jesus said to His disciples, "Assuredly, I say to you that <sup>x</sup> it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven.

<sup>24</sup> And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

<sup>25</sup> When His disciples heard it, they were greatly astonished, saying, "Who then can be saved?"

<sup>26</sup> But Jesus looked at them and said to them, "With men this is impossible, but <sup>y</sup> with God all things are possible."

The Apostles' Reward

Mark 10:28-30; Luke 18:28-30

<sup>27</sup> Then Peter answered and said to Him, "See, <sup>z</sup> we have left all and followed You. Therefore what shall we have?"

<sup>28</sup> So Jesus said to them, "Assuredly I say to you, that in the regeneration, when the Son of Man sits on the throne of His glory, <sup>a</sup> you who have followed Me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. <sup>29</sup><sup>b</sup> And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother <sup>8</sup> or wife or children or <sup>9</sup> lands, for My name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold, and inherit eternal life. <sup>30</sup><sup>c</sup> But many who are first will be last, and the last first.

Parable of the Laborers

Mark 10:31

20 "For the kingdom of heaven is like a landowner who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard. <sup>2</sup> Now when he had agreed with the laborers for a denarius a day, he sent them into his vineyard. <sup>3</sup> And he went out about the third hour and saw others standing idle in the marketplace, <sup>4</sup> and said to them, 'You also go into the vineyard, and whatever is right I will give you.' So they went. <sup>5</sup> Again he went sex drive. o thers do not marry because they are castrated. Still others forgo marriage for the sake of serving God. Some have been given the spiritual gift of celibacy in order to do this (see 1 cor. 7:7). 19:17 Why do you call Me good may be rephrased as "Why are you asking me concerning what is good?" t he only o ne who can ultimately answer the question about goodness is God. t he fact that Jesus went on to answer the question is a quiet claim to deity. 19:21 t his verse does not teach salvation by works (see r om. 3:23, 24; eph. 2:8, 9). r ather Jesus was proving the error of the man's claim to have fulfilled God's law (v. 20). if the young man loved his neighbor to the extent required by the Law of Moses (v. 19; Lev. 19:18), he would have had no difficulty in giving away his wealth to needy people.

19:23, 24 Jesus' comment about a rich man's salvation would have been difficult for some Jewish people in this period to accept because they held to a form of "prosperity theology." if people prospered, it was evidence of God's blessing on them. Whereas v. 23 says it is hard for a rich man to become saved, v. 24 implies that it is as impossible as passing a camel through the eye of a needle (see Mark 10:25; Luke 18:25).

19:27 we have left all: t he instruction Jesus gave to the rich man was precisely what Peter and the other disciples had done (4:18–22). t he natural question then was what shall we have? r ather than upbraid Peter for what may seem like a selfish request, Jesus assured him that the life investment he and the other disciples had made (16:24–28) would have dividends "a hundredfold" (v. 29).

19:28 t he apostles never forgot Jesus' promise about their place in his kingdom; it was still in their minds in a cts 1:15–26. In the regeneration looks ahead to the coming kingdom promised in Dan. 7:13, 14. throne of His glory: c hrist is today seated at the right hand of the eternal throne of the Father. in the future kingdom, he will occupy the Davidic throne (see r ev. 3:21). in that kingdom, the twelve apostles will sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

20:3 The third hour was about 9:00 A.M.

20:5 The sixth hour was about noon. The ninth hour was 3:00 P.M.

out about the sixth and the ninth hour, and did likewise. <sup>6</sup>And about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing <sup>1</sup>idle, and said to them, ‘Why have you been standing here idle all day?’ <sup>7</sup>They said to him, ‘Because no one hired us.’ He said to them, ‘You also go into the vineyard, <sup>2</sup>and whatever is right you will receive.’

<sup>8</sup>“So when evening had come, the owner of the vineyard said to his steward, ‘Call the laborers and give them their wages, beginning with the last to the first.’ <sup>9</sup>And when those came who were hired about the eleventh hour, they each received a denarius. <sup>10</sup>But when the first came, they supposed that they would receive more; and they likewise received each a denarius. <sup>11</sup>And when they had received it, they <sup>3</sup>complained against the landowner, <sup>12</sup>saying, ‘These last men have worked only one hour, and you made them equal to us who have borne the burden and the heat of the day.’ <sup>13</sup>But he answered one of them and said, ‘Friend, I am doing you no wrong. Did you not agree with me for a denarius?’ <sup>14</sup>Take what is yours and go your way. I wish to give to this last man the same as to you. <sup>15</sup><sup>a</sup>Is it not lawful for me to do what I wish with my own things? Or <sup>b</sup>is your eye evil because I am good?’ <sup>16</sup><sup>c</sup>So the last will be first, and the first last. <sup>d</sup>For <sup>4</sup>many are called, but few chosen.”

Instruction About Jesus’ Death

Mark 10:32-34; Luke 18:31-34

<sup>17</sup><sup>e</sup>Now Jesus, going up to Jerusalem, took the twelve disciples aside on the road and said to them, <sup>18</sup><sup>f</sup>“Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and to the scribes; and they will condemn Him to death, <sup>19</sup><sup>g</sup>and deliver Him to the Gentiles to <sup>h</sup>mock and to <sup>i</sup>scourge and to <sup>j</sup>crucify. And the third day He will <sup>k</sup>rise again.”

Instruction About Ambition

Mark 10:35-45

<sup>20</sup><sup>1</sup>Then the mother of <sup>m</sup>Zebedee’s sons came to Him with her sons, kneeling down and asking something from Him.

<sup>21</sup>And He said to her, “What do you wish?”

She said to Him, “Grant that these two sons of mine <sup>n</sup>may sit, one on Your right hand and the other on the left, in Your kingdom.”

<sup>22</sup>But Jesus answered and said, “You do not know what you ask. Are you able to drink <sup>o</sup>the cup that I am about to drink, <sup>5</sup>and be baptized with <sup>p</sup>the baptism that I am baptized with?”

They said to Him, “We are able.”

<sup>23</sup>So He said to them, <sup>q</sup>“You will indeed drink My cup, <sup>6</sup>and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with; but to sit on My right hand and on My left is not Mine to give, but it is for those for whom it is prepared by My Father.”

<sup>24</sup><sup>r</sup>And when the ten heard it, they were greatly displeased with the two brothers. <sup>25</sup>But Jesus called them to Himself and said, “You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and those who are great exercise authority over them. <sup>26</sup>Yet <sup>s</sup>it shall not be so among you; but <sup>t</sup>‘whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your servant. <sup>27</sup><sup>u</sup>And whoever desires to be first among you, let him be your slave—<sup>28</sup> <sup>v</sup>just as the <sup>w</sup>Son of Man did not come to be served, <sup>x</sup>but to serve, and <sup>y</sup>to give His life a ransom <sup>z</sup>for many.”

The Blind Men Recognize the King

20:6 The eleventh hour was about 5:00 P.M. t here would have been only one hour left in the working day.

20:13-15 t the first workers complained that their wages were the same as those who had been hired late in the day. h however, the owner had not cheated them; everyone received the agreed-upon sum for his work. t the early workers grumbled because they were evil in their outlook; their master, however, was sovereignly generous.

20:16 in the context of Matthew, the workers with the contract represent israel; they had the promises and the covenants (see r om. 3:1, 2; 9:4; eph. 2:11, 12). t those without an agreement represent the Gentiles, who would be made equal with the Jewish people when salvation became available to all through faith in Jesus christ (see r om. 11:16, 17; eph 2:13-15; 3:6).

20:17-19 once again the Lord Jesus anticipated his death and resurrection (see 16:21; 17:9, 22, 23). For the first time he referred to the way he would die—crucifixion.

20:24 t the indignation of the other ten apostles was probably due to their own desire for these lofty positions. Jesus’ response was addressed to all of them (vv. 25-28).

20:26, 27 t he measure of greatness is not position, power, or prestige; it is service.

20:30 o nly Matthew mentions two blind men; Mark and Luke refer to one, probably the one who spoke. t he fact that Matthew records that there were actually two men especially suits his Gospel, which was written primarily for Jews who would have desired two witnesses (see Deut. 17:6). Son of David, a messianic title (see 2 Sam. 7:12-16), identifies Jesus as the heir to David’s throne. t his cry, repeated in v. 31, shows the spiritual insight of these blind men.

hold, <sup>b</sup>two blind men sitting by the road, when they heard that Jesus was passing by, cried out, saying, “Have mercy on us, O Lord, <sup>c</sup>Son of David!”

<sup>31</sup>Then the multitude <sup>d</sup>warned them that they should be quiet; but they cried out all the more, saying, “Have mercy on us, O Lord, Son of David!”

<sup>32</sup>So Jesus stood still and called them, and said, “What do you want Me to do for you?”

<sup>33</sup>They said to Him, “Lord, that our eyes may be opened.” <sup>34</sup>So Jesus had <sup>e</sup>compassion and touched their eyes. And immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed Him.

The Triumphal Entry

Mark 11:1-10; Luke 19:29-38; John 12:12-15

<sup>4,2</sup>All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying:

<sup>5</sup> “*Tell<sup>c</sup> the daughter of Zion, Behold, your King is coming to
you,
Lowly, and sitting on a donkey,
A colt, the foal of a donkey.*”

<sup>6,d</sup>So the disciples went and did as Jesus commanded them. <sup>7</sup>They brought the donkey and the colt, <sup>e</sup>laid their clothes on them, <sup>3</sup>and set Him on them. <sup>8</sup>And a

<sup>10,h</sup>And when He had come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, “Who is this?”

<sup>11</sup>So the multitudes said, “This is Jesus, <sup>i</sup>the prophet from Nazareth of Galilee.”

The Cleansing of the Temple

Mark 11:15-17; Luke 19:45, 46

<sup>12,j</sup>Then Jesus went into the temple <sup>4</sup>of God and drove out all those who bought and sold in the temple, and overturned the tables of the <sup>k</sup>money changers and the seats of those who sold doves. <sup>13</sup>And He said to them, “It is written, <sup>l</sup>‘My house shall be called a house of prayer,’ but you have made it a <sup>m</sup>‘den of thieves.’”

<sup>14</sup>Then the blind and the lame came to Him in the temple, and He healed them. <sup>15</sup>But when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonderful things that He did, and the children crying out in the temple and saying, “Hosanna to the <sup>n</sup>Son of David!” they were <sup>5</sup>indignant <sup>16</sup>and said to Him, “Do You hear what these are saying?”

And Jesus said to them, “Yes. Have you never read, <sup>o</sup>‘Out of the mouth of babes and nursing infants

You have perfected praise?’”

21:1 The Mount of Olives was directly east of Jerusalem, across the deep ravine of the Kidron valley. Bethphage was on the eastern slope of the Mount of Olives.

21:3 The Lord is Jesus. t he owner of the animals was likely a follower, or at least an admirer, of Jesus.

21:4, 5 these actions fulfill is. 62:11; Zech. 9:9. t he emphasis in these prophecies and Jesus’ actions is on Jesus’ humility.

21:7 t he disciples laid their clothes on both animals so that christ could ride either one. Perhaps the mother donkey walked in front, followed by the colt on which Jesus was seated.

21:8 t his great multitude refers not to the inhabitants of Jerusalem (v. 10), but to the large crowd that had accompanied Jesus from Jericho (20:29). t he scene was a royal procession (see 2 Kin. 9:13). Prior to this time, the Lord Jesus had steadfastly avoided such a display (8:4; 9:30; 12:16; 17:9). now he was publicly presenting himself to israel as the nation’s Messiah and King.

21:9 Hosanna literally means “save now” (as in Ps. 118:25), but it was used as an exclamation of joyous praise. Blessed is He who comes in the name of the Lord is a quotation of Ps. 118:26.

21:10 The city was moved is literally “the city was shaken.” t he same verb is used in 2:3 of herod’s reaction to the wise men who were asking about the birth of israel’s King.

21:12 two cleansings of the temple are recorded in the Gospels—one in John 2:14–17 at the beginning of Jesus’ ministry, and one in the synoptic Gospels at the end of his ministry (see Mark 11:15–17; Luke 19:45, 46). bought and sold: Financial corruption ran rampant in the outer courts of the temple. Some of the gains that were realized from this profiteering probably went to the family of the high priest. The money changers exchanged coins with pagan symbols on them for acceptable coins to be used in the temple. t hey charged a premium for this “service.” Those who sold doves sold them at top prices.

21:13 My house shall be called a house of prayer is quoted from is. 56:7. den of thieves: t he temple had become a garrison for bandits. Jeremiah 7:9, 10 says that the Jewish people, after committing all sorts of sins, would plead deliverance from the consequences of those sins based simply on the fact that they came to the temple. t hus in Jeremiah’s day, it became a den for robbers—just as it was in Jesus’ day.

21:16 in Ps. 8:2, which is quoted here, the infants expressed praise in the face of enemies.

<sup>17</sup>Then He left them and <sup>p</sup>went out of the city to Bethany, and He lodged there.

Cursing of the Fig Tree

Mark 11:11-14, 20-24

<sup>18q</sup>Now in the morning, as He returned to the city, He was hungry. <sup>19r</sup>And seeing a fig tree by the road, He came to it and found nothing on it but leaves, and said to it, “Let no fruit grow on you ever again.” Immediately the fig tree withered away.

<sup>20s</sup>And when the disciples saw it, they marveled, saying, “How did the fig tree wither away so soon?”

<sup>21</sup>So Jesus answered and said to them, “Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>t</sup>if you have faith and <sup>u</sup>do not doubt, you will not only do what was done to the fig tree, <sup>v</sup>but also if you say to this mountain, ‘Be removed and be cast into the sea,’ it will be done. <sup>22</sup>And <sup>w</sup>whatever things you ask in prayer, believing, you will receive.”

Question of Jesus’ Authority

Mark 11:27-33; Luke 20:1-18

<sup>23x</sup>Now when He came into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people confronted Him as He was teaching, and <sup>y</sup>said, “By what authority are you doing these things? And who gave you this authority?”

<sup>24</sup>But Jesus answered and said to them, “I also will ask you one thing, which if you tell Me, I likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things: <sup>25</sup>The <sup>z</sup>baptism of <sup>a</sup>John—where was it from? From heaven or from men?”

And they reasoned among themselves, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ He will say to us, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’ <sup>26</sup>But if we say, ‘From men,’ we <sup>b</sup>fear the multitude, <sup>c</sup>for all count John as a prophet.” <sup>27</sup>So they answered Jesus and said, “We do not know.”

And He said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things.

Parable of the Two Sons

<sup>28</sup>“But what do you think? A man had two sons, and he came to the first and said, ‘Son, go, work today in my <sup>d</sup>vineyard.’ <sup>29</sup>He answered and said, ‘I will not,’ but afterward he regretted it and went. <sup>30</sup>Then he came to the second and said likewise. And he answered and said, ‘I go, sir,’ but he did not go. <sup>31</sup>Which of the two did the will of his father?”

They said to Him, “The first.”

Jesus said to them, <sup>e</sup>“Assuredly, I say to you that tax collectors and harlots enter the kingdom of God before you. <sup>32</sup>For <sup>f</sup>John came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him; <sup>g</sup>but tax collectors and harlots believed him; and when you saw it, you did not afterward <sup>6</sup>relent and believe him.

Parable of the Landowner

Mark 12:1-12; Luke 20:9-19

<sup>33</sup>“Hear another parable: There was a certain landowner <sup>h</sup>who planted a vineyard and set a hedge around it, dug a winepress in it and built a tower. And he leased it to vinedressers and <sup>i</sup>went into 21:17 t he idea here is that Jesus abandoned the chief priests and scribes, the temple, and the city of Jerusalem. instead of welcoming their Messiah, the religious authorities had rejected and opposed him.

21:18, 19 He was hungry: Jesus desired to eat of the fruit of the fig tree one more time before he died, but could not. Fig trees do not bear their fruit in the spring, during Passover, but in the fall of the year. However, fig trees do have a small, edible fruit that appears in the spring before the sprouting of the leaves. t his tree was full of leaves, but had no fruit. it looked full of promise, but was empty—just like the city of Jerusalem and its beautiful temple. Immediately does not necessarily mean instantly; it may have the idea of “very soon” as in Luke 19:11 (see Mark 11:12–14, 20–24). t his miracle—the only recorded miracle of Jesus that involved judgment—illustrates God’s judgment on the Israelites, who professed adherence to God but produced no fruit or spiritual reality.

21:20–22 t he withering of the fig tree illustrates God’s judgment on unbelieving Israel, but it also became a means for Jesus to teach his disciples that faith works miracles and is the basis for answered prayer.

21:23 t he mention of these things refers to the triumphal entry, the cleansing of the temple, and the accepting of the praise of children. t he fact that the chief priests and the elders opposed the Lord Jesus illustrates the unified antagonism of the Sanhedrin. Priests, elders, and scribes were the three representative groups in that body.

21:24 it was a common rabbinic method to answer a question with a question.

21:27 We do not know: t he religious leaders’ response not only released the Lord from having to answer their question, it also disqualified them as spiritual leaders.

21:31, 32 Tax collectors and harlots is a proverbial phrase for moral reprobates. Jesus’ phrase enter . . . before you not only established that these repentant sinners would enter the future kingdom, it also left the door open for the religious leaders to repent. But even though the self-righteous leaders saw the example of repentant tax collectors and prostitutes, they refused to believe. t his parable condemned the leaders’ conduct. c learly God delights in the brokenness of sinners but also in the humble faith of the morally upright.

21:33–40 t he beginning of the parable of the wicked vinedressers is presented in the language of is. 5:1, 2. h owever, there is a difference. in is. 5, the vineyard and its provisions represented Israel; here the vineyard illustrates God’s kingdom (compare v. 43 with is. 5:7). t he detailed description of the vineyard indicates that the landowner provided for its well-being with the utmost care. t he owner of that vineyard was God; the vinedressers were the nation of Israel. a s God’s people, Israel was to bring forth fruits in anticipation of God’s coming kingdom. t he servants represent God’s messengers, the prophets, who were so shamefully treated by the Jewish leaders (see 1 Kin. 18:4; 19:10; 22:24; 2 Chr. 24:20, 21; Neh. 9:26; Jer. 2:30; 20:1, 2; 26:20–23; 37:15; 38:6). t he son is Jesus, the Messiah.

a far country. <sup>34</sup>Now when vintage-time drew near, he sent his servants to the vinedressers, that they might receive its fruit. <sup>35</sup>And the vinedressers took his servants, beat one, killed one, and stoned another. <sup>36</sup>Again he sent other servants, more than the first, and they did likewise to them. <sup>37</sup>Then last of all he sent his <sup>k</sup>son to them, saying, "They will respect my son." <sup>38</sup>But when the vinedressers saw the son, they said among themselves, "This is the heir. <sup>m</sup>Come, let us kill him and seize his inheritance." <sup>39</sup>So they took him and cast him out of the vineyard and killed him.

<sup>40</sup>"Therefore, when the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those vinedressers?"

<sup>42</sup>Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures:

*"The stone which the builders rejected
Has become the chief cornerstone.
This was the LORD's doing,
And it is marvelous in our eyes?"*

<sup>43</sup>"Therefore I say to you, <sup>s</sup>the kingdom of God will be taken from you and given to a nation bearing the fruits of it. <sup>44</sup>And <sup>t</sup>whoever falls on this stone will be broken; but on whomever it falls, "it will grind him to powder."

Parable of the Marriage Feast

22 And Jesus answered <sup>a</sup>and spoke to them again by parables and said: <sup>2</sup>"The kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who arranged a marriage for his son, <sup>3</sup>and sent out his servants to call those who were invited to the wedding; and they were not willing to come. <sup>4</sup>Again, he sent out other servants, saying, "Tell those who are invited, "See, I have prepared my dinner; <sup>b</sup>my oxen and fatted cattle are killed, and all things are ready. Come to the wedding." <sup>5</sup>But they made light of it and went their ways, one to his own farm, another to his business. <sup>6</sup>And the rest seized his servants, treated them <sup>1</sup>spitefully, and killed them. <sup>7</sup>But when the king heard about it, he was furious. And he sent out <sup>c</sup>his armies, destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city. <sup>8</sup>Then he said to his servants, "The wedding is ready, but those who were invited were not <sup>d</sup>worthy. <sup>9</sup>Therefore go into the highways, and as many as you find, invite to the wedding? <sup>10</sup>So those servants went out into the highways and <sup>e</sup>gathered together all whom they found, both bad and good. And the wedding hall was filled with guests.

21:42 t his verse explains that the rejection of the son (vv. 38, 39) was predicted in Ps. 118:22, 23. t he rejected stone is the Messiah, who became the chief cornerstone (see Mark 12:10, 11; Luke 20:17; a cts 4:11; eph. 2:20; 1 Pet. 2:7).

21:43 in our time, nation refers to the church (see r om. 10:19; 1 Pet. 2:9). t his does not mean, however, that the kingdom has been forever removed from israel (see r om. 11:26, 27).

21:44 t his paradoxical saying indicates that people can give two responses to christ, the stone. a person may be broken with repentance as a result of falling on christ. if however a person refuses to repent, the result is judgment. t he reference to powder seems to look back to Dan. 2:35, 44, 45.

22:1 t he plural parables refers to the parable of the two sons (21:28–32), the wicked vinedressers (21:33–44), and the wedding feast (vv. 1–14). t his story is not the same one related in Luke 14:15–24. t he occasion is different in Luke and some details vary.

22:2 The kingdom of heaven is like indicates that the story contains principles or truths that relate to the kingdom of God. Marriage refers to a wedding feast (see r ev. 19:6–10). Jewish weddings in biblical times involved a number of steps. First, the couple made a marriage contract, which was the basis of the marriage (see Mal. 2:14). a bout a year later, the groom went to the bride's house, where the bride was presented to him. t his was followed by a nighttime wedding procession to the groom's home (25:1–13), where a festive wedding banquet was held (see John 2:1–11). t he banquet could last up to a week, depending on the resources of the groom's family. a feast, especially a wedding feast, is often used in Scripture to portray God's kingdom on earth (see 8:11; 25:10; is. 25:6; Luke 14:15–24; John

2:1–11; r ev. 19:7–9). in this parable, the king is God the Father and the son is Jesus.

22:3 two invitations were sent out. t he first was sent long before the celebration so that people would have plenty of time to prepare themselves for the banquet. Those who were invited had received this original announcement. a second invitation was sent to them to announce that the banquet was ready and they should come right away.

22:4 t he plea of this verse undoubtedly portrays the ministry of John the Baptist (3:1–12), Jesus (4:17), and the disciples (10:5–42).

22:5 They made light of it means "they did not care about it." t hey were so preoccupied with the here and now that they had no concern for God's kingdom.

22:6 t he indifferent response in v. 5 describes israel at the time of Jesus' earthly ministry; the actions in this verse may be attributed to the religious authorities. t hese leaders approved John the Baptist's death at the hands of herod antipas (21:25); they instigated Jesus' crucifixion (26:3–5, 14–16; 27:1, 2); and they initiated the persecution of the early church (see a cts 4:1–22; 5:17–40; 6:12–15).

22:7 t he burning of the city refers to the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 under t itus. a parallel prediction of the same event is found in 21:41.

22:10 Both bad and good probably refers to Jews and Gentiles. Both groups include some who are morally evil and others who are morally good. Whatever their condition, people need to respond to the gospel. t he important point to recognize is that this group responded to the invitation, while those who had received special invitations had spurned the king's bidding.

The Sadducees

Because their writings have not survived through the ages, little is known about the Sadducees today except what rival groups said about them. They were an aristocratic group in Israel that dominated the higher echelons of the priesthood. As landowners, they achieved their power and status from their class and their position as priests, while the Pharisees derived their status mostly from their learning.

The Sadducees based their beliefs solely on the Pentateuch, the first five books of the OT. They did not accept the authority of any other OT books and did not find a basis in the Pentateuch for a belief in angels, demons, or an afterlife (see Acts 23:8). Many of their beliefs may have been derived from a concern over their power and status. With no afterlife and no resurrection, there was no need to worry about rewards or punishment in the life to come.

<sup>11</sup> “But when the king came in to see the guests, he saw a man there <sup>f</sup>who did not have on a wedding garment. <sup>12</sup> So he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you come in here without a wedding garment?’ And he was <sup>g</sup>speechless. <sup>13</sup> Then the king said to the servants, ‘Bind him hand and foot, <sup>2</sup> take him away, and cast him <sup>h</sup>into outer darkness; there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

<sup>11 f</sup> [2 Cor. 5:3; Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:10, 12; Rev. 3:4; 16:15; 19:8] <sup>12 g</sup> [Rom. 3:19] <sup>13 h</sup> Matt. 8:12; 25:30; Luke 13:28 <sup>2</sup> nu omits take him away, and

Conflict with Pharisees and Herodians

Mark 12:13–17; Luke 20:20–26

<sup>15 j</sup> Then the Pharisees went and plotted how they might entangle Him in His talk. <sup>16</sup> And they sent to Him their disciples with the <sup>k</sup> Herodians, saying, “Teacher, we know that You are true, and teach the way of God in truth; nor do You care about anyone, for You do not <sup>3</sup> regard the person of men. <sup>17</sup> Tell us, therefore, what do You think? Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not?”

<sup>18</sup> But Jesus <sup>4</sup> perceived their wickedness, and said, “Why do you test Me, you hypocrites? <sup>19</sup> Show Me the tax money.” So they brought Him a denarius.

Conflict with Sadducees

Mark 12:18–27; Luke 20:27–40

22:11 did not have on a wedding garment: Like the others, this visitor had been invited to the wedding, but he failed to prepare himself for it (see Rev. 3:18). In revelation, the garment of fine linen worn by the bride of the Lamb is said to be the righteous deeds of the saints (Rev. 19:8). The man had ignored a basic obligation placed on him when he accepted the king’s gracious invitation to the feast—he was supposed to wear clean clothes. To come to a wedding banquet unprepared or in soiled clothing would have been insulting. In this parable, the garment may refer to the righteousness of Christ graciously provided for us through His death. To refuse to put it on would mean a refusal of Christ’s sacrifice or arrogance in believing that the “garment” was somehow not needed. If we want to enter Christ’s banquet, we must “put on” the righteousness He gives us (Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:10). Because this man was unprepared, the king declared him unworthy. His refusal resulted in the man being sent out of the banquet hall.

22:13 Bind him hand and foot is a vivid picture of the man’s inability to participate in Christ’s kingdom. Someone claiming to belong at the wedding while refusing to wear the correct garments was similar to the Israelites who claimed to be God’s people while refusing to obey Him. This man was an impostor, and when he was discovered (as all impostors will be), he was cast . . . into outer darkness, referring to the judgment (8:12; 25:30).

22:14 many are called, but few are chosen: The word called in this instance refers to being “invited,” not to the call of God as Paul used the word (Rom. 8:28, 29). All Israel had been invited, but only a few would accept and follow Jesus. Not all those invited will be among the chosen of God, for not all will believe.

22:15 Entangle means “to snare,” like a trapper catching his prey.

22:16 Nothing is known of the Herodians outside of the Gospels. Judging from their name, they were supporters of the Herodian dynasty in its collaboration with the Roman government. This would put them at the opposite end of the political spectrum from the Pharisees. Yet their common hatred of Christ was great enough that the Pharisees and Herodians joined forces against Him. we know that You . . . teach the way of God in truth: In a way, the Herodians and Pharisees were saying, “You truly teach God’s word, no matter what people think of you.”

22:17 The dilemma is obvious: to side with the Pharisees and risk being accused of insurrection against the Roman government, or to side with the Herodians and lose the favor of the masses. Taxes included an annual tax paid by every Jewish adult to the Roman government. The Jews despised paying this tax to their hated oppressors.

22:18 Test here means “to solicit to evil.” The Lord called the Herodians and Pharisees hypocrites because they falsely pretended to have good intentions.

22:19, 20 The tax money was a denarius, a silver coin with an image of the emperor and the inscription calling him “divine.” The image and inscription were repugnant to the Jews because they hated their Roman overlords and worshiped only the God of Israel.

22:21 In responding to his opponents, the Lord changed the verb they used from “pay” (v. 17) to render, which literally means “to pay back.” Christ’s followers have an obligation to earthly governments and to God. Believers today are citizens of a heavenly kingdom and strangers and sojourners on the earth (see 1 Pet. 1:1; 2:11). It is the believers’ responsibility to obey the law of the land until it becomes sinful to do so (see Rom. 13:1–7; 1 Pet. 2:13–17). When the two realms are in conflict, Christians are to follow God (see Acts 4:18–20; 5:29).

22:23 Some of the beliefs of the Sadducees are explained in Acts 23:8. These men looked on the first five books of Moses as their authoritative Scripture. To them, any religious argument had to come from the Pentateuch.

Him and asked Him, <sup>24</sup>saying: “Teacher, <sup>q</sup>Moses said that if a man dies, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife and raise up offspring for his brother. <sup>25</sup>Now there were with us seven brothers. The first died after he had married, and having no offspring, left his wife to his brother. <sup>26</sup>Likewise the second also, and the third, even to the seventh. <sup>27</sup>Last of all the woman died also. <sup>28</sup>Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wife of the seven will she be? For they all had her.”

<sup>29</sup>Jesus answered and said to them, “You are <sup>6</sup>mistaken, <sup>r</sup>not knowing the Scriptures nor the power of God. <sup>30</sup>For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but <sup>s</sup>are like angels <sup>7</sup>of God in heaven. <sup>31</sup>But concerning the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was spoken to you by God, saying, <sup>32</sup>‘I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob’? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.” <sup>33</sup>And when the multitudes heard this, <sup>u</sup>they were astonished at His teaching.

The Greatest Commandment

Mark 12:28-34

<sup>34</sup><sup>v</sup> But when the Pharisees heard that He had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together. <sup>35</sup>Then one of them, <sup>w</sup>a lawyer, asked Him a question, testing Him, and saying, <sup>36</sup>“Teacher, which is the great commandment in the law?”

The Son of David

Mark 12:35-37; Luke 20:41-44

<sup>41</sup><sup>a</sup> While the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them, <sup>42</sup>saying, “What do you think about the Christ? Whose Son is He?”

They said to Him, “The <sup>b</sup>Son of David.”
<sup>43</sup>He said to them, “How then does David in the Spirit call Him ‘Lord,’ saying:

22:24 t he law that is the basis of the Sadducees’ question is found in Deut. 25:5, 6. it is known as the law of the levirate marriage (see Gen. 38:1–26).

22:25–28 t his theological riddle had probably been used by the Sadducees to confound the Pharisees on more than one occasion.

22:29 Mistaken: c hrist rebuked the Sadducees for denying the resurrection.

22:32 Jesus quoted from the Pentateuch, ex. 3:6, 15, to prove the doctrine of the resurrection. t he Lord is the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, a title that recalls that God is the one who gave the promises to the patriarchs. in particular, God promised a braham, isaac, and Jacob the land of c anaan (see Gen. 13:14–17; 15:7–21; 17:8; 26:2–5; 28:13–15; Deut. 30:1–5). of course, the patriarchs did not receive the land in their lifetimes. t hey must be resurrected in order to receive God’s promises in full. t hat God is called the God . . . of the living indicates that there is a present spirit world over which God presides and that will one day be revealed.

22:33 Jesus taught something that no one had seen clearly before—that the patriarchs are still living. t he crowds were astonished, and may also have been surprised that Jesus did not teach like the scribes and Pharisees, who appealed to rabbinic authority or prefaced their teachings with “t hus saith the Lord.” Jesus appealed to his own authority when h e taught them.

22:34 u ndoubtedly the Pharisees were delighted to see their theological rivals muzzled; yet they were still intent on snaring c hrist in some way (v. 15).

22:35, 36 t he lawyer was a student of the Law of Moses. h e put the Lord to a test with a question designed to reveal how much c hrist knew about the Law.

22:37 t o answer the lawyer’s question, Jesus quoted from the great Jewish confession of faith called the Shema. t he confession is called this because it begins with the hebrew word shema meaning “hear.” “h ear, o israel: t he LORD our God, t he LORD is one!” (see Deut. 6:4, 5; 11:13–21). t he heart, soul, and mind represent the whole person.

22:39 t his command from Lev. 19:18 is not an imperative to love one’s self. People naturally love themselves and are at least somewhat self-centered. Because we love ourselves, we want the best for ourselves; likewise, we should be concerned for the welfare of others.

22:40 t he t en c ommandments can be divided into two categories: those dealing with love for God (the first four commandments) and those dealing with responsibilities toward other people (the last six commandments). t he same may be said for all the Law and the Prophets.

22:41–45 a fter answering three questions posed by israel’s religious leaders (vv. 15–22, 23–33, 34–40), Jesus turned to the Pharisees with a question of his own. t he question had two parts, a first about the identity of the Messiah and a second about the interpretation of Ps. 110.

22:42 t he answer to Jesus’ question about the identity of the Messiah was in a number of ot passages (see 2 Sam. 7:12–16; Ps. 89:3, 4, 34–36; is. 9:7; 16:5; 55:3, 4). t he Messiah would come from David’s royal line.

22:43 t his verse affirms that David wrote Ps. 110. Furthermore, it declares that David wrote the psalm under the inspiration of the Spirit.

mind

(Gk. dianoia, nous) (22:37; r om. 12:2; eph. 4:23) Strong’s #1271; 3563

Four separate Greek words account for nearly all instances of “mind” in the n t. t hey all mean much the same thing: understanding, thought, mind, reason. While today we think of a person’s mind in a morally neutral way, in the n t the mind was clearly thought of as either good or evil. negatively, the mind may be “blinded” (2 c or. 3:14; 4:4), “corrupt” (2 t im. 3:8), and “debased” (r om. 1:28). o n the positive side, humans may have minds that are renewed (r om. 12:2) and pure (2 Pet. 3:1). t hey may love God with all their minds (22:37; Mark 12:30; Luke 10:27) and have God’s laws implanted in their minds (heb. 8:10). Since c hristians have “the mind of c hrist” (1 c or. 2:16), they are instructed to be united in mind (r om. 12:16; 1 Pet. 3:8).

Outer Garment

Hebrew men wore an "outer garment" (John 21:7) consisting of a square or oblong strip of cloth, six to ten feet wide. It was wrapped around the body as a protective covering, with two corners of the material being in front. The outer garment was drawn in close to the body by a girdle. The rich often had a finely woven linen outer garment, while the poor had a coarsely woven garment of goat's hair. Jewish men wore fringes with blue ribbons on the "border" of this outer garment to remind them of the constant presence of the Lord's commandments. Jesus referred to these "borders" of the garments in Matt. 23:5; apparently, the scribes and Pharisees made these fringes very large so that people could see how faithful they were in following the Lord's commandments.

Jesus Characterizes the Pharisees

Mark 12:38-40; Luke 20:45-47

23 Then Jesus spoke to the multitudes and to His disciples,<sup>2</sup> saying: <sup>a</sup>"The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat."<sup>3</sup> Therefore whatever they tell you<sup>1</sup> to observe, that observe and do, but do not do according to their works; for <sup>b</sup>they say, and do not do.<sup>4c</sup> For they bind heavy burdens, hard to bear, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers.<sup>5</sup> But all their works they do to <sup>d</sup>be seen by men. They make their phylacteries broad and enlarge the borders of their garments.<sup>6e</sup> They love the <sup>2</sup>best places at feasts, the best seats in the synagogues,<sup>7</sup> greetings in the marketplaces, and to be called by men, 'Rabbi, Rabbi.'<sup>8f</sup> But you, do not be called 'Rabbi'; for One is your <sup>3</sup>Teacher, <sup>4</sup>the Christ, and you are all brethren.<sup>9</sup> Do not call anyone on earth your father; <sup>g</sup>for One is your Father, He who is in heaven.<sup>10</sup> And do not be called teachers; for One is your Teacher, the Christ.<sup>11</sup> But <sup>h</sup>he who is greatest among you shall be your servant.<sup>12i</sup> And whoever exalts himself will be <sup>5</sup>humbled, and he who humbles himself will be <sup>6</sup>exalted.

22:44 t his verse, which quotes Ps. 110:1, describes christ's presence in heaven until he comes to reign on earth (see heb. 10:11-13; r ev. 3:21). o ther messianic psalms are built on the experiences of the psalmist (see Ps. 2; 16; 22; 45), but Ps. 110 seems to be completely prophetic and messianic.

22:44, 45 Psalm 110:1 uses two different hebrew words for God. t he first, translated LORD, is the name Yahweh, the proper name of israel's God. t he second Lord means "Master." David, the great king of israel, calls one of his offspring "Lord" or "Master," a title for deity. t he implication is that Jesus, the Son of David, is God. h e is a descendant of David and therefore human, but h e is also divine.

23:2 t he synagogues had an official chair called Moses' seat (see Luke 4:20). The scribes were official copiers of the ot Scriptures and were also teachers of the Law (7:29; 8:19).

23:3 t he Pharisees and scribes took the Scriptures at face value, so their instructions were to be followed. however, Jesus warned the people of the Pharisees' legalism, their tendency to value their own rules and regulations over the Scriptures. t hey followed their external laws meticulously and appeared to be righteous. Yet the people were not to imitate their actions, for although they appeared righteous, their hearts were filled with all kinds of envy, hatred, and malice.

23:4 contrast the Pharisees' actions with Jesus' call to the people in 11:28-30.

23:5 o ne key aspect of hypocrisy is doing good deeds to attract applause from those who see them (6:1-18). Phylacteries were small boxes containing Bible passages that were worn on the forehead or arm. t his custom was based on ex. 13:9, 16; Deut. 6:8; 11:18. But from such passages as Prov. 3:3; 6:21; 7:3, the scribes should have known that the Lord intended more than merely outward adornment. Borders, translated hem in 9:20, refers to the tassels that were worn on the corners of garments in order to remind the israelites of God's laws (see num. 15:38; Deut. 22:12). in order to be seen as especially righteous, some hypocrites would make their phylacteries conspicuously large and their tassels unusually long.

23:6 The best places were the positions of honor at banquets. t he best seats or "first seats" were a row of seats in the front of the synagogue, facing the congregation.

23:7 Greetings in this context meant more than a passing "hello"; it was a respectful salutation given to a superior. Rabbi means "teacher."

23:8-10 t his principle is not to be applied universally because these titles are used elsewhere in Scripture with no qualification or admonishment (see 15:4-6; 19:5, 29; 2 Kin. 2:12; 1 cor. 4:15; Gal. 4:2; heb. 12:9). t he hypocrites sought these titles for the prestige and power that went with them, and not for the purpose of using the positions to serve others. Teachers may also mean "leaders."

23:11 hierarchies of authority are not to be done away with in this world (see 1 t hess. 5:12, 13; 1 t im. 5:17; heb. 13:17); however, all leadership is to be carried out humbly in a spirit of servanthood.

23:12 exaltation will be carried out in the future reign of christ (see r om. 8:17; 2 t im. 2:12).

Jesus Condemns the Pharisees

<sup>13</sup>“But <sup>j</sup>woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you shut up the kingdom of heaven against men; for you neither go in yourselves, nor do you allow those who are entering to go in. <sup>14</sup>Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! <sup>k</sup>For you devour widows’ houses, and for a pretense make long prayers. Therefore you will receive greater condemnation.

<sup>15</sup>“Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you travel land and sea to win one proselyte, and when he is won, you make him twice as much a son of <sup>8</sup>hell as yourselves.

23:13 Jesus proclaimed woe on the scribes and Pharisees because of their outright opposition to the truth.

23:15 you travel land and sea: t he Pharisees and scribes would never fairly be accused of being lazy, but they were clearly misdirected and dangerous to the cause of God.

23:16–22 t he religious authorities taught that oaths based on the temple, the altar, and heaven were not binding; however, oaths sworn by the gold of the temple, the gift on the altar, or God were binding. Jesus pointed out the absurdity of such teaching, and called the leaders blind guides.

23:23 Mint and anise were spices. Cummin was a tiny fruit. t he scribes and Pharisees were meticulous about tithing tiny seeds, but they failed to be obedient in more significant matters such as ensuring that all their actions were governed by justice and mercy and faith (see Mic. 6:8). Jesus was not saying that tithing is unimportant; he was pointing out that the scribes and Pharisees were emphasizing one area at the expense of another. Similarly, we can become so preoccupied with external rules and regulations in the church that we forget the principles behind them.

23:24 Leviticus 11:41–43 contains a prohibition against eating anything that swarms, crawls on its belly, walks on all fours, or has many feet. t he Pharisees would meticulously strain out the smallest unclean insect—the gnat—with a cloth filter before drinking liquids, especially wine. however, Jesus said they would easily swallow a large unclean animal—a camel. Jesus was exaggerating a point to illustrate how much the Pharisees had neglected justice, mercy, and faith (v. 23). he used a similar exaggeration in 19:24 to portray the difficulty a rich man has in obtaining salvation.

23:25, 26 t he inside of the cup represents a person’s character. Sometimes those who most loudly protest the sins of others are secretly guilty of those or worse sins themselves.

23:31, 32 t he generation of scribes, Pharisees, and hypocrites living at the time of Jesus had inherited all the guilt of their forefathers.

23:34 t he present tense I send refers to the prophets, wise men, and scribes sent by God to the apostolic church. t he Book of a cts testifies to the accuracy of this prediction: the israelites persecuted the early preachers and teachers of the Good news (see a cts 7:51–60).

23:35 Abel was the first person murdered in the ot (see Gen. 4:8); Zechariah was the last. Zechariah’s death is recorded in 2 Chr. 24:20–22, the last book in the hebrew canon. Jesus was saying that from the beginning of the Bible until the end, true followers of God had often been treated in this manner. son of Berechiah: in 2 Chr. 24:20, Zechariah is called the son of Jehoiada. Zechariah the prophet is called the son of Berechiah in Zech. 1:1. it is possible that Jehoiada was the grandfather of the murdered Zechariah and Berechiah was his father. it is less probable, although possible, that Zechariah’s father had two names: Jehoiada and Berechiah.

Jesus Laments over Jerusalem

The Temple to Be Destroyed

Mark 13:1, 2; Luke 21:5, 6

24 Then <sup>a</sup>Jesus went out and departed from the temple, and His disciples came up to show Him the buildings of the temple. <sup>2</sup>And Jesus said to them, “Do you not see all these things? Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>b</sup>not one stone shall be left here upon another, that shall not be thrown down.”

The Tribulation

Mark 13:5-23; Luke 21:5-24

<sup>4</sup>And Jesus answered and said to them: <sup>e</sup>“Take heed that no one deceives you. <sup>5</sup>For <sup>f</sup>many will come in My name, saying, ‘I am the Christ,’ <sup>g</sup>and will deceive many. <sup>6</sup>And you will hear of <sup>h</sup>wars and rumors of wars. And there will be <sup>j</sup>famines, <sup>2</sup>pestilences, and earthquakes in various places. <sup>8</sup>All these are the beginning of sorrows.

<sup>9</sup><sup>h</sup>“Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and kill you, and you will be hated by all nations for My name’s sake. <sup>10</sup>And then many will be offended, and will betray one another, and will hate one another. <sup>11</sup>Then <sup>1</sup>many false prophets

Luke 21:12; [John 16:2]; a cts 4:2, 3; r. ev. 2:10 11 / a cts 20:29; 2 Pet. 2:1; r. ev. 13:11; 19:20

23:37 calling a name twice, as in Jerusalem, Jerusalem, indicates strong emotion (see 27:46; 2 Sam. 18:33; a cts 9:4). t he phrases I wanted and you were not willing illustrate the opposition of Israel to Christ’s will (see Ps. 91:4 for another image of a mother hen). 23:38 Your house may refer to the temple, but more likely to the Davidic dynasty (see 2 Sam. 7:16).

24:1 t he discourse of ch. 23 had evidently been given in the temple precincts. t he first temple, built by Solomon, was destroyed by the Babylonians in 586 B.C. t he second temple, built under the encouragement of haggai and Zechariah and the leadership of Zerubbabel and Joshua (see hag. 1:1), was completed after considerable delay in 516 B.C. t his second temple was completely and lavishly renovated by herod the Great. he began the work around 20 B.C., but the renovations were not completed during the lifetime of Christ (see John 2:20). t he work was finally finished in A.D. 64, and the temple stood completed for only six years before it was reduced to rubble by the romans.

24:2 t he devastation of the temple by the romans in A.D. 70 was so thorough that the precise location of the sanctuary is still unknown today.

hen

(Gk. ornis) (23:37; Luke 13:34) Strong’s #3733

t he Greek term simply means “bird.” t he English word ornithology (the study of birds) is a derivative of it. t hroughout the o t there are references to God exercising his care for his people in the same way a mother bird cares for her young (see Deut. 32:10-12; r. uth 2:12; Ps. 17:8; 36:7; 61:4; 63:7; 91:4; is. 31:5; Mal. 4:2). Many of these references speak of God’s protective wings, under whose shelter the frightened could find refuge. t he later rabbis had a beautiful expression for proselytes from the Gentiles—they had “come under the wings of the Shekinah” (see r. uth 2:12). Jesus came to his people wanting to give them the same kind of motherly care, but they rejected that care and tender affection again and again.

24:3 undoubtedly the disciples were immediately confounded by the Lord’s prophecy (v. 2); however, they held their tongues until they had crossed the Kidron valley and come to the Mount of Olives. When Jesus sat, as Jewish teachers did (5:1), the disciples finally questioned him about his statement regarding the destruction of the temple. Some say that this verse contains two questions: (1) When will these things be? t hat is, “When will the temple be destroyed?” and (2) What will be the sign of Your coming, and of the end of the age? o thers believe that one basic question was in the disciples’ minds: to the disciples, the devastation of the city and the coming of the Messiah were part of one event. t he disciple’s questions should probably be taken as one question, though the fulfillment would come in stages.

24:4 Jesus’ warning about being deceived was especially appropriate for the disciples. t he destruction of Jerusalem did not necessarily mean the nearness of the end of the age. t his principle was a point of confusion for them (see Luke 19:11-27; a cts 1:6, 7).

24:6 t hree indicators of time are given in vv. 6-14. t he first is found in v. 6, the end is not yet. t he second is found in v. 8, “all these are the beginning of sorrows.” t he third is found in v. 14, “then the end will come.” Verses 4-6 may describe the first part of Daniel’s seventieth week (see Dan. 9:25-27), but possibly they present a general picture of the present age. False messiahs and wars and rumors of wars are characteristic of the fallen world in which we live. When the Lord said all these things must come to pass, he used a word for must that indicates a divine or logical necessity. Such activities are necessary because of the people’s sin. False messiahs had existed before (see a cts 5:36, 37; 21:38), and false preachers would come in the future (see a cts 20:29, 30; 2 cor. 11:13-15).

24:7, 8 t his passage describes characteristics of the end times. Nation . . . against nation, and kingdom against kingdom seems to indicate wars on a broad or worldwide scale. t he famines, pestilences, and earthquakes are more fully described in r. ev. 6:1-8; 8:5-13; 9:13-21; 16:2-21. Sorrows literally means “birth pangs.” t he earth continually has birth pangs today (see rom. 8:22); during the tribulation, these “sorrows” will increase in intensity and frequency until Jesus returns in glory (see 19:28; a cts 3:21).

The Second Coming

Mark 13:24-27; Luke 21:25-28

<sup>27</sup><sup>a</sup> For as the lightning comes from the east and flashes to the west, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. <sup>28</sup><sup>b</sup> For wherever the carcass is, there the eagles will be gathered together.

<sup>29</sup><sup>c</sup> “Immediately after the tribulation of those days <sup>d</sup>the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light; the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken. <sup>30</sup><sup>e</sup> Then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, <sup>f</sup>and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. <sup>31</sup><sup>g</sup> And He will send His angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they will gather together His <sup>4</sup>elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

Parable of the Fig Tree

Mark 13:28-31; Luke 21:29-33

<sup>32</sup> “Now learn <sup>h</sup>this parable from the fig tree: When its branch has already become tender and puts forth leaves, you know that summer <sup>is</sup> near. <sup>33</sup> So you also, when you see all these things, know <sup>i</sup>that <sup>5</sup>it

24:14 this gospel of the kingdom: the final evidence of the end times will be the universal proclamation of the gospel. t he antecedent of “this” must be v. 13. t he good news is that the final battle of the tribulation known as a rageddon will not result in the destruction of all people. t he Lord Jesus christ will intervene, bringing an end to the destruction and preserving a people for his kingdom.

24:15 t he abomination of desolation literally means “the abomination that makes desolate.” t his prophecy comes from Daniel, specifically Dan. 9:27; 11:31; 12:11. Daniel 11:31 refers to antiochus iv, who desecrated the temple and set up an idol to Zeus in it. His actions were a prelude to what the ultimate “man of sin” will do. in A.D. 70, t itus destroyed Jerusalem, burned the temple, and set up an idol to mock the Jews. Significantly, Paul speaks of the antichrist at the end times setting himself up as god also (see 2 t hess. 2:3, 4; r ev. 13:14, 15).

24:16 at the time of the war ending in the destruction of the temple in A.D. 70, many of the christians did flee, hiding in the clefts of Petra. Some believe the final fulfillment of this prophecy will occur in the future desecration of the temple (see Dan. 9:27) and the subsequent setting up of an image of the “man of sin” in the Most holy Place. When that occurs, everyone in Judea must flee to the mountains.

24:22 Those days will be shortened means that God will place a limit on the tribulation; christians will not have to endure persecution forever. note the meaning of the “good news” of the kingdom in vv. 13, 14 (see Zech. 14:2-4). christ will intervene and prevent complete genocide.

24:24 Miracles by themselves do not prove that something is of God (see 7:21-23; 2 t hess. 2:9; r ev. 13:13-15). t he teaching of those who perform signs and wonders must be tested against correct doctrine (Deut. 13:1-5; 1 John 4:1-3), and by the witness of God’s Spirit (see John 10:3-5, 27).

24:26, 27 christ’s return will not be confined to a desert or to some inner rooms. When christ returns, his coming will be so spectacular that everyone will know h e has arrived.

24:28 wherever the carcass is, there the eagles will be gathered: t his sweeping statement conveys an image of the horrible carnage that will take place in the judgment at the coming of the Son of Man (see Luke 17:37).

24:29 Immediately after: his verse moves chronologically to the close of the tribulation, a period that will be marked by monumental cosmic disturbances (see is. 13:10; 34:4; ezek. 32:7, 8; Joel 2:30, 31; 3:15; hag. 2:6; Zech. 14:6; r ev. 6:12-14).

24:30 The sign of the Son of Man probably refers to christ himself appearing in heaven (see 16:1; a cts 1:11). The tribes of the earth probably refers to israel. t he context here is the national repentance of israel predicted in Zech. 12:10, 12. The Son of Man coming on the clouds will be a fulfillment of Dan. 7:13, 14.

24:31 Gather refers to the gathering of the elect (God’s people, both Jews and Gentiles) that will gloriously begin christ’s reign (see Deut. 30:1-6; is. 11:11, 12; 43:5, 6; 49:12; Jer. 16:14, 15; ezek. 34:13; 36:24; 37:21-23).

24:32 The fig tree does not necessarily indicate israel here (see 21:18-22; Luke 21:29). We can predict the coming of summer from certain signs: t he branches of trees become tender and produce leaves. in the same way, we will know the end is coming when we see the signs Jesus described in this passage.

24:34 Generation may mean “race,” indicating that Israel as a people will not cease to exist before God fulfills his promises to them. a another possibility is that the word describes a particular era in which people will see the end times. t hat is, the events will occur so rapidly that all will happen within one generation. Perhaps both interpretations are true. All these things includes the a ntichrist, the tribulation, and most importantly the appearance of christ in glory. 24:35 t he words of christ are more certain than the very existence of the universe.

24:36 Mark 13:32 indicates that even Jesus himself did not know

t his phrase, used almost exclusively in Matthew’s Gospel (33 times), is a Jewish way of saying “the kingdom of God.” t he Jews avoided saying the name of God out of respect for him. t herefore they often used the word heaven as an alternative way to refer to God. t he word heaven also points to the heavenly nature of Jesus’ kingdom. his kingdom did not involve a political restoration of the nation of Israel as many Jews had hoped. instead he brought a heavenly kingdom with a spiritual domain, the hearts of his people. Such a kingdom demanded internal repentance, not just external submission. it provided deliverance from sin rather than political deliverance.

the day and hour of his return. When the Lord Jesus was on earth, he voluntarily limited his use of his divine attributes (see John 17:4, 5; Phil. 2:5–8). t herefore he became hungry, thirsty, and tired. Luke records that Jesus grew in knowledge and wisdom (see Luke 2:52). in this instance, Jesus surrendered the use of his divine omniscience. 24:37–39 as the days of Noah were, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be: Jesus was referring to the indifference of the people of that time to the coming disaster. t here is nothing sinful about eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage. however, the people of the end times will be doing these things without any thought of God or the coming judgment.

24:42 t his is the application of vv. 36–41. a s noah was vigilant in preparing for the Flood, so should people living in the tribulation be alert. t hey should prepare for the return of christ.

24:45–51 t hese two servants (see Luke 19:11–26) illustrate two attitudes people will have to christ’s return. t he faithful and wise servant will be given more responsibilities in the Lord’s kingdom. t he evil servant will be cut . . . in two, a form of judgment used in the ancient world. Weeping and gnashing of teeth indicates the remorse of those who have suffered great loss.

25:1 t he ten virgins in this parable were waiting for the wedding procession that went from the bride’s home to the home of her husband. t his nighttime procession would use lamps to light the way because ancient cities did not have streetlights.

25:2 t he good servant of 24:45 is described as “faithful and wise.” t he parable of the ten virgins explains the need for wisdom (vv. 1–13); the following parable of the talents (vv. 14–29) shows the need for faithfulness. t he word translated wise here and in 24:45 means “prudent.”

25:8 Possessing oil illustrates the concept of being prepared; a lack of oil represents being unprepared for christ’s return.

foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’<sup>9</sup> But the wise answered, saying, ‘No, lest there should not be enough for us and you; but go rather to those who sell, and buy for yourselves.’<sup>10</sup> And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went in with him to the wedding; and <sup>j</sup>the door was shut.

<sup>11</sup>“Afterward the other virgins came also, saying, <sup>g</sup>‘Lord, Lord, open to us!’<sup>12</sup> But he answered and said, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>h</sup>I do not know you.’

Parable of the Talents

25:10 The door was shut speaks of being shut out of the kingdom. t he unwise virgins were not ready when c hrist returned. c ompare the wedding feast of 22:1–14 and r ev. 19:7, 8.

25:11 Lord, Lord is reminiscent of a similar cry in 7:21–23, where the same scene is portrayed. t he repetition of Lord indicates strong emotion.

25:14 t he parable of the talents illustrates the faithfulness required of God’s servants. t he fact that the master traveled to a f ar c ountry indicates that there would be ample time to test the faithfulness of the servants.

25:15 a talent was a large sum of money, about six thousand denarii. a denarius represented the day’s wage for a typical working man (20:2).

25:18 it was believed that money hidden in the ground was as secure as it could be.

25:23 t he first two servants received the same reward, even though they had received different amounts of money. t he reward was based on faithfulness, not on the size of their responsibilities. t he smallest task in God’s work may receive a great reward if we are faithful in performing it (10:42).

25:26, 27 t he wicked servant was lazy and unfaithful, because if he really had feared his master, he would at least have deposited the money with the bankers. t hen the master would have received back the investment plus interest.

25:29 t his proverb illustrates that a person must use what God has given or else lose it (see heb. 5:11, 12). t his includes abilities and spiritual gifts, as well as material possessions (see 1 Pet. 4:10).

25:30 The unprofitable servant is one who fails to be faithful to the tasks given by the master. t his servant will not share in the rewards (8:12; 13:42, 50; 22:13).

25:31 t he final section of this discourse involves judgment. Matthew has been called “the Gospel of judgment” because the subject occurs so often (vv. 1–12, 14–46; 3:12; 6:2, 5, 16; 7:24–27; 13:30, 48, 49; 18:23–34; 20:1–16; 21:33–41; 22:1–14; 24:45–51). t his is to be expected, since Matthew emphasizes the coming of the kingdom and thus the judgment that accompanies it. in the previous two parables, Jesus had been speaking of the judgment on those israelites who were unprepared for the coming of the Messiah. in the last parable of this discourse, Jesus focuses his attention on all the nations of the earth. When the Son of Man comes in His glory recalls the words of Dan. 7:13, 14, 27 and anticipates the future reign of c hrist (see r ev. 5:9, 10; 19:11–18; 20:4–6).

25:32 Nations here means Gentiles. Sheep and goats were both clean animals according to the Levitical law; however, their natures divides his sheep from the goats. <sup>33</sup> And He will set the <sup>a</sup>sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left. <sup>34</sup> Then the King will say to those on His right hand, ‘Come, you blessed of My Father, <sup>b</sup>inherit the kingdom <sup>c</sup>prepared for you from the foundation of the world: <sup>35</sup> <sup>d</sup>for I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; <sup>e</sup>I was a stranger and you took Me in; <sup>36</sup> I was <sup>f</sup>naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; <sup>g</sup>I was in prison and you came to Me.’

<sup>37</sup> “Then the righteous will answer Him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You drink? <sup>38</sup> When did we see You a stranger and take You in, or naked and clothe You? <sup>39</sup> Or when did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?’ <sup>40</sup> And the King will answer and say to them, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>h</sup>inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me.’

<sup>41</sup> “Then He will also say to those on the left hand, <sup>i</sup>‘Depart from Me, you cursed, <sup>j</sup>into the everlasting fire prepared for <sup>k</sup>the devil and his angels: <sup>42</sup> for I was hungry and you gave Me no food; I was thirsty and you gave Me no drink; <sup>43</sup> I was a stranger and you did not take Me in, naked and you did not clothe Me, sick and in prison and you did not visit Me.’

<sup>44</sup> “Then they also will answer <sup>4</sup>Him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see You hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to You?’ <sup>45</sup> Then He will answer them, saying, ‘Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>l</sup>inasmuch as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to Me.’ <sup>46</sup> And <sup>m</sup>these will go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into eternal life.”

The Religious Leaders Plot to Kill Jesus

Mark 14:1, 2; Luke 22:1, 2

26 Now it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these sayings, that He said to His disciples, <sup>2a</sup> “You know that after two days is the Passover, and the Son of Man will be delivered up to be crucified.”

<sup>3b</sup> Then the chief priests, <sup>1</sup> the scribes, and the elders of the people assembled at the palace of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas, <sup>4</sup> and <sup>c</sup>plotted to take Jesus by <sup>2</sup>trickery and kill Him. <sup>5</sup> But they said, “Not during the feast, lest there be an uproar among the <sup>d</sup>people.”

Mary Anoints Jesus for Burial

Mark 14:3-9; John 12:2-8

<sup>6</sup> And when Jesus was in <sup>e</sup>Bethany at the house of Simon the leper, <sup>7</sup> a woman came to Him having an alabaster flask of very costly fragrant oil, and she poured it on His head as He sat at the table. <sup>8f</sup> But when His disciples saw it, they were indignant, saying, “Why this waste? <sup>9</sup> For this fragrant oil might have been sold for much and given to the poor.”

<sup>10</sup> But when Jesus was aware of it, He said to them, “Why do you trouble the woman? For she has done a good work for Me. <sup>11g</sup> For you have the poor with you always, but <sup>h</sup>Me you do not have always. <sup>12</sup> For in pouring this fragrant oil on My body, she did it for My <sup>i</sup>burial. <sup>13</sup> Assuredly, I say to you, wherever this gospel is preached in the whole world, what this woman has done will also be told as a memorial to her.”

John 19:38-42

are very different. Shepherds regularly herded their sheep and goats together, but there came a point when the two had to be separated. 25:34 The kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world indicates that this kingdom has always been God’s goal for humans.

25:40 t hree groups are referred to in vv. 31–46: sheep, goats, and My brethren. at the very least, these “brethren” are believers in Jesus christ.

25:46 Everlasting and eternal are used to describe both torment and life, indicating that one will last as long as the other. in fact, “everlasting” is used of God in r om. 16:26.

26:1 as is his style, Matthew brings the discourse of the Lord to a conclusion with the words, Now it came to pass, when Jesus had finished (see 7:28; 11:1; 13:53; 19:1).

26:3 the wicked Caiaphas was high priest from A.D. 18 to 37. however, Luke 3:2 says that both annas (father-in-law of caiaphas) and caiaphas were high priests; a cts 4:6 calls annas the high priest. although caiaphas was officially the high priest, annas still had influence over that office. annas was so despicable that the roman government deposed him from office. however, he continued to work behind the scenes through his wicked son-in-law.

26:4 t he religious leaders knew they could not take christ by argument or logic (22:46), and they did not dare take him by force (21:46). t heir only recourse was trickery.

26:5 t his verse is to be compared with v. 2, which speaks of christ’s full knowledge of what was coming and his acceptance that it was part of God’s plan (see John 10:18). Despite whatever people plot, God still sovereignly controls all events.

26:6 a pparently Jesus spent his nights in the village of Bethany, just a few miles outside Jerusalem on the Mount of olives. Simon was a leper who evidently had been cleansed by Jesus. he may have been the father of Lazarus, Mary, and Martha (see John 12:1, 2).

26:7 t he costly fragrant oil (see Mark 14:3) was a perfume extracted from pure nard. t he woman poured the costly perfume on both the head and feet of Jesus (see John 12:3). She could have opened the flask in such a way that it would have trickled out; instead, she broke the flask and poured out the oil to cover Jesus’ body (see Mark 14:3).

26:12 Jesus saw the pouring of the fragrant oil on his body as an anticipation of his death (see Mark 14:8). t he perfumed ointment was placed on Jesus before his death; normally it would have been used after his death. t he expensive oil points to (1) the value of Jesus’ death and (2) the high cost of devotion to him.

Judas Agrees to Betray Jesus

Mark 14:10, 11; Luke 22:3-6

<sup>14</sup>J Then one of the twelve, called <sup>k</sup>Judas Iscariot, went to the chief priests <sup>15</sup>and said, <sup>l</sup>“What are you willing to give me if I deliver Him to you?” And they counted out to him thirty pieces of silver. <sup>16</sup>So from that time he sought opportunity to betray Him.

The Passover Is Prepared

Mark 14:12-16; Luke 22:7-13

<sup>17</sup><sup>m</sup> Now on the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying to Him, “Where do You want us to prepare for You to eat the Passover?”

<sup>18</sup>And He said, “Go into the city to a certain man, and say to him, ‘The Teacher says, “My time is at hand; I will keep the Passover at your house with My disciples.”’”

<sup>19</sup>So the disciples did as Jesus had directed them; and they prepared the Passover.

John 13:21, 22

<sup>20</sup><sup>o</sup> When evening had come, He sat down with the twelve. <sup>21</sup>Now as they were eating, He said, “Assuredly, I say to you, one of you will <sup>p</sup>betray Me.”

<sup>22</sup>And they were exceedingly sorrowful, and each of them began to say to Him, “Lord, is it I?”

The Lord's Supper Is Instituted

Mark 14:22-25; Luke 22:19, 20; 1 Cor. 11:23-26

<sup>27</sup>Then He took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, <sup>x</sup>“Drink from it, all of you. <sup>28</sup>For <sup>y</sup>this is My blood <sup>z</sup>of the <sup>4</sup>new covenant, which is shed <sup>a</sup>for many for the <sup>5</sup>remission of sins. <sup>29</sup>But <sup>b</sup>I say to you, I will not drink of this fruit of the vine from now on <sup>c</sup>until that day when I drink it new with you in My Father's kingdom.”

Peter's Denial Is Predicted

Mark 14:26-31; Luke 22:34, 39; John 13:37, 38

<sup>30</sup><sup>d</sup> And when they had sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

g ‘I will strike the Shepherd,
And the sheep of the flock will be scattered.’

<sup>33</sup>Peter answered and said to Him, “Even if all are <sup>7</sup>made to stumble because of You, I will never be made to stumble.”

26:14 t he enormity of Judas's sin is seen in the words one of the twelve. Jesus was betrayed by one of his inner circle. Judas must have been considered a person of integrity or he would not have been trusted as treasurer.

26:15 Thirty pieces of silver was the price of a slave (see ex. 21:32). Zechariah had foreshadowed this sum in his prophetic actions (in Zech. 11:12, 13). n ote the contrast between the costly devotion of the woman (vv. 7-13) and the small price of Judas's betrayal.

26:17 The first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread is also the day of the Passover (v. 18). The disciples were Peter and John (see Luke 22:8).

26:21 One of you will betray Me indicates the Lord's omniscience. r epeatedly—in submission to the Father—christ unveiled evidences of his deity to his disciples.

26:22 t he disciples had already heard that Jesus was going to die in Jerusalem, but h is revelation of betrayal was new (see v. 2; 16:21; 17:12, 22, 23; 20:18, 19). Is it l expects a negative response. t he meaning is “I'm not the one, am I?”

26:23 The dish was a bowl of broth in which the guests dipped pieces of bread.

26:26 This is My body means “t his symbolizes My body” (see 1 c or 10:4).

26:28 This is My blood of the new covenant refers to the covenant that had been promised in the ot (see Jer. 31:31-34; 32:37-44; ezeq. 34:25-31; 37:26-28). t he Lord Jesus specifically said that his blood . . . is shed for many for the remission of sins. t he word many looks back to 20:28 and anticipates the command to preach the Good n ews to all the world in 28:19, 20.

26:29 t his verse anticipates God's kingdom when christ will reign on the throne of David. t oday he is seated with the Father on his throne and intercedes for us.

26:31 All of you will . . . stumble: a ll the disciples, not just Peter, would fall away. I will strike the Shepherd . . . the flock will be scattered: t his ot prophecy is found in Zech. 13:7 (see Ps. 118).

26:32 Several reasons may be offered as to why christ went to Galilee to meet his disciples: (1) t hey were all from Galilee; (2) h e wanted to be away from Jerusalem, the center of opposition; (3) h e wanted to take up the work of shepherding his flock where h e had ministered to them before; or (4) the most effective setting for the Great commission given in 28:19, 20 would be Galilee (4:12-16).

26:34 t he rooster crow is usually thought to refer to the third r oman watch, from midnight to 3 A.M.

to you that this night, before the rooster crows, you will deny Me three times.”

<sup>35</sup> Peter said to Him, “Even if I have to die with You, I will not deny You!”

And so said all the disciples.

Jesus' Three Prayers

Mark 14:32-42; Luke 22:40-46

<sup>36j</sup> Then Jesus came with them to a place called Gethsemane, and said to the disciples, “Sit here while I go and pray over there.” <sup>37</sup> And He took with Him Peter and <sup>k</sup> the two sons of Zebedee, and He began to be sorrowful and deeply distressed. <sup>38</sup> Then He said to them, <sup>l</sup> “My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even to death. Stay here and watch with Me.”

from Me; nevertheless, <sup>p</sup> not as I will, but as You will.”

<sup>40</sup> Then He came to the disciples and found them sleeping, and said to Peter, “What! Could you not watch with Me one hour? <sup>41 q</sup> Watch and pray, lest you enter into temptation. <sup>r</sup> The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.”

<sup>42</sup> Again, a second time, He went away and prayed, saying, “O My Father, <sup>s</sup> if this cup cannot pass away from Me unless I drink it, Your will be done.” <sup>43</sup> And He came and found them asleep again, for their eyes were heavy.

<sup>44</sup> So He left them, went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words. <sup>45</sup> Then He came to His disciples and said to them, “Are you still sleeping and resting? Behold, the hour <sup>9</sup> is at hand, and the Son of Man is being <sup>b</sup> betrayed into the hands of sinners. <sup>46</sup> Rise, 26:36 Judas had already gone (see John 13:21–30), so the Lord left eight of his disciples at this spot. Gethsemane (which means “o il Press”) was east of Jerusalem on the Mount of olives, in the place where olives were crushed and ground, the o ne anointed with oil was crushed and rent.

26:37 t his was the third time that Jesus singled out Peter, James, and John to accompany him for a specific purpose (see the transfiguration in 17:1–13 and the raising of Jairus’s daughter in Luke 8:49–56).

26:38 My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even to death seems to look back to Ps. 42:5, 6, 11; 43:5. Watch literally means “stay awake.”

26:39 let this cup pass from Me: it was not the impending physical suffering, as terrible as it would be, that caused Jesus to pray this way; it was the reality of the sinless Son of God bearing the sins of the world and facing separation from his Father (see 2 cor. 5:21; Gal. 3:13; heb. 12:2; 1 Pet. 2:24). Cup is a figure of speech for wrath in the ot (see Ps. 75:8; is. 51:17). Jesus became a curse for us and took the brunt of God’s righteous wrath against sin (see Gal. 3:13).

26:40 Could you not watch with Me one hour: a lthough addressed to Peter, the question was meant for all three disciples. earlier Peter had claimed that he would never forsake Jesus and that he would even die for him (v. 35); yet Peter could not stay awake to pray with Jesus at the time of his greatest need.

26:41 t he disciples needed to stay awake and pray because they were about to be tested themselves. here the word flesh emphasizes human weakness. t he contrast between the weakness of the disciples and the strength of the Lord is startling. Because the flesh is weak, every child of God needs supernatural empowerment (see r om. 8:3, 4).

26:42–44 t he fact that Jesus prayed the same words indicates that there is nothing wrong with repetition from a devout heart. in the first prayer, Jesus made a positive request: “Let this cup pass from Me.” in the second and third prayers, his request was negative. in obedience to his Father, Jesus committed himself to drink the cup, whatever the cost.

26:45 Are you still sleeping: t he disciples were resting while Jesus was sweating in prayer to the point of exhaustion (see Luke 22:43, 44).

26:46 t his verse shows Jesus’ active submission to the Father’s will, as he stated in v. 42. Jesus did not go reluctantly, but with determination to do the Father’s will.

The Lord’s Supper

When we ask how the Lord’s Supper should be meaningful to the christian today, three concepts—relating to the past, present, and future—can be helpful.

First, the Lord’s Supper is a time of remembrance and eucharist. Jesus said, “Do this in remembrance of Me” (Luke 22:19; 1 cor. 11:24, 25). t his is not to be so much our dwelling on the agonies of the crucifixion as it is to be our remembering the marvelous life and ministry of our Savior. t he eucharist is to be an occasion for expressing our deepest praise and appreciation for all Jesus christ has done for us. Just as one step in the Jewish Passover meal was to proclaim the hebrews’ deliverance from egyptian bondage (ex. 12:26, 27), so in the Lord’s Supper christians proclaim their deliverance from sin and misery through the death of “c hrist, our Passover” (1 cor. 5:7; 11:26).

Second, the Supper is a time of refreshing and communion. as we participate in the benefits of Jesus’ death and resurrection life (r om. 5:10; 1 cor. 10:16), we are actually being nourished and empowered from the risen christ through the Spirit. John Wesley knew of this strengthening. o n the average, he received communion every four or five days throughout his long and fruitful ministerial career. it is not that God cannot empower us without the Lord’s Supper, but that he has instituted the Supper for us, even as he has designated prayer and the hearing of Scripture as means of communicating his grace. While the Bible does not tell us how often to observe the eucharist, Wesley’s guideline—“as often as you can”—deserves our serious consideration.

t hird, the Supper is a time of recommitment and anticipation. We are to examine (literally “prove” or “test”) ourselves and partake in a worthy manner (1 cor. 11:28, 29). in so doing we renew our dedication to christ and his people, in hopeful anticipation “till he comes” (1 cor. 11:26). a fter christ’s return we shall partake with him—in his physical presence—in the kingdom (Matt. 26:29).

let us be going. See, My betrayer is at hand.”

Jesus' Betrayal and Arrest

Mark 14:43-52; Luke 22:47-53; John 18:1-11

<sup>47</sup>And <sup>t</sup>while He was still speaking, behold, Judas, one of the twelve, with a great multitude with swords and clubs, came from the chief priests and elders of the people.

<sup>48</sup>Now His betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “Whomever I kiss, He is the One; seize Him.” <sup>49</sup>Immediately he went up to Jesus and said, “Greetings, Rabbi!” <sup>u</sup>and kissed Him.

<sup>50</sup>But Jesus said to him, <sup>v</sup>“Friend, why have you come?”

Then they came and laid hands on Jesus and took Him. <sup>51</sup>And suddenly, <sup>w</sup>one of those who were with Jesus stretched out his hand and drew his sword, struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

<sup>52</sup>But Jesus said to him, “Put your sword in its place, <sup>x</sup>for all who take the sword will <sup>1</sup>perish by the sword. <sup>53</sup>Or do you think that I cannot now pray to My Father, and He will provide Me with <sup>y</sup>more than twelve legions of angels? <sup>54</sup>How then could the Scriptures be fulfilled, <sup>z</sup>that it must happen thus?”

<sup>55</sup>In that hour Jesus said to the multitudes, “Have you come out, as against a robber, with swords and clubs to take Me? I sat daily with you, teaching in the

John 18:12, 18, 24

<sup>57</sup><sup>c</sup> And those who had laid hold of Jesus led Him away to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled. <sup>58</sup>But <sup>d</sup>Peter followed Him at a distance to the high priest's courtyard. And he went in and sat with the servants to see the end.

<sup>62</sup><sup>i</sup> And the high priest arose and said to Him, “Do You answer nothing? What is it these men testify against You?” <sup>63</sup>But <sup>j</sup>Jesus kept silent. And the high priest answered and said to Him, <sup>k</sup>“I put you under oath by the living God: Tell us if You are the Christ, the Son of God!”

<sup>64</sup>Jesus said to him, “It is as you said.”

26:47 t the fact that the multitude was armed with swords and clubs indicates that Judas did not really know the heart of Jesus. christ went out to meet the multitude not to do battle, but to surrender.

26:49 t he only person to address the Lord as Rabbi in the Book of Matthew was Judas (v. 25). Kissed means to kiss as a display of affection. t he same verb form is used in the parable of the Lost Son in Luke 15:20.

26:50 Friend: even though he knew Judas's wicked heart and actions, Jesus offered him friendship and an opportunity to change his mind. t he words translated Why have you come may also mean “Do what you have come to do.”

26:51 John 18:10 informs us that the impetuous swordsman was Peter. t his action was performed with one of the two swords that the disciples had (see Luke 22:38).

26:53 a legion in the roman army was about six thousand men. When one considers the power of one angel, as seen in the ot (see ex. 12:23; 2 Sam. 24:15-17; 2 Kings 19:35), the power of more than 72,000 angels is beyond comprehension. Jesus had all of heaven's power at his disposal, yet he refused to use it. his Father's will was for him to go to the cross.

26:54 if Jesus had called for angelic aid, the prophetic Scriptures foretelling his betrayal, his death, and his resurrection would not have been fulfilled. t his point is so important that it is stated twice (v. 56).

26:56 all the disciples forsook Him and fled: compare Peter's claim in v. 35 with Jesus' words in v. 41, “t he spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.”

26:57 t he Lord Jesus was subjected to six trials—three Jewish trials and three Gentile trials. t he first Jewish trial was before annas, who was not the actual high priest, but was a powerful influence on the high priest's office. t his trial is mentioned only by John (see John 18:12-23). t he second trial was before Caiaphas and the Jewish council. clearly the council had been hastily called together in anticipation of passing judgment on Jesus. Matthew does not mention Jesus' trial before herod antipas (see Luke 23:6-12); he also combines the two trials before Pilate into one (27:2, 11-26). Jesus' opponents were trying desperately to find some legal basis for condemning him to death.

26:58 John 18:15, 16 explains that Peter and John were both granted an entrance into the courtyard because John was known to the high priest. The servants were probably house servants, not members of the mob who arrested the Lord. apparently, Peter had forgotten the words of Jesus concerning his resurrection. For Peter, this was the end.

26:61 t his was a misquotation and misapplication of christ's words (see John 2:19-21). at any rate, to say that Jesus had spoken against the temple was an action for which they could condemn him (see acts 6:13, 14).

26:62 The high priest must have recognized that the accusers had no case against Jesus. his outburst was the result of frustration and desperation. in maintaining his silence, Jesus fulfilled the prophecy of is. 53:7.

26:63 I put you under oath by the living God: t he high priest thought he needed to put christ under oath in order to get a truthful confession. christ needed no such oath; he had indicated his divine nature and unity with the Father on several occasions (see John 8:58; 10:30-33).

26:64 Jesus answered the high priest's request (v. 63) in the affirmative and then fortified his answer by applying two clearly messianic passages to himself: Ps. 110:1 and Dan. 7:13.

Nevertheless, I say to you, <sup>l</sup>hereafter you will see the Son of Man <sup>m</sup>sitting at the right hand of the Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven.”

They answered and said, <sup>p</sup>“He is deserving of death.”

<sup>71</sup> And when he had gone out to the gateway, another girl saw him and said to those who were there, “This fellow also was with Jesus of Nazareth.”

<sup>72</sup> But again he denied with an oath, “I do not know the Man!”

<sup>73</sup> And a little later those who stood by came up and said to Peter, “Surely you also are one of them, for your <sup>u</sup>speech betrays you.”

26:65 Jesus’ claim of sitting at the right hand of God (v. 64) was an assertion of deity and was, to this unbelieving high priest, a clear case of blasphemy.

26:74 swear: Peter swore under oath that he did not know Jesus. immediately a rooster crowed: Some have detected a contradiction between this passage, where the rooster is said to crow

(presumably once) after Peter denies Jesus three times, and the statement in Mark’s Gospel that the rooster would crow two times (see Mark 14:72). Others believe that to see a contradiction is simply a forced reading of the text. Matthew, Luke, and John make the simple statement that a rooster would crow (Luke 22:61; John 18:27) whereas Mark, which was based on Peter’s memories, emphasizes

The Meaning of Messiah

Matthew wrote his Gospel to demonstrate to his Jewish audience that Jesus is indeed the long-awaited Messiah. Who is the Messiah and why were the Jews waiting for such a person?

The Term	In Hebrew or Aramaic, the word Messiah means “anointed.” The Greek equivalent of the word is the title Christ.
Old Testament Background	In the Old Testament, prophets, priests and kings were literally anointed with oil to consecrate them for special service or to signify the endowment of the Spirit of God (Lev. 4:3; 8:12; 1 Sam. 10:1, 6; Ps. 105:15; Is. 61:1). These practices pointed to the promised arrival of God’s Anointed One, who would fulfill all three offices as the Prophet, the Priest, and the King.
Titles for the Messiah	Seed of Abraham (Ps. 105:6); Son of David (Matt. 1:1); Son of Man (Dan. 7:13); My Son (Ps. 2:7); My Servant (Matt. 12:18); My Elect One (Is. 42:1); The Branch (Zech. 3:8; 6:12); Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Prince of Peace (Is. 9:6)
Major Old Testament Prophecies of the Messiah	Gen. 3:15; 9:27; 12:3; 22:18; 49:8, 10; Deut. 18:18; 2 Sam. 7:11–16; 23:5; Ps. 2; 16; 22; 40; 110; Is. 2; 7; 9; 11; 40; 42; 49; 52; 53; Jer. 23:5, 6; Dan. 7:27; Hag. 2:9; Zech. 12:10–14; Mal. 3:1; 4:5, 6
Jewish Expectations for the Messiah	In the first century, the Jews looked for a Messiah who would deliver the nation from Roman domination, become their King, and rebuild the nation of Israel to its former glory. By looking for a military deliverer and a political Messiah, the Jews minimized the messianic roles of prophet and priest. Thus many Jews rejected Jesus as the Messiah because He came as a humble spiritual Savior and not a conquering political ruler.
The Messiah’s Rule	Jesus indicated that He was the King for whom the Jews were looking. However, His kingdom was not an earthly kingdom but a heavenly kingdom. In Matthew there are 32 references to the “kingdom of heaven.” This phrase, found in the New Testament only in Matthew’s Gospel, is probably derived from the description of the kingdom of the Son of Man in Dan. 7:13–18. The phrase indicates the rule of heaven over all of the earth (Matt. 6:10).
Jesus’ Claim	When asked specifically if He was the Christ, Jesus answered in the affirmative, incurring the wrath of the Jews (Matt. 26:63–65). In addition, Jesus praised Peter for recognizing Him as the Anointed One of God (Matt. 16:15–20).
Significance	The title Messiah implies the idea of deity. The great prophet Moses, the priest Melchizedek, and even the glorious King David pale in comparison to the messianic Prophet-Priest-King. In the words of Heb. 1, Jesus Christ is the “brightness of [God’s] glory and the express image of His person” (v. 3). In short, He is God (v. 8).

Immediately a rooster crowed. <sup>75</sup> And Peter remembered the word of Jesus who had said to him, <sup>w</sup> “Before the rooster crows, you will deny Me three times.” So he went out and wept bitterly.

Jesus Is Delivered to Pilate

Mark 15:1; Luke 22:66; 23:1; John 18:28

27 When morning came, <sup>a</sup> all the chief priests and elders of the people plotted against Jesus to put Him to death. <sup>2</sup> And when they had bound Him, they led Him away and <sup>b</sup> delivered Him to <sup>1</sup> Pontius Pilate the governor.

Judas Repents

Acts 1:18, 19

<sup>3c</sup> Then Judas, His betrayer, seeing that He had been condemned, was remorseful and brought back the thirty <sup>d</sup> pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, <sup>4</sup> saying, “I have sinned by betraying innocent blood.”

And they said, “What is that to us? You see to it!”

<sup>5</sup> Then he threw down the pieces of silver in the temple and <sup>e</sup> departed, and went and hanged himself.

<sup>6</sup> But the chief priests took the silver pieces and said, “It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, because they are the price of blood.” <sup>7</sup> And they consulted together and bought with them the potter’s field, to bury strangers in. <sup>8</sup> Therefore that field has been called <sup>f</sup> the Field of Blood to this day.

<sup>9</sup> Then was fulfilled what was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet, saying, <sup>g</sup> “And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the value of Him who was priced, whom they

Jesus Is Examined

Mark 15:2-5; Luke 23:2-5; John 18:29-38

<sup>11</sup> Now Jesus stood before the governor. <sup>i</sup> And the governor asked Him, saying, “Are You the King of the Jews?”

Jesus said to him, <sup>j</sup> “It is as you say.” <sup>12</sup> And while He was being accused by the chief priests and elders, <sup>k</sup> He answered nothing.

<sup>13</sup> Then Pilate said to Him, <sup>l</sup> “Do You not hear how many things they testify against You?” <sup>14</sup> But He answered him not one word, so that the governor marveled greatly.

Barabbas Is Freed

Mark 15:6-14; Luke 23:17-23; John 18:39, 40

<sup>15m</sup> Now at the feast the governor was accustomed to releasing to the multitude one prisoner whom they wished. <sup>16</sup> And at that time they had a notorious prisoner called <sup>2</sup> Barabbas. <sup>17</sup> Therefore, when they had gathered together, Pilate said to them, “Whom do you want me to release to you? Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?” <sup>18</sup> For he knew that they had handed Him over because of <sup>n</sup> envy.

<sup>19</sup> While he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent to him, saying, “Have nothing to do with that just Man, for I have suffered many things today in a dream because of Him.”

<sup>20o</sup> But the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitudes that they should ask for Barabbas and destroy Jesus. <sup>21</sup> The governor answered and said to the exact number of times the rooster would crow. t the number of times would be sharp in Peter’s memory and interest. t the other Gospel writers were concerned only with the sign in general.

26:75 He went out and wept bitterly indicates Peter’s genuine repentance. in his grace, the Lord later forgave Peter.

27:1 t this was the third Jewish trial. t the first two were illegal because they were held at night. t his third meeting was held when morning came and was simply a “rubber stamp” of the one described in 26:57-68.

27:2 Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea, Samaria, and Idumea from A.D. 26-36. Because the Jews did not have authority to execute Jesus (see John 18:31), they brought him to Pilate.

27:3 Judas felt remorse because he had not planned for this to happen; he may have betrayed Jesus in order to force him to take action against his enemies and inaugurate his kingdom. But that was not God’s timing and plan.

27:5 a acts 1:18 says that the death of Judas was due to a headlong fall. t the likely explanation is that Judas hanged himself on a tree, only to have the rope or branch break. if the tree was over a rocky precipice, the account in acts can be correlated with this account.

27:6 t the religious leaders, who had no problem condemning an innocent person to death, suddenly became very scrupulous about the Law. Because of Deut. 23:18, it was felt that blood money should not be used for religious purposes.

27:7 o originally this plot of ground was known as the potter’s field, a place where potters dug for clay. c consequently, it was full of holes, which would have made it easy to bury people who had no family tombs. it was purchased as a cemetery for strangers who died in Jerusalem. it is likely Gentiles were also buried there.

27:9, 10 t this prophecy is found in Zech. 11:12, 13; however, Matthew states that the prophecy was made by Jeremiah. t the best solution to the problem seems to be that the prophecy was spoken by Jeremiah and recorded by Zechariah. a second option is that the name Jeremiah stands for the collection of prophetic writings in which Zechariah is found. it may also be that in the days of Christ, the Book of Jeremiah headed the books of the prophets. t the quotation is then identified with the name of the first book in the section and not the name of the specific book within the group.

27:11 t the title King of the Jews has not been used in Matthew’s Gospel since 2:2. c clearly Pilate’s charge against the Lord Jesus was prompted by Jewish religious leaders.

27:16-18 Barabbas was notorious because he was an insurrectionist and a murderer (see Mark 15:7; Luke 23:19, 25). evidently Pilate assumed the Jews would choose Jesus to be released over a murderer like Barabbas. Jesus had only gone about doing good.

27:19 o nly Matthew records this incident concerning Pilate’s wife. it highlights Pilate’s sense of responsibility; he did not want to condemn an innocent man.

They said, p “Barabbas!”

<sup>22</sup> Pilate said to them, “What then shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?”

They all said to him, “Let Him be crucified!”

<sup>23</sup> Then the governor said, q “Why, what evil has He done?”

But they cried out all the more, saying, “Let Him be crucified!”

<sup>24</sup> When Pilate saw that he could not prevail at all, but rather that a <sup>3</sup> tumult was rising, he r took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, “I am innocent of the blood of this <sup>4</sup> just Person. You see to it.”

<sup>25</sup> And all the people answered and said, s “His blood be on us and on our children.”

27:24 t he religious authorities, who wanted to avoid a riot earlier, here used a tumult (the same Greek noun as in 26:5) to accomplish their goal. t he tenure of Pilate had been rocked by conflicts with the Jews from the very beginning. he could scarcely have afforded another one on his record. o nce again, Pilate pronounced Jesus to be innocent. t he washing of his hands is recorded only by Matthew. t he governor vainly attempted to rid himself of the guilt of condemning an innocent man to death (see Deut. 21:1–9; Ps. 73:13). 27:25 His blood be on us and on our children: t he destruction of Jerusalem was one of the results of this sin (23:32–39).

27:26 when he had scourged Jesus: Scourging was a life-threatening punishment. evidently this was an attempt by Pilate to punish Jesus so severely that the people would have pity and say, “it is enough; release him” (see John 19:4, 5). however, the mob cried out for Jesus to be crucified (John 19:6).

27:27 The Praetorium was the official residence of the governor when he was in Jerusalem. it was originally built as a palace for herod the Great.

27:28–30 t he soldiers mocked Jesus for claiming to be a king. n ote the references to the robe, the crown, the scepter (reed), and the praise.

27:31 crucified: *c*rucifixion, a practice probably adopted from Persia, was considered by the r omans to be the cruelest form of execution. t his punishment was reserved for the worst criminals; r oman citizens were not crucified. t he victim usually died after two or three days of agonizing suffering, enduring thirst, exhaustion, and exposure. t he victim's arms were nailed to a beam, which was hoisted up and fixed to a post, to which the feet of the victim would be nailed. t he body weight was supported by a peg on which the victim sat.

27:32 Compelled, the same verb used in 5:41, refers to the r oman government's right of impressment, the right of the r oman army to demand labor from a person. t he scourging undoubtedly left Jesus weak and unable to carry his cross, so a r oman guard ordered Simon to carry it. Simon must have been (or later became) a christian; it is unlikely that he would be referred to by name if he were a stranger to the christian community. t his Simon was the father of alexander and r ufus (see Mark 15:21). Cyrene, located in north africa, was home to a large number of Jews (see a cts 6:9).

27:33 t he reason the site was called Place of a Skull is not known for certain; possibly the hill or mound looked something like a skull. 27:34 Sour wine mingled with gall would have dulled Jesus' pain and consciousness. Jesus refused it; he wanted to drink his cup of suffering fully aware of all that was happening (see Ps. 69:21).

27:35 t he executioners had the privilege of taking the victim's clothes. *i*n casting lots for Jesus' garments, the soldiers fulfilled Ps. 22:18.

27:36 Perhaps the soldiers kept watch to prevent anyone from trying to rescue Jesus from the *c*ross.

27:37 Putting the Gospel accounts together, the accusation probably read “t his is Jesus of n azareth, the King of the Jews” (see Mark 15:26; Luke 23:38; John 19:19).

27:38 two robbers were crucified with Him: t his is in fulfillment of is. 53:12, “h e was numbered with the transgressors.” Luke record-

<sup>39</sup> And j those who passed by blasphemed Him, wagging their heads <sup>40</sup> and saying, <sup>k</sup> “You who destroy the temple and build it in three days, save Yourself! <sup>l</sup> If You are the Son of God, come down from the cross.”

<sup>44</sup> <sup>o</sup> Even the robbers who were crucified with Him reviled Him with the same thing.

Signs Accompanying Jesus' Death

Mark 15:38-41; Luke 23:45, 47-49

<sup>51</sup> Then, behold, <sup>v</sup> the veil of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom; and the earth quaked, and the rocks were split, <sup>52</sup> and the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised; <sup>53</sup> and coming out of the graves after His resurrection, they went into the holy city and appeared to many.

<sup>54</sup> <sup>w</sup> So when the centurion and those with him, who were guarding Jesus, saw the earthquake and the things that had happened, they feared greatly, saying, <sup>x</sup> “Truly this was the Son of God!”

Jesus Is Buried

Mark 15:42-47; Luke 23:50-55; John 19:38-42

<sup>57</sup> Now <sup>a</sup> when evening had come, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who himself had also become a ed that one of these robbers believed and was promised that he would join Jesus in paradise that very day (Luke 23:39–43).

27:39 Psalm 22:7 predicted the insults that would be directed at the Messiah.

27:40 For a similar falsehood at Jesus' trial, see 26:61. Jesus' actual words were: “Destroy this temple, and in three days i will raise it up” (John 2:19). in three days, Jesus rose from the dead, thereby fulfilling this prophecy.

27:41–43 Jesus would not come down from the cross because he was the Son of God and the King of israel (see John 10:18). he was obediently following God's plan for a raim; his obedience would lead to his exaltation as King over all (Phil. 2:8–11). compare the religious leaders' taunts with Ps. 22:8.

27:45 The sixth hour was noon. t he darkness was not due to an eclipse of the sun, since the Passover occurred at full moon. t his was a supernatural occurrence.

27:46 t he physical darkness was a demonstration of the agony of the Lord's human soul. My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me: t he duplication of “My God, My God” indicates Jesus' deep sorrow. t he fact that Jesus spoke in a ramaic; the tongue of his birth, may be another sign of the extreme stress he was encountering. n o human can understand the theological significance of this cry. it graphically parallels 2 cor. 5:21. t his was not a cry of defeat, however. christ was quoting from Ps. 22 and may have been alluding to the great victory that the psalm describes.

27:48 Sour wine was the cheap wine used by soldiers and the lower class. christ may have accepted this in order to give himself enough moisture and strength to cry out again with a loud voice (v. 50).

27:50 t he loud voice (v. 46) indicates that Jesus was still fairly strong when he yielded up His spirit. t he cry referred to by Matthew was “it is finished” (see John 19:30). t his was not a cry of exhaustion, but a cry of victory. t he purpose for which Jesus came was fulfilled. r edemption for the sins of the world had been accomplished. Satan's judgment was a fact. t he verb translated yielded means “dismissed.” even in dying the Lord demonstrated his royal authority.

27:51 the veil of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom: t he temple had two veils or curtains—one in front of the holy Place and the other separating the holy Place from the Most holy Place. it was the second of these that was torn, demonstrating that God had opened up access to himself through his Son (see heb. 6:19; 10:19–22). o nly God could have torn the veil from the top.

27:52, 53 many bodies of the saints . . . were raised: Because the Lord Jesus is the firstborn from the dead (see col. 1:18; r ev. 1:5) and the firstfruits of those who are asleep (see 1 cor. 15:20, 23), these people could not have received their resurrection bodies. t hey probably were raised, as Lazarus was, to ordinary physical life. t he fact that the people who were raised appeared to many in the holy city implies that they had been contemporaries of the people who saw them.

27:54 The centurion and those with him may have heard the exchanges between Pilate and Jesus (v. 11); they certainly witnessed the taunts recorded in vv. 40, 43. t he supernatural signs convinced them that Jesus was indeed the Son of God. Significantly, this confession of faith came from a Gentile.

27:55, 56 t hree women who were faithful to the Lord Jesus to the end are named: Mary Magdalene; Mary the mother of James and Joses, the wife of *c*lopas (see John 19:25); and the mother of James and John, wife of Zebedee, named Salome (see Mark 15:40).

27:57 Arimathea was about 20 miles northwest of Jerusalem. Mark 15:43 describes Joseph as “a prominent council member, who was himself waiting for the kingdom of God.” Luke 23:50 describes him as “a good and just man.” But Matthew describes him as rich, a fulfillment of is. 53:9.

disciple of Jesus. <sup>58</sup>This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be given to him. <sup>59</sup>When Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, <sup>60</sup>and <sup>b</sup>laid it in his new tomb which he had hewn out of the rock; and he rolled a large stone against the door of the tomb, and departed. <sup>61</sup>And Mary Magdalene was there, and the other Mary, sitting <sup>6</sup>opposite the tomb.

<sup>62</sup>On the next day, which followed the Day of Preparation, the chief priests and Pharisees gathered together to Pilate, <sup>63</sup>saying, “Sir, we remember, while He was still alive, how that deceiver said, ‘After three days I will rise.’ <sup>64</sup>Therefore command that the tomb be made secure until the third day, lest His disciples come <sup>7</sup>by night and steal Him away, and say to the people, ‘He has risen from the dead.’ So the last deception will be worse than the first.”

<sup>65</sup>Pilate said to them, “You have a guard; go your way, make it as secure as you know how.” <sup>66</sup>So they went and made the tomb secure, <sup>d</sup>sealing the stone and setting the guard.

<sup>5</sup>But the angel answered and said to the women, “Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. <sup>6</sup>He is not here; for He is risen, <sup>f</sup>as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. <sup>7</sup>And go quickly and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead, and indeed <sup>g</sup>He is going before you into Galilee; there you will see Him. Behold, I have told you.”

<sup>8</sup>So they went out quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, and ran to bring His disciples word.

The Appearance of Jesus to the Women

<sup>9</sup>And <sup>2</sup>as they went to tell His disciples, behold, <sup>h</sup>Jesus met them, saying, “Rejoice!” So they came and held Him by the feet and worshiped Him. <sup>10</sup>Then Jesus said to them, “Do not be afraid. ### The Bribery of the Soldiers

<sup>11</sup>Now while they were going, behold, some of the guard came into the city and reported to the chief priests all the things that had happened. <sup>12</sup>When they had assembled with the elders and consulted together, they gave a large sum of money to the soldiers, <sup>13</sup>saying, “Tell them, ‘His disciples came at night and

27:61 t he two Marys are also mentioned in v. 56. t these women were witnesses to the burial of Jesus.

27:62 The next day was the Sabbath. The chief priests were Sadducees. t he Pharisees and the Sadducees' common animosity toward Jesus united them.

27:63 t he Sadducees and Pharisees described the Lord Jesus as that deceiver when, in reality, they were the deceivers (26:4) and hypocrites (23:13, 15, 23, 25, 27, 29).

27:64 For emphasis, the verb secure is used three times in vv. 64–66.

27:65 t he noun translated guard is a Latin word, since the soldiers were r oman and not part of the temple guard.

27:66 to emphasize the impossibility of anyone stealing the body of Jesus, Matthew stressed that the tomb was sealed (see Dan. 6:17).

28:1–15 although Matthew is brief in his discussion of the resurrection of christ, he defends it very carefully. t he r esurrection was attested by several witnesses, including an angel, various soldiers, and the women at the tomb (vv. 1–8). t he tomb with Jesus' body in it was sealed (27:66), but later the body was not found there (vv. 6, 8). t he excuse of the soldiers was illogical (vv. 11–15). n o r oman soldier would admit sleeping on the job, as the punishment for this was death. Finally, Jesus himself appeared to many of his disciples, providing even more witnesses to his resurrection from the dead (vv. 16–20). Matthew presents the evidence for Jesus' resurrection with precision because the doctrine is essential to the christian faith. t he r esurrection is a sign that Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of God (12:38, 39), and the r esurrection validates the Lord's own prophecies of it (16:21; 17:22, 23; 20:17–19). in 1 cor. 15:12–19, Paul emphasizes the importance of the r esurrection by listing a series of consequences if the doctrine is denied.

28:1 after the Sabbath: t he Sabbath ended at sundown on Saturday. t he events of this verse took place at dawn on Sunday morning. t he two Marys are those identified in 27:56, 61.

28:2 a n earthquake marked the death of the Lord Jesus (27:51); here it evidenced his resurrection. t he tomb was not opened to permit christ to come out, but to allow others in so they could see that it was empty.

28:3 Brilliance is a characteristic of heavenly beings (see 17:2; Dan. 7:9; 10:5, 6; a cts 1:10; r ev. 3:4, 5; 4:4; 6:11; 7:9, 13; 19:14).

28:6 He is risen, as He said: For Jesus' predictions of his resurrection, see 12:40; 16:21; 17:9, 23; 26:32.

28:7 t he Lord Jesus made post-resurrection appearances first in Jerusalem and Judea, then in Galilee, and then again in Jerusalem. Both ch. 28 and John 21 emphasize the appearances in Galilee. christ's command to “come, see” (v. 6) is followed here by go . . . tell. t his is always the divine order: to tell others the Good news about our Lord.

28:10 Galilee was the appointed location for Jesus' rendezvous with his disciples (v. 7; 26:32) and was also the setting of the Great commission (vv. 18–20). n ote that the Lord referred to his disciples as his brethren (see 12:48–50; Ps. 22:22; heb. 2:11, 12).

28:11 t he r oman guards reported to the chief priests because they had been assigned for duty to the religious authorities (27:65).

28:13 His disciples . . . stole Him away while we slept: Besides stole Him away while we slept.<sup>14</sup> And if this comes to the governor's ears, we will appease him and make you secure."<sup>15</sup> So they took the money and did as they were instructed; and this saying is commonly reported among the Jews until this day.

being a lie, this was a very weak explanation. if a guard was found sleeping at his post or if a prisoner escaped, the guard would be put to death (see a cts 12:19; 16:27, 28; 27:42). it may have been possible for one soldier to sleep, but it is highly improbable that all of them slept at the same time. also, sleeping people do not make good witnesses: if they were asleep, how did they know what happened? 28:15 Until this day refers specifically to the time of the writing of Matthew's Gospel; however, this explanation is current even today. 28:16, 17 When the eleven disciples went away into Galilee they were probably accompanied by many more people. t his may be the appearance to more than five hundred people mentioned by Paul in 1 cor. 15:6. t his may explain why some doubted; after all, the eleven were confirmed believers in the resurrected christ by this time (see John 20:19–28).

28:18 All authority has been given to Jesus, although he is not yet exercising all of it (see Phil. 2:9–11; heb. 2:5–9; 10:12, 13; r ev. 3:21). he will manifest this power when he returns in all his glory (see 19:28; 1 cor. 15:27, 28; eph. 1:10). t he word authority normally refers to delegated authority (as in 8:9; 9:6, 8; 10:1; 21:23, 24, 27). t he Father would give this authority to the Son (Phil. 2:9–11). here the Lord Jesus may have been recalling the prophecy recorded in Dan. 7:13, 14.

28:19, 20 Therefore shows that the Great commission rests on the authority of christ. Because he has authority over all, everyone needs to hear his gospel. While vv. 18–20 are commonly known as the Great commission, they should not be thought of as the first call for world evangelism. See Gen. 12:1–3 for God's command that a braham and his descendants should be a blessing to all nations. make disciples: Making disciples involves three steps: going, baptizing, and teaching. it was assumed that when a person trusted in the Lord Jesus, he or she would be baptized. t he word name is singular, although it is the name of the Father, Son, and holy Spirit together. t his verse is another indication that God is one in three Persons. I am with you always demonstrates that Jesus is the true immanuel, “God with us” (see 1:23; heb. 13:5, 6; r ev. 21:3).

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO

MARK

MARK'S GOSPEL is unique. It is not a biography of Jesus, like Matthew or Luke, for it does not dwell on Jesus' family history or career. Instead, this Gospel is a record of Jesus' actions and achievements. It presents Jesus as a Savior-King, who conquers demons, disease, and death.

The emphasis on Jesus' mighty and miraculous works makes this Gospel action-packed, fresh, and vivid. Mark constantly uses the present tense to create the impression of an eyewitness account—the kind presented by an on-the-spot reporter. And just like a reporter, he speaks directly to the reader. He uses rhetorical questions that readers would likely ask themselves, such as, “Who can this be, that even the wind and the sea obey Him!” (4:41). Sometimes he even addresses his audience with Jesus' words, “And what I say to you, I say to all: Watch!” (13:37). Mark wants to transform believers with his report, not merely inform them.

Moreover, his eyewitness accounts provide considerable detail—the emotional responses of Jesus and others, the sizes and reactions of crowds, and the appearance of men and women. The account of the Gadarene demoniac is an example of Mark's attention to detail. He uses 20 verses to tell that story, while Luke uses 14 and Matthew writes a mere seven. Yet Mark's Gospel is the most concise of all of the Gospels, because he omits Jesus' longer discourses. In general, Mark presents the miracle-working Jesus, not the teaching Jesus.

Author The Gospel of Mark does not identify its author. However, numerous documents from the early church unanimously point to Mark as the author. Papias, bishop of Hierapolis (A.D. 140), claimed that Mark, as Peter's interpreter, wrote an accurate Gospel. The Roman Prologue to Mark, dating from A.D. 160–180, also named Mark as the author, and Irenaeus, in France around A.D. 180, claimed that Mark wrote down Peter's preaching. This is repeated by Tertullian and Clement of Alexandria, both in North Africa around A.D. 200.

Mark is mentioned ten times in the New Testament. His Jewish name was John (Acts 13:5, 13), but his Roman name was Mark (Acts 12:12, 25; 15:37). He lived in Jerusalem and was a cousin of Barnabas (Col. 4:10). He might have been the youth wearing a linen cloth at Jesus' arrest (14:51, 52), because only his Gospel mentions this incident, which occurred after all the disciples had already fled. The fact that Peter announced his miraculous jail escape at the home of Mary, Mark's widowed mother (Acts 12:12), indicates Mark had significant contact with Peter and the other leaders of the Jerusalem church.

In A.D. 46, Mark spent time with Barnabas and Saul in the Antioch Church before he accompanied them as a helper on the first missionary journey. His unexpected departure from that expedition, however, caused Paul to lose confidence in him (Acts 15:37–39). Yet Mark later continued his missionary activity with Barnabas on Cyprus.

By A.D. 60–62, Paul again had placed his confidence in Mark and had complimented him as a fellow worker

(c. col. 4:10, 11; Philem. 24). in addition to helping Paul and Barnabas, Mark assisted Peter in “Babylon” (1 Pet. 5:13). Finally, Paul asked Mark to come to Rome to assist him while he was confined (2 Tim. 4:11). These short, positive references to Mark in the new testament indicate that he faithfully and successfully served God as a missionary and apostolic helper throughout the period.

Composition Peter was Mark’s primary informant. in fact, the outline of events in Mark’s Gospel follows precisely the outline of Peter’s sermon to Cornelius at Caesarea (Acts 10:34–43; compare Acts 13:23–33). oral preaching at that time, such as Peter’s sermon, used established styles and rhetorical techniques to aid both instruction and recall; Mark’s Gospel reflects these oral styles. Furthermore, Justin Martyr, writing at about A.D. 150 in Rome, confirmed that Mark wrote down Peter’s recollection of events. He quoted Mark 3:17 as being in “the Memoirs of Peter.” in addition to recording Peter’s memories, Mark may have added his own memories and consulted other documents.

Most agree that Mark wrote his Gospel in Rome under Peter’s supervision. a second-century document, called the Prologue to Mark, states that the Gospel was composed in Italy. Furthermore, Irenaeus, writing about A.D. 180, specifically stated Rome. Since Mark was with Paul in Rome around A.D. 60–62 and may have returned around A.D. 65 at Paul’s request (2 Tim. 4:11), there is little reason to doubt this evidence.

Several important early sources, including the Anti-Marcionite Prologue and Irenaeus, stated that Mark composed his Gospel after Peter’s death. in fact, Irenaeus dated its composition after both Peter and Paul’s death around A.D. 67.

However, Clement of Alexandria and Origen, writing a few years after Irenaeus, insisted that Peter was still alive during Mark’s writing of the book. Moreover, a later tradition, recorded by Eusebius about A.D. 340, stated that it was written earlier, during the reign of Claudius (A.D. 41–54). Finally, an inscription on later manuscripts dated Mark’s composition at an even earlier date around A.D. 39–42. These early dates, however, seem doubtful because (1) Mark probably would not have written the Gospel before his first failed missionary journey, (2) Peter most likely was not in Rome until after A.D. 60, and (3) Paul’s epistle to the Romans (about A.D. 56–57) greets many believers, but mentions neither Mark nor Peter.

The most thoughtful estimate would place Mark’s work sometime after Peter’s death in A.D. 64 or 65, yet prior to A.D. 70, when Jerusalem was destroyed. in any event, the Gospel of Mark was penned within only three or four decades after the events it records.

Intended Readers Mark wrote for Gentile Christians, especially Romans. This conclusion is based on several facts: (1) Mark assumes some prior knowledge of the Christian faith on the part of his readers. John (the Baptist), baptism, and the Holy Spirit (1:4, 5, 8) are all mentioned without comment. (2) He does not assume a familiarity with Jewish Scripture. He directly quotes only one Old Testament passage

(1:2, 3). (3) Furthermore, he regularly explains Jewish customs and geography (7:2–4; 13:3; 14:12). (4) Finally, Mark purposely omits Jesus’ prohibition of preaching to the Samaritans and Gentiles (6:7–11; compare Matt. 10:5, 6).

Mark’s Gentile readers faced persecution and martyrdom. He wrote his Gospel to strengthen and guide Roman believers through Nero’s terrible persecutions. First of all, his readers needed to know that Jesus had also suffered. But, they also needed to know that Jesus, after his suffering, had triumphed over both suffering and death. The suffering Jesus was also the Son of God (1:1, 11; 14:61; 15:39), the Son of Man (2:10; 8:31; 13:26), the Christ (Messiah) (8:29), and the Lord (1:3; 7:28). After the death of Peter and other eyewitnesses to Jesus’ life, this gospel message needed to be written down. Mark wrote the story down in order to verify these truths and to provide a way to pass them on to new generations of believers.

1570 MARK INTRODUCTION

Content Mark introduces the main character of his action-packed narrative, Jesus, in 13 quick verses. He weaves in this introduction both expectation (“Prepare the way of the Lord,” 1:3) and conflict (Satan tempts Christ in v. 13). The large section that follows (1:14—8:30) heightens the conflict, as in a Greek tragedy. There are successes for Jesus, but there is also growing hostility. Triumph and conflict appear side by side.

His long section culminates in Peter and the other disciples recognizing Jesus as the promised Messiah (8:29).

In the next section (8:31—15:47), Mark describes the final outcome for the Messiah—Jesus’ passion and death. First, Jesus announces his coming death to his disciples (8:31; 9:31; 10:33) and prepares them for it. Then, he journeys to Jerusalem and is tried and put to death. But in the epilogue (16:1–20), the purpose of his death becomes clear. The drama comes to a rousing conclusion as Christ rises from the dead and encourages his followers. This is the Gospel of Mark—the Good News of Jesus Christ.

CHRIST IN THE SCRIPTURES

Mark leaves no doubt that he is documenting a unique account of a unique man. He’s spotlighting the Son of Man who came from heaven to serve, not to be served, and to give his life as a ransom (10:45). So in Mark we see Jesus the obedient Servant of God actively and compassionately coming alongside hurting people. But it’s not just the physical hurts that haunt him. Jesus is moved by the spiritual disease he sees all around him.

If Mark’s intent is to present Jesus as a humble Servant, there is no need for an impressive family tree (like Matthew and Luke include). That is why the author begins with Jesus’ public ministry. Mark’s frequent use of the word “immediately” (used more in this compact book than all the rest of the New Testament) reminds us that Jesus is continually on the move. Even though he knows he has a limited time to fulfill the purpose for which he came to earth, others don’t. What they do come to understand is that Jesus viewed himself as the Son of God. Mark attests to that frequently (see 1:1, 11; 3:1; 5:7; 9:7; 13:32; 14:61; 15:39).

The Forerunner of the Servant

Matt. 3:1-11; Luke 3:3-16; John 1:19-34

The <sup>a</sup>beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, <sup>b</sup>the Son of God. <sup>2</sup>As it is written in <sup>1</sup>the Prophets:

Who will prepare Your way before You.”

<sup>3</sup> “The <sup>d</sup>voice of one crying in the wilderness:

‘Prepare the way of the LORD;
Make His paths straight.’ ”

<sup>4e</sup>John came baptizing in the wilderness and preaching a baptism of repentance <sup>2</sup>for the remission of sins. <sup>5f</sup>Then all the land of Judea, and those from Jerusalem, went out to him and were all baptized by him in the Jordan River, confessing their sins.

The Baptism of the Servant

Matt. 3:13-17; Luke 3:21-23

1:1 Writing three decades after the resurrection of Christ, Mark starts his narrative with a simple declaration of the Good News about God’s Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. As Luke notes in Acts 1:1, the Gospel stories describe what “Jesus began both to do and teach.” The gospel refers to the basic story of the Good News to be found in Christ’s life, ministry, death, and resurrection. Jesus, meaning “Yahweh saves,” is the earthly name Jesus received at birth, whereas Christ is an ot title that designates him as God’s chosen servant. Son of God makes clear Jesus’ deity and demonstrates his unique relationship to God.

1:2, 3 Other than by quoting Jesus, Mark makes only one reference to the ot. In this quotation from the Prophets, the Gospel writer retells the work of Christ’s forerunner, John the Baptist. Messenger and make His paths straight call forth the image of a king visiting his realm. In ancient times, a messenger was sent ahead to announce the coming of the king. Local communities would often repair rough roads to ensure the comfort of the king as he traveled. The quartet of Isaiah, Malachi, John the Baptist, and the writer Mark proclaims the coming of the King of all kings, Jesus Christ.

1:4 The mention of John without any introduction presupposes some knowledge of the Christian faith on the part of Mark’s readers (see introduction). John’s baptism of repentance should not be confused with Christian baptism. The latter always follows conversion and symbolizes the spiritual death, burial, and resurrection with Christ that is accomplished in a believer’s salvation experience (Acts 19:1-5; Romans 6:3-6). It is performed in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. John’s baptism, on the other hand, prepared his followers to receive the new message about Christ and His kingdom. For the remission of sins does not mean that one is baptized in order to receive forgiveness of sins. The Greek preposition translated of in English probably means “with a view to,” signifying that baptism looks to the forgiveness that God gives through the gift of repentance.

1:5 John’s baptizing was a recurring popular event that attracted large crowds. Mark vividly portrays the continuous stream of followers who flocked to John. One may visualize throngs making the trek to the wilderness, with people waiting in line to be baptized. As each person was baptized by John, he or she would admit to individual sin and the need for the Messiah.

1:6 The angel Gabriel (the name means “mighty one of God”) announced to Zacharias that his son John would “go before him [Christ] in the spirit and power of Elijah” (Mal. 4:5; Matt. 17:10-13; Luke 1:13-17).

1:7 The tense of the verb preached indicates continuous action in past time. John’s characteristic message was to promote expectancy and acceptance of the Lord Jesus Christ. He said he was not worthy to loosen the Messiah’s sandal strap. Students often performed menial tasks for their rabbis, but even they were not expected to remove someone’s sandals. That task was left to slaves. John humbly understood and accepted his own role in the coming Kingdom.

1:8 The prediction that Christ will baptize you with the Holy Spirit appears in each Gospel (Matt. 3:11; Luke 3:16; John 1:33) and was repeated by Christ in Acts 1:5 as being “not many days from now.” Though many English translations use the preposition with (with water and with the Holy Spirit), it is also acceptable to substitute the word in. The water is a physical representation of the future life in the Spirit that people who followed the Messiah would have. Presumably the Day of Pentecost marked the fulfillment of this promise. 1:9 Because he had no sins to repent, Jesus’ baptism was unique. It showed his identity with John’s work and with the sinner for whom he would die. It also foreshadowed his own death, burial, and resurrection for sinners.

1:10 Immediately occurs 41 times in Mark’s Gospel to indicate the swift action required of a servant (vv. 10, 12, 18, 20, 21).

1:11 Three times during Christ’s earthly ministry a voice came from heaven. It was the Father’s testimony to Christ’s unique and divine Sonship. The other two confirming incidents were at the Transfiguration (9:7) and on the day of Christ’s triumphal entry into Jerusalem (John 12:28).

repentance

(Gk. metanoia) (1:4; Matt. 3:8; Acts 5:31; 11:18) Strong’s #3341

This Greek word is a compound word derived from meta, meaning “after” and suggesting some type of change, and nous, meaning “mind.” Thus the word strictly denotes “a change of mind.” But it also connotes remorse for sin, accompanied by a desire to turn away from one’s sin, to God, for salvation. Both John the Baptist and Jesus began their ministries with a call to repentance (see Matt. 3:2; 4:17)—a call that many of the social outcasts and “sinners” of that day answered (see Luke 19:1-10), but that the religious people rejected (Luke 11:39-44; 18:9-14).

The Temptation of the Servant

Matt. 4:1-11; Luke 4:1-13

<sup>12</sup> Immediately the Spirit <sup>5</sup>drove Him into the wilderness. <sup>13</sup> And He was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted by Satan, and was with the wild beasts; <sup>14</sup> and the angels ministered to Him.

The Work of the Servant

Matt. 4:12-17; Luke 4:14, 15

<sup>14</sup> Now after John was put in prison, Jesus came to Galilee, <sup>15</sup> preaching the gospel <sup>6</sup>of the kingdom of God, <sup>16</sup> and saying, <sup>17</sup> “The time is fulfilled, and <sup>18</sup> the kingdom of God <sup>7</sup>is at hand. Repent, and believe in the gospel.”

The First Disciples Are Called

Matt. 4:18-22

<sup>16</sup> And as He walked by the Sea of Galilee, He saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea; for they were fishermen. <sup>17</sup> Then Jesus said to them, “Follow Me, and I will make you become <sup>18</sup> fishers of men.” <sup>19</sup> They immediately left their nets and followed Him.

<sup>19</sup> When He had gone a little farther from there, He saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who also were in the boat mending their nets. <sup>20</sup> And immediately He called them, and they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired servants, and went after Him.

Demons Are Cast Out

Luke 4:31-37

<sup>21</sup> Then they went into Capernaum, and immediately on the Sabbath He entered the <sup>1</sup>synagogue and taught. <sup>22</sup> And they were astonished at His teaching, for He taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

<sup>23</sup> Now there was a man in their synagogue with an <sup>a</sup>unclean spirit. And he cried out, <sup>24</sup> saying, “Let us alone! <sup>b</sup>What have we to do with You, Jesus of Nazareth? Did You come to destroy us? I <sup>c</sup>know who You are—the <sup>d</sup>Holy One of God!”

<sup>25</sup> But Jesus <sup>e</sup>rebuked him, saying, <sup>8</sup> “Be quiet, and come out of him!” <sup>26</sup> And when the unclean spirit <sup>f</sup>had convulsed him and cried out with a loud voice, he came out of him. <sup>27</sup> Then they were all amazed, so that they questioned among themselves, saying, <sup>9</sup> “What is this? What new <sup>1</sup>doctrine is this? For with authority He commands even the unclean spirits, and they obey Him.” <sup>28</sup> And immediately His <sup>g</sup>fame spread throughout all the region around Galilee.

Peter's Mother-in-Law Is Healed

Matt. 8:14, 15; Luke 4:38, 39

<sup>29</sup> Now as soon as they had come out of the synagogue, they entered the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. <sup>30</sup> But Simon's wife's mother lay sick with a fever, and they told Him

1:12 Mark declares that the Spirit drove christ into the wilderness. The verb used for drove was frequently used to describe christ's expulsion of demons and appears two other times in this chapter (vv. 34, 39).

1:13 Mark introduces an event of conflict to seize his readers' attention. Being tempted by Satan is something that all believers face, but Jesus triumphed completely over his adversary. Mark alone mentions the angels who were ministering to christ through the 40 days.

1:14 Mark begins his account of christ's ministry with events after John was put in prison, as do the other synoptic Gospel writers. John is the only writer who informs us of a number of events that took place before John the Baptist's imprisonment (John 3:24).

1:15 Jesus proclaimed the kingdom of God. It was the subject of much ot prophecy, and the theme was familiar to Jesus' listeners. Repent, and believe are both acts of faith. When a person accepts the only true and worthy object of faith, that person readily turns from inferior substitutes.

1:16 Simon and Andrew had been disciples of John the Baptist. They had known Jesus (see John 1:35–42), but were now being called to a lifetime of service.

1:17 Jesus called fishermen, hardworking and industrious people, to perform the most important task on earth: being fishers of men. Jesus characteristically used figures of speech that his listeners would readily understand.

1:19 James . . . John: The scenes of vv. 16–20 are very colorful. Simon and Andrew are fishing when we encounter them; James and John are mending their nets. Such details indicate the testimony of an eyewitness, probably Peter.

1:21 Capernaum, now in ruins, sits beside the northern edge of the Sea of Galilee, a pear-shaped freshwater lake eight miles wide and 12 miles long. The town's name means “Village of nahum,” but it was not the nahum of the ot. Capernaum was christ's ministry “headquarters” and is mentioned 22 times in the Gospels. By contrast, only one recorded event during christ's ministry occurred at nazareth (Luke 4:16). The ruins of a synagogue at capernaum, just a few feet from the water's edge, date from the second to fourth century A.D.

1:22 Forty-two percent of Mark's verses contain some mention of teaching. Mark, however, omits most of Jesus' main discourses to emphasize his mighty works as the Servant Son of God. astonished at His teaching: christ's teaching differed from that of scribes and Pharisees because he did not lean on the wisdom of other teachers and rabbis. His authority came from himself.

1:24, 25 The demon cried out let us alone, not because it was speaking for other demons in the man (as was the case in 5:1–20), but because Jesus was a threat to all demons. Jesus constantly confronted demons and about 20 percent of the approximately 35 miracles recorded about Jesus involved helping those troubled by demons. The demon acknowledged Jesus as the Holy One of God, but Jesus refused the testimony from such a disreputable source.

1:26, 27 unclean spirit: This is another term for demon.

1:28 Mark notes the extent of recognition this great miracle brought Jesus by saying His fame spread throughout all the region. Mark creates suspense by contrasting the people who received christ with the Pharisees and rulers who worked to bring about his death. The sad truth remains that often the religious of the world do more to keep people from Jesus christ than most worldly atheists. But the gospel is not religion. It is Good news that can free even the most horrible sinner.

about her at once. <sup>31</sup> So He came and took her by the hand and lifted her up, and immediately the fever left her. And she served them.

Many Healings

Matt. 8:16, 17; 4:23; Luke 4:40-44

<sup>32i</sup> At evening, when the sun had set, they brought to Him all who were sick and those who were demon-possessed. <sup>33</sup> And the whole city was gathered together at the door. <sup>34</sup> Then He healed many who were sick with various diseases, and <sup>j</sup> cast out many demons; and He <sup>k</sup> did not allow the demons to speak, because they knew Him.

<sup>35</sup> Now <sup>l</sup> in the morning, having risen a long while before daylight, He went out and departed to a <sup>2</sup> solitary place; and there He <sup>m</sup> prayed. <sup>36</sup> And Simon and those who were with Him searched for Him. <sup>37</sup> When they found Him, they said to Him, <sup>n</sup> “Everyone <sup>o</sup> is looking for You.”

<sup>39r</sup> And He was preaching in their synagogues throughout all Galilee, and <sup>s</sup> casting out demons.

A Leper Is Cleansed

Matt. 8:1-4; Luke 5:12-16

<sup>40t</sup> Now a leper came to Him, imploring Him, kneeling down to Him and saying to Him, “If You are willing, You can make me clean.”

<sup>41</sup> Then Jesus, moved with <sup>u</sup> compassion, stretched out His hand and touched him, and said to him, “I am willing; be cleansed.” <sup>42</sup> As soon as He had spoken, <sup>v</sup> immediately the leprosy left him, and he was cleansed. <sup>43</sup> And He strictly warned him and sent him away at once, <sup>44</sup> and said to him, “See that you say nothing to anyone; but go your way, show yourself

1:44 a fter healing the leper, Jesus commanded him to say nothing to anyone. h is demand for silence has several plausible explanations. (1) t he report of Jesus’ healing the man may have prejudiced

Baptism in the Bible

Mark begins his account of Jesus’ ministry by describing devout Israelites streaming out to the Jordan River to be baptized by John. Here is a summary of the subject of baptism in the Scriptures:

Etymology	The word baptism comes from the Greek verb baptizo meaning “to dip, immerse, submerge.”
Definition	Baptism is a sacred rite that signifies purification, initiation, or identification of an individual with a leader, group, or teaching.
The Different Types of Baptism in the Scriptures	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Jewish baptism: a ceremonial cleansing prescribed for both people and articles (7:3; see Ex. 19:10–14; Lev. 8:6; Heb. 9:10).</li> <li>• John’s baptism: a preparatory act in which Jews expressed their belief in the imminent coming of the Messiah and their desire to turn away from sin and live righteous lives (1:4–8).</li> <li>• Jesus’ baptism: an act of ceremonial righteousness. By being baptized, Christ was not admitting His sinfulness, as those who submitted to John’s baptism were. Instead through baptism, Christ was consecrating Himself to His ministry (1:9–11).</li> <li>• Spirit baptism: the supernatural work of the Holy Spirit by which believers are joined to the body of Christ (Rom. 6:3, 4; 1 Cor. 12:13; Gal. 3:26, 27; Eph. 4:5; Col. 2:9–12).</li> <li>• Christian baptism: a ceremonial act instituted by Christ (Matt. 28:19) and practiced by the apostles (Acts 2:38) that depicts a believer’s union and identification with Christ in his death, burial, and resurrection.</li> <li>• Baptism by fire: a possible reference either to the judgment at the Second Coming or to the coming of the Spirit at Pentecost (Matt. 3:9–12; Luke 3:16, 17).</li> </ul>
Old Testament Types	The New Testament writers point to several events in the Old Testament that foreshadow baptism as commanded by Christ. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Noah coming through the waters of the Flood (1 Pet. 3:17–22).</li> <li>• The Israelites’ crossing of the Red Sea (1 Cor. 10:1, 2).</li> </ul> to the priest, and offer for your cleansing those things <sup>w</sup> which Moses commanded, as a testimony to them.”

<sup>45x</sup> However, he went out and began to proclaim it freely, and to spread the matter, so that Jesus could no longer openly enter the city, but was outside in deserted places; <sup>y</sup> and they came to Him from every direction.

A Paralytic Is Healed

Matt. 9:1-8; Luke 5:17-26

2 And again <sup>a</sup>He entered Capernaum after some days, and it was heard that He was in the house. <sup>21</sup> Immediately many gathered together, so that there was no longer room to receive them, not even near the door. And He preached the word to them. <sup>3</sup> Then they came to Him, bringing a <sup>b</sup>paralytic who was carried by four men. <sup>4</sup> And when they could not come near Him because of the crowd, they uncovered the roof where He was. So when they had broken through, they let down the bed on which the paralytic was lying.

<sup>5</sup> When Jesus saw their faith, He said to the paralytic, “Son, your sins are forgiven you.”

<sup>6</sup> And some of the scribes were sitting there and reasoning in their hearts, <sup>7</sup> “Why does this Man speak blasphemies like this? <sup>c</sup> Who can forgive sins but God alone?”

<sup>8</sup> But immediately, when Jesus perceived in His spirit that they reasoned thus within themselves, He said to them,

repentance

“Why do you reason about these things in your hearts? <sup>9d</sup> Which is easier, to say to the paralytic, ‘Your sins are forgiven you,’ or to say, ‘Arise, take up your bed and walk?’ <sup>10</sup> But that you may know that the Son of Man has <sup>2</sup> power on earth to forgive sins”—He said to the paralytic, <sup>11</sup> “I say to you, arise, take up your bed, and go to your house.” <sup>12</sup> Immediately he arose, took up the bed, and went out in the presence of them all, so that all were amazed and <sup>e</sup> glorified God, saying, “We never saw anything like this!”

Call of Matthew

Matt. 9:9-13; Luke 5:27-32

<sup>13f</sup> Then He went out again by the sea; and all the multitude came to Him, and He taught them. <sup>14g</sup> As He passed by, He saw Levi the son of Alphaeus sitting at the tax office. And He said to him, <sup>h</sup> “Follow Me.” So he arose and <sup>i</sup> followed Him.

<sup>15j</sup> Now it happened, as He was dining in Levi’s house, that many tax collectors and sinners also sat together with Jesus and His disciples; for there were many, and they followed Him. <sup>16</sup> And when the scribes <sup>3</sup> and Pharisees saw Him eating with the tax collectors and sinners, they said to His disciples, “How is it that He eats and drinks with tax collectors and sinners?”

<sup>17</sup> When Jesus heard it, He said to them, <sup>k</sup> “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. I did not come to call the righteous, but sinners, <sup>4</sup> to repentance.”

the priest who needed to pronounce him clean. (2) Jesus did not want to be known primarily as a miracle worker, so he often commanded those who received his healing to remain quiet. (3) t he man’s testimony would possibly have hastened the confrontation between Jesus and the religious leaders.

1:45 t he cleansed leper did not obey Jesus’ simple injunction to keep quiet. a s a result, Jesus had to remain in deserted places because the crowds swarmed to him.

2:1–28 Mark’s first chapter establishes Jesus as a popular figure who experiences great success. chapters 2 and 3 demonstrate rising opposition to his mission and teaching and suggest more drama and suspense to come.

2:2 Mark is largely a record of c hrist’s actions, but what Jesus said is not neglected. here he describes how Jesus preached the word, the message of the coming kingdom.

2:4 Many in the crowd may have come expecting to see healings and miracles. t he throng blocked entrance into the already packed room. t he determination of the men is seen in the fact that they uncovered the roof over the room where Jesus was preaching. t he roof was probably flat and constructed of tiles laid one on another.

2:5 their faith: n ot only did the four men have faith, but the paralytic himself had it too. When Jesus announced to him, your sins are forgiven, he was implicitly acknowledging the paralytic’s trust that he was the Messiah.

2:6, 7 Mark notes the opposition of the scribes, who under their breath accused Jesus of blasphemy. in c hrist’s day the scribes were commonly called lawyers.

2:9–11 Jesus asked the which is easier question to demonstrate the truth of his claim to forgive the man’s sins—something only God can accomplish. a nyone could assert the ability to forgive sins, since there was no earthly way of confirming the statement. But to say arise, take up your bed and walk to a paralytic could be tested immediately by whether he walked or not. By healing the paralytic, Jesus made his pronouncement of forgiveness far more credible. Son of Man is a term regularly used for the Messiah (see 8:31; Dan. 7:13; Mark 8:31).

2:12 all were amazed and glorified God: t he crowd’s reaction showed that they understood the significance of Jesus’ miracle. it is possible that some scribes and Pharisees joined in the acclamation. But permanent, life-changing faith is what c hrist sought, not temporary adoration from the crowd.

2:13 Jesus regularly taught the multitudes in retreat settings. t his is indicated by the continuous tense of the verbs used here: t hey kept on coming, and Jesus kept on teaching.

2:14 Levi, also called Matthew (Matt. 9:9; 10:3), was Jewish, but he collected taxes for r ome. t he Jews hated tax collectors. t hey had a reputation for taking more than they needed in order to add to their own wealth.

2:17 in this instance Jesus was speaking tongue-in-cheek when he used the word righteous. n one are righteous, though some, such as the Pharisees, fancied themselves as such. instead, c hrist came to call sinners to repentance. Jesus did not condone the activities of sinners, but required repentance—a change of mind that recognizes the need of a Savior and recognizes Jesus c hrist as the only Savior.

Parable of Cloth and Wineskins

Matt. 9:14-17; Luke 5:33-39

<sup>18</sup>The disciples of John and of the Pharisees were fasting. Then they came and said to Him, “Why do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, but Your disciples do not fast?”

<sup>19</sup>And Jesus said to them, “Can the <sup>5</sup>friends of the bridegroom fast while the bridegroom is with them? As long as they have the bridegroom with them they cannot fast. <sup>20</sup>But the days will come when the bridegroom will be <sup>m</sup>taken away from them, and then they will fast in those days. <sup>21</sup>No one sews a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment; or else the new piece pulls away from the old, and the tear is made worse. <sup>22</sup>And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; or else the new wine bursts the wineskins, the wine is spilled, and the wineskins are ruined. But new wine must be put into new wineskins.”

Controversy over Sabbath-Work

Matt. 12:1-8; Luke 6:1-5

<sup>23</sup><sup>n</sup>Now it happened that He went through the grainfields on the Sabbath; and as they went His disciples began <sup>o</sup>to pluck the heads of grain. <sup>24</sup>And the Pharisees said to Him, “Look, why do they do what is <sup>p</sup>not lawful on the Sabbath?”

<sup>25</sup>But He said to them, “Have you never read <sup>q</sup>what David did when he was in need and hungry, he and those with him: <sup>26</sup>how he went into the house of God in the days of Abiathar the high priest, and ate the showbread, <sup>r</sup>which is

Controversy over Sabbath-Healing

Matt 12:9-13; Luke 6:6-10

<sup>3</sup>And <sup>a</sup>He entered the synagogue again, and a man was there who had a withered hand. <sup>2</sup>So they <sup>b</sup>watched Him closely, whether He would <sup>c</sup>heal him on the Sabbath, so that they might <sup>l</sup>accuse Him. <sup>3</sup>And He said to the man who had the withered hand, <sup>2</sup>“Step forward.” <sup>4</sup>Then He said to them, “Is it lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do evil, to save life or to kill?” But they kept silent. <sup>5</sup>And when He had looked around at them with anger, being grieved by the <sup>d</sup>hardness of their hearts, He said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” And he stretched <sup>it</sup> out, and his hand was restored <sup>3</sup>as whole as the other.

Pharisees Counsel to Destroy Jesus

<sup>7</sup>But Jesus withdrew with His disciples to the sea. And a great multitude from Galilee followed Him, <sup>g</sup>and from Judea <sup>8</sup>and Jerusalem and Idumea and beyond the Jordan; and those from Tyre

2:18 fast: Jesus was not against fasting, if properly observed. he gave guidelines for fasting in the Sermon on the Mount (Matt. 6:16–18). here, the Pharisees’ fasting, perhaps twice each week (Luke 18:12), is contrasted with Jesus’ feasting, probably at Levi’s house.

2:20 Taken away from them may be a hint of Jesus’ coming departure (John 14:19, 20; 16:5). a after his crucifixion, Jesus’ disciples will fast, perhaps figuratively in the sense of sorrowing over his loss.

2:21, 22 Mark records only four of Jesus’ parables—two of which he includes here. the comparison implies that the newness of his message, and of the new covenant to follow, cannot fit into the old molds of Judaism. t he ot was preparation for the nt (Gal. 3:19–25).

2:23 ripe grain can be eaten whole and is both tasty and nutritious. Plucking bits of grain from another’s field for sustenance was permitted under Mosaic law (Deut. 23:25).

2:24 t he point to the Pharisees’ accusation against Jesus and his disciples was that they had performed work on the Sabbath, but their charge was dubious. t he act of plucking grain should not be confused with Sabbath work condemned in the law (see ex. 31:15). t his incident is further proof of rising opposition to Jesus’ ministry. 2:25, 26 Part of Jesus’ defense was to recall the story of David’s eating the showbread from the tabernacle. Since that bread was intended for the priests, it was not lawful for others to eat.

2:27, 28 Jesus does not declare directly the innocence of either David or his disciples, but instead reminds his critics of the meaning of the Sabbath for humans and his own Lordship over it.

3:2 t he Sabbath controversy continued as Jesus visited the synagogue. t he Pharisees (see 3:6), watched Him closely, not to hear the words of life but to accuse Him.

3:4 christ put the meaning of the Sabbath to the test. certainly it was more consistent with the intention of the law to restore this man’s afflicted hand, even on the Sabbath, than to destroy his hopes for the sake of keeping human tradition. t he Pharisees did not respond, for they knew that they would condemn themselves.

3:5 it is possible, as Paul exhorts, to be angry and not sin (eph. 4:26). Jesus demonstrated this righteous anger. he was grieved with sin but did not sin h himself by retaliating or losing control of h is emotions.

3:6 t he Pharisees were religious experts who should have led the people in righteousness. instead, they plotted Jesus’ death with the Herodians, their bitter enemies. t hey were willing to set aside differences to destroy a common foe. t he herodians were Jews who supported r ome and the h erods in particular. herod antipas, a son of herod the Great, ruled Galilee during the same time that Pilate served as r oman governor over Judea and Samaria.

3:7 Because of this plot against his life, Jesus withdrew with the disciples from the area. Still crowds flocked to h im from north (Galilee), south (Judea), and beyond.

3:8 Idumea (the edom of the ot ), the birthplace of herod the Great, was south of Judea. Beyond the Jordan refers to the cities on the east side of the Jordan r iver (10:1). Tyre and Sidon (Phoenicia in the ot ), both on the Lebanese coast, were also cities Jesus visited during his earthly ministry (7:24) and mentioned in his teachings (Matt. 11:21, 22).

Jerusalem During the Ministry of Jesus

Herod the Great (reigned 37–4 B.C.) rebuilt the temple and its surrounding walls and also built a palace, a fortress, a theater, and a hippodrome for horse and chariot races. He brought the city to the zenith of its architectural beauty and Roman cultural expression. This became Jerusalem in the time of Jesus.

1 The "FIRST WALL," so named by Josephus, encircled the city during the Hasmonean period, which began in 167 B.C. After the revolt led by Judas Maccabeus in 167, Jerusalem expanded steadily in a period of independence under its own Jewish kings.

2 The "SECOND WALL" was built by Herod the Great or by earlier Hasmonean kings. Precise location is difficult to determine. This wall was put up around a market area in a valley, protecting it from raiding and looting, but was of questionable military value. At its eastern end, however, Herod built a military barracks (the Antonia Fortress).

3 The "THIRD WALL" (shown with red line) was begun by Herod a grippi between A.D. 41 and 44 to enclose the growing northern suburbs, but the work was apparently stopped. Its construction was resumed, in haste, only after the First Jewish Revolt broke out in A.D. 66.

4 House of Caiaphas the high priest,* identified here with today's church of St. Peter in Gallicantu.

5 Deep valleys on the east, south, and west permitted urban expansion only to the north.

6 Maximum city growth within walls by A.D. 70.

7 Archaeological excavations have revealed a monumental stairway and the continuation of Tyropoeon Street,** which lies along the valley called "Valley of the Cheesemongers" by Josephus.

8 The Siloam aqueduct-tunnel, 1,749' long, was cut through solid bedrock, was 5'11" high (average) and followed an "S" shaped course made necessary by engineering difficulties. It was dug by King Hezekiah and provided water during King Sennacherib's threat to lay siege to the city in 701 B.C. (2 Chr. 32:30). Water flows through it to this very day.

<sup>13</sup> <sup>n</sup> And He went up on the mountain and called to Him those He Himself wanted. And they came to Him. <sup>14</sup> Then He appointed twelve, <sup>4</sup> that they might be with Him and that He might send them out to preach, <sup>15</sup> and to have <sup>5</sup> power <sup>6</sup> to heal sicknesses and to cast out demons: <sup>16</sup> <sup>7</sup> Simon, <sup>o</sup> to whom He gave the name Peter; <sup>17</sup> James the son of Zebedee and

3:11, 12 Some unfortunate persons who met christ were possessed by unclean spirits, or demons. These spirit beings have no bodily existence but frequently seek to inhabit humans or even animals. Mark says they fell down before Him, most likely by forcing to the ground the person they possessed. Jesus rebuked the demons who proclaimed You are the Son of God not because the demons incorrectly identified Jesus, but because their testimony was untrustworthy.

3:13 Jesus had a large group of followers. John 6:66 indicates that even after the twelve were appointed, he still had a large and continual following. Luke 10:1 notes that later Jesus sent out an additional 70 disciples.

3:14 These twelve were Jesus’ apostles—a chosen group sent out to fulfill a particular mission.

3:15 christ gave power or authority to these twelve apostles (Matt.

10:1–4). The apostle Paul called this authority “the signs of an apostle” (2 cor. 12:12). christ and the apostles authenticated their ministry through signs, miracles, and wonders (heb. 2:3, 4).

3:16–19 Jesus gave Peter a new name because it was the Jewish custom to rename someone who had experienced a life-changing event. His renaming of the disciples has similarities to the renaming of Abram (Gen. 17:3–5) and of Saul (acts 9). Jesus no doubt sent out his apostles in pairs as he did the 70 disciples (6:7–13; Matt. 10:5–15; Luke 9:1–6). This explains the listing of the apostles’ names in groups of two. The coupling is especially evident in Matt. 10:1–4: Peter and Andrew, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew (nathanael), Matthew and thomas, James (son of alphaeus) and thaddaeus, and Simon the cananite and Judas. even though Judas iscariot had a close partner in the work for three years, no one yet suspected he would be the one who also betrayed Him.

The Twelve Apostles

Jesus fulfilled hundreds of Old Testament prophecies. Many of these prophecies involved the circumstances surrounding His birth. Below is a list of several such prophecies. Note the irrefutable similarities between the Old Testament predictions and their New Testament fulfillment.

Matthew 10:2–4	Mark 3:16–19	Luke 6:14–16	Acts 1:13
Simon Peter	Simon Peter	Simon Peter	Simon Peter
Andrew	James	Andrew	John
James	John	James	James
John	Andrew	John	Andrew
Philip	Philip	Philip	Philip
Bartholomew	Bartholomew	Bartholomew	Thomas
Thomas	Matthew	Matthew	Bartholomew
Matthew	Thomas	Thomas	Matthew
James (of Alphaeus)	James (of Alphaeus)	James (of Alphaeus)	James (of Alphaeus)
Thaddaeus <sup>1</sup>	Thaddaeus	Simon (the Zealot)	Simon (the Zealot)
Simon (the Cananite) <sup>2</sup>	Simon (the Cananite)	Judas (of James)	Judas (of James)
Judas Iscariot	Judas Iscariot	Judas Iscariot	.....

<sup>1</sup> Matthew and Mark have the name Thaddaeus while Luke, in his two lists (Luke 6 and Acts 1), has Judas (of James). Some think Judas may have been his original name and that it was changed later to Thaddaeus (meaning perhaps “warm-hearted”) in order to avoid the stigma attached to the name Judas Iscariot.

It is interesting that all four lists begin with Simon Peter and end with Judas Iscariot (except the Acts 1 list, for Judas had already killed himself). Also, the names would appear to be in groups of four. Peter, Andrew, James, and John are always in the first group—though not always in that order—and Philip, Bartholomew, Thomas, and Matthew are in the second group in all four lists.

In all four lists, Peter’s name heads the first group, Philip heads the second, and James (of Alphaeus) heads the third. John’s Gospel does not contain a listing of the apostles.

John the brother of James, to whom He gave the name Boanerges, that is, “Sons of Thunder”;<sup>18</sup> Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James the son of Alphaeus, Thaddaeus, Simon the Cananite;<sup>19</sup> and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed Him. And they went into a house.

Opposition of His Friends

<sup>20</sup>Then the multitude came together again,<sup>19</sup> so that they could not so much as eat bread. <sup>21</sup>But when His own people heard about this, they went out to lay hold of Him,<sup>19</sup> for they said, “He is out of His mind.”

Scribes Commit the Unpardonable Sin

Matt. 12:24-32; Luke 11:17-23

<sup>22</sup>And the scribes who came down from Jerusalem said, <sup>23</sup>“He has Beelzebub,” and, “By the ruler of the demons He casts out demons.”

<sup>23</sup>“So He called them to Himself and said to them in parables: “How can Satan cast out Satan? <sup>24</sup>If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. <sup>25</sup>And if a house is divided against itself, that house cannot stand. <sup>26</sup>And if Satan has risen up against himself, and is divided, he cannot stand, but has an end. <sup>27</sup>“No one can enter a strong man’s house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man. And then he will plunder his house.

<sup>28</sup>“Assuredly, I say to you, all sins will be forgiven the sons of men, and whatever blasphemies they may utter; <sup>29</sup>but he who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit never has forgiveness, but is subject to

New Relationships Are Defined

Matt. 12:46-50; Luke 8:19-21

<sup>31</sup>Then His brothers and His mother came, and standing outside they sent to Him, calling Him. <sup>32</sup>And a multitude was sitting around Him; and they said to Him, “Look, Your mother and Your brothers are outside seeking You.”

<sup>33</sup>But He answered them, saying, “Who is My mother, or My brothers?” <sup>34</sup>And He looked around in a circle at those who sat about Him, and said, “Here are My mother and My brothers! <sup>35</sup>For whoever does the will of God is My brother and My sister and mother.”

Parable of the Soils

Matt. 13:1-23; Luke 8:4-15

4 And again He began to teach by the sea. And a great multitude was gathered to Him, so that He got into a boat and sat in it on the sea; and the whole multitude was on the land facing the sea. <sup>2</sup>Then He taught them many things by parables,<sup>b</sup> and said to them in His teaching:

<sup>3</sup>“Listen! Behold, a sower went out to sow. <sup>4</sup>And it happened, as he sowed, that some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds of the air came and devoured it. <sup>5</sup>Some fell on stony ground, where it did not have much earth; and immediately it sprang up because it had no depth of earth. <sup>6</sup>But when the sun was up it was scorched, and because it had no root it withered away. <sup>7</sup>And some seed fell among thorns; and the thorns grew up

3:21 o pposition to Jesus came not only from his enemies. Jesus’ own people, no doubt close friends and perhaps even relatives (see vv. 31–35), heard of his teaching and assumed that he was out of His mind.

3:22 t he scribes, or teachers of the Jewish law, were more harsh and direct in their assessment of Jesus. t hey accused him of being possessed by Beelzebub (literally “Lord of the Flies,” 2 Kin. 1:3), another name for Satan. t his false charge demonstrates a hardness of heart and is akin to blaspheming against the holy Spirit (vv. 28–30).

3:23–26 Jesus’ reply in parables was actually a threefold message that contrasted unity and disunity. n othing—including Satan’s kingdom—can stand if it is divided.

3:27 Whoever defeats Satan must be stronger than he. Jesus implies that he himself has come to enter the house of the strong man, Satan, to seize his goods (1 John 3:8).

3:28–30 Assuredly (Gk. amen) indicates the solemnity of Jesus’ declaration. While the prophets cited the authority of the Lord, christ’s words rest on his own authority. While Jesus does not say that anyone in the crowd has actually committed the sin he describes, he nonetheless stresses the hopelessness of such a condition. a nyone who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit places himself or herself outside the redeeming grace of God. it is apparently not a single act of defiant behavior, but a continued state of opposition entered into willfully. t he tense of they said indicates a continued action, not a onetime event. t he words and works of christ were spoken and performed by the power of the holy Spirit. to attribute them to Satan is to call the work of heaven a work of hell. For such perverse belief there is no remedy.

3:31 o pposition arose from Jesus’ own immediate family, His brothers and His mother. We are not told precisely what they wanted to say, but it likely involved a concern for Jesus’ safety or reputation, since he was becoming widely known as a preaching prophet (1:14, 15) and a worker of miracles (1:31; 2:12).

3:35 Whoever does the will of God expresses a spiritual allegiance that goes beyond loyalty to one’s biological family. Spiritual kinship is determined not by blood or race but by obedience to God. 4:2 Parables go beyond mere entertainment or moralizing; they teach vital spiritual truths about the kingdom of God.

4:3–8 t he story Jesus told was easy enough to comprehend. During the planting season, it was common to see men scattering seed by hand over their small fields. t hey cast the seeds over the kinds of soil Jesus describes—smooth pathways running through fields, rough terrain that hid large rocks just beneath the surface, fields overgrown with weeds, and excellent, rich soil here and there. t he point of the parable is that the condition of the soil determines the potential for growth. t he principle is true for christians and non-christians alike. t hose who have become complacent and lackadaisical are not likely to receive the Word with benefit (James 1:22–25).

and choked it, and it yielded no <sup>2</sup>crop. <sup>8</sup>But other seed fell on good ground and yielded a crop that sprang up, increased and produced: some thirtyfold, some sixty, and some a hundred.”

<sup>9</sup>And He said <sup>3</sup>to them, “He who has ears to hear, let him hear!”

<sup>10</sup>c But when He was alone, those around Him with the twelve asked Him about the parable. <sup>11</sup>And He said to them, “To you it has been given to <sup>d</sup>know the <sup>4</sup>mystery of the kingdom of God; but to <sup>e</sup>those who are outside, all things come in parables, <sup>12</sup>so that

How then will you understand all the parables? <sup>14</sup>g The sower sows the word. <sup>15</sup>And these are the ones by the wayside where the word is sown. When they hear, Satan comes immediately and takes away the word that was sown in their hearts. <sup>16</sup>These likewise are the ones sown on stony ground who, when they hear the word, immediately receive it with gladness; <sup>17</sup>and they have no root in themselves, and so endure only for a time. Afterward, when tribulation or persecution arises for the word’s sake, immediately they stumble. <sup>18</sup>Now these are the ones sown among thorns; they are the ones who hear the word, <sup>19</sup>and the <sup>h</sup>cares of this world, <sup>i</sup>the deceitfulness of riches, and the desires for other things entering in choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful. <sup>20</sup>But these

4:11 a mystery in Scripture is a truth God has revealed or will reveal at the proper time (r om. 16:25, 26). Jesus apparently used parables for several reasons. First, they are interesting and grab the listener’s attention. Second, such stories are easily remembered. t hird, they reveal truth to those who are ready spiritually to receive it. Fourth, they conceal truth from those who oppose christ’s message. Frequently, Jesus’ opponents failed to understand the lessons because of their own spiritual blindness. See, for example, Matt. 21:45, 46.

4:12 not all will understand the teaching of the kingdom. c ompare this statement of Jesus with is. 6:9, 10; 43:8.

4:15 the pathway soil is trampled, hard, and unresponsive. t he birds (v. 4) represent Satan who quickly takes away the word that was sown in their hearts. elsewhere we are told that Satan can blind the minds of those who do not believe (2 c or. 4:4). t he fuller rendering of Jesus’ explanation in Matthew’s parallel account (Matt. 13:19) says that this person “does not understand” and then the “wicked one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart.”

4:16, 17 t he shallow soil overlying the stony ground represents those who seem eager to receive christ’s message but whose commitment is superficial.

4:18, 19 t he thorn-infested soil represents those who hear the word but lack single-mindedness and become completely unproductive. Worry (the normal cares of this world) and pleasure-seeking (deceitfulness of riches and the pursuit of other things) are both capable of producing a deadly spiritual apathy.

4:20 o nly one soil produces fruit. c hrist emphasizes the necessity to hear the word, accept it, and bear fruit. Such a person recognizes God’s call, determines to follow it, and experiences a profound transformation.

Parables: More than Stories

Although Jesus lived among a story-telling people, his approach to instruction was still unusual. his stories were memorable, but they were not transparent. People heard them but did not necessarily understand them. t hey are clearer to us because of the apostle Paul’s writings, but few of the first hearers of the parables understood them. even though “with many such parables he spoke the word” (4:33), at one point the disciples asked in frustration, “Why do You speak to [the people] in parables?” (Matt. 13:10). t he disciples did not grasp the stories any better than the rest of the crowd.

Jesus’ answer to the disciples reveals much about the purpose of his teaching. he quoted isaiah 6:9, 10 to demonstrate that those with physical sight and hearing may still not be able to perceive the truths presented to them. For isaiah, the “dullness” or hardness of the human heart directly affects spiritual insight and understanding. People need to soften their hearts, humble themselves before God, and honestly seek the truth in order to find it.

Jesus’ stories are like wrapped gifts. t he packaging of the story can either distract or captivate. But unless the package is opened, the gift itself remains unseen. Likewise unless one seeks the core of the parable—its truth and application—the lessons will remain hidden. Yet when discovered, these lessons prove extremely valuable. c hrist the testimony of millions of changed lives over two thousand years attests to this fact.

When unwrapped, Jesus’ stories include powerful multiple applications. t he same parable can strike people in different ways. For example, the parable of the Soils (Mark 4:1–20) may be “heard” by at least four distinct people depending on their identification with one of the soils. t he parable of the Lost Son (Luke 15:11–32) will affect a father in quite a different way than it does a rebellious younger son or a jealous older brother.

When Jesus taught in Jerusalem during his last week, his parables focused on the acceptance or rejection of him. t his time even the priests and the Pharisees “perceived that he was speaking of them” (Matt. 21:45). t hey were stung by Jesus’ parables, and they despised him and his message. But they were unwilling to give up their pride, learn at Jesus’ feet, and seek the forgiveness they so desperately needed. t hey sensed they would not appreciate what they found if they unwrapped the parables, so they refused to seek the truth any further. in doing this, they perfectly conformed to isaiah’s description of a people with dull hearts, hardness of hearing, and closed eyes. t hese religious leaders who should have been leading the people into the truth were the very ones who were the most blind to it.

are the ones sown on good ground, those who hear the word, <sup>5</sup>accept it, and bear fruit: some thirtyfold, some sixty, and some a hundred.”

Parable of the Lamp

Luke 8:16-18

<sup>21</sup><sup>b</sup> Also He said to them, “Is a lamp brought to be put under a basket or under a bed? Is it not to be set on a lampstand? <sup>22</sup><sup>i</sup> For there is nothing hidden which will not be revealed, nor has anything been kept secret but that it should come to light. <sup>23</sup><sup>m</sup> If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear.”

<sup>24</sup> Then He said to them, “Take heed what you hear. <sup>n</sup> With the same measure you use, it will be measured to you; and to you who hear, more will be given. <sup>25</sup><sup>o</sup> For whoever has, to him more will be given; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him.”

Parable of the Growing Seed

Parable of the Mustard Seed

Matt. 13:31-35

liken the kingdom of God? Or with what parable shall we picture it? <sup>31</sup> It is like a mustard seed which, when it is sown on the ground, is smaller than all the seeds on earth; <sup>32</sup> but when it is sown, it grows up and becomes greater than all herbs, and shoots out large branches, so that the birds of the air may nest under its shade.”

<sup>33</sup><sup>u</sup> And with many such parables He spoke the word to them as they were able to hear it. <sup>34</sup> But without a parable He did not speak to them. And when they were alone, <sup>v</sup> He explained all things to His disciples.

The Sea Is Stilled

Matt. 8:23-27; Luke 8:22-25

<sup>35</sup><sup>w</sup> On the same day, when evening had come, He said to them, “Let us cross over to the other side.” <sup>36</sup> Now when they had left the multitude, they took Him along in the boat as He was. And other little boats were also with Him. <sup>37</sup> And a great windstorm arose, and the waves beat into the boat, so that it was already filling. <sup>38</sup> But He was in the stern, asleep on a pillow. And they awoke Him and said to Him, <sup>x</sup> “Teacher, <sup>y</sup> do You not care that we are perishing?”

<sup>39</sup> Then He arose and <sup>z</sup> rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, <sup>a</sup> “Peace, <sup>7</sup> be still!” And the wind ceased and there was a great calm. <sup>40</sup> But He said to them, “Why are you so fearful? <sup>b</sup> How <sup>8</sup> is it that you have no faith?” <sup>41</sup> And they feared exceedingly, and said to one another, “Who can this be, that even the wind and the sea obey Him!”

4:21–23 Jesus’ lesson of the lamp, a small clay vessel that burned a wick set in olive oil, is that light reveals what it glows on. Like the lamp, Jesus’ teachings reveal the motives of the human heart.

4:24 to those who hear—who receive God’s Good news—more spiritual truth will be given. a growing believer must be receptive and teachable.

4:25 Whoever has, meaning those who possess spiritual life, will continue to learn and grow. Whoever does not have spiritual life will lose even what little desire for God he or she seems to have.

4:26–29 Plants develop in a complex, intricate process that humans still do not fully understand even two thousand years after Jesus spoke these words. Yet plants grow and bear fruit and seeds just the same. God’s kingdom likewise is growing, although we do not understand all that is happening. t his parable, which appears only in Mark’s Gospel, presents God’s kingdom in brief, from first sowing to final reaping.

4:30–32 a mustard seed is much smaller than a kernel of corn or a grain of wheat, yet its growth is more spectacular, reaching a height of ten to twelve feet. t he point is the comparatively large result from such a humble and insignificant beginning. t he kingdom that Jesus came to announce drew little support during h is life but will find complete fulfillment when he returns. t he mention of birds making their nest under its shade (v. 32) should not be confused with the birds in the parable of the sower (4:4).

Most likely, these birds illustrate how large the mustard plant has become.

4:35 t o cross over the Sea of Galilee, a lake only eight miles wide, would not seem difficult at first glance. Yet its unique geography produces a greatly varying climate. t he lake is situated seven hundred feet below sea level and is surrounded by mountains that rise three to four thousand feet above sea level on the west, north, and east. t ropical conditions prevail around the lake’s surface, where even bananas are grown today. Yet the higher elevations can produce chilling night air.

4:37 it is not unusual even today for a sudden great windstorm to appear on the Sea of Galilee during the evening hours. t he warm tropical air from the lake’s surface rises and meets the colder air from the nearby hills. t he resulting turbulence stirs up great waves which make boating extremely treacherous.

4:38 t he mention of Jesus being asleep on a pillow shows his true humanity. he was fully human and needed food and rest just as all people do.

4:39 Jesus’ command over the wind and the sea demonstrates his full and complete deity. o nly God the creator can calm wind and sea.

4:41 Mark uses the disciples’ question “Who can this be?” to evoke a similar response in the minds of his readers. Mark relates the works and words of the one he calls “Jesus christ, the Son of God” (1:1).

Demons Are Cast into Swine

Matt. 8:28-34; Luke 8:26-39

5 Then <sup>a</sup>they came to the other side of the sea, to the country of the <sup>1</sup>Gadarenes. <sup>2</sup>And when He had come out of the boat, immediately there met Him out of the tombs a man with an <sup>b</sup>unclean spirit, <sup>3</sup>who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no one could bind <sup>2</sup>him, not even with chains, <sup>4</sup>because he had often been bound with shackles and chains. And the chains had been pulled apart by him, and the shackles broken in pieces; neither could anyone tame him. <sup>5</sup>And always, night and day, he was in the mountains and in the tombs, crying out and cutting himself with stones.

<sup>6</sup>When he saw Jesus from afar, he ran and worshiped Him. <sup>7</sup>And he cried out with a loud voice and said, “What have I to do with You, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I <sup>c</sup>implore<sup>3</sup> You by God that You do not torment me.”

<sup>8</sup>For He said to him, <sup>d</sup>“Come out of the man, unclean spirit!” <sup>9</sup>Then He asked him, “What is your name?”

And he answered, saying, “My name is Legion; for we are many.” <sup>10</sup>Also he begged Him earnestly that He would not send them out of the country.

<sup>11</sup>Now a large herd of <sup>e</sup>swine was feeding there near the mountains. <sup>12</sup>So all the demons begged Him, saying, “Send us to the swine, that we may enter them.” <sup>13</sup>And <sup>4</sup>at once Jesus gave them permission. Then the unclean spirits went out and entered the swine (there were about two thousand); and the herd ran violently down the steep place into the sea, and drowned in the sea.

<sup>14</sup>So those who fed the swine fled, and

And they were afraid. <sup>16</sup>And those who saw it told them how it happened to him who had been demon-possessed, and about the swine. <sup>17</sup>Then <sup>i</sup>they began to plead with Him to depart from their region.

<sup>18</sup>And when He got into the boat, <sup>j</sup>he who had been demon-possessed begged Him that he might be with Him. <sup>19</sup>However, Jesus did not permit him, but said to him, “Go home to your friends, and tell them what great things the Lord has done for you, and how He has had compassion on you.” <sup>20</sup>And he departed and began to <sup>k</sup>proclaim in <sup>5</sup>Decapolis all that Jesus had done for him; and all <sup>l</sup>marveled.

Jairus Pleads for His Daughter

Matt. 9:18, 19; Luke 8:41, 42

<sup>21</sup>m Now when Jesus had crossed over again by boat to the other side, a great multitude gathered to Him; and He was by the sea. <sup>22</sup>n And behold, one of the rulers of the synagogue came, Jairus by name. Come and <sup>o</sup>lay Your hands on her, that she may be healed, and she will live.” <sup>24</sup>So Jesus went with him, and a great multitude followed Him and thronged Him.

A Woman with Issue Is Healed

<sup>25</sup> Now a certain woman <sup>p</sup>had a flow

5:1—8:30 in the major section which begins here, Mark relates incidents of belief and unbelief, climaxing with Peter’s confession of Jesus’ deity.

5:1 The country of the Gadarenes is on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee. t he form of the name varies; see the textual notes at 5:1; Matt. 8:28; Luke 8:26, 37.

5:2 a apparently, right after leaving the boat and perhaps before ascending the nearby hills, Jesus was encountered by a man with an unclean spirit (1:23). t he man was demon possessed, as v. 15 clearly states.

5:12, 13 it is not certain that the demons needed permission to leave the man and enter the swine, but they may have been trying to forestall permanent bondage by christ. (t he bottomless pit of r ev. 9:1 may be such a place of imprisonment.) Jesus bears no responsibility for the action the demons took; h e did not direct them to run the swine into the sea. even today, two thousand hogs is a very large herd. t heir monetary value could easily have been worth a quarter of a million dollars in today’s economy—a sizable loss for the owners.

5:14 t he ot forbade Jews to have any contact with swine (Lev. 11:7, 8). h owever, the owners of these swine might not have been Jewish, since this area was inhabited largely by Gentiles (see 5:20).

5:17–20 Jesus was not well received in this region. his presence had cost financial loss to some, although it meant liberation to the demoniac. Jesus could have healed and saved in that region, but he was turned away by their fearful citizens. Yet he left a solid witness behind. a ll the people marveled when they heard what Jesus had done for him. Jesus later made an excursion through the Decapolis region (7:31). Decapolis literally means “ten cities.” t his largely Gentile, Greek-speaking area was an important strategic link in r ome’s military defense.

5:21 Jesus’ crossing by boat to the other side brought him to capernaum, although Mark does not mention that here.

5:22 Jairus, one of the rulers of the synagogue, was a lay leader charged with supervising services at the synagogue.

5:23 a ware of Jesus’ miraculous powers, Jairus approached Jesus with perhaps the greatest need he had ever faced. he knew that Jesus could meet his need. however, he believed—falsely, it turned out—that Jesus had to actually touch his desperately ill daughter before she could be healed. Yet his faith was unshakable.

5:24–34 intertwined with the incident of Jairus’s daughter is the story of the woman with a persistent blood flow, perhaps a severe menstrual disorder. as a result, she was considered unclean, and anyone she touched would become unclean ceremonially for one day (Lev. 15:25–27). Still, she entered the crowd to touch Jesus.

ment.<sup>28</sup> For she said, “If only I may touch His clothes, I shall be made well.”

<sup>29</sup> Immediately the fountain of her blood was dried up, and she felt in her body that she was healed of the <sup>6</sup> affliction.<sup>30</sup> And Jesus, immediately knowing

5:26 Mark is not complimentary toward the physicians who had treated the woman, noting that she had spent all that she had. Luke, a physician himself, omits Mark’s added detail that her condition actually grew worse.

5:27 The woman touched His garment. Perhaps she had heard of another who was healed in a similar way. She must have feared having her embarrassing condition revealed to the crowd.

5:28 Her faith motivates her to act.

5:29, 30 The word immediately is used twice in this context. Both the woman and Jesus simultaneously knew what had happened. The woman had no idea that Jesus had consciously healed her. While she sought to disappear into the crowd, Jesus turned and asked Who touched My clothes? He wanted to correct any mistaken notion she may have had about her healing. It was not any magical quality of his clothing, but his divine will that had made her well.

Jesus’ Miracles in Mark

Mark dedicates more of his account to Jesus’ miracles than any of the other Gospel writers. For Mark, these miracles were demonstrations of Jesus’ power—His power over disease, the forces of evil, even over nature. Many flocked to Him to be healed and fed. Some wondered who Jesus was. But others followed Him.

Miracle	Reference	What the Miracle Demonstrated	Response
Casting out an unclean spirit	1:23–28	Jesus’ power over the forces of evil	The people of Capernaum were amazed and asked, “What new doctrine is this?”
Healing Peter’s mother-in-law	1:29–34	Jesus’ power over sickness	The people brought the sick and demon-possessed to be healed.
Cleansing a leper	1:40–45	Jesus’ compassion and His power over sickness	The leper told everyone about Jesus and the people came from every direction to be healed.
Healing a paralyzed man	2:1–12	Jesus’ power over sickness and His authority to forgive	The Pharisees questioned Jesus’ authority to forgive, but the people glorified God.
Healing a man with a withered hand	3:1–6	Jesus’ power over sickness and His authority to do good on the Sabbath	The Pharisees wanted to accuse Jesus of breaking the Sabbath and began to plot against Him.
Calming a storm	4:35–41	Jesus’ power over nature	The disciples were afraid and asked, “Who can this be?”
Casting out demons	5:1–20	Jesus’ compassion and His power over the forces of evil	The demon-possessed man told everyone what Jesus had done for him. Yet the people of Gadarenes pleaded with Jesus to leave the region.
Raising Jairus’s daughter	5:21–24, 35–43	Jesus’ power over death	The family of Jairus is overcome with amazement.
Healing a woman with a hemorrhage	5:25–34	Jesus’ power over sickness
Feeding the five thousand	6:30–44	Jesus’ power to provide food	The disciples’ hearts were hardened, and they did not understand what the miracle meant (v. 52).
Walking on the sea	6:45–52	Jesus’ power over nature	The disciples were greatly amazed.
Casting out the demon from the Greek woman’s daughter	7:24–30	Jesus’ power over evil forces not in His immediate proximity
Healing a deaf-mute	7:31–37	Jesus’ power over the ability to hear and speak	The people spread the news of Jesus and were astonished.
Feeding the four thousand	8:1–10	Jesus’ power to provide food
Healing a blind man	8:22–26	Jesus’ power over sight
Casting out a deaf and dumb spirit	9:14–29	Jesus’ power over the forces of evil, and the source of His power: prayer	The disciples asked Jesus what was the source of His power.
Healing blind Bartimaeus	10:46–52	Jesus’ power over sight	Bartimaeus followed Jesus.
Withering a fig tree	11:12–14, 20–24	Jesus’ power over nature, and the source of His power: prayer	Peter was amazed.

<sup>31</sup>But His disciples said to Him, “You see the multitude thronging You, and You say, ‘Who touched Me?’”

<sup>32</sup>And He looked around to see her who had done this thing. <sup>33</sup>But the woman, <sup>s</sup>fearing and trembling, knowing what had happened to her, came and fell down before Him and told Him the whole truth. <sup>34</sup>And He said to her, “Daughter, <sup>t</sup>your faith has made you well. <sup>u</sup>Go in peace, and be healed of your affliction.”

<sup>36</sup>As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, He said to the ruler of the synagogue, “Do not be afraid; only <sup>w</sup>believe.” <sup>37</sup>And He permitted no one to follow Him except Peter, James, and John the brother of James. <sup>38</sup>Then He came to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and saw <sup>z</sup>a tumult and those who <sup>x</sup>wept and wailed loudly. <sup>39</sup>When He came in, He said to them, “Why make this commotion and weep? The child is not dead, but <sup>y</sup>sleeping.”

<sup>40</sup>And they ridiculed Him. <sup>z</sup>But when He had put them all outside, He took the father and the mother of the child, and those who were with Him, and entered where the child was lying. <sup>41</sup>Then He took the child by the hand, and said to her, “Talitha, cumi,” which is translated, “Little girl, I say to you, arise.” <sup>42</sup>Immediately the girl arose and walked, for she was twelve years of age. And they were <sup>a</sup>overcome with great amazement. <sup>43</sup>But <sup>b</sup>He commanded them strictly that no one should know it, and said that something should be given her to eat.

Jesus Is Rejected at Nazareth

Matt. 13:54-58

6 Then <sup>a</sup>He went out from there and came to His own country, and His disciples followed Him. <sup>2</sup>And when the Sabbath had come, He began to teach in the synagogue. And many hearing Him were <sup>b</sup>astonished, saying, <sup>c</sup>“Where did this Man get these things? And what wisdom is this which is given to Him, that such mighty works are performed by His hands! <sup>3</sup>Is this not the carpenter, the Son of Mary, and <sup>d</sup>brother of James, Joses, Judas, and Simon? And are not His sisters here with us?” So they <sup>e</sup>were offended at Him.

5:31 no one else was aware that the healing had happened. t the disciples became dismayed, perhaps because they were anxious to reach Jairus's home.

5:32 He looked around, or literally, kept on looking around, gazing on the people crowded near him.

5:33 Jesus' kind manner and tender words must have eased the fear this woman had of being revealed. She stepped forward and told Him the whole truth, naturally, the time that Jesus took to care for the woman must have worried the already tense disciples.

5:34 Jesus used a tender word, daughter, to address this woman, and he noted that her faith made the difference, for it was correctly placed in him. Faith itself does not heal; rather, it is the proper object of that faith, Jesus, who heals.

5:35, 36 t he implication of the girl's reported death is that her condition is now irreversible and without remedy. Jesus immediately corrects this thought by insisting that Jairus stop being afraid and continue to believe.

5:37 he permits only three disciples to join him—Peter, James, and John. n ote that these same three were the ones permitted to see the transfiguration (9:2) and who accompanied Jesus for prayer in Gethsemane (14:32, 33).

5:38 Public mourning was loud and boisterous.

5:41 Talitha, cumi is a aramaic.

5:42 t hat the girl arose indicates that her life had been restored, just as in the case of the dead son of the widow of nain (Luke 7:15) and of Lazarus who had been dead for four days (John 11:44). all three would die again. Jesus' resurrection, however, was unique. n ot only was he restored to life, but h is body was transformed so that he would never again have to face death.

5:43 t he command to keep the miracle a secret was a temporary measure, for certainly the girl's reappearance could not be hidden very long. Such orders would, however, allow Jesus to exit quietly. Jesus did not want to be known primarily as a miracle worker lest people seek him for the wrong reasons.

6:1 Jesus now went to minister in His own country, the area where he grew up, around nazareth.

6:2 t he people readily acknowledged both Jesus' wisdom and his mighty works, but with insensitive hearts and spiritual callousness they rejected Jesus' message.

6:3 t he fact that Joseph is not mentioned here may indicate that he had died. Mark mentions Jesus' four brothers by name as well as his sisters. o ne brother, James, did not trust christ prior to his crucifixion (John 7:5), but seems to have come to faith after Jesus' resurrection (acts 1:14; 1 cor. 15:7). he later became the leader of the church in Jerusalem (acts 15:13; Gal. 1:19) and wrote the epistle of James. Judas later authored the Book of Jude (Jude 1).

faith

(Gk. pistis) (5:34; 10:52; Matt. 8:10; 15:28; Luke 7:50; 8:48) Strong's #4102

t he Greek term means “trust,” or “firm persuasion.” t he corresponding verb means “to believe,” as is illustrated by Jesus' word in 5:36 to Jairus: “Do not be afraid; only believe.” t o have faith is to relinquish trust in oneself and to put that trust in another. t he woman who had the hemorrhage had put her trust in physicians but to no avail. n ow she put all her trust in Jesus, believing he could cure her. a ccording to Jesus, it was her faith that made her well. t his was a proclamation Jesus made many times (Matt. 8:10; 9:22, 29; 15:28; Luke 7:50; 8:48), t he writers of the epistles sometimes use the word pistis to refer to what one believes, the content of faith, God's revelation in the Scripture (see Gal. 1:23).

Sandals

in its simplest form, the sandal was a sole of wood fastened with straps of leather. This is what the disciples wore when they were sent out by Jesus (6:9), and what Peter was told to put on when the angel rescued him from prison (acts 12:8). All classes of people in Palestine wore sandals—from the very poor to the wealthy. Jews did not wear their sandals indoors; they removed them upon entering the house, and then their feet were washed. Removing one's sandals was also a sign of reverence: Moses was told to do it when God spoke to him from the burning bush (ex. 3:5); the Jews considered it a very lowly task to carry or to unloose another person's sandals (John 1:27). Going without sandals was a mark of poverty (Luke 15:22) or a sign of mourning (2 Sam. 13:30; is. 20:2–4; ezek. 24:17, 23).

<sup>4</sup>But Jesus said to them, <sup>f</sup>“A prophet is not without honor except in his own country, among his own relatives, and in his own house.” <sup>5g</sup>Now He could do no mighty work there, except that He laid His hands on a few sick people and healed them. <sup>6</sup>And <sup>h</sup>He marveled because of their unbelief. <sup>i</sup>Then He went about the villages in a circuit, teaching.

Twelve Are Sent to Serve

its. <sup>8</sup>He commanded them to take nothing for the journey except a staff—no bag, no bread, no copper in their money belts—<sup>9</sup>but <sup>l</sup>to wear sandals, and not to put on two tunics.

<sup>10</sup><sup>m</sup>Also He said to them, “In whatever place you enter a house, stay there till you depart from that place. <sup>11</sup><sup>n</sup>And <sup>l</sup>whoever will not receive you nor hear you, when you depart from there, <sup>o</sup>shake off the dust under your feet as a testimony against them. <sup>2</sup>Assuredly, I say to you, it will be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city!”

<sup>12</sup>So they went out and preached that people should repent. <sup>13</sup>And they cast out many demons, <sup>p</sup>and anointed with oil many who were sick, and healed them.

John the Baptist Is Murdered

Matt. 14:1-12; Luke 9:7-9

<sup>14</sup><sup>q</sup>Now King Herod heard of Him, for His name had become well known. And he said, “John the Baptist is risen from the dead, and therefore <sup>r</sup>these powers are at work in him.”

<sup>16</sup><sup>u</sup>But when Herod heard, he said, “This is John, whom I beheaded; he has been raised from the dead!” <sup>17</sup>For Herod himself had sent and laid hold of John, and bound him in prison for the sake of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife; for he had married her. <sup>18</sup>Because John had

6:4 A prophet is not without honor except in his own country is a maxim still repeated and still true today. Perhaps others were jealous of Jesus' popularity and huge following. Their envy even took the form of violence against Christ (see Luke 4:29).

6:8–10 These instructions accompanied the twelve on their assigned journey, the results of which are reported in Mark 6:30. These rules made for easier travel and encouraged the disciples to trust God for their food and shelter, which faithful Jewish hearers who heeded their teaching would provide.

6:12 That people should repent was part of the apostles' primary message. Repentance was necessary to cultivate the new life Christ offered.

6:13 Casting out demons and healing the sick would add authority to the apostles' message (2 Cor. 12:12; Heb. 2:3, 4).

6:14–29 These verses break from the narrative to describe the death of John the Baptist. So alarming was Jesus' sudden fame that Herod feared that John had risen from the dead. The disciples Jesus had sent out (6:7–13) undoubtedly added to Herod's worry. It appears that one of Mark's purposes in describing John's death was to foreshadow the violent death of Christ himself and even of some who would follow him.

6:14 King Herod is Herod Antipas, one of the sons of Herod the Great, the king who tried to kill the baby Jesus (see Matt. 2:1–18). After Herod the Great's death in 4 B.C., his kingdom was divided between Archelaus, who received Judea and Samaria; Philip, who ruled Iturea and Trachonitis, north and east of Galilee; and Antipas, who controlled Galilee and Perea from 4 B.C. to A.D. 39. Jesus ministered largely in the territory ruled by Antipas.

6:15 This verse demonstrates the contrast in expectations that Israel had for its coming Messiah. It is clear that many did not recognize the divine mission that Jesus was fulfilling.

6:17 The prison where John was kept was at Machaerus, in the hills which overlook the Dead Sea. A complete palace and fortress occupied that site. Herodias was a granddaughter of Herod the Great and the sister of Herod Antipas (Acts 12:1–23). She was married to Philip, a half brother of Herod Antipas, but not the Philip of Luke 3:1. Herodias's first husband was never a ruler. She divorced this Philip in order to marry Herod Antipas. Herod likewise divorced his first wife, the daughter of Aretas IV, king of Arabia (see 2 Cor. 11:32).

6:18 John's message to Herod was that his divorce was not lawful as grounds for remarriage. John's declaration could be based on Jesus' stern words about divorce (10:11, 12) or on Lev. 20:21, which prohibits a man from taking his brother's wife.

said to Herod, <sup>v</sup>“It is not lawful for you to have your brother’s wife.”

<sup>19</sup>Therefore Herodias <sup>4</sup>held it against him and wanted to kill him, but she could not; <sup>20</sup>for Herod <sup>w</sup>feared John, knowing that he was a just and holy man, and he protected him. And when he heard him, he <sup>5</sup>did many things, and heard him gladly.

<sup>21</sup><sup>x</sup>Then an opportune day came when Herod <sup>y</sup>on his birthday gave a feast for his nobles, the high officers, and the chief men of Galilee. <sup>22</sup>And when Herodias’ daughter herself came in and danced, and pleased Herod and those who sat with him, the king said to the girl, “Ask me whatever you want, and I will give it to you.” <sup>23</sup>He also swore to her, <sup>z</sup>“Whatever you ask me, I will give you, up to half my kingdom.”

<sup>24</sup>So she went out and said to her mother, “What shall I ask?”

And she said, “The head of John the Baptist!”

<sup>25</sup>Immediately she came in with haste to the king and asked, saying, “I want you to give me at once the head of John the Baptist on a platter.”

<sup>26</sup><sup>a</sup> And the king was exceedingly sorry; yet, because of the oaths and because of those who sat with him, he did not want to refuse her. <sup>27</sup>Immediately the king sent an executioner and commanded his head to be brought. And he went and beheaded him in prison, <sup>28</sup>brought his head on a platter, and gave it to the girl; and the girl gave it to her mother. <sup>29</sup>When his disciples heard of it, they came and <sup>b</sup>took away his corpse and laid it in a tomb.

Five Thousand Are Fed

Matt. 14:13-21; Luke 9:11-17; John 6:1-14

<sup>33</sup>But <sup>6</sup>the multitudes saw them departing, and many <sup>g</sup>knew Him and ran there on foot from all the cities. They arrived before them and came together to Him. <sup>34</sup><sup>h</sup>And Jesus, when He came out, saw a great multitude and was moved with compassion for them, because they were like <sup>i</sup>sheep not having a shepherd. So <sup>j</sup>He began to teach them many things. <sup>35</sup><sup>k</sup>When the day was now far spent, His disciples came to Him and said, “This is a deserted place, and already the hour is late. <sup>36</sup>Send them away, that they may go into the surrounding country and villages and buy themselves <sup>7</sup>bread; for they have nothing to eat.”

And they said to Him, <sup>l</sup>“Shall we go and buy two hundred denarii worth of bread and give them something to eat?”

<sup>38</sup>But He said to them, “How many loaves do you have? Go and see.”

And when they found out they said, <sup>m</sup>“Five, and two fish.”

<sup>39</sup>Then He <sup>n</sup>commanded them to make them all sit down in groups on the green grass. <sup>40</sup>So they sat down in ranks, in hundreds and in fifties. <sup>41</sup>And when He had taken the five loaves and the two fish, He <sup>o</sup>looked up to heaven, <sup>p</sup>blessed and broke the loaves, and gave them to His disciples to set before them; and the two fish He divided among them all. <sup>42</sup>So they all ate and were filled. <sup>43</sup>And they

6:22 Herodias’ daughter, named Salome, was still unmarried at this point and danced seductively to please herod antipas. She later married Philip the tetrarch, who ruled iturea and trachonitis and is mentioned in Luke 3:1.

6:23 Because she pleased him, herod antipas swore to Salome a solemn oath to give her up to half of his kingdom (an expression meaning a large amount but with limits), words that remind us of Xerxes’ promise to esther (esth. 5:3, 6). this gesture was no doubt exaggerated, yet Salome seized the opportunity for her mother, herodias, who hated John the Baptist.

6:27 to keep his oath, herod dispatched an executioner. here Mark uses a Latin word, spekoulatora, easily understood by his roman readers.

6:34 the Gospels record several times that when Jesus saw a need he was moved with compassion (1:41; ex. 34:6). that compassion led to action, despite an obvious lack of food in this instance.

6:36, 37 the disciples sought to avoid responsibility for the hungry multitude, saying send them away. no doubt they thought they were showing compassion. But Jesus’ reply, You give them some- thing to eat, must have startled them. the Latin word denarii is the plural of denarius, a commonly used silver coin. it was the sum typically paid to a laborer for a day’s work. thomas calculated it would take the wages of two hundred days’ labor to provide for that multitude.

6:39, 40 Details such as sitting on the green grass, which is possible only in late winter and early spring, and the fact that the groups were counted in hundreds and in fifties are indications that an eyewitness, probably Peter, recounted this story to Mark. John 6:4 informs us that this event occurred prior to the approaching Passover, always celebrated in March or april.

6:41 the tense of the verb gave, used by Mark and Luke (Luke 9:16), suggests that the multiplication of the loaves took place in Jesus’ hands as he continued or kept on giving the bread and fish to the disciples.

6:43 the twelve baskets full of fragments were small baskets commonly carried by travelers (contrast the baskets described in 8:8, which are larger). it is possible to conclude that the leftovers gave each disciple enough food for his own use. When we put the took up twelve baskets full of fragments and of the fish. <sup>44</sup>Now those who had eaten the loaves were <sup>8</sup>about five thousand men.

Jesus Walks on Water

Matt. 14:22-33; John 6:15-21

<sup>45</sup> Immediately He <sup>9</sup>made His disciples get into the boat and go before Him to the other side, to Bethsaida, while He sent the multitude away. <sup>46</sup> And when He had sent them away, He <sup>r</sup>departed to the mountain to pray. <sup>47</sup> Now when evening came, the boat was in the middle of the sea; and He was alone on the land. <sup>48</sup> Then He saw them straining at rowing, for the wind was against them. Now about the fourth watch of the night He came to them, walking on the sea, and <sup>s</sup>would have passed them by. <sup>49</sup> And when they saw Him walking on the sea, they supposed it was a <sup>t</sup>ghost, and cried out; <sup>50</sup> for they all saw Him and were troubled. But immediately He talked with them and said to them, “<sup>u</sup>“Be <sup>1</sup> of good cheer! It is I; do not be <sup>v</sup> afraid.” <sup>51</sup> Then He went up into the boat to them, and the wind <sup>w</sup>ceased. And they were greatly <sup>x</sup>amazed in themselves beyond measure, and marveled. <sup>52</sup> For <sup>y</sup>they had not understood about the loaves, because their <sup>z</sup>heart was hardened.

Pharisees and Defilement

<sup>5</sup> <sup>d</sup> Then the Pharisees and scribes asked Him, “Why do Your disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but eat bread with unwashed hands?”

<sup>6</sup> He answered and said to them, “Well did Isaiah prophesy of you <sup>e</sup> hypocrites, as it is written:

will of God first, he will care for our needs (Matt. 6:33; Phil. 4:19) and provide our daily bread.

6:46 Jesus spent several nights in prayer during his ministry. Prayer was a vital part of christ’s communion with the Father and always preceded and accompanied especially difficult situations. t his particular night followed a busy day when solitude was sought but not found.

6:47 In the middle of the sea does not mean the very center of the lake but simply out in the water. t hey were probably closest to the northern shore.

6:48 The fourth watch lasted from 3 A.M. until 6 A.M. t hat Jesus would have passed them by does not indicate that he was on his way to somewhere else. he intended to reveal himself to his disciples in a miraculous manner. he could easily have calmed the waves from shore, but he wanted his disciples to understand his deity and mastery over all nature.

6:49 When the disciples saw Jesus they thought they saw a ghost (an apparition), a sign often interpreted as a foreshadowing of evil, even death.

6:50 Mark omits the added detail of Peter walking on the water to meet Jesus (see Matt. 14:28–31). Mark almost certainly knew of the incident but chose not to describe it for his readers, perhaps to avoid distracting his readers from the central role christ plays in the account.

6:51 t hree miracles are contained in this brief account (vv. 47–51). (1) in the darkness Jesus saw the disciples out in the storm miles away. (2) Jesus walked on the water. (3) Jesus showed complete control over his creation when the wind ceased.

6:53 t hey had set out for Bethsaida (v. 45) on the northeastern shore, but the storm apparently changed their course. t he land of Gennesaret was on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee, just west of capernaum. it was and still is a fertile agricultural area. 6:56 Mark summarizes Jesus’ healing ministry, noting how widespread it was. t he hem of a garment was significant, for it was often woven with tassels that reminded the wearer of God’s commandments (see 5:27; n um. 15:37–41).

7:1–23 in this chapter, the scribes and Pharisees become more vocal in their opposition to Jesus. t he breach between true spirituality and man-made tradition widens considerably.

7:1 Jerusalem was the central city of the Jewish faith. t he Pharisees (see Matt. 5:20) and scribes (teachers of the law) were no doubt sent by the Jewish religious authorities to ascertain Jesus’ position on the issues they counted important.

7:3, 4 t hese two verses explain the tradition of handwashing and various kinds of ceremonial uncleanness. Mark’s intended readers in r ome likely needed more background on the Jewish faith to understand this controversy.

7:5 The tradition of the elders (see Matt. 15:2) was a series of rules meant to bolster the ceremonial law of the Jews. its authority was not supported by Scripture. t he question indirectly challenged Jesus, for as the disciples’ teacher he was judged responsible for their actions.

7:6, 7 Jesus did not directly answer the question but instead addressed two more significant issues: (1) the superiority of God’s law over man-made tradition (vv. 6–13) and (2) the difference between ceremonial and true moral defilement (vv. 14–23). Jesus enters into

<sup>9</sup>He said to them, “All too well <sup>9</sup>you <sup>5</sup>reject the commandment of God, that you may keep your tradition. <sup>10</sup>For Moses said, <sup>h</sup>‘Honor your father and your mother’; and, <sup>i</sup>‘He who curses father or mother, let him be put to death.’ <sup>11</sup>But you say, ‘If a man says to his father or mother, <sup>j</sup>“Whatever profit you might have received from me is Corban”—’ (that is, a gift to God), <sup>12</sup>then you no lon-

<sup>14</sup><sup>k</sup>When He had called all the multitude to Himself, He said to them, “Hear Me, everyone, and <sup>l</sup>understand: <sup>15</sup>There is nothing that enters a man from outside which can defile him; but the things which come out of him, those are the things that <sup>m</sup>defile a man. <sup>16</sup><sup>n</sup>If <sup>6</sup> anyone has ears to hear, let him hear!”

<sup>17</sup><sup>o</sup>When He had entered a house away from the crowd, His disciples asked Him concerning the parable. <sup>18</sup>So He said to them, <sup>p</sup>“Are you thus without understanding also? Do you not perceive that what-the argument by calling his adversaries hypocrites, the term originally referred to actors who wore masks on stage as they played different characters. thus the Pharisees were not genuinely religious; they were merely playing a part for all to see. 7:8, 9 in earlier times the hebrews held the written law of God, the torah, in such esteem that they would not write down their reflections on it, lest they should tempt later generations to consider their words as important as God’s law. But as time went on, written commentaries on the law, collected in the talmud, assumed greater authority than the torah itself.

7:11–13 But you say shows the absolute contrast between God’s will and man’s empty tradition. the Corban was evidently a pious-sounding evasion of the requirement of honoring one’s parents by supporting them financially. 7:14 a private question at mealtime bloomed into a controversy that now met the ears of all the multitude whom Jesus summoned. Jesus made a bold public statement that must have liberated his listeners and infuriated the Pharisees.

The Territories of Tyre and Sidon

In a unique excursion into pagan and semipagan areas, Jesus visited the districts of Tyre and Sidon and the confederation of free cities called the Decapolis. He was called to minister to “the lost sheep of the house of Israel” (Matt. 15:24), but the phenomenal public attention in Galilee was intense. Even here His fame had spread, and He could not keep His presence secret. The commercially magnificent cities of Tyre and Sidon had been a source of cultural seductiveness and religious heterodoxy since the time of Jezebel. The cities had been heavily influenced by Hellenism; the sophistication of Greek culture was apparent in their coinage and architecture. Each was also a proud, historic center of Canaanite paganism, with tombs of ancient kings and temples to Melqart/Heracles, Astarte, and various other deities.

ever enters a man from outside cannot defile him,<sup>19</sup> because it does not enter his heart but his stomach, and is eliminated,<sup>7</sup> thus purifying all foods?”<sup>20</sup> And He said,<sup>q</sup> “What comes out of a man, that defiles a man.”<sup>21</sup> For from within, out of the heart of men,<sup>s</sup> proceed evil thoughts,<sup>t</sup> adulteries,<sup>u</sup> fornications, murders,<sup>22</sup> thefts,<sup>v</sup> covetousness, wickedness,<sup>w</sup> deceit,<sup>x</sup> lewdness, an evil eye,<sup>y</sup> blasphemy,<sup>z</sup> pride, foolishness.<sup>23</sup> All these evil things come from within and defile a man.”

Syro-Phoenician's Daughter Is Healed

Matt. 15:21-28

<sup>24</sup>a From there He arose and went to the region of Tyre<sup>s</sup> and Sidon. And He entered a house and wanted no one to know it, but He could not be<sup>b</sup> hidden.<sup>25</sup> For a woman whose young daughter had an unclean spirit heard about Him, and she came and<sup>c</sup> fell at His feet.<sup>26</sup> The woman was a<sup>9</sup> Greek, a<sup>1</sup> Syro-Phoenician by birth, and she kept<sup>2</sup> asking Him to cast the demon out of her daughter.<sup>27</sup> But Jesus said to her, “Let the children be filled first, for it is not good to take the children’s bread and throw it to the little dogs.”

<sup>28</sup> And she answered and said to Him, “Yes, Lord, yet even the little dogs under the table eat from the children’s crumbs.”

<sup>29</sup> Then He said to her, “For this saying go your way; the demon has gone out of your daughter.”

<sup>30</sup> And when she had come to her house, she found the demon gone out, and her daughter lying on the bed.

<sup>35</sup>i Immediately his ears were opened, and the<sup>3</sup> impediment of his tongue was loosed, and he spoke plainly.<sup>36</sup> Then<sup>j</sup> He commanded them that they should tell no one; but the more He commanded them, the more widely they proclaimed it.<sup>37</sup> And they were<sup>k</sup> astonished beyond measure, saying, “He has done all things well. He<sup>l</sup> makes both the deaf to hear and the mute to speak.”

Four Thousand Are Fed

Matt. 15:32-38

8 In those days,<sup>a</sup> the multitude being very great and having nothing to eat, Jesus called His disciples to Him and said to them,<sup>2</sup> “I have<sup>b</sup> compassion on the multitude, because they have now continued with Me three days and have nothing to eat.<sup>3</sup> And if I send them away hungry to their own houses, they will faint on the way; for some of them have come from afar.”

<sup>4</sup> Then His disciples answered Him, “How can one satisfy these people with bread here in the wilderness?”

<sup>5</sup>c He asked them, “How many loaves do you have?”

And they said, “Seven.”

<sup>6</sup> So He commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground. And He took the seven loaves and gave thanks, broke them

7:24—8:26 After a forceful public confrontation with the Jewish authorities, Jesus withdrew to rest and to instruct his own disciples.

7:24 Jesus’ travels to the region of Tyre and Sidon are the farthest beyond Israel he is reported to have gone during his public ministry. Sidon is about 50 miles northeast of Capernaum.

7:25 even in a house in faraway Sidon, Jesus could not find privacy.

7:26 the woman who approached Jesus was a Gentile, as the word Greek signifies here. She was a native of that area. Syro-Phoenician (see 1 Kin. 17:8–24 for the story of the widow at Zarephath) reflects the political situation of the Middle East at that time. Phoenicia (modern Lebanon) was part of the Roman province of Syria, which also included all of Palestine—Galilee, Samaria, Perea, Judea, Idumea, and other regions.

7:27 Jesus was in the midst of teaching or feeding his disciples, called figuratively his children. During a meal one does not stop to feed the house pets, the little dogs. Jesus is not attempting to insult the woman by using this metaphor. In fact, he is testing her faith. Matthew records Jesus’ reaction to her reply, “O woman, great is your faith” (Matt. 15:28).

7:28 the woman understood Jesus’ test and persistently replied that even during the meal the little dogs consume the children’s crumbs that fall from the table.

7:29 rewarding her persistence, Jesus granted her request. He cast the demons out, although the girl was not in his presence.

7:31 Jesus’ route to Israel bypassed Galilee itself. Instead Jesus went east into the Decapolis region and then turned south past Mt. Hermon until he reached the Sea of Galilee.

7:32–35 the healing of this deaf man (who also had a speech impediment) is one of the two miracles recorded by Mark only. (The other is the healing of the blind man recorded in 8:22–26.) Those who have never heard also frequently have problems pronouncing words.

7:34 Ephphatha is an Aramaic word. Mark provides an interpretation for his largely non-Jewish audience.

7:36 Jesus’ command to tell no one, though unheeded, was meant to allow him to move freely in the area. He knew that curiosity seekers could hamper his ministry.

8:4 Jesus desired to feed the multitude, but his disciples questioned how. They had witnessed the feeding of the five thousand a few days earlier but could not imagine Jesus duplicating this miracle.

8:6 the verb tenses for the words translated took, gave thanks, and broke specify action at a fixed moment in the past. Yet the verb translated gave is in the imperfect tense, which shows a continuing action. Thus we may conclude that the miracle of multiplication was a continuing process that took place, at least initially, in Jesus’ hands.

and gave them to His disciples to set before them; and they set them before the multitude. <sup>7</sup>They also had a few small fish; and <sup>d</sup>having blessed them, He said to set them also before them. <sup>8</sup>So they ate and were filled, and they took up seven large baskets of leftover fragments. <sup>9</sup>Now those who had eaten were about four thousand. And He sent them away, <sup>10e</sup>immediately got into the boat with His disciples, and came to the region of Dalmanutha.

Pharisees Seek a Sign

Matt. 15:39–16:4

<sup>11f</sup>Then the Pharisees came out and began to dispute with Him, seeking from Him a sign from heaven, testing Him. <sup>12</sup>But He <sup>g</sup>sighed deeply in His spirit, and said, “Why does this generation seek a sign? Assuredly, I say to you, <sup>h</sup>no sign shall be given to this generation.”

<sup>13</sup>And He left them, and getting into the boat again, departed to the other side.

Disciples Do Not Understand

Matt. 16:5-12

<sup>14i</sup>Now <sup>1</sup>the disciples had forgotten to take bread, and they did not have more than one loaf with them in the boat. <sup>15j</sup>Then He charged them, saying, “Take heed, beware of the <sup>2</sup>leaven of the Pharisees and the leaven of Herod.”

<sup>16</sup>And they reasoned among themselves, saying, “It is because we have no bread.”

<sup>17</sup>But Jesus, being aware of it, said to them, “Why do you reason because you

And do you not remember? <sup>19l</sup>When I broke the five loaves for the five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments did you take up?”

They said to Him, “Twelve.”

<sup>20</sup>“Also, <sup>m</sup>when I broke the seven for the four thousand, how many large baskets full of fragments did you take up?”

And they said, “Seven.”

<sup>21</sup>So He said to them, “How is it <sup>n</sup>you do not understand?”

A Blind Man Is Healed

<sup>22</sup>Then He came to Bethsaida; and they brought a <sup>o</sup>blind man to Him, and begged Him to <sup>p</sup>touch him. <sup>23</sup>So He took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the town. And when <sup>q</sup>He had spit on his eyes and put His hands on him, He asked him if he saw anything.

<sup>25</sup>Then He put His hands on his eyes again and made him look up. And he was restored and saw everyone clearly.

<sup>26</sup>Then He sent him away to his house, saying, <sup>4</sup>“Neither go into the town, <sup>r</sup>nor tell anyone in the town.”

Peter’s Confession of Christ

Matt. 16:13-23; Luke 9:18-22

<sup>27s</sup>Now Jesus and His disciples went out to the towns of Caesarea Philippi; and on the road He asked His disciples,

8:8 t he seven large baskets contained leftovers—one basket from each original loaf. t hese baskets were much larger than the 12 small personal baskets mentioned in 6:43. it was this kind of larger basket that was used to lower Paul over the wall of Damascus (acts 9:25).

8:10 a pparently Dalmanutha and Magdala (Matt. 15:39) are different names for the same region. Both are mentioned only once in the n t. Dalmanutha was probably on the western side of the Sea of Galilee, about three miles north of modern t iberias and about five miles southwest of capernaum.

8:11 t he Pharisees’ testing of Jesus was crafty and devious. o bviously these men did not heed the many signs and wonders that Jesus had already performed. John 20:30, 31 indicates that the signs were meant to produce faith. it is doubtful that the Pharisees would have changed their minds even if they had seen another miracle.

8:13 having fed the four thousand on the western side of the lake, Jesus led his disciples by boat to the other side, near Bethsaida (v. 22).

8:15 Jesus repeatedly commanded his disciples to beware of the leaven, the growing corruption of the Pharisees and of herod a ntipas which was spreading throughout israel.

8:17–21 t he disciples continued to show a lack of spiritual discernment despite the miracles they had witnessed. Jesus’ rebuke was intended to make them recall what God had done for them.

8:22–26 Jesus’ healing of the blind man in stages paralleled the disciples’ imperfect perception of Jesus. Like the man, they were no longer blind, but they could not see clearly either. o nly the holy Spirit could clear their vision.

8:27 Caesarea Philippi is about 25 miles north of Bethsaida and the Sea of Galilee. it stands on the southern edge of Mt. hermon and is today called Banias. o ne of the sources of the Jordan r iver

Leaven was a common Jewish metaphor for an invisible, pervasive influence. its use here as a corrupting influence was an appropriate image to use in describing the subtle but pervasive control the religious leaders had on society. Like leaven that works its way into fresh dough, spreading out through the bread until its effects are evident in the entire batch, so their ideas were gradually infiltrating men’s minds until they had penetrated and permeated every part of their thinking. in this context, the leaven of the Pharisees must be linked with their desire to see a sign, because they did not believe in Jesus’ identity. herod also wanted a sign (Luke 23:8). t his unbelieving attitude, like leaven, had started to permeate the general population.

The Decapolis and the Lands Beyond the Jordan

1 Place east of the Jordan river where John the Baptist was baptizing (John 1:28). here at Bethany on the other side of the Jordan John saw Jesus and called him the “Lamb of God” (John 1:29, 35).

2 Philip, Andrew, and Peter were from Bethsaida (see John 1:44; 12:21). Jesus healed a blind man here (Mark 8:22). Feeding of the 5,000 took place near here (Luke 9:10).

3 Jesus and his disciples withdrew to caesarea Philippi (Matt. 16:13; Mark 8:27), and here Peter confessed that Jesus was the Messiah (Matt. 16:15, 16).

4 Paul was converted near Damascus and was brought blinded into the city (acts 9:3, 8; 22:6, 11).

saying to them, “Who do men say that I am?”

<sup>28</sup>So they answered, <sup>t</sup>“John the Baptist; but some say, “Elijah; and others, one of the prophets.”

<sup>29</sup>He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?”

Peter answered and said to Him, <sup>v</sup>“You are the Christ.”

<sup>30</sup>Then He strictly warned them that they should tell no one about Him.

<sup>31</sup>And <sup>x</sup>He began to teach them that the Son of Man must suffer many things, and be <sup>y</sup>rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be <sup>z</sup>killed, and after three days rise again. <sup>32</sup>He spoke this word openly. Then Peter took Him aside and began to rebuke Him. <sup>33</sup>But when He had turned around and looked at His disciples, He <sup>a</sup>rebuked Peter, saying, “Get behind Me, Satan! For you are not <sup>5</sup>mindful of the things of God, but the things of men.”

The Transfiguration

Matt. 16:28-17:3; Luke 9:27-36

<sup>9</sup>And He said to them, <sup>a</sup>“Assuredly, I say to you that there are some standing here who will not taste death till they see <sup>b</sup>the kingdom of God <sup>1</sup>present with power.”

<sup>2</sup><sup>c</sup>Now after six days Jesus took Peter, James, and John, and led them up on a high mountain apart by themselves; and He was transfigured before them. <sup>3</sup>His clothes became shining, exceedingly <sup>d</sup>white, like snow, such as no launderer on earth can whiten them. <sup>4</sup>And Elijah appeared to them with Moses, and they were talking with Jesus. <sup>5</sup>Then Peter answered and said to Jesus, “Rabbi, it is good for us to be here; and let us make three tabernacles: one for You, one for Moses, and one for Elijah” — <sup>6</sup>because he did not know what to say, for they were greatly afraid.

springs forth from under a large rocky cliff that rises a hundred or more feet above the village. Many idols were carved into the rock facade. <sup>t</sup>he contrast between Jesus christ and these local gods was striking—a perfect place for christ to ask the question of v. 29. <sup>t</sup>he name Philippi distinguishes this town from caesarea by the sea.

8:28 <sup>t</sup>he disciples’ answers to Jesus’ question about his identity restate popular misconceptions. <sup>t</sup>hey recall the statements made by herod and others in 6:14, 15.

8:29 Jesus then emphatically asks his disciples for their understanding. <sup>t</sup>he word you is prominent in Jesus’ question. Peter answers for the group when he says You are the Christ. Jesus wants his disciples to grasp firmly his true identity before he reveals to them the necessity of his coming death and resurrection. in Mark’s Gospel, only the disciples come to understand who Jesus is. <sup>t</sup>he opposition of the religious leaders and the disciples’ dullness is suddenly overshadowed by Peter’s wonderful confession.

8:30 Jesus’ warning to tell no one about Him may seem strange. its explanation lies in the fact that the Jews expected the Messiah to be a political liberator. Jesus’ first coming was meant to accomplish another kind of liberation—release from sin. hence Jesus was careful not to use the name Messiah publicly, for it was misunderstood by the Jewish people, their leaders, and the roman authorities.

8:31 <sup>t</sup>his is the first of several clear predictions Jesus makes about his coming death and resurrection (9:31; 10:33, 34). He began to teach them signals this new disclosure of his death, burial, and resurrection to his apostles. <sup>t</sup>he Son of Man is a title that only Jesus uses of himself. <sup>t</sup>he elders and chief priests, former high priests, and scribes made up the Jewish ruling council, the Sanhedrin. <sup>t</sup>hese men would condemn Jesus to death (for the fulfillment of Jesus’ prediction, see 14:53, 64).

8:32 Jesus spoke . . . openly, that is plainly, not in parables. Peter understood clearly Jesus’ prediction of death and could not accept or understand it, and so he began to rebuke Him.
